Program Objectives
Special Operations Group, Counter Intelligence Staff

The Special Operations Group is responsible for managing and implementing the Agency program for collection and dissemination of information on the countersubversive aspect of counterintelligence. This responsibility includes:

A. Collection: Clandestine collection abroad of information on foreign (Soviet, Chinese Communist, Cuban, North Korean, North Vietnamese, the Communist Front of South Vietnam, [REDACTED]) efforts to support/encourage/exploit domestic extremism and dissidence in the United States. These efforts include funding, training, propaganda, provision of safe haven, provision of alias documentation, etc. The collection emphasis is on foreign involvement, whether directly or by indirect third national leftist groups or individuals. Principal concern is for coverage of foreign involvement in the extremist antiwar movement, extremist student/youth/faculty groups, black extremism, Chicano extremism, Puerto Rican extremism, deserter/evader support and inducement, and international aspects of domestic underground media. Examples of organizations of interest with respect to possible foreign involvement therein include [REDACTED]

B. Dissemination: Information on the above subject, collected by all elements of this Agency, including the Clandestine Service, the Office of Communications, the Foreign Broadcast Information Service, and the Domestic Contact Service, is disseminated as obtained via special reports series. The bulk of the disseminations are to the Federal Bureau of Investigation but disseminations are also made to other agencies, including the White House as appropriate.

C. Data Base Maintenance: Since all cable and dispatch correspondence in relation to the program is compartmented for reasons of operational security and sensitivity, and is not processed by either the Cable Secretariat or the Information Services Division (ISD) of the Clandestine Service, a complex, highly sophisticated system is utilized for the control and retrieval of this information. (An additional reason for the need for such a system is the receipt of a large volume of reporting from the Federal Bureau of Investigation which requires detailed retrieval capability for pertinent names cited, and which would not otherwise be retrievable under existing ISD procedures.) The control and retrieval system has an on-line remote query and remote input capability and is linked to an IBM 360/67 computer of the Office of Computer Services. Hardware involved includes nine IBM 2260 Cathode Ray Tube Terminals, five IBM 2741 Typewriter Terminals, one Data 100 Offline Printer, and one Data 100 Card Reader.

D. Production: In addition to disseminating pertinent information as collected, the Agency is responsible for preparation and provision of special reports, studies, and estimates on the sub-paragraph A above subject, in response to requirements levied upon it by other elements of the Government. To maximize compartmentation, such special studies, reports, or estimates are prepared by the Special Operations Group, rather than the DDI, utilizing either all information available to the Agency or all information available to the Government, depending upon the nature and scope of the particular requirement.

Program Interagency Relationships
Special Operations Group, Counter Intelligence Staff

Implementation of the Agency's program for collection and dissemination of information on foreign exploitation of domestic dissidence and extremism involves a complex series of interagency relationships. These fall into the following categories: operational; dissemination of information; and provision of special studies, reports, and estimates.

A. Operational: Despite the disruption of liaison between the Agency and the Federal Bureau of Investigation in the Spring of 1970, the FBI has cooperated operationally with the Special Operations Group along three lines:

1. Exploitation of FBI Sources Abroad:

Most common (about 18 cases since January 1971) has been participation by the Special Operations Group in the briefing and debriefing of FBI New Left and racial extremist sources who travel abroad as part of their undercover activities. Some such travel (five cases, not included in the preceding figure) has even been arranged to meet Special Operations Group needs.

2. Provision of Sources By the FBI: In a few cases, either in response to a specific request for a specific type of source for long-term use abroad by the Agency, or because an FBI informant who has done a good job for the FBI and who wants to work abroad has asked for it, the FBI has made available FBI sources in this country for turn-over to the Agency and use abroad. There are three such sources now active abroad under Agency control and direction.

EYES ONLY

3. Provision of Informant Leads To the FBI:

As a converse of sub-paragraph 2 above, the Agency on occasion has provided the FBI with leads on possible informants in the United States on extremist and dissident activity. Such leads arise from efforts to spot and recruit assets suitable for dispatch abroad against targets of this program.

B. Dissemination of Information: Pertinent information is disseminated as collected in response to general standing requirements of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Secret Service, and the Immigration and Naturalization Service. Most of this information goes only to the FBI. Roughly 20 to 25 percent of that is responsive to specific FBI requirements. The Special Operations Group evaluates its disseminated product by regularly checking with the FBI on its adequacy and relevance. Counterintelligence of exceptional importance is disseminated over the signature of the Director of CIA and is sent, as appropriate, to the White House, the Secretary of State, the Attorney General, and the Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation. The principal White House addressee is the Counsel to the President who has special cognizance over domestic affairs; when appropriate, the information is also sent to the Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs.

C. Provision of Special Studies, Reports, and Estimates: In the earlier phase of the program, special studies and estimates were requested by and prepared for the President, his Counsel, and/or the Attorney General. Since mid-1970 such special reports and estimates have been prepared for a highly sensitive interagency committee physically located within the Department of Justice and working on behalf of the White House. This is the Intelligence Evaluation Committee, composed of representatives of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Department of Justice, the Secret Service (on behalf of the Treasury Department), the Department of Defense, the National Security Agency, and the Central Intelligence Agency. The primary function of the Committee is the evaluation of domestic intelligence for agreed-on national estimates, and the levying of collection requirements related thereto. The CIA contributions are limited to the foreign aspects. The Chief of the Special Operations Group serves as the representative for the Agency on the Intelligence Evaluation Committee Staff, and as the alternate to the Agency representative in the Committee (who is the Chief, Counter Intelligence Staff).

NOTE: Special Problem: There is no written agreement governing the activities of FBI Legal Attaches abroad in dealing with foreign liaison services on collection of information on foreign exploitation of domestic U.S. dissidence and extremism. The DCI has enunciated a policy that the Agency is the action instrumentality of the U.S. Government in this field with foreign liaison services. In actual practice, the FBI levies pertinent requirements directly upon its own Legal Attaches and may or may not come to the Agency for assistance. An informal, usually followed, agreement has been reached, under which the Agency handles FBI requirements in this field (a) in countries where there is no Legal Attache, and (b) in situations in which several countries are involved (including countries in which there is a Legal Attache). Unilateral collection effort is requested of the Agency, however, whether or not there is a Legal Attache.

Operational Program
Special Operations Group, Counter Intelligence Staff

To accomplish its objectives, the Special Operations Group seeks to achieve the maximum feasible utilization of existing resources of the Clandestine Services. Few assets have been recruited and are being run exclusively for this program. Instead, emphasis has been placed on the exploitation of new and old Agency assets who have a by-product capability or a concurrent capability for provision of information responsive to the program's requirements. This involves close continuing liaison with briefed officers in all area divisions and the Soviet Bloc Division; and provision of custom-tailored collection requirements and operational guidance. Where special targets exist, a few agent assets have been specially recruited and deployed against them.

The actual number of assets utilized at any one time varies as new ones arise and old ones are lost.

The assets are dispersed roughly as follows:

Targeting of these assets includes the following groupings (from a variety of access/vantage points):

EYES ONLY

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

Because of the emphasis on exploitation of existing assets to the extent feasible and of liaison service capabilities where appropriate, this has been and continues to be a low-cost collection program, particularly in relation to the total number of assets involved and the production therefrom. At present, operational expenses directly chargeable to the program are limited to eight approved operational projects.

[REDACTED]

The major costs of the program are the salaries of the Special Operations Group personnel and the computer-associated data base maintenance costs. These Headquarters resource requirements are covered in a separate memorandum.

The following statistics are a rough index of the extent of effort involved in the collection and related dissemination program. They show how much is being done with a relatively small resource input. The statistics apply to cables and dispatches sent or received through special handling channels for the exclusive action of the Special Operations Group; to the dissemination prepared and distributed by the Group; and to the number of FBI reports received by the Group for operational support and data base maintenance purposes.

Program Manpower Resource Requirements
Special Operations Group, Counter Intelligence Staff

The program of the Special Operations Group originated in instructions of the Deputy Director for Plans on 15 August 1967, based on instructions to him by the Director, Central Intelligence Agency. These instructions were to establish a program for collection and dissemination of information on foreign involvement in domestic extremism and dissidence; and to maintain an adequate supporting data base, including full control of pertinent related information received from the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The program started with one officer and one IA, building strength gradually as personnel could be obtained.

The first formal strength authorization was provided in mid-1969 when a total of 36 positions was authorized with the understanding that, if this should prove insufficient, additional personnel would be authorized. (The Chief of the Special Operations Group estimated that a force of about 60 would be required as a minimum to fully implement the required program.)

To facilitate a rapid qualitative buildup of the program, a memorandum was sent in September 1969 by the DCI to each of the Agency Directorates requesting full support to the program; i.e., especially by the Office of Security and Office of Communications in the Support Directorate; by the Foreign Broadcast Information Service and the Domestic Contact Service in the Intelligence Directorate; by the Office of Computer Services in the Scientific and Technical Directorate; and by all pertinent elements in the Plans Directorate. As part of the buildup of the Special Operations Group, several key personnel assignments were made in mid and late 1969; i.e., three branch chiefs and a deputy chief.

By mid-1970 the authorized strength of 36 had been achieved and was inadequate for the workload, despite the use of a very large amount of overt .

As a result, the question of overall strength was reviewed and a decision made in late Spring of 1971 that an additional 18 positions would be authorized for the Special Operations Group for fiscal year 1972. Due to the lack of an effective directed assignment system, the Group has been unable to date to build up to its authorized strength (and still is short of the space needed to accommodate that strength).

As of 2 June 1972, the Group has an on-board strength of 42, with two additional officers scheduled to report by early July. Four Group officers, however, are scheduled for transfer out by mid-July. The Group thus needs not only to complete its buildup to authorized strength by filling existing vacancies, but also to obtain replacements for officers still in the Group whose tours with the Group either are already over or are close to their end. The early satisfaction of these personnel requirements is essential to bring a halt to the physical drain on the health of the Group's officers trying to keep up with the enormous continuing volume of work. The Group has been staffed to date primarily by junior officers who are bright and hard-working but who require relatively close supervision because of lack of prior experience. The management span of the senior officers is thus larger than desirable; additional middle grade, experienced officers are required. Replacement of officers at or near the end of their tour of duty is also required to maintain a concept of rotation-tour-staffing which has proven the only effective means of attracting qualified, experienced personnel or bright, ambitious, young personnel.

In fulfillment of a requirement set forth when a 54 strength Group was authorized, a formal Table of Organization has been recently approved. The Group is organized around two worldwide operational branches, each of which is concerned with the collection and dissemination of information on foreign involvement in certain specific aspects of the domestic U.S. scene. These branches are supported by a special operational unit and by sections concerned with the control of correspondence and the maintenance of a retrievable data base. In addition, the Office of Computer Services provides five full man years and two partial man years of programming and system design.

support for the computer systems under development for and utilized by the Group. Without such computer support, it would be impossible to run this program with the relatively small number of people authorized and with the short time deadlines required to provide effective requirements and guidance for field operations, and to respond effectively to special studies and estimates requirements levied upon the Agency.

The Honorable David Ginsburg
Executive Director
The National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders
Washington, D. C.

Dear Dave:

I have your letter of August 29 and I wish to assure you that we stand ready to do whatever we can to help. As you know, we do not have direct responsibilities for domestic security and therefore do not conduct, here in the United States, the kinds of activities which could produce the information in which you are interested. Nevertheless, there is some limited material which has come to us from abroad and which could conceivably be of interest to you.

I have asked one of my senior associates, Mr. Cord Meyer, Jr., whom I believe you know, to call on you at your early convenience and discuss the matter with you.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Chief, CI Staff

SUBJECT:

Overseas Coverage of Subversive Student and Related Activities

1. Further to our discussion with the Director this morning, please take the steps necessary to accomplish the following:

a. Designation of the officers in the CI Staff who will be the responsible focal points and coordinators of operational activity in this matter. (Harry Rositzke and Dick Ober appear to be excellent candidates, as you suggested.)

b. The exclusive briefing of specific division chiefs and certain selected officers in each division, on the aims and objectives of this intelligence collection program with definite domestic counterintelligence aspects.

c. The establishment of some sort of system by Dick Ober (or whatever officer you select) for the orderly coordination of the operations to be conducted, with the responsibility for the actual conduct of the operations vested in the specific area divisions.

d. The identification of a limited dissemination procedure which will afford these activities high operational security while at the same time getting the information to the appropriate departments and agencies which have the responsibility domestically.

e. The establishment of a periodic reporting system, preferably monthly, to gauge progress in the enterprise.

APPROVED FOR RELEASE

EX 1-19

2. The officer you select for the operational end of this will have a few leads to start with. He should confer with Mr. Meyer for a couple of leads and with [REDACTED] for a follow-up on some ideas that he has. Your suggestion of this morning, that some of our liaisons may be helpful in this, certainly should be pursued energetically but carefully. Ober, or whoever you select, should feel free to seek the assistance of the FI Staff as he requires this to run down leads or otherwise do his job. It may be well to assign a cryptonym to the effort, so that cable traffic can be suitably handled on a limited basis.

3. I should appreciate some sort of interim report by 31 August on the steps we have taken to get into position to move on this program.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director for PlansSUBJECT:*Interim Progress Report (15 to 31 August 1967)

1. Implementation of Initial DDP Instructions: The following actions have been taken in compliance with initial instructions from the DDP to Chief CI Staff, received under memorandum dated 15 August 1967:

a. Designation of Dick Ober as focal point and coordinator of operational activity;

b. Briefing of [REDACTED]

c. System for coordination of Operations: Establishment of [REDACTED] slug and EYES ONLY distribution of cables and dispatches to the Chief of the area division, with information copies to Chief CI and ADDP only (DDP, D/DCI, and DCI to be added when appropriate). We are experiencing some difficulty in coordinating operations already in being which are now being directed toward the [REDACTED] target. We have no intention of spiking initiative but we believe that close coordination and a holddown is desirable on account of sensitivity. There is multiple liaison with the FBI on this target and we are taking the position that all domestic liaison with the FBI on this matter will be carried on by Chief and Deputy Chief CI and Ober only. We assume you agree.

d. Establishment of limited dissemination procedures: Information will be reported to the Director of the FBI by letterhead memoranda over the signature of the DDP or DCI as appropriate. FBI correspondence to CIA will be handled similarly. Other agencies will be informed as necessary.

[REDACTED] has already set forth the operational assets to be brought to bear on this requirement and some station leads are under discussion with the FBI. [REDACTED] has provided several leads and ideas, some of which have been picked up by the FBI.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

SUBJECT: International Connections of the United States
Peace Movement

1. CIA is to prepare an independent study on the International Connections of the United States Peace Movement. This Study, which was requested by the President, is to include information from all sources. It will include the names of all individuals in the United States Peace Movement who have connections of any kind with Soviets, Communists, or any foreign persons or organizations.

2. On 31 October 1967, Chief, CI Staff laid down the requirements and responsibilities of the Clandestine Services in contributing to this Study. Present at the meeting were [REDACTED] Chief, CI Staff; [REDACTED] Deputy Chief, CI Staff; [REDACTED] Chief CI; [REDACTED] Deputy Chief CI; [REDACTED] CI; Richard Cber, CI

3. The DEI will be responsible for writing the Study. The CI Staff will be responsible for pulling together all information available in the Clandestine Services and presenting it to the DDI. CI Staff will be responsible for obtaining all information available to the Office of Security. CI Staff will also be responsible for obtaining through its liaison channels all pertinent information from other Agencies including FBI, Immigration and Naturalization Service, Secret Service, Defense Department, Army, Navy, and Air Force, etc. It is assumed that OCI will handle contacts with NSA on this Subject. Cber is to bring to the attention of the DEI the NSA report titled "Associations Between U.S. Peace Movement and Foreign Communist Organizations," (Report dated 22 October 1967). The following have been identified to the DEI as persons in the Clandestine Services who will be involved in this effort: [REDACTED] CI; [REDACTED]; and Richard Cber, CI

4. Responsibilities within the CI Staff:

The focal point will be Richard Cher who will be responsible for:

- a. Coordinating the effort,
- b. Maintaining contact with [REDACTED] Deputy Director for Intelligence,
- c. Maintaining the record of all material furnished to the DDI,
- d. Briefing [REDACTED] on the requirement and asking him to have his staff pull together information available to it on labor, students, and the Russell War Crimes Tribunal and related matters,
- e. Preparing a Memorandum for the Record of this meeting for the DDI with a copy for the D/DCI,
- f. Suggesting to the DDI that he ask [REDACTED] Legislative Counsel to contact his Congressional sources especially House UnAmerican Affairs Committee (for information to be used in this Study),
- g. Alerting [REDACTED] to this requirement,
- h. Alerting [REDACTED] to this requirement,
- i. Preparing daily progress reports,
- j. Considering the advisability of preparing a book message to field stations from the LDP alerting them to this requirement,
- k. Establishing a special cryptonym and controlled communications channels,
- l. Establishing procedure for protecting sources and keeping knowledge of this effort within the Clandestine Service on a highly restricted basis,
- m. Having material on personalities connected with Ramparts and other related organizations searched for pertinent information.

EC/CI will be responsible for:

Contacting the Director of Security and [REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

CI [REDACTED] will be responsible for:

- a. Contacting all investigative agencies to procure such information as they can supply for this effort,
- b. Drafting memoranda to cover these requests.

CI [REDACTED] will be responsible for:

Pulling together all information available to them concerning the exploitation by the International Communist movement of the United States Civil Rights and Peace movements.

Chief, CI [REDACTED] will be responsible for:

Research efforts to include an examination of the United States defector machine program (and perhaps other machine programs) to obtain information pertinent to the Study.

MEMORANDUM FOR:

SUBJECT : Special Report on Foreign Communist Support of Revolutionary Protest Movements in the United States

1. The President has directed that a report on Foreign Communist Support of Revolutionary Protest Movements in this country be prepared for his study. The request states that "support" should be liberally construed to include activities by foreign communists to "encourage" or "assist" such movements.
2. For purposes of this report, we are defining:
 - A. "Foreign Communist" to include party, intelligence service and/or government, as well as foreign front groups acting on behalf of a communist party, intelligence service and/or government organ;
 - B. "Revolutionary Protest Movements" to include (1) Radical Student and Youth Groups, (2) Anti-Vietnam War Groups, (3) Draft Resistance/Deserter-Support Groups, (4) Radical Black Groups, and (5) Anarchists and other assorted leftist extremists.
3. Division reports should treat separately foreign communist support to each of the five types of movements detailed above, citing evidence of guidance (re objectives, policy and/or ideology), funding, training, propaganda, sponsorship and/or use of international conferences, etc. Reports should be based on information in your files and will be combined with information available to the Special Operations Group, Counter Intelligence Staff. Information is also being sought separately from the Directorate of Intelligence.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director for Plans
Deputy Director for Intelligence
Deputy Director for Support
Deputy Director for Science and Technology

1. I recently have reviewed the Agency's efforts to monitor those international activities of radicals and black militants which may affect the national security. I believe that we have the proper approach in discharging this sensitive responsibility, while strictly observing the statutory and de facto proscriptions on Agency domestic involvements.

2. My understanding is that OCI carries this responsibility in the Intelligence Directorate, and that arrangements have been made in each geographic division to ensure continuing coverage of pertinent activities and systematic compilation of useful information. Mr. Corscadden's reassignment removes from the scene an experienced and knowledgeable analyst of these matters, and it is my hope that a suitable replacement will be found and developed.

3. I appreciate that there are several components in the Clandestine Service with a legitimate operational interest in the radical milieu. At the same time, it should be understood that Mr. Ober's Special Operations Group of CI Staff has the principal operational responsibility for coordinating and developing operations to collect information on aspects of activities abroad which have a direct bearing on U.S. radical and black militant movements. I expect that area divisions and senior staffs will be fully cooperative in this effort, both in exploiting existing sources and in developing new ones, and that Mr. Ober will have the necessary access to such sources and operational assets.

4. It is most important to ensure that Mr. Ober's Group has a small coterie of knowledgeable, effective officers. He needs two kinds of people: skilled analysts who can produce written material coherently and quickly, and experienced operations officers, ideally with a demonstrated ability to work in this sensitive area. If the right people are scarce and already ensconced in other activities, a select few nonetheless ought to be broken away for assignment to CI Staff.

APPROVED FOR RELEASE

5. A formidable obstacle to Mr. Ober at present is the backlog of undigested raw information at his disposal. In addition to assigning skilled analysts to deal with the flow of information, there is an obvious need for introducing expanded, sophisticated computer support. I understand that the Office of Computer Services possesses on-line capabilities and other facilities which not only would provide vastly improved information storage and retrieval but also affords the possibility of a data link with certain other elements of the security community. I would urge the earliest utilization of this capability. A rational combination of able officers and computers ought also to foster the twin virtues of holding Mr. Ober's TO to an acceptable level and minimizing the number of individuals with access to sensitive intelligence and operational information.

6. It is also important to ensure that a cooperative and supportive relationship exists between the Office of Security and Mr. Ober's Group. I expect that information collected by the Office of Security as part of its normal security mission, but which has a bearing on the targets of the Group, will be provided to the Group. Office of Security checks with other domestic repositories of information, involving targets of interest to the Group, should be closely coordinated with it.

FROM : Director, Domestic Contact Service

SUBJECT :

REFERENCE :

1. You will recall from the special briefing you received in closed session during the Annual Management Meeting concerning subject case that the speaker from CI Staff asked that no notes be taken. He had also requested that no communication be sent to the field describing his interests because of the sensitivity of the subject matter. He had hoped by this briefing to augment the flow of information on certain subjects but we have observed since this meeting that the reverse situation has been the case. There appears to be some confusion on the part of the Field Chiefs as to the manner in which information of this nature should be submitted. Thus we would like to remind you that there are now five categories of groups which are of interest. They are the black militants, radical student and youth groups, radical antiwar groups, radical underground press and draft evasion/deserter support movements and groups.

SUBJECT : New Case [REDACTED] -- Foreign Involvement in US Radical Activities

1. We are opening Case [REDACTED] to service the attached requirement from CI Staff. DCS reporting under Case [REDACTED] is to be focused exclusively upon the collection of information suggesting foreign involvement in US radical activities, and in leads which are exploitable overseas. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Under this case, collection should be essentially passive, and should be limited to thoroughly reliable sources.

2. Information you may develop in the course of your work concerning US radical activities which is purely domestic in its implications should be passed to the FBI locally. It should not be forwarded to Headquarters.

3. Call-ins and walk-ins who appear to offer information of purely domestic nature should in every case be referred to the FBI to avoid possible provocations. The information offered by such contacts should be accepted by DCS only if the volunteer refuses to pass it to the Bureau himself. In that case the source should be advised that his information and identity will be passed to the FBI by DCS. SUBJECT: CIA Activities in the United States

1. From time to time some of our employees express concern over various allegations or rumors of CIA activities in the United States. The attached memorandum is designed to clarify this subject so that supervisors can authoritatively reply to any employees indicating such concern. It is a statement of the facts of the situation. If incidents or activities are reported which appear to conflict with this statement, they should be reported to appropriate senior authority for resolution (or correction if unauthorized activities might have occurred).

2. Because of the possible sensitivity of this description of the Agency's methodology, this memorandum is not being given the usual broad circulation of the "FYI -- Allegations and Answers" series. Office and Division Chiefs are urged, however, to use it to inform Branch Chiefs so that its points can be readily available to supervisors to react to expressions of employee concern.

ALLEGATION:

In a variety of ways it has been alleged that CIA is working within the United States, with particular attention to extremist groups.

FACTS:

1. Section 102 of the National Security Act of 1947, subparagraph D3, states, "The Agency shall have no police, subpoena, law-enforcement powers, or internal security functions."

In his speech to the American Society of Newspaper Editors on 14 April 1971, the Director states:

"I can assure you that except for the normal responsibilities for protecting the physical security of our own personnel, our facilities, and our classified information, we do not have any such powers and functions; we have never sought any; we do not exercise any. In short, we do not target on American citizens."

In the Director's "State of the Agency" speech to employees on 17 September 1971, he said:

"I gave a talk to the American Society of Newspaper Editors last winter, as you know, and I did it for only one purpose. That was to try and put in the record a few of these denials that we've all wanted to see put in the public record for some time. And you can rely on those denials. They're true, and you can use that as any text that you may need to demonstrate that we're not in the drug traffic, and that we're not trying to do espionage on American citizens in the United States, and we're not tapping telephone lines, and that we're not doing a lot of other things which we're accused of doing. One of the things that tends to perpetuate some of these silly ideas are jokes that are made about them, particularly about domestic espionage. Although the jokes have no basis in fact they nevertheless give us a name which we don't deserve. I don't say that that makes all that much difference, but it does make some difference, and this tends to spill over, so I would like to suggest that if you have it in your hearts to do so that you speak up when the occasion arises and try and set the facts straight."

2. From time to time some employees have been concerned that Agency activities might conflict with these statements. They can be assured that Agency activities do not. For clarification, some activities which may have been subject to misunderstanding are listed as follows:

a. Domestic contacts. The Domestic Contact Service establishes discreet but overt relationships with American private citizens, commercial, academic and other organizations and resident aliens for the purposes of collecting on a voluntary basis foreign intelligence information or soliciting their cooperation in assisting the Agency to perform its mission overseas. Records of the individuals and organizations cooperating with the Agency are maintained as a necessary practical element of this process.

b. Security Investigations. Security investigations are conducted on prospective employees, contractors, and consultants, and on security problems which arise. These investigations involve a wide range of investigative procedures, including neighborhood inquiries, checks with other Government agencies, review of credit reports, and interviews with former employers and business associates. This is essential to assure that our personnel possess a high degree of personal integrity, sense of responsibility, and competence and to protect classified information and sensitive intelligence sources and methods. The resulting files are held separately by the Office of Security and are not merged with other Agency files.

c. Foreign Resources. On some occasions, foreign citizens of interest to CIA are contacted and recruited in America for work abroad. The purpose of this activity is entirely restricted to the Agency's foreign operations.

d. Recruitment. CIA recruiters maintain a wide variety of contacts within the United States, assisting individuals interested in employment with CIA to learn more about it and to join its employee force.

e. Contracting. In the course of CIA business and operations, a number of contracts for procurement, research, or analysis are made with a variety of U.S. companies and individuals. This in no way constitutes operations in the U.S. but rather secures the assistance of these groups in carrying out the CIA mission against foreign targets.

f. Operations. The 1967 Katzenbach Committee report was approved by the Director in March 1967 and is binding on any of our relations with American organizations today. It specifically prohibits covert financial assistance or support, direct or indirect, to any U.S. educational or private voluntary organization. Any relationship or operation the Agency has with an American organization must be and is within these guidelines.

g. Details or loans. On rare occasions, details of technically qualified CIA personnel, technical advice, or loans of CIA equipment have been made available to other U.S. agencies at their request to assist them to carry out their responsibilities. An example is the skymarshall program, in which some CIA personnel were temporarily detailed to the FAA in order to assist in a rapid initiation of that program. Such personnel and equipment are under the operational control of the receiving agency. Assistance of this nature in no way constitutes an assumption of responsibility or authority by CIA for the program.

h. Counterintelligence and Drugs. To carry out its responsibilities for counterintelligence, CIA is interested in the activities of foreign nations or intelligence services aimed at the U.S. To the extent that these activities lie outside the U.S., including activities aimed at the U.S. utilizing U.S. citizens or others, they fall within CIA's responsibilities. Responsibility for coverage of the activities within the U.S. lies with the FBI as an internal security function. CIA's responsibility and authority are limited to the foreign intelligence aspect of the problem, and any action of a law enforcement or internal security nature lies with the FBI or local police forces. (CIA's assistance to the U.S. Government program against narcotics and drugs is handled in the same fashion.)

i. Operational Support. To support CIA operations, arrangements are made with various U.S. business or other entities to provide cover or other support for CIA personnel or activities abroad. This can include proprietaries formed or controlled by CIA. While these may exist within the U.S., their purpose is to conduct or support operations abroad.

j. Defectors. As provided by law, CIA occasionally resettles in the U.S. defectors and other foreign individuals of operational interest. This resettlement may involve a new identity, relocation, employment, etc. Although this activity takes place in this country, its purpose is the support of operations abroad.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Executive Director-Comptroller

SUBJECT: MICHAOS

1. In the course of the survey of PMA Division, the sensitivity of the MICHAOS program was deemed to be so great as to preclude our looking into it. We did not review MICHAOS files, nor did we discuss specific operations at Headquarters or in the field. Consequently any comments we make must necessarily be of a general nature. Because of the sensitivity of this subject, it is handled separately from the report.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

SUBJECT: Meeting with the Director on MHCHAOS, 5 December 1972

Participants: The Director, Executive Director, Deputy Director for Plans, Assistant Deputy Director for Plans, and Richard Ober

1. The Director was briefed on several questions raised by the Inspector General's recent review of the [REDACTED] area and on the practices being followed in the collection and dissemination of MHCHAOS information.

2. The Director provided the following guidance on MHCHAOS and related matters:

- A. The DCI emphasized the importance of the Agency continuing to follow its policy of not conducting investigations of or supplying information on employees of other U.S. Government agencies.
- B. Concern about MHCHAOS by some CIA personnel:
 - (1) MHCHAOS is a legitimate counterintelligence function of the Agency and cannot be stopped simply because some members of the organization do not like this activity.
 - (2) Those officers concerned in the DDP should continue their efforts to explain the legitimacy of the MHCHAOS program in the best way possible to those officers in the Agency who are concerned about it.

C. Duplication of collection by CIA and FBI:

- (1) The responsibility for MHCHAOS collection from liaison services abroad rests with CIA. CIA will approach the FBI to attempt to have the FBI discontinue its practice of levying requirements for this type of collection directly through the legal attaches as well as through CIA.
- (2) CIA should be discriminating in its acceptance of MHCHAOS requirements from the FBI.

D. Intelligence Evaluation Committee:

Under present circumstances, CIA should minimize its contribution to this effort with the expectation that this organization may disappear.

E. Combatting terrorism:

To a maximum extent possible, Ober should become identified with the subject of terrorism inside the Agency as well as in the Intelligence Community.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Chief, Counterintelligence Staff

SUBJECT: Specific Conditions Relative to the Servicing of Requests from Other U. S. Agencies for Investigative Action on American Citizens Overseas by the Clandestine Service

1. In order to avoid the slightest misunderstanding concerning investigations of Americans which we may conduct overseas on the legitimate request of another U. S. agency, the following instructions will be scrupulously observed in the handling of such requests by all components of the CI Staff.

a. No such requests will be accepted for investigative action unless they are in writing and signed by a duly authorized representative of the other agency. It is understood that, in a clear emergency, we may move on an oral request but we will cease conducting investigative action promptly unless the oral request is immediately followed up with confirmation in writing.

b. No request, written or oral, will be acted upon unless it is made clear in the request that the investigative action being asked for is in direct connection with an active security investigation being conducted by the requesting agency.

c. Requests from other agencies for assistance in their investigation of U. S. Government officials will be considered only if they are over the signature of a senior official of the other agency, such as, an Ambassador, an Assistant Secretary of State, the Director of Security of the other agency, or similarly responsible official. Such requests will require the approval within the service of the ADDP, the DDP or the DCI. In no instance will we initiate the investigation of any official of the U. S. Government. If we, in the course of the normal conduct of our counterintelligence responsibilities, come across indications of adverse involvement of a U. S. Government official, this information will be brought promptly to the attention of the chief of security of the agency involved.

2. I recognize that the above strictures have been a matter of general policy, but I am anxious to ensure that they are thoroughly understood and kept in mind by all officers of the CI Staff, and that the Staff in turn ensures that they are observed by all officers of the Clandestine Service.

CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE AGENCY
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20505
OFFICE OF THE DIRECTOR

9 May 1973

MEMORANDUM FOR ALL CIA EMPLOYEES

1. Recent press reports outline in detail certain alleged CIA activities with respect to Mr. Howard Hunt and other parties. The presently known facts behind these stories are those stated in the attached draft of a statement I will be making to the Senate Committee on Appropriations on 9 May. As can be seen, the Agency provided limited assistance in response to a request by senior officials. The Agency has cooperated with and made available to the appropriate law enforcement bodies information about these activities and will continue to do so.

2. All CIA employees should understand my attitude on this type of issue. I shall do everything in my power to confine CIA activities to those which fall within a strict interpretation of its legislative charter. I take this position because I am determined that the law shall be respected and because this is the best way to foster the legitimate and necessary contributions we in CIA can make to the national security of the United States.

3. I am taking several actions to implement this objective:

I have ordered all senior operating officials of this Agency to report to me immediately on any activities now going on, or that have gone on in the past, which might be construed to be outside the legislative charter of this Agency.

I hereby direct every person presently employed by CIA to report to me on any such activities of which he has knowledge. I invite all ex-employees to do the same. Anyone who has such information should call my secretary (extension 6363) and say that he wishes to talk to me about "activities outside CIA's charter."

4. To ensure that Agency activities are proper in the future, I hereby promulgate the following standing order for all CIA employees:

Any CIA employee who believes that he has received instructions which in any way appear inconsistent with the CIA legislative

MEMORANDUM FOR: [REDACTED]

SUBJECT : Status Report on MHCHAOS Activities

1. There has been a drastic reduction in traffic and requirements concerned with MHCHAOS-related matters during 1973, partially a reflection of the end of American military activities in Southeast Asia--(resulting in the elimination of the draft and the demise of massive domestic and international antiwar activities) and partially a result of "present realities"--which has led to the cessation or the "withering away" of requests and requirements by the White House and the IEC for special studies as well as such routine monthly efforts as the "Calendar of Foreign Events" which focused on upcoming international activities designed to support/encourage and coordinate efforts in conjunction with domestic extremist/militant plans and actions.

2. The breaking-up and the dissolution of major United States' antiwar groups and organizations has, in turn, resulted in a radical decrease of trips to Hanoi by American militants and has very significantly affected the number of visits/consultations/strategy sessions with DRV/PRG representatives [REDACTED]

3. The above developments in the "radical/militant anti-war" sector were preceded by a similar trend in the extremist youth/New Left circles, the "deserter support and inducement" field, as well as in the so-called "underground media/Liberation and Movement News" field.

4. Finally, the dissension among American black political extremists and hijackers abroad, i.e., the break up of the [REDACTED] Black Panther Faction [REDACTED] and other similar fractionalizations, to a great part the result of an inability of the main protagonists to capitalize on their status as "international revolutionaries," have reduced these activities to a shadow of former dimensions.

5. The major effort in the MHCHAOS-related field has been and remains directly responsive to requirements levied upon the Agency by the FBI. These requests were separate from the White House requirements although, in many cases, they involved parallel matters or were interrelated. They were and remain as follows:

APPROVED FOR RELEASE

Date 17 APR 1978

a. Requests for information concerning hostile contacts and activities abroad of designated American groups, organizations or individuals, especially with the Soviets, Chinese Communists, Cubans, North Koreans, North Vietnamese, representatives of the Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam, or any foreign revolutionary organizations.

b. Requirements of a specific nature involving the contacts/activities of selected American citizens abroad, the majority of them being the subject of active security investigations of a counterintelligence nature; or requests for information on related targets.

6. Examination of the total MHCHAOS communications for March and February 1973 (304 cables), establishes that 215 cables, or 70.7% of the total traffic, resulted directly from the above FBI requests which, in the main, deal with obtaining counterintelligence information on hostile linkages abroad of designated Americans/group leaders who may or may not be simultaneously involved in domestic dissident activities and some of whom could, by the nature of their past histories, also be involved in terrorist activities/planning, certain Weatherman fugitives being a case in point.

7. The analytical survey which covers both (a) MHCHAOS operational cables and (b) reports to the FBI in the form of special counterintelligence memoranda also reflects that the volume of operational traffic, after reaching a high point in 1971 (829 cables), diminished during 1972 (817 cables), and has dropped sharply for the same period in 1973 (304 cables); i.e., the operational cable traffic for 1973 shows a 62.7% decrease from the corresponding two months in 1972. Similarly, the counterintelligence memoranda, after a high point in February and March 1971 of 131 submissions, dropped to 61 for the same period in 1973.

8. The overall picture in the continued reduction of MHCHAOS-related traffic from June and August of 1972 to the corresponding period of 1973 is reflected in the following breakdown:

a. Cable traffic for June 1972:

In	107
Out	119
Total	226

b. Cable traffic for July 1972:

In	113
Out	99
Total	211

c. Cable traffic for June 1973:

In	73
Total	106

d. Cable traffic for July 1973:

In	47
Total	74

e. Correspondence with the FBI, June 1972:
(Responsive to their requirements)

In	7
Out	36
Total	43

f. Correspondence with the FBI, July 1972:

In	7
Out	51
Total	58

g. Correspondence with the FBI, June 1973:

In	1
Total	24

h. Correspondence with the FBI July 1973:

In	1
Total	13

9. The reduction in traffic as a whole has been accompanied by a general dismantling of our human and our technical assets in the field. This was not done primarily because we have thought it to be politic "at this period of time," but, more to the point, because we could not justify these activities any longer in terms of the MICHAOS effort since the targets and the activities of the target individuals and groups have shifted in emphasis or have ceased activities of previous priority concern altogether.

10. We have, therefore, turned over [REDACTED] we have suspended [REDACTED] pending a decision by [REDACTED] on [REDACTED] eventual resumption under their exclusive [REDACTED] We have turned over [REDACTED] assets [REDACTED] because their targets have become exclusively [REDACTED] We have terminated [REDACTED] assets [REDACTED] An asset [REDACTED] who was and remains engaged [REDACTED] has been turned over to [REDACTED] and another asset who is now targetted exclusively against [REDACTED] has been turned over to [REDACTED]

11. Having previously terminated an asset [REDACTED] and another one [REDACTED] because of (a) unsuitability in one case and (b) lack of access in the other, [REDACTED]

12. This may be the point to mention that our experience gained during the last five years in the field of MICHAOS has enabled CIA to speak with increasing assurance and pertinence on the problem, rather than simply furnishing desirable footnotes for "a preconceived hypothesis." We have often been able to place ongoing developments in perspective, and that, in some cases, to very high level customers.

13. At this stage then, the MICHAOS effort is reduced to servicing a decreasing number of FBI requirements on specific individuals, such as the former Black Panther Party extremist/hijackers [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] keeping track of other militant extremists in such places [REDACTED], as well as trying to cover indications of [REDACTED] support to [REDACTED] extremists and others. On the Cuban target, in response to an FBI requirement, we still regularly report [REDACTED] as well as periodic reporting, again in response to a specific FBI requirement, of some individuals, [REDACTED]

14. Therefore, more than ever at this stage, MHCHAOS activities are the direct result of FBI requests which, in the main, concern themselves with obtaining counterintelligence information on hostile linkages abroad of designated domestic groups and leaders who are involved in domestic dissident activities, either at present or who, by the nature of their past activities, merit continued coverage, certain violent Weatherman fugitives being a case in point.

15. A note might be made that while the current standing requirements levied on us by the FBI (copy attached) appear formidable, in many cases they have been overcome by events, i.e., in the antiwar field the Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice is defunct, the deserter field is of no more interest to us, the Puerto Rican target is no longer being serviced.

16. In essence then, the residual MHCHAOS task remains the continuation of selective collection abroad of information on hostile foreign efforts to exploit/encourage/manipulate/support domestic/extremists/terrorists in the U.S., a reduced effort which reflects the changed circumstances, concerned primarily with Cuban subversive efforts, [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Because of the Agency's permanent CI responsibilities abroad, we remain interested in any evidence that the four other Communist powers (the Soviets, the Chinese, the North Koreans and the North Vietnamese/PRG) are persisting in their efforts in seeking to exploit and exacerbate domestic American problems through direct or indirect links with selected American activists/extremists.

17. Of equal importance to the above is the availability of data in the MHCHAOS holding on foreign groups or individuals who have cultivated contacts with American extremists/radicals in joint efforts to exacerbate domestic dissidence. In some cases this covers persons in the international terrorist field as well; the holdings obviously represent a unique, albeit also very sensitive, capability.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director for Science and Technology
Deputy Director for Intelligence
Deputy Director for Management and Services
Deputy Director for Operations

INFO : Inspector General

SUBJECT : Questionable Activities

1. As an aspect of the allegations of improper CIA activity in connection with the Watergate and associated matters, the Inspector General was directed to assemble all information available in the Agency on any such activities. Certain specific matters were provided to him, and the Director by memorandum of 9 May 1973 directed all employees to report any activities, current or past, which might be construed to be outside the legislative charter of this Agency. This information was assembled and consolidated by the Inspector General in a memorandum of 21 May 1973 and certain individual memoranda thereafter supplementing it. This material was used in a detailed, page-by-page review of all such information with Senator Symington and Congressman Helms, as Chairmen of the Senate and the House Armed Services Intelligence Subcommittees, respectively. In addition, I undertook very specific commitments in my confirmation hearings to ensure that the Agency will remain within its legislative charter. I am arranging for the published transcripts of these hearings to be circulated throughout the Agency for compliance, and at that time will reaffirm the specific direction made by Dr. Schlesinger in his memorandum of 9 May 1973. This will also be incorporated into appropriate regulations.

2. With respect to the specific questionable activities which were reported as a result of the search made throughout the Agency, however, I believe it essential to take specific action in order that these not seem to be condoned or overlooked. I have therefore developed specific instructions on each reported activity. These are included in the attachments to this memorandum, and have the force of specific direction to you to pass on to appropriate subordinates the instructions outlined. Separate packages of such instructions are being developed for each Directorate in order to respect the sensitivity of some of the activities discussed, including those which are deemed quite appropriate within CIA's charter.

APPROVED FOR RELEASE

Date 8 JULY 1975

1973 JUL 7

Simultaneously, each activity is placed on a separate page so that the Deputy Director concerned may most easily forward it to the office or offices directly concerned without distributing it more broadly.

3. In the event that these instructions raise substantial difficulties of implementation or compliance, I would appreciate your raising such cases with me directly, with whatever recommendations you may have for modification to carry out the spirit of the action undertaken here but to avoid undue disruption of legitimate activities. In the absence of such notice, I will expect full compliance with the instructions outlined herein.

4. Each addressee Deputy Director is instructed to recommend to the DMS modification or addition to Agency regulations of appropriate language to reflect the direction included in this memorandum and attachments addressed to him. DMS will be responsible for consolidating such recommendations and making an overall report to the Director through the IG, coordinating with General Counsel.

SUBJECT: Care in Relation to Significant Domestic Events

All Deputy Directors will exhibit particular sensitivity to the possible coincidence of CIA training, testing, or support activities and significant domestic, political or other events to which they could be wrongly related by the unwitting observer. SUBJECT: MEMPHIS

MEMPHIS is restricted to the collection abroad of information on foreign activities related to domestic matters. CIA will focus clearly on the foreign organizations and individuals involved and only incidentally on their American contacts. As a consequence, CIA will not take on the primary responsibility for following Americans abroad, although CIA can accept a request by the FBI to be passed to an appropriate liaison service in a foreign country as the surveillance of such an American and the transmission of the results back to the FBI. It must be plainly demonstrated in each such transmission that the CIA is merely a channel of communication between the FBI and the appropriate foreign service and is not to be directly engaged in the surveillance or other action against the American involved.

With respect to Americans abroad who become suspect for security or counterintelligence reasons, any official U.S. personnel will be reported to their parent agency's security authorities, CIA will merely serve as a transmission belt for the information concerned. Specific CIA operations will not be mounted against such individuals, but they will be reported when their

SUBJECT: Restrictions on Operational Lists on Americans

The accumulation of operational leads to Americans with access to significant foreign targets must be conducted in a fashion which clearly avoids the charge that black lists of any sort are being accumulated by CIA. The Intelligence Evaluation Committee has been disbanded. In the future, CIA participation in interagency domestic intelligence discussions will be restricted to the provision of foreign intelligence which might bear upon the matters being considered. CIA will not participate in recommendations or actions with respect to domestic affairs.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director for Operations

SUBJECT: Background Information on Standing Federal Bureau of Investigation Requirements

1. The attached appalling compendium (Tab A) is a listing of the current FBI requirements for coverage of citizens and/or organizations which can be cited as subversive or in possible violation of certain Titles and U.S. Codes.

2. Also attached (Tab B) is a listing of MHCHAOS outgoing cables from 1 September 1973 through 28 February 1974. It is obvious that if we continue to service FBI requirements in these areas, we shall remain fairly heavily committed to provide information on the activities of U.S. citizens abroad.

3. On the other hand, the Bureau requests appear legitimate and the refinement of their requirements is going to be difficult. Nonetheless, we should probably adhere to the position that we shall act only on individual cases for which we have written requests from the Bureau.

4. Attached in accordance with your request is a draft memorandum from the DCI to the Director, FBI, suggesting a review of the problem.

DRAFT

Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation

Washington, D.C.

In the past the Agency has serviced requests from the Bureau for information on certain American citizens abroad who have allegedly been affiliated with subversive movements. We believe that this activity is subject to being misconstrued as the Agency's operating against United States citizens.

We have, therefore, directed our field stations to focus clearly on foreign organizations and individuals of CIA interest and only incidentally on their American contacts. When information is uncovered as a by-product of CIA foreign-targeted intelligence or counterintelligence operations abroad which makes private Americans abroad suspect for security or counterintelligence reasons, the information will be reported to the FBI. Specific CIA operations will not be mounted against such individuals.

We should like to suspend fulfilling the standing requirements from your Bureau until we have an opportunity to have a full discussion with you in terms of examining how we can carry on.

No surveillance, telephone tap, surreptitious entry or other action will be taken by Agency personnel in the United States against United States citizens not connected with CIA, under the classified authority of "protection of intelligence sources and methods." This provision of the law lays a charge and duty on the Director and the Agency to act so as to protect intelligence sources and methods. It does not give it authority to take action with respect to other American citizens. If a threat or exposure of intelligence sources and methods occurs, the Agency can appropriately assemble its information on the topic and conduct such steps within its organization as may be appropriate. With respect to outsiders, the appropriate lawful authorities must be approached for assistance on the matter, e.g., the FBI or local police.

CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE AGENCY

FOR RELEASE ON RECEIPT

8 July 1975

STATEMENT

Office of the Assistant to the Director
(703) 351-7676
(703) 687-6931 (night)

The Director of Central Intelligence, with the approval of the President, is today releasing the Director's report of 24 December 1974 to the President, including the annexes, covering matters related to the New York Times article of 22 December alleging CIA involvement in a massive illegal domestic intelligence effort. This release is a follow-on to the decision to release the Rockefeller Commission report in view of the public interest in this matter.

The report is released without alteration, as is Annex F, a "Memorandum for All CIA Employees," of 9 May 1973, both of which were and are unclassified. Several other annexes have been declassified. Unclassified versions of all other annexes have been substituted for the originals by deleting classified portions from the original versions. Each such newly prepared version is so identified by an appropriate notation. Bracketed spaces indicate the size and location of all deletions. No textual changes have been made in the report itself or in any of the annexes.

It is to be emphasized that the report was prepared on an urgent basis and forwarded to the White House on 24 December. Continuing review of the topics covered in the report has resulted in some corrections in Director Colby's subsequent discussions with the President, the Director's testimony given the Rockefeller Commission, and in his various statements to congressional committees in the intervening months.

Regarding the memorandum entitled "Influencing Human Behavior" attached to Annex I of the report, it should be noted that no such drug or experimental activities are currently conducted and the Director has approved none.

APPROVED FOR RELEASE

Date 8 JULY 1975

CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE AGENCY
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20505

December 24, 1974

The President
The White House
Washington, D.C. 20500

Dear Mr. President:

This report is in response to your request for my comments on The New York Times article of December 22nd alleging CIA involvement in a "massive" domestic intelligence effort. While CIA has made certain errors, it is not accurate to characterize it as having engaged in "massive domestic intelligence activity."

The National Security Act of 1947 states that CIA shall have no "police, subpoena, law-enforcement powers, or internal security functions." The Agency's functions thus relate solely to foreign intelligence. Included in this responsibility is foreign counterintelligence, as stated in National Security Council Intelligence Directive No. 3. This provides that CIA shall, inter alia, conduct clandestine counterintelligence outside the United States and its possessions. Under this charge, CIA for many years has maintained liaison with the intelligence and security services of other nations and has conducted independent counterintelligence activities abroad. Whenever such matters relate to the internal security of the United States, information derived from such operations is passed to the Federal Bureau of Investigation and other Departments or Agencies of the Government when appropriate. In addition, CIA has responded to requests from the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and on occasion other Departments, for counterintelligence work abroad.

In 1967, when concern grew in the United States Government over domestic dissidence, questions were raised as to whether there might be stimulation or support of such activity from outside the United States. As a result, the Director of Central Intelligence on 13 August established within the CIA counterintelligence office a program to identify possible foreign links with American dissident elements (Annex A). Later that same year, this became a part of an interagency program (Annex B). In November 1967, the Agency produced a study, International Connections of US Peace Groups, in response to a request by the President. In late 1967 or early 1968 the Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs requested an assessment of possible foreign links with American-dissident student groups (SDS). In mid-1968 the Agency produced an assessment of youth movements throughout the world, including a section analyzing the American scene to complete the picture. This study concluded that: "There is no convincing evidence of control, manipulation, sponsorship, or significant financial support of student dissidents by any international Communist authority."

In September 1969 the Director reviewed the counter-intelligence program and stated that he believed it to be proper, "while strictly observing the statutory and de facto proscriptions on Agency domestic involvements" (Annex C).

In 1970, in the so-called Huston Plan, the Directors of the FBI, DIA, NSA, and CIA signed a report to the President recommending an integrated approach to the coverage of domestic unrest. While not explicit in the Plan, CIA's role would have been to contribute foreign intelligence and counterintelligence. The Huston Plan itself was not implemented but was followed by the establishment on 3 December 1970 of the Interagency Evaluation Committee which was coordinated by the Counsel to the President, Mr. John Dean. This committee was chaired by a Department of Justice officer, Mr. Robert Mardian, and included representatives from CIA, FBI, DOD, State, Treasury, and NSA. Pursuant to this Government-wide effort, CIA continued its counterintelligence interest in possible foreign links with American dissidents. A full description of the CIA project, prepared on 1 June 1972, is attached (Annex D).

Because of CIA's effort during these years, some CIA employees, not directly involved in the program, misinterpreted it as being more focused on American dissidents than on their possible connections with foreign governments. In addition, however, there were individual cases in which actions were taken which overstepped proper bounds. For example, the Agency recruited or inserted individuals into American dissident circles to establish their credentials for operations abroad against those foreign elements which might be supporting, encouraging, or directing dissidence in the United States. In the course of their preparatory work or on completion of a phase of their mission abroad, these individuals reported on the activities of the American dissidents with whom they came in contact. Significant information thereby derived was reported to the FBI, but in the process CIA files were established on the individuals named.

In 1972, with the approval of the Director, the Executive Director issued an internal memorandum to senior CIA officials describing the program in order to clarify its scope and to invite reports of any departures from its policy:

"To carry out its responsibilities for counter-intelligence, CIA is interested in the activities of foreign nations or intelligence services aimed at the U.S. To the extent that these activities lie outside the U.S., including activities aimed at the U.S. utilizing U.S. citizens or others, they fall within CIA's responsibilities. Responsibility for coverage of the activities within the U.S. lies with the FBI, as an internal security function. CIA's responsibility and authority are limited to the foreign-intelligence aspect of the problem, and any action of a law enforcement or internal security nature lies with the FBI or local police forces."
(Annex E)

On 9 May 1973, the Director issued a bulletin to all employees requesting them to report any indication of any activity they believed might be outside CIA's charter (Annex F). Responses from some employees referred to the counterintelligence program. As a result, on 29 August 1973 the Director issued specific direction to the managers of the program re-emphasizing that the focus of the program was to be clearly on the foreign organizations and individuals involved in links with American dissidents and only incidentally on the American contacts involved (Annex G).

In March 1974 the Director terminated the program and issued specific guidance that any collection of counter-intelligence information on Americans would only take place abroad and would be initiated only in response to requests from the FBI or in coordination with it; furthermore, any such information obtained as a by-product of foreign intelligence activities would be reported to the FBI (Annex H).

In the course of this program, files were developed on American citizens. The total index of these Americans amounts to 9,944 counterintelligence files. Approximately two-thirds of these consisted of the by-product coverage of the activities outlined above or stemmed from specific requests from the FBI for information on the activities of Americans abroad. One-third consisted of FBI reports on American Communists. We have for the past several months been in the process of eliminating material not justified by CIA's counterintelligence responsibilities, and about 1,000 such files have been removed from the active index but not destroyed.

Aside from our Congressional liaison working records, we hold files on fourteen past and present Members of Congress. These were opened prior to their election to office and were caused either by the process of clearing them for work with the Agency or because we were interested in them for foreign intelligence purposes. There is no, and to my knowledge never has been any, surveillance--technical or otherwise--of any Members of Congress.

The New York Times articles makes a number of specific allegations of improper activity domestically by CIA and relates these to the above program. In the 1973 compilation by the Agency of all activities which might be questionable, a number of items were raised which were not related to that program. The Agency's action in most of these cases was founded upon the section of the National Security Act of 1947 which provides that the Director of Central Intelligence is responsible for protecting intelligence sources and methods from unauthorized disclosure. Over the many years in which CIA has been operating, some actions have been taken which were improper extensions of the charge contained in this language. Apparently The New York Times reporter learned of some of these items and erroneously associated them with the above program. Examples include:

a. Unauthorized entry of the premises of three individuals, a defector and two former employees, to determine whether they had classified documents, and in one case to recover them (in 1966, 1970 and 1971). Two of these incidents involved breaking and entering.

b. Electronic surveillance (telephone tap) of two newspaper reporters (1963) and physical surveillance of five reporters (in 1971 and 1972) to determine the sources of classified information published by them. Similar physical surveillance of three ex-employees of the CIA who were suspected of unauthorized possession of classified documents (1969, 1971, and 1972).

c. Development of paid informants among construction workers at the time of construction of the Agency building (1960-1961) to protect against the placement of electronic taps therein.

d. During the period 1967-1971, agents were also developed to monitor dissident groups in the Washington area considered to be potential threats to Agency personnel and installations, and Agency security field officers in the US also collected information on similar dissident groups, to advise the Agency of potential threats to its personnel and installations.

e. A list of individuals suspected of particular offenses considered to pose a security vulnerability was collected over a number of years prior to 1973. This practice was terminated and the file destroyed in 1973.

f. From May-September 1971 a long-time CIA source was under surveillance in the US in connection with a reported plot to assassinate or kidnap Vice President Agnew and the DGI. The individual covered was a Latin American revolutionary, but the surveillance expanded to cover several American citizen contacts in New York and Detroit.

A final category of questionable activity identified during the 1973 survey was related to the Agency's mission to collect foreign intelligence. In some cases the Agency exceeded proper bounds or its activities were subject to misconstruction as being aimed at purposes outside its charter. The following examples, for instance, may be related to the charges made in The New York Times article, although they have no connection with the program first discussed above:

a. Records were made of the identities and addresses of individuals exchanging correspondence between the United States and certain communist countries, as an aid to determining possible leads to potential operations. This program included the surreptitious opening of certain first-class mail to extract positive intelligence or data valuable for the development of foreign intelligence operations against the communist country. This program was initiated in 1953, and from its inception was fully coordinated with the FBI, which received much of its product. The operation was approved by three Postmasters General and one Attorney General. The program was terminated in 1973.

b. We obtained names and addresses of persons telephoning a communist country so that we could follow up for possible operational leads.

c. Individuals were recruited or inserted into dissident groups in the US to establish their credentials to collect foreign intelligence overseas. By-product information reflecting planned violence or similar activity was passed to the FBI.

The items listed above are those questionable activities relating to matters covered in The New York Times article. Obviously, I am prepared to brief you fully on such matters, as I did the Chairman of the Congressional Armed Services Committees.

Following our identification of all these matters in 1973, I issued detailed and specific instructions dealing with each activity. Some were terminated; others were continued but only as fully authorized by our statute and in accordance with law (Annex I).

The New York Times article also states that I am considering the possibility of asking the Attorney General to institute legal action against some of those who had been involved in these activities. I have conferred with the Acting Attorney General, Mr. Silberman, as to my responsibilities with respect to evidence relating to possible illegal activities by Agency personnel. On December 21st I agreed with him that I would review the questionable activities noted in this letter and others to determine whether these should be brought to his attention for legal review. I will certainly keep you advised of any such action.

As I stated to you on the telephone, Mr. President, you have my full assurance that the Agency is not conducting activities comparable to those alleged in The New York Times article. Even in the past, I believe the Agency essentially conformed to its mission of foreign intelligence. There were occasions over the years in which improper actions were taken as noted above, but I believe these were few, were quite exceptional to the thrust of the Agency's activities, and have been fully terminated. Agency personnel are instructed each year to advise me of any activity they consider questionable, and I am resolved to follow your directive that no improper activity be conducted by this Agency.

Respectfully,

W. E. Colby

I call to your attention the attached sensitive annexes to our 1972 report of survey of E Division. You have seen them before, but a fresh look at them might be in order in the light of current developments. J + C

The recent revelations about the activities of the Intelligence Evaluation Committee are getting close to our MCHAOS program. We are particularly concerned about MCHAOS because of the high degree of resentment we found among many Agency employees at their being expected to participate in it.

SUBJECT: The [M]CHAOS Program

1. The [M]CHAOS program is a worldwide program for clandestine collection abroad of information on foreign efforts to support/encourage/exploit/manipulate domestic U.S. extremism, especially by

2. The [M]CHAOS program has not and is not conducting efforts domestically for internal domestic collection purposes. Agency efforts are foreign. Foreign-oriented activity in the United States has been of two types:

a. Selected FBI domestic sources who travel abroad in connection with their extremist activity and/or affiliations to make contact with hostile foreign powers or with foreign extremist groups have been briefed and debriefed by Headquarters officers. The briefing has included appropriate operational guidance, including defensive advice.

b. Americans with existing extremist credentials have been assessed, recruited, tested and dispatched abroad for PCS assignments as contract agents, primarily sources offered for such use by the FBI. When abroad they collect information responsive to [M]CHAOS program requirements, as well as other Agency requirements. They are thus used primarily for targeting against [C], etc., as their background and their particular access permits. It should be noted that the [J] aspect of the [J] project of the [E] is similar to the [M]CHAOS PROGRAM.

3. As indicated earlier, [M]CHAOS is a foreign program, conducted overseas, except for the limited activity described above. The program is and has been managed so as to achieve the maximum feasible utilization of existing resources of the Operations Directorate. No assets have been recruited and run exclusively for the MICHAOS program. Instead, emphasis has been placed on the exploitation of new and old Agency assets who have a by-product capability or a concurrent capability for provision of information responsive to the program's requirements. This has involved the provision of custom-tailored collection requirements and operational guidance. This collection program is viewed as an integral part of the recruitment and collection programs of Agents who have an American "Movement" background or who have known connections with the American "Movement" are useful as access agents to obtain biographic and personality data, to discern possible vulnerabilities and susceptibilities, and to develop operationally exploitable relationships with recruitment targets of the above programs. These assets are of interest to our targets because of their connections with and/or knowledge of the American "Movement." Over the course of the MICHAOS program, there have been approximately 20 important areas of operational interest, which at the present time have been reduced to about ten:

5. INCHAOS reporting from abroad relating to the program originates in two ways: Individuals who are noted in contact with C, etc., and who appear to have extremist connections, interests or background are reported upon. Other individuals are reported upon in response to specific Headquarters requirements received from the FBI because such individuals are of active investigatory security interest to the FBI.

6. All cable and dispatch traffic related to the INCHAOS program is sent via restricted channels.

E The control and retrievability of information obtained, including information received from the FBI, is the responsibility of the Special Operations Group.

7. Information responsive to specific FBI requirements is disseminated to the FBI via special controlled dissemination channels, i.e., by restricted handling cable traffic or via special pouch and specially numbered blind memoranda.

8. Information of particular significance, when collected, has been disseminated by special memorandum over the signature of the Director of Central Intelligence to the White House (Dr. Kissinger and John Dean), as well as to the Attorney General, the Secretary of State and the Director of the FBI.

YOUTH INTERNATIONAL PARTY FROM THE DIVISION

The Youth International Party (YIP), commonly known as YIPPIES, was formed in January 1968 by a small group of artists, writers and musicians and has been referred to as "the first attempt to give social direction to the drug movement."

Founders of the YIP, all users of LSD, other consciousness-expanding drugs and marijuana, include Paul KRASSNER, editor of the satirical magazine, includes Edward SANDERS, leader of the rock group, The Realist; Howard HOFFMAN and Jerry Clyde RUBIN, the Frug; Abbott Chicago Seven conspiracy trial.

The YIP has no formal structure, no leaders and is a non-membership New Left coordinating group, headquartered in New York City, which utilizes the extensive underground press network to broadcast "its gospel of protest and ridicule of the establishment."

SUBJECT: YOUTH INTERNATIONAL PARTY (YIP)

1. Allegedly conceived during a New Year's Eve party on 31 December 1967 in Greenwich Village, New York City, the YOUTH INTERNATIONAL PARTY (YIP) has been referred to as "the first attempt to give social direction to the drug movement." The "founders" of YIP included: Jerry Clyde RUBIN, organizer and leader of numerous demonstrations opposing U.S. activities in Vietnam; Abbot Howard (Abbie) HOFFMAN, hippie leader at the 1967 Pentagon demonstration; Paul J. KRASSNER, editor of The Realist; Edward SANDERS, leader of "The Fugs," a rock group; Keith R. LAMPE; and, possibly, Stewart Edward ALBERT, active opponent of the Vietnam war.

2. The first published announcement of the formation of YIP appeared in a "throwaway" on a Liberation News Service letterhead as a 16 January 1968 press release datelined New York City, with HOFFMAN, RUBIN, KRASSNER, and SANDERS listed as founders. What the founders had in common was the use of LSD, other mind-expanding drugs, and marijuana. They considered themselves

APPROVED FOR RELEASE

Date 21 MAY 1976

"revolutionary artists" devoted to the "politics of ecstasy." RUBIN has described their politics as "wild in the streets." Both RUBIN and HOFFMAN glory in violent encounter with authority.

3. The YIP has no leaders, no elected officers, no formal structure, no members. It is not a real organization, but has been functioning as a sort of New Left coordinating group, utilizing the extensive underground press network to broadcast "its gospel of protest and ridicule of the establishment," RUBIN, HOFFMAN, and KRASSNER have been described as "non-leaders" who have given "credence" to YIP myths by "their prestige in the news media."

4. In early March 1968, an undated YIP announcement of "an international youth festival" in Chicago during the Democratic National Convention in August was distributed. In this, the YIP was referred to as "a new coalition of forces." The announcement urged the public to participate. At a news conference in Chicago on 25 March, spokesman for the New Left and anti-war groups announced a coalition to cooperate with the YIP on the August "love-in" in Chicago. Allen GINSBURG and Dr. Timothy LEARY had attended the weekend planning conference preceding this announcement as "YIP observers." The YIP then wrote Mayor Daley of Chicago requesting facilities in the parks for "thousands" of young Americans who would be coming to Chicago in August. RUBIN announced on 19 March YIP plans for offices in Chicago, Los Angeles, and San Francisco. At a May YIP meeting, HOFFMAN announced there was no YIP movement in Chicago and that the Blackstone Rangers had no interest in YIP plans.

5. On 14 April the YIP held a music festival in Central Park, New York City. On 29 April LAMPE stated at a press conference that the YIP could call up 700 people in a half hour to prevent police from removing striking students from Columbia University. On the evening of 24 May, some 100 hippies led by RUBIN and HOFFMAN harassed police in St. Marks Square.

6. Planning for the Chicago Confrontation continued during June and July. HOFFMAN was the main speaker at a 5 August meeting of Veterans and Reservists against the war in Vietnam. He said that about 1,000 would be "trained" and that the day when the Democratic candidate was nominated would be the "big day." He further stated that the YIP would be dissolved after the Convention as it had been conceived solely for the purpose of countering the Convention. On 10 July a YIP survival manual prepared by HOFFMAN was published in New York in 10,000 copies. The $1,000 for this project came from the Urban Task Force through the Judson Memorial Church.

7. A number of YIPPIES were arrested in connection with the disturbances in Chicago during the Democratic National Convention. HOFFMAN and RUBIN were indicted by the Federal Grand Jury in Chicago. Trial is scheduled in October 1969. RUBIN described Chicago as "a high speed, high intensity course in street insurrection."

8. After the Convention, RUBIN and HOFFMAN announced that the YIP would hold another "Festival of Life" in Washington on inauguration day, 20 January 1969.

A group of YIPPIES participated in counter-inaugural activities, including the smashing of windows in stores, churches, banks, and other buildings, but they failed in their efforts to break up the inaugural parade.

9. On 13 February 1969, the YIP handled the mailing of several thousand Valentine greetings containing marijuana cigarettes.

10. The relationship between the YIP and Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) apparently has never been overly friendly. YIP leader HOFFMAN, in the 3 April 1969 issue of "The East Village Other" charged the SDS national office with failure to support the YIP and asserted his own agreement with charges by Black Panther Julius LESTER that the SDS was racist. HOFFMAN asserted that the SDS claimed to be the "vanguard of the white revolution," but had no national officers in trouble with the U.S. Government. He further stated that the SDS goal was similar to that of Castro's Cuba, i.e., everything free. HOFFMAN concluded his article by commenting that his "attack" on SDS was undertaken with the hope of ironing out differences between the YIP and SDS.

11. As of July 1969, the YIP had virtually ceased to exist as a functioning organization.

MEMORANDUM FOR: [REDACTED]

ATTENTION: [REDACTED]

SUBJECT: Martin Luther KING, Jr.

REFERENCE: See Attached

1. Dr. Martin Luther KING was assassinated (4 April 1968) prior to the implementation of the MCHCAOS program (4 July 1968). However, a review of other material available in [REDACTED] shows that one dissemination was made to the FBI on a possible activity of KING while in Rome, Italy, in September 1964 (copies attached for your convt [REDACTED]).

2. We have no indication of any Agency surveillance or letter intercept which involved KING. Further, there is no indication that the Agency ever requested any of its representatives abroad to report on KING or to be alert to any of his activities.

3. While there is a large number of documents available which mention KING, the vast majority are dated after his death and are in some way related to world reaction to his assassination.

[REDACTED]
Chief, Special Activities Division

OPERATION RESISTANCE1. ORGANIZATION

1. A Special Unit shall be organized within the Special Activities Division to assure maximum support to Operation RESISTANCE.

2. [REDACTED] shall be assigned to this Unit by elements of the Office of Security to provide expert review and analysis of materials concerning the following general areas functioning in the D.C. and other areas:

(a) Black Power, Maoist and Trotskyite and left-deviationist organizations and personalities

(b) Communist Party, USA, and Communist-front organizations and personalities; popular front or united front movements strongly infiltrated or dominated by the CPUSA

(c) The New Left, pacifist and extremist organizations not included in (a) and (b), above.

3. The aforementioned categories shall be flexible and subject to change or amendment as determined by the Chiefs, SRS and DDS/ICS.

4. SR & CD shall provide [REDACTED] to assure proper integration of acquired research materials and full exploitation of SR&CD holdings.

5. Additional [REDACTED] shall be assigned as required by the Director of Security.

II. MISSION

1. The Special Unit shall serve as an internal review, analysis and target unit to provide the Chief, Security Research Staff with such adequate and timely information as is deemed necessary to protect the physical integrity of the Agency, its domestic installations and its domestic activities in order that he may provide the Director of Security current reports.

2. The Special Unit shall consist of experienced security officers qualified to review and analyze on a continuing basis information from local and federal agencies, the media and other sources; to provide concise summaries of such information on a current basis; and to prepare estimates of potential threats to Agency installations and domestic activities in support of Operation MERRIMACK.

III. OPERATIONS

Input - Input for the Special Unit shall consist of reports and materials on domestic movements and personalities offering a potential for disrupting the domestic activities of the Agency and threatening the physical integrity of its domestic installations. Such source materials should include, but not be limited to, reports of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Department of Defense and its subordinate commands, appropriate federal agencies, local and state police authorities, media and special sources.

Processing - It shall be the responsibility of the Special Unit to collect, review and analyze the input materials concerning the target activities and personalities; to schedule and receive additional requirements in the absence of sufficient information in desired areas; to develop an adequate data base for continuing exploitation.

Output - The Special Unit will prepare current and adequate reports and analysis of input materials for the use of the Chief, Security Research Staff in order to provide the Director of Security, the Deputy Directorates and Staffs current estimates of potential threats to the domestic activities and physical integrity of the Agency; will insure prompt integration of input data into Security indices and records.

There will be three categories of reports:

Until further notice, field offices will monitor collegiate, New Left and "underground press" coverage of college and university campuses in their jurisdiction. Information pertaining to militants and activists, their identities and organizational affiliations, their leaflets and propaganda materials, etc., will be forwarded to Headquarters on a regular basis no less than once weekly. Particularly desired are indications of the effectiveness of the militants and their ability to mobilize students of only passive or curiosity-seeking interests. Headquarters is interested in all areas of student militant dissent, both local "causes" and those related ~~to~~ to national and international problems.

It Although you should conduct no campus interviews on the matter at this time, a requirement for such interviews of confidential sources may be anticipated and the collection effort above should be utilized to gain intimate familiarity with the names of persons, organizations involved, and the effectiveness of the activities for use by the investigator in ~~conducting~~ ~~the~~ conducting the anticipated interviews.

as a preliminary.

Identification: Project Resistance. Securing clippings of campus newspapers and other press media pertaining to campus protests and demonstrations. December 1967 - 28 June 1973.

Background: This project was originated in an effort to identify any threat against Agency personnel, installations, or projects and to determine if there were any foreign sponsorship, encouragement, or training involved.

Approval: Project was approved on 7 December 1967 by the Deputy Director for Support. The file does not reflect any coordination with official organizations outside the Agency.

Responsibility: The Office of Security had responsibility for carrying out the operation. The project was originated by the Deputy Director for Support. Clippings were to be submitted by each Field Office to an officer in Security Research Staff.

The Operation: As indicated above, the operation consisted of securing clippings of campus newspapers and other press media pertaining to campus protests and demonstrations. Where possible, clippings were to be submitted mounted on letter-size paper. Such clippings were collected by all the domestic Field Offices. On 8 January 1971, in a memorandum to all Field Offices, the following guidelines were established:

a. No attempt should be made to recruit new informants or sources, such as campus or police officials, for the express purpose of obtaining information regarding dissident groups, individuals, or activities.

b. No new request for such information should be levied on existing informants or sources. This memorandum also stated that the above limitations do not preclude acceptance of information gratuitously offered by informants or sources, and field personnel should continue to be on the alert for non-solicited information which might contribute to the protection of Agency personnel, projects, and installations.

Cover: Cover was, of course, not pertinent to the clipping of newspapers or other press media.

Results: Apparently, voluminous information was obtained in an attempt to identify any threat against Agency personnel, installations, or projects. The file does not reflect whether or not any such threat was surfaced. The project was terminated when it was deemed that the threat to the Agency had diminished considerably.

Termination: The project was terminated on 28 June 1973. However, the file does not reflect who ordered its termination. This operation did not require the preparation of financial accountings of time and costs although one report of investigators' hours spent on the project during the period October 1969 to March 1970 was submitted.

Those Witting: The file does not reveal any information concerning this matter other than those engaged in the operation and witting in the chain of command. The files are located in the Security Support Division.

Comments: The file reflects that the Deputy Director for Support was concerned because student demonstrations began to show a sense of organization, central direction, commonality of demonstrations and techniques, and common or repeated phrasology in literature and materials. In essence: organization. Student demonstrators produced bullhorns, marshalls, platoon leaders, mobile segments, etc.

Att.

Identification: Project Merrimac. Providing timely advance notice of impending demonstrations in the Washington, D. C., area.

Background: At the time, it was believed that in order to protect our assets and installations on a long-range basis, we needed to develop advance notice of impending demonstrations in the Washington, D. C., area.

Approval: The file contains an undated memorandum from the Deputy Director of Security (IOS) to the Director of Security requesting $2,000 to defray expenses of Project Merrimac for a period of approximately 45 days. Although the approved line was not signed by Mr. Howard J. Osborn, a date of 7 April 1967 was inserted. The file does not reflect any coordination with official organizations outside the Agency; it does indicate that at least some of the reports resulting from the operation were passed to the Fairfax Police, Washington, D. C., Police, FBI, and the Secret Service.

Responsibility: The Office of Security had the responsibility for carrying out the operation. The actual operation was conducted by [REDACTED]

The Operation: The operation commenced during February 1967 and last reports, in the file, resulting from the operation are dated December 1968. The operation involved using a small number (ten as of October 1967) of multi-racial covert assets of [REDACTED] to monitor various protest groups in the Washington, D. C., area which were considered to be potential sources of demonstrations against the Agency. This monitoring had as its purpose the gathering of information relating only to demonstrations, pickets, protests or marches which might pose a danger to CIA assets and installations. Monitoring was accomplished by infiltrating the organizations, attending their meetings (walk-ins), mixing with their street demonstrators, and taking pictures. The following organizations were so covered during the period February 1967 to December 1968:

- Washington Peace Center
- Women's Strike for Peace
- Students Non-Violent Coordinating Committee
- Congress of Racial Equality
- Washington Ethical Society
- Spring Mobilization Committee
- National Mobilizations Committee
- CBW Mid-Atlantic Committee on Ft. Detrich
- Black United Front
- Resurrection City
- Malcolm X Day Meeting of 19 May 1968

Cover: No cover was used in the actual implementation of the operation. However, the operation was run by the Office of Security.

Results: The operation resulted in a series of reports concerning the activities of the organizations listed above. Generally, these reports listed the people involved and summarized the remarks/speeches of the membership. The reports were prepared in blind memorandum form and routed through Chief, Special Activities Division, OS; Deputy Director of Security (IOS); and the Deputy Director and Director of Security. Selected reports were passed to the Fairfax Police Department, D. C. Police Department, FBI, and Secret Service.

Termination: The files do not indicate any reports after December 1968. The files do not contain any formal notification of termination.

Those Witting: Outside of those involved or witting in the chain of command and directly involved, the files do not reflect who else knew of the operation.

Files: The files are maintained in the office of the Deputy Director of Security (PSI).

Comments: In view of the violent nature of the demonstrators, their organizational capability, and the fact that the Agency was identified with the Viet Nam effort, it was apparently felt that in order to protect our installations and other assets it would be prudent to become aware of the intentions of certain organizations so that necessary precautions could be taken. The file indicates that no attempts were to be taken, nor in fact were taken, to influence the decisions or activities of the protesters.

On 28 November, [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] was interviewed after arrangements of [REDACTED] Chief of the Operational Support Desk and [REDACTED] of Security Research Staff. [REDACTED] was advised that he was attempting, at the direction of the DCI to find out if there were any offices in the Agency that might have any assets in the pacifist movements that could possibly be developed and utilized on an operational mission into [REDACTED].

[REDACTED] was taken into their confidence and advised that we had low key informants in some of the pacifist groups, particularly Women's Strike for Peace. [REDACTED] expressed a deep interest in our statement and requested that we obtain permission to further discuss the possibilities of our assets with him. He also advised that the Director of Security would be briefed on his interest with the understanding that the Director of Security would not want any operational interest or requirements interjected that would abolish his source of information currently existing regarding possible threats to the security of this Agency, its personnel or installations. [REDACTED] was reminded of the extreme sensitivity of this matter and the Office of Security activities with the pacifist groups, and he was requested not to discuss this with anyone or make it a matter of record until the Director of Security had taken the matter into consideration.

A Confidential Source reports that Dagmar Wilson left for New York on 5 August 1967 and will be working at the WSP headquarters in New York until leaving New York for Hanoi on 25 August 1967. Wilson reportedly hopes to keep this from the press to avoid possible adverse publicity and the possibility of being kept from leaving. ~~Another~~ another prominent member of WSP, reportedly is the only person having Wilson's telephone number in New York. Source reports the WSP office in New York as 799 Broadway. (It is to be noted that 797-799 Broadway is the listed address of Freedomways Associates, a CP publication, and the office of ~~another prominent member of WSP~~ writer for the Worker.)

WOMEN'S STRIKE FOR PEACE

5:05 p.m.: [REDACTED] alerted to the fact that the above organization would possibly march on the Headquarters complex. [REDACTED] asked to ascertain their intentions.

5:20 p.m.: Chief, [REDACTED] advised of the above and asked to take appropriate action.

5:45 p.m.: Chief, [REDACTED] advised that his confidential sources were unaware of any proposed march or demonstration at the Headquarters complex. These sources included NBC-TV and local police authorities.

He advised that the local chairman for the Women's Strike for Peace was a Mrs. Dagmar Wilson of [REDACTED] whose home telephone number is [REDACTED]. The telephone number of the local chapter of Women's Strike for Peace is 232-0803.

He advised that his information as of this time was that the majority of the demonstrators had already left the D.C. area for New York and Philadelphia. Those remaining were apparently "out on the town".

8:45 p.m.: Chief, [REDACTED] advised that as of this time he had learned nothing further concerning any additional demonstrations scheduled for tomorrow.

9:05 p.m.: Chief, [REDACTED] advised that conversations with Mrs. Dagmar Wilson developed the information that her organization planned no demonstrations in the immediate future. She advised that the demonstration at the Pentagon resulted in having a petition delivered to a representative of the Secretary of Defense, which was why the demonstration was organized. They, therefore, achieved their aim.

MEMORANDUM FOR: [REDACTED]

SUBJECT

: Project MERRIMACK

1. Your office is directed to place assets in suitable organizations in the Washington, D.C. area in order to obtain information concerning any intended demonstrations directed against any of our properties.

2. It is felt that some of your cadre of personnel will be suitable for use on this project. It has come to our attention that the Washington Peace Center, 2111 Florida Avenue, N.W. might be an appropriate starting place and is reportedly an information and co-ordinating location for many local "protest" groups.

3. It has been suggested that the most useful type of agent would be one who shows interest in the objectives of the groups and is willing to participate in demonstrations and distribution of pamphlets, etc.

4. Expenses incurred in this endeavor should be charged against Project MERRIMACK; support hours spent on this project should be maintained and reported separately on your monthly report.

TO: CHIEF, SPECIAL ACTIVITIES DIVISION
FROM: CHIEF, MHBOUND/Arlington
SUBJECT: MERRIMACK
(Washington Peace Center)

In compliance with Subject memo dated 24 February 1967, the enclosed reports are submitted concerning a Quaker group, "Friends", that met at WPC on 26 February 1967.

This group demonstrated strictly religious motivations during this gathering and [REDACTED] heard nothing of a political or militant nature; nor did he see any indication that other organizations or groups were meeting at the WPC.

[REDACTED] has been directed to spot check the WPC and any time he sees the gates unlocked or open, to go in and determine who and what is taking place. Should he find there are other groups than "Friends" meeting there, a course of action will be planned to penetrate the group.

Request advice as to whether further action should be taken in regards to "Friends".

MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director of Security
(Investigations & Operational Support)

SUBJECT : Project MERRIMACK

1. The following observations and proposals are submitted in response to your request for ways and means to monitor local peace or protest groups to obtain advance knowledge of marches or demonstrations on Agency property, or any other actions which may be directed at the Agency:

a. It is recognized that any project dealing with civil rights and student groups will be extremely sensitive, and that any implication that direction and control of an organization will be interfered with in any way must be avoided. With this in mind, we are exploring the possibility of gaining access to local "peace" groups and, if possible, the more militant groups such as SNCC and CORE, for the purpose of developing a "monitoring" capability relating only to demonstrations, pickets, protests, or marches.

b. [REDACTED] has a reserve cadre of multi-racial personnel, including construction workers, cab drivers, janitors, professional people, etc., both male and female, who can be activated and covertly used on this project. [REDACTED] [REDACTED] All are highly motivated. The Chief, [REDACTED] has been instructed to screen these individuals, select and activate the appropriate candidates, and formulate operational plans and requirements for the project. It is planned to pay the participants [REDACTED] per hour when actually employed.
[REDACTED]

plus transportation and incidental expenses. It is estimated that an initial fund of ~~XXXXX~~ could be used to activate and maintain this project for approximately 45 days. It is requested that these funds be made available at the earliest practicable date.

c. It is believed that the Washington Peace Center, 2111 Florida Avenue, N.W., will be an appropriate starting place in gaining access to procure knowledge of these groups and their activities. This "peace center" is reportedly an information and co-ordinating center for many of the local "protest" groups ~~XXXXX~~. They publish a newsletter listing various speeches, rallies, marches, protests and other activities; they apparently raise funds for such activities and also distribute miscellaneous related literature, all of which are potential sources of the required information. It is believed that an entree can be gained to other target groups through this apparatus.

d. There are four basic categories of "penetrators" to be considered for this effort:

Due to the immediate need of this service, it appears that ~~_____~~ initially will be the best-suited and most productive for our purposes. The possibility exists that the other types can be utilized as they are needed and/or available.

e. Reportedly, some groups may conduct a background inquiry on prospective members to establish their bona fides. This possibility must be considered in the selection, briefing and backstopping of the candidates. It is also noted that the FBI and other Federal and local Agencies may have their own agents or sources in these groups. Consideration will be given as we develop our assets as to whether or not co-ordination with other Agencies is necessary or desirable.

Coordinated with FBI

2. It is planned to identify this project as MERRIMACK. Preliminary steps have been taken by the Chief, ~~_____~~ to activate the project as outlined above. A comprehensive operational plan will be submitted for your final approval.

SUBJECT: Project MERRIMACK

1. This memorandum submits a recommendation for your approval; such recommendation is contained in paragraph 3.

2. Attached is a general plan to implement a monitoring capability of various groups in the Washington area considered to be potential sources of demonstrations against the Agency. For your information the basic elements of this plan have been activated in light of recent events. Reports, as a result of this activity, are provided on a timely basis to the Chief, SRS.

3. In accordance with our previous conversations it is requested that ~~the~~ be made available from Office of Security funds to defray the necessary expenses for a period of approximately 45 days.

SUBJECT : Project MERRIMACK

1. In accordance with directions received on 6 April 1967 to proceed with Project MERRIMACK, assets were alerted to determine the intentions of certain organizations during the period 7 April through 15 April 1967.
2. Coverage was afforded to these organizations: Women's Strike for Peace (W.S.P.), Washington Peace Center, Students Non-Violent Coordinating Committee and CORE. In addition, coverage was afforded to the established organizing and deployment centers at Dupont Circle, St. Stephen's Church (located at 25th and Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W.), and the "Strip" in Georgetown.
3. Assets reported no indication of any organized demonstrations over the week-end. W.S.P. reportedly will demonstrate at the White House and at Dulles Airport on 10 April 1967 at 10:00 a.m. coinciding with Vice-President Hubert Humphrey's return from Europe.
4. Indications are that militant groups in this area will demonstrate locally on 15 April in conjunction with the demonstration planned in New York.
5. Continuing coverage is to be afforded the organizations indicated in paragraph 2. Your office will be appraised of any developments on a daily basis prior to 9:00 a.m.

SUBJECT: PROJECT MERRIMACK

1. On 7 April 1967, [REDACTED] informed me they already had assets who had made contact with SNCC, Women Strike for Peace, Washington Peace Center and at St. Stephen's Church, 16th and Newton Streets, N. W., designated as the local coordinating center for the "Spring Mobilization."

2. On 10 April (0900 hours), [REDACTED] advised that weekend activity was relatively quiet. He stated that MERRIMACK assets reported hearing that next Saturday (15 April) will be a day or maybe "the day" of demonstration in D. C. The focal points of activity over the past weekend were reported to be the Washington Peace Center, the Georgetown Strip, DuPont Circle, and the coordinating center (St. Stephen's Church). [REDACTED] stated that coverage will continue throughout the week.

3. On 10 April (0930 hours), [REDACTED] reported that a MERRIMACK asset reported that WSP would demonstrate before the White House between 10 and 10:30 a.m. in conjunction with Vice President Humphries return to the capitol city.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

SUBJECT: PROJECT MERRIMACK

The following is a general summary of SRS "direction and requirements" provided pursuant to request for same in DDS (IOS) memo dated 6 April 1967 relative to Subject PROJECT.

a. Concur in "observations and proposals" in memo dtd 2 March by Chief, SAD.

b. Received FBI go ahead with caveat "they never heard of the matter."

c. Project should be considered in terms of "short" and "long" range requirements; short range (or immediate) requirements covering the period 8-15 April and long range, the next few months.

d. Short range requirements. As indicated in memo dated 2 March (ref. above). In addition to the Washington Peace Center (para. 1c of the 2 March memo), St. Stephens Church, 16th and Newton Streets, N.W., designated as the local center for the Spring Mobilization Committee was suggested as a principal penetration target. Assign 6-12 assets.

e. Telephone [REDACTED] (located with Security Duty Officers) was designated for use by assets to communicate warning of immediate demonstration at an Agency installation. Instructions regarding use, both to Agency assets and to SDOs are attached. It was emphasized that this communication channel was to be used in an "immediate threat" type situation only--Normal [REDACTED] channels otherwise to be used.

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

f. Long range requirements. Involvement with the short range requirement should provide considerable information to enable development of the long range aspect of the PROJECT. Objective of the long range aspect should be to place one or more assets who will "cooperate" with local protest groups on a continuing basis. It is assumed that FBI concurrence may not extend to our long-range requirement.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Chief, Security Research Staff

SUBJECT : Project MERRIMACK

1. Reference is made to previous discussions and memorandums regarding the above subject.

2. On 10 April 1967 one of our assets attended a CORE meeting during the evening. This was a mass rally of citizens meeting at the new Bethel Church, 8th and S Streets, N.W., concerning equal justice. This meeting was presided over by the Reverend EATON of the Bethel Church. Prior to the start of the meeting, Julius HOBSON asked that all policemen and men from the CIA please leave. Four people stood up and three left. One identified himself as a policeman from the 6th precinct and, being a citizen, felt that he had a right to remain, but was ordered to leave. Reverend FLAUNTAROV read from the Scripture. Mr. NEAL, Chairman of the Black Arts Society, was introduced. The entire discussion centered around Raymond BARRY and police brutality. [REDACTED] was specifically pointed out as one of the worst kind and a decision was made to place [REDACTED] under surveillance for a week beginning Monday, 17 April. Following the mass meeting, CORE committee groups formed (which our agent was not privileged to) to discuss what further steps were going to be taken.

3. At 10:00 p.m. on 11 April 1967 one of our assets attended a meeting at St. Stephen's Church, 16th and Newton Street, N.W., which was attended by representatives of various civil rights groups including CORE, SNCC, etc. This meeting was held to plan a trip to New York City on 15 April. The plan is for a 20-carriage train to depart Washington, D.C., Union Station, at 6:50 a.m., 15 April and will leave New York City at 6:00 p.m. to return to Washington, D.C. The demonstrations in New York are planned for the United Nations building to protest the war in Vietnam. The meeting was attended by about 75 people, 25 of which were Negro. The chairman of the meeting was identified as [REDACTED], a Negro. A student from the University of Maryland announced that a meeting is to be held on 13 April at 11:00 a.m. to discuss a teach-in.

SUBJECT Project MERRIMACK		FILE NUMBER 504 991
1. On 20 April 1967 [REDACTED] met with [REDACTED] to discuss the coverage afforded subject between the period 8 to 15 April 1967. [REDACTED] advised that this project had provided timely reporting on the intentions of various extremist groups and had proved to be a very useful exercise. 2. It was stressed by the Chief, SRS, that the primary purpose of the project is to provide advance notice of impending demonstrations in order to protect the Agency Buildings. It was realized that from this project sensitive information will be learned which will be useful to other Government Agencies. Because of this, a sterilized version of Project MERRIMACK reports will continue to be provided to the FBI with our sources being protected. 3. It was agreed that the Project should be continued on a long range basis. [REDACTED] felt that certain indicator organizations should be monitored rather than trying to cover all the extremist groups. These organizations are: Women Strike for Peace, Washington Peace Center and the Students Nonviolence Coordinating Committee. According to [REDACTED] SNCC is the most critical organization since it possesses the greatest potential for violence and has openly indicated it is a revolutionary group and has named the Agency as a potential target. 4. [REDACTED] indicated that steps would be taken to have these three organizations monitored and reports issued on their activities on a weekly or semi-monthly basis. Of course, any critical information will be relayed at once.

SUBJECT: Demonstrations in Washington, D.C.
7 - 8 May 1967

1. The FBI has advised that the "Vietnam Draft Hearings Committee", 307 Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn, New York, has issued a flyer stating it intends to demonstrate in Washington, D.C. on May 7 and 8 during Congressional hearings on the Selective Service Act. The address listed by the group is the address of Rick Rhoades, an official of the Peking-line Progressive Labor Party.

2. The Washington Ad Hoc Vietnam Draft Hearings Committee, Greenbelt, Maryland, a recently formed group, also has indicated it will hold demonstrations for the same reason on the indicated days. The group plans on having 1,000 to 3,000 persons participating in rallies and workshops in Lafayette Park on the 7th and a march on the Capitol on the 8th. They also plan to picket the White House on the afternoon of the 8th. (This, of course, is the week before Dave Delinger-now in Stockholm for the "war crimes tribunal"-plans his march on D.C.)

2. This will confirm that on April 26, 1967 you were instructed to continue periodic monitoring of the following indicator organizations which are of interest to the Parent Organization: Women Strike for Peace, Washington Peace Center and Students Non-Violence Coordinating Committee.

3. It was emphasized that the primary objective of the coverage of these aforementioned organizations was to provide a timely advance warning of impending demonstrations directed against any PO installations on a long-range basis. It was further indicated that SNCC is the most critical organization since it possesses the greatest potential for violence and has openly reflected that it is a revolutionary group and has named the PO as a potential target.

4. In order to service the aforementioned very sensitive operational requirement, the following agent assets were initially earmarked for this operational activity: [REDACTED] WSP, [REDACTED] SNCC, [REDACTED] WPC.

5. With regard to the funding arrangements for this operation, you were asked to submit it to the PO, for approval, a financial plan which include the future payment of the agents coupled with the estimated costs (salaries, etc.) while they (the agents) were away at their assigned site.

6. Your earliest attention to paragraph five is appreciated.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Chief, Security Research Staff

SUBJECT : Project MERRIMACK

1. Reference is made to previous correspondence relative to the above captioned subject. Since this office's memorandum dated 6 June 1967, periodic covert monitoring of the following indicator organizations has been in effect:

WSP

2. As verbally reflected periodically to ~~the above captioned subject~~ of your staff, there has been no indicators to date of any possible demonstrations and/or activities directed towards the Agency or any of its local installations. Significantly, these aforementioned organizations have been very quiet during the past month. With regard to WSP, ~~an active member of this organization~~ attributes the lack of meetings to the fact that many of the members are away for the summer months.

3. It has been covertly developed that Thelma DuVinage of WSP fame, has been very actively engaged with a group of Northern Virginians recently organized as the "Virginia Citizens for Peace in Vietnam." This group reportedly has tentatively scheduled an open meeting for an undetermined date in July. Attached as Exhibit A is an article dated 6 June 1967 extracted from the Northern Virginia Sun pertaining to the aforecited "Virginia Citizens for Peace in Vietnam."

4. Your attention is invited to the noteworthy comments regarding C.I.A. employees reflected in the attached Exhibit B entitled The Mourning Dove, dated 23 June 1967.

5. Our asset in the WSP has been advised that the Spring Mobilization to End the War in Vietnam, which took place in New York City and San Francisco on 15 April 1967, was a successful anti-war rally. The Washington area was represented by 5,000 people - 1100 went to New York on the Peace and Liberation Train and 200 went on the buses. 450 people who were not able to pay their own travel expenses went to New York and are still in contact with the Washington Mobilization.

6. Forwarded herewith for your additional information are pamphlets and other miscellaneous literature which were discreetly obtained from the indicator organizations.

7. These cited organizations will continue to be monitored on an ad hoc basis and any noteworthy or pertinent information which is developed will be made available to you on a timely basis.

As you are aware, during the period 26 through 30 July 1967, ~~assets~~ assets were directed toward possible civil disturbances emanating as a result of SNCC leader H. Per instructions from the Director of Security, the results of the ~~covert coverage~~ covert coverage were transmitted directly to the security officer on a timely basis. 3. It should be further noted that [redacted] of your Staff has been briefed periodically regarding the indicator organizations and there has been, thus far to the best of our assets knowledge, no covert indicators of any possible demonstrations and/or activities directed toward the Agency or any of its local installations.

4. On 18 July 1967, one of [redacted] assets attended a peace rally on the southwest grounds of the Washington Monument. The rally was in support of Minister Mohammed Ali aka Cassius Clay, the former heavyweight champion. According to our source, the rally was orderly and Mr. Herb Kelsey, the Director of the Washington Mobilization to End the War in Vietnam, was in charge of the meeting, introducing the speakers and making various remarks after each speaker had delivered his or her message. He read a message from Cassius Clay to the crowd of approximately 275 to 300 people, thanking, in substance, the people for their support and informing them that he was unable to attend the rally due to previous commitments in Chicago. Detailed below are brief, pertinent comments of the various speakers at the rally which have been related by our [redacted] source.

Michael LEARLES - Community Organizer, Washington, D.C.

Learles stated that Minister Mohammed Ali had set an example by refusing to enter the Army and that we must follow and resist at all cost.

Dagmar WILSON - Founder of Women Strike for Peace

"He is one of the great heroes of our time. The action that Minister Mohammed Ali has taken may turn the course of history. He deserves two Nobel Prizes. He is an example for all of us to follow."

Ray ROBINSON, Jr. - Community Organizer, Washington, D.C.

Ray Robinson is a former fighter and at present is head of Soul Sessions, Incorporated. He stated that the slow pace of negro progress has discredited nonviolence and peaceful protest. "We ain't marching and sitting down in the road anymore, this ain't getting us anywhere. We have to get to the people and talk to them."

Get out and knock on doors and talk to the people. I was in the Navy but I resigned, if you know what I mean. I fought a lot of bouts overseas, in Germany and everywhere, white guys, all kinds, but you know one thing, they wouldn't let me fight a white fellow down in Mississippi. Funny thing ain't it? Mohammed Ali is an example for all black people to follow. I say to the draft, I won't go, hell no I won't go."

Reginald BOOKER - (Not listed on program)

Introduced by Herb Kelsey as head of a newly formed group in the Anacostia area known as "Niggers Inc." Booker urged negro women to have as many children as possible since "so many good black men were being killed in Vietnam." Have as many as you can in any way that you can."

Marrison BARRY - Head SNCC (Not on Program)

Supported the previous speaker very strongly for negro women to have more children. "We must give our full support to Mohammed Ali. I won't go, hell no I won't go." He asked the negro men, "How many of you out there won't go?" All of the negroes that I saw raised their hands. At this time, Barry said, "Don't raise your hands, stand up so everybody can see you, hell no we won't go."

Robert GREENBLATT - Professor of Mathematics

"I am a former professor of mathematics, that was before I became a drop-out." Greenblatt urged all white college students to drop-out of school so as not to be a part of draft deferments which discriminates against negroes who are too poor to get a higher education. "Take a few courses, but not enough to qualify as a full-time student and be deferred. You have better things to do."

Qmar ABU AHMED - New York East Side CORE

"Support Mohammed Ali, he is a symbol of the black man in this country today. Follow in his footsteps, hell no we won't go. You the black women of this country, you have done a good job, but this is not enough, you have children and have all you can. Don't be taken in by this birth control stuff, this is the white mans' way to control the negro population. We have to be strong, and strength lies in great numbers. Increase the negro population, if we aren't there we can't win."

"The violence in Newark was started by the white power structure in order to prevent a national conference on black power from being held there. This is a power struggle, remember there are black CIA men, FBI men and policemen. We know who killed Malcolm X - it was the CIA, we know this."

"There will be a nuclear stike one of these days in this country between the white and the black and we are going to win. All these wars, you notice, aren't against the white race. It's the yellow race and here at home the black race. Why didn't they drop the atomic bomb on Hitler? No, they had to do it against the Japanese people. The Chinese people haven't done anything to us, but all you hear is the Chinese Reds."

"I have visited Newark, Philadelphia and Washington. I am on my way to see Adam (Adam Clayton Powell) and I will give him a full report. He is another victim of the white man's laws. Black power will prevail."

6. Additional information developed reveals that [REDACTED] of WSP continues to be very actively engaged with the group of Northern Virginians recently organized as the "Virginia's Citizens for Peace in Vietnam." Our source at WSP has been told that [REDACTED] is a "heavy" contributor to the WSP.

7. The aforementioned organizations will continue to be periodically monitored and any significant information which is ascertained will be brought to your attention immediately.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director of Security (IOS)

SUBJECT : Request for Increase of ~~Special Activities Fund~~
~~Special Activities Fund~~ Revolving Fund to Support Operations
MERRIMACK ~~Special Activities Fund~~

1. Recent events have proven to us the value of quick access to the numerous activities and plans of the various extremist groups in the Washington area.
2. Our few assets used in operation MERRIMACK (4) were primarily recruited and being developed for another operational activity known as ~~Special Activities Fund~~.
3. The experience gained from operation MERRIMACK thus far dictates the need for further development, training and planning. We have been advised that there is extreme interest and appreciation for the collateral information obtained and passed to appropriate Agency and U. S. Government interest.
4. The recent activities created great concern as to the possibility of serious riots and destruction in the Washington area, some of which could have been a definite threat to certain CIA installations. This naturally led to several official requirements for operation MERRIMACK to cover as many of the demonstrations and activities of the extremist groups as possible for a period of approximately two weeks. All of this began around the 26th of July.
5. The success achieved, the events covered, the reports and brochures sent to Headquarters, was accomplished by ~~Special Activities Fund~~ working all hours of the day and night.

6. True, this was an emergency, however, it meant exposing our ~~assets~~ at almost every incident and thus began to over-expose them to the elements involved.

7. Operation MERRIMACK's mission was established by the Director of Security to:

PROVIDE ADVANCE NOTICE OF IMPENDING DEMONSTRATIONS IN ORDER TO PROTECT CIA ASSETS AND INSTALLATIONS. THAT ALL SENSITIVE COLLATERAL INFORMATION OBTAINED AS A RESULT OF THE ACTIVITY OF THIS OPERATION WOULD BE SUPPLIED TO THE CHIEF, SRS, FOR HIS REFERRAL TO OTHER GOVERNMENT AGENCIES, THE FBI, AND CIA CI INTEREST IN STERILE FORM.

8. I have completed a review of the past activities of MERRIMACK. I have discussed these past activities with the ~~past~~ ~~Chief, SRS, and members of this Division.~~ the Chief, SRS, and members of this Division.

9. We have come to the conclusion that in order to carry out MERRIMACK's mission more effectively and securely, we must develop ~~a new operational plan~~ ~~for operation MERRIMACK.~~

10. These teams will each be given specific targets of their own and will be developed in their own area of social and work environments. Only the ~~new operational plan~~ will be considered to be made witting of U. S. Government interest. In this regard, a new operational plan will be developed which will enable us to utilize this cadre in our plans for operation ~~MERRIMACK.~~

11. It is, therefore, requested that approval be given the Chief, SAD to provide for immediate development of these two new teams.

12. To finance the new teams it will be necessary for the Director of Security to increase the ~~Covert Cash Revolving Fund~~ as soon as possible.

13. The past cost for funding MERRIMACK has been approximately $100,000 per month. It is estimated that the increase in personnel and activities will increase the cost to approximately $120,000 per month, an overall increase of 20% per month.

14. Should the DDS/IOS approve this request, there is attached a memorandum which has been prepared for forwarding to the Director of Security requesting the needed increase of AIRBOUND/1 Covert Cash Revolving Fund and his approval of this plan.

1. Reference is made to this office's memorandum dated 8 August 1967 relative to the above captioned subject. As reflected in Paragraph 2 of this aforementioned memorandum a number of license plates were ascertained during the conduct of several of our covert monitoring sessions during the period 26 - 30 July 1967. Attached is a copy of our investigative report dated 9 August 1967 which sets forth information relative to the subscribers to the license plates in question. Also, on 27 July 1967 records of the Motor Vehicle Department of the State of Ohio were reviewed in Columbus, Ohio and showed that 1967 Ohio License Plate _____ is registered to one _____ Columbus, and was issued on a _____ (no car color indicated).

2. On 27 July 1967 a _____ was contacted and provided the following information from his records:

3. A review of _____ records in the name of _____ showed no record on file.

7. During the period 6 through 8 August 1967, our covert assets very closely surveilled various peace rallies, meetings, etc., staged at Lafayette Park, Sylvan Theatre, DuPont Circle and St. Stephen's Church. The following individuals actively participated in these rallies or meetings:

8. For your additional information, a very discreet special inquiry will be conducted on _____, who, according to our asset, is "very anxious to get a riot started in D.C." As previously reported, _____ attended the "Rap Brown Shindig" on 29 July 1967 at the School for Afro-American Thought, 2208 14th Street, N. W., Washington, D. C. and

9. Attached herewith are publications and other literature which were covertly procured from organizations of interest to you (Exhibit A).

10. Also enclosed is a Dun and Bradstreet report dated 15 August 1967 entitled "Civil Disturbances - Newark, N. J. and Detroit, Mich." which is included as Exhibit B. and may be of interest to you.

11. As in the past these indicator organizations are continuing to be periodically monitored and the results of our efforts conveyed to you on a timely basis.

MEMORANDUM FOR: [REDACTED]

FROM : Director of Operations

SUBJECT : Demonstration Protesting U.S. Intervention in Vietnam

1. According to a very reliable source, the Communist Party and other organizations are continuing their efforts to force the United States to change its present policy toward Vietnam. In order to accomplish this end the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, an organization which includes Communist Party, U.S.A., and the Socialist Workers Party members, is planning a massive demonstration at Washington, D.C. on the weekend of October 21, 1967. The aforementioned committee plans to set up a temporary office in Washington, D.C. in order to prepare for the demonstration.

2. This same source further reports that during the October 21 demonstration in Washington, D.C., attempts will be made to cause disturbances at both the Pentagon and Selective Service Headquarters.

3. Dave Dellinger (per sources report dated August 22, 1967), Chairman of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, stated on August 18, 1967 that the October 21 demonstration will be a protest of the war in Vietnam; will be designed to "obstruct the war machine"; and may involve new techniques of civil disobedience. According to Dellinger, the demonstrators "are prepared to go to jail or pay whatever price necessary to fulfill our objectives." He declined to be more specific concerning the "new techniques" of civil disobedience but stated the goals of the demonstration included: release of "political prisoners" arrested in riots in Negro ghettos; dismissal of the "frame-up charges" against H. Rap Brown; support of draft resisters, including Cassius Clay; and transfer of funds being used in Vietnam to a "massive decentralized program of aid" to America's poor.

4. In the writer's opinion, it is possible that the October affair may include planned demonstrations and/or picketing of the Parent Organization and its local installations. In order to obtain advance knowledge of activities directed at the Parent Organization, you are requested, if possible, to very tactfully and discreetly determine the following through available covert assets:

- a. Location and description of the Committee's temporary office.
- b. Names and biographic data on the individuals primarily responsible for the planning of the demonstration and other related activities.
- c. Source of funds for the demonstration and related activities.
- d. Names, addresses and biographic data on the participants, if available.
- e. Names and addresses of participating organizations.

5. Needless to say, information developed regarding the aforesaid requirements will require a great deal of initiative and attention on your part. In this connection, you can be rest assured that this covert exercise has the approval and the attention of certain high level officials in the Parent Organization.

6. You are requested to keep me or my Deputy currently advised of all developments in this operational matter. If you have any questions in regards to the foregoing, please advise as soon as possible.

SUBJECT : PROJECT MERRIMACK

1. Reference is made to the correspondence previously submitted and contained in the file: PROJECT MERRIMACK. Further reference is made to the memorandum submitted by this Division dated 28 August 1967, relative to the Subject supra and other oral reporting. The substance of the instant memorandum is a compendium of operational efforts during the period 28 August 1967 to the present.

2. As reflected in previous memoranda, intermittent surveillance is being conducted on the various gathering points of the organizations within the operational interest of this office. On several occasions a 1965 white Le Mans Pontiac, bearing State of Florida Registration ~~22-389~~ has been observed in the parking lot of St. Stephen and the Incarnation Church, 16th Street and Newton Avenue, NW, Washington, D.C. Investigation has disclosed that this vehicle is registered to one

4. On 12 September 1967, at approximately 2000 hours, The Spring Mobilization Committee convened. In attendance were approximately 50 people. The officers included [REDACTED] et al. The major topic of discussion at the meeting revolved upon the mass demonstration in protest of the Vietnam conflict which is scheduled for 21 October 1967. During this discussion the objective of the demonstration was announced whereby massive attempts would be made to interfere and disrupt the activities at the Pentagon. A motion was submitted by one [REDACTED] to establish a fund raising committee for bails and bonds levied on those arrested in connection with the proposed demonstration. The figure of $10,000 was fixed as a goal. We are reminded that same [REDACTED] on 11 September, with others, created a scene on the Senate floor by distributing literature.

5. It was determined that one [REDACTED] is an officer of the National Mobilization Committee which is establishing a Washington, D.C. office at 2719 Ontario Road, NW. The same informant reported that the Spring Mobilization Committee recently opened a new headquarters in offices located at 4402 Georgia Avenue, NW, Washington, D.C.

6. For continuity of progress, the readers' attention is directed to the memorandum submitted by this Division dated 15 September 1967.

7. On 14 September 1967, it was reported that [REDACTED] had engaged in a physical altercation with [REDACTED] who opposed the majority in the Washington Mobilization Committee in their intentions to disrupt the activities at the Pentagon during the proposed demonstration on 21 October 1967. Our source also determined that a contact point for [REDACTED] is telephone number [REDACTED]. An investigation is in progress to ascertain the subscriber to the number supra. Surveillance of [REDACTED] on 14 September disclosed that he departed from the meeting with three unidentified colored males and one unidentified colored female in a [REDACTED] automobile. An investigation is in progress to ascertain the holder of this registration, the results of which will be forwarded upon receipt. On 14 September 1967 it was learned that the Spring Mobilization Committee will no longer convene at St. Stephens and Incarnation Church but will meet at [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

8. On 16 September 1967 at approximately 1000 hours, an intermittent surveillance was conducted upon the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee offices located at 1232 U Street, NW, Washington, D.C. Same surveillance disclosed that vehicles bearing State of Delaware Registration [REDACTED] and District of Columbia Registration [REDACTED] were participating in a caravan enroute to Richmond, Virginia for purposes of demonstrating in behalf of H. Rap BROWN's legal entanglements. Investigations have been initiated relative to the above vehicular registrations, the results of which will be provided in the near future.

2. On 19 September 1967, at approximately 2000 hours, there was convened a meeting of the National Mobilization Committee at the Lincoln Temple, 11th and R Streets, NW. In attendance were approximately 100 persons of which 6 were colored. The group was addressed by Jerry RUBIN and he explained details of the demonstration scheduled for 21 October 1967.

3. According to RUBIN, two marches will take place, one will originate at the Washington Monument at about 1100 hours and will proceed to the Pentagon via the 14th Street route. The other will begin at the Reflection Pool near the Lincoln Memorial, and proceed to the Pentagon via the Memorial Bridge route. Both marches are expected to arrive at the South Parking Lot of the Pentagon at approximately 1400 hours. will form and attempt to block all the doorways and corridors at the Pentagon.

5. A committee is being formed for the purpose of conducting research on key personnel at the Pentagon. The information they develop will provide the material for newspaper articles, leaflets, etc. The intent here is to publicize the people allegedly responsible for the war in Vietnam.

6. Another committee is being formed to work with the police authorities. This group, including [REDACTED], [REDACTED], et al., will endeavor to advise the police authorities of what they, the police authorities, can or can not do in connection with the demonstrations. [REDACTED] addressed the body and stated that should anyone require more information on what the law requires, they should confer with one [REDACTED] who is employed by the U.S. Department of Justice. This committee is also headed by [REDACTED] and in addressing the body he stated that following the demonstration the people should automatically lodge complaints with the police departments alleging police brutality. RE: Wilson, Dagmar

For your information the Woman's Strike For Peace Committee met on 21 September 1967 at which was present the Subject supra. During the meeting WILSON received many long distance calls. At one point WILSON was excused from the conference in order to speak with a negro hippie in the hall. During the conversation with the negro, WILSON became angry to the point where she was observed in tears. During this conversation the name of H. Rap ROWN was overheard. She and the negro then retired to an office and closed the door behind them.

It was also reported that on the previous day, at the demonstration at the White House, WILSON lectured on her recent trip to North Vietnam. Members of the audience were overheard expressing dissatisfaction with the WILSON talk of the previous day, and accused WILSON of giving the wrong impression. Attempts are in progress to determine the nature of the alleged discrepancy.

SUBJECT : Operation MERRIMACK

1., The information contained herein was advanced by an informant with previously proven reliability.

2. On 1 November 1967, [REDACTED] attended a meeting at [REDACTED] in connection with the Janet RANKIN Brigade demonstration scheduled for the opening session of Congress in 1968. Representatives from Washington, D.C., New York City and Philadelphia were in attendance. The purpose of the meeting was to decide on whether the WSP would support the RANKIN demonstration. The meeting reportedly was disorganized and no decision has been made as to whether the WSP will support it. [REDACTED] will advise the membership at the next Steering Committee meeting.

3. There are only two salaried employees of the WSP.

[REDACTED]

4. The Soviet Woman's Committee has contacted the WSP and advised that the Soviet delegation will arrive in early December. The Soviets know the WSP is having financial problems and are paying their own traveling expenses; however, they wish to be guests at the homes of WSP members and to be provided transportation. They intend to visit Los Angeles, New York City, Berkeley, California, Washington, D.C. and San Francisco. The Soviet delegation particularly requested arrangements to visit the U.S. Congress while it is in session. Two members of the Soviet delegation will be guests of [REDACTED] while in Washington, D.C. [REDACTED]

5. [REDACTED] has received an invitation from one [REDACTED], an attache of the Soviet Embassy, inviting STEIN to a farewell tea party at the Soviet Embassy on 2 November 1967, at 6:30 PM. [REDACTED] also received an invitation but she is not listed as a member of the WSP.

6. [REDACTED] has a new office address: 3306 Ross Place, NW, Washington, D.C. Last year an organization called "Americans Want to Know" was formed with offices at 1814 Ingle-side Terrace, NW. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] travelled to Cambodia to determine the truth of allegations that Cambodia was providing refuge to the Vietcong. This trip was sponsored by the "Americans Want to Know" group.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD:

SUBJECT: Project Resistance

1. The project described below is designated "Project Resistance"
2. On 7 December 1967, the Director of Security advised the C/SRS and the writer of the desire of the Deputy Director, Support, for a study of the student movement in the United States. The D/OS indicated the DD/S wished to brief the writer on what he desired from the study.
3. The same date, the DD/S briefed the writer on the desired content of the study. He indicated that he has been deluged with clippings and memoranda relating to confrontations with students on university campuses. Each of these has been a one-shot exposure and does not form an over-all picture of what is happening. He indicated he desires a study be made, using a scholarly approach and in the form of an OCI or DD/I type summary, to analyze the "sense of the movement", the "sense of student organizations," with a review of campus developments and a summation of them. He stated that he wished OS to get all the clippings on campus protests, probably using the material assembled by _____ as a research base.
4. Among the matters he desired covered are:
 - +where there has been a confrontation against recruiters, etc.
 - +the number of campuses affected
 - +geographic concentration of disturbances, areas of heavy and of light concentration
 - +identity of the organizations which are participating
 - +a judgement of the activists involved, and the ability of the activists to exert influence on other students to attract them as followers; evaluation of the campus percentage strength of those influenced
5. The DD/S indicated that he had observed a transition taking place in the student protest movement. During the late fall of 1966 and the spring of 1967 he noted the demonstrations to be loosely put together. During the summer he noted no confrontation type activities. Yet in the fall the demonstrations showed a sense of organization, central direction, commonality of demonstrations and techniques, common or repeated phraseology in literature and materials. In essence: organization. The impression, he noted, became most evident in the demonstrations against the Secretary of State, when the student demonstrators produced bull horns, marshals, platoon leaders, mobile segments, etc. He is most concerned about this development.
6. The DD/S indicated that he sees the participants in three categories: the activist protestor; those willing to protest by participating in rallies and picketing who will not become activists; and the large group of those who gather as curiosity seekers who may be influenced or ~~drawn into the movement through~~ _____ psychology.

7. He indicated he wished to know the psychology and commitment of the group, with the causes of protest separated out, such as the Vietnam conflict, the draft, pro-Communist ideology, etc. In essence: the different purposes of the components of the popular protest front. He desires to know the causes of the student unrest and protest which to date appear undefined, the concern about personal and national security and the personal insecurity. He desires a serious study in this area.

8. He wishes to know of the learning experience of the protest groups. He recalled that the New York Times recently included interviews of SDS members in New York City who claimed to have studied and learned from the tactics of the PROVOCS. (The writer noted that the Zengakuren influence has also been reported in the National Guardian.)

9. He stated that he does not want a series of memos of the nature of "John Doe, born such and such a date, affiliated with the blank organization cited as subversive pursuant to EO 10450." He wants the study to be more analytical. He indicated there was no need to concern ourselves with the activities of the U.S. National Student Association prior to the severing of ties with this Agency, but rather with the developments since that time.

10. The DD/S indicated that OS should get together a group, each person of which will work on an area of the problem. He indicated that what he has in mind will take a group to put together. He indicated OS should ask OGI for assistance in getting the material together.

11. The DD/S indicated that he wished to be advised when we can expect to complete the study as soon as we have examined the matter and determined what it will take.

12. The writer briefed the C/SRS and the D/OS on the DD/S' requirements. As a result, the writer's government agency and police liaison have been transferred to the SRS Digest discontinued, pending research on the Vietnam protest movement in support of CI Staff requirements placed in abeyance until the arrival shortly of a new assignee to the staff. Thus the writer can apply full-time to the DD/S request. per the U/OS, will handle the dealings with OGI, will handle the support requirements, he indicated. Additional secretarial assistance will be provided SRS.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Chief, Security Research Staff

SUBJECT: Project Resistance

1. Reference is made to the attached memorandum dealing with the request of the Deputy Director, Support, for a study of the U.S. student movement. The study has been dubbed "Project Resistance" by the writer because of the current trend to move student demonstrations "from protest to resistance."

2. The writer has briefed [redacted] and [redacted] on the requirements and of the need for their part-time participation in conducting the study.

3. Since the Office of Security has no composite asset to exploit for this study, the first requirement is to assemble data for analysis in regard to the requirements. It is recommended that the following be initiated:

a. [redacted] is prepared to notify all field offices to monitor the campus press and send Headquarters copies of all articles related to student unrest, protest and resistance.

b. Requests for appropriate information be levied on OSI/USAF, ONI/USN and ACSI/DA for such material on the subject as they have available. [redacted]

c. A request be made of the FBI for any studies, etc., which they have conducted on the matter in the past. (Previously the FBI has responded to such blanket inquiries with the promise to check their records for names and organizations as we request, but there is always the possibility they may have something.) (Secret Service, checked informally yesterday, indicates it has nothing to contribute.)

d. OCI be requested to provide information relative to the overseas influences, encouragement, training advice and experience offered by these influences, etc.

e. Office of Personnel material suggested by the DD/S as a data base, be consulted and arrangements made with [redacted] to assure OS receives all information channeled into OP.

f. Because of the DD/S' emphasis on the psychological aspects of the problem, Assessment and Evaluation Staff/OMS be requested to provide their observations and comments on the problem.

g. The following internal research be initiated:

- (1) A research card file be established in SRS with sections for individual schools, organizations, personalities, a chronology of protests, and causes of protests. This would serve as the reference base for the final study.
- (2) Existing internal OS files on such youth groups as SDS, YSA, YAW&F, DCA, USNSA, etc., and the cumulative file on Vietnam protests be examined page-by-page and pertinent information extracted on 3x5 cards for inclusion in the research card file, above. This will be a time-consuming task, but should provide much of the information desired. (This will be where much of the man-power will be exerted)
- (3) The "data base" at OP be reviewed page-by-page and extracted on 3x5 cards for inclusion in the research card file. (This will also be an area of significant manpower requirements)
- (4) Incoming material from the field offices, _____ office, etc., be extracted and included in the 3x5 research card file.

4. When sufficient data has been extracted to make security evaluations, and when external requests have been fulfilled, adequate material should be available to meet most of the requirements levied by the DD/S, if not all. (some of the requirements may deal with unmeasurable factors such as percentage of campus enrollment influenced by activists, etc.)

5. With your approval we will proceed following the above research plan. Since we are starting from scratch, additional suggestions and direction will be most helpful.

SUBJECT: DD/S Study Request

In response to our inquiries for material to be used as a research base in responding to the request for a study by the DD/S, [redacted] of the FBI has provided copies of the attached FBI monographs:

The Student New Left -- A Threat to Democratic Law and Order

[redacted] advised that the FBI is currently preparing a much more comprehensive report, an up-date on the Student-New Left theme, which is currently in drafting and expected for publication in about three weeks.

It would appear that the up-coming FBI study might well meet the DD/S' requirement, considering the larger research base available to the FBI for preparation of such a study.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE FILE:

SUBJECT: Project Resistance

1. [redacted] and [redacted] have met to discuss the requirements for assembling materials to be used by the writer in preparing the report requested by the DD/S.

2. Based on the D/OS' suggestions, the division of work responsibility will be as follows:

[redacted] Will levy a requirement on the OCI Watch Office for any information reflecting on foreign support or relationships by, to or with the existing U.S. radical student movement; Will examine the materials held by [redacted] relative to protests against CIA recruiters and extract pertinent information not already included in OS files.

[redacted] Will levy a requirement on the field offices for omnibus type information on campus unrest, causes, etc., not limited to the present requirement for reporting opposition to CIA recruitment and research. Incoming material from this source will be processed by [redacted]

[redacted] Will extract pertinent materials from existing OS files relative to the requirement; will maintain the card file to be established for inputting data from his research and that of Mr. [redacted] and [redacted] will monitor the Communist press, etc. for additional material relative to the requirement. Preparation of final report.

3. The major problem to be surmounted in preparing the data base for the study is the nature of existing records at both CIA and the FBI. The information is indexed by name and organization only, thus limiting recovery to personal memory and those files of an omnibus nature where page by page review and extraction is possible.

4. [redacted] will devote most of his work period to the project. [redacted] and [redacted] will conduct their assignments on a part-time basis due to the essential requirements of their normal assignments.

OPERATION MERRIMACK PLAN (Remainder of FY-1968)

Operation MERRIMACK Background:

In February 1967, Operation MERRIMACK was activated by the Director of Security to provide timely advance notice of impending demonstrations in order to protect CIA assets and installations on a long-range basis. Accordingly, a small number of ~~multi-racial covert assets~~ multi-racial covert assets were directed to monitor various protest groups in the Washington area considered to be potential sources of demonstrations against the Agency. One of these agents has successfully penetrated one of the more active local pacifist organizations. The others have actively participated in the various local demonstrations or marches. The results of these limited monitorings has proven to be a valuable source of information, not only for the Office of Security, but for the Intelligence Community as well as the United States Government. In January 1968, the Director of Security re-established the mission of Operation MERRIMACK and directed that it be further sophisticated and expanded. To expand Operation MERRIMACK to fulfill the information gathering requirements levied upon it are minimal; however, for the expansion of MERRIMACK to be most effective it will be necessary to:

1. Proceed with the re-alignment of the [REDACTED]
2. Assign [REDACTED] to directly supervise and manage the operational requirements and activities.
3. Assignment of [REDACTED] to the Special Activities Division who will be charged with the responsibility for planning and managing the leads for operational requirements, directing the investigative and special inquiry, as well as the review and coordination of the information received from Operation MERRIMACK.

4. Proceed with the recruitment of [REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
5. Obtain the necessary funds herein identified for the remainder of FY-68.

It should be noted that the above requirements were previously brought to your attention in the FY-69 budget presentation to you which was approved by you and the Deputy Director for Support.

It is initially proposed that the MERRIMACK apparatus will be divided into three distinct compartmental teams as follows:

1. Basic Apparatus

One senior Staff Agent assigned to [REDACTED] will assume the responsibilities for the handling of the current MERRIMACK principal agents and casual informants to relieve the [REDACTED] in order that he may more adequately direct his attention toward the management and coordination of [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] should be assigned to the [REDACTED]
[REDACTED] responsible for the same activity as outlined in the paragraph above.

2. Compartmented Activities

MEMORANDUM FOR : Deputy Director for Support
SUBJECT : Student Protest Movement .

1. This memorandum is for information only.
2. At your request this Office has initiated a study of the student protest movement in the United States, its activities and tactics, its ideological base and possible foreign links.
3. I have assigned one man to devote a major portion of his time to compiling the necessary data base by inputting materials from this Office's files, the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the military services. A research-reference file has been established to provide listings of protests by date, location or campus, cause or reason, organizations involved, key personalities, etc. In addition, two men have been assigned on a part time basis to screen and extract materials from the records of Recruitment Division, Office of Personnel, which pertain to protests against CIA recruitment and research, and new materials being collected by our field offices regarding protests against other targets. The OCI Watch Office has agreed to seek information relative to foreign links to the student protest movement and will advise this Office upon completion of its research.
4. The major problem to be surmounted in assembling the data base is the information retrieval system utilized by the FBI and the military services, i. e. indexing by personalities and organizations, not by such a category as "student protests." Although we also utilize this type of system for operational efficiency, we are fortunate to have voluminous omnibus files on the Vietnam protest movement and harassment of Agency recruiters, in addition to our files on many of the organizations and personalities involved.

5. The FBI has advised it shortly will issue a monograph on trends and developments in the student protest movement since the Fall of 1967. The monograph is currently being printed. We have been assured that copies will be distributed to the Director, the DD/P and this Office. Upon receipt of the monograph by this office it will be forwarded to you for your information.

6. I will keep you advised on the progress of the research.

MEMORANDUM FOR: HDQS

#533 989 I SD/1

1. Attached are articles appearing in The Kentucky Kernal from 15 January 1968 to 6 February 1968.

2. Your attention is invited to the articles regarding the demonstration against Central Intelligence Agency recruitment on campus and to the statement, "The Peace Action Group (PAG) will peacefully demonstrate against the CIA when they recruit on campus."

3. The following information is furnished regarding the Peace Action Group (PAG). An individual "drumming up support" for the W.E.B. Dubois Club was on the campus of the University of Kentucky to address the PAG.

4. The University of Kentucky Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) and the PAG are to be sponsors of a War and the Draft program.

5. Another sponsor of the War and the Draft is the Louisville Peace Conference or Council. One of the recent actions of the Louisville Peace Council was to march with Jeannette RANKIN on 16 January 1968. One of the marchers was Mrs. Ann BRADEN, spouse of Carl BRADEN, who refused to answer before a congressional committee if he was a Communist.

6. The Peace Action Group, the Students for a Democratic Society and the Louisville Peace Conference are to bring to the University of Kentucky for speaking Herbert APTHEKAR, Communist, and Joseph MULLOY, a former Appalachian Volunteer worker indicted for sedition in 1967, but who was released by Federal Court, as the state sedition law was not constitutional. Two others indicted were field workers for the Southern Conference Education Fund, successor to the Southern Conference for Human Welfare, Carl BRADEN, Director.

7. The Appalachian Volunteers, MULLOY's employer, is directed by the Southern Mountains Project of Berea, Kentucky, of which BRADEN is a director. The Appalachian Volunteers is an offshoot of the Highlanders Research and Educational Center of Knoxville, Tennessee, directed by Miles HORTON; and a member of this organization's Board of Directors is Carl BRADEN.

8. PAG Chairman is Bill ALLISON, who according to the University of Kentucky Directory 1967-1968 is: William H. ALLISON, Junior, a Junior Law Student whose address is 9909 Third Street Road, Valley Station, Kentucky.

9. Identifying information regarding Don PRATT, Marshall of the protest is contained in the attached clippings and additional information regarding employment and past history was previously furnished under this case number.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Director, Central Intelligence

THROUGH:

SUBJECT:

Proposed Joint Effort of [redacted] and Office of Security in Acquiring Assets in the "Peace" and "Black Power" Movements in the United States

1. This memorandum contains a recommendation for your approval. Such recommendation is contained in paragraph nine.

2. Background: Following several discussions between officers of the Office of Security (OS) and [redacted] of [redacted] it became apparent that OS was particularly well equipped to aid [redacted] in its efforts to penetrate various groups in the United States who are either in communication with representatives of the [redacted] or groups whose members can or do, visit [redacted] or controlled areas of [redacted]. Not only does OS have the necessary support mechanism for operations in the United States, their expertise in operating domestically as well as existing human resources is a distinct advantage.

3. While the objectives in penetrating the more radical groups in the United States obviously differs between [redacted] and OS there does exist in many instances common interest in acquiring assets in selected groups. Working in concert on selected targets [redacted] and OS will obviate duplication and reduce the possibilities of compromising inadvertently one or the other's source with the possible attendant unfavorable publicity.

4. Proposal: To obtain maximum benefit of available resources and funds, Office of Security and I believe a joint effort as described below affords the most secure, economical and expeditious means by which the Office of Security and I may realize their respective objectives. In order to be fully responsive to ... requirements as well as their own, OS is prepared to reorganize and further develop MERRIMACK operations, previously approved by Director, Central Intelligence, into three compartmented activities as follows:

A. Penetrations - Agents will be spotted and recruited to penetrate those organizations and movements in the United States which offer the greatest potential to satisfy requirements of both OS and ... While further target analysis is required to determine which groups mutually offer the greatest potential in realizing respective objectives the following groups appear worthy of attention:

- a. Womens' Strike for Peace (WSP)
- b. Students for a Democratic Society (SDS)
- c. Student Non-Violent Co-ordinating Committee (SNCC)
- d. Quaker Action Group and American Friends Service Committee (QAG) (AFSC)
- e. United States Committee to Aid the National Liberation Front of Vietnam (CANLFSV)
- f. National Mobilization Committee
- g. Lawyers Committee on American Policy Toward Vietnam
- h. Congress for Racial Equality (CORE)

Target groups will, of course, change as additional background data is collected and reviewed. Also, as operations progress new targets not yet identified may be surfaced.

B. Demonstrations - Pickets - Marches - This group will be a reserve cadre of trained agent personnel, including construction workers, cab drivers, janitors, etc., both male and female, who can be activated on short notice to participate in local demonstrations, pickets, marches, etc. This type of covert asset can also be directed to cover certain select meetings, gatherings, parties, etc. on an ad hoc basis. Experience gained during the past year dictates a definite need for this type of monitoring capability.

C. Surveillance - will be established on the East and West Coast for the purpose of providing the timely, meaningful physical and other clandestine operational support which is necessary during the conduct of these continuing ~~McKENNA~~ ~~McKENNA~~ operations. These officers will be responsive to requirements for operational support as determined by OS and

5. Plans: Working in close liaison with OS will utilize their penetration assets in support of requirements as well as their own. Initial efforts will be directed toward groups with headquarters in Washington, D. C. such as the Women's Strike for Peace. Concurrently, target analysis and spotting efforts will be initiated with a view toward penetrating the "Black Power" movement and some element of the "Peace" movement in New York or New Jersey with which David Dellinger and Tom Hayden are associated. will be utilized in New York as an asset to assist in penetrating target groups on the East Coast. requirements which will be levied on these assets are broadly defined as follows:

A. To report within limits of their capability and security all information relative to communications, contact, travel and plans of target groups or

B. To spot, assess and develop biographical and personality data on individuals who may be potential candidates for recruitment as assets in one of the following categories:

6. Security: To insure maximum security of both the assets of OS as well as the cover mechanism under which OS personnel will recruit penetration agents, candidates spotted by OS assets and assessed as recruitable for. objectives will be approached entirely separately from the OS mechanism. If recruitment is effected, training and handling will be conducted by appropriate components of the clandestine services without reference to OS participation but in close coordination between witting officers of [redacted] and OS. If recruitment is not successful the OS mechanism will not be compromised.

7. Coordination:

A. Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI)

The FBI will be formally notified of this effort together with a request for their support as required. All information generated germane to their interests will be provided to them on a timely basis.

B. Domestic Operations Division (DOD)

DOD will not be made witting of this joint effort by OS and [redacted]. They may, however, depending on location and circumstances be made witting and their assistance requested when a recruitment is contemplated as expressed in paragraph six. OS participation, support, and assets will not however be revealed to DOD. Any changes with regard to DOD participation will be mutually agreed upon between the [redacted] and Director of Security.

8. Costs:

FROM: [REDACTED]

SUBJECT: [REDACTED]

The writer met [REDACTED] at the Key Bridge Marriott Hot Shoppe at 1245 hrs on 20 February 1968 and the two proceeded to [REDACTED] residence at [REDACTED].

We were very cordially received and were served coffee soon after sitting down. [REDACTED] explained in very precise words that the Bureau was vitally interested in Subject because of her reporting and the stature she had gained in WSP. He emphasized that he in particular was very interested in the "Peace Movement" and was desperately seeking good sources of information. The meeting lasted over an hour and a half and proved to be productive in many ways. It is believed the spectrum was covered without leaving anything unanswered and it ended with [REDACTED] stipulation that she was willing and happy to work with [REDACTED] and the Bureau providing "that my activity will in no way prejudice or hamper [REDACTED] work or association with what he has done in the past. She further said that if [REDACTED] was cut out and no longer used in the Project, she too would bow out and quit her activity. She asked the question, "Do I understand that if I do not work for you [REDACTED] then I do not work for [REDACTED] or anyone else?" To which [REDACTED] replied, "That is my understanding. The writer said nothing to this. However, when she asked me if I objected to her working with the Bureau, I told her I thought it was the proper thing to do because it was their delegated responsibility and they would be able to better target and direct her and anything she reported would be disseminated to interested authorities. At the end, she asked that she be given assurance that [REDACTED] activities "as in the past" would not be affected, and if she were given this assurance, then she would call [REDACTED] for further guidance and instructions.

[REDACTED] reiterated that [REDACTED] would be working for the Bureau exclusively and would not be answering to anyone else. That he (speaking for the Bureau) had no use for [REDACTED] at this time, and further, had no objection to [REDACTED] continuing his activity - "whatever that is" - or his being used in any capacity the PO saw fit.

The meeting was very amicable, most surprising to this person, and certainly ended in a good note of accomplishment for all concerned.

NOTE: There appears to be no reason why these arrangements will not work and in a very satisfactory manner to all concerned. ~~is~~ is well motivated, does an outstanding job in whatever activity he engages and without question would be very difficult to replace.

1. A meeting was held by the Director on this subject on 6 March. At this meeting the following were in attendance: The Director, ~~the~~

~~the~~ and the Undersigned.

2. The Director stated that he had reviewed this proposal very carefully and basically, thought it was a good approach. He added that we were not getting all we should be getting from the Bureau in this regard and this would probably produce more information than had been gathered in the past. He stated, however, that the problem ^{is} activity ~~in~~ in the U. S. by this Agency would appear to be beyond our legislative authorization. He added that he ^{had} considered making this a joint effort with the FBI in order to avoid the implication that we were acting beyond our jurisdiction.

3. He stated, however, that after careful consideration he feels that it would not be wise to proceed with this project. According to the Director, this is the type of thing which would undoubtedly flap in time and those who would seek to hurt the Agency would have their opportunity. He added that even if this were a joint operation with the Bureau he was not sure that this would stifle the criticism. For that reason he did not feel it would be wise to proceed.

[REDACTED]

4. At this point, both [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] indicated that this effort would be directed towards foreign targets and as such would be within our jurisdiction. Both the [REDACTED] and the Under- signed indicated that this was our understanding of the matter. [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] pointed out however that they doubted that this would make any difference since the trial would be in the newspapers and not based on fact. The [REDACTED] said we might be able to do this working through [REDACTED]. [REDACTED], however, indicated that if we were to do this we would be better off doing it ourselves where we had control, but he questioned the wisdom of becoming involved. At the conclusion the Director said that he had a very bad feeling about this and hoped that we would all go along with his decision. He said that in spite of the validity of such an approach it is not worth risking the damage which could be done to the Agency is there was a flap.

5. I asked [REDACTED] to review our current use of these individuals to see whether we were putting ourselves in a position of jeopardy in view of the new ground rules. He stated that he would do this and ~~would have it available for you on your return.~~ Meanwhile he stated that there was nothing being done which could cause embarrassment to the Agency.

6. If I had to make my guess, I would think that [REDACTED] probably recommended against going ahead with the project. The Director referred to this paper as a paper that [REDACTED] brought in last night. Since the Director apparently was willing to go along with this sort of thing in the past, I believe it was [REDACTED] who raised the hand of caution in this case.

MEMO FOR: - DD/IOS

Essentially, most of the elements are here - just a matter of arrangement and emphasis.

OBJECTIVES - (in order of priority)

1. Surveillance capability.
2. Penetration of Agency projects, installations, et al - i. e., counterintelligence (Agency oriented)
3. Coverage of riots, demonstrations and so forth as a peripheral by-product.

We should not mention penetration of dissident groups - strictly FBI purview. This will not preclude casual attendance at meetings, etc.

You and I know what we want - amend along these lines.

SUBJECT : Operation RESISTANCE

BACKGROUND

1. In accordance with the conversation in your office between officers and per your instruction during this conversation on 25 April 1968, we are forwarding herewith for your approval the organization, mission and operations of a new Unit to support Operation RESISTANCE.

2. You will recall that Operation RESISTANCE was established approximately 1 year ago to collect information through our formal field offices and other sources to permit the Chief, Security Research Staff to formulate current reports on the status of activities directed against the Agency by potentially hostile individuals and organizations.

3. In our discussions with you we brought to your attention that there was considerable material being received daily but that proper exploitation by the Security Research Staff was not possible due to limited staffing. Further, we stated that in view of the upcoming social tensions in the Washington area we were of the opinion that a Special Unit should be temporarily established to receive, review and analyze the current incoming material; to provide concise summaries of such information on a current basis; and to prepare estimates of potential threats to Agency installations and domestic activities in order that the Special Activities Division could provide more timely and professional direction to the MERRIMACK operations.

4. Since a great portion of the effort of this Unit will be directed toward identifying organizations and personalities of direct interest to the MERRIMACK apparatus, and since the Special Activities Division is the CI/CE support element to the Security Research Staff, we are recommending that this new Unit be established in the Operations Branch within the Special Activities Division of IOS.

5. The Chief, Security Research Staff through his designee will:

- a. Establish the requirements for the review and analysis of the documents
- b. Establish the criteria and format for reporting
- c. Provide daily guidance and direction on the above
- d. Edit and approve reports for dissemination
- e. Level such other requirements as necessary.

1. Headquarters is Office of Origin.
2. The above captioned Subject is currently of sensitive interest to the Director of Security
3. Reference is made to the original correspondence on this case forwarded to all field offices on 11 December 1967 via TWX requesting information pertaining to campus protests and demonstrations. As a result of the referenced request, considerable information has been received at Headquarters. This necessitated the establishment of a Special Unit within the Special Activities Division which receives, screens and reports on the critical materials, on a national basis, to the Director of Security.
4. Due to the current activities in the Washington, D. C. area, the Director of Security must be provided the latest information which might indicate a threat to the buildings housing the personnel of this Agency or any threats to Agency personnel. Therefore, you are requested to telephonically advise the Special Activities Division at Headquarters of any information received by your agent personnel or information received through your informants regarding the plans, activities, demonstrations, or personalities involved in the Poor People's Campaign. We are particularly interested in Black Power Militant personalities and groups.

SUBJECT : Poor Peoples Campaign.

1. During the MALCOLM X day gathering at Meridian Park, 15th and Euclid Streets, NW, Washington, D.C., meetings were held in an orderly fashion but the speeches were violent and anti-Government. An individual named [REDACTED] spoke to the gathering stating that black people should kill President Johnson, Hubert Humphrey and George Wallace. For your information, pictures were taken of this individual and are presently being developed. Anti-religious remarks were made and the Red Chinese slogan of getting power by bricks and guns was repeated by the speaker.

2. Approximately 200 people were in attendance at this gathering, 95% of whom were colored, and their attitude was that of indignation and anger. Possibly more may have come out of the meeting had not a sudden thunder shower dispersed the crowd.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Headquarters

#533 989 ISD/1

1. As we find ourselves getting deeper and deeper into this Project, many questions are arising as to the intended scope of this Project. As an example, we have been able to obtain on a confidential basis from Confidential Informant LI-19 the attached reports, which represent only a smattering of information which could be obtained from that source depending upon how deeply we want to probe into the subject. LI-19 has also advised us in confidence that this same information is being supplied to the FBI. It is noted that some of this information would need further explanation and identification on the part of LI-19 in order to be more meaningful to us.

2. Agent. of this office has been assigned the task over the past several months of coordinating and correlating the information of this nature which is being gathered by Agents of this office. He also is maintaining close liaison with

He also has contacts with the as well as other personal contacts in throughout California. As a result of this he has acquired a rather extensive knowledge of racial and subversive organizations, of their key members, of their goals, and in some instances, of their plans.

3. As an example, keeps him informed of the situation in the Stockton - Sacramento area. Recently one of their informants had attended a meeting of high level Black Nationalists including Stokeley Carmichael and Ron Karenga as well as other Negro leaders such as the Reverend Ralph Abernathy. If it were approved, this informant could be made available to without having to identify himself in any way.

4. The question as to whether _____ should be allowed to conduct briefings under controlled circumstances, such as the proposed briefing of Lockheed officials which was requested by _____ is unresolved at this time.

5. While we are not aware of the experiences of other field offices in this overall venture, we have come to certain conclusions based upon our own experience to date.

- (a) The information gathering process has been spotty and irregular to date.
- (b) While the original intent of the Project, which was to gather information in support of our recruiters, seems to have developed into a desire to gather as much information as possible pertaining to racial, student, and subversive organizations, obviously we are only scratching the surface generally in this effort at the present time.
- (c) While on the one hand we are obtaining pretty good information in the Los Angeles and Long Beach areas, we are restricted by time and manpower from putting forth the same effort in most other major cities of our field office territory.
- (d) It is fair to assume that the more deeply we probe into developing this type of information, the greater are our chances for being expected to explain our role in this effort. If we can determine in confidence that the FBI is being supplied certain information, then it follows that they can determine in confidence that the same information is being requested by, and furnished to us.
- (e) Assessing the matter strictly from our standpoint in this office, it appears that we may be surpassing the intentions of Headquarters in certain areas such as Los Angeles, while perhaps we are not fulfilling our basic obligation in some of the other major cities.

6. It is suggested therefore that Headquarters may wish to formulate a policy paper setting forth general guidance to the field with regard to their extent of activity in this effort.

MEMORANDUM FOR : Chief, Operational Support DivisionSUBJECT : Project Resistance
#533 989

1. Reference is made to _____ memorandum dated 23 May 1968.

2. A review of _____ memorandum would indicate that clarification of the requirements in support of Project Resistance (Operation Resistance) is in order. Requirements to satisfy the needs of the Special Activities Division should continue to be the same as those outlined in the TWX dated 11 December 1967 regarding same Subject.

3. "It has been requested that all field offices secure clippings of campus newspapers and other press media, of course, avoiding duplication, pertaining to campus protests and demonstrations. This is to be broadly interpreted to include national problems, such as the Vietnam War, the draft, etc., and local problems which cause significant student unrest. All major and smaller colleges and universities which have been particularly active in demonstrations should be covered.

4. This requirement is broader than the existing concern involving _____ recruiters. Field offices should continue to furnish to Headquarters clippings in connection with support to recruiters as attachments to written reports. However, for this assignment, clippings should be submitted which involve all other recruitment demonstrations, for example, Dow Chemical and military recruiters.

5. Of particular interest are clippings which identify dissident students, student groups, faculty members and other persons and organizations participating or supporting campus protests. Due to the volume of clippings which are anticipated from all offices, it would be very much appreciated if clippings could be submitted mounted on letter sized paper.

6. It is further requested that this assignment continue until specific notification by Headquarters to discontinue."

7. There is, however, a change in that which I believe is necessary to help clarify the distribution of correspondence. For all material sent in regarding other than the materials involving recruiters I suggest that it should be designated for the Special Activities Division with the indicator I-SAD/1.

On May 19, 1968, a source of known reliability was in attendance at a MALCOLM X day gathering at Meridian Park, 15th and Euclid Streets, NW, Washington, D.C. This source described the second speaker as follows: "Name unknown, dark, wearing an African bush cut, African clothes, about 180-90 lbs., in the late 20's, about 5'10" tall." He was against black people going to Vietnam to fight for the white man and that black people would not win their civil rights by fighting to give the white man power. He said to gain civil rights, "you have to kill all the white leaders. You have to kill LBJ, George Wallace and Humphrey, and start all over again and take blacks for your leaders." This speaker also stated he knew the FBI and the CIA were in the audience and remarked, "These people are niggers."

This meeting was held in an orderly fashion but all the speeches were violent and anti-Government. Anti-religious remarks were made and the Red Chinese slogan of getting power by bricks and guns was repeated by the speakers.

Approximately 200 people were in attendance at this gathering, 95% of whom were colored, and their attitude was that of indignation and anger. Possibly more may have come out of the meeting had not a sudden thunder shower dispersed the crowd.

The unidentified speaker referred to above was later identified as one [REDACTED] telephone number [REDACTED]

MEMORANDUM FOR: Chief, Special Activities Division

THROUGH :

SUBJECT : SPRINGER, Axel

1. With reference to the attached Washington Post clipping of 14 June 1963, "World Plot Sets Off Campus Revolts", it may be of interest to note that the Axel SPRINGER whose newspaper building in Berlin was the target of Left-Wing German student riots in April 1960, following an assassination attempt against student leader Rudi DUTSCHE, has been of interest to this agency in the past.

2. The attack on Axel SPRINGER publications, which triggered a chain reaction among students all over the world, has been widely interpreted as Pro-Communist largely because of the fact that he is considered so vigorously Anti-Communist.

MDS/kbl

World Plot Sets Off Campus Revolts

By Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson

The student revolt which started with an attack on Springer newspapers in Berlin last spring has now swept around the world. Did it result from an international conspiracy? Is there a student underground linking the Ivy halls of Columbia in New York with the crowded Communist universities of Belgrade, Warsaw, Prague and Prague?

This column, after extensive research, is able to report that there is an international student conspiracy. Mark Rudd, who for a time closed down Columbia University, visited Fidel Castro in Cuba shortly before he brought anarchy to Columbia. A delegation of Latin American students visited the United States this spring shortly before trouble broke out on American campuses. Danny Cohn-Bendit, the French-German student revolutionary, also visited the United States shortly before trouble erupted here.

The spiritual, though perhaps unwitting, godfather of the campus revolt is Prof. Herbert Marcuse of the University of California at San Diego, who recently visited Rudi Dutschke, the left-wing German student hospitalized after the Berlin student riots.

It was after Dutschke was beaten up that leftist German students stormed the Springer newspaper building in Berlin, occupied its lower floor, paralyzed its delivery trucks and for a time disrupted publication of the biggest newspaper empire in West Germany.

The attack on the Springer publications was widely interpreted as pro-Communist since Axel Springer is so vigorously anti-Communist that he has built a $25 million new publishing house practically astride the Berlin Wall as an act of defiance to East Germany. His newspapers, including Die Welt, the New York Times of West Germany; Nord Zeitung, the largest circulating paper on the European continent; and half a dozen others, all follow a strongly pro-American, anti-Hitler, pro-Israel line.

It was the riots against the Springer publications which touched off a chain reaction of students all over the world in which, incidentally, Communist universities have suffered almost as much as Western institutions.

Other Reasons

Other factors besides the conspiracy between Rudi Dutschke, Mark Rudd and Danny Cohn-Bendit, however, have caused student unrest. Two of them are:

1. Many universities are out of date. The Sorbonne in Paris now has a student enrollment of over 100,000, yet hasn't built a new building in ten years. Classes average around 1500 and professors have no idea of who attends classes.

Columbia University in New York, though not as bad as the Sorbonne, has become an educational machine, the president serving as a public relations man and money raiser, out of touch with the students. Many big American universities have similar problems.

2. In the United States students have taken a healthy interest in politics. Sen. Eugene McCarthy was the first to awaken them, followed by the late Sen. Robert Kennedy. In Czechoslovakia, students helped throw out the cold Communist regime in favor of new Czech semi-democracy. In Paris the revolt of Sorbonne students led to the gravest French political crisis in 100 years.

On March 31, President Johnson had removed the No. 1 issue of American students by announcing truce talks with North Vietnam. This left students without their main issue. They had been protesting the war in Vietnam and the draft. But when Johnson removed the issue, demonstrations planned for late April were deflated.

At this point, a delegation of Latin American students came to New York to urge the Students for a Democratic Society to proceed with the ten days of strikes and sit-ins as originally planned for May.

Mark Rudd, president of the Students for a Democratic Society, agreed. He hurriedly selected the new Columbia gymnasium to be built in a Harlem park as a new issue, plus the severance of university ties with the Institute on Defense Analysis.

Rudd, an "A" student, now a Columbia Junior, had been planning a University sit-in ever since last summer. He has been in touch with student leaders around the world, from the Berliners who sparked the demonstration against Axel Springer to the leaders of the Sorbonne revolt. More on the worldwide student revolt will be reported in an early column.

Suppression Story

'False,' Says Sen. Dodd

United Press International

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd (D-Conn.) yesterday labeled as "blatantly false" allegations that he suppressed reports based on investigations of television violence.

Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson, in their column, accused Dodd of suppressing the reports by the staff of the Senate Juvenile Delinquency Subcommittee for six years.

Dodd said the allegation was "blatantly false, totally inaccurate, and an unbelievable distortion of history."

He said the findings of the Subcommittee were released Oct. 27, 1964, and added that 10,000 copies were distributed to news media and others.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Special Agent in Charge

#533 989, I-SD/1

1. Reference is made to your memorandum dated 23 May 1968, subject as above, in which you requested guidance with regard to the extent of your activity in this case.

2. With regard to paragraph 5(b) of your memorandum, the original intent of this Project was not to gather information in support of recruiters. That assignment was originally given to all Field Offices by memorandum entitled OPERATIONAL SUPPORT FOR RECRUITMENT, I-SD/1, dated 23 February 1967.

Attached to this memorandum was a copy of a memorandum from the Chief of the Recruitment Division to all recruiters outlining to them what support to expect from our Field Offices. Also attached was a copy of each recruiter's itinerary, as applicable to each Field Office. You should continue to submit information directly relating to the recruitment program under this case number. This information should be confined to such items as proposed actions against Government or private industry recruiters on college campuses, attitudes of college groups or officials toward such recruitment programs, etc. Although a full currently exists in the recruitment program, you will continue to receive, as the occasion arises, itineraries of recruiters, requests for Federal office space for recruiters and related support requirements.

3. PROJECT RESISTANCE originated on 11 December 1967 at which time a TWX was sent to all Field Offices under case number #533 989, I-SD/1 outlining requirements in this case. Basically, Headquarters is interested in monitoring collegiate, New Left and underground press coverage of college and university campuses in your jurisdiction. Information pertaining to militants and activists, their identities and organizational affiliations, their leaflets and propaganda materials should be forwarded to Headquarters. Particularly desired are indications of the effectiveness of the militants and their ability to mobilize students of only passive

#533-989-I-BD/1

4. Headquarters agrees with paragraph 3(d) of your memorandum. You will not be expected to actively develop confidential informants, but rather submit all readily available material from overt sources and that which may be offered to you voluntarily by established contacts. With regard to paragraph 3(c) you will not be expected to send agents into areas outside of the Los Angeles area specifically for this purpose, but all agents while on field trips and resident agents should be encouraged to make every reasonable effort to obtain material consistent with the requirements of PROJECT RESISTANCE in their respective areas.

6. During the past few weeks the job of analyzing and collating the material received from the Field Offices pertaining to PROJECT RESISTANCE has been delegated to a group under the direction of the Chief, Special Activities Division. However, the material is first reviewed by the OSD/SB Supervisor who handles both Operational Support for Recruitment and PROJECT RESISTANCE. Your contributions in both cases have been most helpful and should be continued, within reasonable time and memory limits.

A reliable, confidential informant in attendance at a Black United Front meeting held at the Meridian Hill Park, in NW Washington, D.C. on 17 July 1968, advised that R. H. BOOKER (Reggie) was the main speaker addressing approximately 150 members of the rally. BOOKER stated he was aware that representatives of the CIA and FBI were in the audience.

The purpose of the rally was to gain support for a black brother killed by a white policeman. The following comments were made by BOOKER: "Black people are going to take control of the 13th Precinct if we have to shoot every white honky cop there. Mayor Walter Washington will have to go too, because he is nothing but one of President Johnson's farm hands."

At this point, BOOKER introduced the Rev. Walter E. FAUNTROY who urged the black people to join the Black United Front and support the action of the black people.

Other statements made at this rally by unidentified members of the group were such as: "If you don't have a gun, go buy one. If you can't buy one, then there ain't but one thing a penny can buy- a book of matches." "When we do start shooting, we are going to shoot on 16th Street, Wisconsin Avenue, Connecticut Avenue, and we might go up on Capitol Hill."

In the informant's opinion, R. BOOKER is a more dangerous militant leader than Stokely CARMICHAEL and believes in dealing with the whites only with guns.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Headquarters

SUBJECT : PROJECT RESISTANCE
#533 989 ISD/1

The following estimate of possible future activities of Black Nationalist and Subversive organizations was obtained from local intelligence sources:

1. Local sources feel that there will be major incidents by Black Nationalist organizations in Los Angeles and New York during the Republican National Convention. Informant believes that major incidents at this time would cause Ronald REAGAN and Nelson ROCKEFELLER to return to their respective states thus leaving the Convention open to Richard NIXON. At a later time the subversives could start a cry that the people did not have a choice in choosing a candidate. Local sources also feel that there will be a major incident in Chicago during the Democratic National Convention with the aim of putting Eugene McCARTHY on the Democratic Presidential ticket.

2. Local sources advise that they are preparing for large scale campus disorders between September and the national elections. Informants feel that large scale student disorders will occur continuing the dissension in this country.

3. Local sources advise that the two major areas of Black Nationalist agitation in Southern California are Long Beach and Pomona. Informants state that they are expecting trouble in these areas. There have been nightly incidents of fire bombings and beatings in these two areas during the past several weeks. The Press is cooperating with local law enforcement in that they are not printing articles concerning these disturbances.

4. Local intelligence sources have advised that a small group of Black Muslim agitators are planning to cause an incident in the Los Angeles area on 13 August 1968. As future information is received concerning the plans for this incident, they will be forwarded to Headquarters.

1. Thank you for your referenced memorandum. It is very timely and informative to me; I feel that every 60-90 days a review of the operations and the manner in which you have reported them is wise and necessary. For the moment I wish to comment in general to the following.

a. The Principle Mission

The principle mission of the MERRIMACK apparatus will continue to be to provide timely advance notice of impending demonstrations in order to protect the P. O.'s personnel, assets, and installations on a long range basis.

b. EEL (Essential Elements of Information)

For the moment I do not wish to change the current EEL as outlined in your memorandum insofar as the different targets are concerned. I do feel, however, that a review of the EEL must be made as each new target requirement is levied upon us. I would suggest for the moment that the EEL outlined in your memorandum that was supplemented to you in September, 1967, and January, 1968, continue to be the guidelines for coverage of the following organizations until we have a chance to sit down and review these matters together:

1. Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC)
2. Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC)
3. School for Afro-American Thought
4. Washington Ethical Society
5. The American Humanist Association (TAHA)
6. Black Panther Group

12. Niggers, Inc.

2. There are two areas which I wish to re-emphasize to you in the management of the MERRIMACK program. The first area concerns the reports being submitted by members of the MERRIMACK operation. I feel that more emphasis should be placed by you and your staff on your MERRIMACK personnel regarding the following:

- a. When attending meetings continue reporting place attended, sponsor of meeting, time of meeting, identify speakers at meeting, and give gist of the topic of the speech or lecture given.
- b. Continue reporting remarks about the Parent Organization and its affiliates and other United States Government Intelligence Agencies.
- c. Threatening remarks against leaders of our Government.
- d. Reports of possible demonstrations.
- e. An evaluation by the MERRIMACK employee as to the attitudes, trends, and possible developments of activities within the dissident or Black Power movements.

3. The above should not be considered as new FBI. Most of the above is being reported by MERRIMACK personnel but re-emphasis by you to them on how to report this information is necessary.

4. The second area concerns your relationship with the MERRIMACK agents. Again, I wish to re-emphasize that you are to begin phasing out yourself from direct contact with the agent apparatus in order that your time may be spent improving and developing the image of your organization. In this regard and in line with my conversations with you orally in your office in the presence of my deputy and ~~XXXXXX~~ I am looking to ~~XXXXXX~~ to be the main agent handler for Project MERRIMACK.

5. In response to your recommendations to assist you in carrying out your responsibilities, I wish to advise you of the following:

a. For budgetary reasons, we can only afford ~~at the moment~~ at the moment which you are currently making arrangements for.

b. A training course will be established in accordance with our discussions; however, I believe that ~~some~~ time permitting, could provide this training himself to the MERRIMACK apparatus. I would like his comments in this regard.

c. Requirements for ~~the~~ activity will be levied within the next sixty days.

d. The subject of additional agents, for budgetary reasons, cannot be considered at the moment.

e. Consideration for the employment of an additional professional officer is in the planning stages.

6. Please convey to the MERRIMACK personnel that everyone here is most pleased with their efforts, that we find their information not only beneficial but most helpful in the research and decision making activity being performed by the Parent Organization.

On 3 October 1968, a meeting of the CBW, Mid-Atlantic Committee on Fort Detrick, was held at the home of [REDACTED]. Discussion was held regarding a public meeting at Frederick, Maryland, with no definite date decided upon as yet; however, the 19th of November is the preferred date if arrangements can be made. Leymore HERSCH and A. Theodor ROSEBURY have agreed to speak at this meeting. The latter is from Chicago and formerly worked at Fort Detrick as a scientist. Following the proposed meeting at Fort Detrick, the group would also like to hold meetings at the University of Maryland and at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Maryland. The Committee is in desperate need of funds.

The next meeting will be held at [REDACTED], on Monday, 14 October 1968 at 1830 hrs.

Eleven people attended this meeting and they are listed as follows:

CBW, Mid-Atlantic Committee on Fort Detrick, met on 14 October 1968, at the home of [REDACTED]. Plans for the upcoming meeting in Frederick are still indefinite and the use of the Johnson High School auditorium in Frederick was refused. However, the Mid-Atlantic Committee has reportedly joined with the Town Committee, a student committee at Hood College, to co-sponsor a meeting at Hood College auditorium. [REDACTED] reported that one of the speakers she had lined up to speak at the Fort Detrick protest meeting could not accept due to previous engagements; however, she will endeavor to get one [REDACTED] who was reportedly employed at the United Nations at one time and is now [REDACTED]. [REDACTED] reported that she had contacted members of the SDS at both Johns Hopkins University and the University of Maryland and both groups were eager to meet with the Mid-Atlantic Committee. No further pertinent information. Next scheduled meeting to be held WSP headquarters at 1800 hours on the 22nd of October 1968.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Headquarters

SUBJECT : PROJECT RESISTANCE
533 989 I SD/1

1. On 6 December 1968, _____ interviewed

George Washington University, as a developed informant for a routine Accountable case. The interview was conducted at the Student Union Cafeteria, George Washington University, and through general conversation with _____ certain information was learned about the Students for a Democratic Society at George Washington University. As stated, the information was learned through casual conversation and at no time was _____ "pumped" for information.

2. _____ advised that the active membership of the SDS at George Washington University was approximately one hundred, but that the strength of the organization, counting sympathizers, is between four and five hundred. According to _____ the SDS plan to organize a mass demonstration to disrupt the presidential inauguration in January, and it was his opinion that the SDS may link up with some of the black militant groups in the Washington, D. C. area. It was also _____ opinion, and strictly his opinion, that the demonstration will lead to riots and possibly as severe as the April 1968 riots. The student council at George Washington University is anticipating a serious disorder and have asked the university's administration to schedule the fall semester examinations prior to the inauguration.

3. _____ further advised that he was a spectator at the recent speech given by Rufus MAYFIELD, formerly of PRIDE, Incorporated. He said that during the fight, in which MAYFIELD was involved, MAYFIELD's shirt came open, and _____ stated that MAYFIELD was carrying a concealed pistol in a shoulder holster.

4. The above is submitted for your information.

INAUGURATION - 1969

ADDENDUM II

Remnard DAVIS, project coordinator of the NMC's counter-Inaugural demonstrations has advised that in addition to the 100 grandstand seats already purchased by his organization, the NMC is interested in purchasing still more. DAVIS stated that the bleacher areas of interest to NMC are in front of the Justice Department Building and adjacent to the Presidential reviewing stand.

The Norfolk Tent Company reports that they have rented two tents to the NMC for use in Washington during the Inauguration. The tents were due to arrive in Washington on the 16th and are due to be erected on the 17th. Dimensions of the two tents are unknown at this time.

a representative of the GARFIELD organization in Chicago reportedly will attend the Inauguration as a guest of the incoming administration. attended a fund-raising affair last October sponsored by the Black Panther Party. Last March, reportedly purchased two M-1 rifles. The GARFIELD organization was formed in the spring of 1967 for the purpose of improving the political, economic, and physical condition of the GARFIELD area of Chicago.

James E. LOWERY, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference at Atlanta, states he plans to attend the Inauguration and that two poor people from Alabama and two from Mississippi will attend the Inaugural Ball. According to the Executive Vice-President of the SCLC, the organization has no plans to participate in the Inaugural activities or demonstrations.

Tickets for the Counter-Inaugural Ball may be purchased in Washington at 1029 Vermont Avenue (Room 600) and at all Variety Record Stores, the Soul Shack, 1221 "G" Street, N. W., at Empire Music, 7815 Old Georgetown Road, and at Discophile, 3219 1/2 "M" Street, N. W.

ADDENDUM

The Communist Party, USA in recent days has undoubtedly faced an internal dilemma over whether they should or should not support the Inaugural protest demonstrations. The Party must weigh the risk of stature loss if they strongly support a demonstration which fizzles against the patriarchal image at stake if they don't support a successful effort. Although they have published editorial support of all recent efforts and plans of both the NMC and the SDS in the Daily World on the east coast and the Peoples World in the West, the Party has been guarded in its declaration of physical support on the streets in Washington. The venerable CPUSA would also be naturally reluctant to cooperate closely with the Maoist Progressive Labor Party--Young Socialist Alliance infested SDS. Both vocal and physical support has recently however enimated from New York. The New York State Communist Party Board has voted to support the demonstrations. Further, the King County (New York) Communist Party plans to have buses available to bring its members to Washington on the 19th. No indication of the number of people involved has been reported but it is not believed sizeable.

At a recent meeting at Cleveland, the Ohio SDS made plans to stage anti-war and anti-Nixon skits along the parade route on the 20th.

The Columbia University SDS members are being urged by their leaders to participate in the demonstrations. They plan to form into small groups and attempt some type of confrontation with police on the 19th.

An undated leaflet, recently issued by the New York Regional Office of SDS urges participation in the Inaugural demonstrations. The leaflet points out that the NMC does not speak for SDS and the type of demonstration to be conducted at Washington should be left up to the people who are "running the risk."

Another leaflet has recently been issued by a militant protest group called the Coalition for an Anti-Imperialist Movement. The leaflet proclaims that the Coalition will take part in the Inauguration and will give Nixon the "reception he truly deserves." The leaflet further points out that the militancy of the demonstration does not depend on moderate leaders and that the militant rank and file have a tremendous opportunity to make this demonstration as effective as possible.

Security has been tightened at the D. C. National Guard Armory in the event Mr. Nixon attends the Gala there on the evening of the 19th. The Presidential box has been moved from the main floor to a balcony location. The location was changed by the Gala chairman after consultation with the Secret Service. Adjoining the Presidential box (really several joined together with a seating capacity of fifty-eight) is where Vice-President-Agnew, his wife and his party will be located. The Agnews are definitely expected as are members of the new cabinet and the Justices of the Supreme Court.

Ticket purchasers for this year's gala must give additional information before collecting their tickets. The FBI and/or Secret Service are probably conducting name checks on ticket buyers.

The National Mobilization Committee has been granted a permit to pitch their tent just south of the Sylvan Theatre on a grassy triangle bounded by 15th Street and Maine and Independence Avenues, S. W. Although the NMC believes that their 300-foot by 100-foot tent will seat 10,000 people, the manufacturer says it will only accommodate about 1,500. Most observers think the protester turn out will in fact be closer to 1,500 than 10,000. Many who attend will probably be merely sight-seers, not NMC activists.

The tent which will house the Counter-Inaugural Ball is intended too, to be an assembly and starting point for the Counter-Inaugural March on the 19th. The march will go up 15th Street to Pennsylvania Avenue and down Pennsylvania Avenue to 3rd Street, then down 3rd Street and dispersing at Maryland Avenue. The NMC had originally planned (and it was so reported) to terminate the march at the Supreme Court Plaza but abandoned this site when Government negotiator Harry R. VAN CLEVE stated that the

On the 15th, the NMC purchased 100 grandstand seats in two bleacher sections along the parade route. One 50-seat section was obtained on the west side of 15th Street ($12 per ticket) and the other on Pennsylvania Avenue between 10th and 11th ($8 per ticket). Rennard DAVIS, the NMC Inaugural demonstration coordinator, stated that demonstrators will also stand along the parade route, principally near the seated NMC'ers and on the north side of Pennsylvania Avenue near 12th Street. Demonstrators will bear green "Peace" pennants. DAVIS stated at a press interview on the 16th that no disruption of the Inauguration is planned.

The NMC expects that 20 to 25 churches will assist in housing the out-of-towners. A large number have already been lined up. Housing and program information will be available at NMC headquarters (one of several), 1029 Vermont Avenue, Phone: 202-347-9600.

In a recent editorial published in the Guardian, an independent, left radical, widely circulated, highly literate newspaper, the prediction is made that the NMC Inaugural demonstration will not succeed. Although the Guardian does not oppose the anti-war mobilization plans for Washington the editorial states that changes since 1965 render a radical-liberal coalition no longer useful. There is a strong possibility reflects the editorial that the "Inauguration protest may turn out to be a dismal and demoralizing failure."

On January 15, the NMC held a press conference at the Willard. Of interest and not previously reported was a statement by Carl RODGERS, Inaugural Project Director for Servicemen Activities that the protest march on January 19 would be led by 100 Servicemen. They probably will not be in uniform but will wear something to identify them as Servicemen. They come from Fort Jackson, Fort Gordon, Norfolk, Fort Knox, Fort Campbell, and Andrews Air Force Base. Not mentioned at this press conference but previously noted was NMC recruitment efforts at Fort Myer, Fort Meade, Fort Eustis, Fort Devens, Fort Dix, Fort Lee, Fort Breckinridge, Fort McPherson, and Fort McClellan.

On January 16, a bazarre, long-haired group representing the Youth International Party (YIPPIES) held an outdoor news conference and introduced "Mrs. Pig" the mate of the hog the YIPPIES will in-HOG-urate as a gesture of contempt. The YIPPIE ceremony is scheduled for Sunday the 19th. According to a spokesman for the organization (identified only as Super Joel YIPPIE) the group will have their final "thing" at National Airport Monday night. Accompanied by a fife and drum corps which played and sang "Hail to the Pig," during the news conference, Super Joel punctuated his remarks with four-letter words. The conference was under the aegis of the Women's International Terrorist Conspiracy from Hell (WITCH) an obvious figment of the contemptuous YIPPIE imagination.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

SUBJECT: General Operation. MERRIMACK - Specific SDS

1. Until we receive further guidance from the Director of Security, it must be made perfectly clear to everyone that under no circumstances will any effort be made by personnel of this Division or of ~~any other Division~~ to recruit any members of SDS as covert agents or informants.

2. However, we are authorized to proceed with the training as recommended in our recent memos. Further, we are authorized to direct the attention of our covert assets to the perimeters of SDS for the purposes of learning as much as we can about the movements and their activities and for the purposes of supporting possible candidates for recruitment when and if we are given permission to do so.

3. We have been given to believe that until the powers to be know the attitude and the type of direction that will be received from the new Administration, we cannot do other than what we have been authorized to do as described in Paragraph No. 2 above.

SUBJECT : The Black Militant Threat to CIA

Pursuant to your request that the brief summation forwarded 8 November 1968, of this unit's estimate of the black militant threat to CIA, be reviewed and rewritten to reflect our estimate of current date, attached herewith is the revised memorandum. As with the original treatise, the opinions were deduced principally from information already known and reviewed by this section and does not purport to be an in-depth study.

THE BLACK MILITANT THREAT TO CIA

Source Materials obtained from Government agencies at local, state, and federal levels, as well as from the media (including samplings of the underground press) do not indicate that CIA and/or its personnel and installations are considered at this time to be a primary or sole target by any of the numerous black militant organizations or by individual black activists.

This is not to suggest that there is little or no animus toward the Agency nor any threat to it, but only that there appears to be little closely identifiable black personally or organizationally held rancor. However, as CIA is a prominent segment of the "establishment" and, indeed, a most newsworthy one, the Agency is not without appeal as a target for the dissidents and subversives of many persuasions. To most of the militant blacks, however, it would seem to invite less antipathy and to be less vulnerable than are other examples of authority, regimentation, discrimination, and "repression" such as the military, the law enforcement agencies, and the educational hierarchy. As an organization to which the public, at least, attributes much influence on foreign policy, a close identification with the war in Vietnam, and a variety of domestic activities and relationships (the propriety of which they hold to be moot at best), the Agency must expect a continued share of whatever level the anti-establishment activity reaches. It has been the subject of considerable diatribe and invective, both oral and written, but, to date, a minimum of actual violence to person or property. The situation remains fluid and, although extremist activity by dissident groups has been escalating, there are indications that a trend toward a stronger and firmer posture vis-a-vis these groups, is developing throughout much of the "establishment." Negro moderates, who represent a vast majority, are beginning to react and to fight back against the Negro militants. It is too early to delineate the affect the installation of the new, and more conservative, administration will have. Its election, at least partially, reflects the opinion of many of the American electorate, that the militants were going too far in Vietnam, in our educational institutions, and in the urban areas. It is possible that increased effort to maintain law and order will produce a counter-reaction of increased violent opposition.

Where the goals and objectives of blacks, individually, or in organization, tend to merge with or are collateral to those of other dissidents, their potential for effective action is amplified out of proportion to their numbers. Selection of CIA as a subject of, or a scapegoat for, harassment and even, perhaps, subversive penetration, by black militant individuals and organizations can be deemed, in some cases, to be the result of foreign pressures, influence and support (psychological, physical, and financial). CIA is a priority target of many foreign services and governments and foreign contacts have been noted, both here and abroad. Additionally, much effort, some of it successful, is exercised in the black movement by such organizations as the Communist Party USA (Soviet), Socialist Workers Party (Trotskyite), and the Progressive Labor Party (Maoist), which, although not themselves significantly black organizations, do have black activists in their membership and are known to attempt to control, direct, and utilize the essentially black organizations through multiple memberships as well as other means, be they overt, subtle, or devious.

A target of the "New Left," whether it be the radical elements who are oriented to press for complete displacement of our socio-economic and governmental system, or the liberal elements who generally desire reform in varying degrees and are willing to labor for change substantially within our existing perimeters, is the so-called "military-industrial" complex in which they deem CIA to be a flagrantly culpable example. So, too, does the "New Left" frequently aid, abet, and cooperate with the black militant movement. There is a trend in most dissident activist groups today, if for no other reason than to develop greater strength for movement toward each one's own goal and to increase each group's membership, toward unification and mutual support and a general loose amalgamation of pacifist, civil rights, anti-discrimination, and student power groups. Thus, a working relationship develops between black, student, leftist, and anti-war/anti-draft groups. These coalitions are frequently tenuous at best and there are increased signs that the black extremist groups are hard-pressed to maintain for long any effective collaboration with other groups, either white or black. Mutuality of some interests does not usually suffice to support real control or domination by any one organization. The co-hesive force of the anti-Vietnam War movement has lost some of its strength and should the war be resolved, the dissidents would be sanded of their most viable target. The burning desires and apparent psychological need of black extremists to control their own and to dominate any activity in which they participate makes them difficult, if not strange, bed-fellows. The radical SDS organization has recently decided to shift emphasis from a primarily student movement to a revolutionary youth movement in order that they may expand their activities and increase their potential field for recruitment. They found student campus and race problems too limiting.

Efforts to lead black militants have in large measure failed in the past by the CPUSA to dominate such as have attempts to moderate organizations as the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. The leaders of the respective black organizations are constantly vying for personal and organizational power, not only within but between organizations; and, although even those organizations such as the NAACP and the Congress of Racial Equality, which were formerly deemed moderate and relatively conservative in scope, have become less so, there is still a wide gulf between the aims and methods espoused by ultra-extremist black nationalist groups and those by the more moderate ones. The latter were essentially oriented towards civil rights activity, bi-racial in membership, and willing to attain their goals (usually full integration and rights of citizenship) through affecting change within the system. Today's black extremists go so far as to advocate separatism, including a black nation within the boundaries of the U. S. A., and claim that revolution and racial warfare are both necessary and justified to attain their goals. Most also seem to visualize a destruction of capitalist democracy as a necessity.

Some black traditional moderates who appeared to be swinging toward more radical extremes - perhaps to counteract the seeming growth in power and influence of the extremists like Stokeley CARMICHAEL, H. Rap BROWN, and Eldridge CLEAVER - now seem to acknowledge, although reluctantly, that their goals are not quickly attainable and that this evolution will take time. Although extremist groups are no less active, the majority of the black people lean toward a view of Black Power as a movement toward improved economic, cultural, and political status with attendant increased pride in their racial background.

CIA is a clearly visible target, attack upon which if effective, would not only produce headlines in bold print but would severely hamper CIA's efforts to accomplish its very important missions. There have been incidents - some of which may be at least partially attributable to black individuals or elements. Recruiters have been harassed, an office bombed, much vicious printed matter disseminated, and critical speeches made. In addition, it was recently rumored that an assassination attempt would be made in New York on three CIA Agents by members of the Black Panther Party, nothing has been disclosed to suggest that the incident was more than a "crank" call, but it does reflect that CIA is in the minds of dissident elements.

As of this time, among the more active, more volatile black organizations, and thus more threatening perhaps to the Agency posture, personnel and installations, are the following:

BLACK PANTHER PARTY FOR SELF DEFENSE (BPP)

This extremist black organization oriented to the philosophy of Che GUEVARA and Mao seems to be the fastest growing organization in recent months. Based in California with the bulk of its membership there it has chapters in a number of major cities. Reportedly a small chapter has organized in D. C. Its leaders preach revolution and destruction of our political economic system. Much of the current violent action nationally has been attributed probably justifiably to BPP which has allegedly acquired large amounts of arms and ammunition. Its "direct action" has influenced many young Negroes, particularly ghetto males. Leaders have had much contact with Castro's Cuba and other Anti-U. S. foreign elements. Currently it is reportedly beset by rivalry with other militant organizations, internal bickering, and disciplinary problems. A number of its leaders and much of its membership have criminal records. Eldridge CLEAVER is currently a fugitive. Huey NEWTON is serving a 2-15 year term. Bobby SEALE is on probation; etc. Violent confrontation with law enforcement representatives has become almost a daily occurrence. The Chairman of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee has described the BPP as influenced by the Communists through infiltration. Paradoxically, perhaps although the BPP has thrived on publicity, an East Coast leader recently was reputed to have said that the group, on a national scale, would be going "underground" in order to keep its activities quiet and secret.

REVOLUTIONARY ACTION MOVEMENT (RAM)

Probably the most blatantly violent and extremist black power organization follows the Maoist line and advocates urban guerrilla warfare. Theoretical leader is Robert F. WILLIAMS - self exiled U. S. fugitive black, currently residing again in Peking after residences in Cuba, China, and Tunisia since 1961. Max STANFORD, ultra radical U. S. leader, is also associated with BPP. Many black extremists of other organizations seem to have at least peripheral connection with RAM. Several groups such as the BLACK LIBERATION FRONT (involved in the plot to dynamite the Statue of Liberty and Washington Monument) appear to be RAM front groups.

BLACK MUSLIMS. aka: Nation of Islam (NCI)

This black nationalist extremist group headquartered in Chicago and lead by Elijah POOLE, aka Elijah MUHAMMAD is probably the largest and best financed and is a nationwide organization. Preaching independence of blacks and interdependence between blacks.

it is strongly for black economic power and is not believed to be socialistic or communistic. NOI has participated to some extent in activities of other "black power" groups and Communist front activities but generally remains aloof. Occasionally the group's publications have been known to reprint articles from Chinese Communist Sources. Although many members have been recruited in prisons, NOI has achieved respectability of sorts by shrewdly using a shield of religion and insisting that its extremely well-disciplined members avoid radical disorder and live moderately. Cassius CLAY is probably its best known recruit of recent years. While professing not to be anti-white per se, the group is generally considered to be anti-white, anti-police and anti-government.

STUDENT NONVIOLENT COORDINATING COMMITTEE (SNCC)

Since creation in 1960 as a nonviolent bi-racial civil rights organization, SNCC, under the leadership of Stokeley CARMICHAEL, followed by H. Rap BROWN, has evolved into a hate group motivated by a revolutionary direct-action, anti-white ideology that places no faith in democratic processes. It seems strongly anti-semitic and has established ties with foreign radical groups. It appears to be adhering to the "third world" concept which is more closely related to a Maoist-Castroite orientation than to the Soviet ideology. Several of its leaders have openly attacked the CIA in broadbrushed denunciations of the establishment. The FBI in its report for FY 1967.

charged that SNCC represents a serious threat to national security. SNCC is suffering financially and beset with internal bickering, and loss of prestige among blacks. It recently dissolved its brief association with the BPP and evicted H. Rap BROWN and Stokeley CARMICHAEL. Phil HUTCHINGS and James FOREMAN, SNCC's current leaders, are struggling to reestablish SNCC as a power and are seeking alliances with other black militant organizations.

THE CONGRESS OF RACIAL EQUALITY (CORE)

One of the larger organizations, national in scope and founded in Chicago in 19 2 by militant socialist James FARMER and former CP member Bayard RUSTIN, and until recently headed by Floyd McKISSICK and now by Roy INNIS. It was originally considered one of the more moderate "civil rights organizations," but has gradually increased in militancy and has become more separatist, black supremacist, and ideologically aligned with the New Left. Although not cited by any federal agency or committee, its activities and many of its top personalities show distinct interrelationships with the Communist cause. In 1964 CORE distributed leaflets charging that "Mississippi has been taken over by the CIA and Federal Marshals."

BLACK LIBERATION ALLIANCE

As radically and revolutionary as CORE has moved, it was not far enough to satisfy some of its members and in October 1968.

a more militant group splintered off to form this organization which will seek to promote racial separatism, Black Nationalism, and the formation of a separate black nation within the U. S. A. A convention is scheduled for 18 January 1969 and at that time it will be more possible to assess the strength and character of this new organization.

BLACK REPUBLIC OF NEW AFRICA (RNA)

A movement for a separate Negro nation to be established in five southern states - spearheaded by the radical HENRY brothers (Milton and Richard) of Detroit. President (in exile) is Robert F. WILLIAMS. The HENRY brothers are leaders in the Malcolm X Society, named after the late Malcolm X, who had split with the Black Muslims. Advocates formation of a Black Liberation Army and other extremist positions.

US

A still small but militant black organization based in Los Angeles established on the principle of self respect, self defense, and self determination. Lead by Ron KARENGA, a very articulate and clever young Negro, whose statements are extreme. Reportedly, some disharmony has developed between the BPP and US organizations in L. A.

ORGANIZATION OF AFRO-AMERICAN UNITY (CAAU)

The extremist black militant group, which has had various name changes that followed Malcolm X after his split with the Black Muslims. His followers still support to believe CIA was responsible for his murder in 1965, despite all the evidence to the contrary including the arrest and conviction of three Negroes for the crime.

DEACONS FOR DEFENSE AND JUSTICE

A black power group organized in mid-60 in Arkansas has chapters throughout the U. S. The group purports to act as armed vigilantes to "defend" Negroes who are "under attack." Concept was first advanced by Maoist Robert F. WILLIAMS, who is a disciple of "meeting violence with violence." The chairman of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee has charged the group with being Communist infiltrated and having "accented disguised Communist assistance to a substantial degree." Ideologically, however, it appears to be closer to the Peking line than the orthodox Communist Party.

PROGRESSIVE LABOR PARTY (PLP)

Although not a Negro organization, this communist organization has a Black Liberation Commission headed by extremist William EPTON, and constantly exhorts the Negro to revolt. The PLP, openly Maoist, splintered from CPUSA in 1962, and played a strong role inciting violence during the Harlem riots. It is attempting to take over or control SDS.

SOUTHERN CHRISTIAN LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE (SCLC)

Basically a civil rights organization. It has connections with the CPUSA and CP sympathizers but has maintained a moderate posture and espoused non-violence but threatens use of minor civil disobedience as necessary. It is in a state of reappraisal and needs rebuilding after assassination of its leader Martin Luther KING, Jr. who was succeeded by Rev. Ralph D. ABERNATHY, and the relative lack of success of the highly publicized Poor People's Campaign in 1968. It is conjectural whether it can survive under its present leadership and staffing. Allegedly it plans a moderate approach in the future in view of the new administration and the country's more conservative mood.

BLACK STUDENT UNIONS (BSU)

These black student groups (bearing different names on some campuses) are not nationally affiliated or controlled yet ^{but} are autonomous. Members frequently are affiliated with other black extremist organizations. Articulate, demanding, and radical these students have been responsible for much of the current campus related unrest and disorder. Outrageous demands professed to be non-negotiable and supported by white sympathizers (faculty, students and non-students) and Third World Liberation Front (an amalgam of Blacks, Mexicans, Filipinos, Chinese, Japanese, and Indian students) have made it possible for this relatively small percentage of dissidents to disrupt large universities and colleges.

THE HESBURGH LETTER

Ten days ago the Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, President of the University of Notre Dame addressed a letter to the students of the University. The fact that he had written the letter, that he had taken a tough stand and that he threatened swift direct action in case of violence at Notre Dame was picked up by the news services and sent throughout the journalistic world, more or less, in just that form. Hesburgh was shortchanged by press media handling, because his sensitive and preceptive letter dealt with the entire "University in a free society philosophy", simply and realistically stated, and civilizations need to preserve the academic community as a free institution. Hesburgh's letter is totally void of dogmatic religious flavor, utopianism and ivory tower mysticism. It is rather his clearly stated and studied presentation of the University life as he understands it, the necessity of preserving and improving it and the steps he intends to take to do just that. The Hesburgh letter, an academic Gettysburg address, may well be a product of historical significance in 1969 and in years to come.

Letter to Students

This letter has been on my mind for weeks. It is both time and overtime that it be written.

My hope is that these ideas will have deep personal resonances in our community, although the central problem they address exists everywhere in the university world today and, by instant communication, feeds upon itself. It is not enough to label it the alienation of youth from our society. God knows there is enough and more than enough in our often non-glorious civilization to be alienated from, by you young, middle-aged, or old.

The central problem to me is what we do about it and in what manner, if we are interested in healing rather than destroying our world. Youth especially has much to offer idealism, generosity, dedication, and service. The last thing a shaken society needs is more shaking. The last thing a noisy, turbulent, and disintegrating community needs is more noise, turbulence, and disintegration. Understanding and analysis of social ills cannot be conducted in a boiler factory. Compassion has a quiet way of service. Complicated social mechanisms, out-of-joint, are not adjusted with sled hammers.

Now to the heart of my message. You recall my letter of November 25, 1968. It was written after an incident, or happening if you will. It seemed best to me at the time not waste time in personal recriminations or heavy-handed discipline but to profit from the occasion to invite this whole university community, especially its central councils of faculty, administration, and students, to declare themselves and to state their convictions regarding protests that were peaceful and those that threatened the life of the community by disrupting the normal operations of the university and infringing upon the rights of others.

I now have a statement from the Academic Council, the Faculty Senate, the Student Life Council, some College Councils, the Alumni Board, and a whole spate of letters from individual faculty members and a few students.... In general, the reaction was practically unanimous that this community recognizes the validity of protest in our day - sometimes even the necessity - regarding the current burning issues of our society: War and peace, especially Vietnam; civil rights; especially of minority groups; the stance of the university vis-a-vis moral issues of great public concern; the operation of the university as university. There was also practical unanimity that the university could not continue to exist as an open society, dedicated to the discussion of all issues of importance if protests were of such a nature that the normal operations of the university were in any way impeded, or if the rights of any members of this community were abrogated, peacefully or nonpeacefully

I believe that I now have a clear mandate from this university community to see that: (1.) our lines of communication between all segments of the community are kept as open as possible, with all legitimate means of communicating dissent assured, expanded, and protected; (2.) civility and rationality are maintained as the most reasonable means of dissent within the academic community; and (3.) violation of others' rights or obstruction of the life of the university are outlawed as illegitimate means of dissent in this kind of open society. Violence was especially deplored as a violation of everything that the university community stands for.

Now comes my duty of stating, clearly and unequivocally, what happens if. I'll try to make it as simple as possible to avoid misunderstanding by anyone. May I begin by saying that all of this is hypothetical and I personally hope it never happens here at Notre Dame.

But, if it does, anyone or any group that substitutes force for rational persuasion, be it violent or non-violent, will be given 15 minutes of meditation to cease and desist. They will be told that they are, by their actions, going counter to the overwhelming conviction of this community as to what is proper here. If they do not within that time period cease and desist, they will be asked for their identity cards. Those who produce these will be suspended from this community as not understanding what this community is. Those who do not have or will not produce identity cards will be assumed not to be members of the community and will be charged with trespassing and disturbing the peace on private property and treated accordingly by law.

The judgment regarding the impeding of normal university operations or the violation of the rights of other members of the community will be made by the dean of students. Recourse for certification of this fact for students so accused is to the tri-partite Disciplinary Board established by the Student Life Council. Faculty members have recourse to the procedures outlined in the Faculty Manual. Judgment of the matter will be delivered within five days following the fact, for justice deferred is justice denied to all concerned.

After notification of suspension, or trespass in the case of non-community members, if there is not then within five minutes a movement to cease and desist, students will be notified of expulsion from this community and the law will deal with them as non-students.

Lest there be any possible misunderstanding, it should be noted that law enforcement in this procedure is not directed at students. They receive academic sanction in the second instance of recalcitrance and, only after three clear opportunities to remain in student status, if they still insist on resisting the will of the community, are they expelled and become non-students to be treated as other non-students, or outsiders.

There seems to be a current myth that university members are not responsible to the law, and that somehow the law is the enemy, particularly those who society has constituted to uphold and enforce the law. I would like to insist here that all of us are responsible to the duly constituted laws of this university community and to all of the laws of the land. There is no other guarantee of civilization versus the jungle or mob rule, here or elsewhere.

I have studied at some length the new politics of confrontation. The rhythm is simple: (1.) find a cause, any cause, silly or not; (2.) in the name of the cause, get a few determined people to abuse the rights and privileges of the community so as to force a confrontation at any cost of boorishness or incivility; (3.) once this has occurred, justified or not, orderly or not, yell police brutality - if it does not happen, provide it by foul language; physical abuse, whatever, and then count on a larger measure of sympathy from the up-to-now apathetic or passive members of the community. Then call for amnesty, the head of the president on a platter, the complete submission to any and all demands.

So it has gone, and it is generally well orchestrated. Again, my only question: Must it be so? Must universities be subjected, willy-nilly, to such intimidation and victimization whatever their good will in the matter? Somewhere a stand must be made.

I only ask that when the stand is made necessary by those who would destroy the community and all its basic yearning for great and calm educational opportunity, let them carry the blame and the penalty. No one wants the forces of law on this or any other campus, but if some necessitate it, as a last and dismal alternative to anarchy and to mob tyranny, let them shoulder the blame instead of receiving the sympathy of a community they would hold at bay. The only alternative I can imagine is turning the majority of the community loose on them, and then you have two mobs. I know of no one who would opt for this alternative - always lurking in the wings.

We can have a thousand resolutions as to what kind of a society we want, but when lawlessness is afoot, and all authority is flouted, faculty, administration, and student, then we invoke the normal societal forces of law beneath our hapless and hopeless gaze. I have no intention of presiding over such a spectacle: Too many people have given too much of themselves and their lives to this university to let this happen here. Without being melodramatic, if this conviction makes this my last will and testament to Notre Dame, so be it....

May I now confess that since last November I have been bombarded mightily by the hawks and the doves - almost equally. I have resisted both and continued to recognize the right to protest - through every legitimate channel - and to resist as well those who would unthinkingly trifle with the survival of the university as one of the few open societies left to mankind today....

I truly believe that we are about to witness a revulsion on the part of legislatures, state and national, benefactors, parents, alumni, and the general public for much that is happening in higher education today. If I read the signs of the times correctly, this may well lead to a suppression of the liberty and autonomy that are the lifeblood of a university community. It may well lead to a rebirth of fascism, unless we ourselves are ready to take a stand for what is right for us. History is not consoling in this regard. We rule ourselves or others rule us, in a way that destroys the university as we have known and loved it.

PERSONAL AND CONFIDENTIAL

Washington Field Office
24 March 1969

MEMORANDUM FOR: Headquarters

ATTENTION :

Chief, Special Activities Division

SUBJECT :

PROJECT RESISTANCE
533 989 I SD/1

1. On 2 March 1969, a confidential informant, who is employed as a teacher and head of department with the District of Columbia Public School System, provided Special Agent [REDACTED] this office with the following information.

2. Black militant and extreme leftist activity within the D.C. School System has dramatically increased within the past six months. A slogan being utilized to rally the students is for them to destroy "Caucasianism, Christianity and Capitalism." An individual who has been personally active at various high schools was identified as one CASSELL (fnu) and it was noted that this man recently was an unsuccessful candidate for the Washington, D. C. City Council. The informant also declared that the majority of teachers in the D.C. School System are members of the Teacher's Union and are openly sympathetic with the militancy program. The role of the Students for Democratic Society (SDS) has been almost negligible since the black leaders and students believe this organization to be white-controlled and, in fact, really not cognizant of the negro problem.

3. The informant further advised that many students of high school age are carrying firearms and will probably use these weapons at the slightest provocation. [REDACTED] cited an example of the shooting of two persons following a basketball game at Springarn High School and stated that the day after this occurrence two shotgun blasts were fired in the halls of that school. The latter incident was not revealed to the local news media and the individuals responsible have yet to be identified or apprehended. In this respect, militant leaders are urging all negro students not to cooperate with police or civil authorities. The informant believed that, if the current trend remains unchecked, there is a good chance of summer civil disorders in the Washington, D. C. area and that such outbreaks would be formulated by the young people.

MEMORANDUM FOR : Deputy Director for Support
SUBJECT : Presidential Dinner Honoring Apollo 11
Astronauts

1. This memorandum is for information only.
2. Wednesday night, 13 August 1969, President Richard M. Nixon will be the host at a gala dinner-testimonial in the Century Plaza Hotel, Los Angeles, California, to honor the three Apollo 11 astronauts. In addition to the guests of honor, some 1500 VIP's have been invited. The impressive list includes high-ranking government officials and a cross section of prominent persons from many other fields including industry, the arts, the Diplomatic Corps, and the space program.
3. After what should be an exhausting day highlighted by receptions and parades before huge crowds in New York City and Chicago, the astronauts are scheduled to arrive aboard President Nixon's personal plane, Air Force One, at the International Airport in Los Angeles about 8:30 p. m. Helicopters will then take the men and their families directly to the Century Plaza Hotel, where they will be met by President and Mrs. Nixon.
4. Although there has been little advance information surfaced indicating planned disruptions will occur, it is assumed that extensive measures will have been taken by the Los Angeles Police Department, Secret Service, Federal Bureau of Investigation, and other appropriate agencies to guarantee a minimum of harassment and threat of disorder. Large crowds must be anticipated, in view of the occasion and the important personalities who will be present.

5. Reportedly the Student Mobilization Committee, which is controlled by the Young Socialist Alliance (youth arm of the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party) is sponsoring a demonstration at the hotel during the dinner. Initially the demonstration was to consist of picketing, followed by a rally, to protest the cost of the U. S. space program and the failure to use these monies on other crucial domestic problems such as welfare. However, in order to obtain a more favorable public image and gain more support for the protest, the demonstration is now being publicized as a protest to the war in Vietnam. Enthusiasm for and general response to the SMC call seems to have been weak to date. The activist Women Strike for Peace pacifist group, for instance, has refused to either donate funds to the SMC or to participate in the demonstration. In addition to the SMC demonstration, it is expected that there will be some disruptive activity by individuals and perhaps small groups. No information has been noted of any planned action by minority groups. The SMC has demanded that the Los Angeles Police Department block off the streets near the hotel for the use of the demonstrators. No decision has been made yet, but it would seem more probable that the crowds will be kept at a reasonably safe distance from the hotel as a precautionary measure. It is the estimate of this office that the authorities will be able to maintain order in and at the hotel site.

2. Because of Headquarters' responsibility for periodic assessment of the products of continuing projects, it is now necessary to obtain an approximation of the professional and clerical hours expended monthly in behalf of the Subject assignments.

3. The difficulty of differentiating the man-hours expended on Project RESISTANCE from other cases is realized, however it is suggested that only the time expended in direct support of this activity be considered in your estimation. Incidental amounts of time in obtaining material while in the normal pursuit of other assignments should be ignored.

4. While man-hours expended in behalf of Operational Support for Recruitment may be much more directly attributable to the assignment, it is appreciated that no record has been kept. However, a monthly estimation of man-hours spent, based upon one month between October and March during which time recruiters are active, is requested.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director of Security
(Investigations and Operational Support)

SUBJECT: Operational Support for Recruitment

1. Operational Support for Recruitment was initiated on 23 February 1967 at the direction of the Deputy Director of Support in response to a request by the Director of Personnel, with the concurrence of the Director of Security. The requirement for the support was based upon the ever-increasing harassment of Agency recruiters by various dissident groups on college and university campuses.
2. The policy established by the DCI in 1967 was, in effect, to protect the security of the recruiters and move the interviewers to a federal building if trouble were expected. In the 1968 recruiting season, which extended from October 1968 to March 1969, the policy was that there be no direct confrontation between the recruiter and the dissidents which would result in publicity, and in 1969 the policy was established as "no publicity".
3. With the excellent cooperation of the Special Agents in Charge and the various resident agents, close coordination and direct liaison was maintained with the recruiters in the various areas. Security personnel, who developed contacts with the various colleges and universities, with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, State and local police, Air Force, Army, and Navy personnel as well as utilizing their existing contacts, were able to provide excellent advance warning of anticipated difficulties.
4. The Office of Security has been able to anticipate and recommend against a recruiter visit in an overwhelming number of situations where incidents did, in fact, occur. In all but a minimum number of these cases a Security representative was present, but not identified with the recruiter, in order to assist by warning of impending escalation of disturbances, to provide moral assistance, and afford a communications link." The recruiters have been most appreciative of this support.

5. In addition to the direct support of recruiters the products of Operational Support for Recruitment have materially assisted in the preparation of Project Resistance reports, briefing other components interested in colleges and universities, assisting Physical Security Division in protecting agency offices, and assisting the Security Command Center.

6. Recent developments in the Office of Personnel Recruitment Division indicate that due to the lower requirements levied upon them for applicants and their contacts on campuses, they no longer will need publicized campus recruitment but rather will exploit most campuses by other means. This should curtail to a great extent the requirements levied upon the Office of Security.

7. The attachment is a breakdown of the estimated hours expended in Operational Support for Recruitment as obtained from all Special Agents in Charge. It should be noted that these figures were obtained from a recruiting year when a low profile was obligatory to the Recruitment Division and Security recommendations were readily accepted. It does not reflect the hours expended during the "shakedown period" and before the mutual cooperation and rapport that currently exists between the participants in the Office of Personnel and the Office of Security.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Headquarters

#533 989 I SD/1

1. Attached are two "hand outs" which were being passed around at Georgia State University. One of these, entitled "Fight to Win" is an SDS promotion. The other is a product of the Young Socialist Workers Party. Attached also from Georgia State is a copy of the Newspaper, the Signal. One of the articles is called "Mastering the Draft."

2. Forwarded also as an attachment is a copy of the Clemson Tiger dated 9 October 1970. Particular articles of interest are "Drug Bust" and "Trice Barred From Course Due To Hair."

4. This letter is being forwarded to Headquarters for their information. This office would appreciate advice as to whether reports of this type are of interest.

1. Reference is made to your memorandum of 19 October 1970, with attachments, and specifically to paragraphs 3 and 4.

2. Headquarters agrees that information such as the report of a penetration Agent should not be solicited. Also it is imperative that no one be left with the impression that our Agency, are compiling a list of dissidents, students or other citizens for any purpose.

3. However, in the continuing interest and obligation of the Office of Security in protecting Agency personnel, installations and projects, any material pertinent to that goal that can be securely obtained is desirable. The evaluation of the security aspects of the donor must of necessity remain within the purview of the field agents with the concurrence of the Special Agent in Charge.

533 989 I-SE

1. In a continuing effort to provide background material in order that the field offices may be made more cognizant of the various dissident groups and their activities, a copy of a newspaper series is attached. The [REDACTED] forwarded the attached series to Headquarters in furtherance of this effort.

2. Each SAC is requested to continue to obtain information of this nature for general distribution when the material will aid in better protection of Agency personnel, projects, and buildings. Your past efforts have been of great value to the Agency and our overall defensive effort.

#533 989 I-SB

1. Recent events dictate the advisability of issuing certain limiting instructions concerning the methods used and degree of effort expended in collecting information in connection with subject case and Operational Support for Recruitment, case I-SB.

2. Effective immediately, and until further notice, all field offices should observe the following guidelines:

No attempts should be made to recruit new informants or sources such as ~~campes~~ or police officials for the express purpose of obtaining information regarding dissident groups, individuals or activities.

No new requests for such information should be levied on existing informants or sources.

3. The above limitations do not preclude acceptance of information gratuitously offered by informants or sources, and field personnel should continue to be on the alert for non-solicited information which might contribute to the protection of Agency personnel, projects and installations.

4. Field personnel should continue to collect newspapers, periodicals, flyers, etc. from overt and non-attributable sources in support of Project RESISTANCE.

5. It is requested that the above information be disseminated promptly to all agents, including Resident Agents.

MEMORANDUM FOR : Deputy Director of Security for Investigations and Operational Support

SUBJECT : Spring Threat to the Agency

1. Since the first announcements late last summer that antiwar activists would attempt to shut down the city of Washington this spring, the only change in the rhetoric has been the addition of more voices in the campaign to encourage widespread participation.

2. The exact date for executing the plan has varied from a generalization ("next May") to the dates of 1 May, 3 May and 4 May. Most often mentioned, however, is the 3rd; and I believe this is far and away the most likely date. May 3 falls on a Monday (the 1st, a Saturday, would not achieve the desired result, and the 4th has been seldom mentioned and has no apparent significance). Regardless of the extent of participation that Rennie Davis, Abbie Hoffman, Michael Lerner (of the Seattle Conspiracy) and others have been able to generate, I am convinced that the planned disruption will come off. The only persistent and practical tactic mentioned is to stall vehicles on bridges and access roads to the city (nails on the highway and large kites on nylon tethers to ensnarl helicopters are examples of other disruptive tactics mentioned).

3. Although future conferences could adopt some changes in the plan, if it goes off on schedule (and it is highly likely that it will), in mid-April a large segment of the antiwar movement (principally under the leadership of the National Coalition Against War, Racism and Repression, the CPUSA-influenced successor to the New Mobe) will present the Government with an ultimatum to adopt immediately the "People's Peace Treaty" recently hammered out in Hanoi by antiwar radicals and North Vietnam functionaries (copy attached) or be closed down by activists.

4. The stalled vehicle plan itself is undoubtedly a romantically brash and imaginative strategy to young peaceniks. There will be some takers, and it will not take many to do the intended job.

SUBJECT : Spring Threat to the Agency

5. I believe our office response and planning should be started now with three months of forewarning. Our objective should be naturally the protection of our buildings and where possible our people, and assisting in any way possible the routine conduct of Agency business. I suggest that overnight sleeping and eating facilities be readied to precede the vehicle stall (now tentatively scheduled for 6:00 a.m. on the 3rd of May). Perhaps a security complement should remain in Agency buildings from roughly 2:00 a.m. on the 3rd until the stall is handled by responsible police jurisdictions.

6. Additionally, other components should be made aware of the strong disruption possibility so that they may plan accordingly for the continued presence of key people.

7. Activists threaten to continue this tactic day after day until the Government surrenders to their demands, but probably one day will be all they can manage.

8. This Office will keep you advised, as promptly as possible, of any change in the disruption plan as it now stands.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

1. On 2 May 1972, [redacted] and the undersigned visited the U.S. Secret Service Bureau, Intelligence Division, Room 812, 1800 G Street, N.W., Washington, D.C.

2. The call was in response to a longstanding invitation made by [redacted] current liaison officer and member of the Secret Service, Intelligence Division, with whom this office has officially exchanged information for several years. The purpose of the visit was to familiarize ourselves with the Secret Service operation and to determine how it can best serve our function.

3. Pat and I were briefed by [redacted] the Chief of the Subversive Section and [redacted] Chief of the Liaison Section. Secret Service officials are aware that the limited activities of this office are designed only to enhance Mr. Osborn's capacity to protect the personnel and facilities of the Agency domestically.

4. The briefings and discussions were most informative and beneficial. [redacted] and [redacted] expressed a willingness to assist us in anyway they can. As a result of this visitation, I believe we have strengthened our liaison with a valuable contact and have established an open channel to any pertinent information we may require in the future.

SUBJECT : Arab Terrorist Activity

1. I have enclosed two articles which provide some insight into worldwide Palestinian guerrilla operations. The first article is taken from the Sunday edition of the Washington Post dated 15 October 1972, entitled Israel: Fighting Terror with Terror by Raphael Rothstein, co-author of the book Fedayeen: "Guerrillas Against Israel."
2. This article points out that the ~~M~~ Fatah, the Palestinian guerrilla organization and its affiliate the militant Black September group is supposedly headquartered in Beirut, Lebanon. The article also notes the various countries in Europe where the Fedayeen operatives are active. Background information on the movement's leaders is also provided.
3. The second article concerns the most recent letter bombing incident which took place in New York City on 15 October 1972.
4. I hope these bits of information will help.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Acting Chief, Operational Support Division

SUBJECT : Distribution of Selective CI/CE Information to Area Security Officers

1. In the course of everyday business operations, certain pertinent information will occasionally appear which could be of benefit to those Agency components that have domestic installations.

2. Heretofore, the CI/CE Branch has not made it a practice of contacting domestic Area Security Officers unless we were specifically requested to do so by the Area S. O. or the front office. However, since certain components such as DCS, FR Division, etc. maintain installations in Federal buildings, it is believed that an early warning program based on impending demonstrations and protests would be of extreme value.

3. In the past it has not been the practice of this Branch to send a copy of our Monthly Report on possible threats to Agency installations to our Area S. O. 's. The above mode of operation as we understand it, was implemented primarily to play down the existence of the CI/CE function in the Office of Security.

4. It is felt, however, that the dissemination of pertinent information to Area Security Officers will not publicize their existence if done in a discreet manner. In fact, the information could help to improve the overall security of the organization.

5. It is therefore requested that: 1) Area Security Officers be placed on the monthly routing of the CI/CE Situation Report; 2) the CI/CE Branch be permitted to disseminate at its discretion pertinent information on a selective basis to Area Security Officers or selected personnel in areas that do not have a Security Officer.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director of Security (IOS)

SUBJECT : Possible Agency Security and Surveillance Publicity

1. The Institute for Policy Studies (IPS), the Washington based radical "think tank" of the New Left, is reportedly planning a major attack on all aspects of "security and surveillance" carried on in the United States.

2. The 1973 project supposedly will include, but not be limited to, an analysis of elementary and high school security systems, police programs, and federal law enforcement procedures.

3. George Pipkin, a current IPS research fellow, has distributed a questionnaire to several hundred schools on a nationwide basis seeking detailed information on all aspects of school security. This research project is operating under a grant provided by the Field Foundation, and Pipkin has assured recipients of the questionnaire that "information from this survey will be held in strict confidence, will be distilled into statistical form, and used as research material for seminars and publications."

4. In addition, Eqbal Ahmad, the Pakistani Moslem radical recently acquitted in the "Harrisburg 7" trial, has been added to the IPS staff as an expert on "counter-counter-insurgency." Mr. Ahmad is a former fellow from the University of Chicago, Adlai Stevenson Institute for International Affairs. He holds a doctorate from Princeton University in the field of International Relations. He has written a number of articles on revolutionary and guerrilla movements and governmental responses to them. During his stay in the U. S., Mr. Ahmad has been very active in the U. S. antiwar movement.

5. For your information a brief rundown on the Institute for Policy Studies, 1520 New Hampshire Avenue, Washington, D. C. 20036 follows:

IPS has its genesis in the Peace Research Institute which began operations in Washington, D. C. on 5 April 1961, with an announcement that it would serve as a private agency to undertake and stimulate research in all the fields relevant to peace, security, disarmament, and international order. Late in 1963, the Peace Research Institute merged with the Institute for Policy Studies, which had been founded by Marcus G. Raskin and Richard J. Barnet (both active leftist intellectuals).

According to its co-founders, the Institute is an independent center of intellectual activity in which scholars and government officials can exchange ideas and collaborate on some of the problems most critically in need of new thought. A staff of 25 individuals, including 15 fellows, identifies the topics which the Institute will explore and on which it will make independent judgments. IPS has three basic goals:

- a. To study the governmental process at first hand in order to focus on the social, political, and economic reality in which major public problems must be considered.
- b. To fashion possible solutions to some of these problems.
- c. To consider how these solutions might be put into effect through the institutions of society.

[REDACTED]

In recent years, the Institute has concentrated its efforts on the so-called "U.S. military - industrial complex." It is directed by leaders of the New Left and supported by tax-exempt contributions from foundations, universities, colleges, and individuals. It operates on a school year calendar (September - June) and accomplishes its goals through research projects, seminars, briefings, publications, and conferences.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director of Security (PSI)

SUBJECT : Office of Security Support to Agency
Recruiters - Project RESISTANCE

1. A review of the Office of Security files concerning security support to the Office of Personnel recruiters reflects that this activity started in February 1967 when the then Deputy Director for Support directed the Office of Security to assist the Office of Personnel recruiters in view of the ongoing harrassment of Agency recruiters in various colleges and universities... Tab A gives a general summary on the background of the problem and details some of the activities that took place. Tab B is a summary of the manhours expended by the various field offices in support of this effort. In December 1970 the requirement for security support in the recruiting activity was curtailed to a great extent due to the smaller quotas required of the recruiters and the fact that interviews could be arranged through campus contacts.

2. A complete review of the files reflects that the support to the recruiters took the form of direct support on the campus, arranging for alternate interviews in federal buildings near the campus, checking with campus officials and local police units in advance of the recruiters visit to determine the extent of any dissident protest on the day of the recruiters visit, and coordination with various organizations such as the FBI, State and local police, and military intelligence organizations to provide advance warning of anticipated trouble on the campus.

3. A complete list of the colleges and universities visited by the Office of Security representatives, the date of the visit and a brief summary of the type of support rendered, is summarized in the attached report. No incidents or publicity occurred as a result of this support.

Deputy Chief
Staff and Operations Branch

CONFIDENTIAL

OPERATIONAL SUPPORT FOR RECRUITMENT

In February 1967 the DDS directed the Office of Security to assist the Office of Personnel Recruiting Division in any way possible. This was based primarily on a recruiter being held a prisoner at Columbia University for several hours. The instructions to the field offices presented a great deal of a challenge due to the fact that the recruiters are open and field offices are under cover. However previously the recruiter based his predictions of difficulty on his own experiences, contact with DCS and information he could get from FBI at Washington, D. C., contact with Security people was forbidden.

Security was first asked to afford available information, make discreet inquiries and to set up space for recruiters in Federal space when trouble was anticipated. Trouble was then defined as violent confrontations; possible physical harm to recruiters and great publicity.

Harrassment developed along the following lines:

Harrassments --

1. Passing out handbills saying "You may have already won"
Call such & such number which was the recruiter's number.
2. Reporter signing up for employment interviews.
3. Dissidents signing up for employment interviews.
4. Picketing
5. Obscene and threatening phone calls.
6. Sit-ins or Be-ins.

7. Obstructing halls and door ways.
8. Confrontation -- attempting to have dialog with recruiter to explain Government or CIA policy.
9. Actually holding them prisoners.
10. Finally as in Ann Arbor - blowing up the recruiting office.

They threatened entrapment -- getting a female interviewer into a closed room with recruiter, tearing clothing messing her hair and yelling rape -- This fortunately hasn't happened.

Mr. Osborn addressed the September 1968 Recruiters' Conference where he promised them prompt intelligence so as not to walk into a hotbed, a network of field contacts, reliable and quick communications and moral support but no body guards. The official policy for recruiters prompted by the President and the DCI was no eyeball to eyeball confrontations with resulting publicity but to ignore pickets or photos of recruiters and to utilize campus security but leave if that security breaks down. Security was to recommend but ultimate decision to visit a campus remained with recruiter.

This prompted one of the few purely intelligence gathering assignments to the field offices. Restrictions on contacting FBI at local levels were dropped; recruiters, field offices and resident agents were in direct contact.

The field offices responded extremely well. They used existing contacts at the various colleges, developed new informants and came up with information that would indicate that they attended some of the dissident meetings. They developed files on the universities and colleges, came to know all the campus security people, special units in the local and state police as well as other knowledgeable people not further identified.

The field office information combined with the take from Project RESISTANCE explained recently by _____ of SAD, has given us the ability to give an excellent prediction on the possible dissident activity at the various campuses prior to a recruiter's scheduled visit.

We have been able to recommend against a recruiter's visit where publicity has occurred on all but one or two cases, which I believe could not have been determined in any event. These were cases where two or three people crawled out of the woodwork apparently operating independently of any organized group and without prior planning.

As Security could only make recommendations against not going to a college there were a few times when Security and recruiters disagreed on the possibility of trouble, one must understand that the more aggressive recruiter wanted to do his job -- didn't want to back down from the creeps, and so forth and it was his decision to go or call it off. When this occurred, we would send a man to stay on the fringe area, attempt to spot build-ups and advise further action by the recruiter plus communicating the information to Headquarters. On some situations Headquarters was receiving calls every 30 minutes on the actions and a few times where Security decided there was danger in remaining, the information was sent up to [redacted] and a few times to Mr. Osborn who then used his influence to get the recruiter out. Paint and acid was being thrown in some cases bomb threats made against the building.

During the September 1969 Recruiters' Conference the guidelines became more strict to the point that there was to be "no publicity" ~~connected with recruiting. This is almost impossible.~~ Especially in view of the fact that the recruiters' not going to a campus created publicity. We recommended against going to one campus and the recruiter cancelled his trip. The dissidents didn't believe the school officials that the recruiter was not on campus and made a physical search of the school, intending to throw him off bodily. The result was, of course, publicity. It also caused a flurry of memoranda at Headquarters.

With experience we are now avoiding the trouble spots so little publicity is being given recruiters unless they happen to be on campus with Dow or GE who are the primary targets now. Fortunately the black groups have not caused as much trouble. But in the Support to Recruitment, when we do not get publicity is when we are doing the best job. Also we get calls now from other staff people wanting to know the situation at various schools, on behalf of their attending the school or of interest to their children. Recently DIA, who has experienced some of our difficulties, wanted a briefing on our methods of operation.

When _____ Chief, Recruiting Division, recently spoke to the SAC Conference he stated that the bearded ones had at least accomplished one good thing. They had caused Security and Personnel to work more closely together than in the history of the Agency.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director of Security, PSI

SUBJECT : Inclusion of "Counter Intelligence Corps"
Information in PROJECT RESISTANCE Reports

1. Reference is made to your recent verbal request to determine whether Counter Intelligence Corps dissident surveillance information was included in Project RESISTANCE reports and if so, were these reports disseminated outside the Agency.

2. A review of Project RESISTANCE files indicates that the Office of Security published a number of Situation Information Reports from June 1968 until late 1972, when publication was discontinued. These reports, published generally on a weekly basis, consisted of an analysis of past events of dissident groups and a calendar of forthcoming events. They included information gathered from public news sources, reports of other federal agencies, mainly the FBI, the Army, and the Air Force, plus a small number of liaison contact reports with Washington, D. C., and suburban police agencies.

3. U. S. Army originated information included in the reports came in the main from TWX summaries produced by the Army Intelligence Center at Fort Holabird, Maryland. To a lesser extent, information from CIC counterintelligence summaries was also included. The TWX summaries were received by the Office of Security on a daily basis from June 1968 until April 1970. All of the TWX summaries and the few counterintelligence summaries received by this Office from the Army were finished intelligence products, and none of them included raw surveillance data.

4. The Situation Information Reports were generally consumed within this Agency, however, a number of them were given to the Secret Service and a limited number were disseminated to local police agencies. The reports disseminated to the Secret Service were rewritten to extract information received from other government agencies. Although the RESISTANCE files are not clear as to whether the same procedure was followed with reports given to local police agencies, it is assumed that such was the case.

5. The undersigned reviewed your referenced requirement with _____ and _____ both of whom served in the unit which produced the Situation Information Reports. _____ and _____ stated to the best of their knowledge the Office of Security did not receive raw data surveillance reports from the U. S. Army. All of the reports received were as described above, and they know of no instance in which the Office of Security disseminated outside this Agency a Situation Information Report containing information gathered by another federal agency.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director of Security, PSI

SUBJECT : Review of Rockefeller Commission Report

1. You are referred to my memorandum of 13 June 1975 captioned, "Inclusion of 'Counter Intelligence Corps' Information in Project RESISTANCE Reports," and your continuing requirement for a review of the Presidential Commission's Report.

2. As a result of my continuing review of the Presidential Commission's Report and particularly to a statement appearing on page 156, "The SIR's were not furnished to the FBI. Neither were copies furnished to local police departments," I reinterviewed _____ and _____ on 17 June 1975 concerning their recollections of the dissemination of SIR's. Both _____ and _____ recalled that _____, Chief of the Special Activities Division, handcarried a limited number of SIR's to the Mc Lean Substation of the Fairfax County Police Department. The copies of the SIR's disseminated by _____ only contained a calendar of the forthcoming events which were reviewed prior to delivery so that all Third Agency information was deleted. Such dissemination was very minimal and only occurred when forthcoming events of dissident movements indicated future protest activity in the Washington, D. C., area. Neither _____ nor _____ recalled the dissemination of such reports to any other police agency in the Washington, D. C., area.

3. I have again reviewed volumes one through five of Project RESISTANCE (OS#533 989) and did not notice any notations, comments, or memoranda which would indicate the actual dissemination of SIR's to federal, state, or local agencies other than the Secret Service. Since the Commission investigators had access to the same files, it would appear that their statement as set forth above is accurate as long as it is based solely on their review of Project RESISTANCE files.

DETAILS

The enclosed reports were submitted by [REDACTED] and they were read and discussed. [REDACTED] was told to compliment the Agents for a job well done.

[REDACTED] was advised to have the Agents play their activity in a "low key" and keep their visits down to one-a-week unless there were special events taking place where they would have to attend in order to learn what was going on.

Coverage assignments were specified:

[REDACTED] - Control
[REDACTED] - WSP
[REDACTED] - WPC
[REDACTED] - SNIC
[REDACTED] - CORZ

Since this activity will require each person being out at least two nights a week, it was agreed to pay [REDACTED] a month plus expenses; [REDACTED] a meeting, plus expenses, because [REDACTED] is putting in a full days work each meeting: [REDACTED] salary will remain the same, [REDACTED] plus expenses.

Emphasis was put on timely reporting and close coordination.

Telephonically received from [redacted] 15 September 1967.

There will be a demonstration at the White House on Wednesday, ^{20 September 67} at 12:30 attended by about 1 to 2,000 WSP members from all over the U.S. The local group is not too enthusiastic about the rally, however, they will participate. The ellipse will be the rallying place after which they will go to General Hersey's office where 5 persons have a permit to see the General. When these five persons are admitted, the office is to be rushed by others. After this, they will go back to the White House and each individual person will do whatever they wish to cause trouble, i.e., demonstrate, sit-in, lay-in etc.

The total time for this has been set for 4 or 5 hours.

OPERATION MERRIMACK

20 SEPTEMBER 1967

FLASH REPORT

meeting held at Lincoln Temple, 11th & R, Washington, D.C. evening of 19 September 1967

Subject of meeting was 21 October 1967 demonstration.

It was reported that on 20 September 1967 three unidentified persons were going to the Pentagon with cameras and drawing materials to take pictures of the entrances and exits. These pictures and drawings will be used to draw up the operational plans for the 21 October demonstration. Key offices and entrances to these offices and classified areas will be the targets. It was reported that if these three persons are stopped they would use every devious means available to accomplish their purpose. It was also reported that if these persons were stopped that as many demonstrators as possible would be contacted and asked to block the various exits from the Pentagon using any means available, such as sitdowns, laydowns, etc., at 1600 hours today.

You are reminded that this information comes from a very sensitive source and that any action taken on this information should not compromise the source of this information.

[REDACTED] visited 2111 Florida Avenue, "Friends meeting house" on 21 September. [REDACTED]. The purpose of the meeting was a critique of the demonstration held at the White House on 20 September 1967. The jist of the critique was that there was confusion and lack of instruction which culminated in the infraction of the police. Also they felt that the police were baffled and will not do anything to them. They are debating using cabs en masse and go to White House and get out at White House. At 12:15 a woman around [REDACTED] of age, last name [REDACTED], came to the registration desk and said she was on the mailing list but did not want to pay the registration fee but wanted all literature she could get. After she left, [REDACTED] said, "I bet she is from the CIA because we know we are being infiltrated by the CIA and we are glad because CIA is afraid of WSP."

OPERATION MERRIMACK PLAN (Remainder of FY-1968)

Operation MERRIMACK Background:

In February 1967, Operation MERRIMACK was activated by the Director of Security to provide timely advance notice of impending demonstrations in order to protect CIA assets and installations on a long-range basis. Accordingly, a small number of [REDACTED] multi-racial covert assets were directed to monitor various protest groups in the Washington area considered to be potential sources of demonstrations against the Agency. One of these agents has successfully penetrated one of the more active local pacifist organizations. The others have actively participated in the various local demonstrations or marches. The results of these limited monitorings has proven to be a valuable source of information, not only for the Office of Security, but for the Intelligence Community as well as the United States Government. In January 1968, the Director of Security re-established the mission of Operation MERRIMACK and directed that it be further sophisticated and expanded. Concurrent with the Director of Security's latest instructions on Operation MERRIMACK, the [REDACTED] [REDACTED], since [REDACTED] had the only ongoing domestic operation suitable to their needs, requested that the Special Activities Division aid [REDACTED] in its efforts to penetrate various groups in the United States who are either in communication with representatives of the National Liberation Front (NLF) and North Vietnam (DRV) or groups whose members can or do visit North Vietnam or NLF controlled areas of South Vietnam.

In order to continue to be fully responsive to both internal and external operational requirements, it will be necessary to:

1. Reorganize and further develop the MERRIMACK operations.
2. [REDACTED] into Operation MERRIMACK and protect current OS assets.
3. Obtain necessary funds herein identified for remainder FY-1968.
4. Formally notify the Federal Bureau of Investigation to coordinate this effort with them and requesting their support as needed to the Agency and the operations. At the same time offering to provide them with all information of interest to them and as requested by them.

A report from [REDACTED] from Resurrection City:

Upon chatting with an unidentified colored woman it was learned that at about 2 AM this morning a group of white people entered the camp and raided the warehouse. It was rumored that these people were going to blow up the place. Arm bands are now needed to mill around the City and [REDACTED] is trying to get one and will continue to cultivate this colored woman.

At about 1000 hours this morning, D.C. transit buses lined up and Poor People entered, destination unknown.

[redacted] called in this report from [redacted] at 1:10

Place: Resurrection City

Time: 1:00 p.m.

Reason: Meeting at which Dr. Ralph Abernathy was speaker. Dr. Abernathy was introduced by a [redacted]

Dr. Abernathy said that he is going to move into Resurrection City with his wife and children today and he is going to stay there until Congress acts on his demands, and if, after 15th of June their demands are not met they are going to stay here until after the 15th of June when they are going to move out and camp on the White House grounds ~~at~~ and Capitol grounds if necessary.

A [redacted] also spoke. She said that she has children in Vietnam and she also said that she would like to see the Johnson family and children there and not hers.

Dr. Abernathy spoke again and said every morning he will outline the days activities for the Resurrection City crowd and he will notify the crowds when to move out for demonstrations. He said that ~~if~~ he will not release any information about his plans to anyone because if he did he would be a poor leader.

Dr. Abernathy said three bus loads came in from New York; two from New Jersey and three from Philadelphia.

Dr. Abernathy is holding a press conference but will not reveal any of his plans about demonstrations.

INTELLIGENCE BRIEFING ON "SOLIDARITY DAY," 19 JUNE 1968

* CURRENT INTELLIGENCE AS OF 18 JUNE, 1200 HOURS

I. How does "Solidarity Day" look as of this moment?

It looks like a "Mixed Bag" of interests. Politically, its composition has been moving from the LEFT to the MIDDLE. This is evidenced by:

A. A growing disenchantment of the Communist Party, USA with the Southern Christian Leadership Conference leadership because of a lack of MILITANCY and failure of the SCLC leaders to get themselves arrested and jailed.

B. The acceptance by Sterling Tucker, a Negro moderate, on 8 June 1968 of the role of National Coordinator of the March. Tucker is the Executive Director of the Washington Urban League.

C. A BROAD MIDDLE GROUND support -

1. Religious support - Catholic, Protestant, Jewish, Humanist.

a. A Special Mass will be held Wednesday morning by Cardinal O'Boyle of Washington.

*b. Also special Presbyterian, Episcopal, Congregational and Lutheran services.

2. Labor support - Washington AFL/CIO, UAW, Transport Union of America.

3. Political support - Americans for Democratic Action. Vice President Humphrey says he backs some "march aims;" Senator McCarthy reportedly offered to be a speaker; and * has accepted an invitation to attend the demonstration.

4. Student support - National Student Association.

5. Pacifist support - anti-Vietnam war groups.

D. GOALS - WHY DO WE MARCH?

To demand an end to poverty and VIOLENCE in American life.

E. Evidenced by the announced SPEAKERS -

1. Senator Edward Brooke (R-Mass.)
2. Walter Reuther
3. Mrs. Martin L. King - possibly someone from the Kennedy family.
4. Roy Wilkins, NAACP Executive Secretary
5. Whitney Young, Executive Director, National Urban League.

II. PLANS

A. The permit for the March allows assemblage at 5 am at the Monument Grounds.

B. Latest announced schedule of the National Mobilization Office of the March is as follows:

1. 6 am - Assemble at the Sylvan Theatre, Washington Monument Grounds.
2. 10:00 - 12:30 - Entertainment not further amplified.
3. 12:30 - 1:30 pm - Walk from the Sylvan Theatre to the Lincoln Memorial via Independence Avenue, *led by the Symbolic Muletrain (13 wagons, 28 mules, 4 horses).
4. 1:30 - 4:30 pm - Speeches.
5. 4:30 pm - Dispersal.
 - a. National Mobilization Fact Sheet calls for everyone to plan to leave the city by 5 pm.

III. NUMBERS

A. No specific goal has been set and Sterling Tucker himself is uncertain.

B. Best guess at this moment -

1. From Washington, D. C.

a. 15,000 to 20,000,

2. From outside Washington, D. C.

a. U. S. Army Intelligence sources estimate 15,000.

C. TOTAL - 30,000 to 35,000. Unlikely to exceed 50,000.

IV. What are the PROSPECTS FOR CIVIL DISORDER?

A. Several factors are present militating against civil disorder and rioting -

1. The demonstration is placing heavier emphasis on an END to VIOLENCE in AMERICA as a result of Senator Kennedy's assassination, in addition to demands to end poverty.

2. 1,000 off-duty policemen, firemen, probation officers have been given permission by New York City Mayor Lindsay to come to Washington to serve as Parade Marshals.

3. Law enforcement in Washington, D. C. is prepared for any eventuality.

a. On the District of Columbia Government and Police Safety level. * 1700 Police assigned to the Rally, 1000 deployed throughout rest of Washington.

b. With the District of Columbia National Guard. * 1150 Guardsmen to be sworn in as special officers of DC Police for crowd control duty. 400 - 500 Reserve Policemen to be assigned to regular duty.

c. With the need for Federal military forces under the Department of the Army, Director for Civil Disturbance, Planning and Operations.

(1) This calls for Task Force Inside Command Post.

(a) Comprises an IMMEDIATE READY ELEMENT of 1000 Federal troops capable of deployment within 2 1/2 hours if on 30 minutes alert or 4 hours without prior notification.

(b) Backed by 1000 Reserve Forces.

(c) Deployment is planned to specific police precincts to restore order on the basis of previously coordinated plans between Police Precinct Captains and military unit commanders.

d. Another factor militating against disorder is the fact that the demonstration plans call for orderly dispersal and the issue over the disbanding of Resurrection City will not next take place until 8 pm, 23 June.

B. What are the factors which might lead to disorder?

1. Militant Negro gang elements in Resurrection City have reportedly threatened to -

a. Paint Lincoln "black" like "us."

b. Blow up the Washington Monument.

2. Students for Democratic Society - members have been urged to shave, dress respectably and infiltrate the demonstration for the purpose of exploiting any opportunity to create disorder.

[REDACTED] reports:

Confidential reliable source reported that:

From inside SNCC Headquarters word was received that Carmichael called this morning from Atlanta, Georgia to advise that there were to be no demonstrations or other activities by SNCC until they heard further from him.

Confidential source talked with a member of SNCC at Headquarters thought to be a foreigner, possibly Nigerian.

As of 1545 hrs. today, SNCC Headquarters was padlocked.

From outside SNCC Headquarters, the word was that there were going to be some demonstrations, told that they would demonstrate tomorrow, using the excuse of protest on the anniversary of the bombing of Naga Saki and the battle of Iwo Gima. These people were obviously Black Muslims. (according to source).

Until further notice, field offices will monitor collegiate, New Left and "underground press" coverage of college and university campuses in their jurisdiction. Information pertaining to militants and activists, their identities and organizational affiliations, their leaflets and propaganda materials, etch. will be forwarded to Headquarters on a regular basis no less than once weekly. Particularly desired are indications of the effectiveness of the militants and their ability to mobilize students of only passive or curiosity-seeking interests. Headquarters is interested in all areas of student militant dissent, both local "causes" and those related ~~indirectly~~ to national and international problems.

Although you should conduct no campus interviews on the matter at this time, a requirement for such interviews of confidential sources may be anticipated and the collection effort above should be utilized to gain intimate familiarity with the names of persons, organizations involved, and the effectiveness of the activities for use by the investigator in ~~conducting~~ the conducting the anticipated interviews.

242SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Reportedly - at a recent clandestine meeting of the United Klans of America, Inc., Realm of Ohio, plans were made for this group to operate in a more militant fashion than previously and to operate "underground" whenever necessary to insure that their activities would not be known to law enforcement authorities.

Mrs. Golda MAIR, member of the Israeli Knesset and internationally known political figure visited the United States in late 1968. Upon her return to Israel she warned the people and leaders of Israel about the dangers implicit in the New Left movement. The movement she said is gaining ground among Jewish students in the United States. In a display of Israeli hypersensitivity, Mrs. MAIR claimed that the (American) New Left is hostile to Israel. Since these students in the next ten to fifteen years will be the formulators of U. S. public opinion, she advocates the establishment of a special forum which will be active among Jewish students abroad - particularly in the U. S. Mrs. MAIR believes the most pressing need is the sending of top professors, lecturers and students to America to meet with U. S. Jewish students in order to put Israel's point of view across.

BLACK PANTHER PARTY:

Following the fatal shooting of two extremist Black Panther members, John Jerome HUGGINS and Alprentice CARTER, during a meeting on the campus of the University of California at Los Angeles on January 17, 1969, police searched the residence of HUGGINS. HUGGINS reportedly had planned a number of armed robberies which were executed by younger members of the Black Panther Party. The officers recovered three rifles, one telescopic site, two shotguns, nine pistols, three knives, one hatchet, one machete, one bayonet, two pounds of black powder, instructions for making explosive devices, medical equipment, a large quantity of ammunition for the rifles and pistols, and Black Panther Party literature, police arrested seventeen Negroes at HUGGINS' residence. Twelve of these were charged with conspiracy to commit assault with deadly weapons and five were later released without being charged.

Continuing the recent trend of dissension and serious, sometimes bloody, bickering in the black radical movement it has been reported that reprisals are soon to come in the turbulent Los Angeles leadership struggle. Following the recent murder of the two Black Panthers at UCLA, allegedly by members of Ron KARENGA's radical black nationalist organization "US," the Panthers are planning retaliation. The Panthers of Los Angeles intend to sponsor raids at the homes of "USers" in order to confiscate weapons in possession of the KARENGA melange. The Panthers say they do not plan to kill or inflict bodily harm. It is reported that the raids will be carried out by members of the Oakland chapter. Twenty Oakland Panthers are reported to be presently in Los Angeles.

If the reported raids are staged it is doubtful that "US" will take them lying down. Such action inevitably stimulates counter-action hence a widening of the already mammoth split in the black extremist family of California.

In view of the continuing strife on California campuses - particularly at the California State College in San Francisco and at the University of California at Berkeley campus - Gov. Ronald REAGAN has stated that he is asking the California Legislature to immediately enact legislation to crack down on student and faculty dissidents. Under the proposed law, students convicted of illegal acts on campus would be expelled and barred from re-entering any California public school for at least one year. Faculty members convicted thusly would be dismissed immediately and not allowed to teach again in California without special permission.

CALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

February 7-9

Columbus, Ohio - The SDS will hold a regional conference at Ohio State University at Columbus. Expected to attend are SDS members from Chapters at Bowling Green University, Kent State University, Whittenberg University (Springfield), Ohio University, Central State University (Ohio), Antioch College, University of Michigan and others.

February 7-9

Atlanta, Georgia - A southwide conference of women is being planned for Agnes Scott College by the Southern Student Organizing Committee. Emphasizing "women's liberation" and concerning women's problems in society and the peace movement, many women actively working for social change on Southern campuses are expected to gather.

February 8

Richmond, California - A coalition of left-liberal groups is being formed in California in response to a need for strong unified direction. An expanded planning committee is reported to be working vigorously to build an alliance of white and minority political groups to influence local, state and possibly national elections. A regional convention is set for 8 February 1969 in Richmond, California.

February 8

*Worcester, Massachusetts - The Worcester Clergy and Laymen Concerned about Vietnam and the Draft Information Service will co-sponsor a conference on the draft. Tentatively announcing they will participate are: The Committee for Legal Research on the Draft; The Civil Liberties Legal Defense Fund; Boston Draft Resistance Group; The American Friends Service Committee; and Boston Medical, Psychiatric and Military Referral Panels.

February 9-14

*A group of an estimated 200 persons will depart Swanquarter, North Carolina, on a six-day bus caravan sponsored by SCLC and led by Willie BOLTON of Atlanta SCLC. The tour will go through Belhaven, North Carolina; Washington, North Carolina; Greenville, North Carolina; Farmville, North Carolina; Wilson, North Carolina; and finally to Raleigh, North Carolina on 14 February. The buses will stop at the outskirts of each city and the participants will walk through the city to protest school racial policies. In Raleigh, the group will contact Craig PHILLIPS, Superintendent of Public Instruction for North Carolina, to discuss issues.

February 10

*Columbus, Ohio - At an SDS meeting on the Ohio State University campus, SDS agreed to fully support a demonstration at the Ohio State Capitol building by the Welfare Rights Organization. Twenty to twenty-five members volunteered to submit to arrest.

February 10-14

*Denver, Colorado - A "Black Awareness Week" Conference at the University of Colorado will be sponsored by the Denver Center Lecture series and Temple Buell College. George MURRAY, militant BPP leader from San Francisco, is to speak at the opening day festivities. Others scheduled to appear at the conference are: Sylvia RENDER, English professor at North Carolina College; Samuel ALLEN, Professor at Tuskegee Institute and Don L. LEE, teacher at Columbia College, both of whom are black poets; Alan LOMAX, a folk song collector; Lou SMITH, Director of Operation BOOTSTRAP in the Watts area; and Dr. Charles NILON, a member of Colorado University's faculty. Dr. Doris SCHWALBE, D. C. lecture series, is reported to be the main organizer of "Black Awareness Week."

February 12-16

Minneapolis, Minnesota - A national conference of black students is being planned at the University of Minnesota. The conference was one of the demands won by the recent sit-in by the school's Afro-American Action Committee.

February 15 & 16

*Reportedly BPP branches throughout the country have received written instructions from the organization's central committee concerning the celebration of Huey P. NEWTON's birthday which occurs on February 17. NEWTON, BPP Minister of Defense, is serving a two to fifteen-year prison sentence. Each branch has been ordered to hold a "Free Huey" fund raising celebration on February 15 or February 16 and to encourage white radicals to assist or to organize their own celebrations. Speakers will be made available by the BPP National Headquarters.

February 13

Chicago, Illinois - Trial is scheduled to begin for eleven members of the Chicago Black Panther Party (BPP) who were arrested 19 December 1969 and charged with "unlawful use of weapons." BPP leaders said that four autos left BPP headquarters with 15-20 BPP members in response to an invitation for consultation by leaders of the "Blackstone Rangers" - Chicago area street gang. Three of the cars were stopped by police, allegedly for traffic violations, and some knives and at least one gun were reportedly found.

February 16

*Seattle, Washington - The GI-Civilian Alliance for Peace is sponsoring a peace march led by soldiers in civilian clothes and composed by military veterans, civilians and active duty military from the Army, Navy, and possibly Air Force. It would begin at the Seattle City Hall and go to the Eagles auditorium where a rally and dance would be held. A spokesman estimated that 300 military and 3,000 civilians would be in attendance. Plans have been made to pass leaflets to publicize the march in Ft. Lewis from 4 February to 15 February and in Ft. Lawton on the afternoon of 9 February. The leaflets will be passed out at odd times of the day by volunteers; they will pass out a few each time, then leave to prevent a confrontation with military authorities. Volunteers were warned of possible consequences of being caught passing out leaflets on a military installation.

February 22

Chicago, Illinois - A city-wide conference on peace will be held by the Chicago Peace Council, at the 8th Street YMCA. The meeting will reportedly deal with: The Vietnam War; Potential Vietnams; Racism and U. S. Foreign Policy; the Arms Race; and Repression - Trade Union, Civilian and GI.

March 3

The trial of James Earl RAY will apparently start on schedule. Judge W. Preston BATTLE of the Memphis Criminal Court has ordered the public defenders office to assign as many persons as necessary to work with defense attorney Percy FOREMAN in order to meet the trial schedule.

March 4

Washington, D. C. - The New Party plans to inaugurate Dick GREGORY as shadow president of the United States at Washington. GREGORY stated at a recent news conference that planned events on the 4th of March (which he considers the astrologically legitimate date for an inaugural) will be completely peaceful.

The New Party co-chairmen GREGORY and Dr. James P. DIXON, president of Antioch College at Yellow Springs, Ohio, plan a shadow inauguration every four years until a New Party candidate actually wins the Presidency.

GREGORY and DIXON have announced plans to: form a shadow cabinet to comment on the performance of the administration and the "coalition congress"; present an alternative to the military-industrial complex budget prepared by the ruling parties which GREGORY terms "too immoral and too corrupt to govern; and to develop new foreign and domestic policies.

March 4

*Cambridge, Massachusetts, etc. - A group of about forty-five professors and graduate students have scheduled a voluntary research halt at M. I. T. to focus attention on how the "misuse of scientific and technical knowledge presents a major threat to the existence of mankind." The M. I. T. organizers are actively encouraging scientists at other universities to schedule similar activities on campus and apparently Cornell and Yale Universities and others will follow their lead. The planning is in no way an official M. I. T. activity and the stopping of research will be done on a voluntary basis and no effort will be made to enforce a compulsory research halt. The idea of stopping research as a "practical and symbolic" expression of the apprehension felt by scientists was in the beginning largely focused on Vietnam but its aims have been expanded. A faculty statement being circulated for signature by the 4 March Steering Committee asserts that "Through its actions in Vietnam our Government has shaken our confidence in its ability to make wise and humane decisions...etc." As well as stopping research, the day of 4 March will be devoted to discussion of problems and possible ways for scientists to initiate political action.

March 16

London, England - Mrs. Coretta KING, widow of Martin Luther KING, Jr., will be the first woman to preach at a regular service in St. Paul's Cathedral, according to authorities in London.

April 5-6

Toronto, Canada - The Communist Party of Canada will hold its 20th Convention Easter weekend.

April 6

(Easter Sunday) - At the sparsely attended "National GI-Civilian Anti-War Action Conference" held in Chicago December 27-29, it was announced that a large series of demonstrations would be held in six or seven U. S. cities on Easter Sunday. Cities mentioned are: Chicago, New York, San Francisco, Seattle, Austin, Atlanta, and possibly Los Angeles. The reason for planning regional centers for the action rather than large national demonstrations was to facilitate more local GI participation in various parts of the U. S. The Conference resolved to seek the support of the NMC for the April 6 demonstrations.

Plans are reputedly well under way and the action has been endorsed by both the Chicago Peace Council.

and the Los Angeles Peace Action Council, two of the major regional anti-war coalitions in the U. S. In Seattle and Atlanta, anti-war GI's are already actively involved in planning for the demonstrations.

On January 13, the national office of the Student Mobilization Committee issued a call for international actions against the War, April 6. In the message to anti-war groups throughout the world, SMC included the request that, "In those countries where American servicemen are stationed, we call on the anti-war movement to make a special effort for GI participation in the peace demonstrations."

To build April 6 on the campuses, the New York SMC has suggested holding "preinduction orientation sessions - anti-war basic training." These sessions would be meant to prepare students subject to the draft to carry on legal anti-war activity while in the Army.

April 24-27

*Washington, D. C. - A National Conference on the "Human Rights of the Man in Uniform" is apparently being planned for the Sheraton Park Hotel by the American Veterans Committee, 1333 Connecticut Avenue, N. W.

April 30-May 4

The National Executive Board and the National Committee of the C. P., U. S. A., met earlier this month in New York City to make preparations for the Party's 19th National Convention. The National Committee endorsed a proposal that the National Convention be held from April 30 to May 4, 1969.

On 17 January a call was issued for the Convention by Henry WINSTON, national chairman, and Gus HALL, general secretary. The call hails "the growing radicalization of black Americans, of workers, of students, and the youth."

Summer 1969

According to Leon SIENANDOAH, new Chief of the Iroquois Confederation, Indian tribes from all over North America will meet next summer to discuss such problems as land disputes and the need for more social services.

SUBJECT : Request for Definition of "Dissidents"

1. Recommendation 17 of the Rockefeller Commission Report states as follows:

"All files on individuals accumulated by the Office of Security in the program relating to dissidents should be identified, and, except where necessary for legitimate foreign intelligence activity, be destroyed at the conclusion of the current congressional investigations, or as soon thereafter as permitted by law."

2. Progress by the Office of Security toward fully implementing this recommendation has been frustrated in the absence of a legal definition of "dissidents" in specific context of the Commission Report. We therefore request that the Office of General Counsel address Recommendation 17 and provide the Office with a definition appropriate to this purge requirement.

3. We would appreciate a reply to our request at your earliest convenience so that we may effectively proceed with implementation of Recommendation 17.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director of Security

SUBJECT : Files Which are the Subject of Recommendation 17, Rockefeller Commission Report

1. In preparation for your taking action in compliance with Recommendation 17 of the Rockefeller Commission Report, you have asked us to help identify the files which are the subject of the Recommendation. While your specific question referred to a definition of the word "dissidents," I believe the files which are the subject of this Recommendation are properly identified with a definition of the word "program" used in the phrase "the program relating to dissidents."
2. When reading the text of Chapter 12 of the Rockefeller Commission Report, it becomes apparent that Recommendation 17 corresponds to the text found in Part C of that Chapter. From my investigation of the files maintained by the Review Staff which were supplied to the Commission and from talking to Mr. Hunt of your office, it is clear that Project RESISTANCE is the subject of this recommendation.
3. Specifically, any files on individuals developed from the materials accumulated by Project RESISTANCE which do not relate to a legitimate foreign intelligence activity should be destroyed.
4. To the extent that you wish to identify other files which, though you are not required to destroy them, may be of the same character as those that are the subject of the Recommendations, it is again necessary to look beyond the word "dissidents." First, I would note that in the absence of a law or regulation requiring it, you are not required to keep any files you do not find useful and necessary. To identify files which may be included in the spirit of Recommendation 17, it is necessary to look at the new Executive Order, Number 11905, which basically prohibits the collection of information concerning the domestic activities of United States persons. Subsection vi of Section 5(b)(7) of the Executive Order does permit the collection and retention of information by CIA concerning persons or activities that pose a clear threat to the Agency's facilities or personnel provided we coordinate this activity with the FBI.

5. Therefore, if we are to live within the intent of Recommendation 17 and destroy files which are not a valid subject of our concern, I believe we must look not to the word "dissident" found in the Recommendation, but the broader language found in the Executive Order. Thus, you may wish to consider destroying any files on any United States person's (as defined in the Executive Order) domestic activities which do not pose a clear threat to this Agency and any files which do not pertain to a legitimate foreign intelligence activity.

6. An example of files which should probably be destroyed would be those accumulated on individuals as a result of Project MERRIMAC (which is the subject of Recommendation 16). It is, of course, very difficult at times to know what should be retained or destroyed. This office will be happy to be of assistance when questions arise concerning the application of the Rockefeller Commission Report or the Executive Order to specific files.

7. When discussing the destruction of records we must be mindful of statutory and regulatory requirements and the "Mansfield Letter" concerning the retention of documents during the current Congressional investigations.

APPROVED FOR RELEASE

Date 1 DEC 1975

Revised 15 JUL 1976

CHRONOLOGY OF THE WASHINGTON SPRING PROJECT (U)

On 15 August 1967, Dr. Martin Luther KING first announced a massive campaign of civil disobedience in Washington, D. C., and other major US urban areas. The plan was reiterated by Dr. KING on 23 October 1967, and also at a conference with newsmen following his testimony before an Executive Session of the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders. At this conference, KING called for a prolonged city paralyzing demonstration in Washington to force Congress to enact a $20 billion a year anti-poverty program for the next 10 years. KING again mentioned the program following a week-long conference (27 Nov - 2 Dec 67) with key personnel of the SOUTHERN CHRISTIAN LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE (SCLC) at Frogmore, South Carolina, and said that the program was to be officially known as the "Washington Spring Project (WSP)." Since that time, KING and his associates have referred to the WSP as the "Washington Camp-In," "Poor People's Camp-In," "April Civil Disobedience Program," "Poor People's Capitol Camp," and "Poor People's Campaign." The latter is the name most commonly used by SCLC at the present time.

KING repeatedly voiced his concern over the failure of the 90th Congress to pass meaningful civil rights legislation during the first session and stated that the time had come for civil rights advocates to camp right in Washington and stay there by the thousands until the Federal Government and Congress did something about the problems of Negroes and other poor people. Although KING's activities were briefly curtailed during the last part of October 1967, as a result of a jail sentence imposed for his activities in the 1963 Birmingham and Selma, Alabama, civil rights demonstrations, KING lost no time after his release in publicizing plans for the WSP. At a 3 November 1967, press conference, held after his release from the Jefferson County Jail, he indicated that the WSP could include massive acts of civil disobedience. Reverend YOUNG, KING's assistant, stated that specific targets of the WSP would be the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Bethesda Naval Hospital, and bridges between the District of Columbia and suburbs. (//)

On 27 November 1967, KING called a high-level meeting of SCLC personnel at the Penn Community Center, near Frogmore, South Carolina. The Center has long been used by KING and his aides for periodic retreats away from persistent journalists. The week-long meeting was again closed to the press, but SCLC Information Director Thomas OFFENBERGER advised newsmen that "acts of massive civil disobedience," such as the camp-in in Washington, would become a major part of SCLC activities in 1968, and in all probability, similar demonstrations would be held in other US cities during the summer. Referring specifically to the WSP, OFFENBERGER stated that "KING would dispatch 30-40 SCLC staff members to nine major US cities and six southern states to recruit a self-policing force for the Washington campaign with the one to follow it." Each of the field workers would be responsible for recruiting 200 volunteers within their respective areas. OFFENBERGER anticipated that approximately 3,000 persons would volunteer for "the hard-core cadre" which would travel to Washington for the initial stage of the WSP. KING felt that this nucleus would be supplemented by large numbers of poor people from the immediate District of Columbia area. It should be noted that over 63 per cent of the population of the District of Columbia is Negro. These additional personnel, although not trained in civil disobedience for this specific occasion, are being counted on to contribute to the general public disorder; however, recent information indicates that the SCLC is having recruiting problems. Other agency reports reveal that recruitment of demonstrators in northern cities has not met expectations; therefore, the SCLC is now concentrating efforts in the south. In North Carolina, some 200 demonstrators have been recruited and, reportedly, a somewhat greater number in Alabama.

Additional support for the WSP has been sought from groups opposed to the war in Vietnam. This would be in keeping with KING's policy of combining the anti-war, civil rights and anti-poverty movements. KING plans that seven or eight anti-war groups will support the WSP. The inclusion of these elements would give the demonstration a more bi-racial character and could increase the chances of a more militant demonstration than might otherwise be anticipated.

On 2 December, when the Frogmore conference closed, KING stated that he would send a letter to Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz outlining the demands he was making in behalf of the poor people. If these demands were not met, the WSP would be held as planned. Although he refused to name the individuals selected to recruit the initial contingent of demonstrators, KING named the principal target cities and states where SCLC recruiters would be active: Boston, Massachusetts; New York City, New York; Newark, New Jersey; Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; Baltimore, Maryland; Washington, D. C.; Atlanta, Georgia; Cleveland, Ohio; and Chicago, Illinois. The states targeted were: Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi. At the conclusion of his interview, KING stated that if troops were used to put down the demonstration, he would call for similar demonstrations in other key cities across the United States.

Reporters again interviewed KING on 4 December in Atlanta, Georgia, and asked him to clarify his goals for the WSP. KING briefly outlined a series of demands which he called "the poor people's jobs or income manifesto." Specifically, KING demanded that the President and Congress establish guaranteed minimum wages for the Nation's poor, revamp the entire welfare program, end unemployment and underemployment, and alleviate slums and starvation in American cities and rural areas. KING also responded to questions concerning the mechanics of the WSP by indicating that the demonstration would begin around the first of April and continue until America responds. In a continued attempt to recruit participants from the Nation's anti-war and anti-draft groups, KING

On 5 December 1967, KING rejected an appeal from President Johnson to cancel the WSP. Leadership for the proposed demonstration, insofar as is known, is provided primarily by the SCLC. Leadership of the SCLC was changed in mid-December 1967, in response to WSP demands. Key personnel emerging from this reorganization were:

President.....Dr. Martin Luther KING
Executive Vice President.....Reverend Andrew J. YOUNG Program Administrator.....Reverend Bernard LAFAYETTE, Jr.
(This is a new position. LAFAYETTE, formerly a field secretary with SNCC, heads the "Washington Campaign")
Executive Director.....William A. RUTHERFORD
(Also a new member of KING's staff, RUTHERFORD was a journalist and also served as consultant to several departments of US Government.)
Washington Area Representatives.....Lister HARKERSON
J. T. JOHNSON
Henry BROWNING
College Coordinator.....Reverend James BEVEL
(BEVEL assists LAFAYETTE in the Washington Campaign. BEVEL has also been active in the peace movement.)

KING remained in the public eye throughout the month of December 1967, and in an attempt to gain maximum publicity for the WSP, he announced on 21 December that an agreement had been concluded with the Public Broadcasting Laboratory (PBL) which would allow PBL to record on video tape the entire planning sequence of the WSP. According to an article which appeared in the 22 December issue of the "Washington Post," the resulting documentary would be offered by PBL through the National Educational Television Network (NET) for broadcast either on the day of or the day after the WSP begins in Washington.

During January 1968, KING held several news conferences and appeared frequently at public meetings to explain the WSP. KING stated he had dispatched 40 veteran SCLC recruiters to the nine northern cities and six southern states to organize and train participants for the WSP. At the 16 January press conference he also stated that after the nonviolent tone had been set, "we will escalate the campaign bringing in thousands of people." The mobilization would be patterned on the bonus marches of the 1930's with the difference being that the WSP would not be run out of Washington. KING said they would stay months and months, as long as it takes to achieve their goals.

KING began the month of February with a visit to Washington as one of the leaders of the 5-6 February anti-war protest sponsored by THE

CLERGY AND AYMEN CONCERNED ABOUT VIETNAM (CLCAY). However, when KING was interviewed at the conclusion of the demonstration, he was queried about the WSP and stated that should the WSP degenerate into violence, he would withdraw his support and abandon the demonstration. He also indicated that if sufficient lodging could not be found for all the demonstrators, a tent city would be constructed at LaFayette Park on Connecticut Avenue and on the Mall between the White House and the Washington Monument. On the evening of 6 February, KING met with several prominent leaders of the Washington Negro community, including Stokely CARMICHAEL, the former chairman of SNCC and currently the chairman of the BLACK UNITED FRONT, a civil rights coalition. The meeting was held amid rumors that CARMICHAEL had accepted the position of Washington Coordinator for the WSP, rumors which CARMICHAEL had neither confirmed nor denied. On the following evening, a meeting was held at the Vermont Avenue Baptist Church. This meeting was attended by approximately 750 persons. KING was joined on the speakers platform by Walter FAUNTROY, the Vice Chairman of the City Council and of the Capitol Area Council of Churches, as well as Washington representative of the SCLC, and Theodore R. HAGENS, the President of the District of Columbia Chamber of Commerce. In a short speech, KING reiterated his earlier statement, but indicated that the WSP was "an almost desperate plea for the Nation to respond to nonviolence before the summer threat of more riots." After the departure of the majority of the audience, KING held a closed-door meeting with CARMICHAEL and other leaders of the BLACK UNITED FRONT. After the meeting, CARMICHAEL stated that he would not overtly interfere or oppose SCLC plans for militant nonviolence but he added that it would be up to each individual to decide what his role would be in the WSP. 31

Perhaps the most significant interview with KING was when he proposed several specific reforms which he said were the minimal demands of the Nation's poor. Likening his demands for the basic Bill of Economic and Social Rights to a bill sponsored by Michigan Democratic Representative John Conyer, KING mentioned two immediate goals which Congress must pass without delay. The first was full employment for all Americans who want to work. The second called for a guaranteed minimum wage, possibly in the form of a negative income tax for those unable to work. Along with these basic demands, KING asked for three long-range programs to aid disadvantaged people regardless of their race. Specifically, he asked for: (1) A two-fold program of rebuilding the Nation's ghettos and elimination of housing discrimination; (2) Expansion of job training; and (3) The upgrading of public education especially in the "inner city." If Congress fails to act by August, KING stated that he would take his demonstration to the National Party Conventions in Miami and Chicago. *

Holding true to an earlier promise to travel to all areas where SCLC recruiters were active, KING embarked on a multiple state tour beginning on 9 February. The first stop in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, set the pattern for future stops. He first contacted SCLC leaders and arranged for meetings with other local civil rights leaders. Afterwards, he arranged a series of workshops designed to inform all interested persons about the goals and tactics of the WSP. On 11 February, KING returned

Washington, D. C., to address a meeting of the District of Columbia Chamber of Commerce. From Washington, he travelled to Birmingham and then to Montgomery, Alabama. He also travelled to Selma for a brief speech on 15 February. During the period 19-23 February, KING attended a ministerial training conference sponsored by the SCLC in Miami, Florida. While there was no outward connection between the training conference and the WSP, it seems unlikely that KING would allow this opportunity to pass without some attempt to familiarize the ministers with his plans. KING then continued his jaunt through the south, attempting to persuade his southern supporters to contribute funds as well as moral support. SCLC has been reported active in all nine cities and the State of Virginia. On 4 March, KING announced that the WSP would be postponed until 22 April to coincide with the reconvening of Congress.

On 8 March, the NATIONAL COMMITTEE FOR A SANE NUCLEAR POLICY (SANE) announced its support of the WSP. No information concerning the type and degree of support to be expected from SANE was indicated. On 7 March, the Howard University Student Assembly appointed a committee to plan Howard University student participation in the WSP. The Washington, D. C., chapter of the American Federation of Teachers also announced that it would arrange classes for school-age children who accompany their parents in the WSP.

On 12 March, the Washington City Presbytery, consisting of 15 church organizations, voted to back the "Poor People's Campaign." Thus, this group joined with the Lutheran Planning Council and the Interreligious Committee on Race Relations, who took action earlier in the week to assist in the SCLC effort to obtain quick action on anti-poverty and related civil rights legislation. In another action, the Reverend Walter E. FAUNTROY, Vice-Chairman of the City Council, Washington, D. C., in a speech at Howard University, stated that "the people of Washington should welcome and assist the followers of Dr. KING." Reverend FAUNTROY further stated "we will show the Congress how they ought to receive the poor people of this Nation." After Reverend FAUNTROY's speech, Mayor Walter E. Washington told a reporter that the city Government would maintain a "cooperative attitude" toward peaceful demonstrators and would help them if it could.

On 4 April, KING was assassinated in Memphis, Tennessee. On 9 April, the SCLC board elected Reverend Ralph ABERNATHY, a former vice president, and said to be KING's closest associate, as president of the organization. The board then reaffirmed unanimously its commitment to the Poor People's Campaign in Washington. Reverend ABERNATHY announced on 10 April, that the WSP would be rescheduled and he named mid-May as a tentative time for the campaign.

In Atlanta, on 21 April, the SCLC released the following tentative timetable for the WSP:

29 April - Reverend ABERNATHY will lead a 100-man delegation to Washington to make demands on Government officials and Congressional leaders.

1 May - If Congress takes no action, the WSP will begin in Memphis with a mass meeting on this date.

2 May - ABERNATHY will dedicate a memorial to Dr. KING at the Lorraine Motel, site of KING's assassination, and then lead a march toward Marks, Mississippi.

4 May - March arrives in Marks to help local residents prepare a mule-drawn wagon train which will wind its way through the South to Washington.

5 May - The first of three major caravans to Washington begins outside Jackson, Mississippi. "Poor People" from across Mississippi start southern leg of campaign by walking to Jackson for mass meeting.

6 May - ABERNATHY leads the southern leg of the march from Jackson. The Caravan, along with others from the Midwest and Northeast, will march part way in cities and states along the route (exact route unspecified) toward Washington and will move part way in buses, cars, wagons, etc.

7 May - ABERNATHY leads the start of a "wagon train", including mule drawn carts, from Marks, Mississippi. This caravan will proceed through Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina, and Virginia, picking up additional people on the way and arriving in Washington "in about 25 days." On this same day, about 1,000 marchers will leave Marks in a bus caravan with overnight stops and rallies planned for Nashville and Knoxville, Tennessee, and Danville, Virginia.

8 May - ABERNATHY will speak at a mass meeting in Chicago, launching the Midwestern caravan.

9 May - ABERNATHY will speak at a mass meeting in Boston, kicking off the Northeastern caravan which is scheduled to move down the East Coast to Washington.

12 May - The first caravan (marchers who went from Memphis to Marks) will arrive in Washington.

13 May - The construction of a shanty town to be known as "The City of Hope," will begin in a "Prominent place" in Washington.

16 May - The Midwestern Caravan will arrive in Washington.

17 May - The Northeastern Caravan will arrive in Washington.

18 May - The Southern Caravan will arrive in Washington.

19-20 - B.P.

21 May - Major demonstrations begin in Washington.

22 May - National Student March in Support

30 May - A massive march through downtown Washington with participants from all sections of the country will take place.

New York City, on 22 April, ABERNATHY, Reverend Andrew YOUNG and Reverend Walter E. FAUNTROY, met in an all-day closed meeting with about 70 experts in the fields of labor, social welfare and civil rights, to seek guidance for the demands they will make on Congress. Attending the meeting at the Carnegie International Building, was a cross-section of Negroes and whites of various persuasions, all of whom were invited by telegram. They included Victor REUTHER of the UNITED AUTO WORKERS; Gar ALPEROVITZ of the KENNEDY INSTITUTE OF POLITICS at Harvard; Bayard RUSTIN of the A. PHILIP RANDOLPH INSTITUTE; Floyd McKESSICK and Roy INNIS of CORE; Dr. Frank RIESSMAN of the NEW CAREERS DEVELOPMENT CENTER at New York University, and Marcus RASKIN of the INSTITUTE FOR POLICY STUDIES in Washington, D. C. Following the meeting, INNIS said that CORE had not yet decided whether to participate in the march beyond providing ideas. CORE's recent position has been that appeals and marches to Congress tend to distract from what should be its main emphasis - creating independent Negro institutions.

Still unresolved is the question of whether the Administration plans to accommodate the SCLC during the WSP. KING had asked Interior Secretary Stewart Udall for permission to set up tents in public parks in Washington, including the Mall, which extends from near the west front of the Capitol to the Washington Monument. Congressional leaders led by Speaker John McCormack, are vigorously urging President Johnson personally to order Secretary Udall to bar the SCLC from using any Government land or facilities. They appealed directly to the President because of a decision the Interior Secretary made in 1966, when without consulting Congressional leaders, Udall granted a permit for several thousand anti-war protesters to use the Mall in their march on Congress. Senate-House leaders were disturbed because Udall gave his permission despite the fact the FBI had circulated advance information that the protesters planned to try to take over the House of Representatives and hold a mock session in its chamber. After this incident, the legislators summoned Udall to an unpublicized meeting at the Capitol and gave him a blistering lecture. Speaker McCormack recently gave orders to James Powell, Chief of US Capitol Police to use whatever force is necessary to block all demonstrations on Capitol grounds. KING had stated that his people would stage the WSP with or without approval. This could be an area where demonstrators could be aggravated and violence ensue.

COMMENT

At present, there is not enough statistical information available to make a valid estimate of the number of participants or the impact this demonstration may have on Washington, D. C. There is little doubt, however, that the District law enforcement authorities will be unable to cope with any situation that reaches the proportions of the 21-22 October 1967, Pentagon demonstrations. During those demonstrations, the city deputized members of the National Guard, but even this proved inadequate because the National Guard in the District of Columbia has only approximately 1,800 members. This created the necessity for Federal assistance.

OPERATION MERRIMACK20 SEPTEMBER 1967*FLASH REPORT

Subject of meeting was 21 October 1967 demonstration.

It was reported that on 20 September 1967 three unidentified persons were going to the Pentagon with cameras and drawing materials to take pictures of the entrances and exits. These pictures and drawings will be used to draw up the operational plans for the 21 October demonstration. Key offices and entrances to these offices and classified areas will be the targets. It was reported that if these three persons are stopped they would use every devious means available to accomplish their purpose. It was also reported that if these persons were stopped that as many demonstrators as possible would be contacted and asked to block the various exits from the Pentagon using any means available, such as sitdowns, laydowns, etc., at 1600 hours today.

You are reminded that this information comes from a very sensitive source and that any action taken on this information should not compromise the source of this information.

THE BLACK MILITANT THREAT TO CIA

Source materials obtained from Government agencies at local, state, and federal levels as well as from the media (including samplings of the underground press) do not indicate that CIA and/or its personnel and installations are considered at this time to be the prime or sole target of any of the numerous black militant organizations or individual black activists.

This is not to say that there is no animus toward the Agency nor any threat to it, but only that there appears to be little closely identifiable personal or organizationally held rancor. However, as CIA is a prominent segment of the "establishment" and, indeed, a most newsworthy one, the Agency is an appealing target for the dissidents and subversives of many hues. To the militant blacks, it would seem to be less vulnerable and invite less antipathy than do other examples of authority, regimentation, discrimination, and "repression" such as the military, law enforcement agencies, and the educational hierarchy. As an organization to which the public, at least, attributes much influence on foreign policy, a close identification with the war in Vietnam, and a variety of domestic activities and relationships (the propriety of which they hold to be moot, at best) the Agency must expect a share of whatever level the militant anti-establishment activity reaches. It has been the subject of considerable diatribe and invective but, to date, a minimum of actual violent action. The situation is fluid and extremist activity has been escalating. The affect the recent election may have is difficult to predict. It may be that the probable increased effort to maintain law and order will have a counter-reaction for a time by an increase in violent opposition.

Selection of CIA as a subject of or scapegoat for harassment and even, perhaps, penetration, by black militant individuals and organizations can in some cases be deemed to be the result of foreign influence and support (psychological, physical, and financial). CIA is, of course, a priority target, and it is known that foreign contacts are made, both here and abroad. In addition, influence is exercised in the black movement by such organizations as the Communist Party USA, Socialist Workers Party (Trotskyist), and Progressive Labor Party (Maoist) which, although not themselves significantly black organizations, do have black activists in their membership and are believed to attempt to control and direct the essentially black organizations through dual memberships as well as by other means, be they overt, subtle or devious.

A target of the "New Left," whether it be the radical elements who are pressing for complete displacement of our social and governmental system, or whether it be the liberal element who generally desire only reform and are willing to labor for change substantially within our existing perimeters, is the so-called "military-industrial" complex in which CIA is viewed as a flagrantly culpable example. So, too, does the "New Left" frequently aid, abet, and cooperate with the black militant movement. There is a trend in most dissident activist groups today, if for no other reason than to develop combined strength for movement toward each one's own main goal, toward unification and mutual support and a general loose amalgamation of pacifist, civil rights, anti-discrimination and student power groups. Thus, a working relationship develops between blacks, student leftists, and anti-war/anti-draft groups. The coalition is frequently tenuous and mutuality of some interests does not usually suffice to support real control or domination by any one organization. Strong efforts have been exerted to lead the black militants but have in large measure failed, as have attempts to organize their strength into United Fronts. The leaders of the respective black organizations are constantly vying for personal and organizational power, not only within but between organizations; and, although even those organizations such as the National Agency for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) and the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), which were formerly deemed moderate and relatively conservative in scope, have become less so, there is still a wide gulf between the aims and methods espoused by ultra-extremist black nationalist groups and those by the more moderate ones. The latter were essentially oriented toward civil rights activity, bi-racial in membership, and willing to attain their goals (usually full integration and rights of citizenship) through effecting change within the system. Today's black extremists go so far as to advocate separatism, including a black nation within the boundaries of the U. S. A., and they claim that revolution and racial warfare are both necessary and proper to attain their goals. They seem to visualize a destruction of capitalist democracy as a necessity, also.

CIA is a clearly visible target, attack upon which if effective, would not only produce headlines in bold print but would severely hamper CIA's efforts to accomplish its very important missions. As of this time, among the more active, more volatile black organizations, and thus more threatening perhaps to the Agency posture, personnel and installations, are the following:

[REDACTED]

Black Panther Party for Self Defense (BPP)

This extremist black organization based in California seems to be the fastest growing organization in recent months. Its extravagant claims and violent posture have captured the imagination of many young blacks - chapters have evolved in a number of large cities. Leaders such as Eldridge Cleaver, Stokely Carmichael, Huey Newton, George Murray and Bobby Seale preach revolution and destruction of our political-economic system. Much of the current violent action nationally has been attributed, probably justifiably, to the BPP. BPP leaders have had much contact with Castro's Cuba and seem strongly influenced by the Chinese Communists. The chairman of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee has described the BPP as influenced by the Communists through infiltration.

Revolutionary Action Movement (RAM)

Probably the most blatantly violent and extremist black power organization - follows the Maoist line and advocates urban guerrilla warfare. Theoretical leader is Robert F. Williams - self-exiled U. S. black, currently residing again in Peking after residences since 1961 in Cuba, China, and Tanzania. Max Stanford, radical U. S. leader, is also associated with BPP. Many black militants of other organizations seem to have at least peripheral connection with RAM.

[REDACTED]

Several groups appear to be RAM front groups: Black Liberation Front - involved in the plot to dynamite Statue of Liberty and Washington Monument and UHURU (Swahili for Freedom).

Black Muslims, aka Nation of Islam (NOI)

This anti-white, anti-police, anti-government black national extremist group headquartered in Chicago and lead by Elijah Poole, aka Elijah Muhammad, is probably the largest and best financed and is a nationwide organization. NOI has achieved respectability of sorts by shrewdly using a shield of religion and insisting that its well disciplined members avoid radical disorder and live moderately. Considerable emphasis is placed on economic benefits. NOI has participated to some extent in activities of other "black power" groups and Communist-front activities, but generally remains aloof. On occasion, the group's publications have been known to reprint articles from Chinese Communist sources.

Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC)

Since creation in 1960 as a nonviolent, bi-racial, civil rights organization, SNCC, under the leadership of Stokely Carmichael, followed by H. Rap Brown, has evolved into a hate group motivated by a revolutionary, direct-action, anti-white ideology that places no faith in democratic procedures. It seems strongly anti-semitic and has established ties with foreign radical groups. It appears to be adhering to the "Third World" concept which is more closely related to a Maoist-Castroite orientation than to the so-called Soviet line. Several of its leaders have openly attacked the CIA amongst broad-brushed denunciations of the establishment. The FBI, in its report for FY 1967, has charged that SNCC represents a serious threat to national security. Phil Hutchings, its new leader, recently announced the dissolution of SNCC's brief association with the BPP and the eviction of Stokely Carmichael.

The Congress of Racial Equality (CORE)

One of the larger organizations, national in scope and headed by Floyd McKissick, it was originally considered one of the more moderate "civil rights organizations," but has gradually increased in militancy and has become more separatist, black supremacist and ideologically aligned with the New Left. Although it has not been cited by any Federal agency or committee, its activities and many of its top personalities show distinct interrelationships with the Communist cause. In 1964 CORE distributed leaflets charging that "Mississippi has been taken over by the CIA and Federal Marshals."

Black Liberation Alliance

As radically and revolutionary as CORE has moved, it was not far enough to satisfy some of its members and in October 1968, a more militant group splintered off to form this organization which will seek to promote racial separatism, Black Nationalism, and the formation of a separate black nation within the boundaries of the U. S. A.

Black Republic of New Africa

A movement for a separate Negro nation to be established in five southern states - spearheaded by the radical Henry brothers (Milton and Richard) of Detroit. President (in exile) is Robert F. Williams. The Henry brothers are leaders in the Malcolm X Society, named after Malcolm X who split with E. Muhammad's Black Muslims. Advocates formation of a Black Liberation Army.

US

A still small but militant black organization based in Los Angeles established on the principle of self respect, self defense, and self determination. Lead by Ron Karenga, a very articulate and clever Negro whose statements frequently are extreme.

Organization of Afro-American Unity (OAAU)

The extremist black militant group in New York City which followed Malcolm X after his split with the Black Muslims. The followers of Malcolm X still purport to believe CIA was responsible for his murder in 1965, despite all the evidence to the contrary.

Mau Mau Society

A small militant black nationalist group in New York City, headed by Charles 37x Morris, aka Charles Kenyatta. Urges disturbances and has apparently taken upon itself the task of providing protection for well-publicized black power leaders.

Deacons for Defense and Justice

Black power group organized in mid-'64 in Jonesboro Arkansas has chapters through the U. S. The group purports to act as armed vigilantes to "defend" Negroes who are "under attack." Concept was first advanced by Maoist Robert F. Williams, who is constant disciple of "meeting violence with violence." The chairman of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee has charged the group with being Communist infiltrated and having "accepted disguised Communist assistance to a substantial degree." Its ideological ties, however, appear to be with the Peking-line and Trotskyite causes rather than the orthodox Communist Party.

Progressive Labor Party (PLP)

Although not a totally Negro organization, it has a Black Liberation Commission headed by William Epton, and constantly exhorts the Negro to revolt. The PLP an openly Maoist organization splintered from the CPUSA in 1962, played a strong role inciting violence during the Harlem riots.

POOR PEOPLE'S CAMPAIGN

* * * * *

2. Indications are that the Poor People's Campaign (PPC) will accelerate rapidly as a potential problem in control, housing, feeding, and recreation from the time of the arrival of the vanguard, Saturday and Sunday May 10 and 11, at least through 30 May, which is the projected date for a giant march and demonstration through downtown Washington, D.C. Monday, May 13, the initial group is to march across a Potomac bridge (presumably Memorial) to a site on which they intend to erect their so-called "City of Hope" or

"Resurrection City". The site has not been definitely settled but it appears that the March leaders intend to make an issue of erecting same along the mall area south of the reflecting pool. Local officials would prefer the Bolling Air Force Base area for the "shanty town". The midwest caravan is due in the District of Columbia May 16 and the Northeast caravan May 17. Large numbers of participants will arrive independently of the March groups. The Southern group which had intended to use a mule train has had difficulties and may not arrive on May 18 unless change in transportation is effected. Several days which may be considered as critical can already be foreseen over and above the continuing hazards existing in the inflammatory conditions of large numbers of people existing in transient status to protest and demonstrate. May 19, the anniversary of Malcolm X's birth, has been declared as a "black holiday" by Black Nationalists in the Los Angeles area. It has been indicated that local Black Nationalists intend to petition the District of Columbia Bureau of Education to declare May 20 a school holiday. The Peking line PLP has designated May 19 and 20 as National Days for Black Unity against the War in Vietnam and has called for nationwide demonstrations. On 21 May the Poor People's Campaign intends to start marches and major demonstrations in the District of Columbia culminating in a large march on May 30. The Memorial Day weekend seems to be the Poor People's Campaign "D Day" which they intend to be a confrontation with government officials. It is planned that Reverend Martin Luther KING's widow will address the multitude.

Specific daily plans have not been announced and it seems that planning for daily activity will necessarily depend on the numbers of people attending, the reception here, response by Congress, and the ability of leaders to control the throng under extreme difficult conditions during tension building periods and subject to the potential of increased harassment and incitement by militant extremist groups and individuals.

Although this has been designated a Poor People's Campaign, it is obvious that it will not confine itself to that theme, but will be utilized as a propaganda medium for Anti-Vietnam expressions and racist statements.

3. Bernard LAFAYETTE, Jr., campaign coordinator of the Poor People's March is calling for behind-the-scenes signals and mapping plans for the massive campaign of disruption and civil disobedience (in Washington, D.C.) while Dr. Ralph ABERNATHY, Chairman of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, acts as public spokesman. According to government security officials, the violent fireworks that LAFAYETTE is planning could reverberate politically around the world as the Communists launch a new military offensive against Saigon.

LAFAYETTE's plan is to have Mrs. Coretta KING, widow of the slain Dr. Martin Luther KING, Jr., address the revolutionary army after all preliminary negotiations are over. Mrs. KING's call to arms is to set the stage for the May 30 confrontation between the mass gathering of the "Poor Army" and government officials trying to keep law and order in the Capital.

LAFAYETTE, who was picked for his key role last December by the late Martin Luther KING, Jr., has already indicated an international follow-up to the "poor army's" campaign. At a recent briefing at the campaign headquarters in Washington, D. C., LAFAYETTE frankly reported "By the end of this campaign, if our demands aren't met, we expect to have an international movement as well as interracial."

The 27 year old LAFAYETTE was an original member of the Nashville student movement, the forerunner of the massive sit-ins in the South. He was a "freedom rider" desegregating interstate bus transportation. A native of Tampa, Florida, LAFAYETTE has also worked in Chicago with the American Friends Service Committee. A former field secretary of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) LAFAYETTE, before coming to Washington, directed a neighborhood service project in the Negro area of Roxbury, a section of Boston.

COMMENT: A. In an FBI report dated 23 May 1967 captioned "Demonstrations Protesting U.S. Intervention in Vietnam" Bernard LAFAYETTE was reported to be an official of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) and a staff member of the Spring Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, New York City. At a meeting held by the committee on the evening of 18 May 1967 in Washington, D.C. at St. Stephen and the Incarnation Episcopal Church, LAFAYETTE stressed the need for recruiting new members into the peace movement. He said that he will be in Washington, D.C. "until the war is over" and that various types of antiwar demonstrations will be held in Washington. The FBI reported that some of the sponsors of the Spring Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, New York City, included members of the Communist Party and the Socialist Workers Party.

B. A special information report dated 30 January 1968 stated that the Reverend Bernard LAFAYETTE, Jr., was a former field secretary of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), a program administrator for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) as well as being very close to Dr. Martin Luther KING, Jr.

4. The state board of the Communist Party in Illinois decided that although the demands of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference are unrealistic and its program unclear, there should be a fight to mobilize around this program. The board desired Communist Party participation in contingents from Chicago Illinois in the campaign and CP support for the mass demonstration in Washington, D.C., presently planned to take place on 30 May 1968.

3. On 10 May 1968 the FBI received reports that attempts were being made to organize a group of American Indians in the Western part of the United States to participate in the Poor People's Campaign. The purpose is that they "are under the control of the Department of Interior and consequently, would be able to camp on any public land.

POOR PEOPLE'S CAMPAIGN

1. Participants in the Poor People's Campaign arriving from all over the country will be welcomed in the suburbs as well as the city by a new alliance of white citizens.

Montgomery County is leading the suburban groups who hope to provide money, food, shelter, and staff assistance to the campaign. Nearly 100 of the County's well-to-do white citizens have given up every Saturday afternoon so far through the spring to prepare for the march.

More than 58 groups are represented when Rev. R. Barry Spipp convenes the support committee each week at Bethesda Congregational Church at 10010 Fernwood Road.

Delegates from 45 churches or religious groups head the roster which includes civic associations, the Women's Suburban Democratic Club, Suburban Maryland Fair Housing, the League of Women Voters, and the Washington Ethical Society.

The Montgomery Support Committee raised more than $3,700 for food and aid to burned out businessmen during the riots. Another $2,000 has already gone for lumber to build "Resurrection City, U.S.A."

OPERATION MERRIMACK - Special Report

Unidentified black militants in the Northwest district of Washington, D.C., are advising employed colored persons within the Metropolitan Washington area not to report for work during the week of 27 May 1968 and to support the activities of the Poor Peoples March during that week.

OPERATION MERRIMACK - Situation Report

The CIA Watch Office was contacted by a ~~representative~~ of the ~~Washington Black Anti-War and Anti-Draft Union~~ and asked for information regarding a possible rally in the Meridian Hill Park area, upper level, on Sunday, 17 May. She advised that they had reports of this rally and desired to identify the group sponsoring the rally as well as the three speakers who are rumored to be speaking. She further advised that they had information that because Monday, 20 May, was Malcolm X's birthday, people would be distributing leaflets asking that the businessmen in the area close their establishments on Monday in honor of Malcolm X. The CIA Watch Officer, ~~Mr. [redacted]~~, asked the Office of Security if it could determine any information regarding the rally at the Meridian Hill Park area.

MERRIMACK sources established, through the National Park Service, that there would be a rally from 3 - 5:00 p.m. Sunday afternoon, 17 May with approximately 100 to 150 people in attendance. The National Park Service would not identify the civil rights group sponsoring the rally or speakers to MERRIMACK sources, but advised that the identities could be obtained by official sources.

~~Mr. [redacted]~~ was contacted and he advised that they had an indication that one ~~Mr. [redacted]~~ ~~was a member of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee and a local organizer of SNCC in Washington and is a writer for SNCC-SDD newspaper, "The Movement".~~ Washington, D. C., representing the Washington Black Anti-War and Anti-Draft Union, may be the group asking for a permit for a rally in the Meridian Hill Park area. ~~Mr. [redacted]~~ is a member of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee and a local organizer of SNCC in Washington and is a writer for SNCC-SDD newspaper, "The Movement".

Spot Report:

1. The National Committee to End the War in Vietnam, a coalition of anti-war groups which sponsored the march on the Pentagon last October, endorsed the Poor People's Campaign at a meeting, 10 May 1968. A representative of the Campaign at the meeting said plans were being made to invade and take over federal offices if the campaign's demands are not met. He said the Campaign is planning a long stay in Washington, D.C.

SOURCE: FBI.TWX, dated 14 May 1968

2. James Bevel, a former Deputy to the late Reverend Martin Luther King, Jr., and on loan from the SCLC to act as Executive Director of the National Committee to end the War in Vietnam, has been very active in the Poor People's Campaign and is in charge of "non-violent" workshops which are supposed to be held continually during the Poor People's Campaign. Bevel previously headed the April 15th Mobilization Committee and has participated in a number of peace programs throughout the country. He has addressed meetings of the W.E.B. Dubois Clubs of America and reportedly has stated in response to the question of whether he is a Communist, "every thinking American should be". Bevel was a speaker at the founding convention of the Committee for Independent Political Action (CIPA) in January 1966.

The CIPA is a radical group founded to stress the link-up between the "Peace", civil rights, and student protests movements. Among participating organizations at its organizing convention were: SNCC, SCLC, CPUSA, Dubois Clubs of America, the New Breed, Women for Peace, Black Panthers, Deacons for Defense, American Friends Service Committee, SDS, The All-Negro American Labor Council, and two labor unions; the United Packinghouse Workers and the Shoe and Leather Workers. Since the founding meeting, Victoria Gray representing the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party, and Mike Miller, representing the Friends of SNCC, have been affiliated.

At a public meeting in Knoxville, Tennessee, recently Bevel said, "Our capitalistic system is outdated and geared for 16th century people, but we are in the 20th century." He has also spoken out against the McCarran Act.

Diane Nash Bevel, wife of James, was an illegal traveller to North Vietnam, a leader of the SNCC Program against ROTC and the SNCC Workshop in Nashville in March 1967, and has denounced U.S. "terror tactics" in Vietnam.

3. Signs of Things to Come

When a portion of the Poor People's Campaign "non-violent Midwest contingent augmented by local supporters were in the process of holding an enroute night rally and demonstration in Detroit, 13 May 1968, their communications (loud speakers) vehicle broke down in front of the convention hall (donated for use by the city) and blocked traffic. The marchers were unable to effect repairs quickly enough to satisfy the local police officers who first suggested it be pushed aside and, that not being heeded, offered to tow it out of the way. This offer was refused and then when the police insisted on towing it, the marchers, at the order of one of their leaders, surrounded the vehicle and obstructed the police efforts. Upon being so defied, police reinforcements were called and upon their arrival a scuffle ensued during which mounted police apparently charged to break up a crowd of about 100. Five demonstrators were treated at Detroit General Hospital, although not seriously hurt. A number of these "non-violent" demonstrators then ripped legs off wooden folding tables and prepared to do battle. Apparently in view of the impending confrontation, some 2,500 of the crowd of 3,500 decided to leave the area. Fortunately, after remonstrance and exhortation by the march leaders and with the exercise of restraint by the police who withdrew, further escalation of the melee was averted and the incident remained relatively minor. Reverend Abernathy, back in Washington, D.C., quickly cited the affair as an "unprovoked attack" on the marchers by the police. SCLC and Detroit authorities are investigating.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Spot Report

Th. advised the CIA Security Duty Office on the afternoon of 15 May that the American Nazi Party had announced at a press conference that date that the name of the organization had been changed to the National Socialist White Peoples Party, with offices located at 806 North Taylor Street, Arlington, Virginia. The Party spokesman announced that membership has increased 15% since the assassination of George Lincoln Rockwell. The Party indicated it would hold a rally at the Sylvan Theater (Washington Monument Grounds) on 31 May, and had made plans to take an active role in the Washington area this summer. The Party advised it had every intention of controlling the situation if it gets out of hand.¹

Another source of information advised on 15 May 1968 that although the American Nazi Party had established new temporary quarters at 806 N. Taylor Street, Arlington, and mentioned its possible intention to move to Washington, D. C., the actual location of the new headquarters is at 2507 Franklin Road, Arlington. The new installation, according to the source, operates under the cover name of the "Asgard Press." It has been determined that Robert A. Lloyd and William Pierce who rented the Franklin Road address under the name of "Asgard Press" had also rented the Taylor Street address in the name of the ANP. The Arlington County Police Department has confirmed the Franklin Road address as the new ANP headquarters.

POOR PEOPLE'S CAMPAIGN

1. Available information sources fail, to date, to reflect specific objectives of the Poor People's Campaign. Construction of Resurrection City on the mall began this week but appears to be suffering from a lack of funds and construction material.* There have been reports that some of the early arrivals have left the area to return home. Campaign officers attribute these departures to "illness" rather than to disaffection with the Campaign itself. Reporters seeking to interview residents of Resurrection City are not allowed to do so unless the interviews are conducted in the presence of Campaign Marshals. There has been no information reported this week indicating any direct threats to CIA or its personnel.

Poor People's University Planned

2. Organizers of the Poor People's Campaign are working with a committee of faculty members at area colleges to set up a Poor People's University in the Washington, D.C. area. Stoney COOKS, a 25 year old coordinator of campus and student activities for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) is reported to be the originator of the idea for a Poor People's University.

The announced purpose of the school is to study poverty, its problems and tactics for its elimination. Classes are planned in non-violent tactics as a preparation for students participating in Campaign demonstrations and in such subjects as Economics of Poverty, Racism, Capitalism as a System, the relation between the Vietnam War and Poverty, Welfare Regulations and Qualifications, the Negative Income Tax, and Corporate Establishment.

Supporters of the program are reported to have already met with the representatives of the consortium of five area universities (American, Catholic, George Washington, Georgetown and Howard), and have requested use of class rooms, dormitories and other facilities on their campuses. These universities are expected to have responded to these requests at a meeting on the evening of 15 May 1968. While many leaders of organizations participating in the Poor People's Campaign would act as teachers and leaders of discussion groups, the proposed university also hopes to have a corps of experts such as author, Michael HARRINGTON; Ebony magazine editor, Lerone BENNETT, Jr.; Bayard RUSTIN, Harry BELAFONTE, Joan BAEZ, David DELLINGER, and Ivanhoe DONALDSON, of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC).

It has been announced that the University plans to invite speakers ranging from Henry FORD and John GARDNER, the former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, to Dick GREGORY and Todd GITLIN and Tom HAYDEN, former presidents of Students for a Democratic Society. Stoney COOKS is reported to have said that it is hoped also that lectures and discussions at the Poor People's University will inspire students to return to their home communities and campuses to mount similar local confrontations. According to COOKS SCLC is planning a collegiate-level organization to continue the Poor People's Campaign.

During a visit on 4 May 1968 at Harvard University, Stoney COOKS is reported to have said that plans are being made for 5,000 students to participate in the Poor People's Campaign from 29 May to 8 June 1968. At this time COOKS announced that SCLC is setting up a free university at which "movement people and poor people will talk about what's happening and what poor people can do". COOKS said, "rather than everybody doing their own thing this summer, we want them to do the poor people's thing." According to COOKS the students would be asked to accompany groups of poor people when the Washington Campaign disbands, and to work with them for the summer.

Members of the faculty committee working with them on the Poor People's University according to COOKS are: Grady TYSON and Bernard ROSS of American University, Sister Mary GERALD

• COMMENT: Among the reported potential instructors and guest speakers at the proposed Poor People's University it is noted that:

• Harry BELAFONTE: a known Communist sympathizer [REDACTED]

Joan BAEZ: a folk singer, has been actively engaged in Vietnam protests and draft card burnings.

David DELLINGER: the organizer of the march on the Pentagon in the fall of 1967 and has made at least two trips to North Vietnam at which times he spoke to Ho Chi Minh. He spent 11 days in Communist China and has visited Czechoslovakia, where he met with North Vietnamese delegations and the National Liberation Front in Prague.

Ivanhoe DONALDSON: is reported to be the New York City Director of SNCC. He attended the Berkeley Black Power Conference, in October 1966 as an "SDS organizer" from Harlem, and has been a frequent speaker at Vietnam protest meetings and rallies. At the Third Annual Socialist Scholars Conference in New York City in September 1967 he said "those who struggle in Bolivia and in Cuba are my allies". He is also quoted as saying that in 1968 "revolutionary forces" would not confine themselves to Negro areas but would go downtown and begin to burn down the white ghetto banks and draft centers in 20 U.S. cities.

Todd GITLIN: as of July 1967 was affiliated with the Radical Education Project of the Students for a Democratic Society. In 1962 he was Correspondence Editor for a publication called "New University Thought". Other persons associated with New University Thought were David HALPERIN, son of the well-known Communist, Maurice HALPERIN, and David A. SIQUEIROS, former Secretary-general of the Communist Party in Mexico.

Lerone BENNETT: is reported to be the author of Mayflower, History of the Negro in America 1619 to 1962.

Stoney COOKS: is reported to have been one of the United States "Peace" representatives who met with representatives from North Vietnam and Viet Cong in Prague, Czechoslovakia in September 1967

Tom HAYDEN: In addition to having been associated with the Students for a Democratic Society, he also has been connected with the Radical Education Project and Ramparts Magazine. In 1965 accompanied by CPUSA Committee Member, Herbert APTHEKER and Staughton LYND, Assistant Professor at Yale University, he made an unauthorized trip to North Vietnam. Following this he addressed a Detroit group of 600 individuals demonstrating against United States action in Vietnam.

Michael HARRINGTON: President for the League for Industrial Democracy, who has a history of membership in Left Wing Socialist groups, has entertained Communist Party members in his home in the past. He claimed in 1955 to be a conscientious objector but would fight in anti-colonial wars. He called for U.S. ending the Korean War in 1953, criticized the U.S. policy in the Middle East as imperialistic in 1958, protested U.S. invasion of Cuba in 1961 and advocated U.S. unilateral disarmament in 1962.

Freedom School Planned

3. In addition to the Poor People's University, the Freedom School will be another educational component of the Poor People's Campaign. The Freedom School is designed for participants in the march including children, young persons, and adults. Charles W. CHENG of the Washington Teachers Union is reported to be the Director of the Freedom School. CHENG is quoted as saying that "our educational philosophy is going to deal with racism, poverty, oppression and the filthy war in Vietnam."

There reportedly are about 100 teachers and other Washington residents who have been attending training sessions for the school during the past six weeks under the sponsorship of the American Federation of Teachers (AFT) and the Washington Teachers Union, and AFT local.

The curriculum will stress "black awareness" and the cultural heritage of Indians, Puerto Ricans and Mexican-Americans. According to CHENG, classes will be held at the sight of Resurrection City and wherever demonstrations take the marchers.

Communist Activities

6. At the annual May Day Rally in New York City, General Secretary, Gus HALL urged all-out support for the Poor People's Campaign.

At the same rally Grace Mora NEWMAN, Communist Party USA member said the Poor People's Campaign "will be for real, we won't be turned around" and "we'll have our vacation this summer on the grounds of the Capitol".

Gilbert GREEN, Chairman of the New York District, said in late April there should be full participation by the Party in the Poor People's Campaign.

Mike STEIN, Executive Secretary of the New York District of the CPUSA said during the week of 6 May that the Party should encourage people to go to Washington for a period of five days during the Poor People's Campaign, and that young Communist Party Members must make special efforts to have Negro and Puerto Rican youths participate in the Poor People's Campaign.

Charlene MITCHELL, National Communist Party USA Committee member and the Party's candidate for Vice President of the United States in 1968 has been designated to coordinate activities for the Poor People's Campaign. According to MITCHELL, the Party will propose to trade unions that work stoppages be held on 29 May to support the Campaign.

SPECIAL REPORT

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION (DNC)

Based on "hard" information received from the Intelligence Division of the Chicago Police Department, Chicago, Illinois, and supplemented by data made available by other reliable sources, the following items are considered as most closely establishing the current "demonstration and resistance" atmosphere as regards the Democratic National Convention.

It is reported that approximately 100 members of participating organizations have been identified as being in Chicago as of this date. There have not been any large mass meetings. Attendance at training exercises and other get-togethers has been poor. An attempt to pack a U. S. District Courtroom to demonstrate against an unfavorable decision relative to the issuance of parade permits resulted in the appearance of about 25 persons. A press conference by the National Committee to End the War in Vietnam, which was to be held in the vicinity of the Federal Building and at which television cameras were observed, was also poorly attended in that only 15 or 20 persons were noted to have congregated.

It is reported that the "McCarthy people" have withdrawn their support of any demonstrations and authorities feel this has been a serious blow to the National Mobilization Committee plans. It should be noted, however, that a number of local McCarthy groups are cooperating in arranging travel to the Convention and many of his supporters will attend. It has been suggested that it was necessary for McCarthy to publicly disassociate himself from the protest activity and any appearance of acquiescing to such pressuring of convention delegates in his behalf.

The Movement for a Democratic Society (MDS) - an adult affiliate or adjunct of the militant anti-establishment Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) - has allegedly targeted 100 locations in Chicago to include the Illinois Institute of Technology, draft boards, welfare offices, induction centers and recruiting centers. Leaders of the Movement for a Democratic Society urge civil disorder and have made plans for legal defense.

A direct threat against the Central Intelligence Agency's Domestic Contact Service Office in the Federal Building, 219 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, Illinois, has been disclosed. Two fliers published by RAT, an underground newspaper published in New York City, with ties to the National Mobilization Committee lead by Thomas Hayden, mention that office in connection with the National Mobilization Committee's planned activity during the Democratic National Convention. The 20 August 1968 issue of the Chicago American contained a page one article headed "Pacifists to try Running CIA Out of Town." Included in the article which quotes Tom Hayden's announcement of the National Mobilization Committee demonstration plans is his allegation that "militants would attempt to run the staff of the CIA at the Federal Building, 219 South Dearborn Street, out of town."

Neither the FBI nor local police agencies can predict either the number or magnitude of incidents likely, but as of 21 August 1968 felt the situation appears to be well under control.

PROJECT MERRIMACK - Special Report

On 16 October 1968, the Black United Front held a meeting at the School of Afro-American Thought, Washington, D. C. The principal speakers were Charles CASSELL, Reggie BOOKER and Chuck STONE. It was decided that the BUF would give the District of Columbia City Council 10 days to give them control of the District of Columbia police department. If this ultimatum was not met, the BUF would then proceed to arm approximately 3000 blacks to form their own protective unit in the inner city.

It was decided that they would discuss what action to take on the latest police killing at the next meeting, but no date was set for this meeting.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Burglars broke into the office of the Radical Education Project and SDS and stole numerous files and records last month. Taken from the REP office were address lists, financial records, outgoing mail and part of a card file that listed subscribers to the Radicals in the Professions Newsletter. SDS lost a regional contact list, financial records and some correspondence. The robbery, say REP staffers, was a professional job.

Harvard and Radcliffe students will be picking fruit in Cuba this summer under the joint sponsorship of the Cuban government and the Students for a Democratic Society. Some eight students from Harvard and Radcliffe are expected to participate in the project which can accommodate 300. Students must provide their own transportation to Mexico City and the Cuban government will then pay their fare to Havana.

In July they will work on citrus farms and during August they will tour Cuba. The program is designed to build support for the Cuban revolution on American campuses. The summer program is to be followed by a similar project from November to March in which participants will join Cuban volunteers in the sugar cane harvest.

Rev. Ralph D. ABERNATHY, SCLC head, has stated that SCLC plans "massive, ceaseless confrontations until the country deals with the realities of its evils" - that the nation will not be permitted to "rest" until poverty has become overcome.

Later this year, poor people will come to Washington to "confront" Congress about ending poverty and making January 15 (Martin Luther King, Jr.'s birthday) a national holiday. No details have been worked out yet.

In recent months it has become increasingly popular among black militants to quote Malcolm X and to demand respect and honor for his memory. Malcolm Little, generally referred to as Malcolm X, was a black nationalist who broke away from the Black Muslims (Nation of Islam) and formed his own black nationalist organization. He was assassinated in 1965 during a meeting of his organization by followers of the N. O. I.

It appears that all this recent publicity about Malcolm X and all the exhortations to make him remembered as a black intellectual, hero, and martyr is rankling the Muslims.

It has been reported that N. O. I. officials recently initiated an anti-Malcolm X campaign. There have been hints that something untoward may happen to W. C. Anas M. LUQMAN, a former member of the Muslims and currently a leader of the Malcolm X Black Hand Society of the World, Inc., which was formed in Chicago, Illinois, in 1968 to perpetuate the memory of Malcolm X and to stress black unity.

BLACK PANTHER PARTY

It was recently announced that BPP leaders Bobby SEALE and Raymond HEWITT were to travel to Sweden to obtain funds. The trip was to have begun 6 March, but has been delayed as SEALE has not obtained a passport.

A San Francisco press report 6 March stated that Roosevelt HILLIARD of the BPP announced that the SWP of Denmark had sent the BPP two round-trip tickets for a speaking tour by SEALE and HEWITT, which was to commence in Denmark and include stops in Sweden, Norway, and possibly France and West Germany. HILLIARD reportedly stated that the BPP has entered into a coalition with the SWP of Denmark which had been arranged by Stokely CARMICHAEL during a visit to Denmark. Further, that BPP chapter was being formed in Copenhagen and would be composed of black revolutionaries and deserters. HILLIARD also reportedly stated that the SWP of Denmark had contributed $4,000 to BPP bail and defense funds.

Stokely CARMICHAEL, Prime Minister of the BPP, has been touring Europe in recent months with his wife, Miriam MAKEBA, African folk singer.

A previously reliable source of a Government component has advised that the CPUSA often has been in a quandary concerning black extremist activity and has been trying to straddle the fence by supporting the right of Negroes to violent revolt but maintaining a party line favoring the use of political power until a more propitious time. In February 1969 the CP commission on black liberation passed a series of motions: accepting the violent guerrilla warfare program of the BPP, indicating a willingness to work closely with them, and expressing a desire to join them if this can be done.

A recently concluded survey by the Lemberg Center for the Study of Violence at Brandeis University has found little evidence of a patterned and planned conspiracy and organized guerrilla tactics in urban racial disorders. Reports of snipings in race related riots last July and August were exaggerated.

The Lemberg Study pins the partial blame for unfounded reports and beliefs of conspiracy on national and local press reporting. Press reports were considered by the Study to be unprecise, distorted, and inaccurate with a tendency to sensationalize the news. The Lemberg Center characterized as surprising and reprehensible the lack of initiative displayed by the press, particularly at the national level, with regard to checking and investigating reported disorders further.

Since the National Student Association broke its ties with the Agency two years ago, the Association has gotten out of the International field and has turned toward domestic mischief-making. Their campus interests for the past two years, according to the present President Robert POWELL, have been attacking the draft, poverty, "white racism," narcotics laws and college grading systems. POWELL, a University of North Carolina graduate, is presently on a leave of absence from the Princeton graduate school. POWELL states that since the break with the Agency the Association has had to "hustle" most of its $850,000 budget from foundations such as Ford and the Stern Family Fund and "clean" Government agencies such as the Department of Labor.

NSA now appears up to new dissension provoking activities. The Association plans to establish an all-Negro group in southern colleges to link-up with black student associations already active in the North and West. POWELL believes the southern Negro colleges are sitting ducks for organizational efforts. Black colleges are run by white trustees and starved by the state. In the South its just possible to find a dean of students who just doesn't like "niggers," POWELL states.

So far NSA has hired three black organizers who already are organizing students on black campuses in the South. All three whose names NSA would not divulge are said to be experienced organizers who have combed the area before for civil rights organizations.

The anti-war, "anti-U. S. A." movement which had some of its vitality sapped by the U. S. bombing halt decision and the beginning of the Vietnam War Paris Peace Talks has been cranking up new momentum lately. Irrespective of the Vietnam War, pressure has been generated in opposition to a U. S. Anti-Ballistic Missile Defense System and increasingly of late, against Chemical and Biological Warfare activities, whether offensive or defensive. As most of the energy of the movement is directed at the U. S. A. and rarely is there criticism of the Soviets or others, it would seem that the ulterior, but real, motive of many is to weaken the offensive and defense capabilities of the U. S. A. militarily.

A recent edition of the Guardian, a radical newsweekly, contained an article on Chemical-Biological (CB) Warfare and closed with the following comments re "an offensive against CB war."

"It is clear that the movement must become involved: must launch a struggle against CB research, production and use. Properly handled, it is an issue that can reach the popular imagination.

On a practical level an anti-CB campaign would not be difficult to initiate and would help to revitalize the movement:

1. Enough public antipathy to chemical and biological war exists to make the issue immediately legitimate.
2. The technology for CB weapons is being developed in accessible universities, hospitals and private research institutions throughout the nation, which makes local action easy to mount.
3. The production of CB weapons or components is often handled by civilian corporations, opening the possibility for boycotts, demonstrations and labor action. (See last week's Guardian for the names of some private institutions and corporations that share hundreds of millions of dollars in CB research and development.)
4. Several of the nine huge CB installations controlled by the military (See page 14) are within reasonable distance for militant protest action.
5. Since many GI's receive training in the handling of CB weapons, the issue would be a tool for GI organizers.
6. A movement against the misuse of "pure" scientific research is already beginning in the scientific community. However liberal and limited its goal is today, this movement has the potential of becoming a major problem for a government dependent on its advanced technology to rule much of the world. These scientists might be stimulated to stronger action if the radical and antiwar movements started a drive against one of the most dangerous examples of the "misuses" of science - CB weaponry.

For these and many more reasons the time is ripe for the movement to take the offensive against CB war."

CALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

*Asterisked items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

March 14-16

*Little Rock, Arkansas - Movement activists plan a conference on the war and the draft with films, speeches, and workshops. The conference is being sponsored by the Southern Student Organizing Committee (SSOC) and is tentatively set for March 14-16.

March 14-19

*Washington, D. C. - A conference on the Atlantic Community has been scheduled and sponsored by a Georgetown University student organization, CONTAC. The conference is expected to include some seventy outstanding college students from this country, Western Europe, and behind the Iron Curtain. Among the topics at this year's conference, an annual affair, is "Student Revolt in the West." Daniel COHN-BENDIT, leftist student leader from Germany has reportedly been invited. It is doubtful that a visa will be granted for his attendance.

The conference seems to have generated little advance interest in the press.

March 15

*Seattle, Washington - The GI-Civilian Alliance for Peace and the University of Washington, Seattle Vietnam Committee are sponsoring a demonstration in downtown Seattle to show support for three soldiers that were court-martialed for meeting at the Presidio in San Francisco. They also plan to send a letter to the Commanding General of the 6th U. S. Army requesting reversal of the sentence and release of the soldiers.

March 15

*San Francisco, California - The GI Association is sponsoring a rally at the Marina Green to demand clemency for the "Presidio 27." Expected size of the rally is unknown but leaflets advertising the rally and speakers have been widely distributed in the San Francisco Bay area.

March 17

*Oswego and Albany, New York - On the 17th, a boycott of classes is scheduled at Oswego State College to secure petitions in protest of tuition increases, increases in room rents, and alleged current racial discrimination in colleges in the New York State University system. Many other state supported colleges and universities reportedly also plan boycotts. They also plan a letter writing campaign to their state legislature.

March 17

*New York State - The Confederated Student Governments, a nonchartered group of students on the campuses of the universities of the state of New York, has announced plans to boycott classes during the week of 17 March in protest of the proposed budget for the universities' system. The budget will reportedly reduce the amount of monies the universities' system will receive. The SDS chapter at New York State University, Albany, is offering support for this boycott.

March 18

*Philadelphia, Pennsylvania - The Philadelphia Resistance has announced plans to hold a teach-in at the Philadelphia AFES at 0700 hours, followed by a march to the Army recruiting station where a demonstration will be held to protest the courts-martial of the "Presidio 27."

March 18

*New York City - Members and sympathizers of the Greenwich Village Peace Center plan a "Guerrilla Theater" type of demonstration in Washington Square Park in the afternoon.

During the early evening, members and sympathizers of the Committee for the 27, a subsidiary of the Catholic Peace Fellowship, plan to hold a demonstration protesting the entire courts-martial proceedings in San Francisco at the Time-Life Building in New York City.

March 19

*Washington, D. C. - A Quaker Action group is sponsoring demonstrations at the Inter-American College at Ft. McNair and on March 19 and 20, Ft. Gulick, Panama Canal Zone to protest the training of counter-insurgency forces for use in Latin America.

A Quaker Action Group has also announced plans to hold demonstrations on March 19 and 20 at the Federal Building, Chicago, Illinois, in support of the vigil being held at Ft. Gulick in the Panama Canal Zone.

March 22, 23, & 24

Washington, D. C. - The Committee to Abolish HUAC (now H. I. S. C.) will hold its annual conference at which time strategy will be worked out for continuing the movement to abolish the committee.

March 27-31

Denver, Colorado - Over 1,000 young Spanish-speaking persons from throughout the country are expected to attend a Chicano Youth Liberation Conference being hosted by the Crusade for Justice. The theme of this meeting is "The New Chicano Revolution! - Where? How? When?" In the series of workshops, broadly described as those dealing with "social revolution" and with "cultural" developments the conference will address itself to the role of young people from the barrios, student movement, rural communities, campesino movement.

*It now appears that some areas of this country may be denied a tranquil Happy Easter this year as a number of organizations, primarily either black or anti-war, have indicated plans to mark Easter weekend by demonstrations and various other activities designed to draw attention and presumably further their causes.

April 4

* Washington, D. C. - A newly formed District of Columbia Statehood Committee announced a drive to make the District the 51st state by 1971, and also declared that April 4, Good Friday, should be a holiday marking the first anniversary of Martin Luther King, Jr.'s assassination.

Telegrams asking merchants to close their stores on that day have allegedly been sent to the Presidents of the Board of Trade and the D. C. Chamber of Commerce. "We expect the merchants to comply with this request," the Statehood Committee chairman said.

April 4

Rev. Ralph D. ABERNATHY, leader of SCLC, announced a nation-wide drive to organize poor whites and Negroes into unions through an alliance of unions, civil rights, and religious organizations. The campaign is to begin April 4, which SCLC has designated as National and International day of protest against racism and poverty in commemoration of the 1st anniversary of the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther KING, Jr., one of its founders, by staging nine days of civil rights confrontations at Easter time in major cities. The action will start on Good Friday, the first anniversary of Dr. KING's murder.

Tentative arrangements include school boycotts, walkouts, sit-ins, rent strikes, and a march from Selma, to Montgomery, Alabama. The demonstrations are to take place in areas in which the SCLC has operational agencies and will "take the form of acceptable, non-violent, direct action," according to Ralph D. ABERNATHY,

SCIC President. He said that he planned to center the first day of the demonstration in Alabama, "to see George WALLACE in jail where so many dreams of evil are present."

At a SCIC meeting on 25 February the following schedule was agreed upon:

4 April - School boycott by children; closing of chain food stores; candle vigil at U.N. in N. Y. C. (then 7 April)

5 April - "National Tag Day" to raise funds for the SCIC;

6 April - "Black Easter" including a protest at Chicago, Illinois, during which KING will be symbolically raised from the dead;

7-12 April - "Days of Confrontation" in thirty or more cities

SCIC also plans to continue its efforts to have KING's birth date, January 15, declared a legal holiday.

In addition to the civil rights, poverty, and Martin Luther KING, Jr., memorial activities, activity indirectly being sponsored by SCIC, the anti-war groups are stepping up their plans for Easter week activity. Essentially their efforts will be anti-war but most will not lose the opportunity to include some civil rights activity and memorial to Martin Luther KING, Jr.

Initial planning started at the recently attended "National GI-Civilian Anti-War Action Conference" held in Chicago last December 27-29. Primarily on effort of the GWP, YSA, and Student Mobilization Committee, they have been working and propagandizing the idea until now, coalitions have evolved or are becoming involved in the organization of the actions.

On January 13, the national office of the Student Mobilization Committee issued a call for inter-national actions against the war. April 6. In the message to anti-war groups throughout the world, SMC included the request that, "In those countries where American servicemen are stationed, we call on the anti-war movement to make a special effort for GI participation in the peace demonstrations."

To build April 6 on the campuses, the New York SMC has suggested holding "preinduction orientation sessions - anti-war basic training." These sessions would be meant to prepare students subject to the draft to carry on legal anti-war activity while in the Army.

April 5

*New York City - The New York 5th Avenue Vietnam Peace Parade Committee is planning to organize a GI-Civilian peace demonstration. The Easter weekend action will coincide with others to be held in a total of seven regional centers across the U. S. A.

Seattle, Atlanta, Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Chicago are also having demonstrations either on Saturday or Sunday. In Austin, the GI-Civilian anti-war action will be on 13 April.

Anti-war groups in Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore, and New Jersey are expected, as well as GI's from bases all over the east coast. The march will assemble at 2 p.m. at Bryant Park and march to a rally in Central Park.

Chicago, Illinois - The Chicago Peace Council is hosting the Chicago GI-Civilian Peace March on 5 April. The Cleveland Area Peace Action Council (CAPAC) and the Student Mobilization Committee (SMC) will participate and also decided to co-sponsor a combination send-off rally and memorial for Martin Luther KING, Jr., on the evening of 4 April. Minneapolis anti-war groups have already been active in building support for the midwest regional demonstration in Chicago. In Detroit an ad hoc committee of more than 100 people, including individuals and organizations, is organizing participation in the Chicago action.

April 6 (Easter) was selected for travelling to the anti-war demonstration for the south-east region in Atlanta with a mass march.

April 4 will be used to convene meetings in Father EMMET, Jr., and the fifth will be utilized in workshops of assorted topics.

Plans are under way for a GI Teach-in near Ft. Lewis on April 6 - Seattle - and mass rallies on both the fifth and sixth.

San Francisco, California - Preliminary planning calls for a massive April 6 march on the Presidio followed by a rally at its gates. The twin theme will be "Reclaim the GI's Home Front" and "Free the Presidio 57."

Austin, Texas - An international campaign to ban an anti-war demonstration is underway. It was decided to hold the action on April 13 instead of Easter weekend when other groups across the country will demonstrate, because many University of Texas students will be home for the holiday.

April 5-6 - Toronto, Canada - The Communist Party of Canada will hold its 20th Convention Easter weekend.

SPECIAL INFORMATION

On 6 December 1968 a source of unknown reliability volunteered information regarding the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) at George Washington University.

Source advised that the active membership of this organization at George Washington University is approximately one hundred, but that the strength of the SDS, counting sympathizers, is between four and five hundred. He further advised that the SDS plans to organize a mass demonstration to disrupt the Presidential Inauguration in January 1969, and it was his opinion that the SDS may link up with the black militant groups in the Washington, D.C. area. Source also expressed the opinion that the demonstration would lead to riots which may possibly be as severe as those of April 1968. The Student Council at George Washington University, in anticipation of a serious disorder, has asked the University Administration to schedule fall semester exams prior to the Inauguration.

Source also related that he was a spectator at a recent speech given by [REDACTED]. During a fight involving [REDACTED] the latter's shirt came open and revealed that [REDACTED] was carrying a concealed pistol in a shoulder holster.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Despite its serious financial problems, RAMPARTS magazine has managed to publish an April issue. Back to a monthly publishing schedule, it reportedly is working on a piece for the May issue that explains how 'the U. S. is getting a trouncing in Vietnam while it claims to be winning.'

Rennie DAVIS and Lee WEINER, two of the eight indicted leaders of the Democratic National Convention demonstrations, have pledged to seek to escalate the protests "in the streets and in the communities" against the war in Vietnam, racism, and police repression. DAVIS said, "We will begin our defense on April 5 in Chicago with a massive demonstration against the war in Vietnam. Our first response to these official acts of repression will be to dramatically renew our demand made at the DNC to bring the troops home now."

Jerry RUBIN, Hippie leader and all-around nutcase, spoke at Beloit College in Wisconsin on 17 March. He urged his 700 listeners to become revolutionaries and praised the recent Supreme Court decision which seems to allow defendants to see transcripts of conversations picked up by listening devices. It is doubtful that the Russian Embassy would appreciate his advice to the audience to flood that Embassy with calls on any topics so that if they were involved in a federal case it would be dismissed because the Government would not reveal wire tapping of the Russian Embassy. NSCLC is circulating petitions to gather "millions" of signatures demanding that January 15, the birthday of Martin Luther KING, Jr., be declared an annual national holiday. FBI-23681

During the past week two student conferences of significance were held in the United States. One at Philadelphia, billed as a student power conference, was attended by 450 persons representing 80 colleges and universities in 14 countries. The only point of international student solidarity was what the conference termed the "incompetence of existing institutions to provide change." Unity organized over tactics. As usual the revolutionaries, some of them veterans of revolt in France and Mexico argued in lofty "smash the state," rhetoric, declaring that students were about to "detonate" a world-wide revolution of the "oppressed working class." The radical writer pointed out that in the U. S. the problem is that the working class and many students cannot seem to realize how oppressed they really are.

A more moderate and realistic tactical approach was expressed by the former head of "Students for McCarthy." This spokesman countered the radicals by explaining to the gathering that it is fairly difficult to tell a worker earning $2,000 a year that he's all that oppressed. The struggle of the working class seems to be to obtain a second car and pay off the mortgage.

The former McCarthyite argued for a broad-based movement for change, radical in ideology but conservative in style; one that would appeal more to middle-class Americans and avoid screaming in their face. The immediate goals would be ending the Vietnam War and stopping the missile defense system.

Rennie DAVIS, prominent New Left and peace protester and one of eight recently indicted demonstration leaders of the Chicago riots of last August also addressed the Philadelphia gathering. DAVIS said that the Movement's current problem was in formulating an ideology for revolution in a "post-scarcity economy" and the concept of "participatory democracy" is now out of style.

While the student power conference was struggling for its identity in Philadelphia, 1800 miles away in Austin, Texas, the SDS was holding its National Committee meeting attended by 1,000 SDSers from all over the U. S. The meeting had been first planned for the University of Texas proper then moved to Albuquerque then back again to Austin at the Catholic student center which is not affiliated with the University.

In many aspects the March conference was similar to SDS conferences in the recent past. There are emerging, however, symptoms of dissent among the dissenters. The present national leadership headed by Michael KLONSKY is pursuing a "Marxist-Leninist revolutionary Movement" line. This purely communist philosophy is relatively new to SDS. Marxist terms such as "imperialism," "class oppression," and "wars of liberation" were used by a number of the Austin group in argumentation.

The polarization resulted then from the ultra left (and left revolutionary) assuming a Progressive Labor Party (Chicago) posture and the New Left (called "the Right" within SDS circles) continuing the demand for individuality and a radical life style. The New Left within SDS tend to feel that Lenin, Mao, and Che in their time and places conducted successful revolutions therefore they were good and they cannot be applied to the American problems. Many of the SDS New Leftists are also pacifists and although they intellectually accept the need for a revolution, they will not accept violence as a means.

The ultra left ideologists who promote a "worker-student" alliance do not go along with the radical life style of the New Left. They wear their hair short, their clothes are "straight" and they refuse to use drugs (a resolution by the ultra left faction to condemn the use of drugs was defeated at the Austin conference).

The battle between these two factions has done several times to fist fights in local campus SDS meetings and at the conference in Austin. The New Left spread rumors at Austin that they would withdraw if their resolutions were defeated by the worker-student alliance faction. The New Left faction won on all the issues voted on at the conference.

The SDS prize continues to be fair game for take over by any organized communist group on the American scene with the power, prestige, and cunning to do so. Last December a near take over was staged by the Young Socialist Alliance (youth group of the SWP) and now PLP efforts seem to have been narrowly averted. It can be predicted that such efforts will continue until some one succeeds. Then SDS will split and their influence on the American campus can be expected to diminish.

CALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

The following items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to activities which were noted in our regular report of last week or in that disseminated on Wednesday with special reference to the Washington, D. C., area. Because of the great number of items included in those reports, they are not repeated herein and in most part represented events or information, in addition to the following.

There will be few cities of significant size in the U. S. that will not be the scene Easter weekend of some sort of service or demonstration with either an anti-war/peacifist or a civil rights/racial theme or both. Fortunately in many cases the action will involve primarily a commemorative tribute to Martin Luther KING, Jr., and will be religious in nature and be in conjunction with other Easter services. Most black and many white organizations and individuals will take some note of the first anniversary of his assassination, 4 April, Good Friday. While it is presumed that these memorials are intended to be respectful and nonviolent in character it must be recognized that hostilities abound and tensions are high in many areas. Following KING's assassination a year ago, the nation was subjected to the most violent racial disturbances in its history. The death of the Negro leader was the reason-excuse-alibi (often without real foundation) given as justification for the actions of rampaging mobs. Some of the more militant, the criminal, and the young hoodlum types may take advantage of this anniversary period to attempt to repeat last year's disorders.

Numerous reports have been received concerning rumors of the possibility of violence occurring in connection with the demonstrations scheduled in commemoration of the death of KING. Places mentioned in these rumors include: Chicago; Kansas City; St. Louis; York, Pennsylvania; Washington, D. C.; and the New Castle County Correctional Institution in Greenbank, Delaware. While rumors probably have little or no basis in fact, the number frequently reflects the degree of tension present and they are in themselves suggestive psychological prods and also tend to increase the possibility for spontaneous disruption.

While the anti-war/pacifist groups (many of them which include radical left membership) have pointed their activities primarily toward protest and demonstration within their main sphere of interest, they have not lost sight of the opportunity to involve civil rights/racially-oriented persons and groups by joint or separate actions commenting relating KING or making some other racially related point. While their hope and intention is to involve large numbers in order to be extremely noticeable, and to induce the utmost in publicity, it would be news that serious destruction or disorder is not their desire nor do they represent a major threat. It will be interesting to see whether their activities receive substantial support or whether they fall far short of projected goals of massive participation, etc. Except for dedicated activists - the repeaters - it is deemed likely that the anti-war group activities will fall far short of inducing great numbers of supporters to deviate from their usual Easter-time pursuits.

NY 4/11/69 James
Twelve peace groups have planned demonstrations against the Vietnam War in forty-two cities during this period according to Stewart MEACHAM, peace secretary of the American Friends Service Committee. The protests are aimed at the "passive attitude" of the Nixon administration toward peace. Target cities include: Akron, Atlanta, Baltimore, Buffalo, Chicago, Denver, Honolulu, Little Rock, Louisville, Madison, Minneapolis, Philadelphia, Richmond, Washington, D. C., and San Juan, Puerto Rico.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

No prediction as to whether the Washington area will or will not be subjected to substantial disorder can be made with any great degree of assurance. The Washington City Government and business leaders have met the extravagant demands of militants with a moderate compromise. Whether this, or any other concession, would be sufficient to eliminate all or most of the threat is debatable. Friday will not be an official holiday for government workers but liberal leave policies will be in effect. A community-wide tribute is being planned beginning with a televised ceremony on the steps of the District Building at 9 a.m. The Mayor and other city leaders are expected to participate in a special religious observance scheduled for 10 a.m. at the Greater New Hope Baptist Church, 816 8th Street, N.W. Community religious leaders are outlining various avenues for observances "by each in his own way." Business leaders do not suggest store closings but urge employers to permit special observances of the day by their workers. The City Council and Mayor Washington issued a proclamation designating the day "a day of Memoriam" for Dr. KING.

It is obvious that these decisions leave it up to the individual businessman to decide whether he can afford to close or can afford to stay open - a difficult decision at best. A strong show of resistance to threat and intimidation by officials and a unified decision for business as usual might have deterred militants from pressuring further. However, many cracks have appeared in the dike. Reputedly, 90 percent of the city sanitation workers will stay home Friday. Aside from the official commemorative services, four widely spread rallies, organized primarily by Willie HARDY, head of the Metropolitan Community Aid Council, will be held. They are at DuPont Circle at Noon, at Meridian Hill at 2 p.m., at Lincoln Park at 3:30 p.m., and at the North East Park at 49th and Deane Avenue, N. E., at 5 p.m.

The predominantly white Center for Emergency Support and Jews for Urban Justice organizations said their members plan to gather at DuPont Circle and after the Noon rally will spread out along Connecticut Avenue asking merchants to close. If they refuse, picketing, and other unspecified action may occur, spokesmen said. Students, pushed on by Rev. Douglas MOORE, and his militant D. C. Statehood Committee failed Wednesday night, in their attempt to force the D. C.

Memo
 School Board into declaring Thursday a school holiday in honor of KING. As Friday is a Holiday, the students will be free to react. Rumors have been spread around Georgia Avenue and upper 14th Street that people have been buying gasoline in five-gallon containers and stocking it up for 4 April in case it is needed for any businesses that don't close on that day in honor of Martin Luther KING, Jr.

April 4 Boston, Massachusetts - Representatives of the BPP have agreed to furnish security at the April 4 memorial service for Martin Luther KING, Jr., but said they could not be responsible for the actions of individual BPP members, if whites are present.
FBI IN 26712

April 4-6 Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania - A "Stations of the Cross" protest march is scheduled for the period 4 to 6 April, exact date/time unknown, to be led by Father Donald W. McILVANE, a Roman Catholic Priest. The march will visit 14 sites in Pittsburgh to protest injustices. To date, the only known stop will be the Public Safety Building.

April 4 Columbus, Ohio - A teach-in on "Commitment Against Racism" will be held in the Student Union at Ohio State University.
ACK 41092

April 5 Chicago - Rennie DAVIS has been added to the list of speakers at the rally following the march.
Daily World 4/3/68

April 5 Chicago - The University of Illinois Committee to End the War in Vietnam plans participation in the April 5 demonstrations.
FBI 2482

April 4-6 Chicago - The Nonviolent Action and Training Center pacifist group has been demonstrating since 30 March. On 4 April, a "religious procession" will be held in various locations in Chicago. Members will participate in the Student Mobilization Committee sponsored anti-war march on the 5th. On 6 April, a sunrise service will be held at the Jackson Park Point Nike Missile site.
FBI 24825

April 4-6 Chicago - Rumors have been circulating that the parts of Madison Street which were not burned in last year's post KING assassination disorders will be burned Easter weekend.
FBI 24664

April 4 & 5 Milwaukee, Wisconsin - At 1930 hours (CST), Albert Daniel KING, brother of Dr. Martin Luther KING, Jr., is scheduled to speak at Galilee Baptist Church. On 5 April, the KING march led by Father James E. GROPP is estimated to have a minimum support of 3,000 to 4,500.

April 5

Royal Oak, Michigan - An interfaith group (NFI) is planning to hold a one-mile memorial march, to begin at 1300 hours (EST) in honor of Dr. Martin L. KING, Jr.

24825

Seattle, Washington - A member of the University of Washington SDS reportedly has stated that consideration is being given to damaging military and selective service facilities during this period.

April 3-6

ALC

Portland, Oregon - The Resistance has announced the following activities: on 3 April, personal confrontations with people in restaurants, buses and on the street; on 4 April, children's crusade from Portland State University to Salem, Oregon; on 5 April, mass rally at Pioneer Post Office; on 6 April, memorial for Martin Luther KING, Jr., at Bethel A.M.E. Church.

April 4

San Francisco, California - A Martin Luther KING Memorial march has been scheduled to begin at 1000 hours (PST), 4 April at Martin Luther KING Square, moving to City Hall Plaza by noon. The march is sponsored by the Martin Luther KING Holiday Committee. Scheduled speakers include Willie BROWN, J Hannibal WILLIAMS, The Rev. Cecil WILLIAMS, Carleton GOODL and Black Student Union Representatives.

24825

Denver, Colorado - The Resistance, an anti-draft group, is planning demonstrations, Easter weekend. A parade followed by a vigil at the Federal Office Building or at the Armed Forces Induction Center is scheduled for 4 April. On the 5th, a demonstration will be held at the Rocky Mountain Arsenal and on the 6th, a demonstration will be held during the Easter sunrise services at the Red Rocks amphitheater.

April 5 & 6

Little Rock, Arkansas - On 5 April, the Southern Student Organizing Committee (SSOC) will pass out leaflets and hold a silent peace vigil at Portable Park. On 6 April SSOC will hold a rally at the McArthur Park Ball Field between 1000-1300 hours (CST).

April 4

Prattville, Alabama - A group of local Negroes have applied for a permit to conduct a march on 4 April, beginning at a meeting hall on Chestnut Street and ending at the City Hall. Allegedly half way through the march part of the delegation will halt and only a portion of the marchers will proceed to the City Hall, for the purpose of presenting a list of grievances (NFI) to the Mayor of Prattville. The marchers will then rejoin and march back to the meeting hall. The entire march will extend over an area of 10 to 12 city blocks. Known organizers of the march are: Dan HOUSER, militant Negro male and local civil rights leader; and Sally Mae HADNOT, Negro female and local civil rights leader. No-violence is expected.

April 4

Alabama - Abernathy and Coretta King will lead "a massive black belt protest march along with a Poor People's Mule Train Caravan" in Selma, Alabama, Friday morning. After moving five miles, then participants will board buses and cars for Montgomery, where they will hold a "Soul Force Brotherhood Freedom Festival" Friday night.

Montgomery, Alabama - The SCLC - "Soul Force" ceremonies will allegedly include nationally known movie stars. April 5 has been designated "The Great Day."

April 4

Nashville, Tennessee - A march in tribute to Dr. Martin Luther KING, Jr., will be sponsored by the Nashville NAACP Youth Council. The march will begin at Hadley Park and move to the State Capitol Building, where a memorial service will be held. Another memorial service is scheduled at the Fisk University Athletic Stadium at 0800 hours (CST), 4 April.

April 6

Gainesville, Florida - Southern Student Organizing Committee is sponsoring an anti-war protest march. The demonstrators plan to erect a peace monument, containing the names of individuals killed in Vietnam, in front of the federal building in the hope that the Government will remove the monument, thereby gaining public support for the demonstrators.

April 4

Newport News, Virginia - A memorial march commemorating the late Dr. Martin Luther KING, Jr., will be held by the local NAACP and Clergy. An estimated 500 to 1000 persons are expected to participate. A permit for the march has been issued by the city, and local authorities anticipate no incidents.

SUBJECT: Stanford University

1. Stanford University, a prestigious school of some 11,300 students located on a beautiful campus in Palo Alto, California, has sometimes been called the Harvard of the West. Despite its serene setting and its largely middle and upper white class student body, it has not been without its turmoil and problems, particularly in recent months. The number of minority of minority groups' members studying and working at Stanford has been increasing, and 15 percent of the incoming 1968 fall quarter freshmen were minority group members. (Six to seven percent Oriental, five percent Negro, etc.) Although minority groups have been involved in some of the campus strife, most of the action has been by white students and usually led by the Stanford SDS Chapter, supported by some faculty members and/or outsiders.

2. For months Stanford SDS attempted to mobilize students around the issues of the University's involvement with the war in Vietnam through Government research contracts and by focusing attacks on members of the Board of Trustees, who are connected with large corporations that deal in Defense contracts and on the Stanford Research Institute which does some war-related research for the military. Reputedly, next to MIT, Stanford handles the greatest amount of Defense contracts, and this has been an important issue for use by the radicals in their incessant accelerating attack on the (establishment) (industrial-military) complex.

3. Disruption and abrasive tactics began November 6, 1967 with a demonstration against CIA recruiters. Suspensions were levied against the more prominent agitators. In May 1968 students sat in at the Administration Building in protest over the penalties and were successful in having them lifted.

4. The majority of the students strongly condemn coercive tactics and campus disruptions, and the radicals have not been able to significantly radicalize the liberals and moderates. Students voted for "open job" recruiting by CIA in May 1968. The Young Americans for Freedom and the Young Republicans have staged orderly anti-demonstrations to the Leftist Group actions and formed a coalition of campus conservatives calling itself "Community of the Right." SDS lacked popular campus support but continued their harrassment campaign. They violently disrupted a Board of Trustees meeting in January 1969.

5. Activity increased in April with an all-night vigil which escalated into occupation of the Applied Electronics Laboratory. This occupation lasted for nine days, and its demands were for an end to all campus war research. Stanford's new President, Kenneth Pitzer, had warned the students that Federal troops might be used to protect the secret Government files in the building. Pitzer has spoken strongly against the Vietnam war and has said that he would prefer that Stanford do no classified research. Stanford Board of Trustees has asked the Stanford Research Institute not to enter into new contracts for chemical and biological research for the time being. Under pressure from students and faculty, the Board also agreed to consider severing all ties with the SR and to amend the relationship.

6. A student meeting was reportedly to be held on 25 April to review the progress in ending University war-related research. If results were not sufficient, the demonstrators were considering taking over another building. One of the radical faculty members behind the students is the Associate Professor H. Bruce Franklin, a self-professed Maoist, and one of the organizers of the Revolutionary Union, the recently formed radically militant organization dedicated to aid the Communist cause by overthrow of the U.S. Government by force if necessary.

State for instance) occurs most frequently with no apparent doctrinaire affiliation between chapters and no operating national headquarters (as has SDS, Black Panthers, etc).

The Columbia SAS (as most other Afro student groups) has a mischievous past. They have joined in demonstrations demanding higher wages for lunchroom employees, seized and burned a significant quantity of Columbia's May 1967 humor magazine because they found a satirical treatment of the black student offensive, and assisted the SDS in the revolt and building takeover in April 1968. Although SAS has not been prominent in recent events at Columbia more will undoubtedly be heard (and seen) from them in the immediate future.

UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS

The University of Illinois, a land grant college founded in 1868, is located 150 miles south of Chicago in the Twin Cities' complex of Champaign-Urbana. Population of the area is about 100,000. Enrollment numbers over 30,000 (and 8,500 teachers) and tuition is moderate.

For its size and composition the University of Illinois campus is reasonably conservative. There is a chapter of Students for a Democratic Society there but reliable reports place its present strength at about 30 with no more than 10 of this number regarded as "hard core" radical. The Champaign-Urbana SDS is not regarded as a particularly significant chapter. Other campuses in the Illinois system (Southern Illinois at Carbondale and the University of Illinois "Circle Campus" at Chicago) have demonstrated considerably more "anti" hostility than has the Champaign-Urbana college community. An extreme "rightist" counterforce is present at the University but just barely. The "Minutemen" group with a very small membership has, in recent years, staged a counter-demonstration or two regarded by local observers as feeble and meaningless.

Last September 27 the University Student Committee to End the War in Vietnam sponsored a demonstration and march to protest the war and police brutality (the latter cause was probably a reaction to the Chicago riots during the Democratic National Convention the previous month). During this protest 150 students marched from the Illini Union to Westside Park in Champaign and listened to radical speakers encourage membership in such left-wing organizations as the Young Socialist Alliance (youth group of the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party), the SDS and the Peace and Freedom Party. This demonstration broke up peacefully with no reported incidents and no arrests. On November 14, 1968, Champaign again was the site of student anti-war protest, anti-war speeches, and a draft card burning (one burned and four returned to the draft board). Seventy-five persons participated peacefully.

From 21 to 23 March 1969 a regional meeting of SDS was held on the Champaign-Urbana campus. Details of this meeting are unknown but if significant decisions were made by those chapters attending (reportedly eight mid-west chapters) those decisions did not manifest themselves in action terms at the Champaign-Urbana campus. In April, SDS mustered forty people for a campus rally in support of Huey Newton (Black Panther Party leader presently serving two to fifteen years in California for killing a San Francisco policeman) and a few students may have (probably did) taken part in the Easter anti-war march at Chicago.

There have been protest demonstrations against the radicals favorite "whipping boy," the harassed Dow Chemical Company recruiter but CIA and military recruiters have so far not been obstructed or subjected to harassment on the Champaign-Urbana Campus. Additionally, AFROTC has thus far escaped the treatment afforded fraternal military training chapters on other campuses by the radical left.

Racial disturbances have occurred in recent years both on the campus and in the Negro sections of the Twin Cities. The most serious campus racial rampage wrought $5,000 damage to the Student Union building (Illini Union) and resulted in approximately 250 arrests (some persons arrested were non-students). This event was most regrettable because the demonstration was initiated by participants in the University's "Project 500." "Project 500" brought underprivileged blacks to the University for special training (without cost) and the "Project 500" enrollees were not even a part of the bonafide student body.

Recognized on campus is a Black Student Association which is involved in the same promotion of racial interests as similar college groups elsewhere. The University of Illinois chapter is reliably reported to be small and not a significant campus force. Approximately 700 Negro students are enrolled at the University (out of a total student population of over 30,000) and relations between the races is reported relatively good.

Last February a reliable source advised that the Chicago Black Panther Party minister of Defense, and two of his Lieutenants, traveled to the University to assist in organizing a Champaign-Urbana BPP chapter. There is presently no BPP chapter there. Additionally, rumors circulated last February that racial disturbances were due to occur (including bombings) but none developed.

On 26 May 1969 racial trouble erupted in the Twin Cities. On this occasion, a local Negro leader appeared on television and announced that a Negro had been murdered in the county jail by white police officials (actual cause of death was reported by the coroner to be cirrhosis of the liver). This announcement touched off sniper activity and fire bombing both off and on the University of Illinois campus. One homemade bomb exploded unintentionally seriously injuring a University student. There were no arrests and the disturbance ended in the early morning hours of 27 May. One last racial happening occurred on 9 March 1969 when Biafran students at the University picketed the British Ambassador to the United Nations.

In conclusion, it is most reliably reported that although the .
troublemaking elements and microcosms are present at the University, radicalism is diminishing and, in fact, dying out. Much depends on the leadership of the moment and at this moment the powerful leadership voices of dissension and disruption are not heard at Illinois.
September brings a new student crop and perhaps new crises but for now, neither the patterns of the recent past nor the well-informed and responsible observations of the present portend serious trouble immediately ahead at Illinois.

The week before last, the Illinois state legislature passed and sent to Governor Richard B. Ogilvie, for signature, a bill that will make nearly every aspect of student revolt a state crime punishable by stiff fines and up to five years in prison. The Lanigan bill (State Senator John J. Lanigan, republican, Chicago) which passed the house by a 2 to 1 margin makes sit-ins and building occupations punishable by fines up to $1,000 and sentences up to one year in jail. The Governor is expected to sign the bill into law.

make it the largest anti-war demonstration ever held in this country. A campaign to this end will reportedly be conducted on campuses throughout the United States, with a view to the creation of widespread disapproval of the Nixon Administration, the development within the armed forces of a mass movement against the war, and the promotion in Vietnam of situations whereby troops will refuse to enter into combat.

In this and successive issues of the Situation Report, short individual sketches of the CHICAGO EIGHT will be included, starting with Dave Dellinger, who has been the instigator of much of the disorder occasioned by the activities of the various components of the New Left, and Tom Hayden, a founder of SDS, an organizer of civil rights and other demonstrations, and an ever present figure during college campus strikes throughout the nation.

DAVID TYRE DELLINGER

David Dellinger, who was born on 22 August 1915 in Wakefield, Massachusetts, received a BA degree from Yale in 1936 and thereafter completed one year at the Yale Divinity School, is now the 51 year old Editor of Liberation, an anti-war monthly magazine published in New York City by the Committee for Non-Violent Action. The Chairman of the Editorial Board of Liberation, as of 1966, was the well-known perennial pacifist A. J. Muste and its Assistant Editors included Tom Hayden, Staughton Lynd, Kay Boyle (Frankenstein), and Bayard Rustin.

Dellinger, self-described "Communist but not a Soviet type Communist", (meaning, presumably, a pro-Mao/pro-Ho Chi Minh type, judging from his activities of the past several years), is Chairman of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam. The NMC is a coalition of over a hundred peace and student groups including Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), through which Dellinger and others, particularly Tom Hayden and Rennie Davis, directed the anti-war demonstrations at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago. It worked through the many New Left organizations which were under its general direction for purposes of information and coordination of activities, and was backed up by the YIPPIES, under the leadership of Jerry Rubin and Abbie Hoffman, with whom they had a close working relationship. The NMC had previously coordinated and directed the highly disruptive march on Washington in October 1967, which included a march on the Pentagon during which Dellinger was arrested; it had organized the nation-wide demonstrations held on 15 April 1968 to protest the war in Vietnam; and had sponsored the International Days of Protest (21-30 April 1968) which "kicked off" the Poor People's Campaign. Under its new title, New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, it is sponsoring an anti-Vietnam march to be held in Washington, D.C., on November 15, 1969, with the assistance of the Socialist Workers Party, which is expected to be the largest anti-war demonstration ever held in this country.

Dellinger, who is the coordinator for the march to be held on 15 November, has a lifetime of radical pacifist activities behind him and has become probably the best known anti-Vietnam War protagonist in the nation. As far back as October 1940, Dellinger refused to register for Selective Service; was convicted of violating the Selective Service Act; and served a year in prison. Upon his release, he filed for classification as a conscience objector; but in August 1943, he was again convicted of violating the Selective Service Act and was sentenced to two years in prison.

Dellinger has sponsored and/or been active in many leftist organizations, a number of which were under the aegis of A. J. Muste including the Committee for Non-Violent Action which publishes Liberation, the Break with Conscription Committee, the American Forum for Socialist Education, etc. He has been Chairman of the Non-Violent Committee for Cuban Independence, has been active on the behalf of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, and sponsored the Medical Aid to Cuba Committee; and more recently has been a leader in many of the activities of the New Left.

He participated in Bertrand Russell's War Crimes Tribunals in both 1966 and 1967.

In September 1968, he organized meetings held in Budapest between twenty-eight anti-war activists and representatives of North Vietnam and the NLF to discuss the war and "strategy on U.S. campuses", i.e.: prospects of further student unrest and plans to foster draft resistance and discontent among American servicemen.

Dellinger, who visited Cuba in 1960, was there again in the fall of 1964 and, upon his return, delivered a laudatory lecture at the University.

of Miami, sponsored by the local chapter of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, which so annoyed exiled Cuban students that a near riot resulted. In January 1968, "pacifist" Dellinger attended the International Cultural Congress in Havana, Cuba, where he was lauded as "a fighter for non-violence who favors violence", and it was said, "Dellinger does not object to the just violence of revolution against imperialism or the violence of the Vietnamese against the same evil". In November 1968 he was again in Cuba,

Dellinger has made various trips to Vietnam, some via Moscow and Red China, and has repeatedly travelled to Czechoslovakia and France to meet with representatives of the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong. In January 1966 he travelled to Hanoi where he arranged for the distribution of anti-Vietnam War literature to American troops;

He was again in Vietnam during May and June of 1967, and in September of 1967 was one of forty-one Americans who went to Bratislava, Czechoslovakia, for a conference with North Vietnam and Viet Cong representatives.

In June 1968 Dellinger went to Paris, where he met with the North Vietnam Peace Delegation, and to Prague, where he met with members of the South Vietnam National Liberation Front (NLF), as well. In January 1969 he again went to Paris where he met with the NLF delegation to the Vietnam Peace Conference, who through him thanked the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam for what they were planning to do in Washington, D.C., during the Inauguration, while reminding him that the real battle is to get rid of the American invasion force in Vietnam.

was in Paris again in July 1969 for talks with North Vietnam officials regarding the release of three American prisoners of war and left on 12 July announcing that he had arranged for three American prisoners to be released within ten days.

Throughout 1968 and 1969, Dellinger has been busy attending demonstrations and lecturing throughout the country, urging his listeners to "burn your draft cards, resist the draft, violate the law, go to jail, disrupt the U. S. Government in any way you can to stop this insane war".

At one rally in early January 1969, he stated that the United States planned to kill the North Vietnam leaders through the Central Intelligence Agency.

DePlinger's activities as related above reflect only a part of his vast involvement in "The Movement" (an involvement notably involved with Black organizations or personalities).]

Fall & Winter

Nationally - The aggressive National Welfare Rights Organization is planning a "fall & winter offensive" of school boycotts, marches on welfare offices, refusals to pay utility bills and rent strikes. Dr. George Wiley, militant black executive-director of the organizations, said welfare recipients will boycott schools and march on welfare offices if additional funds for school clothing are not granted.

Fall

Nationally - At the demonstration sponsored by the Chicago Peace Council and the Conspiracy on 28 August in Chicago to commemorate the confrontations at the 1968 Democratic National Convention, Rennie Davis, one of the Conspiracy Eight defendants, was one of the main speakers. Sylvia Kushner, a CPUSA member, was the moderator. In the course of his remarks, Davis stated that he desired to see mutinies occur at Army bases in the United States. He said the fall program of the anti-war movement would include:

24 September - a demonstration at Chicago, Illinois, to protest the trials of the Chicago Eight.

8-11 October - Demonstrations in Chicago to protest the trials. SDS is calling for militant action under the slogan "Bring the War Home." In support of SDS "doing their thing."

8 November - SDS is calling for demonstrations in the streets, on the campuses, and in factories across the country, to protest the war.

15 November - Massive demonstrations are planned for Washington, D.C., and San Francisco, California, as a climax of the fall program against the war - for the "biggest militant march ever."

September 19-20

Ann Arbor, Michigan - The Ann Arbor Peace Committee (AAPC), described as a coalition of anti-war/draft groups in the Ann Arbor area, is calling for a rally which will be that area's kick off of The National Fall anti-war offensive. The rally is to begin with speeches on the evening of 19 September at Hill Auditorium, University of Michigan (UM), by Rennie Davis, national anti-war organizer, and David Dellinger, a leader of demonstrations at the 1968 Chicago Democratic Convention. On Saturday afternoon, 20 September, there will be a march from the UM Football Stadium to the center of the UM campus, where an anti-war rally will be held. Following the march and rally, Dellinger and other speakers (NFI) will attend a teach-in at the Trueblood Auditorium, on the UM campus. Workshops and project sessions during the two days of activity will be used to map plans for a 15 November march on Washington, D. C. and a call for a 15 October nationwide strike by students and workers. An estimated 70,000 spectators are expected to attend the football game between UM and Vanderbilt University at the same time the above march and rally are to begin outside the UM Football Stadium.

While admitting that draft reform and/or suspension might lessen some of the dissent, particularly among students and the parents of eligible sons, anti-war organizational spokesmen maintain that they will continue to demand that the war be stopped and that all American troops be brought home immediately. Plans for a nationwide moratorium in the classrooms on October 15th continue at an accelerated pace. The Vietnam Moratorium Committee (VMC) is calling for a periodic moratorium on "business as usual" beginning October 15th, "in order that students, faculty members and concerned citizens can devote time and energy to the important work of taking the issue of peace in Vietnam to the larger community." The "Call" signed by about 300 college student body presidents is being organized by ex-McCarthy campaigners headed by former Harvard Divinity student Sam Brown.

The strategy proposes a one-day halt in October, two-days in November, three in December, etc., if the war continues. The committee expects people from many walks of life—students, workers, businessmen, professionals, clergymen and politicians—to participate in the moratorium. The plans call for a nationwide boycott of classes, coupled with demonstrations or other actions in local communities by the boycotting students. The nature of the local demonstrations will vary according to the political climate of each campus. They may include vigils, rallies, memorial services, distributing leaflets at supermarkets or house-to-house political canvassing.

After earlier claiming evidence of support at some 300 campuses, the committee now claims responses from 500 campuses and ad hoc community groups, so far. The office address of the VMC is 1029 Vermont Avenue, N.W., Washington, D. C., (a favorite for radical groups in the D. C. area). In recent weeks the group has added six members to its original staff of eight and has rented another four rooms to handle the overflow from its six-room office. A veritable flood of handbills, posters and other propagandizing material is being distributed. Support for the activity is appearing from a number of groups. The Student Mobilization Committee is assisting and SDS has indicated it will take a major part in this project. The National Student Association in its national convention, concluded 27 August, included in resolutions that were passed, one calling for "a day off from business as usual" October 15 to oppose the Vietnam war. Leaders of the New Democratic Coalition have called for support for the nationwide war moratorium day on October 15.

A VMC spokesman stated on 17 September that the first official support from a University came when Mason W. Gross, President of Rutgers, called on the university community to observe a day of dialogue on the war.

CALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

October 1969

Joliet, Illinois - reportedly the Sheriff's office in Joliet, Illinois, has received unconfirmed rumors that unknown black extremists will attempt to raid the U. S. Army Ammunition Plant prior to November 1st.

October 11

Chicago, Illinois - Street violence to date has increased friction between the Weatherman and RYM II factions of SDS. Although the size of the protests and rallies to date have been much less than predicted and projected by the activists, Saturday's action may well be by far the largest and most violent of the week. Planning all along has centered on Saturday as the climax.

Weatherman plans a march from Haymarket Square to Grant Park through the loop.

RYM II plans its own march through the north side of the city which has sizable populations of blacks and Puerto Ricans. RYM II expects the support of the Young Lords (Puerto Rican street gang) and the Black Panther Party, and that contrary to the Weatherman activities will be "a mass, disciplined march" under the slogan "U. S. get out of Vietnam now—serve the people."

October 12

Fort Dix (Wrightstown, N. J.) - An anti-war coalition of some twenty organizations, claiming to have the largest backing of any anti-war demonstration since the 1967 Pentagon March, is planning a resistance demonstration against censorship and general repression of the GI Movement. Originally planned for 28 September, it was re-scheduled for 12 October. Among those organizations reportedly backing the demonstration are: The B-2, the Young Lords, the Quaker Action Group, JDC, Viet and Reservists Concerned About the War in Vietnam, Liberation News Service, New York, the Civil Liberties Union, and the Fifth Avenue Peace and Community Center. The JDC, permission for a march of any kind has been refused by the Wrightstown authorities.

A representative of the JDC in New York City has reportedly made a deposit on thirty buses to travel to Ft. Dix on 13 October, and a representative of the Transcendental Students of New York University has stated they plan to use five of those buses. Allegedly, JDC plans to use the name of the SMC to conceal its involvement. The Peace and Equal Rights Committee plans to participate, and an undetermined number of PHRC members will travel from Red Bank, New Jersey, by private car. Approximately 5,000 to 10,000 persons from Philadelphia and Washington, D. C., are reportedly planning to participate. Buses will transport participants from Columbia University Campus (3), Rutgers University (2-3), and from Waverly Place, New York City (3). Instructions given to participants include recommendation to bring gas masks and helmets.

October 12

*Ft. Lewis, Washington - The Seattle-Portland grape boycott committees plan to demonstrate at Ft. Lewis against the Army's purchase of table grapes. An automobile caravan from Portland, Oregon, to Ft. Lewis is planned. After a picnic, participants will distribute leaflets at Ft. Lewis. Members of the GI Unions plan to participate in the demonstration.

October 13

*The National Lawyers Guild announced it is sponsoring a massive demonstration at San Francisco on October 13 to protest the Chicago trial.

October 13

California and West Coast - The NAACP has announced plans for demonstrations at the Federal buildings in Los Angeles, San Francisco, San Jose, and other major cities (NFI) on the West Coast. The demonstrations are to be in protest of the lack of jobs available in the construction industry for minority groups. No estimate of the number of participants is available.

October 14-16

Rock Island, Illinois - An assorted group of students, faculty, and clergymen in the Rock Island (RI) quad cities region of Illinois are planning to stage demonstrations against the Rock Island Arsenal (RIA). On 3 October, the faculty of Augustana College, RI, will vote on their participation in the 14-15 October anti-war demonstrations, which are to begin at 1000 hours, 15 October with a convocation. Several high schools are expected to have walk-outs in support of the demonstration. If not allowed to enter RIA, the demonstrators plan to block traffic at the entrance by staging a sit-down. The quad cities for Peace, one of the sponsoring groups, will send a letter to President Nixon asking him to stop the war in Vietnam. If their letter is not answered, QCP will demonstrate at the RIA once a month until it is answered. There has been no estimate of the numbers expected to participate.

October 15

Nationally - In view of the size and significance of the "Vietnam Moratorium" activity on this date, it will be covered separately as a Special Situation Information Report.

October 15-17

Washington, D. C. - Reportedly, the NAACP is tentatively planning to hold demonstrations October 15-17 for the purpose of showing support of civil rights activists claiming that there is discrimination within the Federal Government concerning employment practices, promotions, and equal opportunities for Negroes.

October 17-21

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania - The Women's Strike for Peace will hold its National Convention at the Robert Morris Hotel, 17th and Arch Streets.

October 18

San Francisco - At the recent National Conference for the United Front Against Fascism held in Oakland, California, 13-20 July, sponsored by the EPP, registration was conducted for membership in the United Front Against Fascism; and it was announced that the United Front will hold a conference 18 October 1968 in the San Francisco area.

October 20

New York City - Veterans for Peace and the SWP plan to demonstrate at New York City when President Nixon visits there.

October 25

Chicago, Illinois - New Mobilization Committee sponsored actions in Chicago in support of the "Chicago Eight" and calling for an end to the war in Vietnam. A guerrilla theater march down State Street, a tribunal dealing with political repression and a rock concert are planned. The march and rally are to focus on the war and alleged government repression of peace movement leaders.

November 3

National - The Chicago Eight is now trying to add a national strike of law students with a theme of "Stop the Trial" to its continuing array of protest and propaganda.

November 3

New York City and Nationally - On 7 October a group of black intellectuals and activists in New York City called for a city-wide work stoppage by black workers as a display of unity among the majority of Negroes— a "Black Solidarity Day." Although called for New York City, the sponsors said other blacks are working toward similar shows of unity in Detroit, Cleveland, Los Angeles and Chicago. One purpose of the demonstrations is to show black opposition to "the growing conservatism" among U. S. whites. "This test of Solidarity Day will call on the majority of blacks not involved (with black activism) to show this anger in a creatively disruptive act."

November 8

Boston, Mass. - A Boston anti-imperialist group will hold a demonstration to support the NLF and demand immediate withdrawal from Vietnam. It will be the initiation of a week of anti-imperialist demonstrations against a variety of targets. It will bring together high school and college students and working people.

November 8-15

National - Planned to be a week of local activity around the war and U. S. Imperialism, to build on-going local organizations and to help mobilize for November 14th in Washington and San Francisco. The goal is to plan activity appealing to wide variety of constituencies and political styles. Initiated by the Joe Hill Caucus of SDS at San Francisco State and endorsed by the RYM II national SDS faction. A prime aim is for campus protests. The NMC co-chairman, Sidney Poek has indicated that NMC hopes the actions take place.

November 9

Los Angeles, California - The Teachers' Council for Peace in Vietnam is sponsoring a mass march and rally on November 9th with the aim of initiating "dramatic peace events—carefully planned so as to broaden the peace movement's popular appeal." The projected march and demonstration has the support of the Peace Action Council, umbrella coordinating agency for virtually all the peace organizations in the area. A speaker for the Teachers' Council stated that "the peace rally will not be an anti-climax to the teachers' march. On the contrary, we are hoping for the largest anti-war rally ever held in Los Angeles."

November 13-16

District of Columbia - San Francisco - Proposed mass action—parades, etc. More details will be presented in future issues of the Situation Information Report.

CALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

October 18 & 25 & November 3 - National and Chicago - In a speech to a BPP rally in Chicago on 7 October, Rennie Davis of the Chicago Eight stated that on 13 October demonstrations would take place throughout the country sponsored by Ad Hoc committees of lawyers. On 25 October law students throughout the country would be encouraged to walk out of classes. Then, on 3 November, the population of Chicago would be invited to meet at the civic center to protest the current trial.

October 17-21 - Philadelphia, Pennsylvania - The Women's Strike for Peace organization is scheduled to hold its National Convention at the Robert Morris Hotel, 17th and Arch Streets.

October 18

October 18 - San Francisco - At the recent National Conference for a United Front Against Fascism held in Oakland, California, 18-20 July, sponsored by the BPP, registration was conducted for membership in the United Front Against Fascism and it was announced that the United Front would hold a conference 18 October 1969 in the San Francisco area.

October 18 - Pittsburg, Kansas - The Black Student Movement, Kansas State College, may demonstrate at College homecoming ceremonies. The theme of the demonstration will be "Burn Baby Burn." School authorities are considering suspending the Movement's charter due to its prior disruptive demonstrations.

October 18 & 19

Oakland, California - The Red Guard will conduct a conference with all Chinese students at Merritt College, Oakland, California. No further information at this time.

October 20

New York City - Veterans for Peace and the SWP plan to demonstrate at New York City during President Nixon's scheduled visit there.

October 21

International - The General Council of Trade Unions of Japan (Sohyo) sent an appeal last month to major labor unions in the U. S., Britain, France, West Germany, the Soviet Union, and East Germany, calling for October 21 to be made the day of international united action opposing U. S. imperialist aggression in Vietnam. The appeal states that the Japanese workers on this day will stage a nationwide demonstration and at the time of Prime Minister Eisaku Sato's visit to Washington in November will organize a strike.

From another source it was reported that the SDS National Office was contacted on October 8 by a representative of the Japanese Communist League who stated that the Japanese Communist League and the Socialist Students League of Japan were supporting the Chicago demonstrations. He also stated that on October 21 or 25, Japanese "Leftists" will rise in armed struggle against United States imperialism which will coincide with the visit of the premier of Japan to the United States. This individual gave no specific information concerning this activity.

October 22

Chicago, Illinois - The Illinois Black Panther Party plans to demonstrate at the Federal Courthouse, Chicago on 22 October in an attempt to have its members admitted to the courtroom. October 22 is the birthday of Bobby Seale, National Chairman of the DPP who is under indictment.

October 25

Chicago, Illinois - The New Mobilization Committee is sponsoring actions in Chicago in support of the "Chicago Eight" and calling for an end to the war in Vietnam. A guerrilla theater march down State Street, a tribunal dealing with political repression, and a rock concert are planned. The march and rally are to focus on the war and alleged government repression of peace movement leaders.

October 20

Chicago, Illinois - The Committee to End the War in Vietnam has announced that it will hold a rally, place and time unknown. Main speaker will be Dr. Benjamin Spock with Peter, Paul, and Mary as guest singers.

November 3

Chicago, Illinois - Arrested September 3 at the University of Illinois where, as leaders of a community coalition, they were demonstrating for more jobs for minorities in the construction industry were: Rev. Jesse Jackson (SCLC); Lawrence Peterson (Conservative Vice-Lords); Robert Weathers (Black Disciples); and Leonard B. Bengall (Black Peace Stone Nation). Trial has been set for 5 November.

November 3

National - The Chicago Eight is now trying to add a national strike of law students with a theme of "Stop the Trial" to its continuing array of protest and propaganda.

November 3

New York City and Nationally - On 7 October a group of black intellectuals and activists in New York City called for a city-wide work stoppage by black workers as a display of unity among the majority of Negroes - a "Black Solidarity Day." Although called for New York City, the sponsors said other blacks are working toward similar shows of unity in Detroit, Cleveland, Los Angeles and Chicago. One purpose of the demonstration is to show black opposition to "the growing conservatism" among U. S. whites. "This test of Solidarity Day will call on the majority of blacks not involved (with black activism) to show this anger in a creatively disruptive act."

November 6

New Bedford, Massachusetts - The Regional Action Group, believed to be an SDS sponsored group, is planning an anti-war demonstration. Thursdays are traditionally known as a "night on the town" when vandalism and arrests are prevalent.

November 8

Boston, Massachusetts - A Boston anti-imperialist coalition will hold a demonstration to support the GLP and demand immediate withdrawal from Vietnam. It will be the culmination of a week of anti-imperialist demonstrations against a variety of targets. It will bring together high school and college students and working people.

November 8-15

National - Planned to be a week of local activity around the war and U. S. Imperialism, to build on-going local organizations and to help mobilize for November 15th in Washington and San Francisco. The goal is to plan actively appealing to wide variety of constituencies and political styles. Initiated by the Joe Hill Caucus of SDS at San Francisco State and endorsed by the RYM II national SDS faction. A prime aim is for campus protests. The NMC co-chairman, Sidney Peck has indicated that NMC hopes the actions take place.

November 8

Nationally - SDS has said that as a follow-up to the 11 October action in Chicago, regional demonstrations will be held throughout the country to make it clear that SDS will not be tricked by "phony bombing halts or troop withdrawals or any games played by liberal politicians." SDS says, "We will not be turned around."

November 9

National - On 14 October, the House passed and sent to the Senate a resolution designating 9 November as a national day of prayer and concern for Americans held prisoner by the North Vietnamese.

November 9

Los Angeles, California - The Teachers' Council for Peace in Vietnam is sponsoring a mass march and rally on November 9 with the aim of initiating "dramatic peace events - carefully planned so as to broaden the peace movement's popular appeal." The projected march and demonstration has the support of the Peace Action Council, umbrella coordinating agency for virtually all the peace organizations in the area. A speaker for the Teachers Council stated that "the peace rally will not be an anti-climax to the teachers' march. Part of the effort to increase GI resistance to the Vietnam War, the Conference will consider proposals including: "The guarantee of freedom of speech for GIs, freedom of the press and assembly, due process, etc., to servicemen and legislation to enforce the prohibition against cruel and unusual punishment by the officers' caste and their agents." The American Servicemen's Union has asked organized labor to support the GI movement.

November 15

Berkeley, California - A confidential source has advised that the extremist Black Panther Party plans to hold a benefit in the Berkeley, California, area on or about 15 November 1969. The purpose of the benefit is to raise money to be used as a legal defense fund for arrested leaders and members of the BPP, including its chairman Bobby Seale. The BPP plans to have well-known personalities and entertainers to participate in the benefit, including professional entertainer and civil rights activist Dick Gregory, and the Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, President of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. Reportedly, the BPP recently received word that Abernathy is willing to help and is waiting to be contacted by a representative of the BPP.

November 18

Washington, D. C. - The appearance of black militant Robert F. Williams before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, scheduled for 30 September was postponed until 18 November, according to Conrad Lynn, one of Williams' lawyers. JERRY CLYDE RUBIN

Jerry Rubin, one of two "Conspiracy 8" defendants who came to the Chicago trial under arrest and in the custody of U.S. marshalls, is a co-founder and leader of the Youth International Party (Yippies), and is said to be the "brains" behind the movement. He was a key leader in the 1967 student sit-ins at Berkeley; acted as coordinator of the October 1967 march on the Pentagon; and is an experienced organizer of war protests.

Rubin has been prominent during the trial, if for no other reason than his unconventional dress in court, a yellow and red-striped polo shirt, and the clowning he has indulged in with fellow Yippie leader Abbie Hoffman. He also, however, has featured as the target of much testimony by witnesses for the prosecution, who have related various incidents of his inciting demonstrators during the Convention riots in Chicago, some of which incidents have been detailed in previous Situation Reports.

Rubin was born on 14 July 1938 in Cincinnati, Ohio; graduated in 1956 from Cincinnati's Walnut Hills High School, which is described as having then been "the goal of Jewish mothers with sixth graders"; and in 1961 received an AB degree in American history from the University of Cincinnati. He attended Hebrew University in Jerusalem during 1962-1963; and upon his return to the United States entered the University of California at Berkeley as a graduate student in sociology, but remained for only two months. Thereafter, in the summer of 1964, in a group of eighty-four, he visited Cuba in violation of State Department regulations, on a trip sponsored by the pro-Castro Student Committee for Travel to Cuba.

It was following this visit to Cuba, that Rubin entered upon his New Left career. As one newspaper account expressed it, he became: "Jerry Rubin, public troublemaker, blocking troop trains in California, running for mayor of Berkeley, organizing the march on the Pentagon, getting busted in Chicago." The same April 1969 Washington Post account stated that, "At thirty-one, he lives in a strange man-boy world, completely cynical about manipulating the media, rushing to a TV set so he can see his 'rap' on the evening news, calculating what will drive adults up the wall...(but that) At the same time he is intensely earnest in his role as Marxist preacher to the young."

Rubin, in 1967, was an unsuccessful candidate for mayor of Berkeley, California, on a platform which opposed the Vietnam war and "American imperialism", and espoused Black Power and the legalization of marijuana.

In the fall of 1967, Rubin and Dick Gregory founded the Youth International Party; and in 1968 Eldridge Cleaver of the Black Panther Party suggested that Rubin run for Vice President on the Peace and Freedom Party ticket, on which he was to be the Presidential candidate. (However, at the New York Peace and Freedom Party Convention in July 1968, another was named as "interim candidate for Vice President.") As of August 1968, when the National Democratic Convention began, Rubin was the Chicago organizer for the Youth International Party.

Since launching his new militant career, Rubin has been arrested on a number of occasions: On 24 August 1965, in San Francisco with a group demonstrating against General Maxwell Taylor; on 19 August 1966, in Washington, D.C., for causing a disturbance during a session of the House Committee on Un-American Activities; on 30 November 1966, for demonstrating on the campus of the University of California at Berkeley; on 13 June 1968, in New York City, on a charge of possessing marijuana; and twice in August 1968, during the Democratic National Convention in Chicago, on charges of disorderly conduct, mob action, and resisting arrest.

Rubin can possibly best be pictured by quoting his own words, notably statements made by him in an article he wrote for Evergreen magazine (May 1969) titled: "A Yippie Manifesto". In this he describes the Yippies as a "revolutionary religious movement" and states that: "The religion of the Yippies is 'Rise Up and Abandon the Creeping Meatball!!' That means anything you want it to mean. Which is why it is so powerful a revolutionary slogan." Rubin promotes the much-quoted Yippie warning, "Don't trust anyone over thirty!", but says: "We are born twice. My first birth was in 1938 but I was reborn in 1971 in the Free Speech movement...I am four years old." According to Rubin, Bertrand Russell, age ninety, "is our leader."

Regarding the war in Vietnam, Rubin has stated: "The purpose of the Vietnam war is to get rid of the blacks. They are a nuisance. America got the work she needed out of blacks but now has no use for them." "It's a psychological war. The old send the young to die for the old." He sees the U.S.A. as "a military bully in Vietnam."

Some of Rubin's Yippie pronouncements:

"We fight to...do what we want to do whenever we want to do it."

"Prohibitions should be prohibited. Never say No."

"Rules are made to be broken."

"Property is theft. What America got, she stole."

"How was this country built? By the forced labor of slaves."

America owes black people billions in compensation."

"'Capitalism' is just a polite schoolbook way of saying: 'Stealing.'"

(Money, according to Rubin should be burned and during rallies he often has demonstrated its burning. Wall Street businessmen are "money freaks".)

"America is a loony bin."

"America does not suffer a cold; she has cancer."

Rubin claims that young whites are dropping out of "white society" with its middle class institutions, schools and homes, and forming their own communities. "We are becoming the new niggers. ... Within our communities we have the seeds of a new society. We have our own communications network, the underground press. We have the beginnings of a new family structure in communes. We have our own stimulants." Their long hair, he says, "is vital to us because it enables us to recognize each other. We have white skins like our oppressors. Long hair ties us together into a visible counter-community." The "smell", (and by implication of the dirt) of which he says "white society" accuses the Yippies, he dismisses with the statement: "That's what they used to say about the black people, remember? They don't say that about black people anymore. They would get munched in their mouths." Rubin's speech and his writings are larded with the use of four letter obscenities.

Despite his jester-like appearance and "kookie" ideas, Rubin is sometimes a keen analyst of human nature. He has noted that: "We (Yippies) are a new generation, species, race. We are bred on affluence, turned on by drugs, at home in our bodies, and excited by the future and its possibilities. Everything for us is an experience...we live off the fat of society. Our fathers worked all year around for a two-week vacation. Our entire life is a vacation." Another of his observations is: "The economy is closed. It does not need us. Everything is built."

Rubin frequently makes outlandish statements—some of which even he couldn't intend to be taken seriously. Others, he obviously does believe in and it is sometimes hard to tell what he actually means to say. For example: "Everyone in the world should vote in American elections, because America controls the world. The Vietnamese have more right to vote in the American elections than some 80-year-old grandmother in Omaha. ...I am in favor of lowering the voting age to 12 or 14 years. And I am not sure whether people over 50 should vote. It's the young kids who are going to live in this world in the next 50 years. They should choose what they want for themselves."

Rubin, like the other "Conspiracy 8" defendants, has spent much of his time during the last year lecturing to obtain funds; and he has continued his agitating even while on trial. On 14 October, the eve of Moratorium day, he spoke on the Berkeley campus of the University of California to some two thousand students, following a talk by former Chancellor Dr. Clark Kerr during which James R. Retherford, former editor of a New Left newspaper at the University, threw a pie in Dr. Kerr's face and was arrested. Rubin spoke of the injustices of the Chicago trial—following which five hundred marched to the jail to support Retherford, and a rock was thrown through the Police Department window.

"Hi, dear. Did you have a tough day at the Moratorium?"

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

The question often posed in recent weeks that seems to promote bewilderment and perplexed head thumping is, where was the SDS on October 15. The answer comes simply, through the understanding and recognition, from whatever causal equation, of the basic "environmental cynicism" complex in the SDS mentality and the accompanying uncompromising "action strategy" adherents are determined to employ in scratching the revolutionary itch. This misguided, radical philosophy, is perhaps the only remaining thread tying together the monolithic and doctrinaire PLP faction, the politically masochistic Weatherman and the somewhere in between RYM2. Be it the progeny of Hayakawa's "Boob tube" theory or Bettelheim's "relevancy" or Feuer's "generation gap," the modern student revolutionary interprets social phenomena cynically.

Theoretically-minded and articulate SDS spokesmen believe (only a handful of activists fall in this group incidentally) that the October 15 demonstrators (both Indians and chiefs), the "liberal Democrats," view the Vietnam conflict as some kind of gigantic mistake most likely engendered by madmen in the Pentagon. The way out of this mistake is to mobilize public opinion against the war. Then because this is a democratic country, the President will be forced to end the war to escape defeat at the next election. Radicals see the war very differently.

The radicals believe that the war is not a mistake but an integral part of American foreign policy. The Vietnam policy is neither new nor unique. The policy of maintaining pro-western "dictatorships" in Vietnam was begun by President Truman and has not changed since. In the left radical view, the United States has maintained similar dictatorships throughout the world from Argentina and Brazil to Spain and Greece to Taiwan and South Korea. None of these governments, they believe, could survive a moment without massive U. S. military aid. The only difference between Vietnam and other countries we have allegedly invaded - Guatemala, Dominican Republic, Lebanon, Thailand, Laos, and so on - is that the Vietnamese people have waged a stronger "peoples war" to resist U. S. aggression.

Handwritten notes and stamps at the bottom right of the page, including a large, dark, irregular mark and the letters "b 6" and "b 7E".

The SDS explanation is simple. United States policy abroad is consistently designed to protect the investment of American business. Benefiting at the tremendous expense of the people of underdeveloped nations, by utilizing cheap labor, and by extracting natural resources, the likelihood of huge corporate profits is enhanced. This is the foreign policy that SDS calls "American imperialism. (AI)." Because American business often dominates a country's total economy and consequently is so destructive to the interests of the people, military aid is sometimes needed to maintain a repressive regime that will allow U. S. domination.

SDSers believe that AI strengthens capitalism which in turn badly exploits both foreign and domestic labor. The only group that benefits from AI is the American businessmen. Those that suffer most are American workers who must first compete with cheap foreign labor; second, must pay higher taxes to pay the cost of a large army and military assistance programs; and third, do the fighting when "imperialist" wars break out. The government, the agency of AI, through many and varied control techniques (extracting promises for campaign contributions for instance) is at the mercy of big business.

It is from this perspective that SDS opposed the October 15 demonstrations. The moratorium encouraged millions of people, unhappy with the war, to channel their discontent into exactly those democratic processes which are controlled by big business. Such activity is not just useless, it is harmful. SDS believes that to raise peoples hopes that electoral politics and peaceful demonstrations will end the war is to discourage them from joining in a militant mass struggle truly capable of achieving this objective.

A recent meeting was held in Berkeley, California, between members of the extremist Black Panther Party (BPP) and two militant Chicago, Illinois, street gangs known as the Young Patriots and Young Lords. The meeting was to set up a training program that members of the youth gangs could participate in to see how the BPP operates. Reportedly, the BPP plans to utilize this cooperation with the youth groups in an attempt to gain national publicity. It was indicated that the BPP is presently dissatisfied with the operation of the anarchistic radical Students for a Democratic Society, and is planning to disassociate itself from this organization. There was some discussion about setting up training areas in northern California for the purpose of forming a base for an armed struggle to carry out guerrilla warfare; however, no definite plans were formulated at the meeting.

"See! I Told You It Wouldn't Affect Me. Now, I Let Declare Another Moratorium . . . on Moratoria"

CALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

October 25

*Chicago, Illinois - The New Mobilization Committee is sponsoring actions in Chicago in support of the "Chicago Eight" and calling for an end to the war in Vietnam. A guerrilla theater march down State Street, a tribunal dealing with political repression, and a rock concert are planned. The march and rally are to focus on the war and alleged government repression of peace movement leaders. Reportedly, Dr. Benjamin Spock will be the main speaker at a rally, and the Peter, Paul, and Mary group will be guest singers.

October 25

*Trenton, N. J. - A "Bible Believers' Victory in Vietnam" march to protest the Vietnam war protests will be lead by Georgia's Gov. Lester Maddox. Maddox accepted the invitation of Carl McIntire, right wing radio evangelist, who said "I challenge the Vietnam Moratorium cowards to come hear Gov. Maddox and learn the truth about Vietnam." He'll set them straight."

November 3

National and Chicago - In a speech to a BPP rally in Chicago on 7 October, Rennie Davis of the Chicago Eight stated that, on 25 October law students throughout the country would be encouraged to walk out of classes. Then, on 3 November, the population of Chicago would be invited to meet at the civic center to protest the current trial.

November 1-7

*Boston Area - Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) chapters at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) are reportedly planning demonstrations November one through seven next at MIT and Harvard University to oppose research by the university for the Defense Department. On November four next, SDS may attempt to disrupt classes and impede research projects. The theme of this demonstration will be "Bring down the second Pentagon." The above actions are reportedly still in the planning stage.

November 3

Chicago, Illinois - Arrested September 8 at the University of Illinois where, as leaders of a community coalition, they were demonstrating for more jobs for minorities in the construction industry were: Rev. Jesse Jackson (SCLC); Lawrence Patterson (Conservative Vice-Lords); Robert Weathers (Black Disciples); and Leonard B. Sengali (Black Peace Stone Nation). Trial has been set for 3 November.

November 3

New York City and Nationally - On 7 October a group of black intellectuals and activists in New York City called for a city-wide work stoppage by black workers as a display of unity among the majority of Negroes--a "Black Solidarity Day." Although called for New York City, the sponsors said other blacks are working toward similar shows of unity in Detroit, Cleveland, Los Angeles, and Chicago. One purpose of the demonstrations is to show black opposition to "the growing conservatism" among U. S. whites. "This test of Solidarity Day will call on the majority of blacks not involved (with black activism) to show this anger in a creatively disruptive act."

November 6

New Bedford, Massachusetts - The Regional Action Group, believed to be an SDS sponsored group, is planning an anti-war demonstration. Thursdays are traditionally known as a "night on the town" when vandalism and arrests are prevalent.

November 8

Nationally - SDS has said that as a follow-up to the 11 October action in Chicago, regional demonstrations will be held throughout the country to make it clear that SDS will not be tricked by "phony bombing halts or troop withdrawals or any games played by liberal politicians." SDS says, "We will not be turned around."

November 8

Boston, Mass. - A Boston anti-imperialist coalition will hold a demonstration to support the NLF and demand immediate withdrawal from Vietnam. It will be the culmination of a week of anti-imperialist demonstrations against a variety of targets. It will bring together high school and college students and working people.

November 8-15.

National - Planned to be a week of local activity around the war and U. S. imperialism, to build on-going local organizations and to help mobilize for November 15th in Washington and San Francisco. The goal is to plan activity appealing to a wide variety of constituencies and political styles. Initiated by the Joe Hill Caucus of SDS at San Francisco State and endorsed by the RYM II national SDS faction. A primary aim is for campus protests. The NMC co-chairman, Sidney Peck has indicated that NMC hopes the actions take place.

November 8-15.

*The Fellowship of Reconciliation, a pacifist group which is participating in the November fifteen demonstrations, plans to conduct a continuous vigil at the South Vietnamese Embassy, November eight through fifteen.

November 9

*Los Angeles, California - The Teachers' Council for Peace in Vietnam is sponsoring a mass march and rally on November 9 with the aim of initiating "dramatic peace events" - carefully planned so as to broaden the peace movement's popular appeal. The projected march and demonstration has the support of the Peace Action Council, umbrella coordinating agency for virtually all the peace organizations in the area. A speaker for the Teachers' Council stated that "the peace rally will not be an anti-climax to the teachers' march. On the contrary, we are hoping for the largest anti-war rally ever held in Los Angeles." Congressmen George Brown, Jr., and Edward Roybal, both Democrats from Los Angeles, will be among the speakers at the L.A. High School football stadium rally following the march.

November 10

*National - Police Chief Dallas Bias of Charleston, W. Va., called on the nation's policemen and firemen to stage a "National March of Confidence" in the Government and the U.S. soldiers in Vietnam November 10, the day before Veterans Day.

November 10

*Rennie Davis and David Dellinger, both of whom are on trial at Chicago, Illinois, for their activities during the Democratic National Convention, attended an NMC meeting at Washington, D. C., on October twenty last. Davis indicated that he was returning to Washington, D. C., on November eight next and that a demonstration will be held at the Justice Department on November ten next to protest the Chicago trial.

November 11

*Veterans Day - At least one person, Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) has suggested that on Veterans Day demonstrations be conducted in support of U. S. forces in Vietnam to make sure that they "know how the majority of responsible Americans feel."

November 12

Detroit, Michigan - Robert F. Williams, militant black, who recently returned to the U.S.A. after eight years of exile in Cuba, China, and Tanzania, was freed on personal bond after two appearances in Detroit Courts within hours after his return. Williams is fighting extradition to North Carolina where he is wanted on a kidnapping charge. An extradition hearing is set for November 12.

November 13-16

*Washington, D. C., San Francisco, & Nationally

After assessing the impact of Vietnam Moratorium Day, 15 October 1969, on the Fall Peace Offensive, the various coalitions, steering committees, organizations and individuals that had been looking toward conducting protest activities during mid-November have begun to renew their efforts in funding, planning, and organizing. Despite some profession, by assorted organizational leaders, of divergent views and intentions, it must be recognized that the hierarchy of these groups overlaps and interlocks and the primary goal of the main leadership is to reflect in one fashion or another such a broad base of opinion and support as to envelop almost anyone holding some measure of anti-war or anti-establishment feeling.

The prime organizational activity for the 13-16 November period will be conducted, at least ostensibly, by the Vietnam Moratorium Committee, Student Mobilization Committee, New Mobilization Committee, and Students for a Democratic Society. SDS, itself badly split into factions, has indicated that it will attempt to either conduct its own activities or take advantage of those being sponsored by the other three organizations, but in any event, wants to escalate the actions toward an aggressive violent posture.

SCHEDULING TO DATE ANTICIPATES:

November 13-14

*Nationally - Continuance of Moratorium on business as usual - two days in November. Sponsored by the Vietnam Moratorium Committee. Shift of emphasis from Washington and main urban centers to local activities across the country.

November 14

*Nationally - National Student Strike at high schools and colleges - sponsored by the SMC and backed by other groups - demanding shutdown of campuses that day. Rallies, teach-ins, and debates to be part of strike. Demands will also be related to ongoing campus struggles.

November 13-15

*Washington, D. C. - A "March Against Death," led by Mrs. Coretta King, and sponsored by the NMC. Commencing at midnight, November 13, some 40,000 participants will start a single file march from Arlington Cemetery past the White House to the Capitol. Each will carry a placard bearing the name of a U. S. war dead or Vietnam village destroyed. The march is expected to take some thirty-six hours and to terminate in the forenoon Saturday the 15th prior to the main march and rally that day. It is difficult to believe D. C. authorities will permit traffic to be tied up for such a long period.

November 15

*Washington, D. C. - A planned massive march and rally sponsored by the NMC. Among announced rally co-chairmen: Rev. William Sloane Coffin, Dr. Benjamin Spock, Julius Hobson, and Bobby Seale (BPP leader jailed in Chicago). Assembly starts at mall at 9 a.m.; march starts 11 a.m.; and the rally is planned for 2 p.m. on the Ellipse.

November 15

*San Francisco, California - A planned massive march and rally sponsored by NMC.

November 16

*Washington, D. C. - Meetings and continued unannounced actions by NMC.

November 13-16

Washington, D. C. - A national conference on GI rights was announced by the GI Defense Organization in a planning session held at Chicago in early August. Part of the effort to increase GI resistance to the Vietnam War, the Conference will consider proposals including: "The guarantee of freedom of speech for GIs, freedom of the press and assembly, due process, etc., to servicemen and legislation to enforce the prohibition against cruel and unusual punishment by the officers' caste and their agents." The American Servicemen's Union has asked organized labor to support the GI movement.

November 15

Berkeley, California - A confidential source has advised that the extremist Black Panther Party plans to hold a benefit in the Berkeley, California, area on or about 15 November 1969. The purpose of the benefit is to raise money to be used as a legal defense fund for arrested leaders and members of the BPP, including its chairman Bobby Seale. The BPP plans to have well-known personalities and entertainers to participate in the benefit, including professional entertainer and civil rights activist Dick Gregory, and the Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, President of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. Reportedly, the BPP recently received word that Abernathy is willing to help and is waiting to be contacted by a representative of the BPP.

November 18

Washington, D. C. - The appearance of black militant Robert F. Williams before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee scheduled for 30 September was postponed until 18 November, according to Conrad Lynn, one of Williams' lawyers. Williams faces kidnapping charges in North Carolina.

November 19-22

*Washington, D. C. - The Committee of Returned Volunteers plans to participate in the November demonstrations and to hold a conference dealing with "American Imperialism in Asia." It will also demonstrate November 19-22 at Washington, D. C., during a conference on Okinawa between the President and the Prime Minister of Japan.

November 21-24

Chicago, Illinois - The New Democratic Coalition steering committee announced a national conference will be held at which Sen. Harold Hughes (D-Iowa) will be the principal speaker.

November 28-30

Mississippi, or Georgia - The National Conference on Black Power had a three-conference schedule for 1969 - the first in July in Bermuda - the second 29-31 August in Los Angeles, and the third - "to synthesize the results of the previous two" will be in Mississippi or Georgia during the Thanksgiving weekend (November 27). It will be international in scope - including black peoples from North America, the Caribbean, Africa, and South America.

December 20

*International - In Helsinki in August 1967, at the World Meeting of Solidarity of Youth and Students with Vietnam, attended by young people from 78 countries, among three documents adopted was one containing recommendations for national youth organizations and movements to conduct a world-wide campaign of action of the youth and students in support of the Vietnamese people and its struggle for independence, freedom and peace. Mass activities on December 20 - the day of establishment of the South Vietnam National Liberation Front, "must become a culmination of all the mass action conducted in the most diverse forms," it declared.

December 26-28

*Chicago, Illinois - The CPUSA has disseminated a document entitled "A Call to Found a Revolutionary Working Class Youth Organization." The founding convention of this new Marxist-Leninist Youth organization will be in Chicago from December 26-28, 1969.

On Moratorium day, Wednesday, 15 October, the fourth week of the trial of the "Chicago 8" got off to a rousing start when two of the defendants (all of whom had in effect been denied the right to attend and speak at Moratorium day demonstrations, when Judge Julius J. Hoffman refused to recess the trial or permit them to absent themselves) upon making their appearance in court with black armbands on their arms, promptly produced a small American flag and a large Viet Cong flag with which they draped the defense table. The two, Bennie Davis and Abbie Hoffman, were ordered by a United States marshal to "Get that thing off the table."; whereupon Abbie Hoffman refused, claiming the right to have it "if we want to." He grabbed at the flag being rolled up by the marshal and a shouting match and tug of war ensued for several seconds. Thereupon, and prior to the arrival of Judge Hoffman and the opening of the day's session, David Dellinger gave a speech in the courtroom and began reading names of war dead. Judge Hoffman, upon his entry, ordered Dellinger to sit down and stated that the display of the flag of an enemy nation in the courtroom was "the most outrageous courtroom conduct I have ever seen."

On Friday, 17 October, thirty members of the Ad Hoc Committee of Lawyers to Stop the Trial picketed the Federal Building in Chicago to protest the trial; and made a press release announcing that it was seeking the impeachment of Judge Hoffman; had requested investigations into his conduct; and had prepared a brief in support of a motion for a mistrial.

During court on Monday, 20 October, Bobby Seale, Chairman of the Black Panther Party, accused Judge Hoffman of being "a Fascist and a racist" and of trying to "railroad" him to jail. He made these charges following Judge Hoffman's denial of a motion to permit Seale to act as his own attorney. (Throughout the trial, Seale has periodically risen in court to protest that he is unrepresented by counsel because his West Coast Panther defense attorney is unable, by reasons of health, to be present and Judge Hoffman refused to postpone the trial until his recovery. Judge Hoffman maintains that Seale is adequately represented by other counsel in the joint trial; but Seale claims that he dismissed them and is, therefore, unrepresented. Two days after the above incident Judge Hoffman denied a motion by Defense Attorney William M. Kunstler to withdraw as Seale's lawyer.)

Upon Seale's refusal to sit down and be quiet as ordered, Judge Hoffman instructed a Federal marshal to make him sit down. Seale continued to mutter about a "black man trying to defend himself against the United States, Nixon, and the rest of them"; and at the end of the day, Judge Hoffman warned him that there is "competent authority" for dealing with a defendant who persists in talking. Some legal observers believe that the judge had reference to a recent Illinois decision under which Seale could be shackled and gagged in court if he refuses to contain himself. During noon recess, Seale submitted a new handwritten motion asking for a series of steps to enable him to defend himself, including a request for his release from jail so that he might interview witnesses and do necessary investigating.

On 21 October, Rennie Davis announced at the usual news conference held by the defendants during the trial's noon recess, that the Black Panther's exiled Minister of Information Eldridge Cleaver (who jumped bail last year after his parole was revoked and is reported to now be living in Algiers) has begun discussions with the enemy in Vietnam about an exchange of United States military prisoners for Panther leaders in custody in the United States—that is, Bobby Seale, who is under arrest for conspiracy to commit murder, and Huey P. Newton, who is serving a jail term of two to fifteen years for fatally shooting a policeman. This information, according to Davis, had been learned by defendant Tom Hayden during a meeting in Oakland, California, with the Black Panther Party's Central Committee on Sunday, 19 October. Hayden hadn't learned the details and said he had no reason to believe that the United States Government knew of the discussions initiated by Cleaver. He noted, however, that Cleaver has been in several Communist countries during the last two months, including the Soviet Union and North Korea.

On the following day, the State Department indicated that it had no knowledge of any such proposed exchange and officials expressed doubt that North Vietnam has any interest in such an exchange; while David Hilliard, "Chief of Staff" of the EPT, announced that "The groundwork has been set" for the release of an unspecified number of American prisoners of war if the jailed Panther leaders are freed. According to Hilliard, "final details" of the proposed exchange are being worked out by Eldridge Cleaver and the North Vietnamese will ask that Pennie Davis and David Dellinger act as go-betweens in the proposed swap. The proposal, it was said, could be activated "as soon as Davis and Dellinger are cleared to go and meet with Eldridge."

The court was again thrown into a furor on 22 October when co-defendants of Bobby Seale tried to present him with a birthday cake in court and were barred by the marshals from doing so; and a Black Panther was evicted from the courtroom when he refused to stand when Judge Hoffman entered it.

There were about twenty Negro spectators in the courtroom for "Bobby Seale Day", the largest number to appear so far; and ten Black Panthers among them failed to stand when Judge Hoffman entered. When ordered by the Judge to do so, one refused and was removed by a Federal marshal, while Seale yelled, "You're a pig for kicking him out!" and the other nine Black Panthers shouted, "Right on" and raised clenched fists in support of Seale.

At that point, Defense Attorney Kunstler rose saying that the seven absent defendants had brought a birthday cake for Seale and wanted permission to bring it into court. When permission was denied, the seven, who were outside the courtroom door, retreated to their conference room and reemerged in a ceremonial procession with Jerry Rubin leading the way and carrying the cake which was iced with the inscription "Free Huey and Bobby". When marshals seized the cake, Abbie Hoffman shouted, "That's a cake-napping!" and when the defendants finally entered the courtroom, Ronnie Davis shouted to Seale, "Hey, Bobby, they've arrested your cake." Seale replied in a loud voice, "They have arrested a cake but they can't arrest a revolution."; and the Panthers in the spectator section again shouted, "Right on!" and raised their fists. When Judge Hoffman ordered the spectators to be silent, Seale turned to the spectators and said, "O.K., brothers, just sit in the courtroom and listen and don't say anything." Judge Hoffman said, "I give the orders here, sir."; whereupon Seale replied, "They don't take orders from a racist Judge."

Throughout the day, Seale was repeatedly reprimanded for his conduct but continued to talk—at one time muttering, "for 400 years we've been persecuted, murdered, shot!" Judge Hoffman warned him that his remarks were "contumacious" and said he would be "dealt with at the appropriate time."

Somchow, in the midst of the above related disruptions, testimony was taken from several undercover Chicago police officers, a newspaper reporter, an FBI agent and a paid FBI informant (a news reporter who stated that in the course of his work he received so much information which he felt was a threat to the security of the United States that he went to the FBI). These individuals furnished testimony regarding the activities of Rennie Davis, David Dellinger, and Jerry Rubin in Chicago, during the Convention, and elsewhere earlier, which lends credence to charges of their having incited others to riot.

the laws, disrupt the United States Government, go to jail" to stop the Vietnam war. According to [redacted] Bellinger also told the group, a month before the 1968 Democratic National Convention, that he was going to Chicago "where there may be some problems."

he heard Jerry Rubin tell a crowd, about a month before the Convention, "People should march and cause disruption to the election system...at the Convention and on election day." The testimony of both witnesses was strenuously, but unsuccessfully, protested by the defense, which claimed that it was not relevant.

who said he infiltrated the ranks of the protesters during the Convention, testified that he heard Rennie Davis answer a demonstrator's question regarding action to be taken if the police attempted to clear the Lincoln Park area being used as a campground: "That's easy. We just riot."

testified that he had seen Rennie Davis lead a march into Grant Park on the evening of 26 August 1968, and had heard him shout through a bull horn, "What do you want?" to which the demonstrators responded, "Revolution!" Davis yelled, "When do we want it?" and the crowd answered, "Now". When they reached the park, Davis yelled, "Take the hill, take the high ground. Don't let the pigs take the hill."

testified that during the Democratic Convention, Rennie Davis ordered anti-war demonstrators to attack police so that television cameras could film the police counter-action but not the demonstrators' attack. [redacted] also stated that he saw Jerry Rubin lead two or three hundred protesters on a rampage through the Loop screaming, "Come with me. The streets belong to the people." On 28 August 1968, according to [redacted] when two or three thousand protesters were massing in Grant Park across from the Hilton Hotel, Davis asked a Deputy Police Superintendent to pull a police guardline back across Michigan Avenue stating: "My people are nervous—my people are nervous." To which the police officer replied: "There won't be any trouble if you obey the law." Shortly thereafter, Davis pointed to the line of policemen and instructed an unidentified associate: "I want you to replace the people in front of the police with (demonstration) marshals. Tell the marshals to kick the police in the shins and they will react by clubbing the demonstrators...the TV cameras will pick that up. The cameras will not be able to pick up what the marshals are doing."

Despite their not having been permitted to absent themselves from court on Moratorium day, some of the defendants have managed during the trial to make trips to Washington, San Francisco, etc., as previously noted, and on 30 October (according to the FBI) Service Davis and David Dellinger, the head of the New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (NMIC), attended an NMIC meeting in Washington, D.C. Davis indicated that he would be returning to Washington on 8 November, and that on 10 November a demonstration would be held at the Justice Department to protest the Chicago trials. The NMIC is organizing massive demonstrations in Washington, D.C., and in San Francisco, on 15 November 1969; and is said to feel that now that it has resolved its differences with the Vietnam Moratorium Committee (VMC), the Washington demonstrations will attract from 250,000 to 500,000 participants. (Officials of the NMIC, which had threatened to denounce the NMIC if it didn't change its policy branding "Establishment" speakers during the November demonstrations, reportedly met with Senator Eugene McCarthy and were told by him to resolve their differences with the NMIC.)

The press continues, with what would seem to be some justification, to criticize Judge Hoffman's attitude in court toward the defendants and their attorneys. One example being cited occurred when heated words were exchanged following a request by David Dellinger for a moment of silence in honor of the Moratorium and U.S. Attorney Foran's shouted objection. During the verbal exchange, Foran termed Defense Attorney Kunstler "a worthless piece"; and Judge Hoffman refused to rebuke Foran stating: "I not only will not rule on it, I will ignore it."

Nationally recognized periodicals, such as Newsweek, Time, etc., are pointing out that Judge Hoffman has laid himself open to a charge likely to be argued in any appeal of the case, i.e.: that the defendants were unable to get a fair trial because of the Judge's attitude. While it is generally conceded that Judge Hoffman is being strongly provoked, it is also being noted that he has made evident in court (and thus to the jury) his disdain for the defendants and their attorneys. As Time has put it, "By over-reacting to the defendants' shenanigans, Hoffman may not only give them good arguments for appealing a conviction but also strengthen their claim that U.S. institutions are inherently unfair."

Reversal of any conviction in the case is believed by many to be already assured—a serious matter indeed, considering the importance of the case which will test the constitutionality of the recently enacted anti-riot act (which provides up to five years in prison and $10,000 fines for crossing state lines with intent to incite a riot) and which will perhaps "update the definition of 'free speech' in an age of dissent." Whatever the outcome, the case will no doubt be carried to the Supreme Court.

AP-1142SPECIAL INFORMATION REPORT

During the eighth week of the trial of the now "Chicago 7" (12-18 November), the Communist press has continued its bombardment demanding that Bobby Seale, no longer one of the "conspirators" on trial, be freed; that the trial of the "Chicago 7" be called off and the indictments against them dismissed; and that Judge Julius J. Hoffman be impeached. It has protested the "Fascist-like actions" of Judge Hoffman in his treatment of Seale, who "from the opening day of the trial has been the special target of racist hostility and bestial repression." "Fascist" is a word currently much in use by the Communist and underground press. People's World refers to the Judge in such terms as "thunder Judge Hoffman", while the Quicksilver Times has called him "the vain, wisened, prancing judge (who) was the criminal and not the Black Revolutionary (Seale)."

As reported in People's World, "The Communist Party calls upon all progressives—all people who cherish democracy and peace—to speak out. Bombard the Justice Department, U.S. Attorney General Mitchell, to put an end to this mockery of a trial signaled in the shameful antics of the presiding judge... Demand that the Justice Department intervene now to dismiss the entire indictment against the 'Chicago 8'... Demand that immediate steps be taken for the impeachment of Judge Hoffman..."

Seale's wife, Artie, has spoken at Black Panther national headquarters of his treatment in court where, according to her, he was so tightly bound and gagged that he "passed out before he reached the courtroom" and, even after rearrangement of his "bandages", "could hardly breathe. He was choking to death and he was dizzy and he almost passed out in the courtroom, so they had to stop the court and beg Judge Hoffman to please cut him loose." His mother, Thelma Seale, and Panther Attorney

Charles R. Garry spoke to a packed congregation in the Glide Memorial Church whose minister, Reverend Cecil Williams, is the head of Citizens United for Political Prisoners, which "plans to send out thousands of letters asking for financial or moral support for Seale and others."

A 15 November article in the Guardian, which appears to be one of a series of articles by Tom Hayden on the "Chicago 8" trial, referred to the Government's case against The Conspiracy as having "staggered to its end last week"; and noted that "our defense will soon open in the courtroom." According to Hayden, the Government has failed to create "even the semblance of a trial much less a convincing argument that the eight defendants conspired to start a riot at the Democratic Convention last year." The theme of the defense, he said, will be that "we have a right to act with a revolutionary spirit. The first amendment was intended to protect the spirit and we view the actions in Chicago as part of the beginning of a new American revolution... to abolish racism and class exploitation and to create a free society." Demonstrations like those on 15 November, he said, "are perhaps our best defense. The indictments against us clearly have failed in their intention to stop people from moving to take the country away from the ruling class."

According to Hayden, the Government's handling of the trial, and particularly of Bobby Seale, "has virtually destroyed the ritualized sanctity of the judicial system in this country for countless people." Seale's conduct, he said, "was in the classic Panther tradition"; and both Seale and Huey P. Newton, Panther leaders, "were jailed because they had taken exemplary direct action to articulate the demand of the black colony for self-determination." He quoted Seale as telling the other conspiracy defendants, during one of their last meetings, of the need for unity among all organizations in demanding the withdrawal of troops from Vietnam, the ending of racism, and the freeing of all political prisoners. He stressed that "law and order" is merely the "domestic policy of imperialism."

According to Hayden, the judiciary is unable to deal with confrontation politics and disruption in the courtroom and "The movement is heading into a showdown with law and order."

The Daily World has been sponsoring a petition addressed to the Attorney General of the United States "For Justice in the Chicago Conspiracy Case", (a copy of which has been run in that publication), in which they "urge" him "to go into court and move for the dismissal of the indictments against the eight defendants and for vacating the contempt sentences against Seale."

Not only has the Communist press given great play to the "Chicago 8" (Chicago 7) trial and particularly to Bobby Seale, the underground press has done the same. The 13 November 1969 issue of the Quicksilver Times, for example, contains several articles in this connection as well as a large cartoon; and the "early November 1969" issue of the Washington Free Press contains a full-page ad on the conspiracy demanding in large headlines:

"STOP THE TRIAL!
EMPTY THE PRISONS
FREE EVERYBODY
BREAK BOBBY'S SHACKLES", Etc.

It also contains a double-page ad which shows in the background a dictionary-like definition of the word "fascism" with a superimposed picture of the by now familiar artist's sketch of Seale bound and gagged in court.

Quicksilver Times, in a report on statements made by Abbie Hoffman when he was speaking at the American University regarding the then upcoming picket line demonstration to be held at the Justice Department on 15 November in behalf of the "Chicago 8", quoted him as saying that its significance was to link in people's minds the war overseas with political repression at home—both of which, according to Hoffman, are created by "our country's system." "Vietnam just don't happen, they are a natural outgrowth of this system, capitalism." (It was at this Yippie-sponsored demonstration at the Justice Department, in the planning of which defendants Abbie Hoffman and Jerry Rubin played leading parts, that the worst of the riotous disorders of the entire Moratorium took place. The march to the Justice Department, which was led by radical Yippies chanting: "Free Bobby Seale", "Stop the trial", "Ho, Ho, Ho Chi Minh—NLF is gonna win", turned into a confrontation with police when the mob began pounding on the doors of the Justice Department, lowering the building's American flag and replacing it with a Vietcong flag, hurling bottles, and smashing windows.)

Activities within the courtroom of the "Chicago 7" trial during the past week appear to have been chiefly concerned with the testimony and cross-examination of Irwin Lock, undercover Chicago policeman, and with motions by the defense for a mistrial.

Lock, who testified that he infiltrated the leadership of various Chicago and national antiwar groups and in that way learned that the seven defendants urged violent actions during last year's Democratic National Convention, under cross-examination said that an affidavit signed by him on 30 June for the defense was untrue. The affidavit which absolved the defense of suggesting "any criminal activity", or of doing "anything of a criminal nature", was signed by Lock, he said, on the advice of his superiors and in order to maintain his cover and protect his identity as a policeman. Defense attorneys tried to show that the statement was an affidavit and Lock a perjurer; but Lock testified that the statement was not sworn and not notarized. The statement contradicts information furnished in his testimony, which cited "more than 20 speeches and conversations" he had heard involving the defendants.

The defense was reported on Monday, 17 November, to be preparing "today" to argue for a mistrial on grounds that Lock lied in giving a pre-trial statement to defense attorneys. On the same date, defense attorneys argued that a mistrial should be declared because of police infiltration and spying into the affairs of the defendants. Judge Hoffman, however, denied the motion, ruling that the charges were "unsubstantiated." The defense, he said, had not proved that the Government is opening mail addressed to the attorneys for the "Chicago 7." He noted that his chamber "has virtually become a post office for the defendants" and advised the defense to have its mail addressed to its own offices.

On 19 November, Defense Lawyer William A. Kunstler introduced another motion for a mistrial based on his allegations that Judge Hoffman has made it apparent that he bears "animus" against the defense team. This, he said, has been clear throughout the trial and culminated in two incidents "yesterday": when he warned Kunstler not to lean against the lectern designed by Chicago's renowned architect Ludwig Mies van der Rohe; and rebuked Leonard L. Weinglass for speaking "offensively" to one of the prosecutors when accusing him of testifying rather than raising an objection. (Kunstler, no doubt, was also aggravated by the fact that on Friday, 11 November, Judge Hoffman refused to dismiss court at 4:30 p.m., as asked by Kunstler who indicated that he wished to go "to protest in Washington", and kept the court in session for twenty-three minutes past its normal adjournment time. Kunstler claimed that "the bench has so prejudiced this case the jury could no longer possibly render an impartial verdict." He accused the Judge of having indicated "in front of the jury that there is something very wrong with the defense attorneys" and of having "as much as said we are going to jail at the end of the case." Judge Hoffman, who rejected Kunstler's motion for a mistrial, replied, "Those are your words, not mine, I never threaten. I give admonitions. I cannot sit here and see conduct I consider contemptuous and say nothing."

Another clash took place at the end of the day, between the defense attorneys and Judge Hoffman, when the latter sternly admonished Kunstler for shouting in court and defendant David Dellinger for standing up and speaking out. Mr. Weinglass asked the Judge to also admonish Asst. U.S. Attorney Richard Schultz for calling the defense attorneys "unlignified"; but Judge Hoffman said he didn't think Mr. Foren or Mr. Schultz had "said anything that needs to be disciplined." Kunstler remarked that the jury must conclude that the defense is "pretty horrible", and the Judge again replied, "Those are your words, not mine." To Kunstler's comment, "How could they think otherwise?", Judge Hoffman said with a smile, "I don't know."

Meanwhile, a third Vietnam moratorium has been announced for 12/13 December and 24 December, Christmas Eve. There has been no reference as yet to any tie to the "Chicago 8"--but it seems doubtful that the "Chicago 7", several of whom were leaders of the disruptive elements of the November 15 Moratorium/Mobilization demonstrations, will fail to again capitalize on an opportunity to tie their trial to the anti-Vietnam war movement.

CALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

November 21-24, Chicago, Illinois

The New Democratic Coalition steering committee announced a national conference will be held at which Sen. Harold Hughes (D-Iowa) will be the principal speaker.

*November 22, New Haven and Niantic, Connecticut

The BPP is planning a demonstration in support of the fourteen BPP members who are awaiting trial for the murder of a member of the BPP. The Black Stone Rangers, a Hartford, Connecticut, Negro youth gang, is reportedly in close contact with the BPP.

Also on the 22nd at New Haven, Women's Liberation activists from throughout the East will converge on the state courthouse to demand that the five BPP women currently in jail on the murder charges be freed. Men have also been urged to join this demonstration. Women are expected to come from New York, Baltimore, New Jersey, Washington, D. C., Boston, Philadelphia, and as far away as Chicago.

*November 23, Columbia, South Carolina

A march by dissident military personnel and Student Mobilization Committee members at University of South Carolina, Columbia, reportedly was rescheduled for this alternate date. Marchers are to attempt to gain entrance to Fort Jackson during the afternoon or early evening.

*November 23, San Juan, Puerto Rico

March against compulsory military service from Santurce to San Juan will end with public rally at Colon Plaza. Activities sponsored by Independence Party of Puerto Rico, Communist Party of Puerto Rico, Movement for the Independence of Puerto Rico youth, Federation of University Students, Authentic Sovereignty.

*November 26-27, Plymouth, Massachusetts and Washington, D. C.

The Clergy and Laymen Concerned About Vietnam, a very active anti-war group, has issued a statement announcing it will sponsor a Thanksgiving fast at Plymouth Rock and also on the steps of the Capitol in Washington, D. C., on the 26th of November and lasting into Thanksgiving Day, the 27th. PHI 11/27/69

128SPECIAL INFORMATION REPORT4 July, Washington, D.C.

Walt Disney Productions has, in the past several weeks, built the Bob Hope-Billy Graham brain child, "Honor America Day," celebration at Washington into what will almost assuredly be the largest assemblage of any kind ever staged. The list of performers who will appear and entertain during the day's program consists of the biggest names in American entertainment. Aside from Billy Graham and other well-known religious leaders including Bishop Fulton Sheen who will handle the religious aspects of the celebration, the list of prominent people who will appear includes in part the following: Bob Hope, Jack Benny, Les Brown and his band, Glen Campbell, Barbara Eden, Roberta Flack, the Gold-Diggers, Theresa Graves, Lionel Hampton, Dorothy Lamour, Buck Owens, Dinah Shore, Red Skelton, Kate Smith, Connie Stevens, the Young Americans, Fred Waring, Johnny Cash, Billy Casper, and Frank Borman. A number of prominent members of the Senate and House of Representatives have also endorsed the "Honor America Day" celebration.

All three major American television networks will televise the morning religious program throughout the nation between 11:00 and noon. NBC will tape the evening entertainment for showing later in the Johnny Carson time-slot. Radio and film news coverage will be maintained throughout the day by all networks, and several local nonaffiliated radio stations are planning live coverage. It is also planned that the television coverage of the event will be broadcast via satellite to many parts of the world.

Buses, airplanes, and railroad cars, as well as auto caravans, are scheduled to arrive from points all over the eastern United States carrying visitors by the tens-of-thousands. Full-page advertisements have appeared in a number of newspapers including the Washington Post and the New York Times. The Maryland and Virginia suburbs have seen the distribution of advertising flyers (as far away as Leesburg, Virginia), and the General Services Administration has placed posters in a number of Federal agencies in Washington. Free transportation, advertised as the "big lift to honor America," is being provided by a number of private enterprises. One main contributor is the Coca Cola Bottling Company.

Bob Hope has estimated the attendance for the affair will be 400,000. Past crowds demonstrating in the nation's capital in vast numbers include the civil rights march of 1963 which drew an estimated 200,000 and last November's peace rally with crowds estimated at about 250,000. The largest estimated group to ever attend anything anywhere was the Bethel, New York, Woodstock Music Fair which drew 300,000 people. In view of the organizing and publicity that has been skillfully carried out, it is believed that the Bob Hope estimate of 400,000 people is a very modest one. D.C. police estimate between 400,000 and 500,000. The crowd could exceed 500,000.

Bob Hope, who thus far has been the most informative public spokesman for the celebration, has emphasized that the evening performances will be purely entertainment. There will be no speeches and it is intended there will be a well-balanced representation of all ages and ethnic backgrounds. Bob Hope has repeatedly stated that "Honor America Day" will be nonpolitical in nature.

For motorists who drive in from the suburbs, fringe parking spaces have been set aside at J. F. K. Stadium and at the Pentagon parking lot. D.C. Transit will provide shuttle service at the usual rates from the shuttle areas to the Federal Triangle.

Although the Hope-Graham enterprise has received popular endorsement, a number of irritants have arisen in past weeks which may cause the celebration to be something less than total sunshine and flowers. On 30 June, conservative preacher Dr. Carl McIntire said he and his March for Victory Committee will be in Washington on the 4th to support a military victory in Vietnam. The March for Victory Committee is planning a brief counterdemonstration Saturday morning when 500 persons in various parts of Washington will release 113,000 red, white, and blue balloons bearing the inscription, "Victory."

Col. Jeru Ahmed-Bey Hassan of the Blackman's Liberation Army had previously received a permit to conduct a 4 July demonstration at the Sylvan Theatre. Hassan has now postponed the event until 22 August. Although the Blackman's Liberation Army was invited to take part in the "Honor America Day" celebration; Col. Hassan has declined, saying, "We do not want to be part of programmed patriotism." The colonel stated that he would prefer to work to stop the illegal drug traffic than to pretend that America is now united. "We will do nothing ever to dishonor America, but we do not feel like celebrating." (Col. Hassan and his group have for the past year been administering an unofficial but reasonably effective methadone program in Washington.)

Another group, the Sons of the American Revolution, which for 27 years has sponsored a 4 July celebration at the Washington Monument, has announced plans to go on with its scheduled program despite the fact that the timing conflicts with the "Honor America Day" schedule. A spokesman from the organization has stated that they have been sponsoring the event since 1943, and although they have no headline attractions they will continue their celebration.

The organizer of Veterans for Peace in Vietnam has issued a statement endorsed by former peacenik Senator Ernest Gruening and lesser figures protesting the exclusion from the program of veterans who oppose the war. The Veterans for Peace spokesman is also critical of the apparent authoritarian use of the Washington Monument site by the Bob Hope group.

One of Washington's radical revolutionaries, the Rev. Douglas Moore of the Black United Front, was quoted in the press on Tuesday to have issued plans for a "Dishonor America Day" for 4 July. Moore declined to detail his plans, but it is not believed that the Black United Front or any other force will involve the black community in counter-demonstrations. Abbie Hoffman and the Yippies have not altered their plans for a marijuana smoke-in scheduled for the same day and place. Prominent radical leader Rennie Davis who has dubbed himself chairman of the Emergency Committee to Prevent a 4th of July Fistfight has criticized the lack of new left participants in the "Honor America Day" festivities. Davis, as well as other new left spokesmen, has predicted difficulties in Washington between the Yippies and the "Honor America Day" celebrants. Representatives of "Honor America Day" have met with Davis and have listened to his ridiculous demands (including painting the Washington Monument in psychedelic style) and appear to have sought a soft approach in connection with radical leftist participants in the scheduled event. Celebration planners have rejected out of hand Abbie Hoffman's proposed appearance with Bob Hope as well as poet Allen

Due to the strong nonpolitical line that the Hope group has pursued (which excludes national radical leaders such as Davis), they have not only shut out the leftist dissenters but have angered district democratic committeeman Channing Phillips and the Rev. Philip Newell of the Greater Washington Council of Churches. Due to the nonpolitical character of the event, Phillips and Newell have been told they will be unable to insert their annual hew and cry for D. C. home rule. Both local leaders have balked at the "no politics" ground rules and have pulled out of Saturday's celebration. Wash. Post 7-1-70

Two special trainloads of New-York "hard-hat" construction workers are due to arrive at Union Station Saturday morning. It is presently planned that five American University students will distribute antiwar literature at Union Station upon arrival of the workers. Wash. Post 7-1-70

Although Col. William Lee of the D. C. National Guard has ordered his 1700-men forces to duty over the weekend to be available in case of emergency, the Washington police department does not expect trouble. Wash. Post 7-1-70

Saturday's events certainly hold some potential for violence in the downtown area. The unpredictable Abbie Hoffman could (his colleague Jerry Rubin is still in jail) well decide to heckle Bob Hope and others on the program. The sheer size of the expected crowd will create police problems even in the absence of violence. The Union Station "hard-hat" arrival is a big potential trouble spot (especially if the American University contingent brings along a number of supporters) that will be closely watched by police and Union Station security forces. In spite of the potential for trouble on Saturday, it is believed that Bob Hope and Billy Graham, two thoroughly experienced big-crowd performers, will pull off a successful event built around pure patriotism and free of partisan political rhetoric. No direct attack on CIA facilities will occur. Wash. Post 7-1-70

There is an outside chance that the weather may partially interdict the affair. The predicted hot muggy weather could tax emergency first aid facilities, and the predicted possibility of afternoon or evening thundershowers could turn the Monument grounds into a sea of mud and the audience into a soggy mass of dampened spirits.

SPECIAL INFORMATION REPORTProspects for Disruptive Demonstration in Washington

In June two national meetings were held, one at Cleveland and one at Milwaukee, by leading organizations in the anti-war movement. The Cleveland meeting, entitled "The National Emergency Conference Against the Cambodia-Laos-Vietnam War" was held from 18 to 21 June and sponsored principally by the Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam. Fourteen hundred activists attended and the principal opposition to the Student Mobe tactics and objectives came from the Workers Student Alliance faction of the SDS. The Student Mobe, which is controlled by the Young Socialist Alliance, the youth group of the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party, continued to adhere to a single issue objective and a mass demonstration tactic. The WSA on the other hand, which is the youth group of the Maoist Progressive Labor Party, is multi-issue oriented and dedicated to a strategy of confrontation and violence. Since the Student Mobe controlled the majority of those attending the Cleveland conference, the tactics, which include mass demonstrations in urban centers on 31 October, was adopted. It was further decided at Cleveland that the emphasis would be placed on relating the war to the issues of racial oppression, inflation, political repression, GI rights, etc.

The following week, June 27 and 28, a "Strategy Action Conference" was staged at Milwaukee. Principally responsible for the coordination at Milwaukee was the New Mobilization Committee with, for the first time, participation by a significant American Negro group, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. Also present at Milwaukee were representatives from the National Welfare Rights Organization. The tactical plan advanced at Milwaukee was away from the past strategy of mass demonstration and toward increased militancy.

As is usually the case with national meetings of radical leftist and anti-war organizations, the Milwaukee conference broke into a number of workshops which formulated plans for future action then presented them to the general conference for approval. One such action plan, for the disruption and liberation of Washington was authored by Arthur Irvin Waskow (see attachment #1) and presented to the conference by Rennie Davis (see attachment #2). It was originally proposed that peace marchers from several eastern cities would converge on Washington on Labor Day, September 7, in the hope of shutting down the city for several days. The general conference failed to vote support to the plan. Little enthusiasm has since been generated for the September date and it appears that any effort to disrupt the city, if it comes before next May, will occur in late October or early November. A plan for fall would coincide with national elections and the availability of college students. Davis and Waskow would probably also wish to take advantage of publicity presently being disseminated for Student Mobe scheduled activities on October 31.

Recent events at the 23rd Congress of the National Student Association held at McAllister College at St. Paul, Minnesota, tend to indicate that any plan for disrupting the city is considered out until next spring. Rennie Davis on the 14th of August presented to those convening at St. Paul the Arthur Waskow plan for the disruption and liberation of Washington. It appears that Davis hoped to elicit the support of a generally respectable organization of students. In addressing the student congress, Davis advised that the date for the demonstration was picked as the first anniversary of the Cambodian "invasion". Although Rennie Davis' plan was reportedly supported by most National Student Association leaders, his proposal was narrowly defeated by the delegates (134 for, 150 against). It is probably of more than passing significance that Ralph Abernathy of the SCLC at that organization's just concluded 13th annual convention has started talking of a second poor people's march on Washington next spring. It is considered highly probable that Abernathy may select a date in late April or early May 1971 to coincide with the Davis-Waskow plan for 1 May.

In summary, it is considered unlikely that an attempt will be made this fall to disrupt either the city or various Government agencies. The unlikelihood of such a move is indicated by the near total lack of publicity to date in the radical and underground press, Davis' address to the NSA convention specifying the 1 May date, and Ralph Abernathy's projected plans for next spring. If, however, Davis can manage to mount a disruptive demonstration in Washington this fall, it will probably be coordinated with the October 31 nationwide demonstration plans of the Student Mobe. The National Steering Committee of the Student Mobe was to meet in mid-August and perhaps more details of their fall plans will be announced soon. A possible demonstration over the Labor Day weekend is regarded as highly unlikely. No advanced publicity for such a demonstration has been noted.

If an attempt by Rennie Davis, Arthur Waskow, and others is made this fall to march on or block access to the Agency as well as other federal departments, it is doubtful that their efforts could produce serious disruption. Some adverse publicity (principally in the underground press) could however result.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORTCALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time, or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

*28 August - 3 September, Portland, Oregon

Antiwar protest groups at Portland are sponsoring a "People's Army Jamboree" (PAJ) on the above dates. The national convention of the American Legion is being held at Portland at the same time. On August 5 a PAJ spokesman, describing the Legion as an arrogant and self-important symbol of death and destruction, said that any PAJ confrontation with the Legion would be planned as peaceful but that the possibility of violence could not be discounted. As many as 50,000 persons may participate and this number will probably swell if the President addresses the convention. [F] 109J37 6-23-70

In a meeting on August 20 the Portland City Council voted to permit the PAJ to use Portland's East Delta Park (a 90 acre site seven miles from downtown) during the week. Representatives of PAJ did not attend the council meeting and the organization's coordinating committee had on the previous day decided to reject the use of East Delta Park if offered. The coordinating committee instead decided to take whatever park PAJ needed with or without permits. Reportedly several hundred individuals expected in Portland from the Seattle area are regarded as hard core radicals who could be expected to cause trouble. [F] 13897-8/70-70

Portland law enforcement officials regard PAJ estimates of youths expected to attend inflated. Law enforcement officials reportedly, however, are making extensive security arrangements. Nearly 4,000 National Guardsmen have recently been trained in crowd control and

N.Y. Times 8-23-70

Governor McCall has ordered Guardsmen to special assembly points in the Portland area and has told the Guardsmen to be prepared to stay on duty as long as needed. The state of Oregon has turned over a state park 25 miles southeast of Portland for a free festival on the above dates in an attempt to syphon off as many youths as possible from Portland.

N.Y. Times 8-23-70

A recent article in the underground Berkeley Barb publicizes the Jamboree. The article reflects that the American Legion "relates" to systematic oppression and exploitation of racial minorities; American imperialism; lower wages, higher taxes and unemployment as a result of American imperialist policies; the suffering of women under a capitalist system which exploits them economically and socially and perpetuates male supremacy; those seeking political or cultural changes in America finding themselves continually repressed by the "pig" power structure; and army draftees finding themselves trapped in a fascist system, stripped of their constitutional rights, and forced to comply with a racist and imperialist power structure.

The PAJ schedule of events is as follows:

29 August - General orientation, formation of affinity groups, publishing legal defense and medical information, a rock concert and guerilla theater.

30 August - Workshops on the points at issue, national speakers, education regarding local "pig" institutions, music and theater.

31 August - Victory to the Vietnamese celebration in the late afternoon and demonstration march in the evening. (This is the scheduled day of the American Legion parade.)

1 September - Demonstrations and actions at local "pig" institutions, free Bobby Seale and all political prisoners demonstrations, anti-racism torchlight march at night.

2 September - Continuation of workshop activities in the morning and clean-up and community services in the afternoon.

The address of the People's Army Jamboree is P.O. Box 843, Portland, Oregon; telephone number (503) 224-2636.

29 August, Los Angeles, California

A national Chicano moratorium is still being planned by radical leftist Mexican-American organizations in urban centers of the western U.S. with sizable Mexican-American populations. The center of these activities will be Los Angeles. Participants will include known militants coming to southern California from as far away as Denver. About 50,000 persons are expected by the organizers to participate and the tentative plan is for a march beginning at L.A.'s Belvedere Park at 10 a.m.

The theme of the demonstration seems principally to be ending the war in Vietnam regardless of the consequences. Some of the organizations involved have a long record of past activity in political demonstrations. Included are the Mexican-American Political Association, the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee and the Young Socialist Alliance. WIS State of Calif. 8-16-70

*30 August, Washington, D.C.

D.C. Women's Liberation will hold the first women's festival at L'Enfant Square, 10th and Constitution Avenue in the afternoon of August 30. Women in the movement are being invited to participate as performers or as artists displaying their work. Quicksilver Times 8 Aug 70

*September, New York

The Black Academy of Arts and Letters has announced that three black Americans will be enrolled in the Academy's newly established Hall of Fame in September. One of those elected is the late W.E.B. DuBois. It is expected that DuBois' widow, Shirley Graham DuBois, will attend the ceremonies. The 71 year old Mrs. DuBois, a citizen of Ghana presently living in Cairo, has just been issued a visa to travel in America after first being denied the visa by the Department of Justice. Mrs. DuBois allegedly belongs to some 30 subversive organizations and was originally deemed inadmissible on this basis. NY Times 11/24/70

*September, Washington, D.C.

Reportedly Huey P. Newton, the Black Panther Party leader recently released from prison and highly articulate black radical, has been invited to speak before freshmen students at Howard University during the third week in September.

Although dates have not yet been announced, it has also been reported that Newton will make one or more national television appearances toward the end of September.

*3 - 7 September, Atlanta, Georgia

The Congress of African People will meet to develop institutions to bring about the liberation of black people. Thousands of persons are expected to attend the Congress, which is an expansion of black power conferences held annually since 1966. Representatives are expected from North America, Latin America, Africa and the Caribbean. The Chairman of the Congress is Haywood Henry, who is Chairman of the Black Affairs Council and a member of Harvard University's Department of Afro-American Studies.

Mr. Henry in a recent press release has established the following Congress goals: (1) to provide an ideological framework for the black power movement; (2) to develop plans to build black institutions at local, national and international levels; (3) to create a structure to implement mandates; (4) to exchange information; (5) to provide an opportunity for fellowship.

A. J. Times 16 July 70

Reportedly black extremists from the United States and abroad are expected to attend. One of the participants will be LeRoi Jones, radical poet and playwright. Well known black revolutionary Stokely Carmichael is also scheduled to appear at the Congress. Reportedly Carmichael will arrive in the United States on about 1 September and will attend at least a portion of the Atlanta gathering. Carmichael will probably make an address. The President of Tanzania, Julius K. Nyerere, may also attend.

#5 - 7 September, Yosemite National Park, California

A West Coast underground newspaper is promoting a Yosemite liberation movement calling for 10,000 "hippie-yippies" to take over the park over the Labor Day weekend and to overwhelm the "tree fuzz" and "ranger pigs". California police authorities believe that if an attempt to "liberate" the park develops the hippie subculture can be contained. Mr. Jable 541184

7 September, Morristown, N. J. and Valley Forge, Pennsylvania

Al Hubbard, spokesman for Veterans Against the War, announced plans for RAW (Rapid American Withdrawal). The organization is sponsoring a march from Morristown to Valley Forge by Vietnam veterans and current military personnel. At a recent meeting of Veterans Against the War, Rev. Thomas Hayes of the Episcopal Peace Fellowship read a telegram from Prince Norodom Sihanouk which praised the antiwar movement in America and requested continued pressure on the President. FBI 137641 11-24-70

8 September, New York

The trial of 13 Black Panthers charged in the New York bombing conspiracy will begin on 8 September. State Supreme Court Justice John M. Murtagh indefinitely postponed the trial some months ago due to the courtroom deportment of the defendants as well as the defense attorneys. At least two of those accused, Joan Bird and Michael Tabor, are currently at liberty on $50,000 bond. The Black Panther Party, as well as other black militant organizations, have used the Joan Bird release in a major propaganda effort to solicit black community, as well as white radical, support for the Panther cause. *N.Y. *3 - 10 October, Nationwide

At the recently concluded 23rd annual convention of the National Student Association the delegates called for the organization of a national peace petition week on the above dates. The Association will sponsor a drive aimed at gathering 10 million dollars and 20 million signatures to support the antiwar movement.

The convention elected David Ifshin of 9020 Cherboung Drive, Potomac, Maryland, the new president of the student group. He succeeds Charles Palmer, formerly of the University of California at Berkeley. Ifshin, whose father, Harold, owns a D.C. liquor store, has a history of campus radicalism. As president of the Syracuse University student body, he organized the October and November 1969 Vietnam moratoriums, headed a student strike in May of this year and led students in support of university service workers who won union recognition this year. Additionally, Ifshin participated in demonstrations at the 1968 Democratic National Convention where he says he was beaten by Chicago police. Ifshin reportedly was a strong supporter earlier in convention proceedings of the Rennie Davis plan to disrupt the functioning of the Government at Washington next May; although the delegates voted down the plan presented by him.

Ifshin, however, led a successful drive for delegate reversal and gained support of a plan similar to the one proposed earlier in the week by Davis. The resolution as finally passed by 214 to 50 states in part "if the war has not ended by May 1, 1971, NSA will commit itself to a concerted expansion of massive non-violent action including civil disobedience at the local, national and regional levels." It appears that in adopting this resolution the delegates were persuaded that the May 1 action in Washington would come about with or without NSA support and that NSA should get in on the action. Additional details will probably be forthcoming as the date approaches.

*5 October, Washington, D.C.

The United States Supreme Court reconvenes on October 5. A Boston group called the Committee for Constitutional Decision is presently attempting to collect ten million signatures in support of the Massachusetts appeal to the Court to declare the war in Vietnam unconstitutional. According to Dr. Steven Worth, co-chairman of the committee and a faculty member at Northeastern University, 5,500 local groups across the nation will be circulating petitions in support of the Massachusetts law. "

The Massachusetts State Attorney General has filed a brief with the Supreme Court asking for a ruling on the constitutionality of a state law passed earlier this year. The statute states in part that no Massachusetts resident will be required to participate in a foreign war unless such hostilities were initially authorized or subsequently ratified by a Congressional declaration of war. NY Times 7-26-70

*31 October, Washington, D.C.

The Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, in a Cleveland meeting last June, adopted a proposal for mass demonstrations in various American cities on the 31st of October. The demonstrations, which are allegedly nationally coordinated will be centered around the demand for immediate and unconditional withdrawal of all U.S. troops as well as material from Southeast Asia. The October emphasis will be placed on relating the war directly to the issues of racial oppression, inflation, poverty, unemployment, political repression, GI rights and women's liberation.

The Student Mobe (which is controlled by the Young Socialist Alliance, youth affiliate of the Socialist Workers Party) will continue its effort to involve the labor movement, third world groups and members of the military in opposition to the war. The Student Mobe, persisting in their philosophy, believe that demonstrations in major urban centers is the best way at this time to increase participation in the antiwar movement.

Specific New Mobe plans for particular American cities have thus far not been widely publicized. Principal target cities and demonstration tactics will probably become known in coming weeks. 1/11/03331 6-22-70

SPECIAL INFORMATION REPORTProspects for Disruptive Demonstration in Washington

The Vietnam Veterans Against the War marched from Morristown, New Jersey, to Valley Forge, Pennsylvania, over the Labor Day weekend. Reportedly the march was poorly supported and most small towns that the marchers passed through were hostile to the participants. At a concluding rally attended by about 1,000 persons at Valley Forge, speakers included actress Jane Fonda and her touring companion radical attorney Mark Lane; New York Congressman Allard Lowenstein; and Mike Lerner, a leader of the militant and revolutionary Seattle Liberation Front.

It was Lerner who, with Rennie Davis, promoted the plan to prevent the government from functioning on 1 May 1971 if the war was not ended at the National Student Association's mid-August convention at St. Paul, Minnesota. In addressing the group at Valley Forge, Lerner stated that antiwar groups have set next 1 May as the deadline for complete withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam. If the troops are not withdrawn by that date, antiwar groups (not further identified) will assemble at Washington in an effort to obstruct the functioning of the government.

It is believed that Lerner's Labor Day address to this veteran's peace group (as Davis' presentation to the National Student Association) constitutes additional evidence that any major plan to obstruct the government will take place next spring rather than this fall.

The original plan for this October and/or November authored by Arthur Waskow, well-known Washington radical, originated at the New Mobe's Milwaukee conference last June (the plan was not adopted by a plenary session). Davis, Lerner, Waskow and others have apparently experienced difficulty in creating sufficient sympathy for such an action before next spring. The Davis-Lerner group which identifies with the New Mobe is presently at serious odds with the Socialist Workers Party's Student Mobe. The Student Mobe is planning a so far ill-defined mass demonstration in urban centers throughout the country for late October. Student Mobe publicity, however, for the October effort can be described as sparse and low-key. Unless the Trotskyite Student Mobe gets cracking in the weeks remaining, it would seem that a significant and successful demonstration at Washington or elsewhere would be difficult to pull off. - FBI IN 158,771

It is too early to evaluate the impact on the federal government of a possible Black Panther meeting in Washington tentatively scheduled for 4 November. Although Negro groups have not actively participated in mass antiwar oriented demonstration in the past, the Panthers are coming under ever-increasing white radical influence.

UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN AT MADISON
Prospects for 1970-71

The Madison campus of the University of Wisconsin has seen more than its share of disruption in the past several years. Columnist Charles Bartlett writing recently in the Star reported that the university board of regents feels that the administration is now reaping the harvest of past acquiescence. Since at least spring 1967 the Madison campus has experienced direct anti-CIA demonstrations, the usual black student demands, a strike by teaching assistants lasting several weeks, street demonstrations, police and National Guard mobilization (the Guard has been called in three times since last September) and severe bloody and destructive political terrorism.

The targets at Wisconsin have been the same as elsewhere, Vietnam, Government research, curfew regulations (now virtually nonexistent), racism, repression, student participation in university management, etc. To attack these targets, however, radical leftist students and teachers have exerted more pressure in terms of disruption and violence than at most other places. Last fall Chancellor Young predicted a brighter future but it didn't happen. This year predictions are scarcer but more pessimistic. In the 5 October issue of U.S. News and World Report, Madison Mayor William Dyke paints a very gloomy picture for the short haul, too gloomy perhaps.

To further complicate the university's problems, Madison has a large "street people" community, and according to Mayor Dyke a very great narcotics problem is centered at the university.

Although Dyke is pessimistic, there are several bright signs. The Wisconsin Legislature has recently passed several laws designed to punish disrupters. Madison city police will play a campus role this year for the first time. Indications are that the city, State and Federal Government intend to bring about a peaceful university environment with or without a determined and forceful administration.

The path the university has traveled in recent years provides a sandy foundation at best for a projection of optimism. A campus population of 30,000 students and several thousand more teachers and administrators with more than its share of radicals will continue using any available cause for the venting of radical righteous indignation. There will be more "anti-anything" type demonstrations but further polarization is probably over.

In spite of all that has happened at Madison, a cautious prediction of optimism is still possible. Though theoretical, the August bombing of the Army Mathematics Research Center could herald the defeat of radical extremism on the University of Wisconsin campus. Had the revolution been winning there, the explosion might not have occurred. Further, such an event may well have the effect of defusing and moderating campus elements. The hardware is probably softer than it was before. With the memory of the 24th of August it will be tougher for radicals to gather support for major disruptive efforts.

Practically speaking, 30,000 young adults and their parents regard Madison as a reasonably safe and academically and culturally rewarding place to live and learn. Of the 30,000, probably no one will be killed and very few injured this year or any year. The creed of the prudent student at Wisconsin as elsewhere is "be alert to the dangers and do not become unwittingly involved with those factions of disruption that are recognizable."

Since Wisconsin has a history of anti-CIA sentiment, any connection with the Agency should be held rather closely.

Demonstrations and marches have been planned in celebration of the birthday of Martin Luther King, Jr. Nine states have declared 15 January as Martin L. King Day. But of 20 major American cities surveyed, schools will close Friday in only six. The cities involved are Newark, New York, Washington, Baltimore, Seattle and St. Louis. In Newark Mayor Kenneth Gibson has declared the day a holiday for city employees and will personally preside over city observances. In Washington a liberal leave policy will be adopted for city employees. The Rev. Ralph Abernathy will speak at a memorial service at a church on New Jersey Avenue in N. W. Washington and then with Coretta King is scheduled to lead a march to the capitol. Mrs. Willie J. Hardy, co-chairman of Washington's King Holiday Committee, has advised that petitions bearing millions of names proposing the date as a national holiday will be loaded on a mule train for the march. She stated that the committee expects thousands of marchers from across the country.

A white clergyman in Pittsburgh who is allegedly a civil rights activist recently stated that pressure for a King Day is declining. He stated that at first after King's assassination it was an emotional thing that is now becoming weaker. The more militant Negroes reportedly do not appreciate King's greatness and the attitude toward him today is one of apathy.

The National Peace Action Coalition conference held in Chicago in early December endorsed a resolution supporting GI participation in peace demonstrations and in support of the upcoming Winter Soldier's Investigations scheduled to take place in Washington, D.C. on the above dates.

Two previous reports from antiwar GIs have taken place in recent months. For these sessions the press is invited, and a number of alleged Vietnam veterans detail all American atrocities and war crimes that they have witnessed during their tours of duty. The audience usually consists of hard core radicals and reporters carrying credentials from the underground press.

The December conference additionally endorsed a resolution to support the struggle of the United Farm Workers whose leader, Cesar Chavez, is in jail for perpetrating and continuing an illegal boycott in California. The NPAC also elected to boycott Standard Oil because of their war profiteering in Southeast Asia.

*February, City Unknown

During the Young Socialist Alliance convention in late December, leaders of the YSA announced that the Student Mobilization Committee will hold a conference in early February for the purpose of strengthening the National Peace Action Coalition. This conference will probably be convened for the express purpose of seeing if it is possible for the NPAC to come to terms with the CPUSA-leaning National Coalition Against War, Racism and Repression. An important conference of the NCAWRR was held last weekend and details of their spring plans are not yet known. These two groups which represent the major antiwar forces remain in considerable disagreement in matters of tactics and strategy. See additional comments under the heading "24 April" and "3 May."

*11 February, Oakland, California

The second manslaughter trial of Black Panther leader Huey P. Newton is now scheduled to start at Oakland on the above date. Newton is being tried for the 1967 killing of an Oakland policeman. He was released from prison last September 5 after his case had been reviewed by the California Supreme Court. He had served two years on a previous conviction in the gun battle death of the police officer.

The retrial was originally scheduled for 11 January but was postponed due to the present inavailability of Newton's attorney (and well-known Black Panther defender) Charles Garry. Garry is presently involved in the defense of Black Panther Bobby Seale on trial for murder in Connecticut. The Connecticut trial is proceeding so slowly that it is believed highly unlikely that Garry will be able to make the 11 February date. Because of the constitutional rights of the accused to be defended by an attorney of his choice, the Newton retrial will probably be postponed and repostoned for many months. The Connecticut proceedings are still in the jury selection process, and to date only five jurors have been seated. Over 450 individuals have been questioned in court and excused from duty in the Seale case.

Last week Marin County superior court judge Joseph Wilson took under submission several defense motions in the forthcoming but already celebrated Angela Davis trial. Judge Wilson gave her five attorneys until 5 February to file briefs and advised that the prosecution would then be granted 15 days in which to answer them. The next court proceeding is scheduled for early March. One of the motions that was introduced is that Angela Davis act as a codefense attorney. Davis stated that in this case as a black woman and a communist only she could thoroughly comprehend substantive issues.

A fourth Venceremos Brigade has reportedly been formed and is tentatively scheduled to leave Canada for Cuba on the above date. Members of the brigade will stay in Cuba until the middle of May. During their stay the participants numbering approximately 300 will divide their time between sugar cane cutting and political indoctrination. Reportedly the Venceremos Brigade National Committee is placing emphasis on recruiting "quality individuals" between the ages of 19-28 years of age from radical groups sympathetic to the "socialist cause." The brigade has issued instructions that individuals who participate are not to submit to interviews by authorities upon return to the United States.

The Young Socialist Alliance, youth group of the Socialist Workers Party, held its national convention at New York City during the week between Christmas and New Years. During a Women's Liberation report to the convention by a representative of the YSA National Office, the speaker stated that plans are being formulated by a "radical group" of women within the Women's Liberation movement to carry out an assault on the Pentagon on the above date.

A total of 1,225 individuals registered for the convention; 518 were not YSA members; 471 were women; of those attending the convention, 413 were college students. Reportedly 53 high schools and 4 junior high schools were represented at the convention.

Along with other resolutions passed at the convention, it was agreed by those present to send a telegram of support to Angela Davis.

*24 March-7 April, Montreal and Vancouver, Canada

A spring conference of Indochinese, American and Canadian women has been planned for the above dates. The first details of the conference were recently arranged at a meeting of the Women's International Democratic Federation in Budapest. No additional details are known at this time. The meeting, however, shapes up as a typical Communist Party-promoted and sponsored session that will villify the United States through the rubber stamp passage of various resolutions concerning American involvement in Indochina.

*3 April, Nationwide

On 7 January an SDS group (probably Worker Student Alliance faction) sponsored a demonstration at the University of California at Los Angeles to demand an end to ROTC. Although an insignificant number of demonstrators participated, a leaflet was circulated on the campus announcing nationwide SDS-sponsored demonstrations against ROTC on 3 April.

*3-4 April, Nationwide

Although details are as yet unknown, most organizations on the American radical left have issued some statement of support for national demonstrations in memory of the assassination of Martin L. King, Jr. King was assassinated on 5 April 1968, but since this date falls this year on a Monday, the preceding Saturday and Sunday are regarded as the best times for demonstrations.

*6 April, Berkeley, California

The residents of Berkeley will vote on the above date on a petition to restructure the Berkeley police force. The proposal for change would break the current force into three distinct units under three Berkeley areas in matters of police protection. The three groups are the campus community, the white community and the black community.

The petition which included sufficient signatures of registered voters was sponsored and principally circulated by the National Committee to Combat Fascism, a Black Panther Party front group. Another highly controversial issue is a part of the proposal that would also require policemen to reside in the area of the city that they will serve.

The forthcoming Berkeley vote is a highly significant one because liberals and radicals throughout the country have in recent years been clamoring for such community control of police authorities. This will be the first test vote of an issue that could seriously deter uniform police protection in communities throughout the nation.

*24 April, Washington, D.C. and San Francisco, California

From 4-6 December the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party-controlled National Peace Action Coalition convened at Chicago to plan spring antiwar demonstrations.

The week of 17 April has been designated National Peace Action Week and is scheduled to culminate in massive peaceful and orderly demonstrations at Washington and San Francisco on Saturday, 24 April. Local peace action coalitions will organize activities in various cities around the nation during Peace Action Week to support the demands of immediate U.S. withdrawal from Southeast Asia and an end to Selective Service.

San Francisco Chronicle 17 Apr 68

Several radical antiwar leaders in attendance at the conference attempted to create unity among America's antiwar forces. The principal unity that was sought by many is a reconciliation between the NPAC and the National Coalition Against War, Racism and Repression. The principal problems in regrouping the various interests in these organizations are that 1) the NPAC is controlled and led by the SWP family of organizations and 2) the NCAWRR, if not led, is deeply under the influence of the CPUSA. The sponsorship of these two groups predetermines serious differences in tactics and strategy. The NPAC which, aside from the SWP family of organizations, represents probably no more than 5 per cent of the small and insignificant forces in the antiwar movement continues to hold that mass peaceful demonstrations directed against a single issue is a politically forceful and valid tool. The NCAWRR, on the other hand, holds that the mass peaceful protest has been tested and has failed the test of political validity. The leaders of this group further believe that the one-issue-at-a-time strategy is not a sophisticated approach when the nation is racked with so many highly attackable ills. The NCAWRR further holds that the mass demonstration concept has lost its appeal and proposes instead an increased militancy at least of a civil disobedience nature.

The 1200 antiwar activists that participated at the January conference were asked by an insignificant representation from the NCAWRR present to withhold their spring plans until the NCAWRR met on the 9th of January. This was an attempt on the part of Sidney Peck, Ron Young, Rennie Davis and others to promote cooperative demonstration among all forces of the antiwar movement. The conference which was overwhelmingly stacked in favor of the SWP philosophy viewed these attempts as an effort to usurp the SWP vanguard role in antiwar activities and decided to go ahead with their plans for April demonstrations. Additional details will be reported in future Situation Information Reports.

*Early May, Washington, D.C.

More than 400 persons from 60 countries attended the World Conference on Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos at Stockholm, Sweden on 28-30 November. The conference was called to discuss plans to strengthen the worldwide popular movement against U.S. aggression in Indochina and to promote solidarity with the struggle of the Indochinese people.

(Guardian) 19 Dec 76

The American delegation consisted of more than 40 people including deserters and war resisters living in Sweden and at least some representation from most of the antiwar groups. Since this meeting was a Soviet Communist Party-style gathering, no delegates from the Trotskyite National Peace Action Coalition were present. Additionally, the conference seemed pegged toward the worker and few student and youth groups were represented. Among the prominent American radicals present were David Ifshin, the recently elected president of the National Student Association. Ifshin at the conclusion of the Stockholm conference traveled to Hanoi for meetings with North Vietnamese and for the taping of broadcasts directed at American GIs fighting in South Vietnam. Ifshin's taped remarks were styled to encourage American troops to stop fighting because they were defending only the Saigon clique and their American establishment supporters. Also present at Stockholm was Lucille Berrien of the National Welfare Rights Organization and self-admitted radical revolutionary Dave Dellinger, a well-known figure in U.S. antiwar and other leftist causes. In attendance also at Stockholm was California Congressman-elect Ronald Dellums who addressed the plenary session of the conference. Dellums' presence was the first participation as such at a conference on Indochina by a member or member-elect of the U.S. Congress. Dellums strongly attacked U.S. Indochinese policy and called for complete U.S. withdrawal.

Dellinger also addressed the gathering and took this opportunity to outline tentative plans for activities of the National Coalition Against War, Racism and Repression in May. Dellinger advised the group of growing frustration in the antiwar movement and stated his belief that the mass demonstrations no longer had a significant impact on the imperialist system. Dellinger called for more militant forms of opposition in the future.

The American antiwar movement's plan for May 1 met with considerable opposition from the European representatives at the conference. May Day is the day on which Europeans celebrate working class solidarity, and the American plan for 1 May would conflict with their own national movements. Exact plans for early May are yet to be revealed in the wake of the 9 January conference of the NCAWRR.

The Stockholm gathering as well as all other recent conferences of its type regardless of sponsorship have voted to support demonstrations on the anniversary of the assassination of Martin L. King, Jr.

*3 May, Washington, D.C.

Well-known radical Rennie Davis convicted in the Chicago conspiracy trials last year continues to travel the nation drumming up support for the plan to disrupt the city of Washington next 3 May. It is believed that the Davis plan will probably be endorsed by the National Coalition Against War, Racism and Repression and other groups in the antiwar movement. As the plan is most frequently stated, an ultimatum will be presented to the Government in mid-April that all troops and supplies be immediately withdrawn from the war area. If the Government refuses or ignores the demand, automobiles will be stalled on bridges leading into the city to prevent Federal employees from getting to their jobs. Davis has stated that the Pentagon, the Justice Department and the CIA would be particularly affected. It is planned that the stopping of traffic would reoccur daily until the U.S. left Vietnam.

As additional details of plans and sponsorship are known they will be reported in Situation Information Reports. It is believed at this time, however, that Davis is gaining considerable support for his plan and will gain additional sponsorship. When considering the relatively few persons it would require to hamper seriously the Washington commuter traffic, it must be assumed that any effort to block the Washington bridges could be dramatically successful. The best estimate is that the 3 May plan will be carried out and will be successful.

JOINT TREATY OF PEACE
BETWEEN THE U.S. AND VIETNAMESE PEOPLES
(From Current Issue of Quicksilver Times)

Be it known that the American and Vietnamese people are not enemies. The war is carried out in the names of the people of the United States and South Vietnam but without our consent. It destroys the land and people of Vietnam. It drains America of its resources, its youth and its honor.

We hereby agree to end the war on the following terms, so that both peoples can live under the job of independence and can devote themselves to building a society based on human equality and respect for the earth.

1. The Americans agree to immediate and total withdrawal from Vietnam and publicly to set the date by which all American forces will be removed.

The Vietnamese pledge that as soon as the U.S. Government publicly sets a date for total withdrawal:

2. They will enter discussions to secure the release of all American prisoners, including pilots captured while bombing North Vietnam.
3. There will be an immediate cease-fire between U.S. forces and those led by the Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam.
4. They will enter discussions of the procedures to guarantee the safety of all withdrawing troops.
5. The Americans pledge to end the imposition of Thieu-Ky-Khiem on the people of South Vietnam in order to insure their right to self-determination and so that all political prisoners can be released.
6. The Vietnamese pledge to form a provisional coalition government to organize democratic elections. All parties agree to respect the results of elections in which all South Vietnamese can participate freely without the presence of any foreign troops.
7. The South Vietnamese pledge to enter discussion of procedures to guarantee the safety and political freedom of those South Vietnamese who have collaborated with the U.S. or with the U.S.-supported regime.

8. The Americans and Vietnamese agree to respect the independence, peace and neutrality of Laos and Cambodia in accord with the 1954 and 1962 Geneva conventions and not to interfere in the internal affairs of these two countries.
8. Upon these points of agreement, we pledge to end the war and resolve all other questions in the spirit of self-determination and mutual respect for the independence and political freedom of the people in Vietnam and the United States.

By ratifying the agreement, we pledge to take whatever actions are appropriate to implement the terms of this joint Treaty and to insure its acceptance by the government of the United States.

5 January 1971CORNELL UNIVERSITY

Cornell University is a high-tuition, private, coeducational university located in the city of Ithaca, New York, approximately 180 miles northwest of New York City. The current enrollment is in excess of 14,000 students, approximately 300 of whom are Negroes.

Student unrest and disruptive activities at Cornell began in the late 1960's. Although there is a chapter of SDS on campus and radical students have been involved in antiwar demonstrations including a recent effort to boycott Standard Oil, Cornell's principal problem and one that has resulted in violence and considerable destruction is one of a racial nature.

In 1965 Cornell, then under the direction of President James A. Perkins, recruited a significantly sizable group of black students who were financially as well as academically underprivileged. It was the belief at Cornell at the time that the university's action in underprivileged recruitment was a pioneer step that would lead other institutions along the same course. Cornell's racial problems have multiplied since then and have often taken on bizarre manifestations. Since 1968 the campus has been disrupted by ambush beatings of white students, armed building takeovers and serious arson. In the spring of 1968 Negro students seized and held a department chairman prisoner for what they believed to be a racial slight. Those students responsible went unpunished, and many believe a lack of firm discipline was an open invitation for acts of black militancy on an ever-increasing scale. Pushing a campaign for black studies, the militants in December 1968 took over a campus building, dispossessed into the streets the professors and their belongings, and stole furniture from other campus buildings. At faculty insistence, charges were brought against six of the most flagrant offenders, but in April 1969 all charges against them were dropped.

During a December 1968 demonstration black militants staged a sit-in outside President Perkins' office. Still believing he could make friends, Perkins sent milk and donuts to the demonstrators, and they responded by smashing the refreshments against the wall.

In February 1969 under pressure from the Afro-American Society the administration scraped together $1,700 for the purchase of bongo drums to be used in the celebration of Malcolm X Day. On 28 February to the accompaniment of Cornell-purchased drums, President Perkins was physically pulled from the speakers platform at a conference on South Africa.

In mid-March 1969 three white students were beaten at night on campus by Negro students. One of the three nearly died.

In late April 1969 Cornell gained the dubious distinction of being the first major American university to experience a building takeover by armed militants. This takeover allegedly was brought on by a cross being burned on the lawn of a black coed dormitory which was later suspected to have been started not by whites but by blacks.

The current president, Dr. Dale R. Corson, who assumed the leadership of the university a year ago has tried to tighten the disciplinary reins. He, as well as his predecessor, however, has had to contend with several radical faculty members including Professor Douglas F. Dowd, instructor Edward Boorstein (a Fidel Castro economic advisor from 1960-63), and the Rev. Daniel Berrigan, presently serving time in a Federal penitentiary for the burning of draft files in the state of Maryland.

In April of 1970 serious racial strife was again renewed with the arson burning of the Africana Studies and Research Center. Allegedly the building was burned to the ground destroying not only the physical structure but manuscripts and displays of African culture. It was presumed (by blacks) that the destruction had been wrought by hostile white students. In retaliation 100 black students (all members of the underprivileged enrollment group) smashed and looted the university-operated campus bookstore.

In summary, Cornell has been depicted as a place of fear and anger. Some talk of white vigilante groups has been reported; and it is anticipated that the school, quiet now for several months, will continue to be a potential focal point for racial tension in the academic world. No difficulties of any nature are anticipated at the Ithaca campus, however, until spring.

Dr. Corson will prove a tougher, more discipline-oriented administrator than his predecessor; and probably the worst of the racial tension is passed.

5 January 1971

SYRACUSE UNIVERSITY

Syracuse University is a high-tuition, private, coeducational university located in the city of Syracuse, New York, approximately 180 miles northwest of New York City. The current enrollment is in excess of 25,000 students.

Student unrest and disruptive activities have been noted on the Syracuse campus since 1967. Although no current note has been taken of it, fairly recent information reflects a chapter of SDS on campus, and other radical student organizations are believed to exist there. In 1967 the two major targets of student activism were the Dow Chemical Co. and the CIA. The principal complaint against the Agency was its involvement in the National Student Association. In September of 1969 several small bombs exploded on or near the campus, but no repetition of bombing activity has been noted since then. In February of 1970 the ROTC became the target of student dissent, and a counter-demonstration ensued without violence. One of the demands of the counterdemonstrators was the suspension of the then student body president, David Ifshin.

David Ifshin can be given considerable credit for the beginning and the sustaining of political radicalism on the Syracuse campus. Ifshin, a Washington area product, began his political involvement while still a junior high school student and continued it through his Wheaton High School days and on to Syracuse. In 1969 at El Paso where the National Student Association had convened its 22nd annual conference, Ifshin became newsworthy when he was arrested for refusing to pay state sales tax in protest against the manner in which the city and state treated their Mexican-American minority. This act and undoubtedly other imaginative and charismatic leadership won him considerable popularity in the National Student Association, and last summer he was elected to the association's presidency. It appears that Ifshin has brought a new radicalism to the association, and he is presently an outspoken supporter of the present plan to disrupt the city of Washington next May. Further, Ifshin has recently returned from a trip to North Vietnam where he, with a group of American radicals, have sought to hammer out a peace treaty with North Vietnamese students. In summary, Ifshin, a present resident of Potomac, Maryland, has demonstrated since junior high school a most radical political ideology and a persuasive manner in putting his points across. Since Ifshin was such a dynamic campus spokesman from the left, his graduation from Syracuse has left white radicalism on the campus somewhat in recess.

The principal problem confronting Syracuse Chancellor John E. Corbally and the university during the current academic year has been one of racial unrest. Last spring eight Negro football players boycotted football training sessions, and when they again failed to appear for fall practice, 28 August, they were suspended from the football squad by Dr. Corbally. On 24 September 1970 a 12-man committee comprised of three trustees, five professors, three students and an administrator conducted a study (including numerous interviews and hearings) of the events leading up to the boycott. The committee found that the university's athletic department was racist in nature and that the department showed unwarranted insensitivity to attempts by black athletes to question discriminatory treatment. It was the opinion of the committee that the principal cause of the black boycott was disappointment and frustration over the apparent disinclination of head coach Ben Schwartzwalder and Director of Athletics James Decker to hire a black assistant coach.

Later in September black athletes were reinstated and the situation further complicated by a counterboycott by a group of white players.

During the fall months the campus remained tense over this issue and it was feared that several Saturday football games would be disrupted. The principal threat occurred in late September during the Syracuse-Kansas University game when black students and sympathizers stoned the administration building after first demonstrating peacefully outside the Syracuse stadium. The stoning of the administration building followed a nonviolent police confrontation in the city where the Syracuse police chief and 45 armed police officers thwarted what they believed to be an attempt at looting.

With an end to the football season there has also been, at least temporarily, a lessening of the racial problems at the university. Syracuse has now hired a Negro assistant football coach.

Racial troubles and radical political activities at Syracuse can be expected to follow the national pattern. A lessening of tension seems to have set in, and in the absence of an inflammatory change in the Vietnam War or a repeat of the alleged racial insensitivity the campus can be expected to remain reasonably quiet in coming months. When the weather moderates, antiwar activities nationally will again pick up and some minor disruptions can be expected. It will probably be nonviolent.

SPECIAL INFORMATION REPORTTentative Plans for Antiwar Demonstrations--Spring 1971

On the weekend of 19-21 February, 2,000 antiwar activists assembled for a Student Mobilization Committee conference at Catholic University. Certain spring protest plans were made at that time, but of greater significance is the fact that this conference, consisting almost entirely of individuals affiliated with the Socialist Workers Party family of organizations, flatly refused to coordinate spring efforts with the CPUSA-influenced People's Coalition for Peace and Justice. This gathering declined to alter their planned date of 24 April for massive, nonviolent demonstrations at Washington, D.C. and at San Francisco and declined to support the People's Peace Treaty that represents the important propaganda contribution of the National Student Association. The People's Peace Treaty was signed in December at Hanoi by David Ilshin, president of the NSA, and a 15-member delegation of American radical youth and by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong representatives. At Catholic University the SWP youth group, the Young Socialist Alliance (direct controlling force of the Student Mobe), opposed endorsement of the treaty because it denied the right of the Vietnamese people to self-determination and because the wording of the treaty in setting forth the demand that the Nixon administration "set the date" for withdrawal was contrary to the SWP's demand for "immediate" withdrawal.

At about the date of the Catholic University meeting, Xuan Thuy, chief North Vietnamese delegate to the Paris Peace Talks, called upon the "progressive American people" to unite in a wide and strong antiwar movement to curb new U.S. military adventures.

One week later, the weekend of 27-28 February, the PCPJ met in Washington with representatives of the SWP-sponsored National Peace Action Coalition and decided on joint sponsorship of the spring antiwar effort. This series of events appears to be more than coincidental and tends to indicate an international flavor in "calling the shots" for the American antiwar movement. The relationship between these two major groups remains tenuous and unstable, and the public face of the coalition will find it difficult to conceal the true emotions of their leaderships. Simply stated, the two major forces involved continue to entertain serious ideological and tactical differences. In electing to co-sponsor the 24 April demonstrations in Washington and San Francisco the PCPJ undoubtedly face the possibility of a SWP success followed by undisputed SWP leadership in future revolutionary causes. It would appear, at any rate, that the CPUSA simply couldn't risk missing out on a success.

A third force is definitely in the picture for spring and must seriously be considered. This force is the growing independent militancy of Rennie Davis and those associated with him. Rennie Davis, since last summer, has been building a campus constituency for increased militancy this spring. He is reportedly greatly disturbed over the recently formed coalition and probably plans to do his own thing this spring. In any event, Davis, following the 27-28 February meeting at Washington, has continued to preach serious disruption in Washington for May. The next continuation meeting (which will probably include all three major forces) is scheduled to be held on 13 March. At this meeting and at future continuation meetings antiwar planning will be further refined. At this moment, however, a tentatively scheduled calendar of events is as follows:

13 March, Las Vegas. --Ralph Abernathy and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and George Wiley of the National Welfare Rights Organization will probably stage additional demonstrations in Nevada. Both organizations, though continuing to push their individual interests of repression, racism and poverty, have thrown in with the PCPJ for antiwar-oriented demonstrations.

15 March, Nationwide. --The SMC has set this date for nationwide action in local areas to demand an end to the draft.

2-4 April, Nationwide. --Nationwide local actions against hunger, war and repression will be led by the SCLC and the NWRO in commemoration of the date of the assassination of Dr. Martin L. King, Jr. Both the NPAC and the PCPJ are reportedly sponsoring joint actions and rallies in many cities on the same day. On 4 April Abernathy plans to drive a SCLC "poor people's mule train" into New York's financial district. NPAC and the Student Mobe reportedly will encourage, on the above dates, black moratoriums in local areas.

10 April, Washington, D.C. --Radical feminist groups informally affiliated with the previously mentioned organizations are planning a demonstration at the Pentagon on 10 April. No additional details are yet known.

15 April, Nationwide. --Reportedly many tax resistance groups around the country will publicly refuse to pay taxes destined for military purposes and instead contribute funds to local organizations fighting racism, poverty and repression.

19-23 April, Washington, D.C. --The Vietnam Veterans Against the War with help from Jane Fonda and others plans a march on the Capitol building during this period. Relatives of prisoners of war and of dead American military men will be invited to join in a march at Arlington National Cemetery where ceremonies are scheduled. Other activities proposed during this period include a war crimes tribunal on the Capitol steps, a 24-hour White House vigil, and a ceremonial returning of medals.

24 April, Washington, D.C. and San Francisco. --A "mammoth" assembly is scheduled near the White House on this date. The assembly will be followed by a march on the Capitol and is presently sponsored by the entire antiwar movement. All groups involved will focus on the demand for immediate withdrawal of military forces from Southeast Asia, but the PCPJ to satisfy their variety of subscribers will also present demands for a $5,500 annual minimum wage and for the freeing of all political prisoners. A parallel action at San Francisco is also scheduled. Antiwar leaders have maintained that the demonstrations on the 24th will be peaceful in character with no planned civil disobedience on that day.

26-30 April, Washington, D.C. --Increased activities by the PCPJ will start during this period. Present plans call for mass lobbying at all Government institutions related to militarism and social welfare. At present this appears to be the first demonstration period where CIA facilities (probably only at Langley) will be vulnerable to picketing, demonstrations and possibly harassment of Agency employees.

1 May, Washington, D.C. --A youth festival is scheduled and a mass rally to present publicly the People's Peace Treaty to the Government. This action was actually decided six weeks ago at an Ann Arbor radical student and youth conference.

2 May, Washington, D.C. -- The PCPJ plans a mass, "inspirational" rally to prepare those demonstrators present for "intensified mass civil disobedience."

3-4 May, Washington, D.C. -- Intensified civil disobedience and disruption is scheduled in D.C. on these dates. It appears that this period will be the second crisis for the CIA at Langley, the Defense Department at the Pentagon, Department of Justice and other agencies.

5 May, Washington, D.C. and Nationwide. -- A national peace moratorium will be called in all cities and on all campuses on this date. May 5 is a significant date historically and actions will be sponsored by the NPAC, the PCPJ, the Student Mobilization and others. The 5th of May is designed to celebrate the anniversary of the Cambodian invasion and the Kent State slayings. Antiwar spokesmen hope that the size of the demonstration will exceed the scope of 15 October 1969 when one of the most effective antiwar demonstrations ever held was staged. May 5 has also been prominently mentioned as the date on which antiwar activists would "stop the Government" if the Government refused to end the war in Indochina.

16 May, Nationwide. -- Antiwar activists have selected this date, Armed Forces Day, as the day of solidarity with the GI antiwar movement. Action is scheduled in support of protests by GIs at military bases around the country.

Though reports are unconfirmed, there are also indications that the local Rennie Davis support group, the May Day Collective, is planning a minimally related series of events in the D.C. area. Reportedly Davis is negotiating for an opened land camp site in the McLean, Virginia area that appears to be shaping up as a temporary hippie enclave to exert its own kind of antiwar pressure on the establishment. Tentative plans call for "the new nation" to gather for a "festival of life." Additionally, the convening of the "dope dealers' festival" on 29 April has been reported. In early May this group is scheduled to march on D.C. with a destination of Montrose Park in the Georgetown section. Additional details will be reported as they become firm.

Through coming weeks frictions and pressures within the shaky coalition of antiwar activists will intensify. Although there will be undoubtedly some disruptions of the city, and the Agency for the first time in history of the antiwar movement will probably experience some disruptions, it is not believed at this time that the two principal weeks of planned activities will be productive in building a larger antiwar movement. It is unrealistic, for instance, to believe that a large contingent of antiwar radicals can spare the time required to pull off such an ambitious schedule of events. Further, the date that leaders hope will exceed fall 1969 demonstrations is a Wednesday and a workday. At this time it would seem improbable that in numbers the two weeks of scheduled activities would exceed 40,000 participants.

Demonstrators will be in D.C. in the largest numbers on 24 April and on 2 May. The greatest threat to CIA and other "military-related" organizations will be 26-30 April and 3-5 May.

Detailed plans for spring antiwar activities are beginning to take shape. Changes, both planned and spontaneous, are still highly likely to occur. Several key factors remain unknown but will probably be revealed in coming weeks. Since the end of January numerous references in the volume of antiwar literature have referred to an assembly point for April and May demonstrations as a site in the Washington suburbs. Several references have been made to a farm in the McLean, Virginia area, and other reports have been even less specific. Local police authorities have so far been unable to pinpoint the probable assembly site but expect some break of information in this matter in the near future. Obviously thousands of protestors cannot be expected to assemble unless the assembly point is identified for them. Additionally, the literature has referred to a mass assembly on a hill overlooking the Government in April and May. The hill has not yet been further identified.

As spring demonstration time draws near, it becomes increasingly obvious that Agency facilities (probably at Langley only) will be the target of antiwar protestors. Previous optimism expressed in these reports of a possible small antiwar turn out must now be altered. The turn out for two different demonstrations in Washington on the weekend of 20-21 March was much larger than expected based on past experience. The Progressive Labor Party which is not considered a significantly large block of Maoist-type communists were able to muster more than 1,500 demonstrators in the city with a relatively unappealing cause. Protests on the 21st against the treatment of Soviet Jewry assembled over a thousand people. Although the Jewish organizations are not known to be participating in spring antiwar demonstrations, the size of the recent demonstration is considered a significant measure of youth temperament. The People's Coalition for Peace and Justice and the National Peace Action Coalition have forecast gigantic crowds flocking to the Capital for spring activities, and at this point it appears that their estimate may be correct.

A calendar of tentatively scheduled events as they are known at this reporting are as follows:

1-5 April, New York City and Nationwide. -- Ralph Abernathy of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, William Wiley of the National Welfare Rights Organization and possibly Caesar Chavez of the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee will stage demonstrations principally in New York City on the above dates to commemorate the third anniversary of the assassination of Martin Luther King, Jr. The PCPJ has reportedly agreed to assist Abernathy and Wiley financially in their activities scheduled for New York City. These groups intend to climax New York City demonstrations with a poor people's mule train through New York's financial district and then push off for Washington, D.C. to join the antiwar groups for activities beginning on 24 April. The celebrated cause that will be pushed by this early April campaign will include everything from scab lettuce and welfare demands ($6,500 annual income) to repression and Vietnam. It has also been reported that while in New York and as marchers from various parts of the country press on toward Washington the "People's Peace Treaty" will be circulated for signature within communities along the way. The scenario as it presently stands during this period calls for demonstrators on 2 April to encourage local actions in support of hunger marches, fasts and teach-ins. On 3 April tax protests and resistance activities focus on the necessity for a reordering of national priorities. Sunday, 4 April, calls for religious tributes to Martin Luther King, Jr.

10 April, Washington, D.C. -- The first demonstration scheduled for Washington will be staged on the above date. Reportedly, these actions will be for "movement" women who will demand the right to live "on the steps of the world's largest manufacturer of death" (the Pentagon).

The composition of this demonstration has not been clarified in the "movement" press. It is assumed that the ranks will be composed of Women's Liberation advocates, commune members and antiwar activist groups. Although this demonstration is not presently regarded as one that will be significantly disruptive, 10 April may well be a "bellwether" assemblage that will portend the size and anger of events to come.

April 10, although principally scheduled to harass the defense establishment at the Pentagon, could be the first test of demonstration plans against the CIA. There is better than an outside chance that some demonstrations in the Langley area, either by plan or spontaneity, may occur on Saturday, 10 April.

19-23 April, Washington, D. C. -- Vietnam Veterans Against the War for some months have been planning a protest of the war at Washington on the above dates. This veterans' group will allegedly conduct a "peace lobby" and will assemble and possibly harass members of Congress in their offices and hallways. There is some indication that members of this group will also harass members of Congress at their homes.

This week of demonstration could be disruptive but probably will not directly involve the Agency. Some violence and police confrontation may occur during this period.

24 April-5 May. -- This period will probably see in the nation's capital and surrounding areas the largest mass demonstration that has yet been staged in support of American withdrawal from Southeast Asia. On Saturday, 24 April, the largest number of persons will probably be present in the city. Antiwar spokesmen have estimated 500,000 persons, and since all sections of the antiwar effort have jumped on the band wagon it seems obvious that all dissent activists regard this demonstration as a highly potential success. Spokesmen of the NPAC have apparently tried to assure the nonviolent character of this event. They continue in shaky coalition with the PCPJ, however, a group which seems more militantly-oriented. Whether the NPAC can maintain control is a key factor, and that they can is considered doubtful.

It is anticipated that after the big crunch of mass demonstrations on Saturday, 24 April, and the regrouping and planning activities on Sunday, 25 April, will come the more militant-oriented demonstrations beginning on the week of Monday, 26 April. It is reportedly the intention of antiwar activists "to open all parts of the Government to out people." Particularly specified in the underground literature are the Pentagon, the CIA at Langley, the National Security Council and the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Antiwar activists believe that the lobbying pressure will build through the last week in April and that on about the first of May "long marchers" will be arriving and gathering on a farm outside of Washington. Reportedly, tents and other living facilities will be set up.

On 1 May protestors reportedly will assemble in a celebration of peace on a hill overlooking the Government (not further identified). May 1 demonstrations will reportedly coincide with similar assemblies in Paris, London, Tokyo, Peking and elsewhere to demonstrate massive international support for the people of Vietnam. (American antiwar planners will undoubtedly assume credit for assembling masses of people throughout the world. It should be remembered, however, that many nations have traditional celebrations as well as national holidays on 1 May. Generally, Western Europe celebrates Labor Day on 1 May.) (S-KE) 10-4 11-11-71

Sunday, 2 May, will be a day of planning for the following several days. Several reports have indicated that religious ceremonies will be conducted on 2 May. Five major targets have been chosen and identified for concentrated actions on the morning of 3 May. They are the Pentagon, the CIA, the Department of Justice, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and the White House. Additionally, a number of highways have been identified for "nonviolent disruptions." These roads and highways that are regarded by antiwar spokesmen as the lifeline into Governmental institutions are Shirley Highway, George Washington Memorial Parkway, 14th Street Bridge, Pennsylvania Avenue and Constitution Avenue. Also mentioned but less prominently is Dupont Circle. Reportedly, antiwar demonstrators at 7:30 a.m. on 3 May will move onto these highways, sit down and lock arms. At noon on 3 May demonstrators will assemble at Congress to "surround the Capitol with people who are determined that Congress accept the mandate of American and world public opinion." May 4 is scheduled to be a repeat of the activities of the previous day. May 5 has been designated as "no business as usual day." The apparent meaning of this designation by antiwar activists implies that 5 May will up the ante in Washington by introducing increased militancy and spread disruptive activities throughout the nation. (S-KE) 10-4 11-11-71

One recent report has reflected that plans from 5 May on are somewhat vague because spokesmen believe that all prominent leaders will be in jail before the 5th. (S-KE) 10-4 11-11-71

Recent reports continue to be vague with regard to the earlier planned tactic of a vehicle-stall on key highways. It is probable at this date that antiwar planners believe that the "sit down-arm lock" technique would be a superior tactic, less alienating and with more propaganda value than the vehicle stall. This apparent change in tactic is probably also considered feasible since planners believe now that sufficient people will be on hand to disrupt the city with bodies instead of machines. (S-KE) 10-4 11-11-71

It has been pointed out that as events are staged several factors could effect a change in protest plans. At this point what could possibly be viewed as an escalation of the war by antiwar fire brands could both swell and anger the masses. If, on the other hand, an incident should occur in the early stages, a successful mass action could be seriously jeopardized. The carnival element is present this time as it always is and many young people will be coming to the city more for fun and excitement than for the rhetoric and polemics of David Dellinger, Rennie Davis, et al. Violence during the week of 19 April when the Vietnam Veterans' group is in town or a bombing in the city by extremely violent radicals would probably dramatically reduce the number of participants.

In summary, those dates that at the moment must be regarded as potential periods of direct attacks on the Agency are as follows:

10 April: Women's protest in Washington. Slight threat.

26 April: Tentatively planned demonstration at the Agency.

Serious potential threat of picketing and harassing of Agency personnel at Headquarters.

27-30 April: Depending on activities staged at the Agency on 26 April. Serious potential acts of disruption.

3 May: Most serious projected date of Agency disruption. Traffic seriously interrupted, efforts may be made to enter Agency facilities.

4-7 May: Serious period of Agency disruption depending upon events of 3 May.

SPECIAL INFORMATION REPORTSpring Demonstrations at Washington, D.C., from 24 April-5 May

The indications persist that coordination among the several major groups involved in antiwar planning at Washington during the spring period is extremely poor. As was indicated some weeks ago, Rennie Davis after expressing his displeasure at the joining of forces for a unified spring effort has continued to take his personal constituency, the Mayday Collective, along its own path. There reportedly is considerable hostility and distrust among leaders of the Socialist Workers Party-controlled National Coalition, the CPUSA-People's Coalition and the more radical Mayday Collective. Leaders of these various groups appear to be struggling to maintain their position in America's antiwar movement and are concerned with the protection of their organization's share of available funds. (1) 1A 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12

There has been what appears to be a larger expenditure for this demonstration in published material than in any previous single antiwar demonstration. Publication costs must surely be soaring, and the source of required funds is unknown at this time. It can be predicted that distrust and antagonism within the inner circle of coalition planners will continue and may even manifest itself in a separate demonstration next Saturday by the People's Coalition. It is almost certain at this point that the National Coalition will have virtually no part in demonstrations which are scheduled to follow Saturday, the 24th. National Coalition planners believe that Rennie Davis has indeed gotten out of hand, is no longer responsive to the control of the People's Coalition and has no dedication to the conduct of nonviolent demonstrations. (1) 1A 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12

Announced housing arrangements for demonstrators through this period have been exaggerated and are believed now to have only enough room for about 6,000. With or without a legal permit it is believed at this time that the Rennie Davis Mayday Collective will try to take and hold ground in Rock Creek Park. One planner, a Communist Party member from Wisconsin, has stated that if necessary hotels will be taken over in Washington to provide housing for the demonstrators. Planners additionally call for demonstrators to solicit food from wholesale grocery outlets, suburban shopping centers and door-to-door canvassing in the Washington suburbs. Reportedly funds to sustain the demonstration that were expected from Senators McGovern and Hatfield have failed to materialize. Other planners (Sidney Peck and Bradford Lyttle) are reportedly highly critical of the manner in which Rennie Davis has been operating on his own, particularly in negotiating for the use of Rock Creek Park.

It has been reported that the probable reason Sidney Peck and others of the People's Coalition remain in contact with Jerry Gordon and other planners of the National Coalition is solely to protect the funds that the People's Coalition believes it is entitled to.

At a recent speech in Florida, John Froines, the former Oregon college professor who was acquitted in the now famous Chicago Conspiracy Trial, encouraged the use of bombing. There is some indication that bombing or at least bomb threats are planned during the period, but if either occurs they will not be the product of the major organizations involved in the demonstrations. The SWP and the CPUSA are both philosophically opposed to bombing at this time. Leaders would tend to believe that should bombing occur the impact of the planned demonstrations would be drastically reduced both through the loss of participants as well as prestigious vocal support by members of Congress and others.

It appears at present that the week of 26-30 April will not be a period of planned violent disruption. This week has apparently been earmarked for a period of lobbying at various Government levels including the CIA at Langley. Alexandria attorney Freedman has advised the Agency and the Fairfax County Police of a protest march scheduled for Wednesday afternoon, 28 April. Details of the protesters' plans have been requested but have not yet been received by Fairfax County authorities. As they are presently known, a march is scheduled to begin at 2:30 p.m. at the Society of Friends meetinghouse on Virginia Highway 193 approximately two miles west of Langley Gate 1. Attorney Freedman has stated that the march will number approximately 1,000 people and will present an antiwar petition (possibly a copy of the People's Peace Treaty) to an Agency official at the gate. This protest march reportedly will be nonobstructive and peaceful. It should be noted, however, that the march sponsorship is an organization centered in Springfield that goes by the name of the Northern Virginia

Mayday Collective. This name alone places the sponsoring organization in the Rennie Davis camp, and it must therefore be considered as a possible source of violence and disruption. The odds are, at this point, that this demonstration on the 28th of April will remain peaceful and nonviolent.

This demonstration was originally rumored to occur on the previous day, 27 April. The reason for the date change is unknown but might hold some significance. It is likely that the date was changed to the 28th because of other commitments made by Mayday demonstrators on the 27th and was postponed a day to enhance the possibility of greater participation. Without outside help the demonstration will not be able to produce as many as a thousand marchers. With outside help planners can probably reach or exceed the planned 1,000 persons. Additional details of this direct demonstration against the Agency will be passed to Agency officials immediately upon their receipt.

Other Government agencies that are scheduled for protest demonstrations during the last week of April are the Pentagon, the Justice Department, the Capitol Building, the White House, HEW and others. There are no indications in the literature that any of these demonstrations during the next week in April will be violent.

From 1 May on, disruption and violence become highly potential. There has been no activity in recent days around any of the Virginia farm sites that have been previously mentioned as assembly points for Mayday demonstrators. It is believed, at this point, that Rennie Davis and his lieutenants will set up camp at Rock Creek Park, permit or not. One of the mentioned Virginia farm sites may well be used by the Mayday Collective as a retreat assembly point in the event the Davis group cannot hold the Rock Creek Park site. The most prominently mentioned Virginia property is in Loudoun County on Virginia Route 7. It is bordered on the west by Route 7, on the north by Goose Creek, on the east by the Potomac River and on the south by Ashburn Junction.

The planning for May activities has been extensive and ingenious. Twenty-one targets for disruption of the city have been identified. Those targets are as follows: 1) Key Bridge, Virginia side, Rosslyn Plaza; 2) Key Bridge, D.C. side, M St., 34th St., 35th St.; 3) Theodore (sic) Roosevelt Bridge, Virginia side, Route 66; 4) Theodore Roosevelt (sic) Bridge, D.C. side, Rock Creek Parkway; 5) Arlington Memorial Bridge, Virginia side, Memorial Drive, Arlington Ridge Road (Rt. 110).

6) Arlington Memorial Bridge, D.C. side, Rock Creek Parkway, Ohio Drive south; 7) Washington Blvd., Highway 110; 8) Traffic Loop just west of Pentagon, Washington Blvd., Columbia Pike, Shirley Hwy; 9) Shirley Hwy just south of the Pentagon; 10) Rochambeau Bridge, Virginia side, D.C. bound traffic on Routes 95 and 1; 11) George Mason Memorial Bridge, Virginia side, Virginia bound traffic on Routes 95 and 1; 12) 14th St. Bridge Complex, D.C. side; 13) Washington Circle, K St., Pennsylvania Ave., New Hampshire Ave.; 14) DuPont Circle, Massachusetts Ave., Connecticut Ave., New Hampshire Ave.; 15) Scott Circle, Massachusetts Ave., Rhode Island Ave., 16th St.; 16) Thomas Circle, Massachusetts Ave., Vermont Ave., 14th St.; 17) Mt. Vernon Square, Massachusetts Ave., New York Ave., K St.; 18) Commodore Intersection, Massachusetts Ave. and New York Ave.; 19) Stanton Park Square, Massachusetts Ave., Maryland Ave.; 20) Seward Square, Pennsylvania Ave., North Carolina Ave.; 21) Folger Park, North Carolina Ave., D St.

Protest leaders have additionally evaluated the possible counterforce that will be used against them and have tended to exaggerate the potential steps the Government is likely to take to suppress their demonstration. Included in some of their literature printed and distributed among prospective demonstrators are statements that the Government intends to utilize Chinook helicopters and jeep-mounted submachine guns. One of the most apparent ingenious methods of assuring at least a degree of success is the assigning of target areas to various semiautonomous subgroups within the overall Mayday Collective. The Key Bridge, for instance, is the target for Mayday Collective demonstrators from New York City and upstate New York. The 14th Street Bridge complex is to be obstructed by demonstrators from the Washington, D.C. area. DuPont Circle reportedly will be the domain of New York City and Florida demonstrators. Scott Circle has been assigned to contingents from Louisiana, Texas and Arkansas. And Constitution and Pennsylvania Avenues are to be covered by demonstrators from Pennsylvania, Indiana and Wisconsin.

Reportedly, all other targets on the list have similarly been assigned to specific Mayday Collective units. This assignment tactic tends to minimize the ability of law enforcement agencies to close down a central headquarters and to be able to close out a serious threat of disruption throughout the city. The disruption of the "Mayday targets" is scheduled to begin on the morning of 3 May and continue on 4 May.

Specific agencies as targets of the Mayday Collective have not been closely identified and must be regarded as highly subject to spontaneous decisions. The probabilities are, at present, that following the disruptions on Monday, 3 May, demonstrators that have not been arrested or otherwise neutralized will assemble possibly on the Mall or at Rock Creek Park (which has been named Algonquin City) to assess the morning's success and/or failure. Although the Agency must be regarded as vulnerable on 3 May, a planned action is probably more likely on Tuesday, 4 May. It is still not believed that the Agency's outlying buildings will be identified as direct targets. Agency buildings in Rosslyn, however, must be regarded as in some spontaneous danger due to the close proximity of these buildings to a designated major target, i. e., Key Bridge.

As for the number of demonstrators that can be expected, the Metropolitan Police Department believes that Saturday, 24 April, will draw approximately 100,000 people. Reportedly, the Department of Justice expects a considerably lesser number. University populations around the country are reported to be much less action-oriented this year than last, but then, too, publicity and propagandizing for Saturday, 24 April, have been under way for ten months. No antiwar demonstration in recent history has been planned and scheduled for a like period of time. Balancing all available factors, therefore, it is believed that the demonstrations on the 24th will by far exceed the 100,000 predicted by Metropolitan Police. The bulk of the participants in town for the 24th are definitely oriented toward peaceful, nonviolent, legal demonstrations. If violence occurs on the 24th, it will probably be precipitated by small and unpredictable bands of hard-core radicals and irresponsible street people that will undoubtedly be present on the 24th.

There has been an indication that violence may occur at the Capitol Building on the 24th while speakers are addressing the gathering. A possibility exists that one or more small groups of radicals may attempt to take over the speakers' platform and physically abuse members of Congress. No confirmation of this tactic has been received, and it is mentioned only as a possibility. During large demonstrations that have taken place in Washington in the past, it has been concluded that if violence erupts it will probably occur late in the afternoon at about the time the bulk of demonstrators are making their plans to depart the city. After the 24th the numbers of activists remaining in the city will be drastically smaller but certainly more violence-prone.

Peak participation during the week of 26-30 April will probably not exceed 15,000 and will add in early May activities no more than 5,000 or 10,000 more. One factor that might build a larger assembly would be the staging of a marathon rock festival in order to hold the young people in the area. If such plans are being made, they are not presently known. The composition of the anticipated crowd in the city will be as in the past, largely young people and largely white people. Demonstrators have been advised to stay out of the Negro residential area of the city; and the mass of black citizens, as in the past, have demonstrated scant interest in antiwar demonstrations. Even the presence of Ralph Abernathy, if it occurs (and it is by no means certain that it will), will not encourage significant numbers of black persons.

SPECIAL INFORMATION REPORT

The antiwar demonstration staged in Washington on 24 April was as had been predicted, a highly successful showing produced by the National Peace Action Coalition. Several significant factors were noted in this demonstration that may indicate what may be expected between now and 5 May.

A reliable estimate of the number participating on the 24th is 200,000 persons. Of this number less than 2 per cent were Negro. Approximately 10 per cent were over 30 years of age, and high school age or less numbered between 10-15 per cent. The bulk of those participating ranged in age between 19-27 years. Reliable observers advised that the mass of people participating were "dispirited" with relatively few signs and banners and relatively little conversational chatter. The demeanor of the crowd from beginning to end except for one or two exceptions was oriented toward a peaceful march. There was one group numbering approximately 400 which was vocal and generally disassociated itself from the large flow of marchers. This group calling itself the "Labor Party" was Maoist in general and consisted of a high percentage of Chinese and Koreans.

One factor present this time that had not been in previous demonstrations was the heavy use of alcohol, principally wine. Liquor stores in the downtown area reportedly were doing a high volume of business. A Metropolitan morals police source has advised that heavy wine consumption is often associated with the use of marijuana because the sweetness of wine counteracts the eventual bitter taste of marijuana and at the same time does not adversely affect the "marijuana high."

The rock festival that followed the general demonstration which took place in the Sylvan Theater area of the Washington Monument Grounds drew approximately 15,000 young people. Reportedly marijuana was heavily used during the after-dark hours.

In the judgment of experienced observers, the crowd present in the city on Saturday, 24 April, did not match in spirit or numbers the antiwar demonstration of 1969.

Demonstrations Scheduled Against the Agency, 28 April 1971

The Northern Virginia Mayday Collective has scheduled and announced a planned demonstration against the Agency, Langley Headquarters, on the afternoon of 28 April. As announced both to the Agency and to the Fairfax County Police, the march will begin at the Quaker Meeting House on Virginia Highway 193 (6400 Georgetown Pike) and proceed along 193 to 123, from 123 to the entrance approach to Gate 1 where an antiwar petition will be presented to Agency officials. Press releases have given the inaccurate impression that demonstrators will be allowed inside the Agency compound. The demonstrators will not be permitted to proceed past Gate 1 or inside the Agency fence at any other point.

Leaders of the Northern Virginia Mayday Collective have advised that the demonstration will number between 500-1,000 persons. It is not believed, however, based on the appraisal of information currently available that the demonstrators will number more than 50. The Northern Virginia group will not be able to draw from those presently assembled in West Potomac Park because that group has already scheduled Wednesday activities to take place at the Internal Revenue Building in the center of the city. It is not believed that the Agency will be targeted for any other demonstration during the week of 26 April and may escape completely during the week of 3 May.

Planned Disruptions in the Washington Area Scheduled for the Week of 3 May

The attached map published by the Quicksilver Times under authority of the Mayday Collective indicates the 21 targets that have been selected for civil disobedience during the first week in May. The buildings and branches of Government that have been specifically earmarked for disruption are the Pentagon on 3 May, the Justice Department on 4 May and the Capitol Building on 5 May. Although a camping permit in West Potomac Park has been granted to run until 10 May, it is not believed that significant disruptive activities will occur after 5 May. Regardless of the targets listed on the Mayday map as major targets, the consensus of opinion as to which of these will be most vulnerable are as follows: both sides of the 14th Street Bridge (George Mason Memorial Bridge, Rochambeau Memorial Bridge, designated targets 10, 11, and 12), the Mixing Bowl (designated target 8) and both sides of Key Bridge (designated targets 1 and 2).

On the night of 25-26 April, 800 protesters camped out in West Potomac Park. This is a much smaller number than had been anticipated, and it is not believed that the numbers will swell to the extent necessary to create a continuing major disruption of the city.

Although there will undoubtedly be some disruption of Federal agencies and highways during the next two-week period, all signs at the moment are optimistic.

144SPECIAL INFORMATION REPORTDemonstration Scheduled Against the Agency for 28 April 1971

For the past two days leaflets have been circulated in Northern Virginia high schools publicizing the march activities targeted against the Agency for this afternoon. The group is to assemble at the Quaker Meeting House on Virginia Highway 193 at 2:00 p.m. From 2:00 to 3:00 there will be a training session in nonviolent civil disobedience, and at 3:30 the demonstrators will begin their march. If this schedule is followed, demonstrators should not reach Gate #1 until approximately 4:15 p.m. The number of participants may be swelled because of the effort in recent days among high school aged youth. The demonstration continues, however, to appear to be poorly organized and supported and will probably be lightly attended and totally nonviolent. It is not believed that this group, principally consisting of high school students, will attempt to force its way past the Agency's fence perimeter.

It is not likely that the demonstration against the Agency which is under the sponsorship of the Northern Virginia Mayday Tribe will be assisted by a significant number of demonstrators presently encamped in the West Potomac Park area. So far this week's protest activities announced many weeks ago are being conducted as scheduled. Monday, the 26th, was planned for the Capitol area and Tuesday, Selective Service Headquarters; aside from very slight peripheral protest activities, the demonstrations took place as scheduled. The activities listed for today are at the Internal Revenue Service in the 1100 block of Constitution Avenue (handy to West Potomac Park). If any of the West Potomac Park campers leave the center of the city, they will probably move east to meet the Poor People's caravan which is scheduled to arrive at the District line between 1 p.m. and 3:30 p.m.

As of 9 a.m. this morning, police reports reflect that 145 persons have thus far been arrested in the area of Selective Service Headquarters where day-long demonstrations took place yesterday and an all-night vigil last night. Demonstrators in the early morning hours today were blocking traffic in the area, hence prompting police action.

It has been reported that the crowd camping in the West Potomac Park area has grown, but modestly. Washington Metropolitan Police estimate that during the night, 27-28 April, between 1100 and 1200 campers spent the night in the area. (Fairfax County Police Department intelligence sources do not agree, placing the number at less than 300 at 11:50 p.m.)

United Press International wire service dated today offered one line only reflecting a demonstration to take place at CIA today. No additional details were provided in the one-line report.

If today's demonstration at the Langley Headquarters goes off on schedule, demonstrators will probably leaflet Agency employees as they leave for the day at 4:30.

CALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Summer 1971, Nationwide

In mid-May a World Peace Assembly called by the World Peace Council took place in Budapest. The WPC is under the domination of the Soviet Union. At the assembly, the delegates highly praised the United States antiwar effort during the spring demonstration season. The WPC secretary general, Romesh Chandra, a member of the Central Executive Committee of the Communist Party of India, praised the 25 United States delegates for their antiwar efforts. Chandra advised the meeting that the WPC was urging massive demonstrations on 4 July at United States embassies around the world with the central slogan "Set the '71 Date." This new slogan has been urged on the American antiwar movement by communists abroad (including the chief Viet Cong negotiator at Paris) because the communist feeling is that the most popular slogan in recent action, "If the Government Doesn't Stop the War, We Will Stop the Government," allows the news media too much latitude in stressing the demonstrators' efforts to stop the Government while deemphasizing the stop-the-war theme. / 12

Prominent Americans who were in attendance at the Budapest conference were the Rev. Ralph Abernathy, who accepted a peace medal posthumously awarded to Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.; Mrs. Angie Dickerson of the Emergency Committee to End Repression; Dr. Carleton Goodlett, San Francisco publisher who has been described as a leftist; and Gil Green of the Communist Party of New York State. The Budapest meeting was also attended by Mrs. Sylvia Kushner of the Chicago Peace Council who has been named as a Communist Party member; Professor Sidney Peck of the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice, formerly a Communist Party official in Wisconsin; and Irving Sarnoff of the Los Angeles Peace Council who has also been named as a member of the Communist Party. Americans present at Budapest also represented the Young Workers Liberation League, the Women's Strike for Peace, and the Black Muslims. 11/11/72 7/

At a mid-May meeting of the Student Mobilization Steering Committee a national convention of the antiwar movement was announced to be held in New York City from 2-4 July. The meeting will be under the sponsorship of the Socialist Workers Party-controlled National Peace Action Coalition. In the recent past it has been indicated that this conference would be held in the Cleveland area. Later reports placed it at Washington, D.C. It now seems firm that Hunter College in New York City has been selected, lending added support to indications that have been noted that future antiwar demonstrations of the NPAC variety might be held in New York instead of Washington. 11/11/72 7/

The NPAC has also announced recent formation of plans for an intensive summer program organizing "antiwar schools" at various cities throughout the country. The first such school was held in New York on 5 June and was attended by several hundred radicals. Cities mentioned as possible future sites of "antiwar schools" have been Los Angeles, San Francisco, Indianapolis and St. Louis. Those who participate will be encouraged to form local peace action coalitions in the areas from which they hail. According to spokesmen of the NPAC the purpose of the schools is to train antiwar activists in the techniques and skills necessary to reach veterans, trade unions, servicemen, women, students, Puerto Ricans and other groups. 11/11/72 7/

The PCPJ which is under the influence of the CPUSA held its recent meeting on 21 May at Washington. The PCPJ has decided to lend support to lobbying efforts taking place in Washington this week for the purpose of protesting the extension of the draft laws as well as the Vietnam War. The usual grandiose statements were made at the PCPJ meeting with regard to the number of persons expected to participate. The claim was that between 10,000 and 50,000 would attend, but a more realistic figure is several hundred. 11/11/72 7/

A combined meeting for the PCPJ and the May Day Collective was held in Washington, D.C. on 19 May. John Rankin Davis (Jack Davis) addressed the gathering and advised that he had just returned from Europe where he had visited Budapest (probably attending the World Peace Assembly) and met with North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegates at Paris. According to Jack Davis, the North Vietnamese delegates in Paris made the following suggestions (reportedly in the form of "instructions") for prosecuting the antiwar drive in the United States: 1) the creation of a new slogan for the peace movement, "Set the Date by December '71" (similar to the slogan noted above), 2) concentrate the major antiwar efforts in an attempt to lobby members of Congress, 3) support the proposals of Sen. George McGovern and Rep. Bella Abzug and 4) change the name of the May Day Collective and form a political party similar to SDS and establish chapters across the country. It is anticipated that such a party will eventually develop voting strength in United States elections. REL JAN 23 1972

Jack Davis advised that a national action consisting of speeches and demonstrations is being planned for Washington on 4 July and again during October of this year. REL JAN 23 1972

Between 25-27 June a national conference of the PCPJ will be held at Milwaukee (the same dates and place as last year). Reportedly, all groups opposing the war and repression will be invited to participate. This will encompass the May Day Collectives, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the National Welfare Rights Organization, and other groups. Reportedly, the PCPJ is hoping for group representation and not a mass conference. One of the topics that will be discussed at Milwaukee is the possibility of staging another mass demonstration in Washington next August. The conference will be held in Milwaukee at the church of Father James Groppi, who has figured prominently in previous protests and will probably be present for the Milwaukee conference. REL JAN 23 1972

At a Washington press conference held early in June, David Dellinger advised that the forthcoming Milwaukee meeting will formulate plans for another "offensive." Dellinger (who apparently had not yet gotten the word from Europe) stated "since the Government will not stop the war, the people will stop the war by stopping the Government." According to Dellinger, the next demonstrations will again emphasize "force without violence." REL JAN 23 1972

Between 21-23 May the May Day Collective conference was held at Needmore, Indiana, on property owned by Larry Canada, a reportedly close associate and "bank roller" of radical Rennie Davis. The delegates at the May Day Collective conference discussed the recent failure of the demonstration in Washington and decided that the demonstrations were unsuccessful because of lack of planning (a curious excuse because leaders had been publicizing the May Day action since last October), failure to use women effectively, and failure to organize properly. The Needmore meeting decided that demonstrations would be held at Washington during the third and fourth weeks of June as well as at various military bases to demand an end to the draft law. From 4-6 July demonstrations will be held at New York and at other major cities to protest the war and to demand that a definite date be set for withdrawal of United States troops from Vietnam. It was also tentatively planned that in August a national conference of May Day Collectives would be staged in either Kansas or Colorado to organize a national political party (one of the suggestions from Europe). In October the May Day Collective will conduct another massive demonstration in Washington similar to early May of this year. It was also decided to increase the use of the Viet Cong flag, and activists allegedly will attempt to fly the Viet Cong flag from Government buildings next 14 June, Flag Day. On 6 July the collectives will sponsor regional celebrations to commemorate the founding of the Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam. 161/11 341760 111 341346/111 2711447/11

Approximately 150 persons attended the May Day Collective conference at Needmore. The number included representatives from New Hampshire, New York City, Indiana, Vermont, Massachusetts, Washington, D.C., Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, Washington, California, Kentucky and Georgia. Included in the group were representatives of the Gay Liberation Front of Washington, D.C., and one representative of Youth Against War and Fascism. The May Day Collective-scheduled demonstrations in late June (probably between 21-26 June) will be centered around Congressional activities in extending the draft law. Proposals were also made during the Indiana conference for the "symbolic" arrest of war criminals such as President Nixon, Secretary of Defense Laird, COS of the Army, etc. 161/11 341760 111 341346/111 2711447/11

It appears that the August date selected by the May Day Collective for demonstrations in D.C. might be on 5 August to coincide with the first bombing of North Vietnam. Additional details of all forthcoming demonstrations will be reported as they become firm. It is not believed at this time that any of the antiwar organizations will be able to stage a significantly large or disruptive demonstration in any city before next October.

*12 June, Washington, D.C.

Demonstrations are being scheduled for Washington, D.C., during the marriage ceremony of the President's daughter this Saturday. The principal spokesman, one Jeff Gingold, a recent graduate of Washington and Lee University at Lexington, Virginia, has advised that the demonstration will be staged to protest a large wedding celebration at the same time killing is going on in Southeast Asia. The sponsoring group, the Shenandoah Tribe, has applied for permits to use the Ellipse and Lafayette Park. No permits have so far been granted. Gingold has stated that he expects 5,000 demonstrators.

On 2 June during a demonstration by the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice at Kent University, approximately 200 demonstrators gathered to listen to Yippie speakers, representatives of the Black United Students and David Ifshin, leader of the National Student Association, describe the unlawful police tactics taken recently against Kent University students who were staging a protest. Ifshin, who characterized the United States as repressive, also announced that on 12 June a demonstration would be held at Washington to disrupt the wedding of the President's daughter. Ifshin, who was mysteriously not prominently present during the Washington demonstration in May, advised that entertainment would be provided for the Washington action on 12 June; and he urged his Kent State audience to attend the demonstration.

*21 June, Ann Arbor, Michigan

An organization known as the Women Uniting to End the War is sponsoring a one-day nonbuying day on 21 June. The organization which is based at Ann Arbor intends to encourage women throughout the country to demonstrate that women want the war stopped by not buying any goods or services on that day.

*21-28 June, New Orleans, Louisiana

Music festival promoter Steve Kapelow who has promoted rock festivals at Atlanta and at Toronto is promoting a $28-a-ticket eight-day rock festival on an as yet unidentified island in the Mississippi River. Kapelow states that 60,000 persons are expected to attend and be entertained by 60 musical acts. The promoter will reveal the exact location of the rock festival shortly before the starting date in order to discourage gate crashers.

*28 June, Alameda County, California

The retrial of Black Panther leader Huey Newton is scheduled to begin in the San Francisco Bay area on the above date. Newton was previously tried and convicted of manslaughter for the slaying of an Oakland policeman in a 1968 shootout. The State Court of Appeals subsequently reversed the conviction due to courtroom irregularities and ordered a new trial. Newton is presently free on $50,000 bail.

*3-5 July, Kansas City, Missouri

The Vietnam Veterans Against the War has announced plans for a "limited incursion of Vietnam veterans into middle America" on the above dates. A spokesman for the group (who happens to live in Kansas City) stated that the rally was planned in the heart of America because middle America is being neglected.

*4 July, Washington, D.C.

The Free Calley Committee is scheduling a demonstration in the city on Independence Day. Sponsors of the demonstration are predicting between 50,000 and 1,000,000 participants but will probably produce not more than several hundred. This scheduled demonstration has not been well-publicized and might even be called off before the scheduled date.

SPECIAL REPORT

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION (DNC)

As the opening of the National Democratic Convention draws near, public interest and apprehension continue to mount. Press accounts reflect a widespread feeling that the Democratic and Republican Conventions will be the main focus of the antiwar movement. Protest organizers involved in drafting plans for the convention demonstrations have made a point of stressing publicly that the antiwar protest will be nonviolent; however, there is always the possibility that the new leftist position is merely an attempt to broaden their support by reassuring those who might be driven away by fear of violence. Whether their efforts in this regard will lead only to sporadic demonstrations or to something far more serious, only the future will tell. In any event, the threat of serious disruptive activity and the possibility of violence has been recognized by law enforcement agencies, and it is doubtful that radical elements will experience any success in lulling the authorities into a false sense of security.

*Guarantee 28 Dec 72 will not 29 Dec 72

Recently George Rodericks, head of civil defense in Washington, predicted 6,000 non-delegates would attend the convention rather than the 50,000 to 100,000 that city officials and protest groups had originally forecast. Mr. Rodericks who is acting as a special consultant to Dade County manager Ray Goode has based his figures on 10 days of research and discussion with non-delegate leaders. Apparently many of the movement people are financially unable to attend both conventions and those who could afford at least one trip are placing a higher priority on attending the GOP Convention to be held later in the summer. Of the 6,000 Mr. Rodericks estimates will attend the convention, more than half have already reserved hotel rooms and an estimated 2,000 persons will be seeking the use of public campsites. The Miami Beach City Council originally refused to provide campsites in the immediate area of the convention, suggesting instead two locations some distance from the downtown area. After the protest leaders refused to accept these locations the Council reversed its decision and has now agreed to provide accommodations at a more convenient location a few blocks from the convention site. The Council's last minute decision was reportedly based on its desire to do anything possible to ensure a peaceful convention. 19 Jul 72 N.Y.T.

The task of "keeping the peace" at the Democratic Convention has fallen primarily to Miami Beach Police Chief Rocky Pomerance. In addition to his own organization, Chief Pomerance can call upon other state and federal law enforcement agencies for assistance as well as federal troops who will be stationed outside the city. The Miami Beach City Council has also granted Pomerance the power to declare a state of emergency and/or establish curfews if protest demonstrations get out of control. read + star 9, 10 Jul 72

Inside the Convention Hall itself, elaborate security measures will be implemented to guard against any hostile activity. Prior to the convention opening, a full-scale bomb search will be conducted beginning at midnight Sunday. Following the inspection, the site will be locked and not reopened until Monday afternoon (10 July 1972). As the convention is called to order some 400 unarmed guard-ushers will roam the Hall and bomb squads and plain-clothes police will be strategically placed throughout the building. Those seeking admission to the Hall will have to produce numbered and colored coded tickets and pass before metal detectors positioned in the vicinity of the gatekeepers. From all of the precautions that are being taken it would appear that convention officials are determined to ensure that the business at hand will be conducted in an atmosphere as free of illicit demonstrations and violence as possible. work 5:12 3 Jul 72

Recently the San Diego Convention Coalition and the Miami Peoples Coalition merged to form the Miami Convention Coalition (a confederation of antiwar forces, women libbers, gay activists and others). Leadership of this coalition is calling for disruptive activity at the Republican Convention and low-key lobbying at the Democratic Convention. Coalition delegates have decided not to endorse any candidate but to formulate contingency plans in case Sen. George McGovern is not nominated. A number of organizations that have endorsed what are billed as low-key protests are PCPJ, National Welfare Rights Organization, SCLC, National Tenants Organization, Vietnam Veterans Against the War, and the National Coalition of Gay Organizations. The National Peace Action Coalition's (Trotskyite group) strategic view is that the antiwar movement should remain independent of positions taken by the Republicans and Democrats and make their own antiwar views known to the people through the use of street demonstrations. Quentin 21, 28 Jan 72

In and around the city of Miami there are more than 200,000 Cuban exiles that are anti-Communist, anti-Castro. In the past they have lobbied for support from the government for various schemes to destroy Castro's strength. A major question remaining is what action, if any, the Cuban exile movement in Florida will take during the convention. Wash Star 11 Jul 72

CALENDAR OF ACTIVITIES RELATED to the DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION

National Tenants Association

The National Tenants Association has formed a coalition with the National Welfare Rights Organization and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and plan to hold a demonstration on July 8. The purpose of this demonstration is to protest mass evictions from public housing, and the costs and conditions of housing. Post 12 647636 22 Jan 72 N.Y. Times 28 Jan 72

Zippies

The Zippies, a radical faction of the Youth International Party, reportedly have rented a house in Miami's Coconut Grove area, far from convention activities. On July 8 the Zippies have planned a smoke-in as their lobbying effort to legalize marijuana. The Zippies have not pledged they would try to keep the peace during the convention and, therefore, have been disowned by other protest groups for provoking trouble. Recently members of the Zippies defied a ban on camping out in Miami Beach and threatened to spend the night on a golf course. Daily Planet 10 Jul 72 Wash Post 5 Jul 72

Youth International Party

Jerry Rubin and Abbie Hoffman, leaders of the Youth International Party, have been actively involved with negotiations for campsites and plans for what they call a nonviolent antiwar demonstration. During the Democratic Convention in Chicago in 1968, both radicals were charged with conspiring to incite riots. In recent weeks the Yippie Organization has tried to convince the public that they have gone moderately respectable. Reportedly, a spokesman for the Yippies announced that they would try to keep the peace during the convention. Recently some 600 senior citizens attended a picnic sponsored by the Yippies in the Miami area. The purpose of the so-called "free share picnic of the ages" was to reassure the elderly that the upcoming protest demonstrations during the convention would be nonviolent. The Yippies have announced another picnic will take place on 9 July. Jerry Rubin, Abbie Hoffman, and Stu Albert are planning a counterconvention which will be called the "Celebration of Change--Ten Days to End the World." During the Democratic and Republican Conventions protest marches will be held from the Yippie campgrounds to Convention Hall to protest the war. The theme of the "Celebration of Change" will be change in all areas of life by any means necessary. Major rock groups have agreed to appear as well as superstars, yogi and juggling acts. No rock festivals are as yet planned for this summer elsewhere, so Miami Beach could attract many young people. Only Plant 10 July - 72 Post 3, 5 July 72

Southern Christian Leadership Conference

The Rev. Ralph Abernathy head of SCLC has announced they will set up a Resurrection City II at Flamingo Park. The City Council allotted the 36-acre park to SCLC to act as an "umbrella" for other protest groups. The now famous mule train will be bringing people from Miss., Georgia, Alabama, Virginia, New York and from other parts of the country.

Recently SCLC has announced plans for a massive demonstration to be held in the afternoon of July 9 in Manor Park between 15th and 12th Streets in down town Miami. Other organizations that have endorsed the demonstration are VVAW; Cynthia Wedel, president of the National Council of Churches; Dave Dellinger; PCPJ; Dr. George Wiley, executive director of the National Welfare Rights Organization; Jesse Gray, executive director of the National Tenants Organization; Leon Davis, president Local 1199; Mrs. Coretta King; and Allard Lowenstein of Americans for Democratic Action. The purpose of this demonstration is to place before the delegates to the Democratic Convention the issues facing this nation in the 1972 elections. Reportedly, Abernathy has warned that if the Democratic Party refuses to accept 750 poor people as national convention delegates, they would crash the gathering and take the seats. Only Plant 10 July 72 Post 6 July 72

Vietnam Veterans Against the War

Recently 16 members of the VVAW left for Paris for a 3-day meeting with veterans of the South Vietnamese Liberation Front, North Vietnamese Army, the Pathet Lao and the Cambodian Liberation Government. This meeting was arranged by a group of left-wing French activists in an attempt to bring former enemies together to seek a mutual understanding about what can be done to end the war. There will be three VVAW members at the convention as delegates who will try to be heard by the convention. Officials of the VVAW are expecting 400 members, largely from Texas, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Florida, to attend the Democratic Convention. The VVAW has announced plans to participate in a demonstration on July 9 which is being sponsored by the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. The VVAW will hold a conference during the convention on racism, sexism, drug addiction and Veterans Administration benefits. During convention week the VVAW has announced plans to show air war movies, to schedule a candlelight march, and an indepth presentation of the winter soldiers theme and various forms of guerrilla theater. A representative of the Vietnam Veterans has been quoted as stating that there was a real possibility of pushing through a strong peace plank this year.

National Welfare Rights Organization

The NWRO opened its national convention in Miami Beach on July 5. Reportedly some national convention delegates representing the NWRO hope to have the Democratic Convention adopt the poor peoples platform that calls for a guaranteed family income of $6500 for a family of four. NWRO leaders have scheduled a demonstration on July 10 to focus on the poor peoples platform.

Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice

Reportedly, officials of the PCPJ have announced plans to sponsor a women's march on July 10 calling for an end to the Vietnam War.

National Coalition of Gay Organization

The Coalition represents over 500 Gay Activist groups from the four corners of America. This includes Mattachine people (the first national organization); Gay Liberation Front, Gay Activists, Radicalesbians, Gay youth and many others.

The homosexuals of Gay Liberation would like a campsite on the 21st street beach so they will be close to social and community gay life in Miami. Wherever the campsite is located it will be called the Barbara Beckman Memorial Campsite in honor of one of the founders of the Radicalesbians who was killed in an auto accident in April. Coalition leaders have scheduled a gay "kiss-in" for July 11, the day of the adoption of the Democratic platform.

During the convention members of the Coalition will buttonhole candidates and delegates in an effort to persuade them to include the Gay Coalition platform.

Chief Pomerance's office has notified the Coalition officials that men kissing each other on Miami Beach is illegal and they will be subject to arrest. However, it is not illegal for two women to kiss so only gay men will be arrested.

Black Panthers

The Black Panthers are organizing a whistle stop campaign train from Oakland to Miami in support of presidential candidate Mrs. Shirley Chisholm.

Underground News Media

Dispatch News Service, Liberation News Service, Unicorn, Underground Press Syndicate and many others are organizing to act as the protesters contact with the inner and the outer regions of the world. They have announced plans to send taped accounts of activities to radio and television networks all over the country.

Americans Friends Service Committee

The AFSC (Quaker organization) has announced plans to hold workshops and also will support other groups in their actions. A public hearing at the main library will be held to develop a concise peace platform.

Miami Convention Coalition

The MCC has announced they are planning an "Expose '72" campsite which will be a series of exhibits based on an anti-imperialistic theme developed by various antiwar and research groups.

SPECIAL INFORMATION REPORT

The Rev. Philip Berrigan, an antiwar activist, was convicted and sentenced to six years in prison for destroying draft records in Catonsville, Maryland in May 1968. While in prison, Philip and his brother Daniel organized a group called the East Coast Conspiracy to Save Lives. This group had allegedly plotted to kidnap Henry A. Kissinger and demand as ransom an end to the U. S. bombing operations in Southeast Asia and the release of all political prisoners. Philip Berrigan and several other antiwar activists were charged in January 1971 of this conspiracy, which later resulted in a mistrial in April 1972. Berrigan, cleared of the charges that led to a plot to kidnap Kissinger, was sentenced to four concurrent two year terms for smuggling letters out of the Lewisburg Penitentiary. His full sentence for destroying draft records in Maryland will terminate in February 1974. A group of close friends, relatives and ex-cellmates have announced plans for a week of Resistance and Renewal (October 25 - November 1) in Washington, D. C. as a response to Philip's parole hearing being postponed until January 1973. This group will be known as the Prisoners Strike for Peace who have headquarters at 2121 Decatur Place, N. W.

Recently Ted Glick (one of the defendants in the conspiracy trial) met with the National Park Service and discussed plans for the group's activities which are as follows:

25 October -- An all-day fast and vigil will be held at the Department of Justice (9th and Pa. Ave., N. W.) between 9:00 a. m. and 5:00 p. m. and officials are expecting 50 to 100 people to participate.

26 October -- Organizers are expecting 100 to 150 people to assemble at the Department of Justice at 9:30 a. m., followed by a march to the Pentagon Mall at 10:00 a. m.

[REDACTED]

At 4:00 p. m. the group will march from the Pentagon to Lafayette Park to join the Washington Area Peace Action Coalition to demonstrate against the War. Abe Bloom, one of the leaders of the Washington Area Peace Coalition, has indicated that 1,000 people will participate in the Lafayette Park demonstration and 100 will demonstrate on the sidewalks in front of the White House between 3:30 and 7:30 p. m.

27 October -- The Prisoners Strike for Peace are expecting 100 to 150 to assemble at the Justice Department at 9:00 a. m. and a march to the Federal Bureau of Prisons (101 Indiana Ave. , N. W.) at 10:00 a. m. for a demonstration.

28 October -- The group will assemble at the Justice Department at 10:00 a. m. and at 1:30 march to the Nixon re-election headquarters at which time they will present a petition to the committee headquarters. Five hundred to 3,000 participants are expected. Officials have indicated there will be a possibility of arrests at this demonstration.

29 October -- Nothing scheduled

30 October -- An assembly at the Justice-Department and march to the Nixon re-election headquarters (17th and Pa. Ave. , N. W.) and at which time they will hold an all-day fast.

31 October -- They will assemble at the Justice Department at 9:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m. where they will conduct an all-day silent vigil and 100 to 150 are expected to participate.

1 November -- An estimated 125 persons will assemble at the Justice Department at 9:00 a. m. and march to the Nixon re-election headquarters where they will conduct a sit-in and officials are expecting all to be arrested at this demonstration.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

The antiwar movement shows no signs of dissolving now that the war has apparently ended for the U. S. troops in Vietnam. Leaders of the major peace organizations believe that the era of massive demonstrations is over. Their plans are vague, but the generals of the peace movement want to play watchdog over U. S. forces remaining in Southeast Asia.

The following organizations have announced tentative plans:

People's Coalition for Peace and Justice

Sidney Peck, national coordinator of the PCPJ, and Rev. Paul Meyer announced the formation of a "citizens observation commission." The commission will monitor the implementation of Article II of the Accords guaranteeing "full personal and political freedom to all citizens of South Vietnam." Members of the commission will be composed of leading legislative, religious, and academic figures in the U. S. As soon as the commission is completed and visas secured, the names will be announced. The group will report any infraction of the peace agreement they observe.

A "National Emergency Network" of 5,000 persons has been established by PCPJ to lay the groundwork for new demonstrations should U. S. intervention be renewed.

Reportedly, the PCPJ is considering a plan to demonstrate because allegedly high-ranking U. S. military and civilian leaders have caused war atrocities in Vietnam.

Daily World 26 Jan 73

In another area of activity, the PCPJ is planning strategy to obtain amnesty for those who refused to fight in Vietnam.

Recently, representatives of the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice, the War Resisters League, Catholic Peace Fellowship, Vietnam Veterans Against the War, and other organizations met in New York City to plan a series of demonstrations to be called "The Emergency Project for Saigon Civilian Prisoners." These demonstrations will be conducted in Washington, D.C. to protest the fate of Vietcong civilian prisoners held by the South Vietnamese Government.

Tentative schedule of events is as follows:

20 February -- Reportedly, 1,100 demonstrators (representing the number of South Vietnamese prisoners being released by the North Vietnamese) will conduct a march to illustrate that the North Vietnamese are living up to the terms of the peace agreement. The route of march is unknown at this time.

23 - 24 February -- The above sponsoring organizations will conduct congressional visits to request that tax funds not be spent on South Vietnam and to request an investigation of President Thieu's Regime.

28 February - 1 March -- Tiger cages (symbolic of those used by South Vietnamese to hold Vietcong prisoners) will be set up at the South Vietnamese Embassy and at the offices of certain Congressmen.

FBI IN 850 257 a.m. 9 Feb 73

National Peace Action Coalition

Jerry Gordon for the NPAC plans to have a picket line at the White House on 24 February from 10 to 11:30 a.m. to protest continued U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia. Following the White House picket, demonstrators will march to Lafayette Park for a rally.

N.Y. Times 7 Feb 73

Officials of NPAC are expecting 150 demonstrators to participate in the White House demonstration and 500 to attend the rally.

American Friends Service Committee (Quaker organization)

The AFSC has launched a million-dollar campaign to double its aid to civilian war victims in North and South Vietnam. The fund raising effort will be directed at university communities across the nation. In the past, AFSC has helped organize teach-ins, as well as counseling servicemen and young people facing the draft.

Clergy and Laymen Concerned

The CLC identifies amnesty for draft resisters as one of its postwar issues but isn't sure how it should be promoted. They will begin by lobbying in Congress and attempt to persuade the Administration to grant amnesty. Reportedly, they have considered the possibility of approaching the Rev. Billy Graham on this issue.

Safe Return (An American-based Committee that had alliances with AMEX (Canada) and Up from Exile (Sweden))

Safe Return has announced a strategy conference for exiles and their supporters to take place in Paris 19 - 22 February. Confidential Informant R-1 provided information indicating that a recently-formed chapter of the Students for a Democratic Society in the Lubbock, Texas area, has recently become quite active on the Texas Technological College campus. Information provided by the informant indicated that this organization has demonstrated against and harassed military recruiters on campus and recently published the first edition of their leftist-oriented newspaper, The Forum. A photostatic copy of the first edition of the Forum is attached, as well as some clippings from the university daily concerning this organization and paper.

GENERALAt Dallas, Texas:

On 15 March 1968, Confidential Informant R-1 was contacted and advised that there has been a significant new development in the Lubbock, Texas area concerning Project Resistance. Informant said that this development concerns the newly-formed off-campus chapter of the Students for a Democratic Society in the Lubbock, Texas area.

Informant stated that on the occasion of the visits of military recruiters on the Texas Technological College campus, the Students for a Democratic Society organized a Students to End the War Group, and they placed a table opposite the recruiters' table in the college library where they carried on harassment tactics against the government recruiters.

Informant said that these actions were initially taken against the Army recruiters, who were the first to arrive on campus, and as a result of the actions, the U.S. Air Force recruiters decided not to come on campus and approach Texas Technological College students for careers in the service.

Informant said that during the next week, U.S. Navy recruiters were also harassed while on campus in the same manner and it is felt that this group of Students for a Democratic Society will probably become much more active in the future and it appears that they are making extensive efforts to recruit large numbers of the student body for support.

Informant said that the group recently published the first edition of their paper, The Forum. A photostatic copy of this paper is attached as Exhibit #1, and indicates that it apparently is going to be a monthly publication, at least in its initial stages, as the date on this paper is March 1968. This issue is Volume I, Issue I.

R-1 also provided a photostatic copy of a clipping from the University Daily indicating the debut of the Forum on campus and some initial observations concerning this publication. These are attached as Exhibit #2 to the report.

Attachment #3 is a photostatic copy of an article contained in the University Daily concerning the activities of Students to End the War. The article describes the recent activities of this group against military recruiters as the university's first open opposition to the Vietnam War. It should be noted that the chairman of this group, David ROLOFF, is also the organizer and head of the Students for a Democratic Society in the Lubbock, Texas area.

R-1 stated that it could be expected that if this group is allowed to pursue its present policy, they will most assuredly become more active in demonstrating against and harassing all government recruiters in the Lubbock, Texas area, and it appears that the group is gaining some support from a small segment of the student body and will probably in the future seek official sanction as a recognized on-campus student group. R-1 indicated that as yet, the group does not have this recognition.

OPERATION MERRIMACK SITUATION REPORT
SPECIAL INFORMATION

The information contained herein was advanced by informants of previous proven reliability.

Reference is made to the memorandum submitted 15 November 1967, relative to a composite of information pertaining to Operation MERRIMACK. Particular reference is made to paragraph 4 wherein was noted that the Soviet Woman's Committee was sending two delegates to the United States and requested assistance and support from the WSP.

At a recent Steering Committee meeting of the WSP, [REDACTED] the two Russian women during their stay at Washington, D2C. The Russian women are expected on 16 January 1968, but attempts are being made to have them arrive earlier so as to be present during the Jeannette RANKIN Brigade demonstration scheduled on 15 January 1968.

The information contained herein is submitted for your appropriate action.

65SPECIAL INFORMATION REPORT*Prospects for Disruptive Demonstrations in Washington and Other Cities for Fall 1970*Synopsis

3 October. --March for Victory will be staged without Vice President Ky and with minor counterdemonstration activities and some heckling.

31 October. --Trotskyites will stage peaceful, non-violent antiwar demonstrations in a number of U.S. cities. Turn-out may be disappointing.

4-7 November. --Black Panther Party will assemble the second session of their constitutional convention at Washington. White radicals will participate. Some threat of violence exists but not against the Federal Government.

Fall, General. --Less disruptive than previously. College climate seems somewhat improved over last spring. Terrorism threat will probably continue. Indications are that policemen will continue to be vulnerable in the black community. Kidnappings and assassination threats have been made by new left extremist groups and black militants. No direct threat to the Agency is expected before May 1971.

3 October 1970

Vice President Ky's decision not to take part in the March for Victory rally on 3 October has defused what might have been a nasty confrontation between pro and antiwar forces. With or without Ky, radical right wing fundamentalist radio preacher Carl McIntire will carry on with his Washington plans this weekend. The difference is that Ky's absence removes the target of the antiwar thrust, and to deny McIntire his right to stage a demonstration might cause unjustifiable difficulties for antiwar groups next time. To disrupt the March for Victory minus Ky, staged by and for harmless kooks (a belief widely held by antiwar activists and revolutionaries) might not attract significant participation and popular support and might affect the granting of march and rally permits later. The rallying cry for the counter-demonstration had been directed at Ky, not McIntire. The plan was to arrest the South Vietnamese Vice President as a "war criminal." The National Coalition Against War, Racism and Repression, the newly formed but so far structurally unchanged successor to the New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, has reportedly withdrawn requests for march and rally permits for 3 October (the name change reflects the organization's hope for encompassing a broader spectrum of dissenters--Negroes, labor and welfare recipients and a broader targeting of American foreign and domestic policy). Rennie Davis and William Douthard announced their cancellation of a counterdemonstration shortly after Vice President Ky's decision was announced in Paris.

As for the 3 October weekend, the March for Victory (up Pennsylvania Avenue at noon for speeches and rally at the Monument grounds at 2:30 p.m.) will probably attract no more than (if as many as) McIntire's effort last 4 April when estimates ran between 50,000 and 70,000. Yippie (Youth International Party) plans are unknown. They, Ego, had planned a Ky targeted counterdemonstration, but with Ky not here they will probably produce no more than a few hundred marijuana-smoking hecklers.

It is not believed that this demonstration will disrupt Federal Government agencies.

31 October 1970

National Peace Action Day is scheduled for many cities on 31 October. Activities on this date are under the sponsorship of the National Peace Action Coalition. This Coalition was begun last June at a Cleveland meeting of the Trotskyite SWP-YSA-Student Mobe. The name was adopted because the Trotskyites have picked up some support from nonstudents. Their plans for antiwar activities have been endorsed by some labor leaders and western Mexican-American radicals.

The NPAC can be expected to carry on the unhurried revolutionary philosophy of the SWP, that is, one issue at a time. The issue now is stop the war but relate it to all those values normally embraced by revolutionaries, womens' liberation, poverty, racism, etc. The strategy of the NPAC is legal mass demonstration through the utilization of the Student Mobe, and their style is definitely nonviolent.

Various regional conferences (of which there will be 16 before 31 October) of the National Coalition Against War, Racism and Repression (NCAWRR) may play ball with the NPAC this time. It should be emphasized that NCAWRR has not yet formed a national council and therefore has not yet enunciated a national policy. Basically, NCAWRR philosophy is at odds with the Trotskyites. Their spokesmen believe that future demonstrations should be different from past experiences. Their organizational tendencies are divided over whether future action should be 1) completely nonviolent, 2) nonviolent in themselves but view violent attacks from the ruling class as a good thing, or 3) provoke violence from the ruling class. Supposedly, these divisions developed within the New Mobe following the Cambodian incursion and Kent State incident early last May.

At any rate there will be demonstrations on 31 October sponsored (and directed) by the Trotskyite family of organizations (SWP, YSA, Student Mobe, NPAC). There will be some minor participation by non-students (principally labor) and some as yet undetermined but probably minor support by the more pro-CPUSA factions which adhere to the NCAWRR. The Maoist-oriented Worker Student Alliance faction of SDS, though out of it publicitywise for the time being, will probably pitch in in their stronghold areas (Boston, Chicago, New York and Ann Arbor).

The cities involved are undoubtedly where significant Student Mobe chapters are located. Those named to date are: Atlanta, Austin, Boston, Chicago, Denver, Twin Cities, New Haven, Racine, Columbus, Tampa, Seattle, Washington, Philadelphia, El Paso, St. Louis, San Francisco, Portland, Los Angeles, Niagara Falls, Salt Lake City, Trenton, Phoenix, Providence, and Lawrence. The total of those demonstrating in all cities will probably not exceed last November's highly successful antiwar rally in Washington that reached about 250,000. It will not be surprising if based on President Nixon's continued efforts to disengage and signs of increasing student apathy for marching that the turn-out will be very disappointing to antiwar leaders.

There has been no indication that plans are being made to disrupt the Federal Government. It is not believed that disruptions will occur on 31 October.

1-7 November 1970

The Black Panthers are tentatively scheduling their constitutional convention at Washington during this period. Rennie Davis of the Chicago Conspiracy, former SDS leader, and now NCAWRR spokesman in a recent address to several hundred students at the University of Maryland put forward the Panther intent to use the University's Cole Field House for the event. No formal request has been made (either for the Field House or for the also mentioned Washington National Guard armory), but the Panthers will probably not be allowed to use Maryland facilities.

On Labor Day the first convention session was held at Philadelphia with very minor problems for the police. That session, however, followed a number of police shootings believed perpetrated by Philadelphia Panthers which resulted in several police raids (and weapon confiscations) of Panther buildings. At Philadelphia 40 per cent of the 6,000 in attendance were white radicals and a like number can be expected at Washington. All forces from the American left are now contesting for co-option of this radical political asset. The Davis plea for University of Maryland facilities in behalf of the Panthers was designed to curry favor among the Panther hierarchy. If the Panthers are granted the use of College Park facilities, Davis is a hero; if they are not, he has still gained more favor than he has lost.

Washington will be somewhat disrupted by the Panther visit but not the Federal Government. Probable site of the convention is Howard University.

Fall, General

Aside from those mentioned, no fall protest demonstrations of consequence have been publicized. Events have both the power to trigger action (the Cambodian incursion) and defuse it (Ky's cancellation). The tide of the Vietnam War, the Paris peace talks, and plans the President may have for additional troop reductions (after 15 October) may influence the zeal of those protesting. Another Cambodia would probably be at least as disruptive on American college campuses as last time.

If the present trends continue, however, in the events in Southeast Asia, strategy of university administrations, reasonable presidential campus visibility (the Kansas speech has brought virtually no criticism--a very good sign) and slightly improved student political climate, it can be predicted that this fall will not be as disruptive as last.

With regard to terrorism, new left extremist groups (Weatherman for instance) have threatened violence against police installations by bombing, arson and assassination. They have also threatened the so-called establishment including U.S. Government officials. Tom Hayden, veteran new left philosopher, in an August address to the National Student Association convention glorified Tupamaros kidnappings in the Argentine and the killing of the Marin County judge by black escapees (the episode for which Angela Davis is being sought). The New Years' Gang, the group allegedly responsible for the bombing on 24 August on the University of Wisconsin campus, has also threatened "open warfare," kidnapping of important officials and even assassinations. Although much of such talk can be dismissed as radical hyperbole, it must be conceded that a relatively small band of dedicated and determined revolutionaries (reportedly there exist about 300 Weathermen broken into small communes usually headed by women; the communes are distributed in major American city slums) could reach many terroristic goals. Although the probability of Latin American style kidnappings may not be great in the U.S. at this time, the possibility should not be lightly dismissed. It would be consistent with the belief of several highly regarded political theorists (Dr. Louis Feuer for one) that once the revolutionary ideal fails to be transmitted to and accepted by the general population, that the movement (in this case Weatherman) commits suicide through acts of political terrorism.

Bombings and arson will probably continue principally of unoccupied buildings that radicals regard as manifestations of repression and American imperialism (ROTC structures, campus research facilities sponsored by the Defense establishment, and police buildings). Police officers will continue to be vulnerable in Negro communities.

It is not believed that an immediate threat to CIA exists. Planning continues to appear targeted for early next May. In a recent press release, a spokesman for the NCAWRR stated that in mid-April 1971 an ultimatum will be presented to the Government to either end the war by total disengagement by 1 May 1971 or face a government close down by preventing employees from reaching their government offices. It is believed that CIA will be a prime target at that time.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORTHIGHLIGHTS

I. Anti-Draft Week. --Next week (16-22 March) the big three of the anti-war protest, the New Mobe, the Vietnam Moratorium Committee and the Student Mobe will stage Act II of the winter-spring end-the-war offensive.

The New Mobe, a supercilious peacenik cum communist conglomerate of over 100 organizations ranging from the hyper-naive (American Council of Churches) to the doctrinaire dedicated radical revolutionary (CPUSA) appears to be playing the leading role in the broad protest community. The New Mobe's vocal and more violence prone little brother, the Student Mobe, is directing its attention to the college and high school campuses. The Student Mobe, incidentally, is the child of multistripped communism. It was conceived in the mid 1960's and sired jointly by the CPUSA, the SWP and the PLP. Two years later the CPUSA opted for increased emphasis on its very own W. E. B. du Bois Club, the Maoist PLP felt more mileage was being obtained through infiltration of the radical SDS and the Trotskyite SWP moved into sole control and domination of the then college campus oriented Student Mobe. The "Trot" catalyst was the party youth appendage, the Young Socialist Alliance.

Today all major Student Mobe leadership posts are held by YSA'ers and most of these YSA'ers also hold credentials in the parent party. The Student Mobe is probably the largest radical political entity on the American college scene today. It must be conceded that the Socialist Workers Party has shown the most realistic and imaginative organizing and structuring capacity among the old left monoliths in infiltrating and involving the university and high-school student community. The SWP provides money, philosophy, and guidance. The YSA plays the traditional revolutionary vanguard role among the youth, and the Student Mobe provides the mass movement support by rallying to the classic "worthy cause." Unfortunately, too many Student Mobe joiners just don't read the facts, know the history, or realize the super dupe-sucker role to which they have been relegated by a mere handful of talented and crafty professional revolutionaries.

The VMC's piece of next week's action is, compared to the others, minor. The VMC'ers for all of their rhetoric are showing signs of being upstaged by the more sophisticated communist organizers and agitators. The names of VMC leaders who were practically household words last October and even into the mass November demonstrations (Sam Brown, David Hawk, Marge Sklencar, etc.) are seldom mentioned this time.

The national press seems once again to have been co-opted into fulfilling the propaganda and publicity requirements of the anti-war coalition leftists. The lengthy reporting of the statements of such fuzzywits as former Alaska Senator Ernest Gruening, such radicals as Women's Strike for Peace' Cora Weiss, a raft of perverse peacenik preachers, hippies, and activists such as Tony Avirgan have sounded a clarion call to revolutionary impressionables.

The entire week is to be devoted to anti-draft activities in 100 major American cities in an effort to close down, at least for a day, most of the country's 4100 draft boards. The tactics will be mostly traditional but a few new wrinkles will also be introduced this time. Protest leaders in leaflets and brochures have distinguished between legal actions and illegal ones so as to provide a means for all desiring to participate to "do their thing." There will be placard carrying picket marches, "haunt-ins" and "comply-ins" (legal) and civil disobedience "sit-ins," "chain-ins" (illegal) and "confrontation dialogues" with draft board officials and workers (illegal if it obstructs the business of the board.)

The so called "comply-ins" will take protest and obstruction advantage of obscure tenets of the Selective Service law to paralyze local boards with unneeded and unwanted (but technically required) information. All male citizens born after August 30, 1922, should be registered. Additionally, registrants are required to inform their draft board of all things which may affect their classification. Boards are required to keep everything sent and add it to the registrant's file. A New Mobe leaflet recommends mailing (registered mail--return receipt requested) daily reports on the registrant's health, bibles and books that have influenced the registrant's thinking (for a possible claim to conscientious objector status) and other large objects. The objective is to drown the draft board in its own bureaucracy.

The "haunt-in" is designed to harass members of local draft boards. Demonstrators are urged to determine where board members work and live and to picket them all hours of the day and night.

Other activities on the week's agenda will be organizing a draft card turn-in and conducting a "we won't go" petition circulation among those too young to be draft card carriers. Campus military recruiters are probably in for a week of nastiness. Petitions signed by as many draft resisters as can be obtained will also be turned into the Senate Armed Services Committee for its meeting scheduled later in March. The guerrilla theater will stage the usual bizarre and immature (and according to the critics not particularly well-acted) dramas in front of selected boards, mainly on March 16. The groups will portray the condemning of boards as public health hazards and place them in quarantine. New Mobe leadership has also suggested setting up a lottery at a public rally to decide which local board or recruiting center to block. Washington area campuses will host "teach-ins" on the 17th.

Although next Thursday (the 19th) is the designated major protest day when a march on the National Selective Service headquarters will take place at about noon (and a coffin filled with draft cards will be presented to Acting Director Colonel Doc Ingold) activities will be conducted the entire week. Women's Strike for Peace will demonstrate at the White House on the 18th.

Next week's demonstrations are a sure bet to produce violence in some areas. The interruption of induction processing on March 18 is also planned and will pit draftees against activists. Although spokesmen for the New Mobe and Student Mobe are preaching non-violence and state that they will not forcefully enter draft boards or destroy draft records, the climate for violence has been created by the radical leadership and broadcasted by the legitimate and underground press. The organizing machinery at the Washington headquarters is well experienced and relatively efficient. Leaders predict that several thousand demonstrators will be arrested. The prediction will probably be accurate. There will also be bruises, black eyes and bloodied heads, mostly among the sheep, few among the shepherds.

II. Age of the Bomb. -- The classical tool of anarchy, the bomb, is being used with increasing and alarming frequency in recent weeks. Broadly reported in the media in past days have been the old Cambridge Courthouse and the Featherstone autoblast, both probably connected with the Rap Brown prosecution underway (but presently recessed until 17 March) at Bel Air. Probably of greater significance, however, was the apparent accidental self-destruction of the SDS bombworks at New York. Two very prominent new lefters were directly involved, namely Cathy Wilkerson, long-time activist (much of her efforts and energies spent in the Washington area) in whose father's house the slipshod manufacture was in progress, and Ted Gold. Gold, blown to bits in the basement, was a confederate of Mark Rudd at the Columbia University riot in 1968. He later, it seems, found Weatherman not radical enough (or violent enough) and became associated with the "Mad Dogs," a manifestly extremist splinter from Weatherman, principally known to exist in the New York area. One other victim so far has been dug from the debris along with SDS radical literature, dozens of dynamite sticks and hundreds of cap fuses. Cathy and a girlfriend escaped the building, apparently after the first blast but before the entire house was engulfed. Reportedly one of the two women was naked and the other partially so.

Actually, bombs have been going off for months now but isolated enough so as not to attract much national attention. Earlier in the winter there were a few explosions in New York, Oakland, Pittsburgh and Seattle. During the third week in February, however, many American cities were terrorized by planned and concerted bombings in nearly every major city. Hardest hit were New York and the San Francisco Bay area. In New York a police station and a Navy recruiting office were fire-bombed. Four Molotov cocktails were hurled at the home of Justice John Murtagh, presently presiding judge at the trial of the 13 Panthers. At Berkeley, New Leftists and street people went on a destructive rampage throwing bombs at the police station and damaging 16 police cars and seriously injuring a police officer. In the Haight-Ashbury section of San Francisco a precinct house was bombed, spraying glass and steel splinters into a room occupied by 12 policemen. Nine men were injured and one later died from a metal fragment that entered his eye and tore into his brain. The underground Berkeley Barb, after the rash of bombings, observed "All the cops around Park Station (Haight-Ashbury) wear the faces of men at war.... The faces at Park Station are the faces of American patrols coming back from a night with the Viet Cong. The face of being struck with a war where the natives used to be friendly. But this war is at home." See 15 March Addendum, p. 9.

CALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time, or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

13 March to 28 April, Washington, D.C.

Clergy and Laymen Concerned about Vietnam and the Pacifist Fellowship of Reconciliation are still carrying on their Lent to Passover fast and picket of the White House. The event which has now lost its newsworthiness is no longer being publicized in the press.

March, San Jose, California

The Radical Action Movement faction of SDS at San Jose State College reportedly is planning to close the Student Union there during industrial recruiting (Career Days) in March.

14 March to 1 May, California

The University of California Ecology Action organization at the Berkeley campus will stage a "survival walk" from Sacramento to Los Angeles. Between 100 and 200 marchers are expected to participate with other persons joining for rallies along the way. A major stop is planned at Delano, center of the chronic grape pickers labor strife. Presently, along the ecology line, Mexican-American grape pickers are protesting the use of pesticides in the field. Other stopping points along the way will be Stockton, Modesto, Merced, Fresno, Visalia-Tulare, and Bakersfield. The "survival walk" will terminate on Wilshire Boulevard, Los Angeles, probably on 1 May.

15 March, California - See Addendum, p. 9.

16-22 March, Nationally

(See Highlights -- Anti-Draft Week) Although individually sponsoring separate activities, the three main coalition umbrellas of anti-war, anti-establishment dissidents: the New Mobilization Committee, the Student Mobilization Committee, and the Vietnam Moratorium Committee: are jointly supporting one another's actions and with heavy overlapping of membership and leadership, most activities will represent combined effort. As part of the "back to the grass roots" winter-spring planned activities, March is intended to be highlighted by concentrating on anti-draft actions with the emphasis in the week of 16-22 March. The 19th has been selected as the day of large scale, non-violent confrontations with draft board employees.

 17 March, Bel Air, Maryland

The H. Rap Brown trial scheduled to resume after a one week recess. See Highlights--Age of the Bomb. 140.

 20 March, Asheville, Alabama

Reportedly the United Klans of America plans a massive rally at the courthouse in protest of Nation of Islam (Black Muslim) activities in St. Clair County. Monthly Civil Summary 12/20/70

21 March, New York City, New York

Women's liberation groups throughout New York are planning a demonstration at Bryant Park to support the legal challenges being brought against New York State abortion laws. Daily News 3/21/70

22-29 March, National

A National Black Referendum on Vietnam has been organized to allegedly determine whether or not Black people favor the immediate withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam. According to one piece of organizational literature, "Official voting will begin Palm Sunday, 22 March, and continue daily that entire week, ending on Easter Sunday, March 29, at 2 p.m. Voting stations will be all Black churches participating in the campaign, in every Black community throughout the entire U.S." Supplied by the organizers of the Referendum is a kit of literature giving instructions on propagandizing and conducting the Referendum and expressing a strong stand against the war. The likes of Ossie DAVIS, Julian BOND, LeRoi JONES, Dr. George WILEY, and H. Rap BROWN are on the National Executive Council of the Referendum. Irving DAVIS of SNCC is one of the national program coordinators. Bulletin 3/20/70

How many "votes" will be tallied is conjectural but not the result--which will obviously show almost all those voting to be for the ballot's one simple proposition: the total, immediate withdrawal of all American troops and money from Vietnam.

23-26 March - 8:30-10 p.m. EST, National Educational TV

National Educational Television (NET) will devote an unprecedented 6-hour block of prime time March 23-26 for the showing of "Trial--The City and County of Denver vs. Loren R. Watson." The documentary marks the first time that the complete scope of a single trial is examined on an American television program.

The program is broken into four 90-minute portions to correspond with the trial's four days. As a result, the usual NET schedule has been preempted so that these portions may be presented on successive nights (Monday through Thursday) from 8:30-10 p.m. EST.

Loren Watson, the defendant in the trial, was arrested by a Denver patrolman and charged with resisting and interfering with a police officer. "The issue has national implications, involving police and Panthers, the American system and the blackman," notes Don Dixon, NET's director of public affairs programming. "The case is really a microcosm, reflecting one of our country's most critical concerns." The antagonism between Watson and the Denver police forms a subcurrent within the trial and is a basis of Attorney Leonard Davies' defense of Watson.

"We wanted to represent the ritual drama of American justice," says producer Robert M. Fresco. "Therefore, everything within the trial is placed chronologically in the documentary." Within four days, Fresco has interspersed interviews with Watson, Davies, Judge Zita Weinshienk, Assistant City Attorney Wright Morgan, prosecutor in this case, and police officer Robert C. Cantwell, who made the charge against Watson.

NET Journal--"Trial--The City and County of Denver vs. Loren R. Watson" will be seen on most of the public television stations across the U.S. that are interconnected by NET. Local broadcast times and dates may vary, however.

24 March, National

A full-length documentary film, "King: a filmed record... Montgomery to Memphis," will be at approximately 1,000 theaters in 300 cities across the country. A nationwide goal is to raise 5 million dollars for organizations dedicated to fighting the war on poverty, illiteracy and social injustice. All funds collected will go directly to the Martin Luther King Special Fund in Atlanta.

*25-29 March, Denver, Colorado

A major conference of Chicanos will be held in Denver at the end of March. The conference is sponsored by the militant Crusade for Justice, a leading Chicano force in the southwest headed by Corky Gonzalez, and will run from March 25 to 29. Chicano groups are expected from all parts of the country. Puerto Rican activists have also been invited. It is the second such Chicano parley. Last year a Chicano conference in Denver drew 1500 persons. A three day Chicano Youth Conference March 25-27 will open the parley.

On March 28, Chicanos will convene to discuss El Plan de Aztlán which calls for the formation of an independent local, regional and national Chicano political party. A National Congress of Aztlán has been called for March 29. The congress will discuss a program for a nation "autonomously free, culturally, socially, economically and politically." El Plan de Aztlán provides the underlying theme for the conference. The program says that Chicanos "must use their nationalism as the key or common denominator for mass mobilization and organization."

Aztlán is the name that the Aztecs and other Indian tribes used to describe a certain segment of territory to the north of their lands. Chicanos refer today to that section of the southwest in the United States, comprising Arizona, New Mexico and part of Texas, Colorado and California as Aztlán and the home of the Chicano people. "Our struggle then must be control of our Barrios, campos, pueblos, lands, our economy, our culture, and our political life," the plan states. The program says that "economic control of our lives and our communities can only come about by driving the exploiter out of our communities, our pueblos, and our lands and by controlling and developing our own talents, sweat and resources."

Among the positions are community control of the schools, and restitution for past economic slavery, political exploitation, ethnic and cultural psychological destruction, denial of civil and human rights and for "self defense of the community." "Cultural values of our people strengthen our identity and the moral backbone of the movement. Our culture unites and educates the family of La Raza towards liberation with one heart and one mind," the program reads. "Political liberation can only come through an independent action on our part, since the two party system is the same animal with two heads that feeds from the same trough. Where we are a majority we will control; where we are a minority we will represent a pressure group; nationally, we will represent one party--La Familia de La Raza."

The conference will include numerous workshops on social revolution and culture.

*29 March to 3 April, Quebec, Canada

A "Cultural Exchange Meeting" has reportedly been planned to attract anti-establishment students from throughout the world. The gathering will also allegedly include U.S. military personnel who have sought refuge in Canada.

*15 April, Nationwide

April anti-war activities planned by the New Mobe, the Student Mobe and VMC will be the concluding phase of their major three pronged winter-spring offensive. It will center emphasis on taxation for the war, etc. Details of April plans will be reported in subsequent Situation Information Reports.

*Addendum - 15 March, California

The Mendocino County (California) Sheriff on March 12 telexed an all points bulletin warning of a major bomb threat for 15 March. The general prime target is public utilities, presumably in northern California, but the precise target(s) have not been indicated. The sheriff's office at Ukiah has alerted military installations, National Guard units, all law enforcement agencies, utility companies, and major industrial complexes. No further details are known at this time.

SOURCE: Government and news media.

RELIABILITY: Probably true.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

As predicted in the Situation Information Report of 26 September, the SDS-Weatherman Chicago demonstrations were a flop, at least organizationally, and the leadership faction (Weatherman) is in bad disarray. Instead of the 5,000 liberticidal protestors (and rioters) expected by the National Office, at most, Chicago officials estimate, 700 to 800 (of which 200 believed to be hard core and several hundred believed to be just unkempt bystanders) rowdy anarchists took part. Misguided firebrand Mark Rudd (along with about 30 percent of his revolting army) is in jail. One youth (Brian Flanagan of Southampton, New York) has been charged with attempted murder after his attack on Richard Elrod, Chicago's assistant corporation counsel and has been released on $100,000 bond. Reportedly, Federal government investigators are looking into the weekend's strife and will probably lodge charges of violating Federal anti-riot laws.

SDS's RYM2 faction (as well as the supersympathetic Black Panthers, with whom RYM2 has been playing footsie in recent weeks), which has, from the June Weatherman nascency, been outspoken in its opposition to the Rudd-enunciated, "Shock brigade" tactic, has now disassociated itself from the national hierarchy. RYM2, which has no elected office holders (they decided to throw in with Weatherman last June), is regarded to be in the hands of "revolutionary communist" Mike Klonsky, last year's cunning and able N. O. chairman. RYMers have reportedly taken over the SDS New York office and sent the New York Weatherman scampering.

Student support and participation in Weatherman can be expected to diminish even more and RYM2 will probably: 1. drop the SDS name and become the Revolutionary Youth Movement (or organization, or Alliance, or caucus, etc.); 2. adopt a more old left doctrinaire approach to revolution; 3. involve itself in fewer bloody police confrontations; 4. keep applying pressure on the Establishment "soft spots" such as the draft, the war, ROTC, and maybe even go back to civil rights, in the revolutionary manner (RYM2 philosophy on this score holds that the Negro right of self-determination is a pre-condition to the successful initiation of "socialism" in the U. S., Weatherman holds that first should come the revolution) and

5. return to the concept of alliance, perhaps even courting a reconciliation with the PLP-SDS.

In the meantime, the great right hope, the moderately conservative, Young Americans for Freedom is experiencing the split syndrome. Begun in 1960 in Connecticut (by prominent rightist William Buckley), YAF now numbers over 50,000 nationally. Of this number, YAF spokesmen admit many are very casual members who cannot be counted upon to engage in new right activism.

As for the split, last summer's national convention broke YAF into two basic camps (coincidental with the SDS experience in Chicago). These camps reportedly are weighted about 60-40 in the Buckley faction "traditionalist" favor. Traditionalism in contemporary conservative jargon means faith in anti-communism, morality, Christianity, and patriotism. The opposition, the Libertarians, on the other hand, idealize laissez-faire capitalism (free markets and elimination of Government controls) and extreme individualism. Many former Libertarian new rightists have joined with various hippies and New Leftists in an attempt to translate their individualism into "life style" radicalism. Some feel if Libertarians can join with the new left in achieving goals like ending the draft, legalizing marijuana, decentralizing Government and "making people more free" - then why not.

The Libertarians (and interested new leftists) feel that the traditionalist "Big Enemy," communism, is vague in Buckleyesque thought. To traditionalists, those things which the communist conspiracy instigates or gains from become the enemy too; thus if freedom riders become targets for southern racism and brings bad publicity to America they become part of the enemy. More currently, if radicals disrupt campuses, interfering with the status quo they too are enemies regardless of their color or position on the political spectrum. In broad terms, the enemy of the YAF traditionalists is any agent which weakens America.

Many of the Libertarians find Buckley's posture immoral. They dislike communist governments because they believe in Anti-statism but they find no logic in supporting the equally evil Fascism to defeat communism. When Buckley comes out against legalized abortion and supports laws against pornography the individualists see him, and his faction, as an enemy of freedom. Because of their worship of tradition, the Buckleyites are labeled by the counter-section as irrational, superstitious, altruistic and non-objective.

To further complicate the picture, the traditionalists who presently hold control are further split. Half (perhaps slightly more than half) want peace and legal action on campus and half advocate violent confrontation with SDS. This fissure creates the potential for an even greater influence by elements of the Libertarian faction into national YAF leadership. If in coming months, the Libertarians succeed in mustering sufficient forces for control of YAF, the unfairly maligned patriotism of Buckley's traditionalists will be isolated on the American Youth scene and the only remaining major difference between new left and right will be the concept of national economics.

In what appears to be purely an act of arrogant defiance to the University of California Regents, leftist head of the UCLA Philosophy Department, Donald Kalish, has assigned black militant, admitted-communist, Herbert Marcuse protégé, Angela Davis, two additional courses to teach. Perhaps one widely accepted university practice, that of faculty tenure (which after a number of years renders a professor immune to dismissal - usually except on moral grounds), quite obviously should be reformed - and promptly. Kalish seems determined to bring the Davis appointment to a court test in California and doesn't seem to care if a highly potential and disruptive student demonstration ensues or not.

Miss Davis, aside from her Black Philosophy course, is now slated to teach "Kant and Idealism" (Kant is the 18th century German philosopher best known for his formulation of transcendentalism, and his belief, though unprovable, in the existence of God and the concept of immortality. See Situation Information Report, dated 26 September 1969) and Dialectical Materialism (the philosophical foundation of communism). Miss Davis seems eminently qualified to teach these two additional courses but her emphasis most assuredly can be expected to be contrary to the national interest.

House Internal Security Committee has opened an investigation of the BPP and the PLP to determine, among other things, if they are helped by "foreign Communist powers." The Committee wants to know the extent to which these groups use violence to achieve their goals, how they are financed and, Chairman Ichord

(D-Mo.) said, "the extent to which they may act in concert with, aid or assist, or be supported by foreign Communist powers, their agents or nationals."

The third week of the Chicago trial of the "Conspiracy 8", for their activities during the Democratic National Convention, witnessed a number of stormy sessions. The prosecution was permitted to show two television films to establish the leadership roles of several of the defendants, over the protest of defense attorneys who claimed the films were only excerpts chosen by the Government to prove its point and who protested at great length.

Great dissension in court also occurred following a refusal by Judge Hoffman to recess the trial in observance of nationwide anti-war protests to be held on 15 October, or to permit the eight charged with conspiring to incite rioting during the 1968 Democratic National Convention anti-war protests to absent themselves to speak at the 15 October 1968 (moratorium day) anti-war protests. When Defense Attorney Weinglass stated that it might be impossible for several of the defendants to attend the 15 October session, Judge Hoffman ordered each to be in court, indicating that they could be held in contempt for failure to appear.

The prosecution objected to a recess, charging that some of the defendants had been photographed meeting with militant SDS demonstrators who went on rampages in Chicago on Wednesday evening, October 8th, and Saturday afternoon, October 11th. One of the defendants, Tom Hayden, an original organizer of SDS, admitted at a news conference later that he gave a speech to the radical Weatherman faction of SDS on Wednesday before its members smashed windows and attacked police; but claimed he had no knowledge that SDS members planned violence and vandalism. Dellinger, during a lunch recess conference, protested not being permitted "to go out and join those demanding peace" and charged that the prosecution and the judge were "in collusion" to prevent a fair trial.

Meanwhile, outside the court, the four day SDS demonstration sponsored by the ultra-militant Weatherman faction to protest the trial of the "Chicago 8" was in progress. Two of the demonstrations, that on Wednesday evening and that on Saturday afternoon, resulted in rampages involving the destruction of private property and attacks on the police. The first, and much more violent of the two, was commented upon in last week's Situation Report. The second, on the final day of the demonstrations, occurred during a protest parade for which the Weathermen had obtained a permit, when a group of more than 250 persons, upon a signal from their leaders, broke from the march and rampaged for the distance of about a block, smashing windows (with rocks and bricks which they had concealed in their clothing) and attacking police. During the bloody encounter which followed, 103 persons were arrested and 23 police officers, 2 city legal officers, and an Assistant Corporation Counsel, Richard Elrod, were injured. Elrod, Chief City Prosecutor, is reported to have suffered a broken neck and is paralyzed from the neck down. All this, despite the fact that on 9 October approximately 2500 National Guardsmen were brought into the city and stationed in 6 Armories at the direction of the Governor. Two 150 man Guard units were called out after the violence erupted.

This final day of the demonstrations, Saturday the 11th, started with a pre-dawn raid on an Evanston church, by Chicago and Evanston police, which resulted in the arrest of forty-three members of the SDS Weatherman faction, including two of four targets of the raid charged with participation in the SDS violence in Chicago's Near North Side on 8 October. (During the four days of SDS demonstrations, members of the Weatherman faction stayed in three Methodist churches in Evanston, as well as at several spots in Chicago; and during the evening of 10 October, an undercover policeman was beaten in Evanston's Immanuel Methodist Church when an SDS member recognized him as one who had arrested him earlier in the week.) Later in the day, and just prior to the Weatherman sponsored march, Mark Rudd, National Secretary of SDS and leader of the Weatherman faction, was arrested with four others.

According to an FBI Report of 14 October, 290 arrests were made during these demonstrations in Chicago, of which 226 were of persons from outside the city. Of those arrested, 82 were women and 105 were students. 65 police officers were injured. The report noted that demonstrators of both RYM I (Weatherman) and RYM II factions of SDS, other than those in jail, were said to have left Chicago. It was reported on 12 October, that the National Guard had been released.

Controversy between SDS factions continued throughout the four days of the demonstrations; and at the end, the RYM II faction was reportedly refusing to consider a reunion with the Weatherman faction until the latter rejects as unrealistic its tactics of violent confrontation.

Though a spokesman has claimed "total success" for the Weatherman demonstrations "to bring the war home", reports indicate that any "success" was marginal at best, with many scheduled demonstrations having been cancelled. Typical of much of the planned action was a march by the "Women's Militia", to "destroy" the local military induction center, which was nipped in the bud when police moved into Grant Park to make arrests. The thousands called to Chicago never materialized and only three or four hundred joined the marches.

As a Washington Post article put it, "It was not war or revolution" that the demonstrators brought to Chicago, but "merely the senseless hooliganism of enraged street gangs." The Chicago police, incidentally, have been credited with using great restraint; and public reaction to any violence has been such that the Chicago Moratorium Committee, which had planned a candlelight procession on the eve of Moratorium day, abandoned the idea. National officers of SDS are reported to be discouraged over the lack of public support and to be in need of funds.

Support of the "Chicago 8" has been evidenced in several areas other than Chicago, and on 10 October, about fifty persons in Los Angeles attended a rally on their behalf which was sponsored by the Committee to Defend Political Prisoners, a group which the FBI says has the support of the Communist Party. On 8 October, a representative of the Japanese Communist League contacted the national office of SDS and stated that the Japanese Communist League and the Socialist Students League of Japan were supporting the Chicago demonstrations.

On 22 October 1969, the birthday of defendant Bobby Seale, National Chairman of the Black Panther Party, the BPP plans to demonstrate at the Federal Courthouse in Chicago, in an effort to have its members admitted to the courtroom. On 25 October, the New Mobilization Committee will march from Grant Park to the Chicago Civic Center Plaza to support the "Conspiracy 8" and will call for an end to the war in Vietnam.

OPERATION MERRIMACK - Special Report

On 1 May 1968, a MERRIMACK source overheard a colored man make the following statements:

"It's a lot of information on Stokely Carmichael and H. Rap Brown that the public don't know about. Such as Stokely's true name is Peter MILLIGAN and Rap Brown's name is John GREEN. They both are young and have been to every college there is and are working for the communists - and when I say the communists, I mean CIA. That's who is paying the bill."

- Civil Defense Center advised CIA Watch Office afternoon of 15 May that the American Nazi Party at a press conference on this date advised that they had changed the name of their organization to the National Socialist White Peoples Party with offices located at 806 North Taylor Street, Arlington, Virginia. They advised that membership has increased 15% since ROCKWELL's assassination. They are holding a rally on 31 May at the Sylvania Theatre and are planning to take an active role in the Washington area this summer. They advised that they have every intention of controlling the situation if it gets out of hand.

OPERATION MERRIMACK - Special Report

A reliable source reports that at the present time there is a conflict between _____ over the publicity which the press is giving the SCLC at Resurrection City. _____ wants to keep the press out of the city until it is functioning in an orderly manner, but _____ wants all the publicity he can get.

It is the understanding of those working with the Poor Peoples Campaign that there is confusion among the staff people and that no one seems to know what is going on. It is believed the radical elements are attempting to take over the Poor Peoples Campaign from Dr. ABERNATHY.

POOR PEOPLE'S CAMPAIGN

1. The mass demonstration originally planned for 30 May has been re-scheduled for 19 June 1968 and will be known as Solidarity Day. The rally was re-scheduled reportedly because the earlier date would have made activities after the rally anti-climatic.

Poor People's University

3. Organizers of the Poor People's Campaign intend to establish a Poor People's University in the Washington, D. C. area. Last week it was reported that supporters of the Program had met with representatives of the Consortium of five area universities (American, Catholic, Georgetown, George Washington and Howard) in order to obtain the use of classrooms, dormitories and other facilities on their campuses.

On Tuesday, 21 May, the five universities denied the use of their classrooms and dormitories for the Poor People's University. However, American University, in a shift in its policy, announced that it will provide 17 classrooms from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily from 29 May to 16 June in the 1900 block of F Street N.W. Brady TYSON, the American University coordinator for the project, also announced that AU would make office space, telephones and office equipment available to the Poor People's University Program in the 2000 block of G Street N.W.

George Washington University announced this week that it would sponsor a week-long "workshop on poverty" in June. At the same time, George Washington Assistant Vice President, John CANTINI, was supplementing its 20-man security staff by hiring ten guards from the Wackenhut Corporation for an indeterminate period. This was in anticipation of possible outside interference with the orderly operation of the University when several thousand college students are expected to arrive in Washington for the Poor People's University. George Washington's "workshop on poverty" will run from 3 June through 7 June featuring lectures and discussions on poverty, race, housing, employment, economics and social organization.

Reacting to Georgetown University's refusal to provide classrooms and facilities to the Poor People's University, 20 Georgetown University students held a five-hour Thursday sit-in outside the office of the Georgetown President. The students left, however, after the presidents of the College and East Campus Student Councils promised to arrange a meeting on Friday between the protesters and President Rev. Gerard CAMPBELL.

While Georgetown, as of Thursday, was not providing facilities for the Poor People's University, it did announce that it would make its athletic fields available to Resurrection City children between the ages of 6 and 12. The University apparently will try to provide transportation to its fields each morning between 31 May and the beginning of its summer session on 17 June.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

An Analysis

POOR PEOPLE'S CAMPAIGN

The death of Martin Luther KING, Jr., the lack of a dynamic leader to replace him, the weather and poor timing may cause the Poor People's Campaign to possibly end with Solidarity Day on 19 June without the high degree of violence that had been feared. The stimulating force (the students), which the Campaign appears to have been dependent upon, may not be as strong as hoped for simply because by 19 June school will be out and consequently the students may lack the cohesiveness there may have been if such a rally had been held during the school year.

This is not to say however that there will not be agitation within the next 2 1/2 weeks. The FBI has reported that anti-war groups are forming in Washington, D. C. to coordinate anti-war groups coming to Washington for Solidarity Day. The Worker, in its May 21st issue, has made a strong appeal for another anti-war demonstration saying that there has not been any activity in the U. S. since April and that another "peace drive" is urgent. It complains that since the Paris talks have begun the North Vietnamese alone have had to carry the burden of pressing for an end of the war in Viet Nam.

Stoney COOKS, SCLC Coordinator of Campus and Student Activities, has visited a number of colleges in an effort to have students participate in the Poor People's Campaign. It has been estimated that 5,000 students will arrive in Washington during the next two weeks. 500 students are reported to have already arrived. SCLC efforts to form a Poor People's University in which the students will participate, utilizing the facilities of five area colleges (Howard, American, Georgetown, George Washington and Catholic), ran into a snag last week. Thus far only Howard and American Universities have agreed to provide classroom facilities but not dormitory space to house the students. This effort still persists however. This week the Rev. Walter E. FAUNTROY, Chairman of the Washington City Council and local SCLC head, appealed to the presidents of Washington universities to reconsider their position.

The potential for violence in Washington, D. C. will depend upon the success that the Communists and Black Militants have in their united effort. It is felt, however, that if violence occurs, it will center around the war in Viet Nam rather than around any efforts the poor people may make to better their plight.

80SITUATION INFORMATION REPORTTrends and Developments, WDC, Week ending: 31 May 1968POOR PEOPLE'S CAMPAIGN

Reports continue to highlight the difficulties that SCLC Poor People's March leaders are having in controlling the dissension and internal strife which exists among the participants in the Campaign. Besides the foreseeable emotional stresses accompanying such a protest movement and the gathering of a heterogeneous mass in close proximity under adverse conditions of weather, housing, feeding, etc., the differences in goals, ethnic backgrounds and degrees of participation in both numbers and leadership of the various minority groups has shown marked increase of incidents and tension between Spanish Americans, Mexicans, Indians, whites, and Negro groups. Maintenance of a workable degree of harmony will probably become increasingly difficult as time passes and the initial novelty of the Campaign erodes. The arrival of assorted student groups, which will include militants of all colors and persuasions, must increase the tensions.

1. An additional element which will add to the difficulties and the threat of both internal and external explosive situations is the projected increased participation by the Puerto Ricans. Reportedly some 50,000 Puerto Ricans are expected to travel to Washington, D. C. on 8 June, mostly from New York City and New England, to demonstrate in behalf of the poor. The one-day demonstration will be in sympathy with the Poor People's Campaign and 50 to 100 Puerto Rican families will move into Resurrection City.

2. The Puerto Rican March in Washington is intended to dramatize the plight of more than 1,200,000 Puerto Ricans who live in the U. S., 800,000 of them in New York City, many in dire poverty or on the borderline.

The Puerto Ricans feel they have special problems somewhat different from the Negro and will maintain their identity while coordinating their efforts with the Poor People's Campaign. Their own march will begin 8 June. In Washington they plan to set up a shanty town adjunct to Resurrection City for some 50-100 Puerto Rican families now on relief.

3. A number of instances of picketing have occurred recently by members of the Puerto Rica Independence Movement (MPIPR) which is described as a militant nationalist extremist group. Reportedly it is aligned with Castro's Cuba and maintains representation at the Havana Secretariat of the Tri-Continental Conference of African, Asian and Latin American people which sponsors and supports wars of liberation. The MPIPR has sponsored numerous demonstrations against U. S. policy in Viet Nam and compulsory military service for Puerto Ricans. One of its leaders reportedly has boasted that the MPIPR has a special underground task force which is ready to commit sabotage and violence. It is suspected that some MPIPR members have been to Cuba for sabotage and guerrilla training.

Bayard RUSTIN, organizer of the 19 June mobilization in Washington, D. C., intended to climax the Poor People's Campaign, will issue a "call for mobilization" on 5 June 1968.

RUSTIN has announced that he hopes to bring 50,000 students to Washington, D. C. for the Solidarity Day mass demonstration.

RUSTIN has appointed Joshua MURAVCHIK, a student at City College of New York, as "youth coordinator".

Ed SCHWARTZ, president of the National Student Association, has said that student government leaders at the 350 schools which belong to NSA would work to bring in bus loads of youngsters from all over the country.

Also participating in the effort is the U.S. Youth Council, to which religious and liberal organizations belong.

Objectives of the Demonstration

RUSTIN announced the objectives of the 19 June demonstration in a "Call to Americans of Goodwill". Among the objectives which RUSTIN listed as attainable in the current session of Congress were:

- a. A million Federally financed "socially useful career jobs" in public works.
- b. Repeal of the controversial welfare "freeze" in last year's social security bill (the freeze will be delayed until mid-1969 if the tax bill passes).
- c. Restoration of "Budget cuts" in the Elementary-Secondary Education Act and Economic Opportunity Act, with special stress on bilingual education, summer jobs and Head Start.

RUTHERFORD explained this to LEVISON because LEVISON is opposed to the choice of a mid-week date on the grounds that adults would be unable to participate. Despite RUTHERFORD'S explanation for the choice of the date, LEVISON remained critical of it.

June 68 23SITUATION INFORMATION REPORTPOOR PEOPLE'S CAMPAIGN

National Day of Support - "Solidarity Day"
Rescheduled from Memorial Day to 19 June

A massive demonstration has been planned for 19 June in Washington, D.C. purportedly to show a united front in support of the goals of the Poor People's Campaign. Originally scheduled for Memorial Day 30 May, SCLC leaders upon realizing they were unable to cope with the organizational requirements of such a "demonstration", turned to Bayard RUSTIN, the leftist black civil rights leader, who was the chief coordinator and organizer of the Civil Rights Rally held August 1963 in Washington, D.C. RUSTIN reportedly accepted the role of National Coordinator on several conditions - one, that it would be postponed until 19 June to enable proper planning and to make it the climax of the PPC; and secondly, that he would have a strong hand in reshaping the nebulous demands of the PPC. RUSTIN subsequently issued a "Call to Americans of Goodwill" - a declaration of the objectives of the PPC - placing them in categories of immediate, intermediate and long range goals. Although ambitious in tone, they were generally accepted as being more moderate and specific than those variously demanded by the SCLC, and as having some chance of being fairly substantially attained.

SCLC leaders have since denied that RUSTIN's mission was anything more than to act in a Public Relations and march coordinating capacity for the June 19 march, and Hosea WILLIAMS and Reverend ABERNATHY have stated the RUSTIN directive does not nearly go far enough to satisfy SCLC. RUSTIN and his aides have since insisted that the statement and action was properly in his agreed upon sphere of activity and, in fact, had been approved by ABERNATHY and other SCLC leaders prior to its publication. RUSTIN has reportedly given SCLC leaders until Noon, 7 June to begin negotiations toward giving him complete authority or he will withdraw.

Whether a genuine conflict has developed on this matter between SCLC and RUSTIN or whether this is a further propaganda ploy designed to keep government leaders off balance has not been ascertained. However, as previously reported there is information that indicates Stanley LEVISON, influential SCLC advisor, who has been identified as a secret member of the CPUSA, expressed strong dissatisfaction with RUSTIN's stated goals and said they do not even go as far as those reflected by the President's Commission on Civil Disorders.

A conflict does appear to exist and if it is not resolved, it is possible that RUSTIN, who is generally believed to have opposed the PPC and the SCIC leadership initially, might withdraw his support and organizational ability from the June 19 demonstration. The fate of the March, in that event cannot be foreseen at this time. Sterling TUCKER, Executive Division of the Washington Urban League, is the Deputy Coordinator of the March and most probably could not adequately fill in as Chief Coordinator. Nor can the effect of the recent tragic assassination of Senator Robert KENNEDY and such other events as may transpire in the intervening period, be accurately assessed. A stiffening attitude on Capitol Hill, continued incidents reflecting strife and hostility within the PPC, as well as such PPC connected events as the senseless murder of two Marine officers in Georgetown may result in a strong demand by the citizenry that the demonstration be cancelled or at least be reduced to a token representation. In addition to the foregoing, it must be assumed that local and federal authorities are well aware of the increasing danger that militant blacks, the lawless elements, and assorted groups of Communists and extremists are quite likely to see in the 19 June demonstration an opportune time to create and take advantage of incidents with a view of causing as much havoc and disorder as possible.

There are so many variables existing at this time that it is impossible to accurately predict either the size or the nature of the group that will participate in "Solidarity Day", if it takes place on 19 June as planned. Estimates have ranged from 100,000 to 1,000,000 participants and it is believed that RUSTIN's goal would be to at least match the 250,000 figure that took part in the 1963 rally.

Although this Solidarity Day would purportedly be to show purport of the PPC and its goals, there is indication that it will also have a strong Anti-Vietnam War slant and it is soliciting support from many groups - a number of which are more directly active in student militancy and opposition to the War. Among those likely to be included:

1. A large number of both the "inner-city" and "metropolitan" area population either as individuals or as representatives of various civic, welfare, church, and other organizations. This figure which would cover a mixture of blacks, whites, and others could easily vary from a few thousand to many thousand depending upon the tension and climate at that time. Also from the local scene would probably be a fairly large number of students, extremists of both the right and left, and the usual number of curious on-lookers. Obviously, a large number of local, state and federal employees will be actively involved by reason of their positions. This would necessarily include police, firemen, medical personnel, sanitation and military personnel. Another group sure to be in considerable force are those associated with the communication and news media.

2. It has been variously estimated that from 5,000 to 50,000 students will take part. RUSTIN hopes for 50,000 and has said that several hundred college student body Presidents would issue a "call" on 5 June for "mobilization". Ed SCHWARTZ, President of the NSA, said student government leaders at the 350 schools which belong to the National Student Association would work to bring in bus loads of youngsters from all over the country. Also participating is the U.S. Youth Council, to which religious and liberal organizations belong.

A large percentage of the student group, whatever its number, will be the campus militants and activists. Those already on the scene as part of the so-called Poor People's University will be augmented by many more. Hippies, black nationalists, anti-draft protesters, and radicals will be in force. For most of them, the aims of the IPC are secondary, if of interest at all, and opposing the Vietnam War is their main interest.

3. The CPUSA has indicated its support of the PPC. It most surely will be represented by both its open and secret membership, either as individuals or as members of fronts or other groups. It is understood that Stanley LEVISON, identified above, at a conference on 2 June was still opposing the choice of 19 June for the mass march because it will be in the middle of the week and adults will, in many cases, be unable to participate. He was still critical even after it was pointed out that the date was selected in order that students could participate. (FBI TWX 4 June - informant probably reliable).

It is a reasonable presumption that this mass demonstration will, for many reasons, result in a closing down of most government and private institutions in the District of Columbia and surrounding area for much of the day 19 June.

The Progressive Labor Party is expected to have representation here and presumably will be forearmed to take such advantage as possible from the occasion.

4. RUSTIN has indicated that among the Labor Union groups expected to evidence their support both by participating in the march and by donation of funds, is the United Auto Workers which will send some 2000 representatives.

5. A goodly number of public figures of all faiths and persuasions will "demonstrate" their support by making an "appearance". The political, governmental, entertainment and private business sectors will be represented.

6. Such groups as the NAACP and National Urban League as well as many religious denominations have been urged to give full support. A national call to church people to join the 19 June "support march" for the Poor People's Campaign in Washington has been issued by the National Council of Churches. A call to Unitarian Universalist churches throughout the nation to send people here also has been made.

It must be expected that a goodly number of those who participated in the 1963 rally will return for this demonstration.

7. RUSTIN has indicated that an effort will be made to recruit some 1600 marshals from fraternal organizations of the Negro members of the N.Y. Police, Fire and other Municipal worker groups. Efforts to utilize colored police and military veterans from other parts of the country are to be made. Likewise an appeal has been made soliciting the assistance of those who served as marshals in 1963.

Whether RUSTIN's efforts can be coordinated with SCLC leadership remains to be seen. The obvious emphasis is on "black" control. It may be expected that the marshals currently active in Resurrection City and PPC activities will be given Solidarity Day assignments. Coordination and organization of the various facets of this proposed mass demonstration will be a tremendous task. All participants are to arrange their own transportation to the Capitol. RUSTIN has already made requests to the D.C. and federal government agencies for assistance in connection with first aid, sanitation, and other matters.

The program planned for the day has not been announced at this time but seems to intend for a huge gathering at the Washington Monument at 10:30 A.M. followed by a march to the Lincoln Memorial at 1:30 P.M. Entertainment, speeches, and music will be offered. Because of the close proximity of the Resurrection City encampment to the demonstration site, it will be difficult to get the anticipated large crowd into the area near the Memorial. Loud-speaker outlets will be located throughout the area.

*A dissident faction of the American Independent Party has announced that it has taken steps to form a continuing national organization. A temporary national committee was formed by 150 representatives from fourteen states at a two-day convention in El Segundo, California, last weekend.

The committee's main objectives would be "assistance to all state parties in preserving their ballot qualifications, and retention of the A. I. P. as a legally constituted national party." The committee will meet early in 1969 in Tulsa, Oklahoma, to form a regular national committee.

March 1969

Appeal of the conviction of Dr. Benjamin SPOCK; Rev. William Sloane COFFIN, Mitchell GOODMAN, and Michael FERBER for conspiring to urge others to break the draft law is expected to come before the Supreme Court in March.

On 4 November, attorneys for Dr. SPOCK filed a statement in the U. S. Court of Appeals that the conviction violated their constitutional right to free speech. They filed ten issues on which they hope to overturn the conviction, raised the question of whether conviction was "based upon constitutionally protected speech."

March 3

Memphis, Tennessee - James Earl RAY, accused assassin of Martin Luther KING, Jr., switched from Attorney Art HANES to Attorney Percy FOREMAN, just prior to scheduled beginning of his trial 12 November. Although Attorney HANES said the switch "was a delaying tactic pure and simple," Judge W. Preston BATTLE said he had no choice but to delay the trial and it was postponed until 3 March 1969 - this date seems also to be a tentative one as Attorney FOREMAN indicated he didn't believe it gave him adequate time to prepare his case.

April 1969

The 19th Annual Convention of the CPUSA has been scheduled for this time.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

POOR PEOPLE'S CAMPAIGN

Solidarity Day 19 June 1968

Its Objectives And Who Will Attend

As of 10 June 1968: There is no definite information which has been reported indicating which groups are coming to participate in the mass demonstration on 19 June 1968.

During this past week there has been considerable disagreement among the leaders of the Poor People's Campaign over the objectives which the planned mass demonstration on 19 June in W. DC is to support.

Bayard RUSTIN, originally named on 19 May 1968 to direct the mass demonstration, attempted on 3 June 1968 to delineate clear understandable objectives which he felt would be attainable during this session of Congress. These were:

- a. A million federally financed "socially useful career jobs" and public works.
- b. Repeal of the welfare "freeze" and last years social security bill.
- c. Restoration of "budget cuts" in the Elementary-Secondary Education Act and Economic Opportunity Act, with special stress on bilingual education, summer jobs, and Head Start.

These objectives have been reported to be legitimate demands of the poor people and attractive enough to draw support in the demonstration from the following organizations:

- a. The National Association For the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP)

The NAACP is the largest, oldest and most conservative of all civil rights groups. Roy WILKINS is the director. The NAACP has termed attempts to merge the civil rights movement with the peace movement as "a serious tactical mistake", noting that civil rights battles should be fought "on their own merits", irrespective of the state of war or of peace in the world.

b. The National Urban League

The National Urban League stresses economic progress for Negroes in housing, education, jobs and so on. The director of the National Urban League is Whitney YOUNG. The organization has dictated the use of persuasion rather than pressure and economic sanction in the realization of its objectives. In late 1966, however, the Associate Director of the N.U.L. Urban League advocated a militant solution to the problems of big city ghettos replacing reasonableness with demands, picketing, boycotts and court actions. Despite this, the militants were unsuccessful, according to press reports, and the moderates remained in control of the National Urban League.

c. The National Council of Churches

The National Council of Churches represents 34 protestant and Eastern Orthodox denominations with about 42,000,000 members. On 7 June 1968 the National Council of Churches adopted a policy approving peaceful civil disobedience as a "valid instrument" with those who seek to correct injustice. The Rev. Truman E. DOUGLASS, Chairman of the Council's Division of Christian Life and Mission, said that this did not mean that the National Council of Churches approved of draft resistance. He said the Council might disagree with the action of an individual but it will defend his right to follow his conscience.

d. The National Student Association (NSA)

The NSA is a liberal organization of college students which claims representation on 350 campuses. The international office of NSA was formerly of interest to this Agency.

e. United States Youth Council (USYC)

The United States Youth Council, formerly known as the Young Adult Council, is affiliated with, among other organizations, the World Assembly of Youth (WAY). The Young Adult Council and the World Assembly of Youth has formerly been of interest to this Agency in its youth and student programs. Its president is James B. FOWLER.

The United States Youth Council attempts to provide a unified coordinating force among youth and student groups; to promote activities by them in the fields of human rights and social justice in this country and international cooperation abroad.

f. The American Jewish Committee (AJC)

The AJC, whose executive vice-president is John SLAYSON, consists of 22,000 members. It coordinates programs of education and human relations; combats bigotry; and protects religious and civil rights.

g. The Roman Catholic Hierarchy

Non-specific

h. Labor Unions

Non-specific references. However, it has been reported that the United Automobile Workers (UAW) planned to send some 2,000 representatives in support of the Poor People's objectives as announced by Bayard RUSTIN on 3 June.

RUSTIN'S announced objectives of the 19 June march demonstration led to criticism by Poor People's Campaign leaders, notably Hosea WILLIAMS, the direct action leader in WDC.

and James BEVEL, one of ABERNATHY'S aides and SCLC Washington, D. C. Campus Coordinator. Stanley LEVISON and Harry BELMONT were reported by the FBI to be highly critical of RUSTIN'S objectives. LEVISON told ABERNATHY that RUSTIN made no mention of a guaranteed income. Militants were upset over the fact that RUSTIN did not relate the objectives of the Poor People's Campaign to the Vietnamese War which the younger more militant Negroes have been advocating by the use of violence-filled rhetoric in their pursuit of non-violence. These younger groups have linked poverty, racism and opposition to the war in Vietnam in what has been called a "sick society".

RUSTIN consequently resigned his position as March Coordinator on Friday, 7 June. On the same day, ABERNATHY named Sterling TUCKER, Director of the Washington Urban League, as the new director of the March. TUCKER accepted this position on Sunday, 9 June 1968 in the "how call" sought for support of the 19 June mass demonstration. TUCKER described this new position as an almost impossible job. In an attempt to appeal to both the moderates as well as the militants and other doubtful supporters, TUCKER announced a revision of RUSTIN'S demands upon Congress to include:

- a. A lessening of the war and world violence and
- b. Establishment of strong gun control.

In an effort to allay the fears of moderate sympathizers, TUCKER also announced a commitment by the leaders of the Poor People's Campaign to avoid:

- a. Acts of violence, and
- b. Acts of civil disobedience.

According to reports, the afore mentioned amendments to the objectives of the March as announced by RUSTIN, may be designed to attract the support of such organizations as the Congress of Racial Equality led by CLOYD KENNEDY and the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee of which the most notable member is Stokely CARMICHAEL.

The Congress of Racial Equality (CORE)

The Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) was established in the Spring of 1942 by James FARMER and Jim ROBINSON. Originally it was considered one of the more moderate "civil rights organizations". Since the early 1960's, it has gradually increased in militancy and has become increasingly separatist, black supremacist and ideologically aligned with the so-called new left. CORE claims 80,000 members in 200 chapters.

The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC)

The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee was organized in April 1960 in Raleigh, North Carolina. Originally its claimed purpose was to bring about the integration of southern "lunch counters and movie theaters." However, in recent years SNCC has deviated grossly from this primary purpose and has been in the forefront of a number of more recent violent racial disturbances in the country. SNCC has:

1. aligned itself with the Havana-based Latin American Solidarity Organization (LASO), a Castro-led network of guerrilla fighters whose primary aim is to export revolution in Latin America and among the Negro population in America;
2. Openly assailed Zionism and accused the Israelis of committing atrocities against the Arabs;
3. Openly exhorted Negroes to refuse to be drafted into armed services of the U.S.;
4. Through its immediate past chairman, Stokely CARMICHAEL, aligned itself organizationally with the so-called Black Liberation Movement of the U.S. and has called for the "overthrow" of the present government and the start of "the real Revolution" in the U.S.

As of 11 June 1968: According to a Special Information Report on Friday, 7 June, a head count was taken at a meeting of the Washington Ethical Society to determine how many were interested in attending the March on 19 June. It was also reported that the New York Ethical Cultural Society plans to send a bus load of members to attend the 19 June mass demonstration. Tentative plans are that the group from New York will meet at the Washington Ethical Society and proceed to the staging area on the day of the March.

The Washington Ethical Society (WES)

According to its own statements, the Washington Ethical Society is a liberal, religious fellowship founded upon the views that the development of ethical values is properly the central and unifying purpose of a free and humane faith. It was founded in 1913 and is a member of the American Ethical Union which in turn is responsible for the promotion and coordination of the affairs of national ethical societies such as the Washington Ethical Society and the New York Society of Ethical Culture. The Washington Ethical Society has supported many of the demonstrations and marches agitating for peace in Vietnam. It recently supported the mobilization for peace demonstrations which took place in April 1967. The local leader of the Washington Ethical Society is Edward L. ERICSON.

At the Friday, 7 June meeting of the Washington Ethical Society, there were a group of flyers entitled "A Call To National Action In Support Of the Poor People's Campaign" which those in attendance at Friday's meeting were being urged to take and distribute throughout the Washington Metropolitan Area. A xeroxed copy of this flyer is attached.

Seven student leaders, under the auspices of the National Student Association, pledged a "new youth commitment" to end poverty and predicts "at least 25,000 students will join the 19 June mass demonstration".

All sources are being utilized to attempt to identify specifically the groups which will definitely participate in the 19 June march demonstration. When this information is ascertained, it will be reported promptly.

Reports to date indicate that the Poor People's Campaign may very well have a difficult time to organize a large mass demonstration in the 9 days left to Sterling TUCKER and his assistant, David P. RUSK, the 27-year-old son of the Secretary of State.

In an editorial in the Washington Star dated 11 June 1968, the statement is attributed to Sterling TUCKER that "success of the March will not be determined by numbers in any event but the spirit of the organization and by the manner in which it is carried out".

Stanley LEVISON recently stated that he feels the Campaign will have to change its tactics in view of the assassination of Senator Robert F. KENNEDY. LEVISON feels any kind of militant action would now be critical.

POOR PEOPLE'S CAMPAIGN

SOLIDARITY DAY 19 JUNE 1968

General

* * * * *

Organizations Definitely and Possibly Participating In the March

As of 14 June 1968:

The following organizations have announced that they will participate or support Solidarity Day:

A. Americans for Democratic Action (ADA)

The ADA has announced that it would support Solidarity Day.

B. American Ethical Union (AEU)

The AEU has announced that it would participate in Solidarity Day. The American Ethical Union, according to its own statements, is a federation of local ethical societies (30) in the U.S. It is a national organization of the Ethical Movement, a religious fellowship. It is affiliated with the American Humanist Association (AHA) and shares joint offices with the AHA at 312 6th Avenue, S.E., Washington, D. C. The director of the Washington office is Raoul KULBERG, formerly of the Washington Greater Council of Churches.

C. American Humanist Association (AHA)

The AHA has its office in Yellow Springs, Ohio and a Washington office cited above claims membership of 6,000 and founded in 1941, according to its own statement. Humanism presupposes man's sole dependence on natural and social resources and acknowledges no supernatural power. The AHA has announced that it will participate in the Solidarity Day March.

D. Central Labor Council

The Central Labor Council has announced that it will support the Poor People's March. No further information is available.

E. The Greater Washington Council of Churches

The Greater Washington Council of Churches has urged more than 900 clergymen of the Metropolitan Area to support Sterling TUCKER and the objectives of the Poor People's Campaign. Dr. Charles L. WARREN, Executive Director, in a letter to ministers pledged the Council to join in the 350 local ministers of the Negro Baptist Ministers' Conference and their congregations in support of the Campaign.

F. Medical Chirurgical Society of Washington

This Society has announced that it will support the Poor People's March. No further information is available.

G. Methodist Board of Christian Social Concerns

This organization, also known as the General Board of Christian Social Concerns of the Methodist Church, 100 Maryland Avenue, N.E., Washington, D. C., announced that it would participate in the Solidarity Day March. According to its own statements, it conducts programs of research, education and action in 33 areas of Christian social concern, including among others, disarmament and space control, civil liberties and race relations. Its General Secretary is A. Dudley WARD.

H. Metropolitan Conference of Citizens

This organization has announced that it will support the Solidarity Day March. No further information is available.

I. National Association of Social Workers

This organization has announced that it will support the Solidarity Day March. No further information is available.

J. The National Student Association (NSA)

The NSA has issued the following statement: "We support the Poor People's March and urge students to join the mobilization in Washington on 19 June." A marathon telephone campaign is on to turn out students. The NSA is a liberal organization of college students which claims representation on 350 campuses. The international office of NSA was formerly of interest to this Agency. Signers of the statement by NSA cited above were announced as:

1. Sam BROWN - Youth Coordinator for Senator Eugene McCarthy
2. Ed SCHWARTZ - President of NSA
3. David BUSH - Chairman of Campus Young Democrats
4. Richard GILBERT - Youth Campus Campaign Staff for Vice President Hubert Humphrey
5. Robert HARRIS - Youth Coordinator for Governor Nelson Rockefeller

6. Mrs. Susan OLIVER - Staff member of the former Kennedy Youth Action Committee

7. Craig TREGILLUS - Staff member of Campus Americans For Democratic Action

More than 100 names identified as student body presidents of various colleges were reported to appear on the statement also.

K. Negro Baptist Ministers' Conference

The 350 local ministers of this organization and their congregations announced that it would support the Solidarity Day March. No further information is available.

L. Robert T. Freedman Dental Society

This organization has announced that it will support the Poor People's March. No further information is available.

M. Stop The War In Vietnam

This organization has announced that it will support the Solidarity Day March. No further information is available.

N. Unitarian Universalist Association

This organization is believed to be identical with the Unitarian Fellowship for Social Justice and has announced that it will support the Solidarity Day March. It has chapters throughout the U.S. with National Headquarters at 245 2nd Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. The UUA participates in an annual National Workshop For Religious Liberals and has been addressed by such figures as former Senator Paul H. Douglas, Joseph L. Rauh, Jr. of the ADA and Saul K. Padover. Topics such as capital punishment, church and state, integration and human rights and U.S. involvement in Vietnam are usually discussed. The Rev. Phillip F. BERRIGAN, first Catholic priest to participate (67), recently was convicted for destroying Selective Service Records. The United Unitarian Universalist Women, believed to be associated with this group, has announced that it will participate in the Solidarity Day March.

O. Women Strike For Peace (WSFP)

The WSFP has announced that it will participate in the Solidarity Day March. A pacifist group, it is actively opposed to U.S. policy in Vietnam. WSFP works with other peace organizations as SANE, The Women's International League For Peace and Freedom. Members of the WLFP have in the past traveled to Indonesia, North Vietnam, and Paris, meeting with the Vietnamese from both the North and the South.

P. Women's International League For Peace and Freedom (WLFP)

The WLFP has announced that it will participate in the Solidarity Day March. This is an international peace organization of women which states it has three goals:

1. Total and universal disarmament
2. Economic and social well-being of individuals and the protection of their civil rights
3. A world organization functioning democratically within the framework of law for the settlement of international economic and social cooperation.

It is generally conceded to be slightly "left-wing" and has been the target of the Communist Party at both national and international levels. There have been allegations of communist influence in some sections of the WLFP from time to time. Available information reflects (as of 1966) that persons identified as Communist Party members are active in the various branches of the WLFP.

Q. The Washington AFL-CIO

This organization has announced that it will support the Poor People's March. No further information is available.

R. The Washington Board of Rabbis

This organization has announced that it will support the Poor People's March.

S. The Washington Committee To End the War In Vietnam

This organization has been described as an anti-war group which has been distributing leaflets urging a peace contingent to march in the Solidarity Day March. This Committee picketed the White House in January 1966 for the purpose of inducing the President to continue the moratorium on the bombing of North Vietnam. At that time the demonstrators were led by one Abe BLOOM who has been described as an individual who wholeheartedly supports Communist Party policies.

T. The Washington Teachers Union (WTU)

This organization has announced it will support the Solidarity Day March. Charles CHENG, an assistant to the President of the WTU, has been active during the Poor People's Campaign in forming Freedom Schools which teach black history. He recently suggested that the marchers carry such placard slogans as "guaranteed annual income", "U.S. Government is racist", and "end troop occupation in the ghetto."

U. The Washington Ethical Society (WES)

According to its own statements, the Washington Ethical Society is a liberal, religious fellowship founded upon the views that the development of ethical values is properly the central and unifying purpose of a free and humane faith. It plans to participate in the Solidarity Day March in conjunction with representatives from the New York Society of Ethical Culture. The WES has, as of 7 June, been attempting to distribute flyers entitled, "A Call To National Action In Support of the Poor People's Campaign". The WES has participated in demonstrations calling for peace in Vietnam in the past.

[REDACTED]

Special Notice

A group from the Students for a Democratic Society, (SDS), a militant youth group opposed to the United States policy in Vietnam, plans to join the Poor People's Campaign in Washington, D. C., (and may participate in the March.) It's original purpose in visiting D. C. was to demonstrate at the Office of Education on 14 June 1968.

A. Students for a Democratic Society (SDS)

The SDS has been holding its annual convention at Michigan State, in East Lansing, Michigan, during the week of 10 June 1968. On the 12th of June, a workshop was held on "Sabotage and Explosives" which was attended by thirteen individuals. The methods to disrupt Selective Service activities and the police were discussed. Suggestions included sending letters dipped in combustible materials, flushing bombs through toilets to destroy plumbing, using sharp metal instruments to puncture tires on cars, the jamming of radio equipment, firing of Molotov cocktails from shotguns, the use of electronic firing devices, and the dropping of bombs down manholes to disrupt communications. One individual who attended the workshop is to form an information center to follow technical information concerning explosives.

In addition to the organizations cited above, the following organizations are also reported to be attending the Poor People's March:

- A. United Automobile Workers
- B. Leadership Development Group, Cleveland, Ohio
- C. Metropolitan Atlanta Summit Leadership Conference
- D. Buffalo UAW Local 1173
- E. Transport Union of America

- [REDACTED]
- F. Synagogue Council of New York City
 - G. Protestant Council of New York City
 - H. Hotel and Motel Union
 - I. International Union of United Radio-Machine Workers of America, Trenton, New Jersey
 - J. New Concepts (formerly Wichitans Concerned About Vietnam, Wichita, Kansas)
 - K. The Congress of Racial Equality from Kansas City, Missouri
 - L. Nashville Interfaith Poor People's Campaign from Nashville, Tennessee
 - M. Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party, Jackson, Mississippi

The Organization of the March

The following schedule of activities has been announced for Solidarity Day, 19 June 1968.

0600 hrs.	Assembly at Sylvan Theater, Washington Monument grounds.
1000 -1230 hrs.	Participants arrive - entertainment provided.
1230-1330 hrs.	Proceed from Sylvan Theater to Lincoln Memorial via Independence Avenue.
1330-1430 hrs.	Speeches - speakers unknown.
1630 hrs.	Disperse.

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

The following additional information concerning the organization of the March has been reported subsequently.

The permit granted for the March will allow the marchers to start assembling at 5 a. m. on the Washington Monument grounds. Entertainment will begin at the Monument at 10 a. m. with the march to the Lincoln Memorial at noon. There will be a three-pronged march consisting of a column on either side of the Reflecting Pool with a third column down the west-bound lane of Independence Avenue. At 2 p. m. the formal program will begin at the Lincoln Memorial. The permit requires the demonstration to be completed at 4:30 p. m. Sterling Tucker has stated that at that time busses would begin returning out of town. Solidarity Day demonstrators home.

Solidarity Day Objectives

The objectives of Solidarity Day as announced on 12 June 1968 are as follows:

A. Legislative Demands

- (1) Passage of the Jobs Bill sponsored by Senator Joseph Clarke, D-PA., to provide 2.4 million jobs in both the public and private sectors of the economy over the next four years.
- (2) Passage of the Administration's Omnibus Housing Bill originally aimed at wiping out substandard housing in the nation by providing six million new housing units over the next ten years.
- (3) Repeal of the "freeze" and compulsory work requirements of the 1967 Social Security amendments pertaining to welfare families.

B. Demands from the Administration also called Priority Demands

(1) Department of Agriculture

- (a) Food Programs in all 1,000 neediest counties which will have full participation of the poor.

- [REDACTED]
- (b) Issuance of free food stamps to no income and extremely low income families.
 - (c) Emergency distribution of supplementary food in those counties among the 256 hunger counties cited by the Citizens Board of Inquiry whose present food program failed to reach a substantial number of poor.
 - (d) Immediate expansion of the quantity of commodities distributed and substantial improvement of the quality and variety of the food given under the commodity distribution program.
 - (e) Substantial increase in the number of free and reduced price school lunches for needy children.

(2) Office of Economic Opportunity

- (a) Establishment of a plan whereby a specific number of promising sub-professionals at local levels can be brought up to the local regional and national OEO staff.
- (b) Specific guidelines for citizen participation and simple appeals procedures and forums for all variety of complaints.

- (b) Endorsement of the pending administration housing bill in this session of Congress.

(6) Justice Department

- (a) Greatly increased numbers of school suits against northern school districts.
- (b) Greatly increased numbers of employment suits to end discrimination.

(7) State Department

- (a) Establishment of an inter-agency committee consisting of representatives of the poor and the Department of State, Justice and Interior to study the question of legal ownership of the lands under the Treaty of Guadalupe-Hidalgo.
- [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

(8) Interior Department

- (a) Establishment of a Model School System for Indian children in the community where they live.
- (b) Establishment of a plan for creating jobs and housing on Indian reservations.

Estimated Number of Participants

As of 14 June 1968 based on information received from the Army on the number of busses coming to Washington, D. C., it is estimated that 15,000 will be in that group. The National Students Association (NSA), is attempting to have 25,000 students participate. Assuming NSA is successful, it would appear at this time that the total anticipated as of this date is 40,000.

Latest Information

A confidential Source of the Office of Security has advised that the NSA representative at the Students for a Democratic Society convention at Michigan State University has found SDS response to be somewhat cool in his efforts to recruit students to attend Solidarity Day on 19 June 1968.

The following additional organizations have been reported to be supporting Solidarity Day.

A. The National Board of the YWCA

National board members and other marchers from the "Y" will be using the "K" Street headquarters as their base when they arrive for the march on Wednesday.

B. The National Council of Negro Women

This organization which is comprised of dozens of womens groups, both negro and white, is hoping to raise a contingent of 1,000 women from eastern seaboard citizens. It is reported that it already has a commitment from 200 women.

C. Montgomery County Non-Poor Support Group for the Poor People's Campaign

This group will support and possibly participate in the Solidarity March.

D. The National Board of the League of Women Voters

This organization which has agreed to support the Poor People's Campaign objectives intends to send a sizable contingent to the march.

Black Militant Participation

Other than what has been reported there has been no indication indicating participation in the Solidarity Day campaign by Black militant organizations, however, on 13 June it was reported that Charles Jones, head of ACCESS (Action Coordinating Committee for Ending Segregation in the Suburbs), and a member of the Black United Front (formed in January 1968 by Stokely Carmichael and consisting of 75-100 local civil rights leaders in Washington, D. C.), criticized march leaders for not inviting the Black United Front to a meeting of organizations in Washington which pledged their support to the march. This meeting was held on the evening of 12 June in the Turner Memorial A. M. E. Church, 600 "I" Street, N. W. Jones is quoted as having said that the first thing you should do is recognize where the black community is and I hope you will recognize that the Black United Front is where the power is.

On page seven of the Situation Information Report of 14 June 1968, it was reported that a group from the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), a militant group opposed to the United States policy in Vietnam, planned to join the Poor People's Campaign in Washington, D. C., and demonstrate at the Office of Education on 14 June 1968.

On 14 June 1968 Rudolfo Corky Gonzales, one of the leaders of the Mexican/American contingent and a group of 100 demonstrators, met with representatives of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) at the HEW auditorium. Gonzales was accompanied by one Marc Steiner of the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), Washington, D. C. Steiner is reported to have stated that the problems of poverty are caused by the United States capitalist, racist society. Steiner predicted many more riots on campuses throughout the United States similar to the recent riots at Columbia.

At the end of Steiner's speech, Gonzales stated that Steiner would someday be the leader of the "New Lincoln Brigade." Gonzales praised the Lincoln Brigade of the 1930's which had done so much good in Spain in fighting the fascists.

Six unidentified militant negroes were also present at the meeting from Howard University. The negroes made the remark that "King had a dream," but "we have a secret" and in September if these demands are not met, the United States will know the secret.

The meeting at HEW concluded at about 1315 hours and the group of demonstrators retired for a rally of government employees at the Reflecting Pool.

During the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) convention at Michigan State University, East Lansing, Michigan, during the week of 10 June 1968, the SDS called for its members to participate in the Solidarity Day march of 19 March 1968 in order to support the Poor People's Campaign and to publicize SDS' own issues such as anti-draft and anti-imperialism. The SDS officially announced that militants would participate in the Solidarity Day march. The SDS expected federal troops to move against Resurrection City on Solidarity Day and called for a mobilization for that day.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Guerrilla Warfare Advocates in the U. S. A.

Because of the pertinence and timeliness of the recently issued HCUA report titled, "Guerrilla Warfare Advocates in the U. S. A.", pertinent information therein has been summarized and reproduced for such dissemination as may be deemed desirable.

Their weapons will include molotov cocktails, acid bombs, sniper rifles, phosphorous matches, hand grenades and machine guns, among others including a "simple, silent but deadly" weapon which is "most potent at night", the poisoned dart. Other statements spell out the strategy tactics, devices and weapons of groups and individuals who hope to launch guerrilla warfare against the U.S.

HCUA chairman, Congressman Edwin E. WILLIS, in a foreword to the report, expresses the view that guerrilla warfare plotters in this country would pose little danger to the U.S. if this country "did not face an international communist threat with the ever-present possibility of its being militarily engaged in other parts of the world".

Suppressing guerrilla warfare operations in the U.S., however, would pose "a most serious problem", he said, if they were launched simultaneously in a number of major cities while our military forces were committed "in substantial numbers" to actual combat in a number of other areas in the world.

"The threat of guerrilla warfare may be completely dissipated within a few years, or it might be greater than it is today", he added. "Meanwhile", he said, "the committee is releasing the report as part of its duty to inform the Congress and the American people of matters warranting their attention, if our national security is to be preserved."

CHAPTER I - Communist Concepts of Guerrilla Warfare

Communists throughout the world have utilized the methods and operations of "guerrilla warfare" to harass, and in some cases destroy, those governments they oppose. The format used is based on the use of small armed bands of irregulars to create anarchy and terror throughout the general population as a means to frighten and "awaken" the populace of a specific region to the political goals of the communists. The only way guerrilla warfare can succeed is through the tacit support, or ambivalence, of a large segment of the general population. This warfare differs distinctly from "conventional warfare" in that it demands a military operation that is fluid and in which the guerrillas, operating in "bands" rather than armies, never directly confront the government forces in massive or decisive battles. To annihilate big enemy manpower and liberate land, guerrilla warfare must eventually move to mobile warfare. It is essential to base most operations in the countryside and attempt to make it impossible for the government to separate potential and actual guerrillas from the rest of the population. Cuba demonstrated three important principles:

1. Popular forces can win against the army.
2. It is not necessary to wait until all conditions for making revolution exist; the insurrection can create them.
3. In underdeveloped America the countryside is the basic area for armed fighting.

Other factors are usually also necessary for a guerrilla victory:

A campaign must be conducted on an international basis to make it politically unfeasible for the opponent of the guerrillas to continue resisting.

The guerrillas must have a privileged sanctuary to which they can retreat either within the country or, more likely, an area in an adjacent country which gives aid and comfort to the guerrillas.

Communist organization and control of the guerrilla operation must be concealed in order to win support and aid of the general populace and in waging the international propaganda campaign. The purpose of concealing the communist's creation of a guerrilla movement and the use of a communist front apparatus to run that movement is to neutralize those who can be neutralized and to divide the enemy in order to strike at him more effectively with all forces that can be united.

CHAPTER II - The Revolutionary Action Movement (RAM)

The overt ramifications of the international communist schism are reflected in the communist movement in the U.S. The CPUSA reflects the viewpoint of the Soviet government, while the Progressive Labor Party (PLP) and some black nationalist, semi-Marxist groups advocate a policy closely resembling that of Communist China. Most of the smaller communist factions lean towards the violent revolutionary urgings of the Chinese Communists, with the exception of the Trotskyist groups who still support some version of Trotsky's notion of "permanent revolution". One of the newer communist groups, which identifies itself with the Chinese model of revolutionary warfare, is the RAM.

RAM was founded in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania in the Winter of 1963 under the direction of Max STANFORD, a Negro militant. STANFORD has retained leadership position as field chairman in RAM and since 1966 has also been head of the New York Black Panther Party, a creation of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) and RAM.

Although RAM is under control of STANFORD, it takes its lead from Robert WILLIAMS, who now lives in Peking and is listed as "Chairman-in-exile": WILLIAMS has been militantly active in black civil rights causes since 1955 and has been espousing violence and hatred since 1959. He fled a federal arrest warrant in 1961 and was in Cuba 1961-1966, from where he wrote and broadcasted urgings to the black people to adopt a violent posture. His statements apparently became too radical even for his CPUSA supporters and he turned more and more to the Maoist line. In the spring of 1966 he left Cuba for Communist China from where he has been operating ever since. He has developed a relationship with Red China's leading communists. In 1963, during an earlier visit from WILLIAMS, Mao issued a statement of China's support of the American Negro's struggle against racial discrimination.

In both mid-1963 and mid-1964, so-called student trips to Cuba were used by WILLIAMS to work with certain students to organize and give impetus to RAM which admittedly was formed by "Afro-Americans who favored Robert WILLIAMS and the concept of organized violence". RAM has operated under a number of different names including UHURU, Afro-American Youth Association, and the Black Panther Party (BPP). While RAM is relatively small in numbers, it does have a growing membership among young Negro extremists who, through a sense of frustration, advocate civil war. WILLIAMS has sent an appeal to revolutionaries throughout the world to support RAM in its struggle. RAM has officially aligned itself with the Communist Viet Cong. RAM members have refused to serve in the U. S. Armed Forces.

J. Edgar HOOVER in February 1967 stated that Max STANFORD of RAM and Stokely CARMICHAEL have worked closely together. CARMICHAEL, who resigned as head of the SNCC in May 1967, has become an open advocate of (Negro) guerrilla warfare in the U. S. H. Rap BROWN, the new leader of SNCC, shares and espouses the same views.

CHAPTER III - RAM'S New Concept of Guerrilla Warfare

The RAM concept of guerrilla warfare differs from traditional guerrilla warfare principles in a major respect. Robert WILLIAMS, RAM'S mentor on violence, revolution and guerrilla warfare, has advanced a completely new concept applying the traditional rural-based guerrilla tactics to urban areas, particularly those which are densely populated. He believes his principles would enable neutralization of a highly industrialized nation's powerful military forces and the most modern weapons of mass destruction. Briefly the concept is for lightning campaigns conducted in highly sensitive urban communities with the paralysis reaching the small communities and spreading to the farm areas. The concept is to huddle as close to the enemy as possible so as to neutralize his modern weapons - to create conditions that involve/ the total community, whether they want to be involved or not - to sustain a state of confusion and destruction of property - to dislocate the organs of harmony and order and reduce central power to the level of a helpless, sprawling octopus. During the hours of day, sporadic rioting and massive sniping would occur. At night, all-out warfare, organized fighting and unlimited terror would be unleashed against the opposition.

WILLIAMS predicted that when such massive violence occurred, the U.S.A. would become a bedlam of confusion and chaos. "Violence and terror will spread like a firestorm. A clash will occur inside the armed forces. At U.S. military bases around the world, local revolutionaries will side with Afro-GI's. Because of the vast area covered by the holocaust, U.S. forces will be spread too thin for effective action. U.S. workers, who are caught on their jobs, will try to return home to protect their families. Trucks and trains will not move the necessary supplies to the big urban cities. The economy will fall into a state of chaos".

(Reviewer's personal note - "While the foregoing account of the extent of the havoc the revolutionaries may expect to wreak may be overly ambitious and exaggerated, it does not seem too far-fetched to suppose that it may be quite possible for them to cause such confusion, disruption and terror (particularly in the nation's capitol) as to make another "Pearl Harbor " seem possible or perhaps even plausible").

The report notes that even with all of the writings and plans of RAM there is no serious discussion of what would take place in this country once the RAM members "gained power". The taking of power implies that the people involved have some serious concept of what "power" involves and also what constitutes a government. To date, the people surrounding RAM have not given any indication of such an understanding. A total state of anarchy could follow a racial civil war in this country. The report surmises that the followers of RAM are so involved in their own brand of political insanity that they seriously believe that once "power" is in their hands, a governmental structure will automatically appear. The assassination of whites and even Negroes who do not support its program is part of RAM'S philosophy.

CHAPTER IV - The Harlem Riot - The First Clear Indication

This section relates how the Harlem riot of July 1964 gave the first clear indication that the communists were deeply involved in these disturbances and that they were actually training and directing rioters. A riot is a complex organization. Although there is often a single spark that ignites a riotous situation, it is never an isolated specific that creates the major force behind the riot. Riots - be they racial, social or political - are not created over one lone incident. Conditions for a riot have to build over a period of time. Anger grows until one incident sends the people into the streets.

The Harlem riot, called a "rebellion" by the communists, was the first major riot in which Negroes began an almost systematic destruction of their own "ghetto". It also gave clear indications that the communists were actively engaged in attempting to create riot conditions in most large city black ghettos. A complete picture would depict the communists as the major agitators in the ghetto prior to the riots, and once the riots began, it is equally clear that they did everything in their power to perpetuate them and to intensify them where possible.

The PLP, which might accurately be termed the American arm of the Chinese Communist International, differs from the CPUSA over the "means" to be used to establish the same end - communism. Just as there is international conflict over "theory" between the USSR and Communist China, so are there national conflicts between their advocates throughout the world. The PLP conducted a more militant campaign to discredit the police and to inflame the people during the Harlem riots. The report's author was a participant in the PLP's efforts during this period and the report spells out PLP's role then and it is deemed instructive because it shows exactly how the communists operate in a riot situation.

CHAPTER V - Cleveland - "Trained and Disciplined Professionals"

In Cleveland, Ohio the communists and black militant doctrine of promoting and supporting the violence was clearly evidenced and a special grand jury report clearly reflected the role of both.

"This jury finds that the outbreak of lawlessness and disorder was both organized, precipitated and exploited by a relatively small group of loud and disciplined professionals in this business.

They were aided and abetted, wittingly or otherwise, by misguided people of all ages and colors, many of whom are avowed believers in violence and extremism and some of whom also are either members or officers in the Communist Party.

The majority of the people in the Hough area had no part in either the lawlessness or disorder."

CHAPTER VI - The Watts Riot - A Civil Revolt?

The Watts riot of August 1965 was one of the most destructive and ominous of any of the "ghetto" riots to date. Today, the same conditions exist that formented the original Watts riot with the possible exception that more agitators are now at work trying to organize the people.

The spark that apparently set it off - an arrest of a young Negro for drunk driving - followed by a family fight and cries of "police brutality" - was followed by the infamous phrase, "Burn, baby, burn". The riot was undoubtedly caused in part by the resentment of the people of the ghetto toward the police and white people in particular. The report reflects the opinion that "for some time, there has existed a world-wide subversive campaign to stigmatize all police as brutal. The cry of police brutality has been shouted in cities all over the world by communists, dupes and demagogues irrespective of the facts." (this is a 1965 quote from Los Angeles Mayor, Samuel W. YORTY). The report cites facts to support this charge and particularly ties in PLP smear efforts.

CHAPTER VII - Other Pro-Guerrilla Warfare AdvocatesThe Revolutionary Contingent (RC)

This is another guerrilla warfare oriented group - an openly communist organization with headquarters in New York City, which calls for "guerrilla action" in the U.S. as well as for volunteers to serve with communist guerrillas in other nations. Its action regarding the Viet Nam war goes beyond that of the "liberal argument" to "stop the war" but calls for "victory" by the U.S.'s opponents. It was first noted publicly in its appearance during the communist organized and directed New York City "Vietnam Week" march and demonstration, April 15, 1967 and contributed much to the disorder. Its publications call for fast, destructive action and state that violence leads to self-respect.

While the RC is openly communist, it is not affiliated with any of the major communist organizations in the U.S.A. One of its sponsors is quoted as saying that the RC is "completely alienated from the ceremonial left". He described the ceremonial left as the "holy trinity" of the CPUSA, the Socialist Workers Party (SWP-Trotskyist communists), and the PLP. It considers itself supermilitant and radical and proposes to substitute revolutionary action for talk. Because the RC feels that conditions for revolution in the U.S. at present and in the foreseeable future are "minimal and limited" it proposes to send revolutionaries to fight with guerrilla movements in Latin America, Africa and possibly Asia - actually resisting "aggression" now or in the near future.

The RC is representative of and centered around the Free School mentality - the ultraradical communist so filled with revolutionary zeal and hatred of the U.S. that he finds all other existing communist organizations too "conservative".

SDS's "Democratic Society " of Guerrillas

Key leaders of the SDS have given open support to guerrilla warfare in the U.S. SDS, generally recognized as the leading "new left" student organization, is openly radical and leftist.

During the July 1967 SDS convention, the delegates also talked freely about "guerrilla warfare", counterinsurgency techniques" and "guerrilla mentality". Reportedly, it was often questionable as to what the SDS members actually meant when they used these words, however, some of their leaders apparently are certain when they are quoted as saying:

"We are building a guerrilla force in an urban development."

"Che's message is applicable to urban America, as far as the psychology of guerrilla action goes."

"Urban guerrillas are the only realistic alternative at this time to elective politics or mass armed resistance."

"We are getting ready for the revolution."

CHAPTER VIII - The Current C. P. Positions

The report documents the idea that the CPUSA has made it clear that it is not opposed to guerrilla warfare against the U.S. Government in principle but that, for strategic reasons, it is opposed to the launching of such warfare at this time. The CPUSA position is that resort to arms now could lead to suicide and set back the movement for years.

"Whether the route to violence should be exercised should be determined by time, place and circumstances and a sober estimate of the concrete situation and the conditions which prevail at the moment.

* * * * *

As we see it today, the overwhelming majority of the American people, including black people, are not yet convinced that the system must be changed, much less that it is necessary to do so by armed force." Henry WINSTON, in spelling out the Party's position, hinted; however, that the time may not be far when the Communist Party may reverse its position and support guerrilla warfare against the U.S.

CHAPTER IX - Pre-riot Measures - The Best Defense

This chapter is an effort to analyze some of the factors contributing to mass rioting and ultimately potentially accelerating to guerrilla warfare. As the threat of riots is more immediate at this juncture than that of guerrilla warfare, the report reprints portion of the FBI study, "Prevention and Control of Mobs and Riots".

CHAPTER X - Conclusion

A Major Difference In U. S. Guerrilla Warfare

If guerrilla warfare were ever initiated in the U.S. under the conditions of irregular warfare as practiced in Greece, Vietnam, the Phillipines, Algeria, Cuba, etc. there would be one notable and highly significant difference.

Terrorism and the ability to be indistinguishable from the general populace are vital to the success of a guerrilla campaign. Yet this advantage would not seem to exist according to the designs of RAM and others.

If a guerrilla war were initiated from the ghettos of our major cities calling for "black liberation", it would necessarily entail a racial civil war in which black revolutionaries would attempt guerrilla warfare against the white population and the existing government. This fact would necessarily make this a unique guerrilla operation, different in a major respect from those abroad. The base of operations would be in the cities. It would attempt to pit one race against another. Successful guerrilla operations have always depended upon the guerrilla's ability to melt into the general population and to win over a sizable segment of that population to his political position. The concept of black guerrilla fighters working outside the ghetto is only conceivable in the South and even there the issue of race would limit the potential of the revolutionaries.

No matter what the destruction and terrorism initially inflicted by black guerrilla fighters, there is little doubt that such an uprising could be effectively and quickly controlled.

A guerrilla operation could depend on some communists, on ultra-militant black nationalists, and a portion of the lawless elements in the ghetto for support, but it could not hope to sway the majority of Negroes. Secondly, the ghetto could be isolated and bottled up.

Thirdly, the very nature of a conflict between black and white effectively precludes protection from detection.

Fourth, the guerrillas could not depend on outside countries as training bases or for lines of substantial support once the conflict began.

Fifth, once effective counterinsurgency plans were placed into operation and search and seizure operations were instituted, few Negroes could afford to harbor the guerrillas.

There is no doubt that a concerted secretive operation on the part of a small group of black militants and communists could possibly create vast chaos for a short period and could result in the death of a significant number of innocent people, but it could never be successful in overthrowing the government.

The report then briefly suggests measures which could be taken to contain and defeat any such revolutionary uprising. The report concludes that - when the groundwork has been laid by social conditions, economic deprivations, civil disobedience, subversion and political skullduggery, a riot is born.

Logically, it would seem improbable that even the communists would rationally consider implementing a guerrilla operation in this country.

Numerically small, devoid of much popular support, they would appear to have no political base for such operations. Logic and rationality are not, however, necessary ingredients in the plans of some communists for the U.S. They are obviously capable of making mistakes and it would be just as grievous a tactical error to overestimate their intellectual capabilities as to underestimate their fanatical revolutionary zeal.

There is considerable evidence that not only some communists factions in the U.S. but also certain communist-oriented black nationalist groups, are seriously considering the possibility of initiating armed insurrection in this country. They regard ghetto riots as a prelude to general guerrilla warfare operations. They see the possibility of using Negroes as the shock troops for a revolution. Believing that the Negro ghettos offer a base for such operations, these "tacticians" think that there will be but a short jump from riots to a general rebellion carried out along guerrilla warfare lines. Their guerrilla concepts are founded on raw racism, black man versus white man.

Some communists believe the time is not yet ripe for a guerrilla war and support only riots at this point. Others believe the time has arrived and are doing everything they can to pit black against white and white against black in a racially motivated insurrection against the U.S.

Both of these factions in the communist movement are now joined in their agitation - either for riots or for rebellion - by certain ultramilitant black nationalist organizations. Together the two groups pose a serious threat to law and order and the security of the U.S.

In the past months, communists and black nationalists have been working overtime in the various ghettos to further inflame the people into taking violent action. Whether their efforts will lead only to additional riots - or something worse - only the future will tell.

(Personal note of reviewer

It is generally believed that the Communist Party is not genuinely concerned with the plight of the black race except as it represents another means through which to work toward their ultimate goal of world domination by Communism. In view of the remarkable social and economic gains actually made by the American Negro in the last decade and the potential for further progress, it would seem conceivable that the Communist Party, while espousing support of the Negro in his efforts, would actually secretly desire and work for such activity by the Negro as would result in a major setback or abortion of his progress and place him in a position of greater discontent, frustration and need. Rioting, disorder and even guerrilla warfare which would be doomed to failure and probable harsh reprisal or at least would accentuate his hardships may possibly be acceptable to the Communist Party.)

REPORT # 29
19 JUNE 1968

• According to [REDACTED], he was in contact with an individual on the 13th of June by the name of "Bill," whom he refused to identify further. According to [REDACTED], "Bill" had helped to load a shipment of guns for Resurrection City in Washington, D. C., and that since the protest movement had settled in Washington, D. C., shipments of guns, flame throwers, and dynamite had been shipped to Washington, D. C., on a regular basis. "Bill" stated that the shipments were handled by one [REDACTED] of New York City who was allegedly a CP sympathizer.

"Bill" stated there exists elaborate plans for a well organized take-over in Washington, D. C., including the use of suicide squads organized for the purpose of assassinating major government officials including the President, the Vice President, Dean Rusk, and Clark Clifford. The plans also include the destruction of key government buildings including the Pentagon, Senate Office Building, and the files of the FBI.

According to "Bill," the violence would begin when Resurrection City is being dismantled under the supervision of local police in Washington, D. C., and at this point an incident would be provoked with the police in order to implement the plans.

[REDACTED] alleges that bridges leading to and from Washington will be demolished so as to make it impossible for Army troops to take over in defending Washington, D. C. [REDACTED] stated there is a garage located on Cochran* (ph) Street, Washington, D. C., which is a store house for the arms and weapons. [REDACTED] could not give any specific information relative to this garage, but indicated it was approximately a fifteen minute walk from the White House. [REDACTED] stated there is a CP cadre now functioning in Resurrection City and added that the leadership in Resurrection City is not aware of this cadre. [REDACTED] stated that members are from many of the black militant organizations such as Revolutionary Action Movement (RAM), the Black Panther Party (BPP), the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), and a group described as the Youth International Party. [REDACTED] stated this cadre group has been training for the past six months and could not furnish any other details concerning it.

*Cochran (ph) Street may be Corcoran Street. It is noted that a John Wesley A. M. E. Zion Church is located at 14th and Corcoran Street, N. W. This church has been the site of a good deal of activity connected with the Poor People's Campaign.

COMMENT

It is conceivable that the "Bill" mentioned by [REDACTED] and the "Billy" reported to the Bureau by a federal investigative agency may be one and the same person. It also appears possible that the information pertaining to "Bill" and "Billy" may relate to information reported by the FBI on 4 June 1968.

At that time the FBI reported that Stokely Carmichael had completed his West Coast trip and that reliable confidential sources stated that Carmichael had spent several days in California conferring with members of the Militant Black Nationalist Black Panther Party and with members of the Black United Front, an umbrella-type organization formed in February 1968 with the help of Carmichael, in an attempt to unite representatives of various Negro organizations. The FBI reported that Carmichael, in speaking about the Black United Front, on 3 June in San Francisco, stressed the need to expand and improve this organization and stated that one of its objectives is to seize control of the government of the District of Columbia.

Also on the 4th of June the Bureau reported information from a confidential reliable source that the Republic of New Africa had recently concluded a three-day Legislative Assembly in Chicago. According to the FBI, the Assembly decided to immediately form paramilitary groups in major cities throughout the United States and to contact militant Negro military oriented groups in order to organize military training programs in the immediate future. Detailed instructions in how to use a shotgun to propel Molotov cocktails and how to prepare various pyrotechnic devices were also given. The Black Panther Party in California was specifically mentioned as an organization which should receive the above instructions by 4 June 1968.

The Republic of New Africa is a black militant group which seeks to set up an independent black nation within the United States

It is noted that Stokely Carmichael and his wife Miriam Makeba returned to Washington, D. C., on the evening of 18 June 1968 after a trip to California and attended a garden party at the Embassy of Guyana.

ANALYSIS

It is speculated that if violence is to occur in Washington, D. C., it will occur not during the Solidarity Day march, but possibly at the time that Resurrection City is to be dismantled. It is believed that that city at that time will be inhabited by militant students and militant black power advocates and that these groups (the SCLC will have evacuated the camp completely) may provoke the police using this as a pretext to begin violent action.

* The FBI has previously reported that George Brower (apparently identical to George Madison Brower) was with James Forman of SNCC in Sweden in April of 1968 when he and other members of the group with Forman met with individuals representing the North Vietnamese and the National Liberation Front of South Vietnam. At this time the FBI described George Brower as an intimate associate of Sondra Patrinis, organization^{of} secretary of the Eastern Pennsylvania and Delaware District of the CPUSA.

20 June 68SITUATION INFORMATION REPORTPOOR PEOPLE'S CAMPAIGNPOTENTIAL FOR VIOLENCE

On page 1 and 2 of the 19 June Situation Information Report, an FBI cable of 19 June 1968 concerned in part the following information:

voluntarily advised the FBI that alleged shipments of guns, flame throwers and dynamite to a garage located at Cochran (phonetic) Street, Washington, D. C. were being handled by [REDACTED], New York City, an alleged communist sympathizer.

Subsequent inquiries into this matter by the FBI has determined the following information:

- A. On 19 June, [REDACTED], New York City advised agents of the FBI that he had no knowledge of shipments of guns to Washington, D. C. or any plot to disrupt the Poor People's March. [REDACTED] stated that he was going to travel to Washington, D. C. on the 19th of June to participate in the Poor People's March.

[REDACTED] admitted, however, that he is a current member in the Resistance and that he had left the W.E.B. Dubois Clubs of America because it was "not activist enough".

The Resistance is a nationwide group opposing the draft and the W.E.B. Dubois Clubs of America is a communist inspired youth club.

The FBI reported that [REDACTED] is the [REDACTED] both of whom have been identified by informants, who have furnished reliable information in the past, as members of the Communist Party. [REDACTED] has been identified as attending communist functions and taking part in various protest demonstrations since 1963.

- B. With regard to [REDACTED] statement that a garage on Cochran (phonetic) Street, Washington, D. C. was being used as a storehouse for the arms and weapons, the FBI determined that there was no Cochran Street in Washington, D. C., N.W. but that there was a Corcoran Street within the 15 minute walk from the White House as described by [REDACTED]. The FBI checked the entire length of Corcoran Street and determined that the street had 5 garages all of which were open and found to be empty.

COMMENT: It was noted in the Situation Information Report of 19 June 1968 that on 14th & Corcoran Street, N.W. there is located the John Wesley A.M.E. Zion Church which has been the site of a good deal of activity connected with the Poor People's Campaign.

The FBI advised it is continuing its investigation in order to corroborate or refute the information provided by [REDACTED] to it on 18 June 1968.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORTPOSSIBLE PICKETING OF THE FRENCH EMBASSIES AND FRENCH
CONSULATES ON SATURDAY, 22 JUNE 1968

According to a source, the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) and the Spring Mobilization Committee are both actively supporting these proposed demonstrations.

The FBI has also reported that Richard LESNICK, a member of the Young Socialist Alliance in Philadelphia, on 18 June 1968, invited SDS members to participate in protest action against witch hunts in France on the 22nd of June. Reportedly the SDS members in Philadelphia indicated little interest.

The Bureau reports that available leaflets in the Philadelphia area indicated the sponsoring organization as the "Ad Hoc Committee to Support French Workers and Students."

The protestors plan to assemble at twelve noon on the north side of City Hall, Philadelphia and proceed past the Air France ticket office on Walnut Street and then to the French consulate on Spruce Street, where it is planned to picket and rally at 1:30 in the afternoon. The purpose of the picketing and rally is to protest the outlawing of Left Wing groups in France. Sponsors appearing on the leaflets include members of the Student Mobilization Committee, W. E. B. DuBois Clubs, Women's Strike for Peace, SDS, Philadelphia Resistance, Socialist Workers Party (SWP), Communist Party, Young Socialist Alliance (YSA), Veterans for Peace, American Friends Service Committee, and Universities Council for Problems for War and Peace.

The FBI has also reported that as of 19 June 1968, a Los Angeles branch of the Young Socialist Alliance (YSA) was attempting to obtain support in Los Angeles for a demonstration in front of the French consulate on the 22nd of June. The purpose was said to be to display support for French students regarding recent actions by French police. In Los Angeles, picketing was reported to be planned for 1:00 P.M.

COMMENT

The Young Socialist Alliance was formed in October 1957 in New York City as a national revolutionary Trotskyite youth organization and has been controlled from its inception by the Socialist Workers Party. The YSA is reported to have been founded in response to a need for a nationwide youth organization capable of bringing revolutionary socialist ideas to a new generation.

The Spring Mobilization Committee believed to be identical to the Spring Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, was formerly known as the Peace Mobilization Committee. It was to the Spring Mobilization Committee that Martin Luther King, Jr. made his speech at the United Nations on 15 April 1967 in which he indicated that the United States should unilaterally withdraw from Vietnam.

When the idea was conceived by the Peace Mobilization Committee to hold the peace demonstrations on 15 April in New York City, of the 117 individuals in attendance at the conference, 75 were members of the Socialist Workers Party, or its youth group, the Young Socialist Alliance cited above.

With regard to the SDS, attached to this report is a 20 June 1968 FBI report concerning the Students for a Democratic Society, which is considered to be of current interest.

DOOR PEOPLE'S CAMPAIGN

On page 1 and 2 of the 19 June Situation Information Report, an FBI cable of 19 June 1968 concerned in part the following information:

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] voluntarily advised the FBI that alleged shipments of guns, flame throwers and dynamite to a garage located in Washington, D. C. were being handled by [REDACTED] of New York City an alleged Communist sympathizer. [REDACTED] also advised that his source of information was an individual named "BILL" whom he refused to identify further. In addition to the above, [REDACTED] also advised the FBI that BILL had told him that violence would begin when Resurrection City was being dismantled under the supervision of local police and at this point an incident would be provoked with the police in order to implement plans for a well organized takeover of Washington, D. C.

The FBI initiated inquiries to corroborate or refute [REDACTED] information.

The Situation Information Report of 20 June 1968 contained information regarding [REDACTED] and the garage in Washington, D. C.

On 20 June 1968, the FBI advised that as a result of its continuing investigation into the aforementioned matter, it is revealed that [REDACTED] "BILL" was one [REDACTED] (not further identified). The FBI reports that an acquaintance of [REDACTED] described him as a "nut, big mouth and one who is difficult to believe". The FBI also advised that [REDACTED], the individual who is alleged to be making shipments of arms to Washington, D. C., was observed to engage in no activity on [REDACTED] 19 June 1968 other than those connected with the Solidarity Day march.

The FBI has advised that efforts are being made to locate and interview [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

The following is the post-Solidarity Day makeup of Resurrection City as reported on 20 June 1968:

- (1) Age configuration: 5% up to age 15, 55% between 15 and 25 years, 25% between 25 and 35 years, and 15% over age 35.
- (2) Ethnic breakdown: 70% Negro, 25% White (primarily hippie types), 2% Puerto Rican, 2% Mexican-Americans, and 1% Indian.
- (3) Organizational Representation: The Chicago Black Panthers, Milwaukee Commandoes, Memphis Invaders, Pennsylvania Untouchables, The Peacemakers and the Resurrection City Rangers.

•The total population was estimated at 600-650 of whom 25% are females. Approximately 150-200 residents are believed to be identified with one or more of the militant organizations listed above.

PROJECT MERRIMACK - Special Report

It was determined late this afternoon through sources associated with SCLC and Tent City that two (2) drums of gasoline were stolen from Tent City during the night of 20 June 1968 and that makings for Molotov Cocktails were in evidence throughout the camp on that same night. None of these makings for the Molotov Cocktails were noticeable during the day, 21 June 1968.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

It has recently been ascertained that Kathleen (nee NEAL) CLEAVER, wife of Eldridge CLEAVER, Minister of Information of the militant black nationalist BLACK PANTHER PARTY, is the daughter of Dr. Ernest NEAL, Deputy Director of AID Mission to the Republic of the Philippines.

Ernest E. NEAL born 21 June 1911 in Tennessee, is an FSS-1 appointed as Deputy Director for AID, Manila, Philippine Islands on 13 September 1964. His daughter, Julette Kathleen (NEAL) CLEAVER, AKA J. Kathleen CLEAVER and Kathleen CLEAVER, address 850 Oak Street, San Francisco, California (1968), resigned from the Peace Corps on 20 March 1965 to accept employment with the Department of Commerce. Department of Commerce records do not reflect this contemplated employment.

Kathleen CLEAVER is, herself, a black nationalist revolutionary and is the National Captain of Women and the Communications Secretary in the hierarchy of the Black Panther Party (BPP). The Black Panther Party for Self Defense, now known merely as the Black Panther Party, originated by Bobby SEALE (Chairman) and Huey NEWTON (Minister of Defense) in October 1966 with headquarters in Oakland, California, is believed by some to be a front for the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) and to be nearly synonymous with the Revolutionary Action Movement (RAM). There are, in fact, a number of BPP organizations, loosely knit as a group but each formed at a different time by a different organization and each operating somewhat independently with divergent activities reflecting views of the immediate leadership of each. All are militant, non-white parties or branches based on principles of "black power" and "black nationalism." Whereas the BPP of Alabama (BPPA), an outgrowth of the Lowndes Country Freedom Organization (LCFO), seems (May 1967) to continue to be primarily concerned with Negro political unity, the New York City and California groups have shown strong dispositions toward revolutionary activity. The Oakland headquarters seems to be the national headquarters and base for the so-called National Central Committee. The BPP has been actively supported by other Negro nationalist groups and nominally supported by diverse organizations which appear to use BPP's revolutionary aims to further their own causes. A number of the leading activists appear to be members of several of the organizations much in the nature of interlocking corporation directorates.

The following organizations have supported BPP in varying degrees:

The Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC); The Revolutionary Action Movement (RAM); The Nation of Islam (NOI); The Muslim Mosque, Incorporated; Yoruba Temple; The Organization of Afro-American Unity; Afro-Americans Against the War in Vietnam; The Congress of Racial Equality (CORE); The Students for a Democratic Society (SDS); The Progressive Labor Party (PLP); The W. E. B. DuBois Clubs; The Young Socialist Alliance (YSA); and The Socialist Workers Party (SWP).

In February 1968, the BPP effected an overt merger of sorts with SNCC and at that time announced the election of the following SNCC leaders to posts in the BPP: Stokely CARMICHAEL as Prime Minister; James FORMAN as Minister of Foreign Affairs, since also cited as Minister of Black Religion; and H. Rap BROWN as Minister of Black Justice.

Many members of the BPP hierarchy, as well as the rank and file, have police records for an assortment of violations. Huey P. NEWTON is presently incarcerated in a California jail on charges of murder, assault with a deadly weapon and kidnapping in connection with the killing of an Oakland policeman and the wounding of another. Trial is now set for 8 July 1968.

Eldridge CLEAVER, paroled in 1966 after serving eight years on a 5 count 1958 conviction (two for assault with intent to commit murder and three for ADW), was arrested on 6 April 1967 along with seven other BPP members and charged with assault with intent to commit murder after an altercation with Oakland police during which CLEAVER was wounded and BPP member, Bobby HUTTON, was killed. During his year and a half of freedom on parole, CLEAVER has been an author and a staff writer for RAMPARTS magazine.

his book, "Joni On Ice", a collection of letters and essays on a variety of subjects including sex and the civil rights movement, was written in prison and has reached near best seller status.

After this April incident, CLEAVER's parole was revoked. While back in prison and facing trial on this newest charge, he was presented as a candidate for the President of the U. S. A. nomination on the Peace and Freedom Party ticket whose national convention is in August. After much agitation in his behalf by all sorts of black militant and leftist organizations and individuals, CLEAVER was released on bail and is currently active in making speeches and personal appearances.

His wife, Kathleen, has been very active and very vocal in her efforts to secure "justice" for Huey P. NEWTON and for CLEAVER, and has made many appearances and speeches in their behalf as well as in support of other black militant activities. She has been in the company of Stokely CARMICHAEL and other revolutionaries on a number of occasions.

During the course of a normal debriefing of a MERRIMACK informant the following information was volunteered by the informant who had obtained it from his spouse, a current FBI informant:

A document, undated but believed to be of 1968 interest, was in the appointment file at WSP Headquarters and read as follows:

"Following are leaving from Idlewild Airport, N.Y. on 11 July at 5:30 PM by SAS. Cultural Exchange with Soviet women - to meet with Mr. and Mrs. Khrushchev and others.

Residents from Huntington, L.I. are sending a scroll via Dagmar Wilson to people of Sestroretsk, a suburb of Leningrad - termed a letter writing project. The group is to remain in Russia for two weeks, the guests of women of Russia.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT # 35DEMONSTRATIONS AT THE NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION (NDC),
AUGUST 1968

Although the Republican National Convention scheduled to begin in Miami, Florida 5 August 1968 will probably be subjected to considerable protest and demonstration type of harassment, it appears at this time that the Democratic Convention in Chicago, Illinois will be the target of considerably more action. The FBI disseminated on 18 July 1968 a preliminary study relative to the anticipated demonstrations at the National Democratic Convention. It has been reproduced and is attached hereto to enable such timely dissemination as may be deemed desirable.

7-26-68

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORTADDITIONS TO CALENDAR OF EVENTS PREDICTED TO DATE
TO OCCUR THROUGH THE MONTH OF AUGUST 1968JULY26-27

The Peace & Freedom Party, Salt Lake City, Utah is planning to demonstrate during Vice-President Hubert H. HUMPHREY's scheduled visit in that city.

27

The National Mobilization Committee To End The War In Vietnam is to hold a meeting in Chicago to discuss details concerning the strategy to be used by New Left demonstrators at the Democratic Convention.

27

The Youth Socialist Alliance (youth group of the Socialist Workers Party) is sponsoring a demonstration in Washington, D. C. to show Cuban support and anti-Vietnam War sentiment. SDS, SNCC, and the Student Mobilization Committee are to participate with about 150 persons expected to be involved.

27-28

Cuban Powers and the Ejercito Secreto Anti-Comunista (ECA)--two anti-Castro groups--are planning to be active in Chicago this weekend. Targets of "explosive materials" are to be the Spanish and Mexican tourist offices and consulates and also a Japanese firm which trades with Cuba. After the "Chicago Plan", the group intends to hit the Spanish and Mexican tourist offices and consulates in New Orleans. In New York City, the group is concentrating on the Cuban representative to the U. N., Ricardo Alarcon QUESADA and the Cuban Mission itself. The plan calls for assassination or kidnapping of Alarcon and placing of explosives at the Cuban Mission.

SOURCE: FBI cable 7/23/68. An FBI source in position to know.

RELIABILITY: Not indicated.

27-29

The Peace Action Council, Los Angeles, California plans to demonstrate against Vice-President Hubert H. HUMPHREY during his Los Angeles visit. The Council contains CP members. It is asking other groups to participate. The militant Brown Berets will participate--also the DOW Action Committee and Vets For Peace.

According to a Philadelphia Student Mobilization Committee Release--there will be a nationwide demonstration between 3 and 10 August. One is scheduled in Minneapolis on 3 August.

The SCLC will sponsor demonstrations in Miami during the Republican Convention. The United Black Students, a University of Miami group, expects to participate. The Miami branch of the CP has indicated it will "see if it can be of assistance."

10

The Philadelphia Student Mobilization Committee controlled by the Young Socialist Alliance (YSA), is planning Hiroshima Day demonstration at Independence Hall in Philadelphia on 10 August. The CP has applied for a permit for a similar demonstration, 10 August in Chicago. Also one is planned that day for Cleveland, Ohio.

14

19-22

Washington, D. C.--"Liturgical Week"--Subject: Revolution: Christian Responses. Is sponsored by the Liturgical Conferences, 2900 Newton Street N.E., Washington, D. C. Registration limited to 5,400 participants.

26

The New Left is hoping for 50,000 demonstrators at the Democratic National Convention. Current plans call for two circles of demonstrators around the convention area to shut off all entrances into the convention hall.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Calendar Of Events Proposed To Date To Occur During the Remainder Of July and Through the Month of August 1968.

JULY

The Republic of New Africa (RNA) officials met in Dayton, Ohio on 13 July. They reportedly discussed future training activities of officers of the organization's BLACK LEGION. This training is to include military type skills. The ultimate goal is to maintain the BLACK LEGION in combat readiness to defend itself against the local populace in Mississippi, where the RNA apparently intends to first start acquiring property by purchase.

Future meetings are scheduled in Detroit, Dayton and Washington, D. C. during July and August. H. Rap BROWN, Minister of Defense of the R.N.A., reportedly will attend the Washington, D. C. meeting. The RNA is a Black Nationalist--Separatist oriented organization. Robert F. WILLIAMS, the radical black American expatriate, who has resided in Cuba and Red China since 1961 and is now in Tanzania, Africa, is the titular President of the RNA and leader in exile of the militant Revolutionary Action Movement (RAM).

20th

Mass meetings and demonstrations have been urged by the General Council of the World Federation of Trade Unions (WFTU)--WFTU is communist controlled. July 20 is the anniversary of the signing of the Geneva agreement of 1954 for an end of the Vietnam War. No additional details have been noted but presumably any activity will be based on anti-Vietnam War propaganda and little is likely to occur in the U.S.A.

20-21st

The dissident CORE chapters that recently walked out of the CORE National Convention are scheduled to meet in Brooklyn to form a new civil rights organization.

21-24th

The Cincinnati Action For Peace group, an anti-war organization, plans to demonstrate if President JOHNSON appears at a governors conference scheduled to be held in Cincinnati.

22nd

The SCLC has indicated that its Poor People's Campaign (PPC) will hold a demonstration and march in Washington, D. C. highlighted by numbers of handicapped and crippled persons and led by a blind girl from Utah. In view of subsequent statements that little action of this type will be conducted by SCLC prior to the major party political conventions, this demonstration may be cancelled.

22-26th

The National Mobilization Committee to End the War In Vietnam intends rallies in various cities (New York City, Boston, Cleveland, Chicago, Los Angeles and Washington, D. C.) This Committee has been directed by Rev. James BEVEL, a SCLC leader most recently identified with the Poor People's Campaign.

23rd

A Japanese anti-war group has invited two Afro-Americans to attend a conference in Japan. John WILSON and Donald STONE, central committee members of the militant Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) reportedly will attend and WILSON plans to attempt a trip to Hanoi, North Vietnam after the conference.

27th

Two Peace and Freedom Party state conventions are scheduled--Northern and Southern California.

31st

The recently formed Women's Solidarity Committee Against Racism, War and Poverty plans to conduct a March On Congress in Washington, D. C. Dagmar WILSON (activist in Women Strike For Peace, WSP) and Barbara DEMING (veteran agitator of the Nonviolent Committee For Cuban Independence and other organizations) are two of those prominently involved.

AUGUST3rd

The 5th Ave. Vietnam Peace Parade Committee (FAVPPC) will stage a mass anti-war demonstration in New York City. It is intended also to commemorate the 23rd anniversary of Hiroshima.

5th

The Miami National Convention of the Republican Party begins.

5th

The Vietnam Peace Parade Committee plus a coalition of 100 anti-draft groups plans to demonstrate in Miami.

15th

Rev. David ABERNATHY and a group of SCLC staff members intend to attempt to "be heard" at the Miami convention "without being disruptive".

17th

The Peace and Freedom Party (California principally) also known as the Freedom and Peace Party (principally in New York) has tentatively scheduled a National Convention for Ann Arbor, Michigan. It has issued a call to similarly motivated groups to attend this Presidential Nominating Convention to establish agreement on a common presidential ticket.

The CPUSA, which recently nominated Charlene MITCHELL, a colored female Communist Party member for President and ZAGARELL, 23 year old Communist Party member, for Vice President, has indicated that it might withdraw its candidates and support another ticket other than one of the major parties if that ticket were appropriately oriented on matters of peace, poverty and race.

The Chicago National Convention of the Democratic Party begins. (Because of labor/management problems in the Illinois Telephone Company, the Democratic Convention may be forced to transfer to the Miami site.)

26th

The Vietnam Peace Parade Committee plus a coalition of 100 anti-draft groups also plans to demonstrate at the Democratic Convention.

26th

Rev. David ABERNATHY and a group of SCLC staff members intend to attempt "to be heard" at the Chicago Convention "without being disruptive".

26th

The Youth International Party (YIP and Yippies), a conglomerate group of hippies and others of similar ilk, plans to hold a disruptive

"Life Festival" in Chicago during the Democratic Convention. They plan to organize a self-defense group including members of the militant Black Panther Party (BPP). Eldridge CLEAVER of the BPP has asked Jerry RUBIN, Yippee leader, to run for Vice President on the Peace and Freedom Party ticket--CLEAVER is a Presidential candidate-- in order to change the "Life (Youth) Festival" into a counter political convention. The Yippies include sexual freedom advocates, folk singers, protestors of all sorts and various young anti-establishment agitators. RUBIN is out on bail from a June 13 arrest on a felony charge for possession of drugs.

The National Mobilization Committee To End the War In Vietnam (which includes members of the Communist Party) is sponsoring demonstrations at the Democratic Convention. Included is to be a "crash-in" utilizing 2,000 demonstrators who are to be stationed at the corners of the convention building for the purpose of a direct confrontation with the Chicago Police Department.

29th-1 Sept.

The 3rd National Conference on Black Power is planned for Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. The theme will be "Black Self-Determination and Black Unity Through Direct Action". The conference leader will be Dr. Nathan WRIGHT. WRIGHT is a militant Black Power advocate who organized the 20-23 July National Conference on Black Power.

30th

The Committee For Formation Of A Fourth Party (a new political party devoted to the peace issues) state that they will hold a National Convention starting 30 August--probably in Chicago--on presumption no major party will nominate a satisfactory ticket. Marcus RASKIN (one of the defendants in the recent trial of Dr. SPOCK and four others, and the only one acquitted) is one of the prime movers in this fourth party movement.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT # 36

In addition to the two previous announcements of scheduled events planned for July/August 1968, are the following activities which have recently been surfaced.

It is apparent that both the Republican and Democratic National Conventions will be subjected to considerable pressure, harassment, and inconvenience, both while at the Convention Halls and while away from same. The Democrats apparently have been targeted for a greater degree of disruption. Few of the activities have been indicated as intentionally disruptive or violent, but certainly, given the emotionalism of the participants in these assorted demonstrations and marches and propagandizing efforts and given the desire and intention of the appropriate forces of law, order and decorum to enable the Conventions to conduct their business and pleasure with the least possible interference, there is ample reason to anticipate that disorder in some degree will occur.

August 2

The Black Student Union in Los Angeles at the University of Southern California plans to hold a rally. The keynote speaker will be Eldridge CLEAVER, the militant Black Panther Party leader who is the Peace and Freedom Party candidate for President.

August 5-10

A group of young people (hippie type) plans to demonstrate at the Republican National Convention. It is reportedly being organized by the Southern Student Organizing Committee (SSOC), a militant element of the New Left.

August 5-10

Members of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee and of the Deacons of Defense, militant black nationalist groups, reportedly will be in the Republican National Convention area. Their plans and intentions have not been determined to date.

August 5-10

The United Black Students, a militant black nationalist student group of about 30-40 students in the Miami area is planning some type of activity during the Republican National Convention. The group plans to meet with a BPP member who is in Miami in connection with the Convention.

August 5-10

The Central Direction of Revolutionary Democratic Organizations, a coalition of 18 Cuban exile groups; plans to picket the Republican National Convention at the Miami Beach Convention Hall.

August 6-13

Peace groups of the Albany, New York area plan to celebrate the anniversary of Hiroshima with a week-long series of demonstrations at Watervliet, New York.

August 7

The "Cuba Group" aka: "Committee of Fifteen and Independent Cuba" aka: "Group of Fifteen"--a Cuban Exile organization has scheduled a rally at the Miami City Stadium. They were unsuccessful in an attempt to get a permit for a convention site demonstration. They indicated a hope to attract 25,000 people.

August 10

The Washington Mobilization Committee will hold a vigil at Lafayette Park in Washington, D. C. to commemorate Hiroshima.

August 10

The Student Mobilization Committee has applied for a permit to march at the Oakland, California Army Base.

August 25

The Brotherhood of Free Man (another militant "hippie" type of organization) reputedly may demonstrate at the Democratic National Convention.

August 26

The Cuban Group, mentioned above, also plans to organize an automobile caravan to transport Cuban exiles from Miami and other cities to Chicago to demonstrate at the Democratic National Convention.

August 27-28

The National Mobilization Committee To End the War In Vietnam is planning "massive" demonstrations during the Democratic National Convention. The first major call will be for 28 August but another will be for the 27th on President JOHNSON's birthday.

8-2-68 86SITUATION INFORMATION REPORTVIETNAM PRISONER RELEASE

As early as 3 July, Hanoi had broadcast that three U. S. prisoners of war would be freed. In an obvious propaganda ploy, similar to the earlier release of prisoners to Thomas HAYDEN's group, it was announced that the POWs would be released to the custody of a delegation of American anti-war representatives. The delegation was later identified as: Stewart MEACHAM of Philadelphia, Peace Secretary of the American Friends Service Committee; Mrs. Anne SCHEER of Berkeley, California, wife of Robert SCHEER, an editor of RAMPARTS magazine; and Vernon GRIZZARD, an anti-draft organizer from Cambridge, Massachusetts. The POWs were later identified as three American airmen: Major James F. LOW of Sausalito, California, whose plane was shot down by a missile last December 16, 1967; Major Fred W. THOMPSON of Taylors, South Carolina captured March 20, 1968; and Captain Joe V. CARPENTER of Victorville, California, captured February 15, 1968.

On 12 July, the pacifist delegation had a stopover in Paris en-route to Hanoi and in Paris met with Ambassador HARRIMAN and separately with the North Viet delegation to the Paris Conference.

Considerable confusion has evolved over the release of these Americans as was the case in the previous release which allegedly irritated Hanoi when the released prisoners were returned to the U.S. by military rather than commercial plane. On 17 July, a Hanoi broadcast indicated that the men were to be freed in time to catch the weekly International Control Commission flight from Hanoi to Vientiane, Laos. Neither the POWs nor the peace group delegation were on that flight. However, on 18 July a Hanoi broadcast stated that the Vietnam Committee For Solidarity With Progressive Americans obtained the pilots from the Vietnam People's Army political department and handed them over to the representatives of the "American People's Anti-War Movement." At the ceremony the Vietnamese representative pointed out that the release was a "new manifestation of the lenient and humanitarian policy of the Government of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam and a very significant action at the moment when the U.S. Government is intensifying its criminal war of aggression against the Vietnamese people".

Vernon GRIZZARD, "representing the Americans who oppose the war of aggression in Vietnam" then spoke and allegedly, among other things favorable to the North Vietnamese, said "Americans can more clearly see the strength of the Vietnamese people from these humanitarian acts while the American Government continues the war."

The released pilots also spoke. They expressed deep gratitude to the Government of the DRV, Vietnam People's Army, and the Vietnamese people for their humane and lenient policy. They promised that back in the U.S. they would make the American people understand better the great determination of the Vietnamese people to remove aggression and find national independence, freedom and reunification.

After the ceremony, the pilots and pacifists left by car for an unknown destination. Failure of the pilots to arrive at Vientiane on the ICC plane on the 18th caused speculation that the North Vietnamese might fly them to Europe for a propaganda appearance at the Paris Conference. It was later conjectured that they might come out through China or through South Vietnam.

A traveler from Hanoi to Vientiane, who asked not to be identified, said he had seen the pilots at a news conference in Hanoi and that he doubted that the pilots had made their statements entirely voluntarily. He said ICC sources in Hanoi speculated that the three men will not leave North Vietnam until they have made a propaganda tour of sites where American bombs had fallen.

On 21 July Stewart MEACHAM of the Anti-War Committee reportedly cabled the American Friends Church Organization that their departure would be delayed one week but no reason was given. The State Department indicated that they had not received any official information relative to the release or departure of the pilots. On 23 July the North Vietnam Ambassador to Cambodia stated that the pilots were "already free" since they had been turned over to members of the American Pacifist Organization who came to receive them. He refused further details.

Again on 26 July the "released pilots" were not on the weekly ICC flight to Vientiane. This flight is the only scheduled air source linking North Vientiane and outside countries that does not pass through Communist China. Travelers reported they had seen the pilots and pacifists at the Metropole Hotel in Hanoi and that "they are living well". The North Vietnam Ambassador to Laos who was aboard the plane said that the pilots would "soon join their families". State Department officials again expressed puzzlement and disappointment over the delay.

The State Department's asserted puzzlement over the failure of North Vietnamese authorities to deliver the pilots to Laos was derided as a "bald-faced lie" by Robert SCHEER, an editor of RAMPARTS magazine whose wife, Anne, is a member of the Anti-War Committee seeking to bring the men to the U.S.

No further information has been noted to date--1 August 1968.

RELIABILITY: Unknown

The members of the Anti-War Committee are:

Stewart MEACHAM: (James Stewart MEACHAM) A confidential source of the FBI advised on 26 June 1963 that he knew MEACHAM while both were attending the Presbyterian Seminary at Louisville, Kentucky. He stated that MEACHAM knowingly associated with Communist Party members at the time. Source stated that in 1942 he received a letter from MEACHAM in which MEACHAM stated he was a Communist; that Communism was the wave of the future and that he was through with the church. Subsequently, on 31 March 1964, MEACHAM was listed as a member of the Ad Hoc Committee for the Triple Revolution (with such personalities as W. H. "Ping" FERRY of the Fund for the Republic; Irving LAUCKS of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions; Michael HARRINGTON; A. J. MUSTIE; Gunner MYRDAL, Bayard RUSTIN, William WORTHY, Linus PAULING and Hugh B. HESTER.) He was a delegate in 1965 to the Helsinki Conference, other delegates known to include Carl BLOICE of People's World, Herbert APTHEKER, Christopher KOCH of Pacifica Radio, veteran Marxist Alexander TRACHTENBERG and Harold SUPRIANO of the DuBois Clubs of America. In 1965, as peace secretary of the American Friends Service Committee he was one of the listed sponsors of the March on Washington for Peace in Vietnam, 27 November 1965. Other sponsors included Erich FROMM, D. F. FLEMING, Michael HARRINGTON, H. Stuart HUGHES, Arthur MILLER, John LEWIS of SNCC, Carl OGLESBY of SDS, Bayard RUSTIN, Norman THOMAS, Dr. Benjamin SPOCK, Dr. Edwin DHILPERG, and Dagmar WILSON of WSP. There are many additional references to MEACHAM regarding his opposition to the HCUA, his activities with Turn Toward Peace, the Committee for Non-Violent Action, the World Congress for General Disarmament and Peace, the National Congress for Unemployment Insurance, etc. He appears as a signatory on an "Appeal to the Conscience of America for Peace With Honor in Vietnam" issued by the Catholic Worker, the Committee for Nonviolent Action, the Student Peace Union and the War Resisters League, in which the signatories declared their refusal to cooperate with the United States Government in pursuing the war in Vietnam and pledged to encourage conscientious objection to military service for that reason.

Vernon GRIZZARD--A Confidential source of the FBI advised in the past that 24 persons attended an organizers conference held in Chicago on 28-29 December 1963 for the purpose of forming the "call to a founding convention to be held in June 1964 for the formation of a new national Marxist-oriented youth organization (the W.E.B. DuBois Clubs of America). GRIZZARD, a student from Swarthmore College, was one of those in attendance. He was also reported by an FBI source to have been present at a dinner to honor Hyman LIMER (Educational Secretary of the CPUSA) and to raise money for the Worker, which was held in Philadelphia on 27 June 1964.

Ann SCHIEER--Ann SCHIEER, the former Anne Butlerfield WELLS, is the wife of Robert SCHIEER, foreign editor of RAMPARTS and activist in the New Left. She was born 14 March 1942 in California, the daughter of John C. S. WEILLS, II and Audrey WEILLS, nee DAVIS. She married SCHEER on 22 October 1965. A confidential source of the FBI advised that she held an annual subscription to the Communist People's World at the time of her marriage to SCHEER. On her marriage application she listed her employment as "student."

PROJECT MERRIMACK - Special Report

The Washington Mobilization for Peace held a meeting on 13 August 1968, to determine ways to commence a campaign against chemical and biological warfare. The group laid the groundwork for a long range plan to impede the production of biological warfare weapons as well as curtailing research into this field. Five areas of special interest discussed during this meeting were: 1) Camp Detrick, Md.; 2) Edgewood, Md., Arsenal; 3) Pine Bluff, Arkansas; 4) Dugway Proving Grounds, Utah; 5) an area around Denver, Colorado, not called by name.

It should be noted that a large number of those participating in this meeting were known members of the Women Strike for Peace (WSP), and at one point in discussing financial matters Barbara BICK, known WSP member, suggested that the WSP handle the money as they were a sound, responsible group.

It was also reported at this meeting that the WSP will be holding a weekend retreat in September at a summer camp near Leesburg, Virginia.

Attached is a copy of the flyer this group is planning to distribute, among other places, on the buses going to the demonstrations during the Chicago Democratic National Convention.

The Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, U. S. Section, said in February 1968

We view with horror that during these many years there has been an enormous increase in research in and development of chemical and biological weapons by our government or under government contract. We abhor the callousness and the erosion of morality of an increasing number of American scientists who are devoting their professional lives to the development of such weapons of destruction.

We call upon the leaders of our government to take immediate steps to transform all centers of research in and production of chemical and biological weapons into centers of research in and development of the means for eradication of hunger and disease; and to destroy all of its existing stock-piles of chemical and biological weapons.

We urge our government to ratify the 1925 Geneva Protocol outlawing chemical and biological warfare, and to work for an international agreement banning the manufacture and use of chemical and biological weapons.

PROJECT MERRIMACK - Special Report

A confidential informant of known reliability was in attendance at a 26 July 1968 Vietnam Peace Negotiations Rally at the Manger Hamilton Hotel, Washington, D.C. This meeting was Chaird by Dagmar WILSON of Women Strike for Peace and two speakers were Julius HOBSON and Robert GREENBLATT. HOBSON made the following remarks in answer to a question from the floor, "What do you think it will take for the advancement of the black to progress?" Answer: "The violent overthrow of the present existing power in this country. As I said before, It makes no difference if it's democrats or republicans, they have to be thrown out if it takes a revolution, and it may just come to that. People are being armed, as you know, and if things get to the revolution stage it's going to be bad. I don't like it but I want to be on the winning side."

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT - 12-16 August 1968

POTENTIAL ACTIVITIES RELATING TO
THE DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION

As indicated in prior reports, the Democratic Party National Convention (DNC) is scheduled to open in Chicago, 26 August 1968, amidst an atmosphere of great uncertainty and apprehension. In addition to the normal high excitement and tension generated by a major party national political convention in a year in which, following the decision of the incumbent President of the United States not to seek reelection, there is the near frantic activity in behalf of a number of opposing candidates and groups with widely differing platform policy viewpoints, there is added the probable difficulties engendered by a threatened strike of both bus and taxi drivers and a continued strike against the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. which could result in a near communications blackout and has resulted in daily sabotage of communication lines through the severance of telephone cables. To all that, must be added the increasingly strong possibility of dangerous disorder and harassment arising from the vast amount of protest and propagandizing activity apparently intended by assorted groups with racial, peace, hippie, student, anti-administration, leftist, and rightist overtones.

In consequence of all this, extraordinary security measures beyond anything ever before devised for a political convention have already been planned and are being implemented. It is hoped that it will be possible to prevent disorder and violence in the galleries and on the convention hall floor as well as outside in the proximity of the hall and also in the general environs of the city itself.

Chicago Police Department (CPD) officials are meeting daily at the amphitheatre with agents of the Secret Service and the FBI on security precautions.

A CPD spokesman said that everyone going to the amphitheatre would be subjected to police checks for credentials at both an outer and inner perimeter in the vicinity of the convention hall. The size of the arena reportedly precludes any effort to admit the public to gallery seats. Only persons with credentials issued by the Democratic National Committee will be allowed to enter.

Some 1500 policemen, many of them detectives in plain clothes, will guard the area. Command Posts will be established inside and outside the arena. The entire 11,000 man CPD will be on twelve-hour shifts. National Guard troops will be on stand-by duty in Chicago armories every night of the convention week. About 800 will be on regularly scheduled drills each night. Plans provide for these troops to stop drilling near the arena and move into the streets if there are severe racial or anti-war disorders. Extended use will be made of all personnel of the Cook County Sheriff's office. It is expected that certain units of the Regular Army will be on some degree of alert.

Police helicopters will fly constant surveillance over the five-mile route from downtown hotels to the meeting hall. Part of a parking lot at the amphitheatre will serve as a helicopter landing pad. Policemen with long-range weapons will be stationed on rooftops in the amphitheatre area.

Livestock shippers and traders who work at the stockyards will be subjected to the same scrutiny as convention-goers. Even manhole covers are to be sealed. The surveillance will extend to the city's three airports and bus and railroad terminals so that authorities can be alerted to the arrival of possible troublemakers. Eight thousand more canisters of the disabling chemical MACE are to be delivered to the CPD this week. A 2,136-foot long chain-link fence topped by barbed wire has been erected on the west side of the amphitheatre. A vast 8 block-wide area of stockyards, now mostly empty, stretches to the west from the fence, providing a buffer zone. Other security measures, similar to the plan used at the RNC will be in effect.

CPD officials are making plans to house 1500 prisoners in the yard of the Cook County jail in the event of mass arrests during the DNC. Sufficient tents and outdoor toilet facilities have been arranged for. Approximately 1500 additional prisoners could be squeezed into the county jail and the city's house of correction by over-crowding them. In addition it has been contemplated that dressing rooms at Soldiers Field might be used as makeshift jail facilities. The undersheriff of Cook County stated that, "If we believe 1/3 of the rumors we are hearing, we are in for a lot of trouble."

Anti-war, anti-administration groups planning a protest march past the amphitheatre charge that the show of force is designed to intimidate dissenters.

On 13 August Senator McCarthy told his supporters in a Los Angeles speech that he did not desire them to conduct demonstrations at the DNC in Chicago for fear of "unintended violence or disorder." Any rallies in his behalf should be held in the hometowns of the demonstrators, he said. "The presence of large numbers of visitors amidst summer tensions of Chicago may well add to the possibility of unintended violence or disorder," Senator McCarthy stated. McCarthy's campaign office seconded the Senator's plea. An assistant said, "The police and Secret Service are very tense. In an atmosphere like this it is very likely that there will be some disorder. We don't want any of the Senator's backers to be hurt or arrested in Chicago."

Opponents to the Vietnam War predict 30,000 to 40,000 protesters may come to Chicago during the convention and various groups of hippies, yippies, students, and black militants could swell the influx of dissidents to 100,000 according to some estimates. Chicago already has a considerable hard core of hoodlums, lawless, and other potential troublemakers.

George "Watusi" Lord - former "War Lord" of the Blackstone Rangers, a large organized street gang of colored youth in Chicago, advised in recent hearings conducted by the United States Senate Committee on Government Operations, that it was understood in the ghetto that various groups were going to concentrate around the convention area and that it would "take but one spark to start a big thing out there" - that there are a couple of guys in the Nationalist organizations who are very willing to go to jail just to start that and that there are people who are just waiting for an excuse to start something. He further testified that the youth gangs are well armed and even have some grenades.

SCLC leaders, after expressing strong dissatisfaction with the RNC choice of Nixon/Agnew, are turning their attention toward the DNC hoping to influence the delegates to nominate a man willing to fight to translate the goals of "Resurrection City" into positive action. In Chicago, the Poor People's campaigners will find it easy to turn out thousands whereas in Miami Beach where there are few Negroes it was necessary to import campaigners. It is probable that Rev. Abernathy and other SCLC leaders will be less reluctant to indulge in demonstrations stimulating mass arrests as to have done so in Miami might have put them in jail and forced them to miss the DNC. Abernathy has stated that they intend "to be heard" but "without being disruptive." Some SCLC leaders, notably Hosea Williams, reportedly desire more aggressive action than that taken at the RNC. He told a meeting of the National Coalition for an Open Convention on 11 August that positive demonstrations are necessary but they must be nonviolent. He said he wouldn't mind a blood bath "but that a violent demonstration would give ^{separatism} ~~separatism~~ a free pass to the White House." Although SCLC is not expected to endorse anyone, Williams said he would be working on his own for McCarthy.

The National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (NMCEWV), is sponsoring demonstrations throughout the DNC period. At a committee meeting held 11 August in Chicago, Rennie Davis, the committee's Chicago coordinator and a member of the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), and chaired by Davis, he urged that housing be found for out-of-town demonstrators coming to Chicago. The committee is to begin training on 20 August of marshals for the demonstrations. He said the committee needs doctors and electronics experts for the DNC.

The Washington, D. C., NMCEWV reportedly is arranging for busses to carry local demonstrators to the DNC and housing is to be arranged by the Chicago Peace Council, a group which has been active against the Vietnam War. No firm bussing plans have been made yet. Helen Gurewitz, a former CP member, on 5 August told the Washington NMCEWV that the National Mobilization Committee did not want racial trouble at the DNC so would not attempt disruptive tactics. At least one busload of demonstrators from D. C. was asked for by the National Committee.

David Dellinger, NMCEWV leader, has requested that all participants report to the 40 or 50 movement centers to be designated in Chicago. Three major centers are planned for Lincoln, Grant, and Hyde Parks. It should be noted that various groups have expressed interest in utilizing Chicago's parks although, to date, apparently none has received official sanction from the authorities. Tentatively planned to date by NMCEWV are:

- 24 August 1968 - Small demonstrations at induction centers, federal buildings, colleges and other targets to be selected.
- 25 August 1968 - Demonstrations at hotels housing delegates with the intent of testing the firmness of the Chicago Police Department.
- 26 August 1968 - A rally at Grant Park.
- 27 August 1968 - A demonstration birthday party for President L. B. Johnson at Soldiers Field. There are rumors that the city of Chicago plans to use Soldiers Field for a birthday party for the President that day.
- 28 August 1968 - A massive march through Chicago to the convention site where picket lines will be formed. Participants may engage in civil disobedience if they so desire.
- 29 August 1968 - Demonstrations at the three major movement centers. Afternoon demonstrations at induction centers, federal buildings, and at CPD headquarters.

Reputedly the NMCEWV, which includes members of the CP, may initiate "crash-ins" utilizing several thousand demonstrators who would be stationed at the corners of the convention building for the purpose of a direct confrontation with the CPD.

The NMCEWV has now initiated first aid training for individuals who will act as marshals.

The Resistance - a militant anti-draft group, will take part in the planned 28 August massive demonstration. Some may engage in civil disobedience designed to disrupt the convention.

The 5th Avenue Vietnam Peace Parade - Committee plus a coalition of some 100 anti-draft groups plan to demonstrate at the DNC. Presumably this is the same activity that is being sponsored by the NMCEWV.

The Radical Organizing Committee (ROC), Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, plans to participate in the DNC demonstrations. They have been in contact with the NMCEWV. ROC members plan to be in Chicago 17 August - 28 August to participate. This is the militant group that broke away from the Student Mobilization Committee. It has issued and is distributing a leaflet entitled, "Rock Chicago." It calls for demonstrations against the "warmongers" at the DNC. It calls for much the same schedule of demonstrations as those sponsored by the NMCEWV and is probably a joint participation.

The Veterans for Peace in Vietnam, Chicago, which was organized by the CP is mailing leaflets to various anti-war groups urging participation in the DNC demonstrations. The leaflet suggests that veterans who oppose the war take part in the Demonstrations by: marching into newspaper offices, television and radio stations, distributing leaflets, and marching on the platform committee hearings. It is inviting retired military personnel to testify at the platform hearings.

The Free Survival Committee - a hippie group - hopes to bring 50,000 youths to the city for a pop-music festival and "unconvention." They say they will live in the parks but have not received permission for the camp-in.

The Brotherhood of Free Man (another militant "hippie" type of organization) reputedly may demonstrate at the DNC.

Some members of the Young Socialist Alliance, Washington, D. C., the youth group of the Socialist Workers Party (SWP), have indicated that they want to participate in the demonstration.

Youth International Party (Yip or Yippies), a conglomerate group of hippies and others of the same ilk, plans to hold disruptive action in a week long "Life Festival" in Chicago during the DNC. The Yippies include an extremely loosely organized group of sexual freedom advocates, folk singers, protestors of all sorts, and various young anti-establishment agitators. Reportedly they plan to organize a self-defense group including members of the militant Black Panther Party (BPP). Eldridge Cleaver of the BPP has asked Jerry Rubin, Yippie leader, to run for vice president on the Peace and Freedom party ticket. Cleaver is a candidate for the Presidential nomination. The idea is to give the "Life Festival" the flavor of a political convention. YIP intends to hold a mock election at Lincoln Park. Reportedly it will nominate a pig for President of the United States of America--then butcher it and eat it. YIP has also announced a "love-in" for Lincoln Park whether or not the city authorizes sleeping there for a week or not. YIP will join the NMCEW mass march planned for the 28th.

The New Left is hoping for some 50,000 demonstrators at the DNC. Current plans call for two circles of demonstrators around the convention area to shut off all entrances to the convention hall.

The New York Student Rally Committee indicated that a coalition of McCarthy supporters, peace, freedom and anti-administration forces is seeking to rally 100,000 students to go to Chicago for the DNC. Chartered buses are scheduled to leave New York 25 August. Churches and sympathizers are being asked to provide free sleeping accommodations. Bus tickets are being sold at the Headquarters of the Radical Organizing Committee and of the 5th Avenue Vietnam Peace Committee in New York.

The Coalition for an Open Convention - organized by Allard Lowenstein - states it will stage a rally on 25 August - Convention Eve - at Soldiers Field. To date Chicago officials have not granted them permission to use the 100,000 seat field.

The Engelwood Ministerial Association - a group of Negro Protestant Ministers, has agreed to call for demonstrators who will lie in the streets around the convention site in order to block all vehicular traffic. A date has not been set.

Rumor is circulating on the campus of Cleveland State University, Cleveland, Ohio, to the effect that groups planning to disrupt the DNC are obtaining counterfeit admission tickets to the convention. According to the rumor, demonstrators will be furnished with these tickets in order to load the visitors gallery for disruptive purposes.

Ramparts Magazine has indicated it will publish a newspaper in Chicago during the DNC and list the schedule of demonstrations.

[REDACTED] an official of SDS at the University of Oregon, and his girl friend, [REDACTED] are reported planning to attend the DNC where [REDACTED] will be a page. He reportedly has suicidal tendencies, is in need of psychiatric care, and is capable of committing violence. [REDACTED] is a former member of the CP.

The Dow Action Committee of Los Angeles, which was formed to protest manufacture of napalm, plans to send a small delegation to the Dow Chemical Company during the DNC.

Donald Kalish, University of California Philosophy Department head and a leader in the Peace Action Council, has stated that he will leave Los Angeles for Chicago on 23 August to participate in demonstrations.

Members of two Negro Youth gangs - the "Jackson Executioners" and the "Soul Brothers" reputedly plan to shoot an individual (unidentified) at the DNC. The source is an FBI informant who has proved reliable in the past. Reportedly they have also advised ghetto residents that they had better stock up on groceries as grocery stores will be burned out.

The Cuba Group (AKA: Committee of Fifteen, etc.) a Cuban exile organization anti-Castro, plans to organize an automobile caravan from Miami and other cities to demonstrate at the DNC.

The District of Columbia's Democratic National Convention delegates plan to nominate Rev. Channing E. Phillips for President as a favorite-son candidate on the first ballot. Philip M. Stern, alternate National Committeeman-elect, will deliver the nominating speech for Phillips, who is the National Committeeman-elect and delegation chairman. The delegates, elected 7 May on a ticket pledged to Senator Robert F. Kennedy, are now uncommitted beyond the first ballot. Phillips, a member of the D. C.'s controversial Black United Front, is generally considered a moderate among local black militants.

The foregoing does not purport to be a complete listing of groups, individuals and activities surfaced to date through various sources. It is more or less supplemental to the 36-page report issued at Chicago, Illinois, 15 July 1968 by the FBI and captioned, "Demonstrations at the National Democratic Convention, August 1968."

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT - 12-16 August 1968

POTENTIAL ACTIVITIES RELATING TO
THE DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION

As indicated in prior reports, the Democratic Party National Convention (DNC) is scheduled to open in Chicago, 26 August 1968, amidst an atmosphere of great uncertainty and apprehension. In addition to the normal high excitement and tension generated by a major party national political convention in a year in which, following the decision of the incumbent President of the United States not to seek reelection, there is the near frantic activity in behalf of a number of opposing candidates and groups with widely differing platform policy viewpoints, there is added the probable difficulties engendered by a threatened strike of both bus and taxi drivers and a continued strike against the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. which could result in a near communications blackout and has resulted in daily sabotage of communication lines through the severance of telephone cables. To all that, must be added the increasingly strong possibility of dangerous disorder and harassment arising from the vast amount of protest and propagandizing activity apparently intended by assorted groups with racial, peace, hippie, student, anti-administration, leftist, and rightist overtones.

In consequence of all this, extraordinary security measures beyond anything ever before devised for a political convention have already been planned and are being implemented. It is hoped that it will be possible to prevent disorder and violence in the galleries and on the convention hall floor as well as outside in the proximity of the hall and also in the general environs of the city itself.

Chicago Police Department (CPD) officials are meeting daily at the amphitheatre with agents of the Secret Service and the FBI on security precautions.

A CPD spokesman said that everyone going to the amphitheatre would be subjected to police checks for credentials at both an outer and inner perimeter in the vicinity of the convention hall. The size of the arena reportedly precludes any effort to admit the public to gallery seats. Only persons with credentials issued by the Democratic National Committee will be allowed to enter.

Some 1500 policemen, many of them detectives in plain clothes, will guard the area. Command Posts will be established inside and outside the arena. The entire 11,000 man CPD will be on twelve-hour shifts. National Guard troops will be on stand-by duty in Chicago armories every night of the convention week. About 800 will be on regularly scheduled drills each night. Plans provide for these troops to stop drilling near the arena and move into the streets if there are severe racial or anti-war disorders. Extended use will be made of all personnel of the Cook County Sheriff's office. It is expected that certain units of the Regular Army will be on some degree of alert.

Police helicopters will fly constant surveillance over the five-mile route from downtown hotels to the meeting hall. Part of a parking lot at the amphitheatre will serve as a helicopter landing pad. Policemen with long-range weapons will be stationed on rooftops in the amphitheatre area.

Livestock shippers and traders who work at the stockyards will be subjected to the same scrutiny as convention-goers. Even manhole covers are to be sealed. The surveillance will extend to the city's three airports and bus and railroad terminals so that authorities can be alerted to the arrival of possible troublemakers. Eight thousand more canisters of the disabling chemical MACE are to be delivered to the CPD this week. A 2,136-foot long chain-link fence topped by barbed wire has been erected on the west side of the amphitheatre. A vast 8 block-wide area of stockyards, now mostly empty, stretches to the west from the fence, providing a buffer zone. Other security measures, similar to the plan used at the RNC will be in effect.

CPD officials are making plans to house 1500 prisoners in the yard of the Cook County jail in the event of mass arrests during the DNC. Sufficient tents and outdoor toilet facilities have been arranged for. Approximately 1500 additional prisoners could be squeezed into the county jail and the city's house of correction by over-crowding them. In addition it has been contemplated that dressing rooms at Soldiers Field might be used as makeshift jail facilities. The undersheriff of Cook County stated that, "If we believe 1/3 of the rumors we are hearing, we are in for a lot of trouble."

Anti-war, anti-administration groups planning a protest march past the amphitheatre charge that the show of force is designed to intimidate dissenters.

On 13 August Senator McCarthy told his supporters in Los Angeles speech that he did not desire them to conduct demonstrations at the DNC in Chicago for fear of "unintended violence or disorder." Any rallies in his behalf should be held in the hometowns of the demonstrators, he said. "The presence of large numbers of visitors amidst summer tensions of Chicago may well add to the possibility of unintended violence or disorder," Senator McCarthy stated. McCarthy's campaign office seconded the Senator's plea. An assistant said, "The police and Secret Service are very tense. In an atmosphere like this it is very likely that there will be some disorder. We don't want any of the Senator's backers to be hurt or arrested in Chicago."

Opponents to the Vietnam War predict 30,000 to 40,000 protesters may come to Chicago during the convention and various groups of hippies, yippies, students, and black militants could swell the influx of dissidents to 100,000 according to some estimates. Chicago already has a considerable hard core of hoodlums, lawless, and other potential troublemakers.

George "Watasi" Lord - former "War Lord" of the Blackstone Rangers, a large organized street gang of colored youth in Chicago, advised in recent hearings conducted by the United States Senate Committee on Government Operations, that it was understood in the ghettos that various groups were going to concentrate around the convention area and that it would "take but one spark to start a big thing out there" - that there are a couple of guys in the Nationalist organizations who are very willing to go to jail just to start that and that there are people who are just waiting for an excuse to start something. He further testified that the youth gangs are well armed and even have some grenades.

SCLC leaders, after expressing strong dissatisfaction with the RNC choice of Nixon/Agnew, are turning their attention toward the DNC hoping to influence the delegates to nominate a man willing to fight to translate the goals of "Resurrection City" into positive action. In Chicago, the Poor People's campaigners will find it easy to turn out thousands whereas in Miami Beach where there are few Negroes it was necessary to import campaigners. It is probable that Rev. Abernathy and other SCLC leaders will be less reluctant to indulge in demonstrations stimulating mass arrests as to have done so in Miami might have put them in jail and forced them to miss the DNC. Abernathy has stated that they intend "to be heard" but "without being disruptive." Some SCLC leaders, notably Hosea Williams, reportedly desire more aggressive action than that taken at the RNC. He told a meeting of the National Coalition for an Open Convention on 11 August that positive demonstrations are necessary but they must be nonviolent. He said he wouldn't mind a blood bath "but that a violent demonstration would give ^{the} ~~the~~ ^{the} a free pass to the White House." Although SCLC is not expected to endorse anyone, Williams said he would be working on his own for McCarthy.

The National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (NMCEWV), is sponsoring demonstrations throughout the DNC period. At a committee meeting held 11 August in Chicago, Rennie Davis, the committee's Chicago coordinator and a member of the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), and chaired by Davis, he urged that housing be found for out-of-town demonstrators coming to Chicago. The committee is to begin training on 20 August of marshals for the demonstrations. He said the committee needs doctors and electronics experts for the DNC.

The Washington, D. C., NMCEWV reputedly is arranging for busses to carry local demonstrators to the DNC and housing is to be arranged by the Chicago Peace Council, a group which has been active against the Vietnam War. No firm bussing plans have been made yet. Helen Gurewitz, a former CP member, on 5 August told the Washington NMCEWV that the National Mobilization Committee did not want racial trouble at the DNC so would not attempt disruptive tactics. At least one busload of demonstrators from D. C. was asked for by the National Committee.

David Dellinger, NMCEWV leader, has requested that all participants report to the 40 or 50 movement centers to be designated in Chicago. Three major centers are planned for Lincoln, Grant, and Hyde Parks. It should be noted that various groups have expressed interest in utilizing Chicago's parks although, to date, apparently none has received official sanction from the authorities. Tentatively planned to date by NMCEWV are:

- 24 August 1968 - Small demonstrations at induction centers, federal buildings, colleges and other targets to be selected.
- 25 August 1968 - Demonstrations at hotels housing delegates with the intent of testing the firmness of the Chicago Police Department.
- 26 August 1968 - A rally at Grant Park.
- 27 August 1968 - A demonstration birthday party for President L. B. Johnson at Soldiers Field. There are rumors that the city of Chicago plans to use Soldiers Field for a birthday party for the President that day.
- 28 August 1968 - A massive march through Chicago to the convention site where picket lines will be formed. Participants may engage in civil disobedience if they so desire.
- 29 August 1968 - Demonstrations at the three major movement centers. Afternoon demonstrations at induction centers, federal buildings, and at CPD headquarters.

Reputedly the NMCEWV, which includes members of the CP, may initiate "crash-ins" utilizing several thousand demonstrators who would be stationed at the corners of the convention building for the purpose of a direct confrontation with the CPD.

The NMCEWV has now initiated first aid training for individuals who will act as marshals.

The Resistance - a militant anti-draft group, will take part in the planned 28 August massive demonstration. Some may engage in civil disobedience designed to disrupt the convention.

The 5th Avenue Vietnam Peace Parade - Committee plus a coalition of some 100 anti-draft groups plan to demonstrate at the DNC. Presumably this is the same activity that is being sponsored by the NMCEWV.

The Radical Organizing Committee (ROC), Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, plans to participate in the DNC demonstrations. They have been in contact with the NMCEWV. ROC members plan to be in Chicago 17 August - 28 August to participate. This is the militant group that broke away from the Student Mobilization Committee. It has issued and is distributing a leaflet entitled, "Rock Chicago." It calls for demonstrations against the "warmongers" at the DNC. It calls for much the same schedule of demonstrations as those sponsored by the NMCEWV and is probably a joint participation.

The Veterans for Peace in Vietnam, Chicago, which was organized by the CP is mailing leaflets to various anti-war groups urging participation in the DNC demonstrations. The leaflet suggests that veterans who oppose the war take part in the Demonstrations by: marching into newspaper offices, television and radio stations, distributing leaflets, and marching on the platform committee hearings. It is inviting retired military personnel to testify at the platform hearings.

The Free Survival Committee - a hippie group - hopes to bring 50,000 youths to the city for a pop-music festival and "unconvention." They say they will live in the parks but have not received permission for the camp-in.

The Brotherhood of Free Man (another militant "hippie" type of organization) reputedly may demonstrate at the DNC.

Some members of the Young Socialist Alliance, Washington, D. C., the youth group of the Socialist Workers Party (SWP), have indicated that they want to participate in the demonstration.

Youth International Party (Yip or Yippies), a conglomerate group of hippies and others of the same ilk, plans to hold disruptive action in a week long "Life Festival" in Chicago during the DNC. The Yippies include an extremely loosely organized group of sexual freedom advocates, folk singers, protestors of all sorts, and various young anti-establishment agitators. Reportedly they plan to organize a self-defense group including members of the militant Black Panther Party (BPP). Eldridge Cleaver of the BPP has asked Jerry Rubin, Yippie leader, to run for vice president on the Peace and Freedom party ticket. Cleaver is a candidate for the Presidential nomination. The idea is to give the "Life Festival" the flavor of a political convention. YIP intends to hold a mock election at Lincoln Park. Reportedly it will nominate a pig for President of the United States of America--then butcher it and eat it. YIP has also announced a "love-in" for Lincoln Park whether or not the city authorizes sleeping there for a week or not. YIP will join the NMCEWV mass march planned for the 28th.

The New Left is hoping for some 50,000 demonstrators at the DNC. Current plans call for two circles of demonstrators around the convention area to shut off all entrances to the convention hall.

The New York Student Rally Committee indicated that a coalition of McCarthy supporters, peace, freedom and anti-administration forces is seeking to rally 100,000 students to go to Chicago for the DNC. Chartered busses are scheduled to leave New York 25 August. Churches and sympathizers are being asked to provide free sleeping accommodations. Bus tickets are being sold at the Headquarters of the Radical Organizing Committee and of the 5th Avenue Vietnam Peace Committee in New York.

The Coalition for an Open Convention - organized by Allard Lowenstein - states it will stage a rally on 25 August - Convention Eve - at Soldiers Field. To date Chicago officials have not granted them permission to use the 100,000 seat field.

The Engelwood Ministerial Association - a group of Negro Protestant Ministers, has agreed to call for demonstrators who will lie in the streets around the convention site in order to block all vehicular traffic. A date has not been set.

Rumor is circulating on the campus of Cleveland State University, Cleveland, Ohio, to the effect that groups planning to disrupt the DNC are obtaining counterfeit admission tickets to the convention. According to the rumor, demonstrators will be furnished with these tickets in order to load the visitors gallery for disruptive purposes.

Ramparts Magazine has indicated it will publish a newspaper in Chicago during the DNC and list the schedule of demonstrations.

[REDACTED] an official of SDS at the University of Oregon, and his girl friend, [REDACTED], are reported planning to attend the DNC where [REDACTED] will be a page. He reportedly has suicidal tendencies, is in need of psychiatric care, and is capable of committing violence. [REDACTED] is a former member of the CP.

The Dow Action Committee of Los Angeles, which was formed to protest manufacture of napalm, plans to send a small delegation to the Dow Chemical Company during the DNC.

Donald Kalish, University of California Philosophy Department head and a leader in the Peace Action Council, has stated that he will leave Los Angeles for Chicago on 23 August to participate in demonstrations.

Members of two Negro Youth gangs - the "Jackson Executioners" and the "Soul Brothers" reputedly plan to shoot an individual (unidentified) at the DNC. The source is an FBI informant who has proved reliable in the past. Reportedly they have also advised ghetto residents that they had better stock up on groceries as grocery stores will be burned out.

The Cuba Group (AKA: Committee of Fifteen, etc.) a Cuban exile organization anti-Castro, plans to organize an automobile caravan from Miami and other cities to demonstrate at the DNC.

The District of Columbia's Democratic National Convention delegates plan to nominate Rev. Channing E. Phillips for President as a favorite-son candidate on the first ballot. Philip M. PROJECT MERRIMACK - Special Report

On 5 August 1968, the Washington Mobilization for Peace announced they plan to rally in Chicago during the National Democratic Convention to be held 25-29 August 1968. All action would be of a nondisruptive nature in order not to hinder the Convention in any way and will culminate with several thousand people, mostly students, who will march 6 miles down Hallstead Street to the closest point to the Convention site, where they will remain until a nomination is made.

Forty (40) Mobilization Centers are to be set-up by geographical locations. A listing of these centers will reportedly appear in Ramparts Magazine.

28WEEKLY - SITUATION REPORT - 19-23 August 1968

As the opening of the Democratic National Convention at Chicago, Illinois on 26 August 1968 draws near, interest and apprehension continue to mount because of the vast number of unpredictable attendant thereto, both in the Convention's proceedings and in the proposed and/or possible activities which are not directly a part of the Convention.

The threat of serious disruptive activity and the real possibility of violence has been recognized by law enforcement groups and by certain dissident elements as well. Several leaders have advised their followers to abandon plans to attend unless they are willing to assume the obvious risks. It is not known at this time, if these warnings will substantially reduce the number of demonstrators in attendance.

Although there are a number of groups and individuals who will be on the scene, whose intention or potential for disruptive action exists in varying degrees, the three largest groupings and probably the most difficult to deal with will be:

The National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (NMCEWVN) - which has assumed the leadership role in coordinating the activities of some 100-150 peace groups, as well as unaffiliated individuals, at the Democratic National Convention. While autonomous groups will be making their own decisions relative to their participation, the National Mobilization Committee is providing direction and plans for mass actions.

The Youth International Party has assumed leadership and direction of a potentially large number of hippies, yippies, and assorted off-beat individuals, whose purpose is essentially to "have experiences", antagonize authority and express complete dissatisfaction with the "establishment". Control by leaders will be loose at best and may be nearly nonexistent.

The third and perhaps the most dangerous grouping is the amalgam of black nationalist militant organizations, local colored youth street gangs, and assorted racially oriented organizations. There is no one primary source of leadership among these groups and the individuals in many cases will be acting more or less spontaneously.

One unusual aspect relative to the Democratic National Convention will be meetings held in Chicago during and after the Convention, by the National Committee of Inquiry, a broadly based all-Negro group formed during the past spring to evaluate statements by political candidates and then make recommendations to the black community. Representative John Conyers, Jr., of Detroit is the committee's temporary chairman. Members include civil rights activists from moderate and militant groups; Democratic and Republican politicians; educators, entertainers, doctors, lawyers, black nationalists and persons on public assistance. Bill Hall, a field secretary for the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), is the committee's executive secretary. Area chairmen include:

Yvonne Braithwaite, Assembly-woman from Los Angeles.

Alderman A. A. Rayner of Chicago.

Dr. Albert Wheeler, professor at the University of Michigan Medical School and Michigan state president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Dr. John Holloman, a past president of the National Medical Association.

Benjamin Brown, of Atlanta, a member of the Georgia Legislature.

Dr. Ralph David Abernathy, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Julian Bond, Georgia State Representative.

Mayor Richard G. Hatcher of Gary, Indiana.

Floyd E. McKissick, director of the Congress of Racial Equality.

Lerone Bennett, senior editor of Ebony Magazine.

Harry Belafonte, the entertainer.

Mrs. Coretta King, widow of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

William Smith, a Democratic party official from Minnesota.

The "invasion" of Czechoslovakia by Russia and her satellites has not only taken over much page one space from the Democratic National Convention but may have considerable affect on the ultimate platform planks adopted. Also, according to a Scripps-Howard Staff writer, it has resulted in the CPUSA having to desperately seek some means of preventing its own destruction in the wave of revulsion evoked by the "Soviet rape of Czechoslovakia."

Already riddled by factionalism and weakened by its estrangement from the younger and more vigorous New Left, CPUSA is ridden by the fear that Moscow's brutal suppression of the liberal Czechoslovakian regime will finish the wrecking job that started in 1956 when Russian troops put down the Hungarian revolution.

Yesterday Gus Hall, the party's general secretary who maintains himself in office almost solely by virtue of his durable ties with Moscow, issued a gingerly (sic) statement on Czechoslovakia that was a masterpiece of straddling the issue.

The statement was a clear attempt to find some rationale for supporting Russian intervention in Czechoslovakia without further alienating the party's dwindling support among the young activists of the New Left and the Negro militants. Experts familiar with the tormented history of CPUSA do not think it will succeed.

The senile decay of CPUSA was well advanced even before the shock of the Czechoslovakian invasion sent it into its present convulsions. In the loose confederation of the New Left there were already half a dozen political organisms which experts regarded as more "pure" in their Marxist-Leninist doctrine than CPUSA itself. These include the Progressive Labor Party, Trotskyite groups and certain Negro militant groups.

"Far from being the disaster for the New Left that many people thought it would be," said one expert, "this is going to prove a tremendous windfall for them. This will finish the destruction of CPUSA and leave all the elements of the far left no place to go but to flock under the umbrella of the New Left.

"This is actually in microcosm what is happening all over the communist world - the falling away of this generation from the Moscow-dominated orthodoxy. It started with Tito, then came the Hungarian revolution, the splitting off of Red China, and now the Czechoslovakian episode. Within a year there is certain to emerge a new communist international, and this one will not be centered in Moscow. It will probably be dominated by Luigi Longo, the Italian communist leader."

On 22 August 1968, the State Department arranged for foreign ambassadors to attend the Democratic National Convention. Diplomats will stay at the Edgewater Beach Hotel and will be transported by chartered aircraft.

SPECIAL REPORT

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION (DNC)

The following hard information has been received from sources considered reliable and represent the more noteworthy developments in the current demonstration and resistance atmosphere surrounding the Democratic National Convention.

The U.S. Attorney, Chicago, Illinois, is convening a Special Federal Grand Jury to make inquiries concerning an allegation that the Blackstone Rangers, a Negro youth gang, plan to assassinate Candidates Humphry and McCarthy as well as Senator John McClellan. Subpoenas are being issued for all gang leaders and members who may possibly be implicated and hearings should commence on 23 August 1968.

It has been reported that a Black Nationalist group in Los Angeles, California, has assigned four (4) individuals to kill U.S. District Court Judge James Parsons and three prominent Chicago politicians. The prospective victims, all Negroes, have been selected because of either their prominence or because they have not supported the aims of the Nationalist organization.

Chicago Police have been investigating acts of sabotage against the Columbia Broadcasting Company. Five television cables have been cut in the vicinity of the Blackstone and Hilton Hotels all between 16 and 18 August 1968. No arrests have been reported.

The Socialist Workers Party, a cited organization, has decided to confine its Convention activity to the distribution of leaflets during demonstrations conducted by other groups.

It has been reported that the East Side Service Organization (ESSO) will send representatives to Chicago to participate in demonstrations. This New York City based group is comprised of violently anti-police and anti-social individuals who normally carry knives and who have been known to use fire-arms and Molotov Cocktails. Present plans indicate the participants will travel in three automobiles and will depart New York on 23 August 1968.

Ramparts Magazine plans to publish a daily paper during the Convention and will be based at the University Christian High School, Chicago, Illinois.

On 22 August 1968, a group of approximately 150 "Hippie - Yippie" types demonstrated without official sanction in the Chicago area. Carrying signs derogatory to the Chicago Police Department, the demonstrators were protesting the killing of a "Hippie" by a police officer on the night of 21 August 1968. No incidents or arrests of demonstrators were reported.

The Czechoslovak National Council of America has obtained a city permit to rally at the Chicago Civic Center on 24 August 1968. The rally which could draw as many as 5000 has been called to protest the Russian take over in Czechoslovakia.

26 August 1968

PROJECT MERRIMACK - Special Report

A source of known reliability has indicated that Dave DELINGER's National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, located at 437 Dearborn Street, Chicago, Illinois, telephone #312-959-2666, expects approximately 50,000 National Mobilization Committee participants to be in Chicago during the conduct of the Democratic National Convention. According to this same source, demonstrations will commence on Wednesday evening, 26 August 1968, during the nomination proceedings.

The following hard information has been received from sources considered reliable and represent the more noteworthy developments in the current demonstration and resistance atmosphere surrounding the Democratic National Convention.

An official of a Federal law enforcement Agency has indicated that it has been extremely difficult to obtain advance plans of potential demonstrating groups. He advised that if there are demonstrations they will be spontaneous and the actions of individual organizations acting independently of each other.

Information from a reliable source indicated that individuals associated with the East Side Service Organization (ESSO) held a meeting in Chicago and discussed sabotaging of the Edison Company, disrupting telephone service and interfering with the Chicago Subway system. No decisions were reached at the meeting.

It has been reported that a member of the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party (MFDP) stated that Humphrey must be stopped even if by assassination. MFDP members plan floor demonstrations and disturbances if Eugene McCarthy is not nominated.

The Chicago Police Dept. has advised that one [REDACTED] has brought guns into Chicago for his group. [REDACTED] may be identical to [REDACTED] of a small Communist group oriented toward Red China.

The CPUSA has opened an office on South Halsted Street, Chicago to funnel information to interested C. P. members and to act as a coordinating point for local C. P. activity.

On 25 August 1968, the Chicago Bus Drivers walked off their jobs joining more than 3500 cab drivers and approximately 11,800 Electrical Workers on strike in the Chicago area. The latter strike has been marked by several incidents of cable cutting.

[REDACTED]

On 24 and 25 August 1968, one [REDACTED] attempted unsuccessfully to hold rallies in Chicago protesting the use of Federal Funds to bring troops into Chicago.

A Confidential and reliable source has advised that an officer of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee indicated at a Committee meeting that plans have been made to bomb the FBI and other Federal Buildings in Los Angeles and that assistance has been promised from outside the U. S. once the activity begins.

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION (DNC)

The following hard information has been received from sources considered reliable and represent the more noteworthy developments in the current demonstration and resistance atmosphere surrounding the Democratic National Convention.

On 26 August 1968, Tom Hayden, a leader of the National Mobilization Committee was arrested twice by Chicago Police. The initial arrest was for disorderly conduct, criminal damage to property and resisting arrest. The second arrest occurred when Hayden attempted to enter the Hilton Hotel.

Chicago Police experienced difficulty dispersing some 800 Hippies who marched on Police Headquarters during the afternoon of 26 August 1968. Police units were forced to utilize clubs to aid in crowd control.

During the early morning hours of 27 August 1968, hundreds of policemen were required to disperse over 2000 rock throwing demonstrators at Lincoln Park. Tear gas and clubs were used to control the mob and force them from the Park.

Labor strife continues in the Chicago area and several incidents of violence were reported directed against the Chicago Transit Authority. The Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) will sponsor a rally in support of the CTA Bus strikers on 27 August 1968.

On 25 August 1968 Chicago Police authorities were advised anonymously that Vice President Humphrey would be shot at the Conrad Hilton Hotel. On 26 August 1968 a nineteen year old youth was discovered on the roof of the Hilton. A search of this individual's automobile by police and Secret Service Agents disclosed a twenty two caliber rifle. Suspect was arrested for unlawful use of a weapon and released on bond.

It has been reported that fifty members of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (NMC) have formulated plans to tie up elevators in Loop hotels, stall traffic in the Loop and block buses bearing delegates to the Convention site. While planning to operate in small units, the group is attempting to induce other organizations to join in the disruption.

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION

The following hard information has been received from sources considered reliable and represents the more noteworthy developments in the current demonstration and resistance atmosphere surrounding the Democratic National Convention.

Roy Wilkens, leader of the N.A.A.C.P., has reportedly been marked for assassination on Wednesday, 28 August by members of the Black Panther Party of Newark, New Jersey. Wilkens' killing is to be accompanied by fire bombings in Chicago, Newark, New York and other major cities, with the ultimate hope that Negro riots will erupt throughout these areas. The contract for Wilkens' death allegedly was offered by Italian mobsters to the Revolutionary Action Movement (R.A.M.) but was rejected at a meeting held on 25 August 1968 in New York. Wilkens has been alerted to the plan and does not intend to visit Chicago for the Convention.

Bobby Seale, Black Panther Party member made a highly inflammatory speech to a crowd of 2000 persons gathered in Lincoln Park on 27 August 1968. Seale, working the crowd into a highly mob mood, called for the people to take up arms and go to the Loop area in small groups and create as much violence as possible.

Labor strife in Chicago still compounds the confusion and unrest associated with the Convention. Fire bombings and incidents of rock throwing have highlighted the current transit strike. Two companies of the Illinois National Guard have been ordered to assist police in dealing with possible violence arising from demonstrations planned by the Chicago Transit Union, the Students for Democratic Society, and the Black Panther Party.

The American Civil Liberties Union (A.C.L.U.) is reportedly suing the Yippies in the refiling of a suit against the City of Chicago. An A.C.L.U. attorney has allegedly enlisted photographers to photograph police actions, and persons who have been injured but not arrested have been requested to file a complaint with the A.C.L.U.

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION

The following hard information has been received from sources considered reliable and represent the more noteworthy developments in the current demonstration and resistance atmosphere surrounding the Democratic National Convention.

At approximately 4 P.M., 28 August, about one hundred members of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference including the Reverends Abernathy and Young, began a peaceful march to the Hilton Hotel. Augmented by thousands of Hippies, the original one hundred marchers soon grew to a crowd of from 3000 to 5000. Upon reaching the vicinity of the Hotel, Hippies in the group attempted to rush the Hilton and the conflict with police and troops was on. Prior to the outbreak of violence, Abernathy and Young left the march and departed for the Convention Amphitheater.

Early in the evening of 28 August 1968, thousands of dissidents gathered in Grant Park, heard speeches and pep talks by Dave Dellinger, leader of the New Left, Tom Newman of the Hippie Movement and Dick Gregory. Many of the participants in this rally later moved on the Hilton Hotel and joined in the battle with the authorities.

Jerry Rubin, leader of the Yippies, was arrested during the height of the conflict and charged with inciting to riot. It had been reported earlier that Rubin had been frightened by the rough action and was going to remove himself from the scene.

Other dissident leaders arrested during the course of the day included anti-war spokesman Staughton Lind, Abbie Hoffman, a leader of the Yippies and David Wyatt, an official in both the Yippie and Hippie groups.

Picketing demonstrations, planned by the National Mobilization Committee, are to take place all day Thursday, 29 August 1968 at the following locations: U.S. Army Induction Center, Chicago Police Headquarters, Federal Building, Welfare Offices and major Loop banks that conduct business in South Africa.

Numerous dissident groups such as the Radical Organizing Committee, Students for a Democratic Society, Womens Liberation, West Side Organization and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference plan meetings and/or demonstrations for Thursday, 29 August 1968.

NATIONAL CONFERENCE ON BLACK POWER

The 3rd National Conference on Black Power, scheduled to meet for four days in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania from 29 August to 1 September 1968, held its opening session Thursday night at the Church of the Advocate, which has a seating capacity of 1500-2000 people, and is headquarters for this conference. The first conference was held in Washington, D.C., in September 1966, and the second in Newark, N.J. in July 1967. The Newark conference, held in the aftermath of riots in that city and on the eve of the Detroit riots, attracted 1094 delegates from 126 cities in 26 states. At the end of the 2nd conference, a Continuations Committee was named to oversee implementation of resolutions passed and to set up the 3rd conference. Dr. Nathan WRIGHT of Newark, N.J. is chairman of the Committee. Ron KARENGA, leader of the Militant Los Angeles group, "US", is a Vice President. Other committee members are: Omar AHMED and Isaiah ROBINSON of N.Y.; Rev. Paul WASHINGTON and Rev. Lorenzo SHEPARD (Chairman of Council of Black Clergy); and Walter PALMER of Black People's Unity Movement.

According to C. Summer STONE, former aide to Adam C. POWELL and a Vice President of the Continuations Committee, "The 1st Conference defined black power for us. The 2nd discussed how it operates. The question now is how to implement it."

The theme of the Conference will be, "Black Self-Determination and Black Unity Through Direct Action." How to achieve black control of the nation's black communities appears to be the main issue. More than 70 scholarly papers are listed for discussion in workshops which will be conducted in some 7 or 8 locations in addition to the Headquarters. Dr. WRIGHT said the conference might discuss political endorsements and whether Negroes should be involved in revolution or reform or in the establishment of a 3rd or 4th political party.

Allegedly, over 700 persons from 96 cities had already registered for the parley by midday of the 29th. The conference, which is being held in Philadelphia at the invitation of the Philadelphia Council of Black Clergy, is the first to actually be held within a black community and anticipates participation by 1500 to 2000 Negroes. Representatives of some 600 organizations, including the most militant in the nation, are being brought together.

Early arrivals included Claifornia State Senator Mervyn DYMALLY, Playwright Leroi JONES, and the Rev. Jesse JACKSON of SCLC. Charleme MITCHELL, CPUSA's female Negro candidate for the U.S. Presidency, reportedly will take part in the conference on August 29 and 30, 1968.

It has been indicated that white persons will be excluded from participation and observance of the conference and white newsmen were barred from an opening day news conference - allegedly because white newspapers printed distorted stories of last year's Newark meeting and because they haven't hired enough Negroes.

Although there is some concern that civil disturbance or violence might erupt during this conference, it is not considered a grave threat. Most of the participants will be leaders of nonlocal organizations and they will not have large numbers of their adherents with them. The majority of the Philadelphia host committee is believed desirous of avoiding any confrontation between the Philadelphia Police Department and the various groups. The word went out that the hosts would provide the security. Reports had first indicated that security for the conference would be provided by the "Black Community Defense" (BCD), an East Orange, N. J., organization believed to have supplied the security for the 1967 Newark conference. The BCD is a black militant group of about 60 members organized somewhat in military format and reputedly trained in karate, weapons use, etc. Robert HARVEY, BCD leader, reportedly advised his members that they would not handle the job because financing was unsatisfactory. Latest word received indicates that HARVEY and about 50 members of his organization are in Philadelphia and probably are providing the conference's security and self-policing. Neither Rap BROWN nor Stokeley CARMICHAEL is expected to attend.

The Philadelphia Police Department has beefed up and gone on extended shifts; the Philadelphia State Police are on precautionary alert, and the Pennsylvania Army National Guard has been contacted but no units have been alerted.

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION

The following hard information has been received from sources considered reliable and represent the more noteworthy developments in the current demonstration and resistance atmosphere surrounding the Democratic National Convention.

During a speech made in Grant Park on the evening of 29 August 1968, David DELLINGER, Chairman of the National Mobilization Committee, inferred that he wanted to create a National Liberation Front in the U. S. A. He also read a telegram of support from Havana, Cuba, which ended "Create more Chicagos."

On 29 August 1968, the Rev. Ralph ABERNATHY, President of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), addressed a crowd of 5000 gathered in the vicinity of the Hilton Hotel. ABERNATHY stated that although the SCLC had lost at the Convention, they would win in the streets. Dissident leaders Tom HAYDEN, Rene DAVIS, Dick GREGORY, and Andy YOUNG also spoke to the crowd with DAVIS stating that his organization (NMC) is expanding their infiltration of the Armed Forces.

Shortly after 7 p.m., 29 August 1968, a group of some 2000 demonstrators led by Dick GREGORY defied Police orders and attempted to march on the AMPHITHEATRE. GREGORY, Rennie DAVIS, and approximately 40 others were arrested. Tension mounted following these arrests and culminated in an outbreak of fighting which caused some property damage in the area. Police and troop units finally were able to confine the crowd, which now numbered about 4000, to Grant Park.

It was reported on 29 August 1968 that eighty officers of the Chicago Police Department had been injured as a direct result of the demonstrations held during the DNC. The vast majority of the injuries (51) were incurred during the violence of 28 August 1968.

Several prominent national political figures including Sen. Eugene McCARTHY and Pierre SALINGER addressed dissident elements in the Grant Park area during the daylight hours of 29 August 1968.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

The University of Chicago's noted psychologist-psychiatrist Dr. Bruno Bettelheim contributed an article in the September 1969 issue of Encounter, a British literary publication, on the world's (especially America's) adolescent rebellion. The Austrian-born and Vienna-trained Freudian psychoanalyst experienced the concentration camps of Nazi Germany and fled Europe in 1939. He has since specialized in the psychological problems of adolescents and published several books on the topic. Bettelheim addressed the House Special Subcommittee on Education last March (his most significant comments were reported in the Situation Information Report of 11 April 1969) and drew for the Subcommittee a comparison between the contemporary American youth experience and its many similarities to pre- and early, Hitler Germany.

Although Dr. Bettelheim treats the topic of "Obsolete Youth" and their solipsistic isolation empirically, at times, and theoretically at times and tends to view the overall modern campus trauma too purely through the eyes of a psychologist seeking psychological and psychiatric solutions to what he views as psych-type problems, and overlooking several important additional societal vectors, his presentation of the basic problems and his suggested solutions emerge as perhaps revolutionary but most assuredly imaginative and worthy of serious consideration indeed.

Dr. Bettelheim writes that modern youths see themselves as obsolete and without a future in our automated technocratic and computerized age. Although American youth claims the social stimuli of the draft, the war, the Negro and poverty, the rebellious German youth has no Negro problem to rally around and the Vietnam War has only a remote influence on the Japanese radical. What then, asks Dr. Bettelheim is common to so wide a cross section of world youth? The answer he believes is that they are all against the Americans, presumably because of the magnitude of their military establishment, and especially the bomb. They do not see a need for themselves in advancing civilization hence society does not need them. This stimulates the desire to build a wholly new and different future where their impact on events that shape society can be felt.

Additionally Dr. Bettelheim theorizes that modern youth is advanced through puberty (a developmental biological eventuality) but held too long under parental and generational domination through adolescence (a psychological and sociological manifestation). In most of the small group of leaders of the radical left, intellect was developed at much too early an age and at the expense of their emotional development. Although exceedingly bright some remain emotionally fixated at the age of the temper tantrum. Time Magazine (September 5) in reporting on the article in Encounter believes that Dr. Bettelheim devoted his most careful scrutiny to the activities of the most radical student leaders and blames their shrillness on parents who raise them with half-baked psychoanalytic theories.. We should not suppress our inner rages but should face them only in thought and only in a safely structured treatment situation. Bettelheim reports that according to many children they do not learn (presumably in the home) to repress aggression enough. Over permissive parents exploit their children (demanding high grades, social acceptability, etc.) to fulfill their own narcissistic needs. The parents choose to follow Freud when it suits their convenience and demand "Victorian" conformity where it does not. This inconsistent parental handling forces on youth a senseless uncertainty about their own identities that turns to self-hate and later to resentment of the world at large.

Campus rebellions can and do paralyze universities. Not only because buildings are occupied and classes are interrupted but because the energy of the administration and faculty must be devoted to calming things down. Time which should be devoted to lasting scholarly achievements must be diverted to forestalling the next confrontation.

Bettelheim believes that while colleges and universities should be open to and inviting reasonable discussion of any and all relevant improvements and must be in the vanguard of initiative for constructive change, they should be sure of their values and take a determined stand against coercive intimidation. What spectacle could be more irresistibly attractive than the students feeling that they have the faculty on the run.

Dr. Bettelheim writes from his observations and experience that too many who now go to college have little interest, ability, or use for what now constitutes higher education. (Dr. Bettelheim excludes those seeking training in the firm sciences.) Many would be better off (feeling a sense of purpose and non-obsolescence) to seek a high level education closely linked to a work program (a system widely employed in the Soviet Union). This would give scope to the need of youth to be active while enjoying tangible achievement in the immediate present. Such a combination of practical and theoretical apprenticeship would, believes Dr. Bettelheim, constitute a much better arrangement for those youths who feel no deep commitment to study and research (those who feel this commitment will always be a relatively small part of the adolescent group). Dr. Bettelheim suggests a youth service program of several years duration in which the young could work on socially relevant projects while earning pay and getting higher professional training as they do. After this work-study program only those would go to universities who really wanted to. By that time most would have acquired a real stake in society because they had helped shape it and would probably be better prepared for permanent jobs because of training received. Civilian service could be an elected alternative to military service thus eliminating the need for involuntary conscription. Dr. Bettelheim is convinced that if every able-bodied person had to serve two years in one program or the other (the military service) there would be no scarcity of those with a preference for two years in the Army.

Without a following, the extreme student radical leaders would not represent a threat to the academic institution. It is the mass support the radical leadership arouses because of general unrest among youth which alone makes them dangerous. Our focus belongs on how to provide our mass of young people with the real life experiences and the emotional satisfactions they need, for these are very different from those which their largely unconscious motives will go on pushing them towards for want of better direction.

The National Socialist White People's Party (aka American Nazi Party) held a national conference at Fairfax, Virginia, on 31 August. Reportedly, the group will try to build a larger membership and strive for a better public image in order to form the base of an effective political party.

CALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

all & Winter

*Nationally - The aggressive National Welfare Rights Organization is planning a "fall & winter offensive" of school boycotts, marches on welfare offices, refusals to pay utility bills and rent strikes. Dr. George Wiley, militant black executive-director of the organizations, said welfare recipients will boycott schools and march on welfare offices if additional funds for school clothing are not granted.

*At the demonstration sponsored by the Chicago Peace Council and the Conspiracy on 28 August in Chicago to commemorate the confrontations at the 1968 Democratic National Convention, Rennie Davis, one of the Conspiracy Eight defendants, was one of the main speakers. Sylvia Kushner, a CPUSA member, was the moderator. In the course of his remarks, Davis stated that he desired to see mutinies occur at Army bases in the United States. He said the fall program of the anti-war movement would include:

15 September - a demonstration at an unidentified California city, where, according to Davis, "establishment leaders," will be meeting.

24 September - a demonstration at Chicago, Illinois, to protest the trials of the Chicago Eight.

8-11 October - Demonstrations in Chicago to protest the trials. SDS is calling for militant action under the slogan "Bring the War Home." In support of SDS "doing their thing."

8 November SDS is calling for demonstrations in the streets, on the campuses, and in factories across the country to protest the war.

15 November - Massive demonstrations are planned for Washington, D. C., and San Francisco, California, as a climax of the fall program against the war - for the "biggest militant march ever."

September 6

Detroit, Michigan - Milton Henry, black extremist attorney for black militant expatriate Robert F. Williams, has announced that Williams will return to the U. S. A., entering at Detroit one week later than had been originally planned. Henry cited difficulty in getting plane reservations as the reason. The FBI has said that Williams will be arrested on a fugitive warrant on his return. While there is ample reason to believe Williams would like very much to be leading militant blacks in their activities in the United States, the threat of imprisonment may continue to keep him out of the country.

September 5

Dayton, Ohio - The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in Dayton, Ohio, is planning demonstrations to show support of civil rights activists who filed suits in Federal Court, Washington, D. C., claiming discrimination within the Federal Government concerning employment practices, promotions, and equal opportunities. NAACP members and associates plan to meet in Dayton on 4 September, and thereafter establish picket lines at Federal installations in the city. Reportedly, on 5 September, buses will depart Columbus and Cincinnati, Ohio, for Washington, D. C.

September 6

Washington, D. C. - The informant was advised that buses would also depart other cities arriving Washington on 6 September. Upon arrival in Washington, the demonstrators will split into two groups, one group plans to visit the Department of Justice; however, the action planned for the second group was not reported. All demonstrations reportedly will be peaceful.

September 7

Washington, D. C. - The Caesar Chavez-led United Farm Workers Organizing Committee, which has been promoting a grape boycott to demand higher wages for grape workers, plans to demonstrate at Washington, D. C., on 7 September. The demonstrators will hold a rally at the Sylvan Theater near the Washington Monument. At the conclusion of the rally, they will march to Arlington Cemetery, where they hope to hold a mass near the grave of Robert F. Kennedy. They are considering inviting Mrs. Ethel Kennedy to be one of the main speakers.

September 8

*Cleveland, Ohio - Reportedly, a letter issued by "Citizens Inquiry for Legal Defense, N. James Carlson, Chairman," announced that at a meeting, the conviction of Fred Ahmed Evans, a Black Nationalist leader convicted of murdering three policemen in Cleveland, Ohio, in July 1968 was discussed. The letter proposed that picketing be conducted on 8 September 1969 at the Federal Building (presumably in Cleveland) seeking support of the United States Department of Justice to investigate the conduct of the Cleveland Police Department. Carlson, a professor at Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland, was reported in 1962 to have been chairman of a local organization of the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy, a pacifist group.

September 9

*San Francisco, California - Leaflets and flyers distributed by dissident elements in the San Francisco area indicate a demonstration is planned to protest the banquet and visit of Vice-President Spiro Agnew, who will be representing the White House at the Japan Week festivities in San Francisco.

A coalition of SDS, Los Siete de la Raza, Chinatown Red Guard, the Asian American Political Alliance, the High School Student Union, and others have called a series of protests and actions to protest Japan Week and also the International Industrial Conference the next week.

September 9

New Orleans, Louisiana - Southern University was the scene of much disruption the past school year and former students have now organized The Black People's Party, which is calling for the repeal of riot legislation, a retraction of the governor's statement that troops would be sent to troubled campuses, the reinstatement of suspended and expelled students, and the dismissal of legal charges against students arising from last year's disruptions. Reportedly - a group of expelled students plans to disrupt registration activities at the University beginning 9 September.

September 11

Chicago, Illinois - Eugene Gladstone, a member of the Steering Committee of the New Mobilization Committee to End the War (main organizer and sponsor of the proposed major demonstration of the fall - November 15 - in Washington, D. C.), has stated that organizers will visit campuses after school starts in September to develop support for the fall demonstrations. A militant, but non-violent, demonstration will be held in Chicago to support the "Chicago Eight," on 11 September.

September 12

*University of Puerto Rico - The Federation of University Students for Independence has announced that it will hold a sit-in at the University of Puerto Rico on 12 September to demand that the Reserve Officers Training Corps be abolished.

September 13 & 15

*Washington, D. C. - A Quaker Action Group plans to demonstrate at all entrances to the White House on these two days. The demonstrators will follow the currently popular anti-war protest action by reading the names of individuals killed in Vietnam.

September 15-20

*San Francisco, California - A five-day International Industrial Conference (IIC), a quadrennial affair conducted by the National Industrial Conference Board and Stanford Research Institute (SRI), will be held at the Fairmount Hotel in San Francisco. The emphasis since the first conference in 1957 has been on "Closing the World's Income Gap." The conference will bring together some 500 representatives of major industries, technological, and financial firms like U. S. Steel, IBM, Chase Manhattan Bank, etc. General Conference Chairman is David Rockefeller; Chairman of the International Council is John Loudon of Royal Dutch Shell; and U. S. Council Chairman is Roger Blough of U. S. Steel.

The April Third Movement, a coalition of protest groups at Stanford University, Palo Alto, California, which has previously been active in demonstrating against the Stanford Research Institute, has announced that it will sponsor demonstrations September 15-20, during the Conference. The April Third Movement, which is dominated by SDS, is to act as the coordinator for radical demonstrations at the Conference, and Stanford University is to be used as a base of operations. An early estimate is that from 3,000 to 5,000 radical demonstrators, mainly from SDS, will travel to San Francisco for the Conference. The students say the conference "is designed to consolidate the dominion of the multi-national corporations in the third world." The movement has also announced that it will continue its investigation of Government research at both the Institute and the University and will also consider other areas. Authorities feel there is a definite possibility of violence during the demonstrations. President Nixon reportedly will speak at the conference on the 18th. Leaflets and flyers distributed in the San Francisco area indicate "massive demonstrations" were advertised for that event.

The Coalition (see 9 September San Francisco item) is calling for demonstrations and a Peoples' Festival during the week (15-19 September). The Coalition plans demonstrations, "to expose the men who own, run, and control this country and much of the world." The Coalition says it "will stop the conference."

The demonstration on the opening day - aimed at the Fairmont Hotel - calls for a rally at 11 a.m. at either Union Square or Washington Square and at 11:30 a.m. - the people will move on the Hotel "to stop IIC."

The Peoples' Festival, scheduled for 12-14 September, will feature music and art. Organizers are reportedly negotiating for use of either Union Square or Washington Park.

September 16

Southwest, United States - Mexican-American and other Spanish-speaking youths intend to shut down the schools of the Southwest on 16 September in a demonstration of solidarity and protest on the anniversary date of the Mexican Revolution. According to Rudolpho "Corky" Gonzales, leader of the Crusade for Justice, a militant Mexican-American group, it will be a demonstration "to change the whole educational system to relate to our needs."

During a speech at Fresno State College, Sacramento, California, Gonzales called for action on his "Aztlán Plan," which he hopes will unite all factions of Mexican-Americans in the United States. This plan calls for all Mexican-Americans to stand as one nation.

September 16, 17,
and 18

*Washington, D. C. - The American Society for Industrial Security, a non-profit, professional security society will hold the Fifteenth Annual Seminar of the Society at the Washington-Hilton Hotel. Security officials from industry and Government will join together and take a hard look at the security problems they face and attempt to arrive at intelligent solutions.

September 24

Chicago, Illinois - Trial has been set for 24 September for the "Chicago Eight" protest leaders indicted on charges of conspiracy to incite a riot in connection with the disorders at the Democratic National Convention last fall. All eight pleaded "not guilty" in Federal District Court on 9 April. Each defendant also faces charges of crossing state lines to foment disorder or to otherwise violate the Civil Rights Act of 1968. Rennie Davis, Bobby Scale, John R. Froines, and Lee Weiner had their travel restrictions eased but are required to keep the Court fully informed of their movements.

September 27

Chicago, Illinois - SDS is reported to be planning to participate in a demonstration on 27 September in support of the trial defendants, the self-proclaimed "Conspiracy Eight." Other protest activities are being planned later during the trial.

October-November

In view of the number of actions already noted as planned for October and November, 1969, they are not repeated in this week's calendar. As additional or new information becomes available re this period, it will be included in subsequent issues.

35SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Although the Democratic National Convention has managed to complete its business in Chicago without serious loss of life, limb or property, it does not signal the beginning of a period of peace and tranquillity throughout the nation. Except for the vast security measures undertaken by local, state, and Federal authorities in connection with the DNC, it is generally conceded that disorder and disruption would have been escalated.

All the elements that existed prior to the Convention remain and in some cases have intensified. Although fortunate that serious racial disorder did not erupt in Chicago and that most dissident activists were hippies, yippies, anti-war demonstrators, and members of the far left, the racial agitators and militants do remain and it is projected that they will become active again when faced with a less prepared counterforce. Colleges and high schools will soon be reopening and there are indications that many are already marked for turmoil. The presidential campaign will lend itself as a constant target for disruptive tactics or worse with many politicians using the stump for harangues and agitation while others necessarily expose themselves to dissident action of all degrees. Tom HAYDEN and other leaders of the National Mobilization Committee, obviously highly elated at the success of their efforts to bring about confrontations with the police and National Guard at the Democratic National Convention, have already indicated that they intend to use same or similar tactics to produce "other Chicago's" and will also see that the Presidential candidates and others are continuously harassed throughout the campaign period. Tom HAYDEN exulted that the DNC was a "100% victory in propaganda."

SDS plans to disrupt the openings of major universities next month. They hoped to gather new members from the ranks of the dissenters at the DNC. The 3 steps toward SDS are from dissenter to radical to revolutionary.

According to J. Edgar HOOVER in the September - "FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin" - Many of SDS's members and some of its National leaders openly confess their faith in communist concepts and their determination to "restructure" our society. One of the militant spokesmen of this group stated, for example that, "perhaps 25 universities linked to the movement would be too much for the police for the dominant class - and we would get what we demand." The New Left leaders plan to launch a widespread attack on educational institutions this fall. They are relying on collegiate dissidents and militants to bolster and accelerate this drive. It would be foolhardy for educators, public officials, and law enforcement officers to ignore or dismiss lightly the revolutionary terrorism invading college campuses. It is a serious threat to both the academic community and a lawful and orderly society.

Racial riots "are likely to continue to wreak havoc and destruction upon many cities in the near future," the American Political Science Association was warned 4 September 1968, by Michigan State political science Professors Bryan T. DOWNES and Stephen W. BARKS. They cited that "violence has historically been an integral part of the black protest movement." Many blacks are now convinced they will be granted social and political gains only if they riot and "that there is no evidence that the majority of white Americans eagerly look forward to integration." They offered a table showing 239 cases of "hostile black protest outbursts" in 213 cities between 1964 and May 1968. Those disturbances lasted a total of 523 days, involved 49,607 arrests, 7,942 wounded and 191 deaths. The Professors noted that the nature of racial trouble has changed. In early Southern-style riots, "whites attacked and killed Negroes they thought were responsible for disturbing the state of affairs." During racial troubles from 1920 through the 1950's, "Large numbers of blacks and whites engaged in collective violence against each other. In today's hostile outbursts blacks have been the primary participants." They concluded also that a surprisingly large percent of blacks participate in racial troubles and support them.

The 14 August 1968 edition of the Crime Control Digest states that "the pattern of civil disorders in 1968 has changed from the pattern that prevailed in 1967 and the elaborate U.S. Army, National Guard and police riot control program prepared to meet this year's 'long hot summer' will have to be changed if this year's type of civil disturbance is to be prevented or controlled. This year's riot tactics have featured sniping and hit and run tactics on the police, principally by Black Power extremists, but by teen-agers in an increasing number of instances. The 1968 occurrences were not explosions of pent-up emotions and frustrations by residents of Negro ghettos, nor were they triggered by happenstance but rather they appear to have been deliberately planned.

While there is still a deep resentment against conditions on the part of a considerable number of Negro ghetto residents, the Negro community as a whole has not participated in the 1968 disorders to the extent they took part in or sympathized with the riots in 1967. Part of this may be due to the program initiated by the NAACP, CORE and the National Urban League to improve life in the big-city slums, and part from a decision not to tangle with the U.S. Army which would be called if rioting of the 1967 type should break out. The ambush and sniping tactics, principally by Black Power extremists and the hit and run tactics of the teen-agers has never reached proportions that would necessitate calling in Army troops. While the 1968 disorders have not been the massive type or as destructive as those that scourged Newark, Detroit, Watts, and other cities, they have been more numerous than prevailed last year and they present problems against which our cities, states and the Federal Government do not have a ready and sure-fire response. "

Editor's Note: It has been observed that the prompt and massive "over-reaction" by the Los Angeles Police Department at the time of the recent disorders following the 3rd Watts Anniversary activities kept them from significant acceleration. Further, it was observed that the DNC disorders failed to induce participation by Chicago's black ghettos whose leaders had ordered militants to cool it in face of the considerable forces of law and order mustered in advance of the Convention.

A modern phenomenon which has evolved in the last three or four years is the vast growth of the Underground Press. Underground means of mass communication utilized to avoid suppression by legal authority and/or attribution is not new to this age, but its volume is and the apparent freedom and ease in which filth, slanderous and libelous statements, and what appear to be almost treasonous anti-establishment propaganda is allowed to circulate is difficult to rationalize.

There are perhaps 150 - 200 underground papers, almost all of them less than 3 years old and most of them published under shaky financial condition in large cities or college towns. Largely created to reflect and shape the withdrawn life style of hippies and dropouts with a successful formula based on sex, drugs, rock music, Oriental religion and "the San Francisco look" in psychedelic art, they have taken a sharp turn toward radical politics. Now the material is yielding to coverage of student uprisings, the peace movement, guerrilla activities, draft resistance and muck-raking attacks on the political and social establishment. Much of the disruptive activity so rampant currently is propagandized and directed through the facilities of this press and its extra utilization for publicizing as well as printing handbills, brochures, and other assorted items.

The underground journals range from the brash young political papers like the Giant Speckled Bird of Atlanta, to the solid affluence of the Los Angeles Free Press. But the general trend is toward radical politics. Like many editors, Max SCHERR of the Berkeley Barb believes that police "harassment" is the largest single factor in politicizing the alienated audience for underground papers. Much of the disenchantment of the flower people and the like is now being channeled into political radicalism by the war in Vietnam, pressure from the draft and the recent student revolts at Columbia and the Sorbonne.

Since the 1st of the year, the few older papers, such as The Barb and The San Francisco Free Press, have been joined by some 30 new radical underground papers, most of them heavily influenced by the leftist Students for a Democratic Society. Many of them, like the SDS, consider American society hopelessly corrupt and advocate disruption of "the system." In general the underground papers keep a sharp watch for misconduct by the police and for any evidence, however tenacious, that the U.S. is run by an interlocking directorate of the selfish and the complacent. The BPP gets heavy coverage, but otherwise race is not usually a priority issue. News coverage is consciously subjective and one-sided. The theory is that truth is rooted in personal experience, and that the standard news media, by insisting on impartial and detached coverage, omit and distort the underlying reality of crucial news events. In shorter form, the argument goes that no newspaper is objective - the underground papers are just the only ones acknowledging it.

The papers are not held together by massive objectivity, but by trust. This same trust led to the "Underground Press Service," an agreement among some 60 underground editors to reprint from one another's papers without special permission, attribution or rechecking. The underground papers are not a quality press. Eight out of 10 would fail if a few phonograph record companies stopped advertising in them.

The advantage of the political papers is that they know exactly what their goal is, and a good deal of the credit for their rise if being assigned to Liberation News Service. Liberation News was founded in Washington, D.C. in 1967 by Ray MUNGO (Boston University-1966) and Marshall BLOOM (Amhurst 1966), both radical editors of their college papers. It provides inexpensive political coverage ($15.00 a month for 2 or 3 weekly packets) to 400 outlets, including some 100 underground papers, and has reportedly persuaded many "drug culture" papers to emphasize politics.

The basic belief is that a "new journalism" is taking shape in America, totally outside the province of Established Journalism and that radicals are leading the movement. It also assumes that the established media are incapable of printing the truth about anything important. In a bitter dispute recently, the Liberation News Agency split into two factions, both of which are attempting to continue publication as the one and only Liberation News Service.

Stokely CARMICHAEL, recently disassociated from SNCC amidst much fanfare, reportedly may be trying to organize his own group or to establish an association with The Black Liberators, a militant black organization with headquarters in St. Louis, Missouri. He continues to speak out urging blacks to arm, prepare for guerrilla warfare and to have an undying hatred for whites.
SOURCE: Police sources through FBI - IN 82365

Although CARMICHAEL seemingly has moved closer to the Black Panther Party, it appears that the BPP leadership is not yet ready to further share their power. CARMICHAEL's ouster from SNCC has left SNCC with internal dissension as a number of CARMICHAEL supporters remain in SNCC and do not fully accept the current leadership.

The long murder trial of Huey P. NEWTON, Black Panther leader, went to the jury on 5 September 1968. The only Negro member of the jury was elected its foreman. The verdict will be awaited with considerable interest. Ever since NEWTON's arrest the case has received great attention and publicity and has marked by almost continuous protests and demonstrations. The BPP and others have threatened extensive retribution if NEWTON is not freed and has brazenly stated that they will secure his release legally or by other means. It must be assumed that a verdict of "guilty" will result in some disorder and disturbance. Its proportions cannot be forecast.

According to COMBAT, the new conservative National Review, newsletter - Hippies poured a fortune in LSD into reservoirs expecting "to turn the Convention on." They were dismayed at the lack of results. Combat said - Chlorinated water instantly neutralizes LSD.^o The contaminants were caught by police and arrested, but the news wasn't given out, fearing panic in the city.

NOTE: No other indication of the above has been noted from other sources.

The August 13 deadline for registration of rifles and shotguns under New York City's law passed with only a little more than 70,000 registrations, about 1/3 of the 225,000 long guns estimated by licensing bureau officials to be owned by some 75,000 persons. Owners of unregistered guns face maximum penalties of a year in jail and a $500 fine, plus confiscation of their weapons.

Activities of Possible Interest Tentatively Scheduled for Fall of 1968

- ✓ September 17-25 Columbia University will be the site of an International Assembly of Revolutionary Student Movements. It is being sponsored by the Columbia Strike Coordinating Committee, which has been working on the conference throughout the summer. It will be the first conference of this type held in the United States and will be one of the major events of the fall season at Columbia. (Washington Free Press - 9/1-14/68)
- ✓ September 26 Trial of Mark RUDD, SDS leader during Columbia University disorders, is currently scheduled for 26 September.
- ✓ October 12 GI's and Veterans for Peace group is organizing an anti-Vietnam War protest march in San Francisco. No permit has been granted yet and none may be issued because of conflict with the Annual Columbus Day Parade.
- ✓ October 12-15 A National Council meeting of SDS is to be held at the University of Colorado. Issues to be considered include: High school activities; and Development of a Labor organization program. SDS has decided that cooperation with workers is desirable to strengthen its position.
- ✓ October 10-27 According to The London Times, Scotland Yard has uncovered a plot by armed extremists to seize government buildings and the U. S. and Russians embassies during an anti-Vietnam war rally. The extremists reportedly were made up of American students and "draft dodgers" in Britain who were backed by "foreign capital." Senior Scotland Yard officials reportedly said the plot posed a situation "potentially as violent" as the student rioting in Paris the past spring. Scotland Yard officially declined comment. The Times said simultaneous demonstrations were planned in France, Germany, and Italy. The extremists have no connection with the organizers of the demonstrations but merely planned to act during them. "The aims of these extremists seem to be to usurp authority and disrupt the administration," the Times quoted a government source as saying.

November 1968 A "Monroe Court-in" is planned for Monroe, North Carolina, if Robert F. WILLIAMS, the radical black nationalist, returns to face trial on a kidnapping charge, etc. The protest and disruptive activity would be timed for the presidential election. It does not appear likely that WILLIAMS will risk returning to face trial although it is possible that his ego leads him to believe that the threat of violence if he were convicted, is sufficiently formidable to assume that the court would treat him gently.

November 4 Trial of Sirhan Bishara SIRHAN for the murder of Robert F. KENNEDY is set in Los Angeles.

FOR THE FALL OF 1968

In addition to the "general threat" of disorder and disruption to be expected in the near future by students on college campuses and in high schools; by anti-war and leftist activists in connection with the election campaign; and by the increasingly militant black nationalists: are the following specific actions planned or contemplated by the various groups. The activities seem to be building towards a major confrontation in Washington, D.C., on January 20, 1969, Inauguration Day.

- September 19 The Boston Resistance plans demonstrations during Vice-President Humphrey's speech in Boston. It allegedly will include "militant action." No further details known.
- September 19 A protest is planned by students at Keuka College, Keuka Park, New York, when Lt. General Lewis B. HERSHEY appears at an Inaugural Ceremony for the new President of the Community College of the Finger Lakes, Canandaigua, New York.
- Sept. 17-25 Columbia University will be the site for an International Assembly of Revolutionary Student Movements. It is being sponsored by the Columbia Strike Coordinating Committee, which has been working on the conference throughout the summer. It will be the first conference of this type held in the U.S. and will be one of the major events of the fall season at Columbia. Confrontation between the school administration and dissident student groups had already reached the sparring stage earlier in the week with the administration at Columbia under new President Andrew CORDIER offering some concessions but showing definite signs that a firmer line will be maintained during this school year.

It is also evident that SDS initiated action intends to force maximum exercise of authority.

- Sept. 20-22 Alabama State Convention of NAACP is scheduled for Montgomery, Alabama.
- September 21 A Peace March protesting U.S. Vietnam War policy is being organized for San Francisco by 2nd Lt. Hugh Ferris SMITH. A march permit has been granted for 10 a.m. from the Presidio to the San Francisco City Hall. Organizational Headquarters for the march is the address of the Concerned Citizens Peace Center (CCPC), Palo Alto, California. SMITH expects personnel from some 9 military installations (mostly in California) to participate.
- Sept. 24-27 The National Congress of American Indians (NCAI) is to convene in Omaha. Representatives of 105 tribes are to draw up a "Magna Carta" for the American Indian.
- September 25 The Resistance, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, anti-war group, announced a rally and protest demonstration against the war in Vietnam to coincide with the appearance of Secretary of State RUSK at the Bellevue Stratford Hotel in Philadelphia.
- September 26 Trial of Mark RUDD, SDS leader during Columbia University disorders, is scheduled to begin. RUDD, who has been suspended, has continued to be active among Columbia dissident students during the interim period and is in the forefront of current agitation.

- September 27 Scheduled date for sentencing of Huey NEWTON, recently convicted of manslaughter in the shooting of an Oakland, California, policeman. NEWTON's sentencing could easily set off violent action by the Black Panther Party, which has been threatening both extreme retaliation and freeing NEWTON by force, if necessary.
- September 28 An anti-war march is scheduled for Santa Barbara, California, sponsored by the Community Council to End the War in Vietnam. Dr. Benjamin SPOCK is to address a rally following the march.
- October 5-10 International Association of Chiefs of Police 75th Annual Conference in Honolulu, Hawaii.
- October 11 An indoor rally sponsored by the Baptist Continental Congress on Evangelism is scheduled for the Washington, D.C., National Guard Armory. Purpose and extent not known at this time.
- October 12 The GI's and Veterans for Peace Group is organizing an anti-Vietnam War protest march in San Francisco. No permit has been granted yet and none may be issued because of conflict with the annual Columbus Day Parade.
- Oct. 12, 13, 14 A Hemispheric Conference to End the War in Vietnam is scheduled for Montreal, Canada. A flyer issued in connection with the conference proclaims that approximately 2000 people from throughout the hemisphere - over 1/4 from Canada - will attend to develop coordination against U. S. intervention in Vietnam and in the Americas. Among the listed sponsors from the U.S. are the following:
- Donna ALLAN & Dagmar WILSON
 - Women Strike for Peace
 - Julian BOND - Georgia State Assembly
 - Anne & Carl BRADEN
 - Southern Christian Education Fund
 - Ossie DAVIS & Ruby DEE
 - Prof. Robert GREENBLATT - NMCEWV
 - Father James GROPP
 - James JACKSON - CPUSA

Rev. Bernard LAFAYETTE - SCLC
 Linda MORSE - 5th Avenue Peace Parade
 Committee
 Michael MYERSON - Intercontinental Information Center
 Dr. Benjamin SPOCK
 James TYNER - National Chairman - W.E.B.
 DuBois Clubs
 John WILSON - SNCC

- October 12-15 A National Council meeting of SDS is to be held at the University of Colorado. Issues to be considered include: High School activities and development of a labor organization program. SDS has decided that cooperation with workers is desirable to strengthen its position.
- October 21 HE, an organization dominated by the SWP & YSA, has adopted a resolution calling for campus demonstrations across the country to encourage resistance to the military on the part of servicemen.
- October 10-27 According to the London Times, Scotland Yard has uncovered a plot by armed extremists to seize Government buildings and the U.S. and Russian embassies during a planned anti-Vietnam War rally. The extremists reportedly are made up of American students and "draft dodgers" in Britain who are backed by "foreign capital." The extremists have no connection with the organizers of the demonstrations but merely plan to act during them. "The aims of the extremists seem to be to usurp authority and disrupt the administration," the Times quoted a government source as saying.

November 1968 A "Monroe Court-In" is planned for Monroe, North Carolina, if Robert F. WILLIAMS, the radical black Nationalist, returns to face trial on a kidnapping charge, etc. The protest and disruptive activity would be timed for the Presidential elections. It does not appear likely that WILLIAMS will risk returning to face trial although it is conceivable that his ego leads him to believe that the threat of violence from his supporters in The Revolutionary Action Movement, the Black Panther Party, and other black militants, if he were convicted, is sufficiently formidable that the court would treat him gently.

November 1-6 The National Mobilization Committee has declared that this will be "National GI Week." Activities during the week will include attempts to gain amnesty for deserters, the inclusion of GI's in marches and demonstrations, and attempts to initiate local referendum on the Vietnam War question. On 2 November 1968, massive demonstrations are planned at N. Y., San Francisco, Chicago, and Atlanta. These may be changed to the night of 1 November. 3 November 1968, will be Vietnam Sunday. Churches will be asked to make announcements in support of anti-war activities. November 5, 1968, is to be National Student Strike Day - students will be asked to boycott classes as an anti-Vietnam war protest. (FBI - in 92237 - from a source who proved reliable in past.)

November 4 The trial of Sirhan Bishara SIRHAN for the murder of Robert F. KENNEDY is set for Los Angeles. Superior Judge Herbert V. WALKER, known as the Dean of Los Angeles County's Criminal Court bench, has been assigned to conduct the trial.

November 12 The trial of James Earle RAY, the accused killer of Martin Luther KING, Jr., is scheduled to start in Memphis, Tennessee.

November 14 The Resistance will sponsor a nation-wide mass return of draft cards - symbolic of non-cooperation with the Selective Service System.

November 25 The International Conference of Communist & Workers Parties is set for Moscow, U.S.S.R.

JANUARY 1969

January 20 The Youth International Party (YIPPIES) announced it will hold a "Festival of Life" at Washington, D.C., during the inauguration of the President. Yippies contributed much of the disruptive activity at the Democratic National Convention with their "Festival of Life" there.

January 20 Rennie DAVIS, NMC leader, recently announced to anti-war protestors that there would be a "massive convergence" of protestors in Washington on Inauguration Day.

9-27-68SITUATION INFORMATION REPORTACTIVITIES OF POSSIBLE INTEREST SCHEDULED FOR THE FALL OF 1968

The following items are either newly surfaced activities or are expanded details on activities which were listed in the six-page calendar of last week.

- September 27 Los Angeles - The Brown Berets and other Mexican-American organizations plan to demonstrate in front of Lincoln High School in support of Salvatore R. CASTRO. CASTRO was relieved of teaching duties in connection with student walkouts in March 1968.
- September 28 Chicago - A parade and rally is scheduled by area groups - approximately 6,000 persons expected - to protest the Democratic National Convention (DNC) police actions. The parade, one month after the DNC, is to go down Michigan Avenue to Grant Park for the rally. A parade permit was requested but leaders say the march will take place with or without the permit.
- Sept. 28-29 St. Louis - The Washington University Chapter of SDS will host the Mid-West Regional Conference of SDS.
- September 30 New York City - Mark RUDD, one of the principal leaders of SDS at Columbia University, who has just left the city on a two-week speaking tour that will take him to Boston University, Harvard, Amherst, Yale, the University of California at Berkeley, and high schools in Los Angeles, will interrupt his tour to return to N. Y. C. on Monday for a pre-trial hearing in criminal court in connection with charges of inciting to riot and criminal trespass as a result of his role in last spring's Columbia uprising. RUDD is free on bail.
- October 1 Phoenix - Paul BOUTELLE, Socialist Workers Party candidate for Vice-President, is to speak at a rally.
- October 2 BOUTELLE is also to speak at an Arizona State University rally in Tempe, Arizona. The rallies will be held as protests to the draft and the war in Vietnam. They are sponsored by the Arizona State University Committee to End the War in Vietnam, SDS, Youth Socialist Alliance, and the Phoenix Draft Resisters.

- October 1 Washington, D. C. - Tom HAYDEN (SDS) and Jerry RUBIN (Yippies) have been subpoenaed to appear before the HCUA. Both figured prominently in the DNC demonstrations.
- October 5 Ft. Dix, N. J. - An estimated 700 demonstrators will protest the detention of [REDACTED] who is being held awaiting a summary court-martial for distributing leaflets on the Post. Demonstrators will be carried by bus from N. Y. C. and Philadelphia and possibly from Rutgers University in Newark, N. J. The Student Mobilization Committee is sponsoring the demonstration to put pressure on the military and to promote the idea that the GI's right to freedom of speech is such as should be protected as would that of a civilian. Approximately one week before the demonstration, SMC members will be on the Post to distribute leaflets in the hope that they will generate more interest in the military population. The demonstration is intended to be peaceful in nature and last about an hour.
- Oct. 5-6 Tuscaloosa, Alabama - The United Klans of America plans to hold a National Klouvoction - probably to elect new officials and to plan future activities.
- Oct. 5-6 Minneapolis, Minnesota - A national conference has been called by the New Democratic Coalition - purportedly in an effort to achieve coordination and common purpose among anti-administration Democrats. It will focus attention on consolidation of these forces within the Democratic Party and the mapping of strategy for 1969, 1970, and 1972.
- Oct. 12-15 Boulder, Colorado - An SDS National Council meeting is still scheduled at the University of Colorado. It has been estimated that 400-600 persons will attend.
- Oct. 12 San Francisco - A "March for Peace" proposed for men presently in uniform and veterans of former wars and scheduled to start in the Panhandle of Golden Gate Park and proceed to the Civic Center Plaza is apparently of concern to the Pentagon. Three Hamilton Air Force Base men this week charged they were being transferred to prevent their participation in the march. Air Force [REDACTED] one of the organizers of the march told a press conference that he has been ordered transferred to Taiwan September 26 to prevent his participation in this protest against the war in Vietnam. He made public what purported to be an Air Force teletype message from the Pentagon which said in part that the Air Force command "strongly believes this demonstration should be quashed if possible because of possible severe impact on military discipline throughout the services..."

October 27

Baltimore, Maryland - The trial of nine persons for the destruction of Selective Service records in Catonsville, Maryland, will begin. The group includes Frs. Daniel and Philip BERFICAN, both Jesuit priests; Thomas and Marjorie MELVILLE, formerly a Maryknoll priest and nun who resigned their orders and married following service in Guatemala during which they were active in support of anti-government dissidents.

November 25

The meeting of Communist and Workers Parties scheduled to open in Moscow; this date has been reported to be under consideration by the Soviet Union for possible postponement in the belief that, in view of the Czechoslovakian problem, the conference goal of a display of Communist unity would not be served at this time. The meeting, a Soviet idea of many years standing, was designed to demonstrate that despite the Soviet-Chinese split, there continued to exist a strong and united world Communist movement whose principal center is Moscow.

Nov. 29 - Dec. 1 A Hemispheric Conference to End the War in Vietnam will apparently meet in Montreal to develop coordination against U. S. intervention in Vietnam and the Americas. This meeting had earlier been indicated for 12-14 October. A planning meeting was held in Montreal on 7-8 September.

December 2

Bel Air, Maryland - The trial of H. Ray BROWN on charges of arson and inciting to riot in Cambridge, Maryland, has been scheduled with Judge Harry E. DWYER, presiding.

Dec. 13

New York City - The National Emergency Civil Liberties Committee annual Bill of Rights dinner is scheduled for the Americana Hotel. The NECLC is the old ECLC rejuvenated with a new name. The old ECLC was cited as a Communist Front in 1956 by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee and in 1959 by HCUA. Featured speakers will be: Dr. Benjamin SPOCK and Dick GREGORY.

C00018078

Corliss LAMONT is chairman of NECIS.

April 1969 The 12th Annual Convention of the CPUSA has been scheduled for this time.

229SITUATION INFORMATION REPORTACTIVITIES OF POSSIBLE INTEREST TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED FOR THE FALL
OF 1968

The "asterisked" items listed are either newly surfaced activities or are changed details on activities listed in previously printed calendars.

- October 5 *Ft. Dix, New Jersey - Intended demonstrations at this Post in protest to the detention of [REDACTED] who was accused of handing out anti-war leaflets contrary to Post regulations will undoubtedly be called off when protestors lost their "cause" on 1 October when the draftee won acquittal at his court-martial. The military judge ruled that there was "insufficient evidence" in a trial that lasted less than three hours.
- October 5-6 Tuscaloosa, Alabama - The United Klans of America plans to hold a National Klonvocation - probably to elect new officials and to plan future activities.
- October 5-6 Minneapolis, Minnesota - A national conference has been called by the New Democratic Coalition - purportedly in an effort to achieve coordination and common purpose among anti-administration Democrats. It will focus attention on consolidation of these forces within the Democratic Party and the mapping of strategy for 1969, 1970, and 1972.
- October 5-10 International Association of Chiefs of Police 75th Annual Conference in Honolulu, Hawaii.
- October 6 *As the HCUA continues its probe into the disorders at the Democratic National Convention (INC), it is assumed that the seven so-called "hostile" witnesses (Rennie DAVIS, David DELLINGER, Jerry RUBIN, Tom HAYDEN, Bernadine LOHRN, Abbie HOFFMAN, and Robert GREENBLATT) and their legal counsels will continue to attempt disruptive tactics and to use the hearings as a forum for propaganda meant to discredit the HCUA and to belabor the issue of "police brutality." Activities in the Washington area at universities and elsewhere will also be pointed toward getting the utmost publicity from the news media. One committee member, Rev. Albert WATSON, said he would demand that the demonstration leaders reveal how they financed the mass protest and would subpoena their financial records if the witnesses invoked the 5th Amendment. David DELLINGER has exhorted students to exhibit their support by becoming increasingly militant.

October 7

*Stanford University students will conduct sit-ins at various "key" office buildings on campus with members of SDS and the Black Student Union participating. The particular reason for the demonstrations is not known at this time.

October 6-12

*Baltimore, Maryland - The Baltimore Defense Committee (BDC), a recently formed group, is sponsoring demonstrations the week of 6 October to protest the trial of Rev. Philip BERRIGAN and eight others, who are charged with destruction of Government property in that they burned Selective Service records. David DELLINGER, Rennie DAVIS, and Rev. William Sloane COFFIN will participate. The "Catonsville 9" will go on trial 7 October. The demonstrations are to be highlighted on 6 October with a rally to hear the defendants and a funeral march to celebrate the death of "selective slavery." Hundreds of demonstrators from out of town are expected by the BDC, which is using the address of the Baltimore Inter-Faith Peace Mission, a pacifist group in which several of the nine defendants are members. On 7 March, another march is planned for 0900 to demand that the nine be freed. Assembly for the march is to be near the monument in Wyman Park. A rally is scheduled at the War Memorial Plaza and a picket line at the Main Post Office. A meeting is intended at St. Ignatius Hall where the trial witnesses are to speak. On 8 March, a march is planned from St. Ignatius Hall to the Customs House where a coffin will be presented to Selective Service personnel. A dinner to honor war resisters and a discussion followed by entertainment is scheduled. On 9 March, St. Ignatius Hall will be the site of a program on "U. S. Imperialism." No plans have been announced for 10 October on the 11th and 12th, direct action will be taken against specific individual draft board members.

October 10-27

According to the London Times, Scotland Yard has uncovered a plot by armed extremists to seize Government buildings and the U. S. and Russian embassies during a planned anti-Vietnam War rally. The extremists reportedly are made up of American students and "draft dodgers" in Britain who are backed by "foreign capital." Senior Scotland Yard officials reportedly said the plot posed a situation "potentially as violent" as the student rioting in Paris the past spring. Scotland Yard Officials declined comment when queried. The Times said simultaneous demonstrations were planned in France, Germany, and Italy. The extremists have no connection with the organizers of the demonstrations but merely plan to act during them. "The aims of the extremists seem to be to usurp authority and disrupt the administration," the Times quoted a Government source as saying.

- October 11 An indoor rally sponsored by the Baptist Continental Congress on Evangelism is scheduled for the Washington, D. C., National Guard Armory. Purpose and extent not known at this time.
- October 12 *Madison, Wisconsin - A "Bring the Boys Home Now" march is planned by the "Young Socialists for Halstead and Boulton." Approximately fifty to seventy persons are expected to participate in the march which will include picketing of the Air Force and the Army recruiting station in Madison.
- October 12-15 Boulder, Colorado - An SDS National Council meeting is still scheduled at the University of Colorado. It has been estimated that 400-600 persons will attend.
- October 12 San Francisco - A "March for Peace" proposed for men presently in uniform and veterans of former wars is scheduled to start in the Panhandle of Golden Gate Park and proceed to the Civic Center Plaza is apparently of concern to the Pentagon. Three Hamilton Air Force Base men this week charged they were being transferred to prevent their participation in the march. Air Force [REDACTED] one of the organizers of the march told a press conference that he has been ordered transferred to Taiwan September 26 to prevent his participation in this protest against the war in Vietnam. He made public what purported to be an Air Force teletype message from the Pentagon which said in part that the Air Force command "strongly believes this demonstration should be quashed if possible because of possible severe impact on military discipline throughout the services..."
- October 12-15 A National Council meeting of SDS is to be held at the University of Colorado. Issues to be considered include: High school activities and development of a labor organization program. SDS has decided that cooperation with workers is desirable to strengthen its position.

October 16-22 *Los Angeles - The Resistance will sponsor a "Stop-The Draft Week."

October 21-26 IUE, an organization dominated by the SWP and YSA, has adopted a resolution calling for campus demonstrations across the country to encourage resistance to the military on the part of servicemen.

October 26 *The Resistance and other anti-war/draft organizers plan to meet at City Hall in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and march to Independence Square as a protest to the War in Vietnam. The demonstration reportedly will be led by several active-duty military personnel. Gizele MANDEL, founder of the German SDS, is to arrive in Philadelphia on 24 October and organizers hope MANDEL will join in the rally and demonstration. Dr. Benjamin SPOCK and the Rev. William Sloane COFFIN have been invited to speak.

October 27 Baltimore, Maryland - The trial of nine persons for the destruction of Selective Service records in Catonsville, Maryland, will begin. The group includes Frs. Daniel and Philip BERRIGAN, both Jesuit priests; Thomas and Marjorie MELVILLE, formerly a Maryknoll priest and nun who resigned their orders and married following service in Guatemala during which they were active in support of anti-government dissidents.

November 1 *Los Angeles, California - Sirhan B. SIRHAN's trial for murder in the slaying of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, now scheduled for 1 November, is expected to be continued until a later date, probably after the first of the year. The new date may be disclosed 4 October when SIRHAN makes his sixth appearance in court. The reason for the expected postponement is said to be twofold:

The attorney who is expected to assist Russell E. PARSONS in defending SIRHAN is still unavailable because of other commitments;

There is a possibility that the jury will be sequestered throughout the entire trial, which would cause jurors to be locked up during the Thanksgiving, Christmas, and New Years holidays if the case begins as now scheduled.

[REDACTED]

Present estimates are that the trial will last about two months.

November 1-6 The National Mobilization Committee has declared that this will be "National GI Week." Activities during the week will include attempts to gain amnesty for deserters, the inclusion of GI's in marches and demonstrations, and attempts to initiate local referendum on the Vietnam War question. On 2 November, 1968, massive demonstrations are planned at N. Y., San Francisco, Chicago, and Atlanta. These may be changed to the night of 1 November. 3 November 1968, will be Vietnam Sunday. Churches will be asked to make announcements in support of anti-war activities. 5 November 1968, is to be National Student Strike Day - students will be asked to boycott classes as an anti-Vietnam war protest. (FBI - in 92237 - from a source who proved reliable in past.)

November 1968 A "Monroe Court-In" is planned for Monroe, North Carolina, if Robert F. WILLIAMS, the radical black Nationalist, returns to face trial on a kidnapping charge, etc. The protest and disruptive activity would be timed for the Presidential elections. It does not appear likely that WILLIAMS will risk returning to face trial although it is conceivable that his ego leads him to believe that the threat of violence from his supporters in The Revolutionary Action Movement, the Black Panther Party, and other black militants, if he were convicted, is sufficiently formidable that the court would treat him gently.

November 1-5 *Bernadine DOHRN, counsel for Rennie DAVIS and affiliated with SDG, stated that during the week of 1-5 November, there will be student strikes throughout the country, that will feature marches, demonstrations, and "love-ins." Each local SDG must do its own thing during this period and should start planning immediately.

November 5 A nation-wide student strike on Election Day is intended, DOHRN said.

November 5 *Jerry RUBIN (Yippies) stated again that he and his colleagues hope to "disrupt" the election process on Election Day.

November 5 *SDG and the Peace and Freedom Party reportedly plan mass demonstrations at polling places throughout the country on Election Day.

[REDACTED]

- [REDACTED]
- November 2-8 *Rennie DAVIS said there will be demonstrations at military bases during this week to let the GI's know they can get out of the service. He said there will be leafletting and demonstrations and a massive demonstration on 2 November.
- November 12 The trial of James Earle PAY, the accused killer of Martin Luther KING, Jr., is scheduled to start in Memphis, Tennessee.
- November 14 The Resistance will sponsor a nation-wide mass return of draft cards - symbolic of non-cooperation with the Selective Service System.
- November 17 *The Communist parties of the Soviet Union and fifty-seven other parties have just agreed in a meeting in Budapest to shelve plans for a World Communist Summit Conference in Moscow on 25 November. Another preparatory meeting has been called for 17 November to examine the date for calling the International Conference and the method of its further preparations. The decision to postpone the Moscow Conference appeared to be a bitter blow for the Kremlin who appeared to visualize the summit as a demonstration of loyalty to Moscow as the main center of the World Communist Movement despite the defection and "splitting tactics" of Communist China. The last World Conference, attended by seventy-eight parties, almost eight years ago, was an unsuccessful attempt to avert the historic rift between Moscow and Peking. Sixty-seven delegations, representing about 3/4 of the world's communist parties, attended a 9-day conference in February and March and agreed to call the Moscow summit for 25 November. Those parties which attended in February, but stayed away from the meeting which ended today, were those of Canada, Ceylon, the Dominican Republic, Jordan, Nicaragua, Nepal, Panama, Portugal and Norway. The Icelandic Party sent observers in February.

Six ruling communist parties, those of China, Albania, Yugoslavia, No. Vietnam, No. Korea, and Cuba - boycotted both gatherings. The Rumanians walked out of the February gathering but came back as observers to the meeting which has just ended. A low-level Czechoslovak delegation attended.

(In Rome, officials of the Italian and Rumanian communist parties ended a ten-day meeting with a call for the right of communist parties to decide their own political lines without outside interferences. Both the Italian and Romanian parties have criticized the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Nov. 29 -Dec. 1 A Hemispheric Conference to End the War in Vietnam will apparently meet in Montreal to develop coordination against U. S. intervention in Vietnam and the Americas. This meeting had earlier been indicated for 12-14 October. A planning meeting was held in Montreal on 7-8 September. A flyer issued in connection with the conference proclaims that approximately 2,000 people from throughout the hemisphere - over 1/4 from Canada - will attend. Among the listed sponsors from the U. S. are the following:

Donna ALLAN & Dagmar WILSON
Women Strike for Peace
Julian BOND - Georgia State Assembly
Anne & Carl BRADEN
Southern Christian Education Fund
Ossie DAVIS & Ruby DEE
Prof. Robert GREENBLATT - NMCEWV
Father James GROFFI
James JACKSON - CFUSA
Rev. Bernard LAFAYETTE - SCLC
Linda MORSE - 5th Avenue Peace Parade Committee
Dr. Benjamin STOCK
James TYNER - National Chairman - W. E. B.

John WILSON - SNCC

December 2 Bel Air, Maryland - The trial of H. Rap BROWN on charges of arson and inciting to riot in Cambridge, Maryland, has been scheduled with Judge Harry E. DWYER, presiding.

December 2 *Oakland, California - The April 6, 1968 "Shoot-out Crowd" of the Black Panther Party have had their trial set for 2 December. Eldridge CLEAVER, Minister of Information of the BPP is one of the six defendants. All pleaded innocent to a variety of charges stemming from the shoot-out with the Oakland Police Department in Oakland. This was the confrontation during which Bobby HUTTON of the BPP's was killed.

December 13 New York City - The National Emergency Civil Liberties Committee annual Bill of Rights dinner is scheduled for the Americana Hotel. The NECLC is the old ECLC rejuvenated with a new name. The old ECLC was cited as a Communist Front in 1956 by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee and in 1959 by HCUA. Featured speakers will be: Dr. Benjamin SPOCK and Dick GREGORY.

Corliss LAMONT is Chairman of NECLC.

JANUARY 1969

- January 20 The Youth International Party (YIPPIES) announced it will hold a "Festival of Life" at Washington, D. C., during the inauguration of the President. Yippies contributed much of the disruptive activity at the Democratic National Convention with their "Festival of Life" there.
- January 20 Rennie DAVIS, MMC leader, recently announced to anti-war protestors that there would be a "massive convergence" of protestors in Washington on Inauguration Day.
- January 20 *Jerry RUBIN (Yippies) has stated that he and his colleagues will try to make it rough for whomever is inaugurated President on 20 January. They will hold marches and parades and make an effort to bring their pig, Pegasus - whom they nominated in Chicago - into the White House.
- April 1969 The 19th Annual Convention of the CPUSA has been scheduled for this time.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORTACTIVITIES OF POSSIBLE INTEREST TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED FOR THE FALL OF 1968

The "asterisked" items listed are either newly surfaced activities or are changed details on activities listed in previously printed calendars.

- October *San Diego, California - Members of the Resistance, an anti-war group, and of SDS are calling for demonstrations if Vice-President Humphrey visits San Diego, California, during October. No specific plans have been made.
- *Dr. Ben SPOCK, who was recently convicted of aiding draft resisters, has begun a nationwide lecture tour to bolster the Civil Liberties Legal Defense Fund, an organization providing funds for conscientious resisters and their supporters. SPOCK expresses his belief that the Vietnam War is immoral, illegal, and that it cannot be won.
- October 10-27 According to the London Times, Scotland Yard has uncovered a plot by armed extremists to seize Government buildings and the U. S. and Russian embassies during a planned anti-Vietnam War rally. The extremists reportedly are made up of American students and "draft dodgers" in Britain who are backed by "foreign capital." Senior Scotland Yard officials reportedly said the plot posed a situation "potentially as violent" as the student rioting in Paris the past spring. Scotland Yard officials declined comment when queried. The Times said simultaneous demonstrations were planned in France, Germany, and Italy. The extremists have no connection with the organizers of the demonstrations but merely plan to act during them. "The aims of the extremists seem to be to usurp authority and disrupt the administration," the Times quoted a government source as saying.
- October 11-14 *Canada - American Consul at Montreal, Canada, has received an inquiry from the West Indies Society, McGill University as to whether there would be any difficulty encountered if Black Nationalists Stokely CARMICHAEL, H. Rap BROWN, John LAVELL, and Eldridge CLEAVER would be invited to lecture on "police brutality" and "suppression of black power" between 11 and 14 October 1968.
- October 12 *Washington, D. C. - The Black United Front will sponsor a rally beginning at 3 p.m. in Meridian Hill Park to focus on the current racial "crisis in the district" and present an outline of the Front's future goals in the city.

~~_____~~
 *Stokely CARMICHAEL will make his first public speech on major topics for the Front this year. Other speakers will represent Howard University, the Federal City College, and the New School on Afro-American Thought.

- October 12 *Washington, D. C. - The Washington Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam will hold an all-day vigil and "anti-war workshop" at Lafayette Park. An airman from Andrews Air Force Base has indicated that he and as many enlisted men as he can recruit will picket the White House at noon.
- October 12 *Washington, D. C. - The SDS at American University is planning a "Liberation Homecoming." Demonstrators will march from American University at 10:30 a.m. to the White House and Lafayette Park for a "teach-in."
- October 12 *Washington, D. C. - A group of 70 persons, most of them white, decided at a Wednesday-night (9 October) meeting, to hold a rally at 1 p.m. at the 13th Precinct Station House, 1620 V Street, N. W., and then to march to the home of Mayor Washington to present proposals for solving the problems of tension between the community and the police. The Wednesday-night meeting resulted as a result of the disorder brought on by the death of a young jaywalker shot by a policeman after a scuffle. Speakers at the Saturday rally will be: Rev. Channing PHILLIPS, Charles CASSELL, and Marion BARRY.
- October 12 Madison, Wisconsin - A "Bring the Boys Home Now" march is planned by the "Young Socialists for Halstead and Boutelle." Approximately fifty to seventy persons are expected to participate in the march which will include picketing of the Air Force and the Army recruiting station in Madison.
- October 12 *Madison, Wisconsin - The Committee to End the War in Vietnam applied for a permit to march and demonstrate. Although turned down by the Madison Police Department, it was approved by the Mayor's office after assurance there would be adequate marshals and no incidents. The march would go to the U. S. Army and Air Force recruiting station at the University of Wisconsin. The organizer, Lew PEPPER, said he expected about 1,000 persons and that among the expected speakers would be Howard FETRICK, a former GI discharged because of his anti-war activity.
- October 12 *Joliet, Illinois - "Concerned students of Joliet" have announced plans for: 1. an anti-Vietnam rally on the lawn of the Joliet Public Library with or without city approval; 2. establishment of a liberal newspaper in Joliet; and 3. an attempt to establish at least two underground newspapers in each school in the Joliet area.

- October 12 *Los Angeles, California - A demonstration sponsored by the Young Socialist Alliance will be held at the Mexican Consulate General's Office in support of Mexican students.
- October 12-13 *Jacksonville, Illinois - SDS is sponsoring a draft counseling seminar at MacMurray College. A draft counselor from the American Friends Service Committee will be present.
- October 12-15 *Boulder, Colorado - An SDS National Council meeting is still scheduled at the University of Colorado. It has been estimated that 400-600 persons will attend. The meeting will be open to the press and public.
- October 12 *San Francisco - A "March for Peace" proposed for men presently in uniform and veterans of former wars and scheduled to start in the Panhandle of Golden Gate Park and proceed to the Civic Center Plaza is apparently of concern to the Pentagon. Three Hamilton Air Force Base men this week charged they were being transferred to prevent their participation in the march. Air Force [REDACTED] [REDACTED] one of the organizers of the march told a press conference that he has been ordered transferred to Taiwan September 26 to prevent his participation in this protest against the war in Vietnam. He made public what purported to be an Air Force teletype message from the Pentagon which said in part that the Air Force command "strongly believes this demonstration should be quashed if possible because of possible severe impact on military discipline throughout the services..."
- *The GI's and Veterans March for Peace march is to begin at noon with a rally later in the p.m. Bull horns are to be utilized by the march marshalls to organize the crowd and to keep order during the march. Endorsements and financial aid have been obtained from labor unions and churchmen. Civilian support for the march reportedly includes "mini-skirt" and "MOM" brigades of women to distribute leaflets at bases and service centers in cities. A wheelchair brigade of wounded Vietnam Veterans will allegedly head up the march. Monitors will be clergymen in clerical garb.
- October 12 *Washington, D. C. - In connection with the GI's and Veterans March for Peace in San Francisco, it has been indicated that a similar march is planned on the East Coast in Washington, D. C., and that a call has gone out for servicemen to converge on Washington, D. C., the same day.

There has been no indication that the Washington, D. C., march has actually been organized.

October 14

*Los Angeles, California - Sirhan B. SIRHAN's trial for murder in the slaying of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy now scheduled for 1 November, is expected to be continued until a later date, probably after the first of the year. The reason for the expected postponement is said to be twofold:

The attorney who is expected to assist Russell E. PARSONS in defending SIRHAN is still unavailable because of other commitments;

There is a possibility that the jury will be sequestered throughout the entire trial, which would cause jurors to be locked up during the Thanksgiving, Christmas, and New Years holidays if the case begins as now scheduled.

Present estimates are that the trial will last about two months.

Another hearing will be held 14 October at which time discussion will be held on defense's motion for delay.

October 15-17

*Missoula, Montana - The SDS at the University of Montana is sponsoring a demonstration against CIA recruiters. SDS has demanded that school authorities cancel the CIA recruiting.

October 16-22

Los Angeles - The Resistance will sponsor a "Stop the Draft Week" beginning 16 October.

October 17

*New York City - Sentencing is scheduled for Herman R. FERGUSON and Arthur HARRIS, who were found guilty 15 June of plotting to kill Roy WILKINS and Whitney YOUNG, Jr., leaders in the colored community.

FERGUSON is a Freedom and Peace party candidate for U. S. Senator in New York and a recent ruling held that his name must be listed on the ballot despite the conviction.

October 21

*Los Angeles - Salvador Burnel CASTRO, a suspended classroom instructor at Lincoln High School, after his arrest and indictment by the Los Angeles Grand Jury in May for participating in a disturbance at East Los Angeles high schools, has had his trial date set for 21 October. A number of Mexican-Americans have been demonstrating at the Los Angeles Board of Education demanding his reinstatement. On 2 October thirty-seven were arrested. No violence occurred.

October 21-26

*Seattle, Washington - The Socialist Workers Party plans to distribute literature at the University of Washington during this week. It is calling for a massive demonstration at Seattle on 26 October as part of the national anti-war demonstrations which have been called for by the Student Mobilization Committee.

- October 21-27 *New Orleans, Louisiana - A "council-in" is planned by the former members of the Alliance of Radicals. In the early part of the week the Women's Strike for Peace plan a demonstration at the Customs House and the Tulane University Chapter of the SDS plan to demonstrate at the ROTC offices of the Campus. The HS chapter of the SDS and the Spartacist League have indicated that they are willing to demonstrate. SNCC and NAACP have thus far shown no intention in participating.
- October 21-27 *The Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (SMCEWV) in its conference held over the Labor Day weekend in Chicago proposed that the week of 21-27 October be organized for anti-war activity aimed at strengthening the ties between the anti-war movement throughout the world and American soldiers, wherever they are stationed. Saturday, 26 October, was selected as the target date for more demonstrations in local areas.
- The Austin, Texas, march and rally mentioned below is part of that plan. Other large demonstrations may be organized in the major cities in the country.
- October 21-26 *Austin, Texas - The University of Texas Committee to End the War in Vietnam, Austin, Texas, in cooperation with anti-war groups in Houston, Dallas, and San Antonio, Texas, reportedly are organizing a march and rally in Austin on 26 October as a support activity of Students Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam sponsored "National Week of Solidarity with American GI's." During the period 21-25 October, UTCEWV plans to carry out an extensive program of teach-ins, forums, movies, and special activities oriented to GI's.
- October 23 *Albuquerque, New Mexico - Larry RUSSEL, Chairman of New Mexico SDS, announced plans for a student boycott of classes at University of New Mexico to protest the war in Vietnam as part of the world-wide anti-war demonstrations to take place during the week of 21-26 October. Plans also include an all day "teach-in" on campus that will feature speakers, poetry readings, puppet shows and a "happening."
- October 25 *Chicago, Illinois - Jerry RUBIN (YIPPIES leader), is scheduled to appear in court on two charges of disorderly conduct and one count each of resisting arrest and "solicitation to commit mob action" stemming from his actions at the DNC.
- October 26 *Washington, D. C. - The Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam has distributed leaflets announcing a march. Two contingents will participate: a Georgetown contingent will meet at a playground at 34th and Volta

November 1-6

*The National Mobilization Committee has declared that this will be "National GI week." Activities during the week will include attempts to gain amnesty for deserters, the inclusion of GI's in marches and demonstrations, and attempts to initiate local referendum on the Vietnam War question. On 2 November 1968, massive demonstrations are planned at N. Y., San Francisco, Chicago, and Atlanta. These may be changed to the night of 1 November. 3 November 1968, will be Vietnam Sunday. Churches will be asked to make announcements in support of anti-war activities. November 5, 1968, is to be National Student Strike Day - students will be asked to boycott classes as an anti-Vietnam War protest. (FBI - in 92237 - from a source who proved reliable in past.)

During "GI Week" the NMC will reportedly send a delegation to Sweden to talk with U. S. deserters.

November 1968

A "Monroe Court-In" is planned for Monroe, North Carolina, if Robert F. WILLIAMS, the radical black nationalist, returns to face trial on a kidnapping charge, etc. The protest and disruptive activity would be timed for the Presidential elections. It does not appear likely that WILLIAMS will risk returning to face trial although it is conceivable that his ego leads him to believe that the threat of violence from his supporters in The Revolutionary Action Movement, the Black Panther Party, and other black militants, if he were convicted, is sufficiently formidable that the court would treat him gently.

November 2-8

Rennie DAVIS said there will be demonstrations at military bases during this week to let the GI's know they can get out of the service. He said there will be leafleting and demonstrations and a massive demonstration on 2 November.

November 5

A nation-wide student strike on Election Day is intended, DOHRN said.

November 5

Jerry RUBIN (Yippies) stated again that he and his colleagues hope to "disrupt" the election process on Election Day.

November 5

SDS and the Peace and Freedom Party reportedly plan mass demonstrations at polling places throughout the country on Election Day.

November 7

*New York City - Mark RUDD, the Columbia SDS leader accused of rioting at the University last May, recently had the charges against him reduced from 1st degree riot, a felony, to 2nd degree riot, a misdemeanor. He is also accused of three other misdemeanors linked to the campus disturbances. A hearing on all the misdemeanors charges has been scheduled for 7 November. RUDD has been paroled pending court hearings or trial.

November 10

*Los Angeles, California - The Los Angeles Veterans for Peace in Vietnam received a permit to march and demonstrate. The march will go to the L. A. City Hall for a rally there. Speakers will include Rear Admiral A. E. TRUE, Brigadier General Hugh HESTER, Master Sergeant Don DUNCAN, and other Vietnam veterans. Leaflets have been distributed in the L. A. area announcing the parade and rally.

November 12

The trial of James Earle RAY, the accused killer of Martin Luther KING, Jr., is scheduled to start in Memphis, Tennessee.

November 14

The Resistance will sponsor a nation-wide mass return of draft cards - symbolic of non-cooperation with the Selective Service System.

November 17

The Communist parties of the Soviet Union and fifty-seven other parties have just agreed in a meeting in Budapest to shelve plans for a World Communist Summit Conference in Moscow on 25 November. Another preparatory meeting has been called for 17 November to examine the date for calling the International Conference and the method of its further preparations. The decision to postpone the Moscow Conference appeared to be a bitter blow for the Kremlin who appeared to visualize the summit as a demonstration of loyalty to Moscow as the main center of the World Communist Movement despite the defection and "splitting tactics" of Communist China. The last World Conference, attended by seventy-eight parties, almost eight years ago, was an unsuccessful attempt to avert the historic rift between Moscow and Peking. Sixty-seven delegations, representing about 3/4 of the world's communist parties, attended a 9-day conference in February and March and agreed to call the Moscow summit for 25 November. Those parties which attended in February, but stayed away from the meeting which ended today, were those of Canada, Ceylon, the Dominican Republic, Jordan, Nicaragua, Nepal, Panama, Portugal and Norway. The Icelandic Party sent observers in February.

Six ruling communist parties, those of China, Albania, Yugoslavia, No. Vietnam, No. Korea, and Cuba - boycotted both gathering but came back as observers to the meeting which has just ended. A low-level Czechoslovak delegations attended.

(In Rome, officials of the Italian and Romanian communist parties ended a ten-day meeting with a call for the right of communist parties to decide their own political lines without outside interferences. Both the Italian and Romanian parties have criticized the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia.

November 18

*Oakland, California - This date has been set for the trial of the seven young men under conspiracy indictment for their part in organizing the October 1967 demonstrations in front of the Oakland Induction Center. The charge against the Oakland Seven "conspiracy to commit a misdemeanor" carries a maximum penalty of ten years imprisonment plus a $10,000 fine.

Over 10,000 people participated in the demonstrations at the induction center. Support for the "Oakland Seven" is being organized.

November 20

*Abbie HOFFMAN, Yippie leader, arrested and charged with defacing the American flag on 3 October during HCUA hearings has a trial date set for 20 November. He pleaded NOT guilty at his arraignment.

November 29-Dec. 1 A Hemispheric Conference to End the War in Vietnam will apparently meet in Montreal to develop coordination against U. S. intervention in Vietnam and the Americas. This meeting had earlier been indicated for 12-14 October. A planning meeting was held in Montreal on 7-8 September. A flyer issued in connection with the conference proclaims that approximately 2,000 people from throughout the hemisphere - over 1/4 from Canada - will attend. Among the listed sponsors from the U. S. are the following:

Donna ALLAN & Dagmar WILSON
Women Strike for Peace
Julian BOND - Georgia State Assembly
Anne & Carl BRADEW
Southern Christian Education Fund
Ossie DAVIS and Ruby DEE
Prof. Robert GREENBLATT - NNCEWV
Father James GROFFI
James JACKSON - CPUSA
Rev. Bernard LAYFAYETTE - SCLC
Linda MORSE - 5th Avenue Peace Parade Committee
Dr. Benjamin SPOCK
JAMES TYNER - National Chairman - W. E. B. DuBois Club
John WILSON - SNCC

December 2

Bel Air, Maryland - The trial of H. Rap BROWN on charges of arson and inciting to riot in Cambridge, Maryland, has been scheduled with Judge Harry E. WYER, presiding.

December 2

Oakland, California - The April 6, 1968, "Shoot-out Crowd" of the Black Panther Party have had their trial set for 2 December. Eldridge CLEAVER, Minister of Information of the BPP is one of the six defendants. All pleaded innocent to a variety of charges stemming from the shoot-out with the Oakland Police Department in Oakland. This was the confrontation during which Bobby HUTTON of the BPP's was killed.

December 13

New York City - The National Emergency Civil Liberties Committee annual Bill of Rights dinner is scheduled for the Americana Hotel. The NECLC is the old ECLC rejuvenated with a new name. The old ECLC was cited as a Communist Front in 1956 by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee and in 1959 by HCUA. Featured speakers will be: Dr. Benjamin SPOCK and Dick GREGORY.

Corliss LAMONT is chairman of NECLC.

December 21

*Washington, D. C. - The HCUA subcommittee after holding three days of open hearings into the conduct and connection of some groups and individuals in the HNC disorders is in recess until 21 December. Five of the seven witnesses subpoenaed have not been heard and are expected to return. They are David DELLINGER, Rennie DAVIS, Tom HAXTON, Jerry RUBIN, and Abbie HOFFMAN. Robert GREENBLATT of the HNC and Dr. David YOUNG of the Medical Committee for Human Rights who testified last week were released from their subpoenas but could be summoned back.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

ACTIVITIES OF POSSIBLE INTEREST TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED FOR THE FALL
OF 1968

The "asterisked" items listed are either newly surfaced activities or are changed details on activities listed in previously printed calendars.

October 10-27 *According to the London Times, Scotland Yard has uncovered a plot by armed extremists to seize Government buildings and the U. S. and Russian embassies during a planned anti-Vietnam War rally. The extremists reportedly are made up of American students and "draft dodgers" in Britain who are backed by "foreign capital." The extremists have no connection with the organizers of the demonstrations but merely plan to act during them. "The aims of the extremists seem to be to usurp authority and disrupt the administration," the Times quoted a government source as saying.

Leaflets circulated in London last week urged demonstrators to make grenades and firebombs and to assemble for a massive anti-Vietnam protest on 27 October.

October 16-22 Los Angeles - The Resistance will sponsor a "Stop the Draft Week" beginning 16 October.

October 18 *Boston, Mass. - A person of unknown reliability has indicated that an organization called People Against Racism plans a disturbance at the Boston Garden in the near future when one of the Presidential candidates is scheduled to speak there. Although no Presidential candidate is known to have plans for an appearance there soon, Senator Eugene McCarthy is scheduled to make an appearance there on the 18th. Reportedly People Against Racism plans to place a stink bomb and rotten eggs in the ventilating system.

October 18-19 *Washington, D. C. - On 18 October Eldridge CLEAVER, Minister of Information of the NFF, is scheduled to speak at Howard University. On the 19th, he has another speaking engagement in Washington, the site for which is unknown.

Stokely CARMICHAEL is also to speak at Howard University on the 18th.

- October 19 *Grand Forks, No. Dakota - Information indicates that plans are being made by students at the University of North Dakota to obtain selective service and ROTC records and to burn them at the homecoming game on the evening of the 19th.
- October 19 *New York City - A 5th Avenue Peace Parade spokesman forecast that a forceful demonstration will take place on 19 October when Presidential candidate Richard M. NIXON is scheduled to make a campaign appearance.
- October 21-27 New Orleans, Louisiana - A "council-in" is planned by the former members of the Alliance of Radicals. In the early part of the week the Women's Strike for Peace plan a demonstration at the Customs House and the Tulane University Chapter of the SDS plans to demonstrate at the ROTC offices of the Campus. The HS chapter of the SDS and the Spartacist League have indicated that they are willing to demonstrate. SNCC and NAACP have thus far shown no intention in participating.
- October 21-27 The Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (SMCEWV) in its conference held over the Labor Day weekend in Chicago proposed that the week of 21-27 October be organized for anti-war activity aimed at strengthening the ties between the anti-war movement throughout the world and American soldiers, wherever they are stationed. Saturday, 26 October, was selected as the target date for more demonstrations in local areas.
- The Austin, Texas, march and rally mentioned below is part of that plan. Other large demonstrations may be organized in the major cities in the country.
- October 21 Los Angeles - Salvador Burnel CASTRO, a suspended classroom instructor at Lincoln High School, after his arrest and indictment by the Los Angeles Grand Jury in May for participating in a disturbance at East Los Angeles high schools, has had his trial date set for 21 October. A number of Mexican-Americans have been demonstrating at the Los Angeles Board of Education demanding his reinstatement. On 2 October thirty-seven were arrested. No violence occurred.
- October 21-26 Seattle, Washington - The Socialist Workers Party plans to distribute literature at the University of Washington during this week. It is calling for a massive demonstration at Seattle on 26 October as part of the national anti-war demonstrations which have been called for by the Student Mobilization Committee.
- October 21-26 Austin, Texas - The University of Texas Committee to End the War in Vietnam, Austin, Texas, in cooperation with anti-war groups in Houston, Dallas, and San Antonio, Texas, reportedly are organizing a march and rally in Austin on 26 October as a support activity of Students Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam sponsored "National Week of Solidarity with American GI's." During the period 21-25 October, UTCEWV plans to carry out an extensive program of teach-ins, forums, movies, and special activities oriented to GI's.

- October 21-26 HE, an organization dominated by the SWP & YSA, has adopted a resolution calling for campus demonstrations across the country to encourage resistance to the military on the part of servicemen.
- October 23 Albuquerque, New Mexico - Larry RUSSEL, Chairman of New Mexico SDS, announced plans for a student boycott of classes at University of New Mexico to protest the war in Vietnam as part of the world-wide anti-war demonstrations to take place during the week of 21-26 October. Plans also include an all day "teach-in" on campus that will feature speakers, poetry readings, puppet shows and a "happening."
- October 23 *Ann Arbor, Michigan - SDS, University of Michigan, has passed a resolution that it will not allow Presidential candidate Richard M. NIXON to speak in Ann Arbor.
- October 24 *New York City - A demonstration against George WALLACE and Curtis LEMAY will be held when they speak at Madison Square Garden. It is being called by the 5th Avenue Peace Parade Committee and the W. E. B. DuBois Club.
- October 25 Chicago, Illinois - Jerry RUBIN (YIPPIES leader), is scheduled to appear in court on two charges of disorderly conduct and one count each of resisting arrest and "solicitation to commit mob action" stemming from his actions at the DNC.
- October 26 Washington, D. C. - The student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam has distributed leaflets announcing a march. Two contingents will participate: a Georgetown contingent will meet at a playground at 34th and Volta Place and march through Georgetown to the White House; and the Dupont contingent will meet at Dupont Circle and march down Constitution Ave. to the White House. A rally will be held in the afternoon at Lafayette Park and a street dance will be held on Eye Street between 20 and 21st Streets with rock bands and snake dances. They hope to have the marches led by anti-war GI's from the area.
- October 26 The Resistance and other anti-war/draft organizers plan to meet at City Hall in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and march to Independence Square as a protest to the War in Vietnam. The demonstration reportedly will be led by several active-duty demonstration. Demonstrators will distribute leaflets and will picket outside the Chicago stadium where the Vice-President is to speak. Reputedly some sort of action within the stadium is also under consideration.

November 1-6

*The National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam is calling for a week of activity on military bases, a strike of the election, and a series of mass rallies and demonstrations. Rennie DAVIS, mobilization coordinator, and other activists state that their plans do not include blocking polling places or otherwise disrupting the election procedures. There have been, however, some prior indications that if NMC does not have such intentions, some individuals among the YIPPIES, SDS, and other groups may have such ideas.

One of NMC's major protest activities will be a "National GI Week" starting 1 November, to focus attention on the war, to attempt to establish contact between the anti-war movement and individual servicemen and to "support the soldiers' right to come home."

The week is to include delegations of clergymen visiting bases and asking to give special "VNM services," visits by peace groups seeking to handout leaflets and to listen to soldiers' grievances, and at several major bases "love-ins" or picnics held by large numbers of young people for soldiers near the bases. Activities reputedly will include attempts to gain amnesty for deserters, the inclusion of GI's in marches and demonstrations, and attempts to initiate local referendums on the Vietnam War question. On 2 November, massive demonstrations are planned at New York, San Francisco, Chicago, and Atlanta. These may be rescheduled to the night of 1 November.

Saturday and Sunday, November 2 and 3, are to be declared the "Vietnam Sabbath," with special church services dealing with the war and the draft and with some churches declaring themselves "sanctuaries" for resisters.

In addition, leaflets are to be passed out at bus, train, and airline terminals in attempts to reach soldiers; some groups may go to servicemen's entertainment centers to present anti-war programs, and campus teach-ins featuring speeches by returned veterans are to be organized.

On Election Day, 5 November, the NMC expects about "a thousand demonstrators" across the country. 5 November is to be National Student Strike Day. Demonstrations are to include "strikes and walkouts" at colleges and universities and, possibly at New York City high schools; teach-ins; distribution of leaflets at polling places to urge people not to vote for the three major candidates; and picketing, particularly at the New York and Minnesota polling places of Richard M. NIXON and Vice-President HUMPHREY.

A delegation of prominent Americans is to be sent to Sweden and France to interview "exiled servicemen deserters" and to return during this week for a press conference and to speak at rallies.

November 2 *Washington, D. C. - A "Washington Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam" handbill states there will be a rally at 12 noon at Lafayette Park. Speakers: Mario SAVIO (Sexual Freedom), Art WASKOW, and others. March - to Humphrey and Nixon Headquarters after the rally.
"Demonstrate for Peace - Don't Vote for War. No opposition can be expressed at the polls."

November 2 *Austin, Texas - Indications are that SNCC will sponsor a dance at the University of Texas in coordination with "National GI Week."

November 4-5 *SDS, at its National Council Meeting 10/12-14, voted to participate in a week of election activities similar to those outlined by the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, in hopes of persuading voters that the Presidential election is a fraud. One proposal called for nationally coordinated local demonstrations on 4-5 November to include strikes by student groups. Also to mobilize large militant SDS regional demonstrations in major cities. New York, Milwaukee, Boston, Chicago, Washington, and Los Angeles were mentioned as possibilities by Bernadine DOHRN, one of three SDS National secretaries, who said no firm sites had been selected yet.

This plan was adopted over competing proposals to mount an Election Day march on the White House and to seek ways of educating the public without Election Day demonstrations.

The council voted also to accelerate their efforts to enlist high school students in the SDS radical causes.

The National Mobilization Committee sponsored series of demonstrations for "National GI Week" beginning 1 November, also includes plans for "strikes and walkouts" on Election Day, 5 November, at colleges and universities and possibly at N. Y. C. high schools..

November 5 Jerry RUBIN (YIPPIES) stated again that he and his colleagues hope to "disrupt" the election process on Election Day.

November 5 SDS and the Peace and Freedom Party reportedly plan mass demonstrations at polling places throughout the country on Election Day.

- November 5 *Milwaukee, Wisconsin - An anti-draft demonstration is planned on National Election Day which would include attempts to close the Armed Forces EEG station on No. Milwaukee Street.
- November 5 *Davenport, Iowa - Rumor is circulating that SDS is giving advice on activity possibly planned to disrupt the Presidential Elections by demonstrations and slow downs at the polls by dissident elements.
- November 7 New York City - Mark RUDD, the Columbia SDS leader accused of rioting at the University last May, recently had the charges against him reduced from 1st degree riot, a felony, to 2nd degree riot, a misdemeanor. He is also accused of three other misdemeanors linked to the campus disturbances. A hearing on all the misdemeanors charges has been scheduled for 7 November. RUDD has been paroled pending court hearings or trial.
- November 10 Los Angeles, California - The Los Angeles Veterans for Peace in Vietnam received a permit to march and demonstrate. The march will go to the L. A. city hall for a rally there. Speakers will include Rear Admiral A. E. TRUE, Brigadier General Hugh HESTER, Master Sergeant Don IUNCAN, and other Vietnam veterans. Leaflets have been distributed in the L. A. area announcing the parade and rally.
- November 12 The trial of James Earle RAY, the accused killer of Martin Luther KING, Jr., is scheduled to start in Memphis, Tennessee.
- November 14 The Resistance will sponsor a nation-wide mass return of draft cards - symbolic of non-cooperation with the Selective Service System.
- November 14 *Washington, D. C. - More than 1,000 participants are expected to attend a four-day conference at Howard University, called "Towards a Black University." The purpose of the conference will be to define the structure and mechanics of a black university which has as a primary concern, revolutionary unity and excellence in a black society.
- November 17 The Communist parties of the Soviet Union and fifty-seven other parties have just agreed in a meeting in Budapest to shelve plans for a World Communist Summit Conference in Moscow on 25 November. Another preparatory meeting has been called for 17 November to examine the date for calling the International Conference and the method of its further preparations. The decision to postpone the Moscow Conference appeared to be a bitter blow for the Kremlin who appeared to visualize the summit as a demonstration of loyalty to Moscow as the main center of the World Communist Movement despite the defection and "splitting tactics" of Communist China. The last World Conference, attended by seventy-eight parties, almost eight hundred delegates, was a success in bringing the historic rift between Moscow and Beijing. High-ranking officials, representing about 1/3 of the world's communist parties, attended a nine-day conference in February and March and agreed to call the Moscow summit for 25 November. Those parties which attended in February, but stayed away from the meeting which ended today, were those of Canada, Cyprus, the Icelandic Republic, Jordan, Nicaragua, Israel, Iran, Portugal and Hungary. The Icelandic Party sent observers in February.

The ruling communist parties, those of China, Albania, Yugoslavia, Ho. Vietnam, Ho. Korea, and Cuba - boycotted both gatherings but came back as observers to the meeting which has just ended. A low-level Czechoslovak delegation attended.

In Rome, officials of the Italian and Romanian communist parties called a ten-day meeting with a call for the right of communist parties to decide their own political lines without outside interferences. Both the Italian and Romanian parties have criticized the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia.

November 15

Oakland, California - This date has been set for the trial of the seven young men under conspiracy indictment for their part in organizing the October 1977 demonstrations in front of the Oakland Education Center. The charge against the Oakland Seven "conspiring to commit a misdemeanor" carries a maximum penalty of ten years imprisonment and a $15,000 fine.

Over 10,000 people participated in the demonstrations at the induction center. Support for the "Oakland Seven" is being organized.

November 20

Abbie HOFFMAN, Yippie leader, arrested and charged with defacing the American flag on 3 October during NGIA hearings has a trial date set for 20 November. He pleaded NOT guilty at his arraignment.

November 22-Dec.

1. A Hemispheric Conference to End the War in Vietnam will currently meet in Montreal to develop coordination against U.S. intervention in Vietnam and the Americas. This meeting had earlier been indicated for 12-14 October. A planning meeting was held in Montreal on 7-8 November. A flyer issued in connection with the conference proclaims that approximately 2,000 people from throughout the hemisphere - over 100 from Canada will attend. Among the listed sponsors from the U. S. are the following:

Demr ALLAN & Roger WILSON
Women Strike for Peace

Julian BOND - Georgia State Assembly
 Anne & Carl BRADEN
 Southern Christian Education Fund
 Ossie DAVIS and Ruby DEE
 Prof. Robert GREENBLATT - NMCEW
 Father James GROPP
 James JACKSON - CFUSA
 Rev. Bernard LAFAYETTE - SCLC
 Linda MORSE - 5th Avenue Peace Parade Committee
 Dr. Benjamin SPOCK
 Jarvis TYNER - National Chairman - W. E. B. DuBois Club
 John WILSON - SNCC

It was indicated that the conference would deal with U. S. involvement in Latin America only so far as it affects the Vietnam War.

Delegations representing the Democratic Republic of Vietnam and the National Liberation Front will be present.

Initiated by a broad coalition in Montreal, the meeting will include activists from the U. S., Canada and many countries of Central and South America. Unification and expansion of the peace movements in these areas will reputedly be the conference's goal.

- Nov. 29-Dec. 1 *Chicago, Illinois - The Young Socialist Alliance (youth section of the Socialist Workers Party) has called for a national convention of Revolutionary Socialists over the Thanksgiving weekend. Representatives from the German SDS - French JCR - Japanese Zengakuren and Socialists from Italy, England and some of the Socialist Black countries are expected. Purpose of the convention reportedly is to discuss building a serious revolutionary organization in the advanced industrial countries including the U. S. A.
- December 2 Bel Air, Maryland - The trial of H. Rap BROWN on charges of arson and inciting to riot in Cambridge, Maryland, has been scheduled with Judge Harry E. Dwyer, presiding.
- December 2 Oakland, California - The April 6, 1968, "Shoot-out Crowd" of the Black Panther Party have had their trial set for 2 December. Eldridge CLEAVER, Minister of Information of the BPP is one of the six defendants. All pleaded innocent to a variety of charges stemming from the shoot-out with the Oakland Police Department in Oakland. This was the confrontation during which Bobby HUTTON of the BPP was killed.
- December 9 *Los Angeles, California - The trial of Sirhan B. SIRHAN on the charge that he murdered Robert F. KENNEDY, has been delayed until 9 December on a motion by the defense. Superior Judge Herbert V. WALKER, the Senior Criminal Court Judge in Los Angeles County presided over the hearing and will preside at the trial. Judge WALKER, said, over prosecution objections, that he intended to sequester the jury, once it was sworn. He said that jury selection would begin December 9, and that if no jury was selected by December 23, he would recess the trial until January 2, 1969.

December 13

New York City - The National Emergency Civil Liberties Committee annual Bill of Rights dinner is scheduled for the Americana Hotel. The NECLC is the old ECLC rejuvenated with a new name. The old ECLC was cited as a Communist Front in 1956 by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee and in 1959 by HCUA. Featured speakers will be: Dr. Benjamin SPOCK and Dick GREGORY.

Corliss LAMONT is Chairman of NECLC.

December 21

Washington, D. C. - The HCUA subcommittee after holding three days of open hearings into the conduct and connection of some groups and individuals in the DNC disorders is in recess until 21 December. Five of the seven witnesses subpoenaed have not been heard and are expected to return. They are David DELLINGER, Rennie DAVIS, Tom HAYDEN, Jerry RUBIN, and Abbie HOFFMAN. Robert GREENBLATT of the NMC and Dr. David YOUNG of the Medical Committee for Human Rights who testified last week were released from their subpoenas but could be summoned back.

January 3, 1969

*Included in the new program allegedly adopted by the NMCEWVN (Chairman David DELLINGER) - adopted at a September 14 administrative committee meeting in D. C. - "Rally supporters to pressure House of Representatives on 3 January and the new President at his inauguration 20 January 1969.

January 20

The Youth International Party (YIPPIES) announced it will hold a "Festival of Life" at Washington, D. C., during the inauguration of the President. Yippies contributed much of the disruptive activity at the Democratic National Convention with their "Festival of Life" there.

January 20

Rennie DAVIS, NMC leader, recently announced to anti-war protestors that there would be a "massive convergence" of protestors in Washington on Inauguration Day.

January 20

Jerry RUBIN (YIPPIES) has stated that he and his colleagues will try to make it rough for whomever is inaugurated President on 20 January. They will hold marches and parades and make an effort to bring their pig, Pegasus - whom they nominated in Chicago - into the White House.

January 20

*Washington, D. C. - The Administrative Committee of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (NMC) met on Oct. 12 and 13 at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Massachusetts. Approximately forty people attended; including David DELLINGER and Rennie DAVIS, NMC leaders; Sidney PECK, a former member of the Communist Party; and Arnold JOHNSON, a member of the CPUSA national Committee. The Committee decided that there was need for tight security against FBI investigations of anti-riot law violations. A working committee was formed to make plans for a demonstration at Washington, D. C., during the Presidential Inauguration. The Committee announced its plans to send a group of Prominent Americans to Sweden and France to visit "exiled" U.S. military deserters. A press conference will be held upon the group's return. Wealthy sympathizers of the committee may be solicited for annual sustainers of $10,000. The administrative committee planned to meet again on 17 October at Washington, D. C.

There may be some encouraging news from the campuses this fall. A leading American educator recently forecast the possibilities of a campus reaction across the country against student activists who disrupt college and university functions. Heretofore silent students in the moderate center who feel their rights to an education are being denied in the confrontation between activists and administrators may insist on being heard. "There are many signs of a strong reaction on the part of the great mass of moderate students against disruption on the campus. A general backlash from these students is possible. The great majority of American students are not activist about anything."

In Denver, Colorado, an organization called Student Welfare Organization (SWO) has been formed. It proposed to be a new voice on campus and to act as a "Third Party" in campus disputes to try to bring involved groups to a logical compromise and to act as a communicating body to finally bring understanding and peace within the campus walls. It states that it is going to:

Put education back as the No. 1 objective in schools;

Bring back the democratic processes of dissent; and attempt to workout functioning committee groups made equally of students and university administrators to discuss pertinent issues. Further, it says, "Let this organization be a true test of the thousands of honest student dissenters and expose those student elements who are merely trying to undermine our American way.

The following items are additional activities disclosed too late to be included in the above calendar:

- October 19 College Park, Maryland - SDS of the University of Michigan is showing a movie on the student disruptions at Columbia University last spring. Mark RUDD, SDS Columbia leader, is scheduled to speak.
- October 21 *Memphis, Tennessee - SDS is sponsoring a peace demonstration and is considering a march in downtown Memphis.
- Oct. 21-22&24 *Madison, Wisconsin - Anti-war groups at the University of Wisconsin have announced that Senator Eugene McCarthy will speak on October 21; Dick GREGORY on October 22; and Eldridge CLEAVER on October 24.
- October 26 *Los Angeles, California - The Student Mobilization Committee (SMC) is sponsoring demonstrations which will include demonstrations at Induction centers, Nixon and Humphrey Headquarters and the DOW Chemical Company. Following these demonstrations there will be a rally at MacArthur Park.
- October 26 *Honolulu, Hawaii - SDS at the University of Hawaii plans to demonstrate during a speech by Presidential candidate George WALLACE's brother.
- October 27 *Atlanta, Georgia - The Atlanta Alliance for Peace, a group controlled by the Young Socialist Alliance (YSA) will demonstrate by holding a march and rally. Retired Army Brigadier General Hugh HESTER will be the principal speaker at the rally.

- Oct. 31-Nov. 2 *Boston, Massachusetts - SDS plans to disrupt CIA interviews in the Boston area.
- November 1-5 *Boston, Massachusetts - During National GI Week being sponsored by the NMC, SDS plans to contact military personnel and urge that they seek sanctuary in churches or disrupt the military at their bases. SDS will also attempt to interfere with inductees leaving for basic training.
- November 2 *Chicago, Illinois - University of Wisconsin students are being encouraged to travel to Chicago to take part in a demonstration against Vice-President Hubert Humphrey.

PROJECT MERRIMACK - Special Report

On 22 October 1968 the CBW Mid-Atlantic Committee on Ft. Detrick held a meeting at 2140 P Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. Plans were discussed to hold the proposed Frederick, Maryland, meeting on 19 November at Hood College, and the speakers are scheduled to be Seymour HERSCH and (Fnu) ROSEBURY. This meeting will get under way at 2015 hours, and a question/answer period will follow. After the meeting, an informal gathering will be held at the Brethren Church which is within walking distance of the Hood campus.

It was suggested that the CBW hold another meeting after November 19th in Frederick, Maryland, and invite the local people.

The following individuals were in attendance:

Re: Fort Detrick

We are writing to you especially because of your health related research work, and because of our concern about Fort Detrick. It is our feeling that you, in particular, are aware of the potential dangers of chemical and biological warfare, and more importantly, that you are sufficiently concerned to assist us in an educational project.

Fort Detrick was established in Frederick, Md. in 1943, but security policies kept its purposes a secret from the community until after World War II. Even today few residents are fully aware of the possible consequences of living in a city that harbors a center for germ war research. Fort Detrick apparently exerts so much economic influence on the city of Frederick that the impetus in the non-scientific community for a real discussion of biological and chemical warfare has not taken place. Insulated from discussion, Fort Detrick scientists continue to divorce their technical skills from human concerns and responsibilities.

The work of Fort Detrick employees constitutes in essence, a moral perversion of the nobler aims of science. A former researcher at Fort Detrick, Dr. Theodor Rosebury, succinctly stated the issue: "Biological warfare is public health upside down. It aims to hurt, to cripple, to destroy - people, useful animals, food and other plants. Even when the immediate targets are animals or plants the final ones are always people."

We propose to bring this issue of human and moral responsibility to the Frederick and Montgomery County communities. Seymour Hersh, journalist and author of Chemical and Biological Warfare, and Dr. Rosebury, presently Professor Emeritus of Bacteriology at Washington University, have agreed to speak in Frederick at the Price Auditorium, Hood College on November 19.

Our immediate dilemma centers on the need for money to fully publicize the meetings as well as to pay the travel expenses incurred by our speakers. We ask for your help. A contribution of $5.00, or more if you are able, will help ensure a successful meeting.

We hope that you will contact us for more information, or with ideas you might offer. Our address is,

233SITUATION INFORMATION REPORTACTIVITIES OF POSSIBLE INTEREST TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED FOR THE FALL
OF 1968

The "asterisked" items listed are either newly surfaced activities or are changed details on activities listed in previously printed calendars.

October 17 *New York City - Herman B. FERGUSON, black militant candidate for the U. S. Senate and a former NYC public school official, obtained permission to be freed from jail on bail of $25,000. He was found guilty June 15 of conspiracy to commit murder in the first degree and was sentenced to 3½ to 7 years in prison. He was one of the members of the Revolutionary Action Movement who had been accused of conspiring to murder Roy WILKINS, executive director of the NAACP, and Whitney YOUNG, Jr., national director of the Urban League. The permission for bail was granted by State Supreme Court Justice Joseph M. CONROY, who ruled that there was "reasonable doubt" that FERGUSON had received a fair trial. Basis was that the prosecution had mentioned before the jury, the assassination of Robert F. KENNEDY, which had occurred shortly after the trial began, and every American was filled with emotion over that terrible event.

The period 10/21 - 10/27, having been tabbed by dissenting groups as a week for increasing anti-war and anti-establishment activities, winds up with many events anticipated on 25-26 and 27 October. Those which have been disclosed to date are listed below, followed by those other events expected from 28 October through 20 January 1969 (Inaugural Day).

October 10-27 According to the London Times, Scotland Yard has uncovered a plot by armed extremists to seize Government buildings and the U. S. and Russian embassies during a planned anti-Vietnam War rally. The extremists reportedly are made up of American students and "draft dodgers" in Britain who are backed by "foreign capital." Senior Scotland Yard officials reportedly said the plot posed a situation "potentially as violent" as the student rioting in Paris the past spring. Scotland Yard officials declined comment when queried. The Times said simultaneous demonstrations were planned in France, Germany, and Italy. The extremists have no connection with the organizers of the demonstrations but merely plan to act during them. "The aims of the extremists seem to be to usurp authority and disrupt the administration," the Times quoted a government source as saying.

Leaflets circulated in London last week urged demonstrators to make grenades and firebombs and to assemble for a massive anti-Vietnam protest on 27 October.

*Authorities are seeking to ease the tension which has been building up by anti-war and student actions. They have urged the students to boycott the anti-war protest planned for 27 October.

October 21-27

*Johnson City, Tennessee - A petition was being circulated last week at East Tennessee State University in an attempt to get students and faculty members to participate in anti-war demonstrations during this week. University officials were concerned particularly because the inauguration of the new University President was to take place 23 October. Approximately 500 dignitaries had been invited and many newsmen and cameramen were to be on hand.

October 24

*Washington, D. C. - Tommie SMITH and John CARLOS, banished from the Mexico City Olympic Games for a black-power demonstration last week, are scheduled to begin a nationwide speaking tour. Stokely CARMICHAEL claimed to have made the local arrangements. Three appearances were indicated starting with a press conference at 11 a.m. At 1 p.m. they will appear at Howard University and at 3:30 p.m. at the New School of Afro-American Thought.

October 21-27

The Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (SMCEWV) in its conference held over the Labor Day weekend in Chicago proposed that the week of 21-27 October be organized for anti-war activity aimed at strengthening the ties between the anti-war movement, throughout the world and American soldiers, wherever they are stationed. Saturday, 26 October, was selected as the target date for more demonstrations in local areas.

The Austin, Texas, march and rally mentioned below is part of that plan. Other large demonstrations may be organized in the major cities in the country.

October 21-26

Austin, Texas - The University of Texas Committee to End the War in Vietnam, Austin, Texas, in cooperation with anti-war groups in Houston, Dallas, and San Antonio, Texas, reportedly are organizing a march and rally in Austin on 26 October as a support activity of Students Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam spon-scored "National Week of Solidarity with American GI's." During the period 21-25 October, UTCEWV plans to carry out an extensive program of teach-ins, forums, movies, and special activities oriented to GI's.

*The MCEWV at the University of Texas indicates they expect soldiers from Ft. HOOD and Ft. SAN HOUSTON to participate in the anti-war march this date.

October 21-27

New Orleans, Louisiana - A "council-in" is planned by the former members of the Alliance of Radicals. In the early part of the week the Women's Strike for Peace plan a demonstration at the Customs House and the Tulane University Chapter of the SDS plans to demonstrate at the ROTC offices of the Campus. The HS chapter of the SDS and the Spartacist League have indicated that they are willing to demonstrate. SNCC and NAACP have thus far shown no intention in participating.

October 21-26

*New Orleans, Louisiana - The Spartacist League (a communist splinter group) and SDS are sponsoring demonstrations in New Orleans. Leaflets will be distributed throughout the week and SDS members at Louisiana State University plan to dress in black "Viet Cong" pajamas during the week.

October 25-27

*Philadelphia, Pennsylvania - This week has been designated the Week of Solidarity concerning anti-war activities on the University of Pennsylvania campus.

October 25

*Philadelphia, Pennsylvania - The Eastern Pennsylvania branch of the Peace and Freedom Party will hold a big election rally Friday night, 10/25 at the Irvine Auditorium for its vice-presidential candidate - Mark LANE.

October 26

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania - The Resistance and other anti-war/draft organizers plan to meet at City Hall and march to Independence Square as a protest to the War in Vietnam. The demonstration reportedly will be led by several active-duty military personnel. Gizele MANDEL, founder of the German SDS, is to arrive in Philadelphia on 24 October and organizers hope MANDEL will join in the rally and demonstration. Dr. Benjamin SPOCK and the Rev. William Sloane COFFIN have been invited to speak.

October 26

*Philadelphia, Pennsylvania - The Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam has been issued a permit to march from City Hall to Independence Hall for a rally. Approximately 500-1,000 persons are expected to participate. Main speaker at the rally is to be William E. PERRY, a recently discharged serviceman.

October 26

*Washington, D. C. - NMC has been granted a permit to use the Sylvan Theatre (Washington Monument Grounds) from 1400 to 2000 hours. The NMC will have folk singers, bands, and two speakers: Father Richard McSORLEY (prof. Georgetown University) and William IMMAN, a D. C. folk-singer. Approximately 1500 persons are expected to attend the rally. Permits to assemble at Georgetown University, Dupont Circle Park, and Meridian Hill Park and then march to the Monument grounds.

October 26

Washington, D. C. - The Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam has distributed leaflets announcing a march. Two contingents will participate: a Georgetown contingent will meet at a playground at 34th and Volta Place and march through Georgetown to the White House; and the Dupont contingent will meet at Dupont Circle and march down Constitution Avenue to the White House. A rally will be held in the afternoon at Lafayette Park and a street dance will be held on Eye Street between 20 and 21st Streets with rock bands and snake dances. They hope to have the marches led by anti-war GI's from the area.

October 26

Los Angeles, California - During the rally at the recently held "GI's and Veterans' March for Peace (GVMFP)" in San Francisco, ~~one of the organizers~~, one of the organizers, announced that there would be another march - this one at Los Angeles on 26 October.

October 26

*Los Angeles, California - The Student Mobilization Committee (SMC) is sponsoring demonstrations which will include demonstrations at Induction centers, Nixon and Humphrey Headquarters and the DOW Chemical Company. The main theme of the demonstrations will be "Bring the GI's Home Alive" and after the demonstrations a rally is planned at MacArthur Park. A number of anti-war groups are supporting these demonstrations.

A demonstration will also be held at the Headquarters of George Wallace's American Independent Party.

October 21-26

*New York City - The Student Mobilization Committee (SMC) is the organizing structure for a series of national actions to be held during "The Week of International Solidarity Against the War in Vietnam."

Campus activities in New York include rallies and teach-ins led by GI's to be held at: Columbia University, City College, Brooklyn College, Brooklyn Polytechnic, and others.

October 26

*Chicago, Illinois - The major event of the week 21-27 October designated as "The Week of International Solidarity Against the War in Vietnam" will be a "GI Rally" at the Midland Hotel from 1600 to 2400 hours. The Rally will consist of active duty GI speakers, speakers from the anti-war movement, and speakers from the Black Liberation Movement.

October 26

*Chicago, Illinois - College and high school students will meet servicemen coming into Chicago for the weekend at commercial transportation debarking areas and invite them to be personally escorted to The Midland Hotel for a "GI Rally" from 1600 to 2400 hours.

October 26

*Seattle, Washington - The American Friends Service Committee will organize groups to go by bus to Fort Lewis, Seattle-Tacoma International Airport, and the Seattle bus station to distribute leaflets daily during National GI Week and to invite soldiers to attend a conference 10/26 in Seattle.

October 21-26

Seattle, Washington - The Socialist Workers Party plans to distribute literature at the University of Washington during this week. It is calling for a massive demonstration at Seattle on 26 October as part of the national anti-war demonstrations which have been called for by the Student Mobilization Committee.

October 26

*Detroit, Michigan - A march and rally are planned for downtown Detroit. The group will form at Grand Circus Park and march to Kennedy Square where the rally is to be held. A number of anti-war groups will participate.

During the week 21-27, proposed demonstrations will be at special "targets" such as the DOW Chemical Company, the Ft. Wayne Induction Center, Selfridge AF Base, and the Cadillac Towers where selective service boards are located. The theme will be to end the war in Vietnam and to bring the troops home.

October 26

*Phoenix, Arizona - Members of the NMC and SDS will sponsor a "Rally-Teach-In" at the State Capitol Building to protest the War in Vietnam.

October 26

*Minneapolis, Minnesota - The Minnesota Mobilization Committee will sponsor an anti-Vietnam demonstration in connection with National GI Week. The group will march from Loring Park to Pioneer Park where speeches and a rally will be held.

October 26

*Minneapolis and St. Paul, Minnesota - Minnesota Mobilization Committee has slated a noon rally in Minneapolis and an evening rally in St. Paul.

- October 26 Honolulu, Hawaii - SDS at the University of Hawaii plans to demonstrate during a speech by Presidential candidate George WALLACE's brother.
- October 26 Fort Sheridan, Illinois - Information received indicates that The Women for Peace plan to hold a demonstration in front of the main gate at Ft. Sheridan as part of the nationwide demonstrations planned for October 21-27.
- October 21-26 *Laramie, Wyoming - "Relate 68" a new group at the University of Wyoming, will hold a week of meetings on the campus to seek solutions to campus and international problems. SDS plans to demonstrate against "Relate 68" to disrupt these activities.
- October 21-27 *Champaign and Urbana, Illinois - Anti-war movies and speeches will take place on the campus of the University of Illinois and a student strike will be attempted on October 25.
- October 25 & 26 *Bloomington, Indiana - Demonstrations will be held at Indiana University.
- October 25-27 *Syracuse, New York - Both SDS and the People for Freedom and Peace (PFP) are formulating plans for possible participation in a nationwide week of anti-war demonstrations. Reportedly, the week 21-27 October was chosen to coincide with anti-war demonstrations in Japan and England.
- October 26 *Fort Dix, New Jersey - According to leaflets distributed on the campus of Fordham University (NYC), the SMC and the Columbia Committee to Aid anti-war GI's have planned a bus trip from New York City to Ft. Dix - to express solidarity with GI's who are against the War in Vietnam and/or the Army. The group will demonstrate at Ft. Dix between 1400 and 1700 hours.
- October 26 *Cleveland, Ohio - The SDS plans to hold an anti-Vietnam parade which will terminate in Cleveland Metropolitan Park adjacent to the Case Western Reserve University Campus. No parade permit has been requested yet (10/21).
- October 26 *Portland, Oregon - The SMC will sponsor a demonstration at 11th and Clay Streets at which time anti-Vietnam speeches will be given. Portland College students have been asked to participate. Two of the scheduled speakers are Ron ALEXANDER, an ex-Green Beret and editor of the newspaper, Task Force, and Andrew HAYES, a militant Negro and former employee of the Bonnierville Power Administration of Portland.

- October 26 *Omaha, Nebraska - SDS and peace groups are sponsoring the demonstrations at Omaha who will march from Creighton University to the county courthouse for a rally.
- October 26 *Ft. Knox, Kentucky - Demonstrators are considering holding a sit-down strike at the Ft. Knox Bus Station on 26 October as part of the week's anti-war activity. ~~_____~~ 198th Maintenance Bn. is allegedly one of the coordinators of the demonstration.
- October 26 *Santa Ana, California - A demonstration will be held.
- October 27 *Washington, D. C. - Approximately twenty persons will meet with members of the NMC and then they will proceed to Fort Meade, Fort Belvoir, and Fort Myers to distribute anti-war literature.
- October 27 Atlanta, Georgia - The Atlanta Alliance for Peace, a group controlled by the Young Socialist Alliance (YSA) will demonstrate by holding a march and rally. Retired Army Brigadier General Hugh HESTER will be the principal speaker at the rally.
- October 27 Atlanta, Georgia - A mimeographed poster being displayed proclaims a "GI Day - Rally to Bring the GI's home now. Anti-war speakers. Open mike for GI's. Entertainment. Rock bands, etc. At Piedmont Park. 1300 hours. Free Housing for Servicemen. Atlanta Alliance for Peace."
- October 27 Appleton, Wisconsin - Students at Lawrence University plan to hold a Peace March.
- October 27 *Kent, Ohio - At 1300 there is to be an anti-war demonstration on the campus of Kent State University sponsored by the Kent Committee to End the War in Vietnam. The demonstrators are scheduled to travel from the KSU campus to the town of Kent for further demonstrations which are scheduled to last until 1800 hours.
- October 27 *Glen Ellyn, Illinois - The Board of Trustees of Glen Ellyn received a request from ~~_____~~ of Glen Ellyn to hold an open-air symposium on Vietnam at Lake Ellyn Park from 1300 to 1800 hours. Speakers are to include Otto IJENSTOPE of Chicago Peace Council and Syd STAPLETON of the SMC. It is expected that the request will be granted.
- October 27-28 *Albuquerque, New Mexico - The New Mexico Resistance (NMR) assisted by the SDS, has scheduled the distribution of anti-war draft literature at the entrances to Sandia Base and Kirkland AFB.

October 28

~~REDACTED~~

*New York City - Rally at Madison Square Garden for peace candidates Paul O'BRYEN and John GILLIGAN and Eugene MCCARTHY. Performers: Lena HORNE, Pete SEEGER and Richie HAVENS.

October 28

Los Angeles, California - The Committee for Action Against the War in Vietnam has applied for a parade permit from the Los Angeles Police Department to hold a parade and rally in the downtown section. Assembly time is listed as 1300 hours and the parade at 1400 hours to terminate at 1630 hours. There are to be ten to fifteen units marching with each unit consisting of approximately 350 persons.

This group is led by a current member of the SWP.

October 29

*Philadelphia, Pennsylvania - Rev. Ralph ABERNATHY (SCLC) is scheduled to lead a march in support of "Operation Breadbasket" and Dick GREGORY's presidential campaign. (If this report is true, it contradicts earlier indication that ABERNATHY might come out in support of Hubert HUMPHREY.)

Oct. 31-Nov. 2

Boston, Massachusetts - SDS plans to disrupt CIA interviews in the Boston area.

November 1968

A "Monroe Court-In" is planned for Monroe, North Carolina, if Robert F. WILLIAMS, the radical black nationalist, returns to face trial on a kidnapping charge, etc. The protest and disruptive activity would be timed for the Presidential elections. It does not appear likely that WILLIAMS will risk returning to face trial although it is conceivable that his ego leads him to believe that the threat of violence from his supporters in The Revolutionary Action Movement, the Black Panther Party, and other black militants, if he were convicted, is sufficiently formidable that the court would treat him gently.

November 1-5

*National GI Week is being organized by the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam and SDS voted in their National Council meeting to support it. Reputedly four major aspects of the action are being planned.

1. Delegations will go to forty army bases across the country to relay the message that the anti-war movement supports soldiers. Some delegates will go for specific purposes: At Ft. Jackson, S. C., "to investigate the outbreak of spinal meningitis that killed many trainees last winter"; at Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas, to demand the release of Capt. Howard LEVY, the doctor court-martialed for refusing to teach Green Berets.

Clergymen will attempt to investigate conditions in stockades on army bases. They will try to talk with prisoners and find out why they are there, looking especially for political prisoners.

Other groups will hold love-ins outside bases, inviting soldiers out to enjoy rock music, poetry readings, and chicken dinners. A love-in is set for 3 November at Ft. Dix, N. J.

Women will visit bases with picnic baskets, carrying signs reading "we want our men back." Leafleting will be done at all forty bases.

2. A special delegation is leaving 24 October for Stockholm, Sweden, where they will talk with members of the American Deserters Committee (including several draft resisters) and with Swedish government officials. They will return to the U. S. 30 October and hold press conferences across the country beginning 1 November. The delegates have been chosen by region for that purpose. A nationwide speaking tour to raise the question of amnesty for the deserters and draft resisters living in Sweden is planned.

3. November 2 and 3 have been declared Vietnam Sabbath. Synagogues and churches will hold special services for and about GI's. Many Rabbis, Ministers, and Priests are trying to get Army Chaplains to conduct the services. Several also will declare their houses of worship sanctuaries for deserters and resisters.

4. Vietnam vets will hold teach-ins on the military and the Vietnam War on 20 or 30 major college campuses. They will show army training films and talk about military life, in an attempt to get students to resist the draft..

Rennie DAVIS, mobilization coordinator, and other activists state that their plans do not include blocking polling places or otherwise disrupting the election procedures. There have been, however, some prior indications that NMC may not be concerned that such disruption may occur and even if NMC does not have such intentions, some individuals among the YIPPIES, SDS, and other groups may have such ideas.

On Election Day, 5 November, the NMC expects about "a thousand demonstrations" across the country. 5 November is to be National Student Strike Day. Demonstrations are to include "strikes and walkouts" at colleges and universities and, possibly at New York City high schools; teach-ins; distribution of leaflets at polling places to urge people not to vote for the three major candidates; and picketing, particularly at the New York and Minnesota polling places of Richard M. NIXON and Vice-President HUMPHREY.

[REDACTED]

November 1-5 Boston, Massachusetts - During National GI Week being sponsored by the NMC, SDS plans to contact military personnel and urge that they seek sanctuary in churches or disrupt the military at their bases. SDS will also attempt to interfere with inductees leaving for basic training.

November 1 Chicago, Illinois - The Chicago Peace Council has announced that Vice-President Hubert HUMPHREY will be the subject of a demonstration. Demonstrators will distribute leaflets and will picket outside the Chicago stadium where the Vice-President is to speak. Reputedly some sort of action within the stadium is also under consideration.

November 2 Chicago, Illinois - University of Wisconsin students are being encouraged to travel to Chicago to take part in a demonstration against Vice-President Hubert HUMPHREY.

November 2 Washington, D. C. - A "Washington Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam" handbill states there will be a rally at 12 noon at Lafayette Park. Speakers: Mario SAVIO (Sexual Freedom), Art WASKOW, and others. March - to Humphrey and Nixon Headquarters after the rally. "Demonstrate for Peace - Don't Vote for War. No opposition can be expressed at the polls."

November 2 Austin, Texas - Indications are that SHCC will sponsor a dance at the University of Texas in coordination with "National GI Week."

November 4-5 SDS, at its National Council Meeting 10/12-14, voted to participate in a week of election activities similar to those outlined by the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, in hopes of persuading voters that the Presidential election is a fraud. One proposal called for nationally coordinated local demonstrations on 4-5 November to include strikes by student groups. Also to mobilize large militant SDS regional demonstrations in major cities. New York, Milwaukee, Boston, Chicago, Washington, and Los Angeles were mentioned as possibilities by Bernadine DORN, one of three SDS National secretaries, who said no firm sites had been selected yet.

This plan was adopted over competing proposals to mount an Election Day march on the White House and to seek ways of educating the public without Election Day demonstrations.

[REDACTED]

The council voted also to accelerate their efforts to enlist high school students in the SDS radical causes.

The National Mobilization Committee sponsored series of demonstrations for "National GI Week" beginning 1 November, also includes plans for "strikes and walkouts" on Election Day, 5 November, at colleges and universities and possibly at N. Y. C. high schools.

November 2

*New York City - The 5th Avenue Vietnam Peace Parade Committee has sponsored picketting of Humphrey on 10/9; Nixon on 10/19; Wallace on 10/24; and a giant picket and rally against all three on 11/2.

The same group is advertising also that on Election Day 11/5 there will be a variety of anti-war actions throughout the country including leafleting at polling places and demonstrations at the voting places of the three "pro-war candidates" (Nixon votes in N. Y.) - and high school and college student strikes.

November 4-5

*Ann Arbor, Michigan - VOICE/SDS Chapter at University of Michigan in a meeting 8 October, voted to sponsor a teach-in on 11/4 on the National elections and also called for a student strike on Election Day, 11/5.

November 5

Jerry RUBIN (YIPPIES) stated again that he and his colleagues hope to "disrupt" the election process on Election Day.

November 5

SDS and the Peace and Freedom Party reportedly plan mass demonstrations at polling places throughout the country on Election Day.

November 5

Milwaukee, Wisconsin - An anti-draft demonstration is planned on National Election Day which include attempts to close the Armed Forces EES station on No. Milwaukee Street.

November 5

Davenport, Iowa - Rumor is circulating that SDS is giving advice on activity possibly planned to disrupt the Presidential Elections by demonstrations and slow downs at the polls by dissident elements.

November 5

*Washington, D. C. - During a speech in front of George Washington University on 17 October, Mark RUDD (SDS leader at Columbia) stated there would be a massive demonstration at the State Department in D. C. on Election Day.

November 7

New York City - Mark RUDD, the Columbia SDS leader accused of rioting at the University last May, recently had the charges against him reduced from 1st degree riot, a felony, to 2nd degree riot, a misdemeanor. He is also accused of three other misdemeanors linked to the campus disturbances. A hearing on all the misdemeanors charges has been scheduled for 7 November. RUDD has been paroled pending court hearings or trial.

November 7-8

*Philadelphia, Pennsylvania - Demonstrations will be held at the University of Pennsylvania to protest campus recruitment by the DOW Chemical Co.

November 8

*Baltimore, Maryland - Sentencing of the "Catonsville Nine," who were found guilty on 10 October of interfering with the proceedings of the Selective Service System will take place in the Baltimore Post Office Building. During the trial, Baltimore was the scene of continuous demonstrations.

November 10

Los Angeles, California - The Los Angeles Veterans for Peace in Vietnam received a permit to march and demonstrate. The march will go to the L. A. City Hall for a rally there. Speakers will include Rear Admiral A. E. TRUE, Brigadier General Hugh HESTER, Master Sergeant Don DUNCAN, and other Vietnam veterans. Leaflets have been distributed in the L. A. area announcing the parade and rally.

November 11

*New York City - A Veterans Day Rally will be held in Hunter Auditorium in honor of the "Ft Hood Three" - the first draftees to defy orders to go to Vietnam. They were sentenced to three years at Ft. Leavenworth. The program will feature Dennis NORA of the Ft. Hood Three, who has just been released from Ft. Leavenworth. Others on the program are: Pete SEEGER, Ossie DAVIS, Rev. James BEVEL, Dave DELLINGER, Stanley FAULKNER (lawyer for the "three"), and Grace Mora NEWMAN (sister of NORA).

November 12

The trial of James Earle RAY, the accused killer of Martin Luther KING, Jr., is scheduled to start in Memphis, Tennessee.

November 14

The Resistance will sponsor a nation-wide mass return of draft cards - symbolic of non-cooperation with the Selective Service System.

November 14

Washington, D. C. - More than 1,000 participants are expected to attend a four-day conference at Howard University, called "Towards a Black University." The purpose of the conference will be to define the structure and mechanics of a black university which has as a primary concern, revolutionary unity and excellence in a black society.

November 17

The Communist parties of the Soviet Union and fifty-seven other parties have just agreed in a meeting in Budapest to shelve plans for a World Communist Summit Conference in Moscow on 25 November. Another preparatory meeting has been called for 17 November to examine the date for calling the International Conference and the method of its further preparations. The decision to postpone the Moscow Conference appeared to be a bitter blow for the Kremlin who appeared to visualize the summit as a demonstration of loyalty to Moscow as the main center of the World Communist Movement despite the defection and "splitting tactics" of Communist China. The last World Conference, attended by seventy-eight parties, almost eight years ago, was an unsuccessful attempt to avert the historic rift between Moscow and Peking. Sixty-seven delegations, representing about 3/4 of the world's communist parties, attended a nine-day conference in February and March and agreed to call the Moscow summit for 25 November. Those parties which attended in February, but stayed away from the meeting which ended today, were those of Canada, Ceylon, the Dominican Republic, Jordan, Nicaragua, Nepal, Panama, Portugal and Norway. The Icelandic Party sent observers in February.

Six ruling communist parties, those of China, Albania, Yugoslavia, No. Vietnam, No. Korea, and Cuba - boycotted both gatherings but came back as observers to the meeting which has just ended. A low-level Czechoslovak delegation attended.

In Rome, officials of the Italian and Romanian communist parties ended a ten-day meeting with a call for the right of communist parties to decide their own political lines without outside interferences. Both the Italian and Romanian parties have criticized the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia.

November 18

Oakland, California - This date has been set for the trial of the seven young men under conspiracy indictment for their part in organizing the October 1967 demonstrations in front of the Oakland Induction Center. The charge against the Oakland Seven "conspiracy to commit a misdemeanor" carries a maximum penalty of ten years imprisonment plus a $10,000 fine.

Over 10,000 people participated in the demonstrations at the induction center. Support for the "Oakland Seven" is being organized.

November 20

Abbie HOFFMAN, Yippie leader, arrested and charged with defacing the American flag on 3 October during HCUA hearings has a trial date set for 20 November. He pleaded NOT guilty at his arraignment.

November 29-Dec. 1 A Hemispheric Conference to End the War in Vietnam will apparently meet in Montreal to develop coordination against U. S. intervention in Vietnam and the Americas. This meeting had earlier been indicated for 12-14 October. A planning meeting was held in Montreal on 7-8 September. A flyer issued in connection with the conference proclaims that approximately 2,000 people from throughout the hemisphere - over 1/4 from Canada will attend. Among the listed sponsors from the U. S. are the following:

Donna ALLAN & Dagmar WILSON
 Women Strike for Peace
 Julian Bond - Georgia State Assembly
 Anne & Carl BRADEN
 Southern Christian Education Fund
 Ossie DAVIS and Ruby DEE
 Prof. Robert GREENBLATT - NMCEWV
 Father James GROPP
 James JACKSON - CFUSA
 Rev. Bernard LAFAYETTE - SCLC
 Linda MORSE - 5th Avenue Peace Parade Committee
 Dr. Benjamin SPOCK
 Jarvis TYNER - National Chairman - W. E. B. DuBois Club
 John WILSON - SNCC

It was indicated that the conference would deal with U. S. involvement in Latin America only so far as it affects the Vietnam War.

Delegations representing the Democratic Republic of Vietnam and the National Liberation Front will be present.

Initiated by a broad coalition in Montreal, the meeting will include activists from the U. S., Canada and many countries of Central and South America. Unification and expansion of the peace movements in these areas will reputedly be the conference's goal.

Nov. 29-Dec. 1

Chicago, Illinois - The Young Socialist Alliance (youth section of the Socialist Workers Party) has called for a national convention of Revolutionary Socialists over the Thanksgiving weekend. Representatives from the German SDG - French FCR - Japanese Zengakuren and Socialists from Italy, England and some of the Socialist Black countries are expected. Purpose of the convention reportedly is to discuss building a serious revolutionary organization in the advanced industrial countries including the U. S. A?

December 2

Bel Air, Maryland - The trial of H. Rap BROWN on charges of arson and inciting to riot in Cambridge, Maryland, has been scheduled with Judge Harry E. DWYER, presiding.

December 2

Oakland, California - The April 6, 1968, "Shoot-out Crowd" of the Black Panther Party have had their trial set for 2 December. Eldridge CLEAVER, Minister of Information of the BPP is one of the six defendants. All pleaded innocent to a variety of charges stemming from the shoot-out with the Oakland Police Department in Oakland. This was the confrontation during which Bobby HUTTON of the BPP's was killed.

December 9

Los Angeles, California - The trial of Sirhan B. SIRHAN on the charge that he murdered Robert F. KENNEDY, has been delayed until 9 December on a motion by the defense. Superior Judge Herbert V. WALKER, the Senior Criminal Court Judge in Los Angeles County presided over the hearing and will preside at the trial. Judge WALKER, said, over prosecution objections, that he intended to sequester the jury, once it was sworn. He said that jury selection would begin December 9, and that if no jury was selected by December 23, he would recess the trial until January 2, 1969.

December 13

New York City - The National Emergency Civil Liberties Committee annual Bill of Rights dinner is scheduled for the Americana Hotel. The NECLC is the old ECLC rejuvenated with a new name. The old ECLC was cited as a Communist Front in 1956 by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee and in 1959 by HCUA. Featured speakers will be: Dr. Benjamin SPOCK and Dick GREGORY.

Corliss LAMONT is chairman of NECLC.

December 21

Washington, D. C. - The HCUA subcommittee after holding three days of open hearings into the conduct and connection of some groups and individuals in the DNC disorders is in recess until 21 December. Five of the seven witnesses subpoenaed have not been heard and are expected to return. They are David DELLINGER, Rennie DAVIS, Tom HAYDEN, Jerry RUBIN, and Abbie HOFFMAN. Robert GREENBLATT of the NMC and Dr. David YOUNG of the Medical Committee for Human Rights who testified last week were released from their subpoenas but could be summoned back.

January 3, 1969

Included in the new program allegedly adopted by the NMCEWVN (Chairman David DELLINGER) - adopted at a September 14 administrative committee meeting in D. C. - "Rally supporters to pressure House of Representatives on

3 January and the new President at his inauguration
20 January 1969.

January 20

The Youth International Party (YIPPIES) announced it will hold a "Festival of Life" at Washington, D. C., during the inauguration of the President. Yippies contributed much of the disruptive activity at the Democratic National Convention with their "Festival of Life" there.

January 20

Rennie DAVIS, NMC leader, recently announced to anti-war protestors that there would be a "massive convergence" of protestors in Washington on Inauguration Day.

January 20

Jerry RUBIN (YIPPIES) has stated that he and his colleagues will try to make it rough for whomever is inaugurated President on 20 January. They will hold marches and parades and make an effort to bring their pig, Pegasus - whom they nominated in Chicago - into the White House.

January 20

Washington, D. C. - The Administrative Committee of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (NMC) met on Oct. 12 and 13 at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Massachusetts. Approximately forty people attended; including David DELLINGER and Rennie DAVIS, NMC leaders; Sidney PECK, a former member of the Communist Party; and Arnold JOHNSON, a member of the CFUSA national Committee. The Committee decided that there was need for tight security against FBI investigations of anti-riot law violations. A working committee was formed to make plans for a demonstration at Washington, D. C., during the Presidential Inauguration. The Committee announced its plans to send a group of Prominent Americans to Sweden and France to visit "exiled" U. S. military deserters. A press conference will be held upon the group's return. Wealthy sympathizers of the committee may be solicited for annual sustainers of $10,000. The administrative committee planned to meet again on 17 October at Washington, D. C.

There may be some encouraging news from the campuses this fall. A leading American educator recently forecast the possibilities of a campus reaction across the country against student activists who disrupt college and university functions. Heretofore silent students in the moderate center who feel their rights to an education are being denied in the confrontation between activists and administrators may insist on being heard. "There are many signs of a strong reaction on the part of the great mass of moderate students against the disruption on the campus. A general backlash from these students is possible. The great majority of American students are not activist about anything."

In Denver, Colorado, an organization called Student Welfare Organization (SWO) has been formed. It proposed to be a new voice on campus and to act as a "Third Party" in campus disputes to try to bring involved groups to a logical compromise and to act as a communicating body to finally bring understanding and peace within the campus walls. It states that it is going to:

Put Education back as the No. 1 objective in schools;
Bring back the democratic processes of dissent; and attempt to work out functioning committee groups made equally of students and university administrators to discuss pertinent issues. Further, it says, "Let this organization be a true test of the thousands of honest student dissenters and expose those student elements who are merely trying to undermine our American way.

The following items are additional activities disclosed too late to be included in the above calendar:

- October 25 *Washington, D. C. - The BIAFRAN Association in the Americas, the American Committee to keep BIAFRA alive, and Operation Outrage (a group from Catholic University) will begin a 24 hour vigil at 1200 hours to protest the dead and dying of BIAFRA. This vigil is to take place at the Lincoln Memorial and some 50,000 persons are expected to attend.
(This information is from a Government agency - the estimate of crowd size seems very high in view of the fact that there has been little or no advance publicity.)
- October 25 *Mt. Vernon, Iowa - The SDS chapter at the University of Iowa plans to hold a solidarity rally in sympathy for several students from Cornell College (IOWA) for a sit-in.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Washington, D. C.

Recently a peace petition drive was conducted among Government employees in the area by the loosely organized Federal Employees Petition Against the War in Vietnam. From this group has emerged a new anti-war civil rights organization calling itself, Federal Employees for a Democratic Society.

When the petition against the war was being circulated among Federal workers, workers whose work is related to the war, were cautioned by their superiors not to sign it on the grounds that it would be a conflict of interest to oppose the war on one hand and to be involved with agencies making war policies and carrying them out on the other. It was gently suggested that those employees who are unable conscientiously to perform their duties ought perhaps to resign.

Washington, D. C.

The September-October Newsletter of the Women Strike for Peace (Washington area) recites that:

"Anne BRAHN has published an excellent flier The Selective Slavery System in Greater Washington giving names and addresses of Draft Board Members for every board throughout the D. C., Maryland, and Virginia areas. This is a big, big start. Now, how about finding out who and what these big men represent as they judge the future of your son and mine. Individuals can act with phone call or letter. Delegations can try to interview..."

It would appear that the "peace" groups intend no peace for Selective Service.

England

The militant Black Panther Party in the USA now has its counterpart in a British version which calls itself - "Black Eagles." The Black Eagles have charged white police with violence against two BE members, in an alleged police plot to halt their shadowing of police patrols within the black ghetto. A BE leader said they would continue the patrols "to prevent violence against black immigrants; and would accept whites as members of their shadow patrols in the hopes of getting greater publicity for the grievances of black discrimination and police violence."

Except for a handful of recent recruits, all of Britain's police forces are whites. Black immigrants from the West Indies, Africa, India, and Pakistan reportedly now number approximately 942,000 of a total British population of 47 million.

ACTIVITIES OF POSSIBLE INTEREST TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED THROUGH INAUGURATION DAY, 20 January 1969

"Asterisked" items are either newly surfaced activities or contain changed details on activities listed in previous calendars.

November 1968

*A "Houree Court-In" is planned for Houree, North Carolina, if Robert F. WILLIAMS, the radical black nationalist, returns to face trial on a kidnapping charge, etc. The protest and disruptive activity would be timed for the Presidential elections. It does not appear likely that WILLIAMS will risk returning to face trial although it is conceivable that his ego leads him to believe that the threat of violence from his supporters in The Revolutionary Action Movement, the Black Panther Party, and other black militants, if he were convicted, is sufficiently formidable that the court would treat him gently.

Although there has been some indication that feelers were conducted as to the reception WILLIAMS might receive upon return to the USA, it now appears that he may have given up the idea. He apparently left Tanzania in September and returned to Peking in Communist China.

November 1-5

National GI Week is being organized by the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam and GIs voted in their National Council meeting to support it. Reputedly four major aspects of the action are being planned.

1. Delegations will go to forty army bases across the country to relay the message that the anti-war movement supports soldiers. Some delegates will go for specific purposes: At Ft. Jackson, S. C., "to investigate the outbreak of spinal meningitis that killed many trainees last winter"; at Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas, to demand the release of ~~four soldiers~~ court-martialed for refusing to teach Green Berets.

Clergymen will attempt to investigate conditions in stockades on army bases. They will try to talk with prisoners and find out why they are there, looking especially for political prisoners.

Other groups will hold love-ins outside bases, inviting soldiers out to enjoy rock music, poetry readings, and chicken dinners. A love-in is set for 3 November at Ft. Dix, N. J.

Women will visit bases with picnic baskets, carrying signs reading "we want our men back." Leafletting will be done at all forty bases.

2. A special delegation is leaving 24 October for Stockholm, Sweden, where they will talk with members of the American Deserter's Committee (including several draft resisters) and with Swedish government officials. They will return to the U. S. 30 October and hold press conferences across the country beginning 1 November. The delegates have been chosen by region for that purpose. A nationwide speaking tour to raise the question of amnesty for the deserters and draft resisters living in Sweden is planned.

3. November 2 and 3 have been declared Vietnam Sabbath. Synagogues and churches will hold special services for and about GI's. Many Rabbis, Ministers, and Priests are trying to get Army Chaplains to conduct the services. Several also will declare their houses of worship sanctuaries for deserters and resisters.

4. Vietnam vets will hold teach-ins on the military and the Vietnam War on 20 or 30 major college campuses. They will show army training films and talk about military life, in an attempt to get students to resist the draft.

Rennie DAVIS, mobilization coordinator, and other activists state that their plans do not include blocking polling places or otherwise disrupting the election procedures. There have been, however, some prior indications that IHC may not be concerned that such disruptions may occur and even if IHC does not have such intentions, some individuals among the YIPPIES, SER, and other groups may have such ideas.

On Election Day, 5 November, the IHC expects about "a thousand demonstrations" across the country. 5 November is to be National Student Strike Day. Demonstrations are to include "strikes and walkouts" at colleges and universities and, possibly at New York City high schools; teach-ins; distribution of leaflets at polling places to urge people not to vote for the three major candidates; and picketing, particularly at the New York and Minnesota polling places of Richard M. NIXON and Vice-President HUMPHREY.

November 1-3

*Los Angeles, California - The Young Socialist Alliance (YSA) will sponsor a teach-in at UCLA. Registration will take place and a speech on world revolution given on 1 November.

On 2 November speeches will be given on Mexico, the Latin American revolution, the Czechoslovakian revolution and a tribute to Che Guevarra.

On 3 November the speeches will be on the GI and anti-war movement and perspectives for a Socialist Revolution in the US.

Oct. 31-Nov. 2

Boston, Massachusetts - SIG plans to disrupt CIA interviews in the Boston area.

November 1-5

Boston, Massachusetts - During National GI Week being sponsored by the NMC, SIG plans to contact military personnel and urge that they seek sanctuary in churches or disrupt the military at their bases. SIG will also attempt to interfere with inductees leaving for basic training.

November 2

Chicago, Illinois - University of Wisconsin students are being encouraged to travel to Chicago to take part in a demonstration against Vice-President Hubert HUMPHREY.

November 1

*Chicago, Illinois - Simultaneous Presidential campaign rallies by HUMPHREY and WALLACE may result in substantial security and crowd-control problems for the Chicago Police Department. WALLACE is to speak at the International Amphitheatre while HUMPHREY has an address set for the Chicago Stadium after a huge 70-block torchlight parade. The situation may be further complicated by a 3rd political event that night as Governor Lester HANCOX is the main speaker at a meeting of the Pro-American Forum at the Midland Hotel.

• Among groups planning protest activities are the SIG and the Chicago Peace Council. The Council is urging demonstrations inside and outside the Stadium Friday.

The HUMPHREY rally and parade, organized by Mayor DALEY, is bound to be massive and the stadium's 18,000 seats will be full.

November 1-5

*Overall coordination of National GI Week seems to be in the hands of the NACWV, whereas the Clergy and Laymen Concerned anti-war group seems to be primarily involved in that phase of the program which deals with church involvement. It has been estimated that services in 150-200 churches throughout the nation will center around the need for ending the war in Vietnam and bringing the boys home, now and alive.

The National Mobilization Committee sponsored series of demonstrations for "National GI Week" beginning 1 November, also includes plans for "strikes and walkouts" on Election Day, 5 November, at colleges and universities and possibly at N. Y. C. high schools.

November 2

*Washington, D. C. - There is to be a noon rally at Lafayette Park. Although a permit has not been granted, the ACLU is attempting to obtain one for the rally. Some elements are advocating holding a rally with or without the permit. GI's are to be featured at this rally.

November 2

Washington, D. C. - A "Washington Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam" handbill states there will be a rally at 12 noon at Lafayette Park. Speakers: Mario SAVIO (Sexual Freedom), Art WASKOW, and others. March - to HUNTHREY and NIXON Headquarters after the rally. "Demonstrate for Peace - Don't Vote for War. No opposition can be expressed at the polls."

November 1

*Ft. Meade, Maryland - Various peace groups, including the Washington, D. C., Mobilization Committee, will leaflet Ft. Meade and announce plans for a "Support our Soldiers Coffee House" in D. C. which will be used to influence soldiers against the War in Vietnam.

November 3

*Ft. Meade, Maryland - Persons will again go to Ft. Meade in an attempt to leaflet. This attempt is to be made by Clergymen, Doctors, and lawyers, who will attempt to get into the post stockade. The Washington, D. C., Mobilization Committee will join in the action which is planned as a major move.

November 4-5

SIG, at its National Council Meeting 10/12-14, voted to participate in a week of election activities similar to those outlined by the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, in hopes of persuading voters that the Presidential election is a farce. One proposal called for nationally coordinated local demonstrations on 4-5 November to include strikes by student groups. Also to mobilize large militant SIG regional demonstrations in major cities. New York, Milwaukee, Boston, Chicago, Washington, and Los Angeles were mentioned as possibilities by Bernadine FOHRN, one of three SIG National Secretaries, who said no firm sites had been selected yet.

This plan was adopted over competing proposals to mount an Election Day march on the White House and to seek ways of educating the public without Election Day demonstrations.

*The council voted also to accelerate their efforts to enlist high school students in the SIG radical causes.

November 5

Jerry RUBIN (YIPPIES) stated again that he and his colleagues hope to "disrupt" the election process on Election Day.

November 5

SIG and the Peace and Freedom Party reportedly plan mass demonstrations at polling places throughout the country on Election Day.

November 5

*Bernadine FOHRN, National Secretary of SIG, said that there would be protests at at least ten army bases including Fl. Nord, Texas; Ft. Devins, Massachusetts; and Ft. Mx, New Jersey.

SIG also called for demonstrations against "the fraud of election" in ten American cities: New York City, Washington, D. C., Chicago, Boston, Baltimore, San Francisco, Seattle, Los Angeles, Hartford, and "some place in Colorado."

November 5

*Nationwide - The Black Panther Party is planning to disrupt National Election Procedures by standing in the vicinity of polling booths and encouraging voters to cast their votes for Eldridge CLEAVER. Letters have been sent from the RPP headquarters in Oakland, California, to other RPP chapters informing them of the plan and requesting their participation.

November 4-5

*Washington, D. C. - SIG is planning demonstrations at colleges in the Washington, D. C., area as part of National GI Week which is being sponsored by the NMC from November 1-5. SIG is also trying to organize a National Student Strike on November 4-5.

Nov. 5-Jan. 20

*Washington, D. C. - The SIG held a regional meeting which was attended by SIG representatives from Georgetown University, University of Maryland, American University, and John Hopkins University. Plans were discussed at this meeting for a march on 5 November as a prelude for a mass demonstration to be held on Inauguration Day, 20 January 1962. They will meet at the Lincoln Memorial for a rally and from there march to the White House and the State Department.

November 5

*Washington, D. C. - SIG (American University) plans to hold a rally at the Lincoln Memorial followed by a march on the White House or the State Department.

November 5

Washington, D. C. - During a speech in front of George Washington University on 17 October, Mark RUPP (SIG leader at Columbia) stated there would be a massive demonstration at the State Department in D. C. on Election Day.

November 3-5

*College Park, Maryland and D. C. - SIG of the University of Maryland is allegedly planning participation in a rally at Lafayette Park, Washington, D. C., and a march on Democratic and Republican Headquarters on 3 November.

A student strike at the University of Maryland is allegedly also planned for 4 and 5 November.

November 4

*Baltimore, Maryland - The SIG Chapter of John Hopkins will have a teach-in on Election Day. A rally is planned Monday night by the SRS and the Baltimore Defense Committee at either Towson State College or Towson Jail at which time they intend to burn effigies of an elephant, a jackass, and a rooster.

November 5

*Boston, Massachusetts - The SRS will sponsor a march on the State House to protest (a) the Election hoax, (b) the War in Vietnam, and (c) Pacism and imperialism in regards to law and order. Marchers will meet at the Boston Common after following three routes of march. The first will be along Massachusetts Avenue, the second along Commonwealth Avenue, and the third along Huntington Avenue.

November 2

New York City - The 5th Avenue Vietnam Peace Parade Committee has sponsored two giant pickets and rallies against all three major party Presidential Candidates on November 2.

The same group is advertising also that on Election Day November 5 there will be a variety of anti-war actions throughout the country including leafleting at polling places and demonstrations at the voting places of the three "pro-war candidates" (Nixon votes in New York) - and high school and college student strikes.

November 5

*New York City - The labor strike in New York City that has closed the schools and caused slowdowns by police and firemen, if not sufficiently resolved prior to the National Election, may seriously interfere with it or leave the ballots subject to challenge - especially if school custodians refuse to open the struck schools for installation of voting machines or if Teamsters refuse to carry the machines past picket lines.

Labor officials promised 29 October that there would be no union interference with the delivery of voting machines and election materials to strikebound schools for use on Election Day. These assurances of cooperation also allegedly covered "all unions concerned" and labor would "do nothing to interfere in any way with the normal election procedure 5 November."

November 5

*New York City - SRS members will escort Richard M. Nixon from his apartment in New York City to his voting place. On the same day, a rally will be held in Central Park followed by a demonstration at Nixon's headquarters.

November 5

New Haven, Connecticut - SRS has tentatively planned a protest rally and street parade - participants to assemble at 1430 hours on the New Haven Green and at 1500 parade down Chapel Street to State Street, left onto State to Elm, left onto Elm and return to the Green at approximately 1700 hours for a rally and speeches. No parade or rally permit has been requested but the New Haven Police Department has indicated permits will be granted if applied for.

- November 3 *Wrightstown, New Jersey - A picnic sponsored by the Student Mobilization Committee and the New York SDS will be in Wrightstown near Ft. Dix. Soldiers from Ft. Hamilton, New York, and Ft. Monmouth, New Jersey, are scheduled to attend.
- November 5 *Chicago, Illinois - The Student Organizing Committee, a group within the SDS, will hold a rally at Lincoln Park for high school students and later proceed to the Conrad Hilton Hotel where they will demonstrate. The Hilton contains NIXON Headquarters.
- November 5 *Chicago, Illinois - SDS has stated that there will be an "anti-Election People's Festival" on 5 November at Lincoln Park from 1100 to 1800 hours. Following the "Festival" there will be an all-night vigil in Grant Park which will begin at 1900 hours.
- November 5 Milwaukee, Wisconsin - An anti-draft demonstration is planned on National Election Day which includes attempts to close the Armed Forces EES station on No. Milwaukee Street.
- November 4 *Ann Arbor, Michigan - National Secretary of the SDS, Michael KLOPP, stated that persons will be coming to Ann Arbor from Western Michigan State University, Kalamazoo, Michigan; Oakland University, Rochester, Michigan; Michigan State, Lansing Michigan; and from Detroit to support disruption of Election activities in Ann Arbor.
- November 4-5 Ann Arbor, Michigan - VOICE/SDS Chapter at University of Michigan in a meeting 8 October, voted to sponsor a teach-in on 11/4 on the National Elections and also called for a student strike on Election day, 11/5.
- November 5 *Louisville, Kentucky - Rumors indicate that dissident elements will be in full force on the Louisville, Kentucky, campus on Election Day.
- November 5 *Cleveland, Ohio - The Black United Students (BUS) plan to disrupt the National Elections by tying up the polling places. The BUS plans to spend as much time as possible in the voting booths and when one is evicted another will take his or her place. The BUS is acting in alliance with several other black militant groups in the Cleveland area.

November 3

*Iowa City, Iowa - A demonstration directed against the IOW Chemical Company recruiters may take place on the University of Iowa Campus.

November 5

Davenport, Iowa - Rumor is circulating that SDS is giving advice on activity possibly planned to disrupt the Presidential Elections by demonstrations and slow downs at the polls by dissident elements.

November 5

*Kent, Ohio - SDS of Kent State University has scheduled a demonstration during the early hours Election Day. An early hour was selected in order to permit publication of pictures in the 5 November issue of the Kent papers. A coffin will be carried to one of the polling places and subsequently burned. No actual interference is expected with voting polls activities.

November 2

*Topeka, Kansas - The SDS Chapter at Washburn University will attempt to recruit members of the military and radical minority groups for a proposed demonstration. Speakers for the rally have been announced. Prior to the rally, members of SDS plan to visit Ft. Leavenworth posing as a civilian inspection team in an attempt to obtain statements from any prisoners who may be willing to speak out against the war.

November 4

*Norman, Oklahoma - The SDS Chapter of the University of Oklahoma will support the National SDS with picketing and teach-ins as a protest against the Election System and all Presidential Candidates.

November 2

Austin, Texas - Indications are that SUCC will sponsor a dance at the University of Texas in coordination with "National GI Week."

November 2

*Ft. Carson, Colorado and Colorado Springs, Colorado - Several copies of the "Ally," an underground newspaper, were found at Ft. Carson and disclosed that "a march will take place for all GI's at Acacia Park at 1300 hours."

At Colorado College campus in Colorado Springs, posters advertised a GI march at Ft. Carson in connection with National GI Week.

On 27 October an unidentified aircraft dropped leaflets over Ft. Carson Post - promoting the planned anti-war march in Colorado Springs and urged military personnel to participate.

November 2-5

*San Jose, California - At a rally at San Jose State College on 11 October, several speakers pledged to conduct a "Draft Resistance Week" during the National Elections starting 2 November 1968.

November 3

*Los Angeles, California - Reports indicate that the Black Panther Party has received permission from the Recreation and Parks Commission to hold a barbecue for approximately 1500 persons at South Parks.

November 4-5

*Berkeley, California - Mike KLOMSKY, SFG National Secretary, said recently that activities planned by SFG at the University of California may lead to a riot.

November 4-5

*Los Angeles, California - KLOMSKY, SFG National Secretary, said students at Los Angeles have agreed to destroy voting booths in the Los Angeles schools.

November 6

*A meeting will be held to evaluate the effect of the demonstrations 1 November through 5 November to discuss the possibility of organizing a demonstration at Washington, D. C., on Inauguration Day.

November 7-8

*Philadelphia, Pennsylvania - The Vietnam Week Committee is sponsoring anti-Vietnam demonstrations at 9000 on each of these days. They are to take place at the University of Pennsylvania placement center where DOW Chemical Company recruiters will be interviewing potential graduates.

November 7

New York City - Mark RUDD, the Columbia SFG leader accused of rioting at the University last May, recently had the charges against him reduced from 1st degree riot, a felony, to 2nd degree riot, a misdemeanor. He is also accused of three other misdemeanors linked to the campus disturbances. A hearing on all the misdemeanors charges has been scheduled for 7 November. RUDD has been paroled pending court hearings or trial.

November 7-8

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania - Demonstrations will be held at the University of Pennsylvania to protest campus recruitment by the DOW Chemical Co.

November 7-8

*Baltimore, Maryland - Fr. Daniel BERRIGAN ("Catonsville Nine" defendant) will speak at the Goucher State College gym at 2000 hours, 7 November. Following the program candles will be lit and carried to the island in front of the Post Office where an all-night vigil will be held.

On 8 November there will be a rally at the War Memorial Plaza followed by a march to the Post Office, hopefully to be lead by the "Catonsville Nine." When the defendants and San Juan, Puerto Rico, respectively.

November 13

*Washington, D. C. - More than 1,000 participants are expected to attend a four-day conference at Howard University, called "Towards a Black University." The purpose of the conference will be to define the structure and mechanics of a black university which has as a primary concern, revolutionary unity and excellence in a black society. Local Negro residents will be invited to attend.

This move is designed to prevent the same sort of apathy that was displayed by local residents at the Black Power conferences held in Newark last year and Philadelphia this summer. The conference director is [REDACTED], militant student leader at HOWARD. Among individuals who have accepted invitations to participate are: [REDACTED], west coast black nationalist leader of the militant "US" organization; Ossie DAVIS, actor [REDACTED], and Stokely CARMICHAEL, prime minister of the militant Black Panther Party.

November 17

The Communist parties of the Soviet Union and fifty-seven other parties have just agreed in a meeting in Budapest to shelve plans for a World Communist Summit Conference in Moscow on 25 November. Another preparatory meeting has been called for 17 November to examine the date for calling the International Conference and the method of its further preparations. The decision to postpone the Moscow Conference appeared to be a bitter blow for the Kremlin who appeared to visualize the summit as a demonstration of loyalty to Moscow as the main center of the World Communist Movement despite the defection and "splitting tactics" of Communist China. The last World Conference, attended by seventy-eight parties, almost eight years ago, was an unsuccessful attempt to avert the historic rift between Moscow and Peking. Sixty-seven delegations, representing about 3/4 of the world's communist parties, attended a nine-day conference in February and March and agreed to call the Moscow summit for 25 November. Those parties which attended in February, but stayed away from the meeting which ended today, were those of Canada, Ceylon, the Dominican Republic, Jordan, Nicaragua, Nepal, Panama, Portugal and Norway. The Icelandic Party sent observers in February.

Six ruling communist parties, those of China, Albania, Yugoslavia, Ho. Vietnam, Ho. Korea, and Cuba - boycotted both gatherings but came back as observers to the meeting which has just ended. A low-level Czechoslovak delegation attended.

In Rome, officials of the Italian and Romanian communist parties ended a ten-day meeting with a call for the right of communist parties to decide their own political lines without outside interferences. Both the Italian and Romanian parties have criticized the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia.

November 18

Oakland, California - This date has been set for the trial of the seven young men under conspiracy indictment for their part in organizing the October 1967 demonstrations in front of the Oakland Induction Center. The charge against the Oakland Seven "conspiracy to commit a misdemeanor" carries a maximum penalty of ten years imprisonment plus a $10,000 fine.

Over 10,000 people participated in the demonstrations at the induction center. Support for the "Oakland Seven" is being organized.

November 20

Abbie HOFFMAN, Yippie leader, arrested and charged with defacing the American flag on 3 October during HCUA hearings has a trial date set for 20 November. He pleaded NOT guilty at his arraignment.

November 28

*South Bend, Indiana - The National Student Association Convention on White Racism - The University of Maryland formed a Campus Coalition Against Racism (CCAR) in early October. The research that will emanate from the CCAR will be used to represent the University of Maryland at the NSA Convention.

November 29-Dec. 1

A Hemispheric Conference to End the War in Vietnam will apparently meet in Montreal to develop coordination against U. S. intervention in Vietnam and the Americas. This meeting had earlier been indicated for 12-14 October. A planning meeting was held in Montreal on 7-8 September. A flyer issued in connection with the conference proclaims that approximately 2,000 people from throughout the hemisphere - over 1/4 from Canada will attend. Among the listed sponsors from the U. S. are the following:

Donna ALLAN & Dugmar WILSON
Women Strike for Peace
Julian ROHD - Georgia State Assembly
Anne & Carl BRADEN
Southern Christian Education Fund
Ossie DAVIS and Ruby DEE
Prof. Robert GREENBLATT - UMKC
Father James GROFF
James JACKSON - CIUSA
Rev. Bernard LAFAYETTE - SCLC
Linda MORSE - 5th Avenue Peace Parade Committee

Dr. Benjamin SPOCK

Jarvis TYLER - National Chairman - W. E. B. DuBois Club

John WILSON - SNCC

It was indicated that the conference would deal with U. S. involvement in Latin America only so far as it affects the Vietnam War.

Delegations representing the Democratic Republic of Vietnam and the National Liberation Front will be present.

Initiated by a broad coalition in Montreal, the meeting will include activists from the U. S., Canada and many countries of Central and South America. Unification and expansion of the peace movements in these areas will reportedly be the conference's goal.

Nov. 29-Dec. 1 -

Chicago, Illinois - The Young Socialist Alliance (youth section of the Socialist Workers Party) has called for a national convention of Revolutionary Socialists over the Thanksgiving weekend. Representatives from the German SDS - French FCR - Japanese Zensakuren and Socialists from Italy, England and some of the Socialist Black countries are expected. Purpose of the convention reportedly is to discuss building a serious revolutionary organization in the advanced industrial countries including the U. S. A.

Dec. 1-5

*Princeton, New Jersey - It can be anticipated that the U. S. A. will be soundly chastised as well as raised when more than eighty leading intellectuals from throughout the world will gather at the Institute for Advanced Studies to assess many of the problems that will confront the next American President.

Plans for the five-day seminar on "The U. S. - Its problems, Impact and Image in the World" were to be announced on 28 October in London and in Paris by Shepard STONE, President of The International Association for Cultural Freedom. The association is a private organization of scholars, writers, and men of public affairs that is receiving financial support from the Ford Foundation.

Dr. Carl KAYSEN, director of the Institute for Advanced Studies, and Jean-Jacques SERVAN-SCHREINER, publisher of the French weekly, L'Express, and the author of the best-selling book "The American Challenge," will be co-chairmen of the conference.

Stone said "We hope that the incoming administration will be represented at the meeting as we shall rather some of

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~
 The most articulate and influential critics and advocates of American policy.

Two Soviet scholars who have accepted invitations to the meeting are Anatoly A. GROMYKO, son of Foreign Minister Andrei A. GROMYKO and Stanislav HENSHTEIN, a director of the Institute of World Economy. Several distinguished East European scholars and writers have been invited. They include Milevan DJILAS (Yugoslavia) and Ivan SVITAK (Czech Communist Party liberal).

An American contingent of thirty-one participants will include a number of former Government officials - among them McGeorge BUNNY, George W. BALL, John K. GARREATH, Arthur SCHLESINGER, Jr., and George KEHMAN. Among the British to attend are: Prof. Alan BULLOCK, chairman of the Board of the Association for Cultural Freedom; Alastair BUCHAN, director of the Institute of Strategic Studies; and Geoffrey HARTH, chairman of the National Union of Students. A number of other European as well as Latin Americans will attend.

Perhaps not the least interesting of the other American participants will be: Lillian HELLMAN, playwright; Roy INDEL, Director of CORE; Daniel BELL, prof. of Sociology at Columbia University; Irving HOWE, editor of DISSENT; Edward SHILS, Prof. of Sociology, University of Chicago; Saul BELLOW, novelist; and Norman TOMMORETT, editor of Commentary magazine.

December 2

Bel Air, Maryland - The trial of J. Ray BROWN on charges of arson and inciting to riot in Cambridge, Maryland, has been scheduled with Judge Harry E. IWYER, presiding.

December 2

Oakland, California - The April 6, 1968, "Shoot-out Crowd" of the Black Panther Party have had their trial set for 2 December. Eldridge CLEAVER, Minister of Information of the BPP is one of the six defendants. All pleaded innocent to a variety of charges stemming from the shoot-out with the Oakland Police Department in Oakland. This was the confrontation during which Bobby HUTTON of the BPP's was killed.

December 9

Los Angeles, California - The trial of Sirhan B. SIRHAN on the charge that he murdered Robert F. KENNEDY, has been delayed until 9 December on a motion by the defense. Superior Judge Herbert V. WALKER, the Senior Criminal Court Judge in Los Angeles County presided over the hearing and will preside at the trial. Judge WALKER, said, over prosecution objections, that he intended to sequester the jury, once it was sworn. He said that jury selection would begin December 9, and that if no jury was selected by December 23, he would recess the trial until January 2, 1969.

December 13

New York City - The National Emergency Civil Liberties Committee Annual Bill of Rights dinner is scheduled for the Americana Hotel. The NECLC is the old FCLA rejuvenated with a new name. The old FCLA was cited as a Communist Front in 1956 by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee and in 1959 by HCUA. Featured speakers will be: Dr. Benjamin SPOCK and Dick GREGORY.

Corliss LAJONT is chairman of NECLC.

December 21

Washington, D. C. - The HCUA subcommittee after holding three days of open hearings into the conduct and connection of some groups and individuals in the IMC disorders is in recess until 21 December. Five of the seven witnesses subpoenaed have not been heard and are expected to return. They are David DELLINGER, Bonnie DAVIS, Tom HAYEN, Jerry RUBIN, and Abbie HOFFMAN. Robert GREENGLASS of the IMC and Dr. David FOULKE of the Medical Committee for Human Rights who testified last week were released from their subpoenas but could be summoned back.

January 3, 1969

Included in the new program allegedly adopted by the IMCEWU (Chairman David DELLINGER) - adopted at a September 14 administrative committee meeting in D. C. - "Rally supporters to pressure House of Representatives on 3 January and the new President at his inauguration 20 January 1969.

January 18

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania - The Black Liberation Alliance, formed October 18-20 at Columbus, Ohio, by 50 dissatisfied members of CORE from five states will hold its first convention. Temporary officers were elected at Columbus. It was decided that the organization will strive for basic social, economic, and political change in the U. S. A. rather than reform. It will seek racial separation, black nationalism, and the formation of a separate black nation within the boundaries of the U. S.

January 20

The Youth International Party (YIPPIES) announced it will hold a "Festival of Life" at Washington, D. C., during the Inauguration of the President. Yippies contributed much of the disruptive activity at the Democratic National Convention with their "Festival of Life" there.

January 21

Bonnie DAVIS, IMC leader, recently announced to anti-war protesters that there would be a "massive convergence" of protesters in Washington on Inauguration Day.

January 20

Jerry RUBIN (YIPPIES) has stated that he and his colleagues will try to make it rough for whomever is inaugurated President on 20 January. They will hold marches and parades and make an effort to bring their pig, Pegasus - when they nominated in Chicago - into the White House.

January 20

Washington, D. C. - The Administrative Committee of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (NMC) met on Oct. 12 and 13 at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Massachusetts. Approximately forty people attended; including David DELLINGER and Rennie DAVIS, NMC leaders; Sidney DECK, a former member of the Communist Party; and Arnold JOHNSON, a member of the CFUSA national Committee. The Committee decided that there was need for tight security against FBI investigations of anti-riot law violations. A working committee was formed to make plans for a demonstration at Washington, D. C., during the Presidential Inauguration. The Committee announced its plans to send a group of Prominent Americans to Sweden and France to visit "exiled" U. S. military deserters. A press conference will be held upon the group's return. Wealthy sympathizers of the committee may be solicited for annual sustainers of $10,000. The administrative committee planned to meet again on 17 October at Washington, D. C.

April 1969

The 19th Annual Convention of the CFUSA has been scheduled for this time.

There may be some encouraging news from the campuses this fall. A leading American educator recently forecast the possibilities of a campus reaction across the country against student activists who disrupt college and university functions. Heretofore silent students in the moderate center who feel their rights to an education are being denied in the confrontation between activists and administrators may insist on being heard. "There are many signs of a strong reaction on the part of the great mass of moderate students against disruption on the campus. A general backlash from these students is possible. The great majority of American students are not activist about anything."

In Denver, Colorado, an organization called Student Welfare Organization (SWO) has been formed. It proposed to be a new voice on campus and to act as a "Third-Party" in campus disputes to try to bring involved groups to a logical compromise and to act as a communicating body to finally bring understanding and peace within the campus walls. It states that it is going to:

Put education back as the No. 1 objective in schools;

Bring back the democratic processes of dissent; and attempt to workout functioning committee groups made equally of students and university administrators to discuss pertinent issues. Further, it says, "Let this organization be a true test of the thousands of honest student dissenters and expose those student elements who are merely trying to undermine our American way."

Nov. - Dec.

*The American Federation of Teachers, parent organization of the striking N. Y. C. Teachers' union, plans to call a national conference of teachers and citizens soon to try to develop guidelines for school decentralization.

David SELDEN, president of AFT said that plans for the conference had not been completed but that he hoped it would be arranged before Christmas and that, "We want to avoid the kind of clash we've had in N. Y." Among those to be invited to the conference would be representatives of the union locals in the major cities of the North-eastern U. S. and community leaders, including representatives of the Negro and Spanish-speaking communities.

The 165,000 member AFT has endorsed the idea of "effective community responsibility and involvement through elective representation" in the operation of schools in minority-group communities.

But the lesson to be learned from the prolonged N. Y. dispute, Mr. SELDEN said, is that, "You can't have instant decentralization - it is something that has to be very carefully constructed."

November 5

*Washington, D. C. - SDC expects hundreds of Washington area students to join in the national "student strike" by attending a Lincoln Memorial noon rally followed by a march to the White House. Students from the University of Maryland, Georgetown University, George Washington University, and American University, along with students from Baltimore and Richmond area colleges, are expected to participate.

November 5

*Baltimore and Washington, D. C. - SDC has planned a regional march on Washington with all Baltimoreans to rally at Shriver Hall, John Hopkins University at 1000 hours, 5 November, for a motorcade to Washington at 1100 hours. They plan to join the regional rally at the Lincoln Memorial at noon and a march on the White House at 1300 hours.

The Baltimore Defense Committee voted to support the SDC action but has decided to concentrate its activities on local Baltimore polling places. They will stress their activities between the hours 0700 and 0900 and between 1630 and 1900 hours. A vigil is planned at Governor Arnesen's polling place and they will try to embarrass him when he comes to vote. The activities planned at the polls will be leafletting, picketing with signs, and direct dialogue with the voters.

November 4-5

*SGA is predicting that student strikes will cause near-total disruption of the University of Michigan, Eastern College and some state colleges in the Los Angeles area. In New York, SGC claims a strong following at Columbia, New York University, and Queens College and forecasts that classroom boycotts will paralyze those schools.

November 5

*Maine - In Vice-Presidential Edmund Muskie's home state of Maine, state police are taking protest plans seriously and are planning counteraction of undisclosed nature. A letter sent by the state police to some city officials in Maine indicates, according to one report, that SGC members may try to tie up voting booths in communities near college campuses.

November 1-4

*Cleveland, Ohio - The action is scheduled to begin Friday at Case Western Reserve University, where students and others will hold a "teach-in debate" on the topic "Election '72: Reform or Resistance?" A series of weekend events may be capped Monday by an election eve torchlight parade from the University to downtown Cleveland. The action is supported by the Ohio Peace Action Council.

November 1

*Chicago, Illinois - When Chicago Democrats stage a torchlight parade for Humphrey, protestors carrying anti-war signs and leaflets plan to accompany them. At the Chicago Stadium rally, anti-war speakers will seek to demand answers from the Vice-President to a series of Vietnam questions.

November 5

*Waverly, Minnesota - A draft-resistance group plans to gather in front of Hubert Humphrey's lakeshore home to burn draft cards and denounce the Democratic Presidential candidate.

November 5

*Modesto, California - SGC, Modesto Junior College, is planning to picket the polls on election day.

November 1-5

*Los Angeles, California - Donald KALISH, a leader of the Los Angeles Peace Action Council, says HEZON will be confronted with "a stupendous anti-war protest" at some point during his Southern California appearances in the final days of the campaign. KALISH claims that the Los Angeles group can round up 5,000 to 15,000 demonstrators on 24-hours notice.

November 1-5

*New York - (The following item is taken verbatim from a column appearing in the 29 October Wall Street Journal:)

"Whatever the success of the student strikes, the plans of SGC and the Mobilization Committee in the New York metropolitan area provide a detailed illustration of the protest movement's ambitious efforts.

"On Friday, New York organizers aim to start working in earnest to attract recruits to their cause. They propose to establish "movement centers" on some college campuses as well as in the Lower East Side, Greenwich Village and Uptown Manhattan in attempts to get people to sign up for demonstrations.

"On Saturday, picketing is to start at the Manhattan Humphrey and Nixon headquarters; it may go on around-the-clock through Election Day. On Sunday, a war-protest group plans to motor out to Fort Dix in New Jersey, where it hopes to stage a "picnic" for GI's and give the soldiers a peace pitch.

ROY and Dow are Targets

"Activities on Monday will be concentrated on campuses. There may be demonstrations against Reserve Officer Training Corps units at some colleges. A coffee house may be established at NYU to provide a focal point for anti-war talk. The SGC's Mr. Kramer promises there will be a "confrontation" with a Dow Chemical Co. recruiter if, as rumored, he shows up to interview students at one college.

"Election Day activities will start by 6 a.m., Mr. Kramer says. High school students belonging to SGC plan to picket schools used as polling places. Other militants are scheduled to tell voters why some protesters refuse to vote; one reason, says Mr. Kramer, is that "the election is irrelevant because the real power isn't held by the President, but by corporations, government bureaucracies and other institutions."

"Mr. Kramer says the activity at the polling places won't be belligerent. His instructions to the SGC groups: "No one should be stopped from voting, but no one should be allowed to vote without feeling our presence." (If SGC has its way, Mr. Nixon is one who will feel such a presence; militants hope to escort him to his Manhattan polling place.)

Marching Through Manhattan

"By mid-afternoon, Mr. Kramer hopes to have students marching through Midtown Manhattan. The tentative plan calls for demonstrations against several corporations at Rockefeller Plaza (one likely target: Union Carbide Corp., because Mr. Kramer says, it has a "far-reaching imperialist base.")

Marchers may also demonstrate at a Selective Service office before proceeding to a rally slated for Central Park.

"As the polls close, militant students plan to join Mobilization Committee demonstrators in Midtown for the climactic protest at the Nixon national headquarters, where they hope the GOP nominee may make an appearance. "We expect Nixon to be elected," says Mr. Kramer, "and we want to have thousands massed at his headquarters so he will know that this is only the beginning of the pressure we will exert on him."

"Indeed, the Mobilization Committee already is making plans for Inauguration Day demonstrations. A bulletin advises its supporters: "Look to the new year as a time to descend on Washington with the same determination that brought us to Chicago. National action could focus ... on the Inauguration, January 20, if the Government seems set to launch another four years of war, political repression, poverty and racism."

- November 5 *Seattle, Washington - University of Washington SFG will demonstrate on Campus followed later by a demonstration at the Seattle campaign headquarters of the presidential winner.
- November 3 & 9 *Peoria, Illinois - The Peoria Committee on Vietnam will hold a march through downtown Peoria on 3 November and a peace rally on 9 November.
- November 5 *Riverbank, California - Students for Political Renaissance is sponsoring a demonstration at the Riverbank Army Ammunition Plant.
- November 5 *Los Angeles, California - SFG is sponsoring a rally and a march through downtown Los Angeles. It may hold other demonstrations at the Federal Building and at Police Headquarters.
- November 5 *San Francisco - At a rally in Berkeley 30 October, Tom HAYIGH (SFG leader), announced that a rally will be held at the Civic Center in San Francisco. Following the rally, the group will march to the Presidio, Financial district, and the Market Street area to disrupt voting procedures.
- November 5 *Cleveland, Ohio - On 1 November the University Circle Teaching Committee will sponsor an anti-war rally at Schmidt Auditorium, Case-Western Reserve University. The main speakers at the rally will be Rennie DAVIS, National Coordinator of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, Ted H. Worchel, Representative of the New Democratic Coalition, Paul CHURCH, Representative of the Committee of 100, William HUNTER, Director of the McCarthy for President Committee, and Mike BRICKER, Representative of the Students for a Democratic Society. On 2 November information received indicates that Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (SMC) and the Young Socialist Alliance (YSA) will pass out leaflets at various bus, air, WFO, and military installations. The purpose of these acts will be to urge servicemen to protest the draft and the war in Vietnam. On 3 November Andrew STAFF, Editor of the "FOUND" and leader of attempts to unionize the army will give a speech, sponsored by Dave GASS, Youth Against War and Facism (YAWF) and Ted DOSTAL, associated with the Workers World Party and Cleveland leader of YAWF. Appearing with STAFF will be Dick WHEATON, a former serviceman who has been involved in "ETA" activities. On 5 November it is rumored that the Women's Speak Out For Peace plans to hold anti-draft protests at all polling places in the Cleveland area.

November 5

*Little Rock, Arkansas - The Little Rock University Chapter of the Southern Students Organization Committee (SSOC) plans to distribute literature protesting IOW Chemical recruiters on campus and in at least one voting precinct. Information received indicates that the SSOC will not protest the elections but concentrate their efforts on the presence of the IOW recruiters.

November 4 & 5

*Ann Arbor, Michigan - On 29 October 1968, the SIG held a meeting on the campus of the University of Michigan. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss proposals concerning student activities on 4 and 5 November 1968. Several plans of action were discussed, but none received final approval. The 150 persons present were in general agreement that the county building and the local draft board #85 should be the main targets of demonstrations on 4 November. The SIG is hopeful that 3,000 - 4,000 people will take part in a march on 5 November.

November 4 & 5

*Los Angeles, California - The Los Angeles SIG (LA-SIG) announced that they will sponsor a student strike at high schools and universities on 4 November. On 5 November, the LA-SIG will promote a rally at Pershing Square, a march through downtown Los Angeles, a rally in front of the Los Angeles voters registrar's office, and a rally at the Century Plaza Hotel.

S. and community leaders, including representatives of the Negro and Spanish-speaking communities.

The 165,000 member AFT has endorsed the idea of "effective community responsibility and involvement through elective representation" in the operation of schools in minority-group communities.

But the lesson to be learned from the prolonged N. Y. dispute, ~~the~~ said, is that, "You can't have instant decentralization - it is something that has to be very carefully constructed."

Fall 1968

*The conservative University of Alabama, enrollment over 20,000, has in the past week experienced the emergence of a student movement associated with the "New Left." Calling itself the Dissident Student Organization and numbering less than fifty persons (members and sympathizers), the group is flexing its muscle with the University administration. Its president, ~~John~~ has notified University President, Dr. Frank ROSE, of his intention to invite the following apostles of dissidence to speak on campus in coming months: Black Panther Eldridge CLEAVER; Jerry RUBIN, leader of the

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

Youth International Party (YIPPIES); Herbert APPELBERG, Communist theorist; and Mark FELD, SIG head at Columbia who led the Columbia riots last spring. BOSE announced that no University of Alabama facilities would be available to the four and that the school does not recognize the student group's right to have any speakers it chooses. Now the ACLU is seeking a federal court injunction on behalf of the IGO to allow the four speakers.

November 1969

*Reportedly, it was announced at a recent meeting of the Black Panther Party at Jersey City, New Jersey, that the BPP planned no further activity until after election day. It was further announced that the party will act simultaneously across the country following the elections. No details on this proposed activity were disclosed.

November 9

*Boston - Cambridge, Massachusetts - The November 9 Mobilization Committee has requested parade permits for a march from Cambridge to Boston ending at the Boston Commons.

November 9

*Peoria, Illinois - The Peoria Committee on Vietnam will hold a peace rally.

November 10

Los Angeles, California - The Los Angeles Veterans for Peace in Vietnam (VTV) received a permit to march and demonstrate. The march will go to the Los Angeles City Hall for a rally. Speakers will include Rear Admiral A. E. TRUE, Brig. General (retired) Hugh NESTER, Master Sgt. Don HUGHAN, and Vietnam veterans. The VTV and the Vietnam Veterans against the War have distributed leaflets in the Los Angeles area announcing the parade and rally.

November 11

*Tacoma, Washington - The GI-Civilian Alliance for Peace will hold a rally for the purpose of planning a GI march for Dec. 8, which it hopes will attract 5,000 demonstrators.

A previously announced GI march to be held on Veterans Day has been cancelled because of lack of interest and failure to properly organize it.

November 11

New York City - A Veterans Day Rally will be held in Hunter Auditorium in honor of the "Ft. Hood Three" - the first draftees to defy orders to go to Vietnam. They were sentenced to three years at Ft. Leavenworth. The program will feature ~~speeches~~ of the Ft. Hood Three, recently released from Ft. Leavenworth. Others on the program are: Pete SEEGER,

 Ossie DAVIS, ~~actor~~, Dave DELLINGER,
 Stanley FAULKNER (lawyer for the "three"), and ~~James Earl RAY~~

November 11

*Lawrence, Kansas - People's Voice, a campus organization at the University of Kansas, is sponsoring a parade and a demonstration against General Lewis WALT.

November 12

Waltham, Massachusetts - Allegedly SIG at Brandeis University will attempt to disrupt CIA recruiting activities this date by obstructing the entrance to the building where interviews were to be held and by disrupting the interviews.

November 12

The trial of James Earle RAY, the accused killer of Martin Luther KING, Jr., is scheduled to start in Memphis, Tennessee.

November 14

A national "draft card turn-in" to symbolize non-cooperation with the Selective Service System, is being sponsored by The Resistance, a militant anti-draft group.

The War Resisters League, a pacifist group and the Puerto Rican Peace Center will hold "turn-ins" at Tampa, Florida, and San Juan, Puerto Rico, respectively.

November 13

*The SIG chapter at the University of Oregon met in late October and made plans to demonstrate on November 13 when a bus, carrying draftees leaves Eugene for the induction center at Portland.

November 13

Washington, D. C. - More than 1,000 participants are expected to attend a four-day conference at Howard University, called "Towards a Black University." The purpose of the conference will be to define the structure and mechanics of a black university which has as a primary concern, revolutionary unity and excellence in a black society. Local Negro residents will be invited to attend.

This move is designed to prevent the same sort of apathy that was displayed by local residents at the Black Power conferences held in Newark last year and Philadelphia this summer. The conference director is ~~James Earl RAY~~, militant student leader at HOWARD. Among individuals who have accepted invitations to participate are: ~~James Earl RAY~~, west coast black nationalist leader of the militant "US" organization; Ossie DAVIS, actor ~~James Earl RAY~~ and Stokely CARMICHAEL, prime minister of the militant Black Panther Party.

*Ballingham, Washington - Western Washington State College SIG has scheduled demonstrations to protest the presence of Army, Air Force, and Navy recruiters on the campus. Some 400 students allegedly have pledged to participate.

November 14

*Reputedly November 14 is being sponsored as an anti-war, anti-draft "National Day of Liberation" with support from groups across the nation.

Lexington, Kentucky - The Lexington Peace Council has voted unanimously to take part.

Tampa, Florida - The War Resisters League will sponsor a demonstration at the Federal Building with the prime purpose of burning in draft cards to the Selective Service Board located in the building.

Minneapolis, Minnesota - The Twin Cities Draft Information Center is sponsoring participation which will take place at the Universalist Church (which has been described as a "Freedom Church.")

Chicago, Illinois - The Chicago Area Draft Resisters group has announced a plan for an "End Your Cooperation with the Selctice Service Day" with hundreds of young men supposedly going to send their draft cards back to the Government.

November 17

The Communist parties of the Soviet Union and fifty-seven other parties recently agreed in a meeting in Budapest to shelve plans for a World Communist Summit Conference in Moscow on 25 November. Another preparatory meeting has been called for 17 November to examine the date for calling the International Conference and the method of its further preparations. The decision to postpone the Moscow Conference appeared to be a bitter blow for the Kremlin who appeared to visualize the summit as a demonstration of loyalty to Moscow as the main center of the World Communist Movement despite the defection and "splitting tactics" of Communist China. The last World Conference, attended by seventy-eight parties, almost eight years ago, was an unsuccessful attempt to avert the historic rift between Moscow and Peking. Sixty-seven delegations, representing about 3/4 of the world's communist parties, attended a nine-day conference in February, and March and agreed to call the Moscow summit for 25 November. Those parties which attended in February, but stayed away from the meeting which ended today, were those of Canada, Ceylon, the Dominican Republic, Jordan, Nicaragua, Nepal, Panama, Portugal and Norway. The Icelandic Party sent observers in February.

Six ruling communist parties, those of China, Albania, Yugoslavia, Ho. Vietnam, Ho. Korea, and Cuba - boycotted both gatherings but came back as observers to the meeting. A low-level Czechoslovak delegation attended.

In Rome, officials of the Italian and Romanian communist parties ended a ten-day meeting with a call for the right of communist parties to decide their own political lines without outside interferences. Both the Italian and Romanian parties have criticized the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia.

November 18

Oakland, California - This date has been set for the trial of the seven young men under conspiracy indictment for their part in organizing the October 1967 demonstrations in front of the Oakland Induction Center. The charge against the Oakland Seven "conspiracy to commit a misdemeanor" carries a maximum penalty of ten years imprisonment plus a $10,000 fine.

Over 10,000 people participated in the demonstrations at the induction center. Support for the "Oakland Seven" is being organized.

November 20

Abbie HOFFMAN, Yippie leader, arrested and charged with defacing the American flag on 3 October during HCUA hearings has a trial date set for 20 November. He pleaded NOT guilty at his arraignment.

November 28

South Bend, Indiana - The National Student Association Convention on White Racism is scheduled on this date. The University of Maryland formed a Campus Coalition Against Racism (CCAR) in early October. The research that will emanate from the CCAR will be used to represent the University of Maryland at the NSA Convention.

November 29-Dec. 1

*A Hemispheric Conference to End the War in Vietnam will apparently meet in Montreal to develop coordination against U. S. intervention in Vietnam and the Americas. This meeting had earlier been indicated for 12-14 October. A planning meeting was held in Montreal on 7-8 September. A flyer issued in connection with the conference proclaims that approximately 2,000 people from throughout the hemisphere - over 1/4 from Canada will attend. Among

The listed sponsors from the U. S. are the following:

Donna ALLAN & Duemar WILSON
 Women Strike for Peace
 Julian FOND - Georgia State Assembly
 Anne & Carl BRAJEN
 Southern Christian Education Fund
 Ossie DAVIS and Ruby DEE
 Prof. Robert GREENBLATT - IMCEWV
 Father James GROFFI
 James JACKSON - CTUSA
 Rev. Bernard LAFAYETTE - SCLC
 Linda MORSE - 5th Avenue Peace Parade Committee
 Dr. Benjamin SPOCK
 Jarvis TYNER - National Chairman - W. E. B. DuBois Club
 John WILSON - SNCC

It was indicated that the conference would deal with U. S. involvement in Latin America only so far as it affects the Vietnam War.

Delegations representing the Democratic Republic of Vietnam and the National Liberation Front will be present.

Initiated by a broad coalition in Montreal, the meeting will include activists from the U. S., Canada and many countries of Central and South America. Unification and expansion of the peace movements in these areas will reportedly be the conference's goal. Among speakers are to be:

Cheddi JAGAN, Communist former Prime Minister of British Guiana (Guyana) and David DELLINGER of the National Mobilization Committee. Communists, Pacifists, Negro militants, and liberals are included in the U. S. delegation.

Nov. 29-Dec. 1

Chicago, Illinois - The Young Socialist Alliance (youth section of the Socialist Workers Party) has called for a national convention of Revolutionary Socialists over the Thanksgiving weekend. Representatives from the German SWG - French FCR - Japanese Zensakuren and Socialists from Italy, England and some of the Socialist Black countries are expected. Purpose of the convention reportedly is to discuss building a serious revolutionary organization in the advanced industrial countries including the U. S. A.

December 1-5

Princeton, New Jersey - It can be anticipated that the U. S. A. will be soundly chastised as well as praised when more than eighty leading intellectuals from throughout the world will gather at the Institute for Advanced Studies to assess many of the problems that will confront the next American President.

Plans for the five-day seminar on "The U. S. - Its problems, Impact and Image in the World" were to be announced on 28 October in London and in Paris by Shepard STONE, President of the International Association for Cultural Freedom. The association is a private organization of scholars, writers, and men of public affairs that is receiving financial support from the Ford Foundation.

Dr. Carl KAYSER, director of the Institute for Advanced Studies, and Jean-Jacques SERVAN-SCHREIER, publisher of the French weekly, L'Express, and the author of the best-selling book "The American Challenge," will be co-chairman of the conference.

Stone said, "We hope that the incoming administration will be represented at the meeting as we shall gather some of the most articulate and influential critics and advocates of American policy."

Two Soviet scholars who have accepted invitations to the meeting are Anatoly A. GROMYKO, son of Foreign Minister Andrei A. GROMYKO, and Stanislav MENSHILKOV, a director of the Institute of World Economy. Several distinguished East European scholars and writers have been invited. They include Milovan DJILAS (Yugoslavia) and Ivan SVITAK (Czech Communist Party liberal).

An American contingent of thirty-one participants will include a number of former Government officials - among them McGeorge BUNNY, George W. FALL, John K. GALBRAITH, Arthur SCHLESINGER, Jr., and George KENNAN. Among the British to attend are: Prof. Alan BULLOCK, chairman of the Board of the Association for Cultural Freedom; Alastair BUCHAN, director of the Institute of Strategic Studies; and Geoffrey MARTIN, chairman of the National Union of Students. A number of other European as well as Latin Americans will attend.

Perhaps not the least interesting of the other American participants will be: Lillian HELLMAN, playwright; Roy INDS, Director of CORE; Daniel BELL, prof. of Sociology at Columbia University; Irving HOWE, editor of HESBERT; Edward SHILS, Prof. of Sociology, University of Chicago; Saul PELLOW, novelist; and Norman TOMHORETZ, editor of Commentary magazine.

December 2

Bol Air, Maryland - The trial of H. Pap BROWN on charges of arson and inciting to riot in Cambridge, Maryland, has been scheduled with Judge Harry E. DWYER, presiding.

December 2

*Oakland, California - The April 6, 1968, "Shoot-out Crowd" of the Black Panther Party have had their trial set for 2 December. Eldridge CLEAVER, Minister of Information of the BPP is one of the six defendants. All pleaded innocent to a variety of charges stemming from the shoot-out with the Oakland Police Department in Oakland. This was the confrontation during which Bobby HUTTON of the BPP's was killed. CLEAVER has been stating that he will not return to prison - that he will hide out in the black ghettos - and that he will kill anyone who attempts to imprison him. CLEAVER has been ordered to return to prison on 27 November following revocation of his parole because of his involvement in a gun battle with Oakland, California, Police in April 1968.

December 5

*New York City - The Guardian, self-styled independent radical newspaper, holds its 20th anniversary celebration at the Fillmore East.

Carl OGLESBY will be the main speaker. Entertainment is to include folk and rock music and speeches by other radicals - "a general onslaught of political information and entertainment, some serious and some absurd, leading to a radical perspective for 1969."

December 7 & 8

*Task Force - the underground newsmag published in San Francisco - aimed at servicemen and veterans - carried a notice in its October 25 edition calling for GI actions December 7 and 8: "1. Organize - teach-ins, rallies, marches, discussions, GI dinners, etc. 2. Contact - local vets, student anti-war groups for assistance. 3. Write - P. O. Box 31268, San Francisco, 94131, so we can inform you of what's happening around the country."

December 9

Los Angeles, California - The trial of Sirhan B. SIRHAN on the charge that he murdered Robert F. KENNEDY, has been delayed until 9 December on a motion by the defense. Superior Judge Herbert V. WALKER, the Senior Criminal Court Judge in Los Angeles County presided over the hearing and will preside at the trial. Judge WATERER, said, over prosecution objections, that he intended to sequester the jury, once it was sworn. He said that jury selection would begin December 2, and that if no jury was selected by December 23, he would recess the trial until January 2, 1969.

December 13

New York City - The National Emergency Civil Liberties Committee annual Bill of Rights dinner is scheduled for the Americana Hotel. The NECLC is the old ECLC rejuvenated with a new name. The old ECLC was cited as a Communist Front in 1956 by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee and in 1959 by HCUA. Featured speakers will be: Dr. Benjamin SPOCK and Dick GREGORY.

Corliss LAMONT is chairman of NECLC.

December 21

Washington, D. C. - The HCUA subcommittee after holding three days of open hearings into the conduct and connection of some groups and individuals in the IMC disorders is in recess until 21 December. Five of the seven witnesses subpoenaed have not been heard and are expected to return. They are David PELLINGER, Ramon DAVIS, Tom HAYMAN, Jerry RUBIN, and Abbie HOFFMAN. Robert GREENHATT of the IMC and Dr. David YOUNG of the Medical Committee for Human Rights who testified last week were released from their subpoenas but could be summoned back.

January 1969

*Guerrilla, an underground publication, recently proposed that in January 1969, independent revolutionaries hold a "Congress for Cultural Revolution."

"The Congress should be organized to include the independent revolutionary media, various representatives of the underground communities, and other independent revolutionary organizations and individuals who are interested in total cultural revolution whether they be activists, anarchists, poets and artists, or socialists.

(1) The red and black should attempt to formulate a broad program of cultural revolution which includes an analysis of the tasks facing cultural revolutionaries from the point of view of the ecology, morphology and cybernetics as well as from the more traditional revolutionary informations.

(2) Polarize the underground. The CIA and other intelligence agencies have begun to consciously infiltrate the cultural revolution via grants, fake entry projects, magazines and the usual fronts. GUERRILLA believes it is necessary to name and define the counter-cultural revolution so that a conscious federation of cultural revolution may be built.

(3) The Congress should attempt to formulate its own 4-year plan of cultural revolution. Social revolution as a weapon of cultural revolution.

Those interested in helping to organize a national CONGRESS FOR CULTURAL REVOLUTION may write GUERRILLA."

January 3, 1969

*Washington, D. C. - Prior to Election Day, the HMC had announced its intention to produce follow-up protests. One is scheduled for 3 January if the Electoral College fails to give a majority to any candidate and the choice of President is placed in the hands of the House of Representatives, or for Inauguration Day, 20 January if the "peace" movement believes the new President will refuse to change policies regarding U. S. involvement in Vietnam.

January 3, 1969

Included in the new program allegedly adopted by the INCEWVH (Chairman David DELLINGER) at a September 14 administrative committee meeting in D. C. - "Rally supporters to pressure House of Representatives on 3 January and the new President at his inauguration 20 January 1969."

January 18

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania - The Black Liberation Alliance, formed October 18-20 at Columbus, Ohio, by 50 dissatisfied members of CORE from five states will hold its first convention. Temporary officers were elected at Columbus. It was decided that the organization will strive for basic social, economic, and political change in the U. S. A. rather than reform. It will seek racial separation, black nationalism, and the formation of a separate black nation within the boundaries of the U. S.

January 20

The Youth International Party (YIPPIES) announced it will hold a "Festival of Life" at Washington, D. C., during the Inauguration of the President. Yippies contributed much of the disruptive activity at the Democratic National Convention with their "Festival of Life" there.

January 20

Bennie DAVIS, HMC leader, recently announced to anti-war protestors that there would be a "massive convergence" of protestors in Washington on Inauguration Day.

Jerry RUBIN (VIETNAM) has stated that he and his colleagues will try to make it rough for themselves to inaugurate President on 20 January. They will hold marches and parades and make an effort to bring their pig, Pegasus - whom they nominated in Chicago - into the White House.

January 20

Washington, D. C. - The Administrative Committee of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (NMC) met on October 12 and 13 at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Massachusetts. Approximately forty people attended; including David DELLINGER and Rennie DAVIS, NMC leaders; Sidney PECK, a former member of the Communist Party; and Arnold JOHNSON, a member of the CFUSA national Committee. The Committee decided that there was need for tight security against FBI investigations of anti-riot law violations. A working committee was formed to make plans for a demonstration at Washington, D. C., during the Presidential Inauguration.

March 1969

*Appeal of the conviction of Dr. Benjamin SPOCK; Rev. Wm. Gleane COFFIN, Mitchell COONAN, and Michael FERRER for conspiring to urge others to break the draft law is expected to come before the Supreme Court in March.

On 4 November, attorneys for Dr. SPOCK filed a statement in the U. S. Court of Appeals that the conviction violated their constitutional right to free speech. They filed ten issues on which they hope to overturn the conviction, raising the question of whether conviction was "based upon constitutionally protected speech."

April 1969

The 19th Annual Convention of the CFUSA has been scheduled for this time.

ADDITION

November 9

*Newburgh, New York - Rev. Guy MEYER and Father Philip BERNIGAN plan to distribute anti-Vietnam war literature at the main gate of the Stewart AF Base. They are attempting to recruit students at State University at New Paltz to assist them.

November 14

*St. Cloud, Minnesota - A group is scheduled to demonstrate in the Court House square in connection with the 4th National Day of Resistance. Allegedly they plan to protest the use of napalm in Vietnam by burning a dog with napalm in public.

November 14

San Francisco, California - The Resistance has scheduled a demonstration in afternoon in front of the federal building. Attending will reportedly be Joan PAZZ, David HARRIS, David GLICK, John LANGAS, and Ed FERRY. All who plan to attend are urged to bring their draft cards - presumably for a mass burning, turn-in, or some such display.

The Peace & Freedom Party (PFP), which sponsored Eldridge CLEAVER's presidential candidacy, is reportedly highly upset with his announced "disassociation" from PFP. PFP has reportedly suffered significant financial loss from CLEAVER's failure to meet speaking obligations, for which PFP has posted bond. PFP notes that CLEAVER has become increasingly "anti-white," and midwestern PFP leaders suspect that he has become mentally unbalanced. There are allegations that the PFP, of which he is Minister of Information, intends to spirit CLEAVER out of the U. S. to an undisclosed location, to prevent his being returned to jail.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORTBlack Panther Party

A confidential source of a Government component who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that a student reportedly associated with the Student Strike Committee in Mexico City, spoke at a November 6 meeting of the Black Panther Party in Los Angeles. At the meeting it was agreed that Mexican students will be sent to Los Angeles for Black Panther Party instruction in disruptive tactics, construction of explosives and homemade incendiary devices, and the stealing of military arms. The Mexican students would then return to Mexico to apply their newly acquired knowledge. Source also advised that the BPP plans to send members to Mexico but the purpose was not indicated.

Travel of BPP members to Mexico and to Cuba has been noted previously.

Mark RUDD

Mark RUDD, former head of SDS at Columbia University, was cleared November 8 of a charge of disorderly conduct stemming from the student occupation last May 18 of a Columbia-owned tenement. The dismissal was ordered despite the plea of Assistant District Attorney Gershman, who predicted that the ruling would encourage others to demonstrate. RUDD still faces charges of riot in the second degree, inciting to riot and criminal trespass as a result of a protest at Columbia last May 22. RUDD identified himself as a former student and "now a lecturer."

November 17

The Communist parties of the Soviet Union and fifty-seven other parties recently agreed in a meeting in Budapest to shelve plans for a World Communist Summit Conference in Moscow on 25 November. Another preparatory meeting has been called for 17 November to examine the date for calling the International Conference and the method of its further preparations.

November 17

*San Francisco, California - A rally in support of the twenty-seven enlisted men who participated in a sit-down strike at the Post Stockade of the Presidio of San Francisco will be held at the Lombard Street Gate to the Presidio Base. The rally will be sponsored by the RESISTANCE.

November 17

*Los Angeles, California - The "Newton-Cleaver Defense Committee" has tentatively scheduled a "Freedom Rally" at the L. A. Trade Technical School. Speakers are scheduled to be: Eldridge CLEAVER; Chas. GARY, leftist Chief Counsel for CLEAVER and Huey NEWTON; Melvin NEWTON, brother of Huey and Chairman for the NEWTON-CLEAVER Defense Committee; Oscar ACOSTA, Chief counsel for the "Chicago 13" and the Brown Berets; Rev. James DONALDSON; and Richardson WASSERSTRAM, Prof. of Law and Philosophy at UCLA and the rally chairman.

November 18-22

*Nairobi, Kenya - Forty American and African leaders from widely varying Governmental and private backgrounds will meet to confer on mutual problems. American participants will include two members of Congress, corp. Presidents, Government officials and news executives as well as civil rights leader Bayard RUSTIN and Prof. Chas. V. HAMILTON of Roosevelt University, co-author with Stokely CARMICHAEL of "Black Power: 'The Politics of Liberation in America.'" American participants are expected to meet President-elect NIXON on their return - to convey a sense of the attitudes expressed by the Africans.

November 18

Oakland, California - This date has been set for the trial of the seven young men under conspiracy indictment for their part in organizing the October 1967 demonstrations in front of the Oakland Induction Center. The charge against the Oakland Seven - "Conspiracy to commit a misdemeanor" - carries a maximum penalty of ten years imprisonment plus a $10,000 fine.

Abbie HOFFMAN, Yippie leader, arrested and charged with defacing the American flag on 3 October during HCUA hearings has a trial date set for 20 November. He pleaded NOT guilty at his arraignment.

November 24

*St. Louis, Missouri - The New Democratic Coalition - dissidents whose protests splintered the Democratic Party before the election - plan to meet to prepare for a national "founding conference" in March 1969 - to organize to fight for control of the party.

November 25-Dec. 2 *The National Welfare Rights Organization (NWRO), a militant "welfare rights" group which claims 30,000 members in seventy cities has proclaimed this period as "national get it week." The highlight will be Thanksgiving Day, November 28, when welfare recipients will stage demonstrations to say "No thanks, America" for the inadequate dole they get.

NWRO announced a December "spend-the-rent" campaign in which welfare clients would keep their rent money to spend on basic needs not covered in their relief checks.

November 28 South Bend, Indiana - The National Student Association Convention on White Racism is scheduled on this date. The University of Maryland formed a Campus Coalition Against Racism (CCAR) in early October. The research that will emanate from the CCAR will be used to represent the University of Maryland at the NSA Convention.

parole because of his involvement in the gun battle with Oakland, California, Police in April 1968.

An Alameda County Superior Court Judge on 8 Nov. rejected a defense motion to quash the indictments of Eldridge CLEAVER and the five other Black Panthers on the contention that six of the Grand Jury that indicted them did not represent the Negro Community. He set November 20 to decide whether the six would be tried together or separately for attempted murder and assault stemming from the April gun battle. CLEAVER is still free on $50,000 bail.

Tacoma, Washington - The GI-Civilian Alliance for Peace is planning a GI march for December 8, which it hopes will attract 5,000 demonstrators.

December 9

Los Angeles, California - The trial of Sirhan B. SIRHAN on the charge that he murdered Robert F. KENNEDY, has been delayed until 9 December on a motion by the defense. Superior Judge Herbert V. WALKER, the Senior Criminal Court Judge in Los Angeles County presided over the hearing and will preside at the trial. Judge WALKER, said, over prosecution objections, that he intended to sequester the jury, once it was sworn. He said that jury selection would begin December 9, and that if no jury was selected by December 23, he would recess the trial until January 2, 1969.

December 13

New York City - The National Emergency Civil Liberties Committee annual Bill of Rights dinner is scheduled for the Americana Hotel. The NECLC is the old ECLC rejuvenated with a new name. The old ECLC was cited as a Communist Front in 1956 by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee and in 1959 by HCUA. Featured speakers will be: Dr. Benjamin SPOCK and Dick GREGORY.

Corliss LAMONT is chairman of NECLC.

December 21

Washington, D. C. - The HCUA subcommittee after holding three days of open hearings into the conduct and connection of some groups and individuals in the DNC disorders is in recess until 21 December. Five of the seven witnesses subpoenaed have not been heard and are expected to return. They are David DELLINGER, Rennie DAVIS, Tom HAYDEN, Jerry RUBIN, and Abbie HOFFMAN. Robert GREENBLATT of the NMC and Dr. David YOUNG of the Medical Committee for Human Rights who testified that week were released from their subpoenas but could be summoned back.

January 1969

Guerrilla, an underground publication, recently proposed that in January 1969, independent revolutionaries hold a "Congress for Cultural Revolution."

"The Congress should be organized to include the independent revolutionary media, various representatives of the underground communities, and other independent revolutionary organizations and individuals who are interested in total cultural revolution whether they be activists, anarchists, poets and artists, or socialists.

- (1) The red and black should attempt to formulate a broad program of cultural revolution which includes an analysis of the tasks facing cultural revolutionaries from the point of view of the ecology, morphology and cybernetics as well as from the more traditional revolutionary informations.
- (2) Polarize the underground. The CIA and other intelligence agencies have begun to consciously infiltrate the cultural revolution via grants, fake poetry projects, magazines and the usual fronts. GUERRILLA believes it is necessary to name and define the counter-cultural revolution so that a conscious federation of cultural revolution may be built.
- (3) -The Congress should attempt to formulate its own 4-year plan of cultural revolution. Social revolution as a weapon of cultural revolution.

Those interested in helping to organize a national CONGRESS FOR CULTURAL REVOLUTION may write GUERRILLA."

January 3, 1969

*Washington, D. C. - Prior to Election Day, the NMC had announced its intention to produce follow-up protests. One is scheduled for 3 January if the Electoral College fails to give a majority to any candidate and the choice of President is placed in the hands of the House of Representatives, or for Inauguration Day, 20 January if the "peace" movement believes the new President will refuse to change policies regarding U. S. involvement in Vietnam. It would seem that the January 3 protest will be cancelled as NIXON appears assured of an electoral majority.

January 3, 1969

Included in the new program allegedly adopted by the NMCEWVN (Chairman David DELLINGER) at a September 14 administrative committee meeting in D. C. - "Rally supporters to pressure the new House of Representatives on 3 January and the new President at his inauguration 20 January 1969.

January 18

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania - The Black Liberation Alliance, formed October 18-20 at Columbus, Ohio, by 50 dissatisfied members of CORE from five states will hold its first convention. Temporary officers were elected at Columbus. It was decided that the organization will strive for basic social, economic, and political change in the U. S. A. rather than reform. It will seek racial separation, black nationalism, and the formation of a separate black nation within the boundaries of the U. S.

January 20

The Youth International Party (YIPPIES) announced it will hold a "festival of life" at Washington, D. C., during the Inauguration of the President. Yippies contributed much of the disruptive activity at the Democratic National Convention with their "Festival of Life" there.

January 20

Jerry RUBIN (YIPPIES) has stated that he and his colleagues will try to make it rough for whomever is inaugurated President on 20 January. They will hold marches and parades and make an effort to bring their pig, Pegasus - whom they nominated in Chicago - into the White House.

January 20

Washington, D. C. - The Administrative Committee of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (NMC) met on October 12 and 13 at the

at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Massachusetts. Approximately forty people attended; including David DELLINGER and Rennie DAVIS, NMC leaders; Sidney PECK, a former member of the Communist Party; and Arnold JOHNSON, a member of the CPUSA national Committee. The Committee decided that there was need for tight security against FBI investigations of anti-riot law violations. A working committee was formed to make plans for a demonstration at Washington, D. C., during the Presidential Inauguration.

January 20

Rennie DAVIS, NMC leader, recently announced to anti-war protestors that there would be a "massive convergence" of protestors in Washington on Inauguration Day.

March 1969

Appeal of the conviction of Dr. Benjamin SPOCK; Rev. Wm. Sloane COFFIN, Mitchell GOODMAN, and Michael FERBER for conspiring to urge others to break the draft law is expected to come before the Supreme Court in March.

On 4 November, attorneys for Dr. SPOCK filed a statement in the U. S. Court of Appeals that the conviction violated their constitutional right to free speech. They filed ten issues on which they hope to overturn the conviction, raising the question of whether conviction was "based upon constitutionally protected speech."

March 3

*Memphis, Tennessee - James Earl RAY, accused assassin of Martin Luther KING, Jr., switched from Attorney Art HANES to Attorney Percy FOREMAN, just prior to scheduled beginning of his trial 12 November. Although Attorney HANES said the switch "was a delaying tactic pure and simple," Judge W. Preston BATTLE said he had no choice but to delay the trial and it was postponed until 3 March 1969 - this date seems also to be a tentative one as Attorney FOREMAN indicated he didn't believe it would give him adequate time to prepare his case.

April 1969

The 19th Annual Convention of the CPUSA has been scheduled for this time.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

According to Guardian, self-styled Independent Radical News-weekly, besides the recent proliferation of underground and movement newspapers, another burgeoning segment of the news media has been the appearance in black communities across the country, of hundreds of small, locally written and produced newspapers. These communities are no longer content with what they deem to be inadequate and insensitive treatment from the white press, or compromising sensational treatment from the old black outlets. With few exceptions, these papers are run by black men in their twenties and were made possible by the big increase of low cost, non-union, offset printing houses.

"These newspapers were conceived to accomplish four major goals: to legitimate a certain point of view; to communicate that point of view to all people in the black community; to foster unity among the various black groups in the area; to suggest and at times initiate action to effect political, economic, and other changes.

"The man who puts out a newspaper inherits a power to define events in his own terms, with an amount of guaranteed credibility.

"The young black men who operate these papers have decided that they will be doing that defining - at least for their own communities - and not the white papers downtown.

"All of the papers sacrifice so-called professionalism to sincerity and community relevance.

"The various non-Chicago, Illinois, papers are much more closely connected with white student activists than the Chicago ones.

"One of the developments that have occurred in the black community since the creation of these papers, in Chicago at least, has been the increasing militancy of the Defender, the Courier, and the Gazette - the traditional black papers.

"In the smaller cities and towns of Illinois, the new black press is the only black press. Their existence is much more precarious than their city counterparts, since they are more of a threat to the local establishments because of their immediate impact on the small towns.

"Conceivably, the white establishment press will begin to notice these papers and put money in with the idea of having a future source of cheaply-trained black journalists to fill their rising quotas.

"Whether the money is there or not, these papers are just beginning their big boom. Similar papers exist in Albany and Syracuse, N. Y.; Houston, Texas; and Los Angeles, California, and will probably pop up everywhere there is a black community larger than a city block. The downstate Illinois papers think it would be great to have a newspaper in every high-rise building in every city. The cost is low enough, the need for communication is there, and undoubtedly, there is a black man there willing and able to take on the minimal amount of work involved."

The Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N. J., has recently concluded a survey of the impact of the "Radical Left," on the college campus. Since ETS conducted a similar survey in 1965 several interesting trends and conclusions can be identified. Eight hundred and sixty(four-year)college campuses were surveyed during the recent study.

Conclusions:

1. Though the number of radical left organization on U. S. college campuses (principally the SDS) has doubled since the 1965 study (26% to 46% of campuses surveyed), membership remains about constant (2% of total U. S. enrollment of 6.7 million).
2. An additional 8 to 10% of college students are considered sympathetic to the "movement for social change" and can be temporarily activated, depending on the issue.
3. The most frequently protested issues during the present study were Vietnam; dormitory rules, civil rights and student participation in college government, in that order. In 1965 the leading issues (in order) were: civil rights, campus food and Vietnam.
4. Civil rights activism has declined significantly. White student activists appear to be leaving the continuing civil rights battle to Negro activists.
5. American policy in Vietnam, the matter of greatest concern to protesters in the recent study, involved only about 5% of the students on the eight hundred and sixty campuses surveyed.

Though present radical left dissent is still a minority phenomenon the impact is regarded large concludes the survey.

has disappeared as well as the bizarre mode of dress. In a recent press interview she termed the Democratic Convention demonstrations in Chicago "really filthy." She disavows the Black Panther militant philosophy, and thinks "the Panthers are getting away with murder." Miss BAEZ labels student demonstrations on college campuses "downright silly" and "irrelevant." "There might be a time and a reason for campus demonstrations but I haven't seen it yet." The only "in" thing believes Miss BAEZ is resistance to the draft which is the beginning of the end of armies.

Miss BAEZ's husband David HARRIS former Stanford University student body president and co-founder of the RESISTANCE, a nation-wide anti-draft movement continues active. HARRIS is currently appealing a three-year prison sentence for refusing induction into the army.

Free Campus, described as a non-political, non-partisan organization, has been formed at the University of California, Santa Barbara - dedicated to combat political extremists on the campus by enlisting the support of the "rational, serious majority of students"- who believe that changes on campus should be brought about through the established due process.

CALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES OF POSSIBLE INTEREST

"Asterisked" items are either being reported for the first time or contain additional or changed information on previously reported activities.

*Soviet plans for a meeting of Communist Parties in Moscow next year ran into further delays in Budapest 20 November at a conference of sixty-seven world parties.

Several delegations expected that a Hungarian compromise proposal to hold another preparatory meeting in Moscow in March to plan for a Communist conference would win general backing. But throughout the day more delegates sought the right to speak on the Hungarian and other proposals and the conference was expected to continue for at least another day.

The debates during the last three days appear to have produced three groupings: the Moscow-led group that wishes to fix a firm date early next year; those who think more time is needed to heal bitterness caused by the Czechoslovakian invasion; and those who believe a meeting should be held after 1969.

At a conference of the Black Panther Party attended last weekend in San Francisco by people from throughout the U. S., Bobby SEALE, national chairman, talked of D-day and #1 day, when the BPP is going to strike all over the country at the same time.. Actual targets were not revealed.

Expansion into more cities continues as does the acquisition of firearms. Activity and statements of BPP leaders and members seems to be getting increasingly militant and violent. It is rumored that Eldridge CLEAVER will be spirited out of the country rather than permit his return to jail on November 27.

On 20 November, California's highest court refused to hear an appeal by CLEAVER from a lower court decision that revoked his parole from a state prison. The effect of the action was that the BPP leader will have to return to state prison Wednesday as a parole violator. CLEAVER's defense attorney said he would appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court.

- November 15-Dec. 25 *Mobile, Alabama - The Mobile County Civil Rights Movement (MCCM) and the Neighborhood Organized Workers (NOW) announced plans for a "Black Christmas" and a "gift-buying boycott" of white merchants until Christmas - protesting the unfair hiring practices of downtown merchants.
- November 23-27 *Ft. Bragg, North Carolina - The Southern Student Organizing Committee (SSOC) from the Durham-Chapel Hill area plans to hold anti-war activities. Plans indicate some 30-40 students from Duke and the University of North Carolina will attempt to contact and distribute literature to military personnel - with the John F. KENNEDY Special Warfare Center the primary target.
- November 24 St. Louis, Missouri - The New Democratic Coalition - dissidents whose protests splintered the Democratic Party before the election - plan to meet to prepare for a national "founding conference" in March 1969 - to organize to fight for control of the party.
- November 25 *Concord, New Hampshire - Approximately 100-500 persons are expected to demonstrate in protest of welfare payments and benefits. The sponsor is reported to be affiliated with the Poor People's Campaign and the New Hampshire Committee for Peace in Vietnam.
- November 25 *New York City - The National Council of American-Soviet Friendship is sponsoring its annual November celebration, this one a Rally for Peace and Friendship at Town Hall to celebrate: 35th Anniversary of Diplomatic Relations USA-USSR; and 51st Anniversary of the Founding of the Soviet Union. Soviet and American speakers and entertainment.
- November 25-Dec. 2 The National Welfare Rights Organization (NWRO), a militant "welfare rights" group which claims 30,000 members in seventy cities has proclaimed this period as "national get it week." The highlight will be Thanksgiving Day, November 28, when welfare recipients will stage demonstrations to say "No thanks, America" for the inadequate dole they get.

NWRO announced a December "spend-the-rent" campaign in which welfare clients would keep their rent money to spend on basic needs not covered in their relief checks.

November 27

*Northridge, California - The Brown Berets, BPP, Black Student Union, and SDS have scheduled a "Free Speech" rally in the area of San Fernando State College.

November 28

South Bend, Indiana - The National Student Association Convention on White Racism is scheduled on this date. The University of Maryland formed a Campus Coalition Against Racism (CCAR) in early October. The research that will emanate from the CCAR will be used to represent the University of Maryland at the NSA Convention.

December 1968

*Author Norman MAILER, will appeal his conviction on charges of unseemly and disorderly conduct during the October 1967 peace march on the Pentagon. Sentenced to five days in jail by a U. S. Commissioner, the appeal will be to the 4th U. S. Court of Appeals.

November 29-Dec. 1

A Hemispheric Conference to End the War in Vietnam will apparently meet in Montreal to develop coordination against U. S. intervention in Vietnam and the Americas.

November 29-Dec. 1

Chicago, Illinois - The Young Socialist Alliance (youth section of the Socialist Workers Party) has called for a national convention of Revolutionary Socialists over the Thanksgiving weekend.

December 1-5

Princeton, New Jersey - It can be anticipated that the U. S. A. will be soundly chastised as well as praised when more than eighty leading intellectuals from throughout the world will gather at the Institute for Advanced Studies to assess many of the problems that will confront the next American President.

Plans for the five-day seminar on "The U. S. - Its problems, Impact and Image in the World" were to be announced on 28 October in London and in Paris by Shepard STONE, President of the International Association for Cultural Freedom. - The Association is a private organization of scholars, writers, and men of public affairs that is receiving financial support from the Ford Foundation.

December 2

*Mark RUDD, leader of the student rebellion at Columbia University last spring is scheduled for a pre-induction physical examination. RUDD, head of the Columbia Chapter of the SDS and outspoken Vietnam War protester has appealed his 1-A classification on the grounds that he is a "revolutionist." Demonstrations in support of RUDD's draft resistance stance can be anticipated.

December 2

Oakland, California - The April 6, 1968, "Shoot-out Crowd" of the Black Panther Party have had their trial set for 2 December. Eldridge CLEAVER, Minister of Information of the BPP is one of the six defendants. All pleaded innocent to a variety of charges stemming from the shoot-out with the Oakland Police Department in Oakland.

December 3

*Jerry RUBIN, Youth International Party (YIPPIE) leader, accused of soliciting mob action during the Democratic National Convention last August will be tried in criminal court (Chicago). Sympathy demonstrations during the trial are probable. On 18 November RUBIN was ordered to remain in Illinois until his trial.

December 5

*New York City - The GUARDIAN, self-styled independent radical newspaper, holds its 20th anniversary celebration at the Fillmore East.

GUARDIAN says - "Some of the best known figures on the radical left will join in celebrating the GUARDIAN's 20th birthday in New York, Thursday, December 5. It promises to be one of the most politically important meetings of the year."

Speakers include: H. Rap BROWN, former Chairman of SNCC; Herbert MARCUSE, Professor at University of California; and Carl OGLESBY, former President of SDS.
Chairman of the meeting: Bernadine DOHRN, SDS organizational secretary.
Entertainment: Pete SEEGER.

Acting General Manager William ROSE will speak on behalf of the GUARDIAN. He will discuss the GUARDIAN's role in the development of an effective radical movement and his experiences in Cuba and No. Korea, from which he recently returned.

November 21

*San Francisco, California - On the West Coast, GUARDIAN's 20th birthday will be celebrated at the Hall of Flowers, Golden Gate Park. Speakers include Eldridge CLEAVER, Minister of Information of the BPP, and the GUARDIAN's William ROSE. They will discuss: "Revolution: the U. S. and the Third World." ROSE will speak on his recent trip to No. Korea and will show a film, "The Pueblo and Its Crew."

December 7 and 8

Task Force - the underground newsrag published in San Francisco - aimed at servicemen and veterans - carried a notice in its October 25 edition calling for GI actions December 7 and 8: "1. Organize - teach-ins, rallies, marches, discussions, GI dinners, etc. 2. Contact - Local vets, student anti-war groups for assistance. 3. Write - P. O. Box 31268, San Francisco, 94131, so we can inform you of what's happening around the country."

December 8

Tacoma, Washington - The GI-Civilian Alliance for Peace is planning a GI march for December 8, which it hopes will attract 5,000 demonstrators.

December 9

*Although the trial of Sirhan B. SIRHAN, accused of murdering Robert F. KENNEDY, is scheduled to begin December 9, it probably will be postponed until after the first of the year. A hearing is scheduled for the week of November 24 and it is expected that Defense Attorney Russell E. PARSONS will ask for a continuance on the grounds that another attorney coming into the case is still engaged in another trial and will need time to study the SIRHAN case.

December 13

New York City - The National Emergency Civil Liberties Committee annual Bill of Rights dinner is scheduled for the Americana Hotel. The NECLC is the old ECLC rejuvenated with a new name. The old ECLC was cited as a Communist Front in 1956 by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee and in 1959 by HCUA. Featured speakers will be: Dr. Benjamin SPOCK and Dick GREGORY.

Five of the seven witnesses subpoenaed have not been heard and are expected to return. They are David DELLINGER, Rennie DAVIS, Tom HAYDEN, Jerry RUBIN, and Abbie HOFFMAN. Robert GREENBLATT of the NMC and Dr. David YOUNG of the Medical Committee for Human Rights who testified that week were released from their subpoenas but could be summoned back.

Abbie HOFFMAN was convicted in D. C., November 20, of defiling the American Flag by wearing a shirt that looked like one during a Capitol Hill demonstration on 3 October. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 or serve thirty days in jail. Execution of the sentence was deferred pending an appeal.

January 18, 19 & 20

*Washington, D. C. - This period, Saturday through Monday, appears earmarked for considerable activity by various dissident groups who intend to use the Inaugural ceremonial functions as a means to publicize their organizations and causes. As during the Democratic National Convention, the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, the SDS, and the YIPPIES will apparently be in the forefront organizing and participating in demonstrations. They will again be aided and abetted by numerous peace, new-left, student, and hippie groups. The extent of black militant groups participation is not yet predictable but can be expected to be at a higher level than was the case in Chicago.

Organizational and planning activities have been loose and conflicting statements have been surfacing. The items listed below reflect some of the information reported to date.

January 20

The Youth International Party (YIPPIES) announced it will hold a "festival of life" at Washington, D. C., during the Inauguration of the President. Yippies contributed much of the disruptive activity at the Democratic National Convention with their "Festival of Life" there.

January 19 and 20

*Washington, D. C. - On 17 November, the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (NMC) met in D. C. to consider demonstrations during the Presidential Inaugural. The seventy delegates included members of Youth Against War and Fascism (a communist splinter group); SDS; and the Young Socialist Alliance (youth section of the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party). Voting Against disrupting the official inaugural ceremonies, they did decide to demonstrate on both the 19th and the 20th. Committees and plans were to be formed later.

January 20

Rennie DAVIS, NMC leader, recently announced to anti-war protestors that there would be a "massive convergence" of protestors in Washington on Inauguration Day.

January 19

*Washington, D. C. - To avoid a physical confrontation with police, peace groups will hold a counter-inauguration rally the day before NIXON is inaugurated, according to an anti-war spokesman. The rally will be to voice alarm against a continuance by the new administration of President Johnson's foreign policy with regard to Vietnam.

January 19

*Washington, D. C. - The Washington Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam has indicated plans are in the making for a "march on Washington" on the 19th instead of the 20th because it is hoped more will participate on Sunday. Upwards of 150,000 are allegedly expected including a "lot of black people." Committees are being set up all over the country to get people to join the demonstration and to raise money.

January 20

*Washington, D. C. - Asserting its independence from the national governing board, the George Washington University chapter of SDS has decided to plan its own activities for Inaugural Day demonstrations. The chapter membership concluded at a meeting November 14 that a police confrontation will be inevitable because there will be no way of controlling the action of the expected 50,000 demonstrators. Discussion centered around whether President-elect NIXON or the entire electoral system should be the object of protest. The prevailing feeling seemed to be that the demonstrations must be backed by specific ideological contentions. Membership was split between groups favoring direct police confrontation and those opposing it. The majority appeared to be of the latter bent and it was this desire coupled with the feeling that the national leaders will favor confrontation which led the George Washington University chapter to leave itself independent of national policy.

39SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

The Supreme Court has just rejected without comment a legal move aimed at abolishing the HCUA. In a one sentence order, the court let stand a lower court ruling which threw out an effort by three Chicagoans to have the Committee declared unconstitutional because of the way it was set up in 1945 and because of its methods since then.

The three Chicagoans contended that the basic charter setting up the committee violated the Constitution and that the treatment of witnesses infringed on the guarantee of free speech and assembly. The three judge panel in Chicago ruled that the Committee was protected by the clause in the Constitution barring members of Congress from being questioned "in any other place" for anything they say in speech or debate in the House or Senate.

The Black Panther Party, centered in California is reported to be at odds with Ron Karenga, chairman of "US", an extremist black nationalist organization in Los Angeles. It is predicted that there will be a confrontation between the Panthers and Karenga. Reports are allegedly also being made by the Black Panther leadership to push extremist Stanley G. Carichel out of the party. The reason: Carichel is emphasizing black culture rather than a black militancy.

Yet, Carichel has been very active lately in Black Panther Party and Black Student Union activities at San Francisco State College. He is expected to remain in the area for sometime.

At a 1967 party commission meeting in Budapest on 21 November 1967, the Soviet Union overrode the objections of rebels among the Western Communist Parties and won agreement for a meeting of World Communist leaders in Moscow next May.

The commission also agreed to assign an eight party working group to prepare a document outlining the policy of the International Communist Movement in its "struggle against imperialism". The draft will be submitted to the next meeting of the preparatory commission in Moscow, beginning March 17. At the March meeting the draft date for the convening of the world conference will be set.

All Communist Parties, including the Chinese, Yugoslav, and others that have boycotted all the preparatory meetings, are to be invited to take part in the Conference.

On 25 November the Soviet Communist Party in a call in the form of an authoritative policy statement in the party newspaper Pravda, asked that allied parties throughout the world today best copy

publicize in the press and to use the same for the purpose of the Communist Party. The Communist Party is reported to have been active in the Communist Party of the United States on the invasion of Czechoslovakia. The will identified the enemies as the imperialists and the "right-wing" and "left-wing opportunists and splitters who are undermining the Communist and workers' movement".

In party parlance, the left-wing opponents are such forces as Communist China and Cuba, which preach a more militant and revolutionary communism.

Right-wing is the label applied to more nationalist-minded communists, such as the Yugoslavs, Rumanians, and those who favor a less orthodox and less Moscow-oriented interpretation of ideology.

In early November, the Provost Marshal, Ft. MacArthur, California received information from an anonymous caller that certain personnel residing in San Pedro, California who are members of the U.E.F. in this Club have plans to cause destruction before Christmas 1963 at the following installations in California: Ft. MacArthur, Ft. Irwin, March AFB, Norton AFB and Long Beach U.S. Naval Station.

CALENDAR OF ESTIMATED SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES OF POSSIBLE INTEREST FOR THE REMAINDER OF 1963

"Asterisked" items are either being reported for the first time or contain additional or changed information on previously reported activities.

November 15-Dec 25 *Mobile, Alabama - The Mobile County Civil Rights Movement (MCCR) and the Neighborhood Organized Workers (NOW) sponsored "Black Christmas" and "gift-buying boycott" of white merchants until Christmas - to protest the "unfair hiring practices" of downtown Mobile merchants is in progress. The picketting and other activities has resulted in five arrests of colored people to date.

November 25-Dec 2 The National Welfare Rights Organization (NWRO), a militant "welfare rights" group which claims 30,000 members in seventy cities has proclaimed this period as "national get it week." The highlight will be Thanksgiving Day, November 28, when welfare recipients will stage demonstrations to say "No thanks, America" for the inadequate dole they get.

MEMO announced a December "spend-the-rent" campaign in which welfare clients would keep their rent money to spend on basic needs not covered in their relief checks.

November 23

South Bend, Indiana. - The National Student Association Convention on White Racism is scheduled on this date. The University of Maryland formed a Campus Coalition Against Racism (CCAR) in early October. The research that will emanate from the CCAR will be used to represent the University of Maryland at the NSA Convention.

November 29

*The War Resisters League, a pacifist group, is sponsoring a demonstration to urge individuals to refuse to pay the 10% tax on phone bills. It is proposed that these individuals purchase money orders with the unpaid tax money and send them to the Canadian Friends Service Committee, a pacifist group, to purchase medical supplies for North and South Vietnam.

November 28-Dec.1.

*Chicago, Illinois. - The National Convention of the Young Socialist Alliance (youth division of the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party) will be held at the campus of the University of Chicago on Thanksgiving weekend. Young socialists from across the country will assemble. "All who support the International Revolutionary Socialist Movement are invited to attend the convention." NSA national headquarters states, "This convention is shaping up to be the largest convention ever held of the young socialist movement in the history of the U.S." It will set the course for the young-socialist movement for the coming months.

The YSA says the convention will feature an international panel of revolutionary socialists from England, France, Germany, Mexico, Canada, and a panel of active-duty-anti-war GI's.

Although State Department visa policy may prevent the appearance of some, among the notables expected to be there are:

Enric ALLI, a principal organizer of the October 27th London Demonstration;

a leader of the Mexican student strike;

a former leader of the now banned organization of the Revolutionary Communist Youth (JCR) of France;

Leaders of the German Socialist Students Federation (SDS);

Members of the Canadian Socialist League (Ligue des Jeunes Socialistes);

George NOWAK, renowned marxist author and lecturer.

November 27-Dec 1

Montreal, Canada - A Hemispheric Conference to End the War in Vietnam will meet to develop "coordinated resistance strategy against U.S. foreign policy of imperialism and neo-imperialism in the attempt to police the whole world and make it safe for capitalist exploitation." "Latin America is likely to be the next locus of 'police action'." "U.S. imperialism is a hemispheric problem - the strategy for change must be equally hemispheric."

Among those scheduled to participate:

Dr. Cheddi JAGAN, leader of People's Progressive Party in Guyana, former Prime Minister.

The Ft. Hood Three - Dennis HORA, James JOHNSON, David SIMS - The first GI's to resist assignment to Vietnam and recently released from prison and discharged from the U.S. Army.

Representatives of the National Liberation Front - Hoang Bich Son and Huynh Van Bin

Representatives of Democratic Republic of Vietnam -

Prof. Hoang Minh Giem - member of parliament - Le

Duy Van - Secretary of Vietnam Peace Committee

Wilfred Purchett - Communist supporting news correspondent and author.

November 30

The Vietnam Week Committee, which is controlled by the Young Socialist Alliance, a communist group, plans to distribute antiwar leaflets at the Army-Navy football game.

December 1968

Author Herman WILDER, will appeal his conviction on charges of unseemly and disorderly conduct during the October 1967 peace march on the Pentagon. Sentenced to five days in jail by a U.S. Commissioner, the appeal will be to the 4th U.S. Court of Appeals.

December 2

Washington, D.C. - The Local Emergency Committee on The Transportation Crisis (LECTC) has called for a Total boycott of D.C. transit from 5:AM through the P.M. rush hours as part of Washington Transportation Crisis Week to protest the recent fare hike. The LECTC continues to take a threatening and militant stand concerning both the DC Transit Co. and proposed freeways for D.C.

December 1-5

Princeton, New Jersey - It can be anticipated that the U.S.A. will be soundly chastised as well as praised when more than eighty leading intellectuals from throughout the world will gather at the Institute for Advanced Studies to assess many of the problems that will comment the next American President.

Plans for the five-day seminar on "The U.S. - Its problems, Impact and Image in the World" were to be announced on 20 October in London and in Paris by Shepard STONE, President of the International Association for Cultural Freedom. The Association is a private organization of scholars, writers, and men of public affairs that is receiving financial support from the Ford Foundation.

December 2

Frank RUDD, leader of the student rebellion at Columbia University last spring, is scheduled for a pre-induction physical examination. RUDD, head of the Columbia Chapter of the SDS and outspoken Vietnam War protester has appealed his I-A classification on the grounds that he is a "revolutionist." Demonstrations in support of RUDD's draft resistance stance can be anticipated.

December 2

Oakland, California - The April 6, 1968, "shoot-out crowd" of the Black Panther Party have had their trial set for 2 December. Eldridge CLEAVER, Minister of Information of the BPP is one of the defendants. All pleaded innocent to a variety of charges stemming from the shoot-out with the Oakland Police Department in Oakland.

December 2

New York City, New York - On November 22, Adam Clayton POWELL's parole on a pending northern jail sentence of 90 days for criminal contempt of court was extended until 2 December. Unless either the appellate division or the Court of Appeals extends the stay again, POWELL will be subject to arrest in the state. If he fails to surrender, the court will institute an additional contempt proceeding against him. POWELL, who was easily reelected to the House of Representatives on November 5, is expected to return to his seat in January 1969 after having been excluded for "gross misconduct." Whether he will be seated with full seniority - if at all - is a moot question.

December 3

Jersey RUBIN, Youth International Party (YIPPIE) leader, accused of soliciting mob action during the Democratic National Convention last August will be tried in criminal court (Chicago). Sympathy demonstrations during the trial are probable. On 15 November RUBIN was ordered to remain in Illinois until his trial.

December 5

New York City - The GUARDIAN, self-styled independent radical newspaper, holds its 20th anniversary celebration at the Fillmore East.

GUARDIAN says - "One of the best known figures on the radical left will join in celebrating the GUARDIAN's 20th birthday in New York, Thursday, December 5. It promises to be one of the most politically important meetings of the year."

Speakers include: H. Roy BROWN, former Chairman of SNCC; Herbert MARCUSE, Professor at University of California; and Carl OGLESBY, former President of SDS.
Chairman of the meeting: Bernadine DUBRE, SDS organizational secretary.
Entertainment: Pete SEDGWICK

Acting General Manager William ROSE will speak on behalf of the GUARDIAN. He will discuss the GUARDIAN's role in the development of an effective radical movement and his experiences in Cuba and No. Korea, from which he recently returned.

December 6

*Baltimore, Maryland - A new date for the trial of H. Roy Brown will be set when Chief Federal Judge Roszel C. Thomson makes his decision relative to an argument made 25 November by BROWN's attorney that the change in venue in Brown's trial on arson and riot charges in Maryland courts violated his constitutional rights.

New York Civil Liberties lawyer, William H. Kunstler, claimed the Constitution guarantees defendants trials in the jurisdictions where they are accused of committing crimes. The trial had been ordered moved from Dorchester County to Hartford County upon request of the state; whereas usually, it is the defendant who pleads for venue change based on the position that a fair trial would be improbable in the locus of the crime or activity.

December 7 and 8

Task Force - the underground newspaper published in San Francisco - aimed at servicemen and veterans - carried a notice in its October 25 edition calling for GI actions December 7 and 8: "1. Organize - teach-ins, rallies, marches, discussions, GI dinners, etc. 2. Contact - local vets, student anti-war groups for assistance. 3. Write - P.O. Box 31263, San Francisco, 94131, so we can inform you of what's happening around the country."

December 8

Tacoma, Washington - The GI-Civilian Alliance for Peace is planning a GI march for December 8, which it hopes will attract 5,000 demonstrators.

December 9

Although the trial of Sirhan B. SIRHAN, accused of murdering Robert F. KENNEDY, is scheduled to begin December 9, it probably will be postponed until after the first of the year. A hearing is scheduled for the week of November 24 and it is expected that Defense Attorney Russell E. PARSONS will ask for a continuance on the grounds that another attorney coming into the case is still engaged in another trial and will need time to study the LINHAN case.

December 13

New York City - The National Emergency Civil Liberties Committee annual Bill of Rights dinner is scheduled for the Americana Hotel. The NECLC is the old NCLC rejuvenated with a new name. The old NCLC was cited as a Communist front in 1956 by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee and in 1959 by HCUA. Featured speakers will be: Dr. Benjamin SPOCK and Dick GREGORY.

Corliss LARSON is chairman of NECLC.

December 21

Washington D.C. - The HCUA subcommittee after holding three days of open hearings into the conduct and connection of some groups and individuals in the DMC disorders is in recess until 21 December. Five of the seven witnesses subpoenaed have not been heard and are expected to return. They are David DILLINGER, Eunice DAVIS, Tom HAYDEN, Jerry RUBIN, and Abbie HOFFMAN. Robert GREENBLATT of the DMC and Dr. David YOUNG of the Medical Committee for Human Rights who testified that week were released from their subpoenas but could be summoned back.

Abbie HOFFMAN was convicted in D.C., November 20, of defiling the American Flag by wearing a shirt that looked like one during a Capitol Hill demonstration on 3 October. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 or serve thirty days in jail. Execution of the sentence was deferred pending an appeal.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Some seventy-five Negro leaders from throughout the United States, including both conservatives and militants, summoned to Washington for an unpublicized meeting with the Director of the Small Business Administration, formed an advisory committee to SBA on problems concerning Negroes in the ghetto.

It is reported that a similar meeting for Spanish-American leaders was scheduled 30 November and that the Negro group plans to assemble again on 20 December. Allegedly some of those invited were reluctant to serve in an advisory capacity to a federal agency and wanted their identities withheld because they felt association with the "establishment" might tarnish their images in the ghetto.

At its 22nd Annual Clinical Convention which opened in Bal Harbour, Florida, on 1 December, the American Medical Association voted to bar racial discrimination in local medical societies and to set up a system of enforcement and also voted to extend an invitation to the nation's doctors of osteopathy to join with the doctors of medicine. The effect will be to open the American health structure more widely to participation by about 20,000 osteopaths and Negro medical physicians.

About 250 representatives of high school underground papers, press services and syndicates, and radio and film-making groups as well as the staffs of many weekly and bi-monthly tabloids met in Madison, Wisconsin, the weekend of 1 December in the first national conference of the "underground press." Regular newsmen were barred from the proceedings.

Setting up two problems - "How we can attack and undermine the mass media?" and "How we can relate to the mass media?", the underground journalists opened a debate that in the end left the two problems still unresolved.

It was clear from the conference, that the hottest new areas of the underground media are the high school papers and the film makers consider themselves as the propaganda arm of the most militant factions of the radical movement.

Probably influenced by the vast amount of pornographic and vulgar material available on most newstands, the loosening standards of TV and radio, and the tremendous growth of the underground media, our once prudent although not prudish college newspapers seem to be succumbing to an urge to make free use of obscenities once seen as graffiti on washroom walls. The phenomenon has been referred to as the filthy speech movement and goes beyond the use of dirty words as it also encompasses verbal imagery that uses many forms of sexual perversion.

Included in the modus operandi of campus dissidents to exert the most influence for their "causes" is to attempt to control either from inside or from without, the most influential of the campus organizations and the campus paper has to be a prime target. A "colorful" means of expression is part and parcel of their articulation on most subjects. Printed obscenities have recently resulted in student-administration confrontations on four campuses, all in the Big Ten. The four-letter syndrome appears to have infected college journalism in all regions of the country. Except for the four Midwestern cases, however, most college papers at the moment seem to have no serious problem with official censorship. Many people wonder why the colleges don't crack down on the student papers. One reason is that many of the papers today are largely or wholly independent.

One more modern phenomenon is the growth of the "guerrilla theater." The name was adopted because the groups use the tactics of guerrilla fighters, that is, they hit and run with emphasis on the shock effect to people. Since early June, "guerrilla" troupes have been springing up on campuses and in cities across the country, staging their surprise extravaganzas on streets and beaches, on the stage of churches and before community groups.

An example of this theater took place in the Chicago loop recently as a crowd was leaving an early showing of the movie "The Green Berets": Four "soldiers" marched down the street and stopped beneath the theater's marquee. "Kill! Kill! Kill!" they shouted. "For What?" asked one. "For Peace!" the others answered in chorus. Suddenly, the four charged two women who had arrived dressed in black pajamas and coolie hats. They kicked and beat the women and smeared them with blood. Some people in the crowd smiled in wan confusion; others looked visibly ill. Then, as quickly as they arrived, the four marched away.

Only later did the shocked moviegoers realize that they had been treated to a piece of "guerrilla theater," performed by a loosely organized band of draft resisters and antiwar protestors known as "Rapid Transit Guerrilla Communications."

The cast of a guerrilla "play" often includes one or two actors planted among a crowd of "straights." Their purpose is to confuse the rest of the crowd - and the authorities. There are purists among guerrilla performers who insist that real guerrilla theatre must leave the victims unaware that they have been put on.

Several troupes are already alleged to be in rehearsal for the Inauguration on January 20.

Plans for an intensive campaign to recruit new members for the Young Socialist Alliance, particularly among high school students, were drafted at the organization's convention in Chicago last weekend. Reportedly, some 900 delegates and observers from 32 states and 8 foreign nations were attending the four-day convention of this MARXIST youth group of the Socialist Workers Party. A spokesman said that vigorous action is planned for university campuses and at the high schools of America in an effort to enlist more students in the struggle to build the Socialist movement in the U. S. and bring down capitalism and imperialism.

Reportedly, assured of a change in the American presidency in January, and encouraged by increasing hopes of a negotiated peace in Vietnam, dozens of young American draft dodgers and deserters who fled to Canada are quietly slipping back home and the flow is beginning to reverse itself. It is estimated that several thousand Americans have fled to Canada since 1964, most of them to dodge the draft, but at least 300 of them soldiers who deserted their units prior to embarkation for Vietnam.

Under existing treaties which cover only those offenses which are crimes on both sides of the border, the youths cannot be extradited. Neither draft dodging nor desertion from the American armed forces is a crime under Canadian statutes.

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

The maximum penalty for draft dodgers back in the states is five years in prison and a $10,000 fine. Deserters chance a court-martial and two years at hard labor. But the race is already on for some to avoid the shame of going home after the fighting has stopped. Timing is of great importance.

On 2 December, Mark RUDD, Columbia SDS leader, was tentatively rejected for military service after a pre-induction physical. He could be ordered back for another exam in thirty days. RUDD had promised at a news conference last week that he would go into the Army and continue his revolutionary activities if found qualified after the physical. He had lost his student deferment after he was suspended from Columbia. His appeal for an occupational deferment as a "revolutionary" was denied.

The first in a series of trials of six Black Panthers accused of attempted murder and assault following a gun fight with Oakland policemen April 6 began in Oakland 2 December. One of the six, Eldridge CLEAVER, is still being sought as a fugitive. He failed to surrender for return to state prison as a parole violator last Wednesday. His trial probably will be scheduled for next year. Despite persistent rumors placing CLEAVER in Canada, Cuba, or Sweden, the search for him is centered in the San Francisco area. Attorney Charles GARRY, who defended BPP leader Huey NEWTON, is attorney for the Panther Group and the Oakland Seven.

The Oakland Seven, young men indicted on felony conspiracy charges for planning last October's STOP THE DRAFT WEEK, also had their trial set for 2 December. As GARRY is defending both groups, one of the trials will have to be postponed.

Black militant Stokely CARMICHAEL and his wife, Miriam MAKEBA, have been moving out of their house in the 5000 block of 16th St., N. W., Washington, D. C., this week. His intended future location has not been revealed and he is being secretive about his intentions. Sources close to CARMICHAEL have indicated the couple is moving to another home in the residential section of N. W. Washington. CARMICHAEL said his destination was secret but that "I'm going to fight and my fight is where black people are. I plan to fight with my black brothers and sisters against Western society and its evils of racism and capitalism."

[REDACTED]

One local columnist alleged CARMICHAEL has shipped his furniture, etc., to the West African nation of Guinea and that he and his wife will follow - that CARMICHAEL is beating it out of the country before the new President gets a chance to indict him.

As confrontations between the BPP and law enforcement officials accelerate and more and more incidents occur, the leaders of the militant BPP in New Jersey have ordered their members to get out of uniform and go underground. "We're walking targets," said the state BPP minister of defense. Unfortunately, uniformed policemen do not have the same option.

The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) which recently ousted Stokely CARMICHAEL and severed its loose ties to the Black Panther Party has just formed a new alliance. Allegedly - in an effort to ward off the mounting repression facing the black communities, SNCC and the National Black Liberators have agreed to a political alliance. The Black Liberators, organized the past summer and based in St. Louis, claims to be organized around political and economic issues, as well as an ideology of self-defense. They are the most militant and publicized group in the St. Louis area and also have created deputy chapters elsewhere in the Midwest. On the local level they have formed coalitions with black and radical white groups in Missouri and Illinois.

To facilitate the alliance on the inter-organizational level, Liberators have agreed to accept positions within SNCC and SNCC leaders will become part of the Black Liberators. Phil HUTCHINGS, H. Rap BROWN, and James FOREMAN have been named General Field Marshal, General of Human Justice and General of Foreign Affairs respectively in the Liberators.

Part of an obvious effort to restrengthen SNCC, HUTCHINGS said last week that the SNCC-Liberator alliance was only the first in a series of alliances by SNCC with community groups.

One of Alabama's leading criminal lawyers has appealed the murder conviction of Marvin FELTON, a Negro, on the grounds that American white racism was responsible for the insanity that justifies a plea of not guilty. FELTON became embroiled in an argument with a white man in a cemetery where several persons were working clearing off the land. As the argument became heated the two brothers hurled racial epithets described as, "nigger," "buck," and "sunshine." At this point Felton threw bricks at the brothers who continued the name calling. Then one of the brothers cried out that he was "going home to get my gun and kill this nigger," and left. FELTON ran home to get his gun, too. When he returned he didn't see the two brothers, and after a few words with fellow workers, he resumed his work. Allegedly then, a few minutes later one of the brothers, William, standing about twelve feet away, armed with a stick, said, "I ain't afraid of your gun, rocks, bullets, or nothing."

FELTON suddenly pulled his gun and shot William squarely between the eyes. The other brother, Joseph, seeing his brother shot, charged FELTON with a claw hammer, but FELTON wheeled about and fired three times into Joseph, killing him, too. The lawyer says that tensions and other racial oppressions placed upon black people in this country by whites were the force that drove FELTON insane.

In contrast to that position, we (editorial) note the strong feelings alleged by many that the Chicago Police Department wrongfully and viciously overreacted to the tensions existing and to the attacks upon them during the Democratic National Convention.

According to the Daily World (Communist newspaper) - an intensified drive against militant black organizations is foreshadowed by the preparations for a "full-scale witchhunt" by the Senate Permanent Investigations Subcommittee against the Black Panther Party. The SNCC and SDS are also on the roster.

The student council of New York University's Washington Square College last week adopted a resolution supporting the National Liberation Front of Vietnam. This is not so surprising when it is noted that a recent election put the Peace and Freedom Party student group in control of thirteen of the sixteen council seats of this 6,000-member college. Voter turnout at the election was slightly over 600. Affiliation with the national party is one of the unique features of the radical Peace and Freedom Party at New York University. For the New York University group this affiliation ties in with the concept that student politics cannot be separated from the society as a whole. By controlling the student council, PFP also controls student government funds. A PFP member stated that "PFP gives less money to clubs like the biology club and more to SDS and the Black Allied Student Association which are the largest activist groups on campus."

[REDACTED]

The cumulative affect of harassment, criticism and tightened control of the Metropolitan Police Department in the District of Columbia, would seem to be reflected in the announcement that recent extensive recruitment advertising similar to that conducted by Fairfax County earlier in the year, had produced only one applicant for the MPD whereas Fairfax County had netted 2,000.

Despite recruitment teams touring the nation's military bases and other recruitment efforts, currently the Department has filled only 64 of the 1,000 vacancies recently authorized by Congress. Not only are a rather small percent of interested Negroes able to meet the eligibility standards but very few are showing any desire for employment by the Department.

Apparently the present total climate is such that the MPD finds it difficult to just maintain its numerical strength. Further deterioration in police-community relations and in the law enforcement atmosphere locally could present an even more serious manpower problem for the Department.

Calendar of Tentatively Scheduled Activities of Possible Interest For the Remainder of 1968.

"Asterisked" items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

While considerable spontaneous or planned activity is likely at high schools and on college campuses during December, other volatile action will probably be reduced until after the first of the year. The militant Negro segment, particularly students; however, seem to be getting more vocal and more demanding. School vacations, the coming Holidays, inclement weather, and a need to re-energize after all the election campaign protests will have their cumulative affect.

Much early planning has begun under the loose leadership of the National Mobilization Committee and the SDS to generate protest actions centered around the January 20th Presidential Inauguration in Washington, D. C.

December 1968

Author Norman MAILER, will appeal his conviction on charges of unseemly and disorderly conduct during the October 1967 peace march on the Pentagon. Sentenced to five days in jail by a U. S. Commissioner, the appeal will be made to the 4th U. S. Court of Appeals.

December 6

Baltimore, Maryland - A new date for the trial of H. Rap BROWN will be set when Chief Federal Judge Roszel C. THOMSEN makes his decision relative to an argument made 25 November by BROWN's attorney that the change in venue in BROWN's trial on arson and riot charges in Maryland courts violated his constitutional rights.

December 7

*Fayetteville, North Carolina - The United-Anti-War Mobilization Front (UAWMF) has announced plans for a mass meeting at the Moorehead Planetarium, Chapel Hill, N. C., where speeches are to be given advocating that GI's be given the right to speak out against the war. The UAWMF hopes to have military personnel present at this meeting and if enough servicemen do attend, UAWMF plans to proceed to Fort Bragg where they will attempt to leaflet the post and talk to soldiers stationed at the post.

December 7

*Tampa, Florida - An anti-war demonstration will be held at Tampa, Florida, by students from nearby colleges.

December 7

*Philadelphia, Pennsylvania - The Student Mobilization Committee has announced that the Ft. Dix Free Speech Movement will sponsor a "GI Teach-In" on the University of Pennsylvania campus. Allegedly, active duty GI's will participate - main topics will be "The War in Vietnam" and "Rights of Citizens in Uniform."

December 7

*Columbia, South Carolina - AWARE, a left-wing student organization at the University of South Carolina has proclaimed 7 December as "GI Peace Day." A rally and demonstration will be attempted on the grounds of the South Carolina State Capitol. Allegedly, efforts will be made to organize soldiers at Ft. Jackson for participation in the demonstration.

December 7 & 8

Task Force - the underground newsmag published in San Francisco - aimed at servicemen and veterans - carried a notice in its October 25 edition calling for GI actions December 7 and 8: "1. Organize - teach-ins, rallies, marches, discussions, GI dinners, etc. 2. Contact - local vets, student anti-war groups for assistance. 3. Write - P. O. Box 31268, San Francisco, 94131, so we can inform you of what's happening around the country."

December 8

*Tacoma, Washington - The GI-Civilian Alliance for Peace plans a GI March and speak-out for soldiers from Ft. Lewis, Washington. It hopes to attract 5,000 demonstrators.

December 10

*Bloomington, Indiana - Alleging that it had come to their attention that CIA was sending recruiters to Indiana University on 9 December, representatives of the SDS, Young Socialist Alliance, New Politics Party, Committee to End the War in Vietnam, and the New University Conference has requested that the Agency dispute the contention of these representatives that CIA should not be permitted to recruit on campus before an open public meeting with radio and press coverage on Tuesday, December 10.

[REDACTED]

December 10

*New York City - The appellate division stayed the jailing of Adam Clayton POWELL for criminal contempt within hours of the 4 p.m. deadline set for his surrender, 2 December. Argument is scheduled 10 December on his appeal from his conviction. He faces a maximum sentence of 90 days.

POWELL's seating in the 91st Congress is still moot. The eight attorneys defending POWELL recently won his plea for a hearing in the Supreme Court on his expulsion from the 90th Congress. The hearing will be placed on the court calendar next January. If seated at all, the question of restoration of his twenty-two years seniority may rest on the Supreme Court decision.

December 12

*Philadelphia, Pennsylvania - Ira EINHORN, a member of the Philadelphia Resistance (PR), announced plans to sponsor a rally at the Young Men's Hebrew Association. The purpose of the rally is to raise money to reimburse the Warlocks motorcycle club which has blamed members of the PR for damaging motorcycles belonging to the Warlocks during a George C. WALLACE for President rally in October 1968. This rally will attract "Hippie" types and the motorcycle groups and could result in a confrontation between the two.

December 13

New York City - The National Emergency Civil Liberties Committee annual Bill of Rights dinner is scheduled for the Americana Hotel. The NECLC is the old ECLC rejuvenated with a new name. The old ECLC was cited as a Communist Front in 1956 by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee and in 1959 by HCUA. Featured speakers will be: Dr. Benjamin SPOCK and Dick GREGORY.

Corliss LAMONT is chairman of NECLC.

December 16

*San Francisco - The trial of Attorney Terence HALLINAN, arising from earlier disturbances on the strife torn San Francisco State College campus, has been set for 16 December. He is charged with battery against a police officer last May.

PROJECT HERRIMACK - Special Report

A meeting sponsored by the Black United Front was held at Franklin P. Nash Methodist Church, U Street and Lincoln Road, N.E., Washington, D.C. on December 4, 1968. There were about seventy-five (75) members present and membership cards were checked at the entrance. Anyone not having the proper membership credential was required to sit in a section of the church, apart from the certified membership, designated for visitors. Acting Chairman was the [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] spoke regarding certain black men whom he categorized as "Progress Progressors" or "Black Buffers". [REDACTED] alleged that these people are trained by the FBI and CIA and are compensated at the rate of $125 to $150 per week to spy on the black people. These "Black Buffers" wear African clothes and they looted and burned to burn buildings during the riot. [REDACTED] indicated that he knows some of these "Buffers" and has been given information about them regarding their training at McKinley and Eastern High Schools by some "big government employee". [REDACTED] interpreted the claim that he had been approached on two occasions by the FBI to act in an undercover capacity.

Other comments of note were made by the following:

[REDACTED] stated he plans to publicly release a statement in which President-elect Nixon will be urged to replace Mayor Washington with another black man and put Congressman Joel T. Dwyer in jail. He also stated "When the revolution comes, all 'Black Buffers' will be killed."

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Black Panther Party leaders gathered in Oakland, California, in mid-November. Among items and policies discussed - amidst indication of much dissension - were: - What action to take re Eldridge CLEAVER's being ordered back to prison. One estimate is that CLEAVER will remain in hiding at various locations around the country and continue to "direct" Black Panther Party operations. - All Black Panther Party members were to arm themselves with heavy caliber weapons and obtain at least one thousand rounds of ammunition for each weapon.

It was mentioned at the meeting that the "Black Power Revolution" would probably occur in 1972, when all conditions were favorable.

It has been alleged that the Black Panther Party is attempting to get a complete roster of all black students registered in the elementary schools in West Oakland. They are going to set up a free breakfast program three days per week for these students. This program will not get started until after Christmas vacations. The Panthers are also holding meetings in which the parents of members are invited to learn what being a Black Panther is about.

The FBI has officially entered the search for missing Black Panther Party leader Eldridge CLEAVER. An FBI affidavit seeking a Federal fugitive warrant contended that CLEAVER's wife, Kathleen, flew to New York City, Sunday, 8 December with $33,000 she had withdrawn from a San Francisco bank account. The affidavit said, "It appears she has transported funds which are the fugitive's property for delivery and probable use outside the state." The issuing of the Federal complaint gives rise to speculation that CLEAVER has left the country.

Reportedly - at a meeting of the Black Panther Party on 7 December in Oakland, California, it was stated that should unattended police cars be located in Oakland and San Francisco they should be wired with explosives. It was also stated that revolution will start when Eldridge CLEAVER comes out of hiding.

The NAACP in Frederick, Maryland, has asked its supporters to boycott sixty-three businesses it claims are owned by people who supported George C. WALLACE in his campaign for President. The manager of the Frederick Chamber of Commerce does not believe the boycott will have a significant economic effect.

As part of a new Movement strategy involving the aggressive use of legal action to defend the Movement and to place the machinery of the Government on the defensive, representatives of sixteen left groups have joined in a suit filed 19 November to challenge the constitutionality of the concentration camp provisions of the McCarran Act. Groups represented include: Women Strike for Peace, National Mobilization Committee, SDS, Southern Conference Educational Fund, Progressive Labor Party, CPUSA, SNCC, and the DuBois Clubs.

The HCUA hearings on the disorders at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago have ended for this year. Acting Chairman Richard ICHORD (D-Mo.) said more hearings may be held next year when he hopes his unit's name will be changed to the House Committee on Internal Security.

Heretofore when the student radical graduated from college he was faced with the reality of life in the environment. Since no suitable forum existed the average SDSer was forced to make a degree of peace with the establishment for the purpose of keeping bread on the table. Hence, with the few exceptions personified by "Newleft" hardcore leaders (such as: Tom HAYDEN, Jerry RUBIN, etc.) the campus revolutionary was neutralized and forced to play the game by the established rules of society.

Signs now emerge that neutralization through graduation may well be changing. At the 1966 National Convention of the SDS the question of formation of a new organization was resolved. The Movement for a Democratic Society (MDS) conceived by the SDS as a post-student radical repository, fared poorly the first year or so. No serious effort was made in 1966 to implement the MDS and therefore only a few groups were started.

In the past year former SDSers have organized MDS groups in many parts of the country. Some groups are organized on occupational lines; some, residential; and some, "specific target."

The MDS chapters (the name varies from group to group) share the anti-imperialist, anti-capitalist philosophy of the SDS but so far as a national entity, have no universal politic. No formal coordination has yet been established between chapters but formation of central policy and planning control can be anticipated. Most of the MDS chapters are small (20 to 30 members) but most feel they are making an important and essential beginning toward a mass new left insurgency in all areas of the society.

MDS is located at 225 Lafayette Street, New York City.

The Daily World, east coast Communist Party newspaper, reported recently the rumor that the Federal Bureau of Investigations (sic) intends to initiate prosecution of Joan BAEZ for her latest anti-Vietnam War action. During a recent concert in California, Miss BAEZ interrupted her performance and called upon her listeners to hand over their draft cards for forwarding to President-elect NIXON. Forty young men responded..

Christmas cards are being sold this season by the following organizations: Women Strike for Peace, CORE, Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, Fellowship of Reconciliation and the NAACP. Most have a special theme or motif which corresponds to the organization's ostensible aims.

Calendar of tentatively scheduled activities of Possible Interest for the remainder of 1968.

"Asterisked" items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

- December 13 *New York City - The National Emergency Civil Liberties Committee (the old cited Emergency Civil Liberties Committee under a new name) is to hold its annual Bill of Rights dinner at the Americana Hotel.
- December 12 & 13 *Kingston, Rhode Island - An unidentified group of students at the University of Rhode Island plan to hold demonstrations which will be directed against DOW Chemical Company recruiters.
- December 15 *A one-hour documentary supporting the views of dissenters at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago will be televised on WNEW-TV (Channel 5) in New York City, Sunday at 9 p.m. It will also be carried by the Metro-media Stations in Washington, Los Angeles, Kansas City, and San Francisco. Stations in areas served by Metro-media stations will be permitted to rebroadcast the program twenty-four hours after its original telecast on the Metromedia outlet.
- The program will be divided into two segments - the first forty-five minutes of which will be presented by the American Civil Liberties Union and the National Mobilization Committee, and the final fifteen minutes by the Youth International Party (YIPPIES).
- December 13 & 20 *Pullman, Washington - The Pullman Citizens for Peace in Vietnam were to hold silent vigils at Pullman, Washington, on 6, 13, and 20 December to protest the war in Vietnam.
- December 15 *New York City - The American Committee for Protection of Foreign Born is sponsoring a "Stop Police State - Fight Back" rally at the Penn Garden Hotel. This date is the 177th anniversary of the Bill of Rights.

December 10

*San Francisco - The trial of leftist attorney Terence HALLINAN on a battery charge, arising from his part in earlier disturbances on the strife torn San Francisco State College campus.

December 16-19

*Northridge, California - Members of SDS and the Black Student Union (BSU) have announced that they will hold daily rallies on the campus of San Fernando Valley State College in support of seven students arrested on 4 November for seizing a building.

On 19 December, SDS and BSU will march to the Los Angeles Municipal Court to give support to the seven students during their preliminary hearing.

December 20

*Rufus (Catfish) MAYFIELD, former leader of Pride, Inc., at Washington, D. C., has been indicted in connection with the April riots. The indictment included two counts of interfering with a police officer and one count of engaging in a riot. Maximum penalty on all three counts is eleven years in prison and $11,000 fine. MAYFIELD will be arraigned in U. S. District Court, on or about December 20.

There have been 260 indictments in connection with the April riots in Washington.

At a recent speech given by MAYFIELD at George Washington University, a spectator reports that during an altercation, MAYFIELD's shirt was torn open revealing a concealed pistol carried in a shoulder holster.

December 20-27

*Included in the "Declaration of Montreal" (the statement issued by the 1800 delegates and participants in the three-day Hemispheric Conference to End the War in Vietnam) was an action program including:

Organize a week of solidarity with the Vietnamese people in all countries of the Western Hemisphere on 20 December, the anniversary of the founding of the National Liberation Front of South Vietnam.

December 23

*If, Eldridge CLEAVER, Black Panther Party leader currently a fugitive as a parole violator, fails to appear in Alameda County Superior Court for the setting of a trial date on charges growing out of the shoot out in Oakland in April between Black Panthers and the Oakland police, the $50,000 bail put up for him could be forfeited.

The $5,000 premium fee for his bond was paid for by various donations but six of his supporters signed affidavits promising payment of the $50,000 if he does not appear.

Included are: Godfrey CAMBRIDGE, the Negro Comedian; Edward KEATING, lawyer and former publisher of RAMPARTS magazine; and Dr. Philip SHAPIRO, a San Francisco physician and an active supporter of the Black Panther Party.

December 27-29

*Chicago, Illinois - The Socialist Workers Party (SWP) is sponsoring an anti-war conference calling it a "GI-Civilian Conference." At the Conference a date will be set for a massive spring demonstration led by "thousands of GI's in many cities."

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORTRpt #29

Faced again with student unrest the French have adopted a decided "get tough" policy. The French Government has just decreed the restoration of severe disciplinary power to university rectors authorizing them to transfer or expel student troublemakers in cases where the school is closed down by student riot. The focal point is the French college at Nanterre (Paris suburban sister school of the Sorbonne and part of the University of Paris) where the general French student revolt was ignited last May. University reform laws have been enacted but since France has experienced a sluggish return to full academic life since the May revolt, disciplinary councils (created in the reform act) have not been fully implemented. The decreeing of powers to college administrators is therefore temporary and designed to keep the campus peace until the effect of the reform law can be felt.

The French experience tends to personify the continental academic control philosophy. In Spain, the asserting of government authority, quite predictably, has been swifter and harsher than in France. Germany, though, relatively quiet in recent weeks, faces the continuing delicate problem of advancing the principal of government rule and order of the academic community (as well as in all segments of the political & social life) while seeming and in fact acting "unNAZI". The political pressures of the several European nations tend to complex and differentiate the internal problems faced by each. Where France, for example, must deal with the influential political left, the Germans must look left and right.

While the order of the day in Europe can be generally (and oversimplified) defined as tough, the manner domestically of dealing with the new-left and racially oriented student upheavals is one of pacification and conciliation. Although the recent confrontation at San Francisco State College appears forceful and hardboiled beneath the surface, the College Administration has gone a long way toward bringing about campus tranquility by meeting most of the demands of the dissidents. Those teachers and students who remain at odds with SFSC are for the most part, radical, racial militants and new-left anarchists and nihilists. Demands of the reasonable and rational have been satisfied.

City College of New York, once called "The Little Red School-house" has experienced an optimistic "backlash" phenomenon. The radicals at CCNY have gone too far, believes Bernard WEINRAUB writing in the New York Times. A month ago, a small radical group on the CCNY campus blocked recruitment of engineers. The Engineering Employment Candidates reacted furiously. They held rallies, called for a resumption of interviews, threatened to confront the radicals and engaged in several brief scuffles. Fearing violence, the Administration resumed interviews. The radicals failed to renew demonstrations. "Stop SDS" buttons are now seen on campus. A decided step backward for the college new left. An SDS member at CCNY theorized that the demonstration hit the engineers in the wallets, hence the failure of the demonstration to muster wide student support.

The Harvard approach has been to stop student unrest before it starts by anticipating and introducing programs to satisfy demands before they are demanded. In September the Harvard Sociology Department introduced a "radical" credited subject (both in content and in educational philosophy). The course, Social Relations 148, is attended by over 300 Harvard students in a number of small classes. The discussion format encourages student participation and many of the sessions are led by undergraduates. The subject matter runs the gambet from Mao to Dullas. The recommended reading list draws heavily from the literature of the new-left and militant negro. Discussion topics might be "what will be the role of the Government after the revolution" or will the State wither away, as Marx has written, after the workers control the means of production. Although SR 148 was originally intended for only the fall term, students are now demanding that it be continued in the spring. It seems a rather easy demand to meet.

[REDACTED] [REDACTED]

In a six page report the New York NAACP stated more police protection is necessary for negroes because they are the most frequent victims of crime. The NAACP report, prepared by an executive committee, called the store looter a "hood" not a Robin Hood and recommended swifter and sterner measures in criminal prosecution. Vincent BAKER, Chairman of the New York NAACP anti-crime Committee said that the organization continues to oppose police brutality "but it is not police brutality that makes people afraid to walk the streets at night". Police brutality is being "superceded by criminal brutality" said Mr. BAKER. In the report the NAACP recommends specific (and stiff) punishment for specific crimes. Two Washington, D.C. newspapers editorially endorse the report and commend it to their readership.

The Washington, D.C. Black United Front has also declared war on crime along with a demand for Statehood for Washington, D.C., a black police chief, and the arrest of Joel T. Broyhill. The Front proposes to address itself to the crime situation in the District as it effects black people perpetrating crimes against other black people. The Front will try to stop black people from killing, raping, and selling dope to other black people. No mention of these crimes committed against white people was made by the spokesmen for the Black United Front.

Whitney M. YOUNG, Executive Director of the Urban League, has announced a two million dollar program to build economic, social, and political muscle in 21 black communities across the country. The Washington, D.C. Chapter has been funded with $40,000.00 and plans to create community-owned commercial and industrial enterprises. Further, Urban League will organize political action teams in Washington, D.C. A full time professional economic developer will be employed whose role will be to develop a 10 year "Marshall Plan" aimed at creating such things as a consumer co-op, a workers co-op and a nonprofit housing corporation. Sterling TUCKER, Executive Director of the D.C. Urban League, is in charge of the $2,000,000 program.

Two wives of negro militants have gained attention in recent days. Kathleen CLEAVER, wife of Black Panther Eldridge CLEAVER, who is presently being sought by the FBI as a fugitive may be charged under federal law with harboring a fugitive. Mrs. CLEAVER reportedly withdrew $33,000.00 from a San Francisco bank for her husband's use. CLEAVER disappeared November 25th, 2 days before he was scheduled to return to prison as a parole violator.

Miriam MAKEBA, South African folk singer, complains that since her marriage to Stokely CARMICHAEL last April she has been unable to obtain bookings either on television or in prominent night clubs, and theaters.

Guerrilla, an underground publication, recently proposed that in January 1969, independent revolutionaries hold a "Congress for Cultural Revolution."

"The Congress should be organized to include the independent revolutionary media, various representatives of the underground communities, and other independent revolutionary organizations and individuals who are interested in total cultural revolution whether they be activists, anarchists, poets and artists, or socialists.

(1) The red and black should attempt to formulate a broad program of cultural revolution which includes an analysis of the tasks facing cultural revolutionaries from the point of view of the ecology, morphology and cybernetics as well as from the more traditional revolutionary informations.

(2) Polarize the underground. The CIA and other intelligence agencies have begun to consciously infiltrate the cultural revolution via grants, fake poetry projects, magazines and the usual fronts.

GUERRILLA believes it is necessary to name and define the counter-cultural revolution so that a conscious federation of cultural revolution may be built.

(3) The Congress should attempt to formulate its own 4-year plan of cultural revolution. Social revolution as a weapon of cultural revolution.

Those interested in helping to organize a national CONGRESS FOR CULTURAL REVOLUTION may write GUERRILLA."

January 2-10

*At a meeting in Kalamazoo, Michigan on 15-17 November the National Interim Committee of the SDS proclaimed 2-10 January to be SDS Days of Solidarity with the Cuban Revolution. SDS is planning to send a small official delegation to Cuba at that time. Additionally, during Solidarity week, SDS plans other activities including the presentation of films, educational programs and possibly demonstrations

January 6

*D.C. - Oral arguments will be heard by the 1st U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals on behalf of anti-draft conspiracy convicted Dr. Benjamin Spock and the three other convicted defendants. Written appeal briefs have been filed.

January 7

*Los Angeles, California - The trial of Sirhan B. Sirhan for the murder of Sen. R.F. Kennedy has been postponed until 7 January. The delay from 9 December was granted to permit a new member of the defense team, Attorney Grant B. Cooper, to study the case. The trial will be held in a steel-plated court room with closed circuit television for reporters. There will not be any public television.

January 9

*Evanston, Illinois - SDS at Northwestern University plans to demonstrate to protest CIA recruiting on the campus. An SDS leader has stated that he feels the demonstration will be "obstructive in nature."

January 18

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania - The Black Liberation Alliance, formed October 18-20 at Columbus, Ohio, by 50 dissatisfied members of CORE from five states will hold its first convention. Temporary officers were elected at Columbus. It was decided that the organization will strive for basic social, economic, and political change in the U.S.A. rather than reform. It will seek racial separation, black nationalism, and the formation of a separate black nation within the boundaries of the U.S.

January 21

*New Orleans, Louisiana - Clay L. Shaw is to go on trial in the Orleans Parish Criminal District Court on charges of conspiring to assassinate President John F. KENNEDY. This case has been in an "on and off" status for a long time but does appear to actually be going to trial this time. Controversial District Attorney Jim GARRISON was quoted as saying, "The moment of truth has arrived in this case. Even if I am killed, the Clay Shaw case will go to trial."

240SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Eldridge Cleaver, Black Panther Minister of Information, sought since November 27 for failing to surrender as a parole violator is also in trouble with Internal Revenue Service. Cleaver who earned an incredible $100,000.00 plus during 1968 now faces a tax lien of nearly $60,000.00.

Though Cleaver's whereabouts remains a mystery, his wife in a recent press interview hinted that he is still in the United States and probably in the New York City area. It is believed that Cleaver will probably try to exit the U.S. In recent statements both before college audiences (where he earned at least up to $1500.00 for a speaking engagement, plus transportation for himself and usually a healthy number of body guarding cronies) and to the press, Cleaver has expressed both fear and determination in connection with his return to prison. Since Cleaver is at his four letter word best on the dissident rostrum as a confirmed and dedicated rabblouser, he cannot remain silent for long. If he is successful in escaping the U.S. where he will go remains anybody's guess. Cuba perhaps, but Cuba would not facilitate continued earnings for speaking engagements - Europe would. Cleaver, most assuredly, has now become accustomed to the comforts money can provide and Europe always has room for one more powerful voice from the left. The fact that he is both American and black would add to a European forum. Danny (the Red) Cohn-Bendit and (Red) Rudi Dutschke as well as others would probably welcome Eldridge (the Black) to the cause of international trouble-making.

A spokesman for the nineteen remaining negro students at Oshkosh State University (Wisconsin) states that no negroes will be registered at the University at the conclusion of the present semester.

The November 4th riot and take over of San Fernando Valley State College by The Black Student Union has resulted in twenty-eight indictments ranging from assault to kidnapping by a Los Angeles grand jury. No trial date has as yet been set.

In late November the CIA recruiter on the campus of Washington University at St. Louis precipitated a new tactic by SDS'ers. At a meeting held on 22 November, five individuals volunteered to photograph all students who spoke with the recruiter. The interviewees would then be told that their photograph would be sent to countries not friendly with the U.S.

This is the first time this procedure by dissidents has been observed. Since it must be conceded to be an ingenious harassment tactic, the photo threat will probably be repeated on other campuses.

*The Quaker Action Group (pacifist) who sponsored a demonstration at the Allentown (Pennsylvania) Prison Farm at Lewisburg on 20 December will travel to Buffalo, New York on the 31st to demonstrate at the "Peace Bridge" in support of war resisters presently living in Canada.

January 1969

A dissident faction of the American Independent Party has announced that it has taken steps to form a continuing national organization. A temporary national committee was formed by 150 representatives from fourteen states at a two-day convention in El Segundo, California, recently.

The Committee's main objectives would be "assistance to all state parties in preserving their ballot qualifications and retentions of the A.I. P. as a legally constituted national party." The committee will meet early in 1969 in Tulsa, Oklahoma, to form a regular national committee.

January 2-10

At a meeting in Kalamazoo, Michigan on 15-17 November, the National Interim Committee of the SDS proclaimed 2-10 January to be SDS Days of Solidarity with the Cuban Revolution. SDS is planning to send a small official delegation to Cuba at that time. Additionally, during Solidarity week, SDS plans other activities including the presentation of films, educational programs and possibly demonstrations.

January 3-9

*A new left symposium will be held on the Northwestern University campus on the above dates. The symposium is planned to bring together national new left leaders including:

- Tom Hayden, SDS, founder and theorist
- Carl Oglesby, of Ramparts magazine
- Mike Herrington, SDS leader
- Dick Gregory, erstwhile Presidential candidate of the Peace and Freedom Party
- Jesse Jackson, of Operation Breadbasket

[REDACTED]

A large number of New Lefters from many areas are expected to be in attendance. The CIA recruiter who was scheduled to be on the Northwestern campus is expected to move his activity to the Chicago Federal building and conduct interviews by appointment.

January 6

January 17-20

*All information available to TAB/SAD regarding possible disruption of the Presidential inaugural ceremonies by dissident organizations will be provided in the Situation Information Report distributed during the week of 6 January 1969. The delay in issuing this information is based on the fact that for the past six weeks numerous changes in the plans of various organizations have appeared in source material. It is hoped that the Situation Information Report issued during the week of 6 January 1969 will be both comprehensive and reasonably accurate. The following article, however, reported in its entirety from the Drew Pearson column appearing in the 24 December 1968 edition of the Washington Post is considered too hot to hold.

"Inaugural Trouble": Washington will have an extremely touchy job during the forthcoming Inaugural to prevent demonstrations and disruptions by militants. Extraordinary precautions are already under way. The city is flooded with undercover men, not only from the police and the Secret Service but from the CIA and the FBI. Crowd control aid has been sought from Philadelphia and Baltimore police for Inaugural duty.

Chief worry is over the dissident underground. Information indicates that they're eyeing as excellent bonfire material the lumber piles with which the Inaugural stands are being built. The idea now is that the grandstands might be burned down the night before the parade.

There's also some talk of the dissidents requesting officially that a section of the parade be set aside for marchers who object to Nixon's Inaugural. This might be done as a part of the regular parade in exchange for a pledge not to riot.

The entire Inauguration is in the extremely capable hands of Willard Marriott, head of the Hot Shoppes and Marriott Motels. He knows the Capital like a book, but is also aware that he has plenty of headaches.

January 21

New Orleans, Louisiana - Clay L. Shaw is to go on trial in the Orleans Parish Criminal District Court on charges of conspiring to assassinate President John F. KENNEDY. SPECIAL SITUATION REPORT

Stanford University, a prestigious school of some 11,300 students, located on a beautiful campus in Palo Alto, California, has sometimes been called the "Harvard of the West." Despite its serene setting and its largely middle and upper class white student body, it has not been without its turmoil and problems, particularly in recent months. The number of minority group members studying and working at Stanford has been increasing and 15 percent of the incoming freshmen in the 1968 fall quarter were minority group members: 5-7 percent Oriental, 5 percent Negro, etc. Although minority groups have been involved in some of the campus strife, most of the action has been by white students and usually lead by the Stanford SDS Chapter supported by some faculty members and/or outsiders.

For months Stanford SDS attempted to mobilize students around the issues of the University's involvement with the War in Vietnam through Government research contracts and by focusing attacks on members of the Board of Trustees, who are connected with large corporations that deal in Defense contracts, and on the SRI which does some war related research for the military. Reputedly, next to MIT, Stanford handles the greatest amount of defense contracts, and this has been an important issue for use by the radicals in their incessant accelerating attack on the "Establishment" and the "industrial-military" complex.

Disruption and abrasive tactics began in November 1967 with a demonstration against CIA recruiters. Suspensions were levied against several of the more prominent agitators. In May 1968 students sat-in at the Administration Building in protest over the penalties and were successful in having them lifted.

The majority of the students strongly condemn coercive tactics and campus disruption and radicals have not been able to significantly radicalize the liberals and moderates. The students voted for "Open Job" recruiting including CIA in May 1968. The Young Americans for Freedom and Young Republicans have staged orderly anti-demonstrations to leftist group actions and formed a coalition of campus conservatives calling itself "The Community of the Right."

SDS lacked popular campus support but continued their harassment campaign. They violently disrupted a Board of Trustees meeting in January 1969. In February the BSU caused disorder in the cafeteria and bookstore.

Activity increased in April with an all-night vigil which escalated to occupation of the Applied Electronics Laboratory. The occupation lasted for nine days and demands for an end to campus war research. Stanford's new President, Kenneth PITZER had warned the students that Federal troops might be used to protect the secret Government files in the building. PITZER has spoken strongly against the Vietnam War and has said he'd prefer Stanford had no classified research. The Board of Trustees has asked the Stanford Research Institute not to enter into new contracts for chemical and biological warfare research for the time being. Under pressure from students and faculty, the board also agreed to consider severing all ties with the SRI and to amend the relationship.

A student meeting was reportedly to be held on 25 April to review the progress in ending university war-related research. If not sufficient, demonstrators will consider taking over another building. One of the radical faculty members behind the students is [REDACTED] a self-proclaimed Maoist, and one of the organizers of the Revolutionary Union, the recently formed radically militant organization dedicated to aid the Communist cause by overthrow of the U. S. Government by force, if necessary.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

A thought provoking similarity between the fascist youth of the early 30's and today's "new left" radicals has, in recent days, been drawn by two widely separated authorities on contemporary society and education. One authority, college educator Dr. Bruno BETTELHEIM, addressed the House Special Subcommittee on Education on 20 March 1969. The other is Dr. Tibor SZAMUELY, a former professor of modern history at Budapest University who now teaches at the University of Reading, England. SZAMUELY, who is allegedly despised by the Eastern European emigration in continental Western Europe generally and by the Hungarian emigres most particularly because of the political activities of himself and his family during and following World War II which reportedly greatly aided the deliverance of his country to the Soviets, is well known to both Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty. SZAMUELY, a prolific writer and expert on Bloc Nation/Soviet Affairs, is presently a free lance contributor to Radio Liberty's Russian language service.

Although both recognize significant differences such as the contemporary cry for internationalism as opposed to Nationalism which was the hallmark of fascism, and the role (though reversed) of racism, Drs. BETTELHEIM and SZAMUELY make a number of strikingly significant points.

First, with regard to race, although the German philosophy which gained a mass following was directed against a minority and today's radical intends to help a victimized minority the parallel remains that universities then and now make decisions in respect to the race of students rather than on the basis of disregard of racial origin. To use one example, German universities began to cave in when students coerced faculties to appoint professorships in Rassenwissenschaft, that is, professorships devoted to teaching the special aspects, merits, and achievements of one race versus another.

(k-35)

National Socialism came to power as a party of youth. German political ideology in pre-Hitler days pitted son against father, stressing that the generations cannot understand each other and are deadly enemies. In this respect, the contemporary experiences of "generation gap" and the insistence by the young that no one over 30 is trustworthy finds a close parallel. Then and now, rebellious students are pictured as the new generation, disgusted with the complacency of their parents and fighting courageously for a better world. In 1968 student rebels burned books just as did Hitler's equally youthful followers in 1933 and ironically at the same place - Berlin.

No matter how "left" the radical students consider themselves in 1969 they, like the far "right" fascists of the early 30's are basically anti-democratic and have no use for parliamentary institutions. They are more than willing to impose minority rule on their countries. They assume they are right and should be able to force their views on the masses. They like violence and subscribe to the tactics of physical force. The radicals of today, like the radicals of 40 years ago are driving for power for its own sake which, observes Dr. SZAMUELY, separates them from communists who have a clear program for the use of power. Their adherence to a cult of youth is also a typically fascist and not a communist idea.

The role of the professor has been singled out by Dr. BETTELHEIM. In quoting from, and accepting the thoughts expressed by author George L. MOSSE in his book The Crisis of German Ideology, BETTELHEIM advised the Subcommittee that in Hitler-emergent Germany, professors tended to be either scholars, who withdrew to their speciality taking scant notice of the world around them, or men who attempted to play the role of prophets. The professor as prophet, with very few exceptions indeed, was to be found on the side of the revolting students. The students had found a basis for action that opposed existing authority yet remained independent of any political movement directed by their elders. The faculties failed to provide any opposition, failed to use administrative powers and failed to organize effective alternative groups of students. At best the faculties displayed a detached passivity --- at worse they joined in the harassment.

Like in pre-Hitler faculties, so in our universities today, advises BETTELHEIM, we can see efforts of faculty members to remain aloof from it all, while others try to anticipate even the most radical student demands, so as to avoid confrontations. Worse, there are no efforts made to organize effective alternative groups of students. Many faculties are so intimidated that they collapse even before the students exercise any pressure. It is the continuous worry about what the militant students may do next, the anxious efforts to give them no offense, which saps the universities of their strength so that they become paralyzed. The anxious avoidance of taking a firm stand gives not only these militants, but many noncommitted students as well, the feeling that they have the faculty on the run, because these adults are not sure about their values.

BETTELHEIM believes that colleges and universities should feel sure about themselves and take a determined stand against coercion and intimidation. They should remain opened and inviting to reasonable, non-coercive discussion about how things could be improved. This way, student rebellions could be so reduced as to no longer threaten the universities and society at large.

Dr. SZAMUELY concludes on a most negative note. He believes that if the "new left" ever achieves its goal it will be unable to hold power for long. He theorizes that the real totalitarians who understand power, the communists on the left or the army on the right will take over from the amateurs.

Last Laugh

During mid-winter some 300 representatives of the SDS, BPP, PLP, and other radical elements met at the University of Princeton, primarily to discuss an SDS paper entitled "Smash the Military Machine in the Schools: A National Winter - Spring Offensive." The plan envisaged student demonstrations and violence in universities and high schools throughout the U.S. The midpoint of the Winter-Spring Offensive was to be a mass mobilization in Washington on 12-13 April. The SDS tract set forth the following five demands.

1. No ROTC.
2. No War or counterinsurgency research.
3. No military or war recruiting
4. No draft assemblies in high schools.
5. No high school sending of names to draft boards.

Under the subtitle "Strategy" the SDS directs that chapters adopt these five demands as the basis for local drives in universities and high schools, and for initiating "militant actions around these demands immediately after the Washington march."

From the increased tempo in the schools in anti-military and anti-ROTC activity including malicious mischief and property damage, it does appear that such an offensive is on. Whether there will be a march-demonstration as earlier reputed, in Washington this weekend - to be followed by accelerated action thereafter - is a matter of conjecture at this time. The march to support black liberation and immediate withdrawal from Vietnam was to be followed by seven days of marches on local selective service centers, recruiting stations, and boards of education. If it could be organized, there was to be a general strike of students starting May 1st. For some reason not known the Winter-Spring Offensive was removed from the agenda and not discussed at the recent SDS National Council meeting in Austin, Texas held the last weekend in March.

Unless there is some intention to clandestinely mount such a march in D.C. and to catch the authorities somewhat unprepared, it would appear that the march may have been cancelled. A march of much size with strong participation would seem to require surfacing of preparation, planning, and publicity. Also, it appears likely that even plans for a demonstration smaller in number but perhaps more aggressive in tactics, and involving mostly SDS members from the area would be difficult to keep secret.

CALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities

12 April

*Warwick, R.I. - The Rhode Island GI-Civilian Alliance for Peace is sponsoring a demonstration at noon in front of the Sears and Roebuck Store. (NFI)

12 April

Norman, Oklahoma (University of Oklahoma) - SDS will sponsor a demonstration at the University of Oklahoma to protest the Vietnam War. This demonstration is in conjunction with other demonstrations being sponsored by SDS on this date.

13 April

*Austin, Texas - An intensive campaign to build the anti-war demonstration is underway. It was decided to hold the action on 13 April instead of Easter weekend when other groups across the country demonstrated, because many University of Texas students were home for the holiday.

An "immediate withdrawal" peace march is to be held, sponsored by the Texas Coalition Against the War.

13 April

A protest of alleged institutional segregation at the University of Virginia may be staged at the Charlottesville campus on Thomas Jefferson's birthday. A founder and spokesman for the University's Student Coalition, Robert ROSEN stated his intentions for an April 13 protest demonstration in a speech from the capitol steps in Richmond after he and other student leaders found Virginia Governor Mills GODWIN not in sympathy with the Student Coalition's demands for university reform.

13-14 April

*New York City, N.Y. - On 4 April, at the Fillmore East (a concert hall) 2nd Ave. and East 6th St, New York, several persons were handing out leaflets signed by the co-chairman of the radically militant Coalition for an Anti-Imperialistic Movement (CO-AIM) advertising the showing of five films titled "The Organizing of Revolution." The individual films are entitled: "Venerable," "Chicago Challenge," "Columbia Revolt," "Community Control," and "Ham Rong Bridge." The showings to be held at 137 West 14th St. are intended to benefit the U.S. Committee to aid the National Liberation Front of South Vietnam.

14-16 April

*St. Louis, Mo. - A national conference dedicated to understanding student unrest will take place at the Sheraton-Jefferson Hotel. Sponsored by Executive Systems Inc., Lawrenceville, Ill., the purpose of the conference is to clarify issues confronting university officials as well as those issues soon to confront corporate officials as a result of changing attitudes. Speakers at the conference will include student and faculty leaders and corporation leaders from across the country.

17 April

*New York City, N.Y. - The Resistance has announced plans to hold a "draft card burning" at the U.S. Federal Court House, Foley Square to protest the sentencing of a convicted draft card burner. A leaflet distributed by The Resistance stated that "the government might postpone sentencing if they think too many people will burn draft cards."

19 April

*Omaha, Nebraska - The BPP and the SDS plan an anti-Vietnam demonstration. A rally is to be held at Creighton University followed by a march to an unknown destination.

23-28 April

*Los Angeles - Reportedly the BPP will hold a National meeting in Los Angeles to discuss the "repression" the party is going through. Jerry RUBIN and Abbie HOFFMAN, Yippie leaders, are scheduled to speak.

24-27 April

Peoria, Illinois - A black cultural week is scheduled to be held at Bradley University

24-27 April

Washington, D.C. - A national conference on the "Human Rights of the Man in Uniform" is apparently being planned for the Sheraton Park Hotel by the American Veterans Committee, 1333 Connecticut Avenue, N.W.

25-26 April

*Philadelphia, Pa. - The 2nd Philadelphia Area Radicals Conference will be held in the fine arts buildings of the University of Pennsylvania.

26 April

*Washington, D.C. - In his Memphis speech at Martin Luther King, Jr. Memorial Services, 4 April, Rev. Ralph David ABERNATHY said that he would assemble civil rights leaders in Washington on 29 April to begin an assault on government indifference.

20 April -
4 May

*New York City - The C.P., U.S.A.'s 19th National Convention is to be held from April 30 to May 4, 1969.

A call issued for the Convention hailed "the growing radicalization of black Americans, of workers, of students, and the youth."

2-3 May

*Detroit, Mich. - Black lawyers in the Detroit area, sharply criticizing racism in the legal profession, have announced a conference on "Law and Race." Among the joint sponsors of the conference is the Detroit chapter of the National Lawyers Guild.

June 1969

*On concluding their National Council Meeting in Austin, Texas, on 30 March SDS participants scheduled their next National Council meeting for June. (NFI available to date). Apparently no radical changes in SDS policy came from the Austin meetings.

June 5

*Moscow, USSR - The conference of the world Communist parties is scheduled to open June 5 instead of in May. Reputedly, the Chinese-Soviet border dispute caused the new delay. Another preparatory commission meeting has been set for May 23. All Communist parties will be invited to the June Conference including the six parties of the fourteen that rule in their own countries, who boycotted the preliminary talks: China, Albania, Yugoslavia, No. Vietnam, No. Korea, and Cuba. None is expected to attend.

While the Soviet Union contends that the purpose of the Conference is to unify the movement rather than excommunicate any members, the general belief among Communist observers is that Moscow intends to use the Conference to widen the rift between Communist China and the bulk of the Communist movement, including the Soviet Union.

Summer 1969

According to Leon SHENANDOAH, new Chief of the Iroquois Confederation, Indian tribes from all over North America will meet this summer to discuss such problems as land disputes and the need for more social services.

August 69

*University of Texas at El Paso - 22nd Annual National Student Congress (tentative).

September 24

*Chicago, Illinois - Trial has been set for 24 September for the eight protest leaders indicted on charges of conspiracy to incite a riot in connection with the disorders at the Democratic National Convention last fall. All eight pleaded "not guilty" in Federal District Court on 9 April. Each defendant also faces charges of crossing state lines to foment disorder or to otherwise violate the Civil Rights Act of 1968. Rennie DAVIS, Bobby SEALE, John R. FROINES, and Lee WEINER had their travel restrictions eased but are required to keep the Court fully informed of their movements.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

ADDENDUM

With reference to Calendar item "Nonviolent Student Vigil" advised that the permit calls for assembly at the Lincoln Memorial by 1300 hours on 4 July. For approximately one hour the names of Vietnam War deceased will be read from the steps of the Memorial. Following the reading, the group will march to Arlington National Cemetery via Memorial Bridge, where they are to disband.

MPD has received no reporting which indicates any planning for civil disturbance; however, he is aware of the problem of reaction to the demonstrators by tourists and others in the area for Independence Day activities. MPD feels that the FBI estimate is probably high, but has no exact figures.

will advise us of any additional information as it comes to his attention. At present, Intelligence Squad is not mounting any major effort in regard to the protest.

July 4

*Philadelphia, Pennsylvania - According to information obtained from a leaflet distributed in the Philadelphia area, a rally and a march will be held on 4 July. The leaflet encourages servicemen to participate and cites the Army Regulation which authorizes off-duty servicemen in civilian clothing to attend non-violent demonstrations. The GI-Civilian Coalition is reportedly sponsoring the activities.

July 4

*Gettysburg, Pennsylvania - The York Action for Peace, a peace group from York, Pennsylvania, plans to hold a march and demonstration in Gettysburg on 4 July. The march will begin in Gettysburg and end at the Peace Memorial Light at the Gettysburg National Battlefield. The march will be led by Bruce Martin, Assistant Editor of a local newspaper in York.

July 4

*Venice, California - A "Love-In" is to be held on the beach of the Venice district of Los Angeles. This event is expected to attract an estimated thirty thousand young people. The Free Venice Organization Committee has requested a parade permit to hold a parade on the streets. The request was denied by the Los Angeles Police Commission. Rumors indicate that some of the individuals participating in the activities will be armed and are planning to have a confrontation with police.

July 4-5

*Cleveland, Ohio - The Cleveland Peace Action Council will host a National Anti-War Conference in cooperation with the University Circle Teach-in Committee at Case-Western Reserve University. Anti-war groups which will participate in the conference are the Student Mobilization Committee, the Seattle GI-Civilian Alliance for Peace, Fort Jackson Eight, Presidio Twenty-Seven Committee, and the San Francisco GI-Civilian Alliance for Peace. The Student Mobilization Committee will hold a post-conference session on 6 July to discuss past achievements and future plans.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

INAUGURATION - 1969

The principal demonstration thrust by dissidents during the Inauguration and the weekend that proceeds it will be staged to protest the War in Vietnam. There will undoubtedly be representation on hand from the various student leftist organizations principally the SDS and YSA, from the hippies and the YIPPIES and of course the Negro civil rightists. All will have their axe to grind but the guiding light and most sophisticated organizers for the Inauguration protest is undoubtedly the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam. The Committee thinks big, has and will continue to organize, publish, and plan, feeling that the impact in the presence of mass news media will impress no one if they are unable to attract thousands to the cause of protest and disruption. The Committee thinks in terms of legal and medical requirements, the production of a counter-inaugural ball which will cost thousands of dollars to pull off, and perhaps of greatest significance, pre-planning at workshops prior to hitting the streets with placards and slogans. Press and reports of other Government agencies tend to indicate that those who travel to Washington to demonstrate will be serving the pacifist objectives of the NMC regardless of the motivation which brought them here.

Although Negro militants from Chicago, San Francisco, and other cities around the country have been reported in Washington planning sessions for the past several weeks, the strongest straws in the wind support the thesis that Negro militant groups will for the most part "cool it" during the Inauguration. Black Panthers attending the year-end National Conference of the SDS at Ann Arbor expressed the belief that serious confrontation in Washington would hurt only the black community. The Panthers were, to say the least, resentful of outsiders planning disruption in the Capital City. The Ann Arbor sentiment of the black militant movement seems to represent the nation-wide thinking. If racial trouble comes during the Inauguration it will probably be 95 percent spontaneous.

The long-range weather forecast for Washington is average normal temperatures through Monday with a chance of precipitation on Saturday and Sunday and clear on Monday. Normal high for this period is temperatures in the low 40's.

CIA could be a prominent subject for attack in printed matter (brochures, pamphlets, posters and placards) and vocally by the use of anti-Agency slogans, harangues, taunts, and obscenities. Demonstrations at some Government buildings and monuments are currently planned and other Government "targets" are subject to irrational mob determination. Headquarters being out of the way, fairly well protected and less accessible to the news media will probably escape harassment. Dissidents could stage a "spontaneous" demonstration however anywhere in the area where news media will assure publicity exposure. Since the New York underground film producer NEWSREEL is scheduled to make a documentary of the Washington Inaugural demonstrations, the NMC could probably pick their time and place to protest and arrange for publicity coverage. Since Agency employees will enjoy a three-day holiday weekend little threat to rank and file is likely. Upper echelon officials, however, particularly the Director if he attends Inaugural functions is at least as vulnerable as other administration cabinet and sub-cabinet officials. Actual reports of serious planned physical violence are few and unrealistic in concept. A delegate to the SDS Ann Arbor meeting for instance spoke of an assassination attempt of the President with a homemade rocket. Another threat was stated by a leftist student leader at Chapel Hill who spoke of disrupting the motorcade by attacking the automobiles of dignitaries principally the automobiles in which Presidents Johnson and Nixon rode. Danger to life and limb cannot be ignored completely since mob action spurred on by the criminal element, the drugged or the drunk can occur.

The plans of the NMC have remained constant for the past week or ten days. The NMC, headed principally by long-time pacifist-activist David DELLINGER and youthful but intelligent Rennard DAVIS, maintains a small staff but serves as an umbrella to coordinate and direct the mass anti-war effort of many loosely affiliated anti-war, anti-draft organizations. NMC spokesmen say that their effort is not against President-elect Nixon per se but only to direct public attention to and to solicit public sympathy against the U. S. Government Vietnam War Policy. The NMC is interested, so they say, in a "political" confrontation only, so designed to point up the error of U. S. Government ways. They seek no militant confrontation with police authority. The NMC has appended to their list of objectives the proposition that they are also against "enslavement of black people at home," an extra-philosophical objective clearly designed to enlist the mal-content Negro to their cause.

The schedule of NMC events for the period from 17 through 20 January 1969 is as follows:

Friday, 17 January (all day) - Demonstration marshalls are to arrive at Washington and will assemble for briefings and instructions at St. Stephen of the Incarnation Church, 16th and Newton Streets, N. W.

Saturday, 18 January, 10:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m. - Preparations for the "counter-Inauguration" will be discussed in three workshops held at the Hawthorne School, 501 "I" Street, S. W. The workshops will deal with approximately thirty-five topics and will be divided into three sections. The first section, called the program workshop will discuss topics such as: GI-organizing; High School organizing; and white racism. The second section called Educational Workshop will address the subjects: Law and Order under Nixon; Acts of Resistance; and Military Intervention. The third section will be an all-day teach-in on "The Movement."

(NOTE: These subject titles are hardly likely to engender feelings of peace and tranquility among the potential demonstrators.)

Sunday, 19 January, morning - Demonstrations are planned at the Lincoln Memorial, Washington Monument, Capitol Building, and at the South Vietnam Embassy at 11:00 a.m. Afternoon - The demonstrators will assemble on the Ellipse just south of the White House at 1:00 p.m. and prepare for their counter-Inaugural march. They will depart the Ellipse (probably about 2:30 p.m.), march along "E" Street, Pennsylvania and Constitution Avenue to the Supreme Court Plaza*(see footnote Page 4), just east of the capitol. The demonstrators will hear speeches by DELLINGER, DAVIS, and others for about an hour then disperse to Union Station where buses will be waiting.

(NOTE: The destination of the buses is unknown but probably will take the marchers back to various assembly points within the city.)

Evening - Beginning at 7:00 p.m. the NMC will sponsor a counter-Inaugural Ball in a huge circus tent on the Mall.* Scheduled performers are Judy Collins, Phil Ochs and the FUGS. Admission charges are expected to cover the cost of the tent which has been rented from a Norfolk, Virginia, company.

Monday - 20 January, morning - 11:00 - NMC will organize presence along the parade route.

*At this writing, officials of the NMC and a Government negotiator, Harry VAN CLEVE, General Services Administration Counsel have not reached agreement either on the demonstration parade route or the erection of the circus tent on the Mall or for that matter anywhere in Washington. No permit to demonstrate on either the 19th or 20th has been granted to the NMC or for that matter to anyone other than the official Inaugural Committee headed by Marriott of Hot Shoppe fame.

The NMC in an early announcement stated that they would endeavor to assemble at one or two locations along the parade route so they could demonstrate en masse when the motorcade passed. Two locations prominently mentioned were the tennis courts at 3rd and Pennsylvania Avenue and the vacant lot at 9th and Pennsylvania Avenue where the FBI plans to build their new headquarters building. Since the 9th and Pennsylvania Avenue site is presently a four-story deep excavation, using it as an assembly point by the NMC or any sizeable group seems impractical hence doubtful. It is further believed that no permits will be granted for groups along the parade route or anywhere else in the city on the 20th. The NMC probably has or will abandon the quest for an officially recognized spot and instead might be expected to spread out along the route in smaller groups.

The Committee is expecting a large turn-out for their activities on the 19th which they say is their main day of protest. They have advised visiting demonstrators that they expect no physical confrontation on the 19th. Although in their pronouncement they have been a bit vague regarding possible physical confrontation on the 20th, they certainly imply that if trouble comes it will come on Monday when the Committee by demonstrating along the route will, according to DAVIS, destroy Nixon's attempt to create a show of unity.

Included in the weekend plans of the NMC is the participation in the march of GI's from fifteen military installations. Leaflets have in fact been found at Ft. Myer, Virginia, and at Ft. Meade, Maryland, advertising the anti-Inaugural activities planned by the NMC and asking for GI participation.

A call has gone out for sympathetic Washingtonians (liberal churches, dissident organizations and individuals) to make housing facilities available to out-of-town demonstrators. The Hawthorne School will probably house many of the visiting demonstrators. This school was prominent during the Poor Peoples Campaign last summer and housed a number of the participants both during and after the campaign was over. It is believed that the school was obtained to house the NMC workshops after Federal City College withdrew permission for the NMC to use their facilities. Headquarters of NMC during the Inauguration weekend (and for several weeks prior) is located at the Church of the Pilgrim, 23rd and "P" Streets, N. W. Their medical and communication center (which will be manned by the Kent State University SDS Chapter) is at the same location.

The NMC boasts that the counter-Inaugural Ball is certain to be an "unforgettable success." The boast, if the tent goes up is probably accurate. In addition to the entertainment mentioned above (Judy Collings, Phil Ochs and the FUGS), another handbill being circulated, advertising the "Ball on the Mall" lists additional entertainment as Pigasus, and the YIPPIES plus the Children of God. "Box seats and orchestra seats - $2.00. Outer rim and backrow seats (for Republicans, regular Democrats and such folk - $35.00)." The Ball on the Mall is scheduled for the occasion where Jerry RUBIN (YIPPIE leader) is to in-HOG-urate Pigasus the pig.

Rennard DAVIS has announced that in order to disrupt the "Establishment Ball," identical, presumably forged, tickets would be distributed by the hundreds to Washington demonstrators.

It has been reported that members and sympathizers of the Fifth Avenue Vietnam Peace Parade Committee and the NMC plan to leave New York on January 18 in order to attend the Hawthorne School meeting. The Hawthorne School will be used as the Peace Parade Committee's center of operations. Reportedly a Washington-based anti-war group known as the Mobilization for Peace will handle sleeping arrangements for members of the New York visitors who will remain in Washington through the Inauguration ceremonies. Housing will be provided in private homes and church basements. There have been no firm commitments regarding rental of buses or trains but it has been reported that one Eric WEINBURGER representing the Peace Parade Committee has been attempting to rent thirty to seventy buses at the lowest rate available for the round trip to Washington. WEINBURGER has also inquired regarding rental of two coaches from the Pennsylvania Railroad, use of private cars and the formation of car pools is being encouraged.

Eugene GLADSTONE, Michigan coordinator of the NMC has contacted the Brooks Bus Company (believed in Detroit) inquiring as to the rental of ten buses. If rented (no firm commitment so far) the buses will leave Detroit on the 18th and return on the 20th. These ten buses could transport 400 people.

Although the SDS has not sponsored Inaugural demonstrations on a National level (details of Ann Arbor decision reported in last week's Situation Information Report) the loose-knit nature of SDS predictably permits various chapters to take part in disruption if they wish. Since the D. C. area boasts several chapters at local universities some participation can be expected. Several weeks ago the University of Maryland chapter announced plans for a counter-Inaugural parade on the 20th (two hours after the Nixon Inauguration) wherein several groups starting from various points around the city would converge on the Capitol. Although this SDS pronouncement by the Marylanders has not been fortified in recent press or confidential source reports, neither has it been cancelled officially. A recent SDS-MDS pamphlet calls for SDS demonstrations on January 18 at George Washington University; on January 19 at the International Police Academy; and on January 20 at the South Vietnam Embassy.

On January 8 the Chicago Tribune reported that SDS leaders from six states have prepared plans in Chicago which will emphasize that a militant action at the Inauguration is crucial in order to demonstrate solidarity with the National Liberation Front and the North Vietnam Army. SDS further believes according to the Tribune report that an action on Inauguration Day will help expand their base. Many new people were attracted to SDS following the militancy at Columbia and Chicago. Maps of Washington were distributed showing parks, parade routes and Inaugural Ball sites. On January 18 plans call for movement centers to be organized by high school chapters of the SDS in Washington. The 19th, the visiting SDSers will leave the schedule opened for isolated demonstrations or cooperation with the NMC.

Early on January 20 the demonstrators will get to the parade route. Immediately after the parade they will gather directly behind the Justice Department. There, plans will be made to stage a march to the Justice Department as well as marches to the Inaugural Balls. Chicago radical groups know already where T.V. cameras will be set up. They will travel to Washington on the 17th and all plans will be firmed up on the 18th when they know how many demonstrators are on hand.

The George Washington University chapter of SDS expects to be active during the weekend and allegedly will muster some 3,000 to 5,000 demonstrators and sympathizers.

Georgetwon University SDS plans are indefinite but they may try a protest at Lafayette Park.

SECRET

CIA INTERNAL USE ONLY

American University SDSers plan a meeting on the 14th at which time they will decide whether or not to have a "head splitting confrontation" with the police.

An organization known as the Inaugural Anti-War Mobilization, Washington, D. C., has also produced a brochure encouraging one and all in the New York City area to join in the Inaugural protest. Their list of scheduled events coincides with activities of the NMC.

The Southern Student Organizing Committee headquartered in Nashville plans to field some of their local college chapters during the weekend. This organization which attracts little attention in the press compared with press coverage afforded other radical student groups (SDS, YSA) has been, perhaps, the most militant and threatening in their pre-Inaugural planning sessions. On the 9th of January, George Martin VLASITS, presently free on appeal after conviction and sentencing to a five-year prison term for failure to submit for induction, presided at a meeting of about forty people including members of the SSOC and the Young Socialist Alliance at Chapel Hill. The meeting was held to discuss counter-Inaugural activities and VLASITS gave a brief summary of information outlined from SSOC headquarters. VLASITS advised the group that attempts might be made along the parade route to disrupt the motorcade which would include attacks on dignitaries' autos. He stated further that demonstrators would be armed with clubs and other weapons. During subsequent interviews by the FBI, VLASITS denied knowledge of any planned violence and said his only information was that contained in SSOC literature which did say "to bring helmets if you plan to stay in Washington on Monday." Demonstrations on the 18th and 19th were to be peaceful.

An unknown number of radical students from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill has been organized by one Charles MANN, the state information officer of the United Anti-War Mobilization Front and will attend and demonstrate at the Inaugural.

Duke University students are being organized for the same purpose by Mark PINSKY, a writer for the Duke Chronicle.

On December 20, 1968, the Stockholm Conference on Vietnam met in Stockholm and sent a cable to the SDS in St. Louis stating that the international body would send a delegation to Washington for a demonstration on January 19. The organization represents nineteen international organizations in fifty-one countries and plans its demonstration so that "Mr. Nixon, when he takes over, really will feel that there is a mighty international opposition against Johnson's War in Vietnam."

Over 10,000 troops will be on hand for Inauguration Day ceremonies. Eight thousand men will be involved in the parade and 2,000 Marines will be used as an honor guard around the Capitol and as a cordon along Pennsylvania Avenue. No additional units will be brought into Washington for use as a security force and none will be placed on special alert. An Army spokesman stated that the Army does have a contingency plan that will be used in case an emergency develops. A D.C. National Guard spokesman advised that the full strength of the guard, about 1,720 men will be used to help Metropolitan Police Department.

Also visiting in Washington over the weekend will be the usual contingent of out-of-town police detectives and sheriffs. Their selection and assignment during the Inaugural ceremonies is both traditional and political. They come to work paired with the Washington Police force in a plainclothes capacity targeted against pickpockets, con-artists, prostitutes, petty thieves and sundry other netherworld creatures expected to converge on Washington for the festivities.

Little or no information has been observed regarding the Inaugural intentions of the near and far rightist organizations. The Young Americans for Freedom, a loosely-knit conservative student organization created on the college campus in recent years to offset and counteract the forces from the left (SDS and YSA principally) has made no pronouncement. On the local level (chapters at local Universities) they can expect to be on hand but probably without sufficient organization to make their presence known. Their ability to attract activists in the past as a counter-force has been spotty. YAF's appeal just naturally cultivates the non-activist.

Commander ROCKWELL's remaining handful of American Nazis has also not been heard from. Since ROCKWELL's death little spark remains in the once active though minute band of crackpots.

It is believed that in spite of the organization and pronouncements of leftist, "peacenik," draft resister, and other various dissident groups, average patriotic people will come to Washington as they have in the past to Inaugurate the Nation's President. Although there is more mal-content activity this year than for any Inaugurations in recent memory, naturally fanned by an unpopular war, it is believed that popular support for Mr. Nixon as well as a sentimental farewell for President Johnson and a remaining basic respect for and trust in American democracy will underscore the order of the day. There will for sure be demonstrations but indications are they will fail to ignite the mass popular protest the organizers hope for.

A CALL TO COME TO WASHINGTON, D.C. - January 18, 19 & 20, 1969

On January 20th, Richard Milhous Nixon will be inaugurated in a ceremony that has traditionally symbolized the hope of Americans for a fresh start.

THE UNITY NIXON TALKS ABOUT IS EVASION

The reality of the United States is a country deeply divided. Instead of unity under Nixon, the country should be facing up to the drastic changes needed to bring about justice and peace - immediate withdrawal of troops from Vietnam, liberation of black people and a basic reorganization of the country's social priorities and goals. The Nixon cabinet, "made up basically of bankers, corporation lawyers and millionaire businessmen," (NY Times) is a threat to these goals. No wonder millions of working people are clearly suspicious of what unity would mean for them under an administration headed by Richard Nixon.

THE LAW AND ORDER NIXON TALKS ABOUT IS REPRESSION

Nixon does not intend to impose law and order on the military-industrial complex or the ruling clique in Vietnam. What kind of law and order do you think is favored by Strom Thurmond and the other racists who supported Nixon's election? Nixon's law and order means attempted repression of the growing insurgency among students, black people, teachers, young professionals, women, the poor, working people, writers and artists, GI's, veterans and the clergy.

THE PEACE NIXON TALKS ABOUT IS A HOAX

Nixon has already pledged himself to a continuation of Johnson's war policies and a drastic expansion of US militarism through a 35-billion dollar increase in the arms race and by the appointment of Henry Kissinger, a leading advocate of dependence on nuclear threat, as his chief advisor.

Join us in Washington on January 18-20. Join us with the full understanding that in the heart of winter with the possibility of snow, cold or other obstacles, it will be hard to leave the comfort of our homes, or give up our vague illusions about a new government. Join us because the price of silence at this crucial time is greater slaughter and bloodshed in Vietnam, continued oppression of black people and other groups and the melting away of hope.

42SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Two weeks ago Floyd McKISSICK, former national director of CORE, announced plans for the creation of "Soul City" in Warren County, North Carolina. Although specific plans for Soul City are still being "firmed up," McKISSICK's plans seem well-conceived and reflect considerable thought. Several prominent people including former Secretary of Agriculture, Orville FREEMAN have supported the McKISSICK "brain-child." It is envisioned that Soul City may well be the prototype of future black communities throughout the South.

McKISSICK knows that he must draw both capital and expertise from the white community along with the support of white political leaders from the local, state, and national level. The Soul City experiment is enhanced by the fact that a very poor county in North Carolina has been selected. Warren County with a present population of 18,000 is economically in the lowest 10th of North Carolina's 100 counties with an average annual median income of $1,958. Further, Warren County is the only county in North Carolina with a present Negro population that outnumbers white. Public school enrollment is over 75 percent Negro. There are no major towns (Warrenton, the county seat with a population of about 3,000 is the principal urban center.)

McKISSICK presently holds an option to buy a former cotton plantation containing 1,810 acres at a rate of approximately $215.00 per acre (total quoted cost $390,000.00). The plantation lies on or near major rail and highway transportation routes and is near a good water supply.

The sole economy of Warren County, agriculture, has been depressed since at least early 1920's when the boll weevil killed King Cotton. Tobacco is now the main crop but Warren County is actually on the fringe of the good tobacco land in the Carolina Coastal plain (most of the county lies in the poor soil Piedmont region). The greatest hope for the county economically is industrialization and McKISSICK says several large national corporations have made fairly firm commitments to locate in Soul City. McKISSICK's Warren County lawyer who contracted the land option, T. T. CLAYTON (the first Negro lawyer in the county), states that a number of white businessmen and bankers are also interested in the project.

Soul City with a total projected population of 18,000 (doubling the present county population), though a distinct possibility, remains a long way from reality. McKISSICK and CLAYTON must raise sufficient money ($25,000,000) and overcome local political opposition from the White "in's" who fear that if Soul City becomes a reality they will find themselves "out's" and at the political mercy of an overwhelming black majority.

The British public is growing impatient with continued student unrest at the London School of Economics. The school, with an enrollment of 3,000, is part of the 30,000-student University of London and has been the center of leftist student dissent in recent weeks. The British government will probably assume, in the near future, a tougher posture with those involved in disrupting the academic institution.

About 10 percent of the LSE student body including four American graduate students were involved in a recent violent demonstration. Following the demonstration the school was closed. The participants were described by a member of Parliament as anarchist and a new brand of revolutionaries for whom, as yet, there is no name. They are not Socialists nor even respectable Marxists, states the Parliamentarian. Members of the British Parliament can be expected to press the Education Ministry for direct action to return tranquility to the campus. Since nearly all British students receive government grants for education, the withdrawal of funds to those taking part in disruptive dissent activities will probably be the form of government action to end the leftist threat to the traditional British academic system.

Mr. Edward SHORT, the Minister of Education states that the four unidentified Americans cost the taxpayers thousands of dollars in subsidy. He believes (and has told Parliament) that all the student troublemakers, who he describes as "thugs" should "be thrown out on their necks."

"It is monstrous to disrupt the life of a college, university, or school because of Vietnam, Nigeria, or race, or because you are opposed to Capitalism."

Another tactic for dealing with student protest was recently demonstrated at the University of NAIROBI in Kenya. On Friday, January 24, the 1,200 students initiated a boycott of classes when the national opposition leader, Oginga ODINGA was refused permission to speak. The students boycotted in a demand for Academic freedom. On Monday, January 27, Kenyan President Jomo KENYATTA dispatched 200 policemen and closed the University. Hundreds of foreign students were evicted from dormitories and many now have no travel money and nowhere to stay. The Kenyan government has not said when, if ever, the University will be reopened. The closure action was taken after the students defied a government order to return to classes. The Kenyatta overreaction certainly solves an immediate problem. Over the long haul, however, it would seem ill-advised to deprive the country of sorely-needed academic proficiency. The outside observer wonders if some accommodation could not have been found or at least sought.

Warren HINCKLE, III, resigned yeaterday as president and editorial director of Ramparts magazine amid efforts of the radical publication to reorganize. Estimated to be 1½ million in debt and close to filing for bankruptcy, the magazine is facing another serious financial crisis.

HINCKLE said he had accepted financial support to start a new radical magazine to be called Barricades and that the first issue would appear 25 February. He said he expected most of the editorial staff of Ramparts to join him in the new venture.

CALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

*The East Side Service Organization, also known as Up Against the Wall (obscene), has indicated that they plan to bomb Selective Service offices in New York and in Buffalo sometime in the future. Original plans were to bomb the offices on 27 January but these were cancelled for unknown reasons.

*Representative Edith GREEN (D.-Oregon), chairman of the House sub-committee on high education, plans to hold hearings next month to take "a total look at higher education" focusing on campus disorders. College students, faculty, and administrators as well as sociologists and other experts will be called to appear before the subcommittee. Details of the hearings have not been worked out yet.

Mrs. GREEN said, "I'm sick and tired of a minority...making it impossible for the majority who want to attend classes" to do so.

February 1969

Austin, Texas - Austin SDS is considering the feasibility of demonstrating against Walt ROSTOW, special assistant to President JOHNSON, when he arrives at the University of Texas to take up duties as Professor of Economics. SDS is considering using the words "Pinkie" and "Commie" to describe Mr. ROSTOW.

February 1

*A leaflet is being circulated in the New York area by The Resistance stating that it plans to sponsor an open meeting and demonstration in front of the Soviet Mission to the U. N. The purpose of the action is to protest Russian oppression in Czechoslovakia.

February 3-5

Washington, D. C. - The Clergy and Laymen Concerned about Vietnam (CLICAV), a national interfaith, anti-war organization, has announced plans for its Third National Mobilization of persons from the religious community - the theme: "Vietnam and the future of the American Empire." They plan to hold discussion sessions, stage lobby-type demonstrations, and to visit each Senator and Representative.

February 5

Washington, D. C. - The Black United Front (BUF), which on 10 January 1969 announced it was cancelling plans to hold hearings seeking solutions to crime problems in Negro neighborhoods because of the "overwhelming enthusiasm to the proposal by the white community," is scheduled to hold its next meeting on 5 February 1969. C. Sumner STONE, a member of the group's steering committee, said, "Then we'll decide where we go from here."

February 7-9

Atlanta, Georgia - A southwide conference of women is being planned for Agnes Scott College by the Southern Student Organizing Committee. Emphasizing "women's liberation" and concerning women's problems in society and the peace movement, many women actively working for social change on Southern campuses are expected to gather.

February 7-9

*Columbus, Ohio - The SDS will hold a regional conference at Ohio State University at Columbus. Expected to attend are SDS members from Chapters at Bowling Green University, Kent State University, Whittenberg University (Springfield), Ohio University, Central State University (Ohio), Antioch College, University of Michigan and others.

February 8

*Richmond, California - A coalition of left-liberal groups is being formed in California in response to a need for strong unified direction. An expanded planning committee is reported to be working vigorously to build an alliance of white and minority political groups to influence local, state and possibly national elections. A regional convention is set for 8 February 1969 in Richmond, California.

February 12-16

*Minneapolis, Minnesota - A national conference of black students is being planned at the University of Minnesota. The conference was one of the demands won by last week's sit-in by the school's Afro-American Action Committee.

February 13

Chicago, Illinois - Trial is scheduled to begin for eleven members of the Chicago Black Panther Party (BPP) who were arrested 19 December 1969 and charged with "unlawful use of weapons." BPP leaders said that four autos left BPP headquarters with 15-20 BPP members in response to an invitation for consultation by leaders of the "Blackstone Rangers" - Chicago area street gang. Three of the cars were stopped by police, allegedly for traffic violations, and some knives and at least one gun were reportedly found.

Claiming a frame-up, the BPP has hired attorneys and is raising money to fight the case.

February 22

Chicago, Illinois - A city-wide conference on peace will be held by the Chicago Peace Council, at the 8th Street YMCA. The meeting will reportedly deal with: The Vietnam War; Potential Vietnams; Racism and U. S. Foreign Policy; the Arms Race; and Repression - Trade Union, Civilian and GI.

March 3

The trial of James Earl RAY will apparently start on schedule. Judge W. Preston BATTLE of the Memphis Criminal Court has ordered the public defenders office to assign as many persons as necessary to work with defense attorney Percy FOREMAN in order to meet the trial schedule.

March 4

*Washington, D. C. - The New Party plans to inaugurate Dick GREGORY as shadow president of the United States at Washington. GREGORY stated at a recent news conference that planned events on the 4th of March (which he considers the astrologically legitimate date for an inaugural) will be completely peaceful.

The New Party co-chairman Gregory and Dr. James P. DIXON, president of Antioch College at Yellow Springs, Ohio, plan a shadow inauguration every four years until a New Party candidate actually wins the Presidency.

GREGORY and DIXON have announced plans to: form a shadow cabinet to comment on the performance of the administration and the "coalition congress"; present an alternative to the military-industrial complex budget prepared by the ruling parties which GREGORY terms "too immoral and too corrupt to govern; and to develop new foreign and domestic policies.

March 16

London, England - Mrs. Coretta KING, widow of Martin Luther KING, Jr., will be the first woman to preach at a regular service in St. Paul's Cathedral, according to authorities in London.

April 4

*The SCLC plans to make April 4 the anniversary of the assassination of Martin Luther KING, Jr., a day of repentance for the nation. Blacks will boycott schools and businesses throughout the nation on that day according to Rev. Ralph D. ABERNATHY.

April 5-6

Toronto, Canada - The Communist Party of Canada will hold its 20th Convention Easter weekend.

April 6

(Easter Sunday) - At the sparsely attended "National GI-Civilian Anti-War Action Conference" held in Chicago December 27-29, it was announced that a large series of demonstrations would be held in six or seven U. S. cities on Easter Sunday. Cities mentioned are: Chicago, New York, San Francisco, Seattle, Austin, Atlanta, and possibly Los Angeles. The reason for planning regional centers for the action rather than large NATIONAL demonstrations was to facilitate more local GI participation in various parts of the U. S. The Conference resolved to seek the support of the NMC for the April 6 demonstrations.

*Plans are reputedly well under way and the action has been endorsed by both the Chicago Peace Council and the Los Angeles Peace Action Council, two of the major regional anti-war coalitions in the U. S. In Seattle and Atlanta, anti-war GI's are already actively involved in planning for the demonstrations.

On January 13, the national office of the Student Mobilization Committee issued a call for international actions against the War, April 6. In the message to anti-war groups throughout the world, SMC included the request that, "In those countries where American servicemen are stationed, we call on the anti-war movement to make a special effort for GI participation in the peace demonstrations."

To build April 6 on the campuses, the New York SMC has suggested holding "preinduction orientation sessions - anti-war basic training." These sessions would be meant to prepare students subject to the draft to carry on legal anti-war activity while in the Army.

April 30-May 4

The National Executive Board and the National Committee of the C. F., U. S. A., met earlier this month in New York City to make preparations for the Party's 19th National Convention. The National Committee endorsed a proposal that the National Convention be held from April 30 through May 4, 1969. Since the leadership has already delayed this National Convention for a year to avoid selection of a new leadership, it is possible that these dates were chosen with the view in mind that the convening of the International Conference of Communist Parties in Moscow could present a conflict in dates and an excuse for another postponement.

However, on 17 January call was issued for the Convention by Henry WINSTON, national chairman, and Gus HALL, general secretary. The call hails "the growing radicalization of black Americans, of workers, of students, and the youth."

*According to Leon SHENANDOAH, new Chief of the Iroquois Confederation, Indian tribes from all over North America will meet next summer to discuss such problems as land disputes and the need for more social services.

RPT. #1 43SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

The American Council on Education in a recently conducted study among the nations college freshmen concludes that student power pressures can be expected to continue into the 1970's. The survey of 300,000 entering freshmen on 435 college campuses provided the following percentages of "yes" answers to key questions:

Students should have a major role in specifying the college curriculum (a paramount goal of current student activists) - 89.7%

Faculty promotions should be based in part on student evaluations - 63.2%

College officials should have the right to ban speakers with extremist views from the campus - 31.7%

Only volunteers should serve in the Armed Forces - 37%

Campus officials are too soft in dealing with student protests - 54.5%

The study reflects that 6% of freshmen who entered college in the present semester are negroes.

Since the completion of this responsible and comprehensive study, several events point to a stronger stand by college administrators. The indications are that although the students will press for more academic freedom and self determination, the "establishment" will resist with increased vigor. Several barometer events are: (1) The stand of the governor, regents and administration at San Francisco State; (2) The criminal indictments brought against the leaders of the revolt at San Fernando Valley College; (3) The re-establishing of on campus job interviews with war producing engineering firms at the City College of New York; (4) The Yorty report where in the mayor of Los Angeles, among other things, connects campus riots with hard core old line communists. This connection will undoubtedly cause the "casual" SDS'er to reappraise his campus affiliations.

The most important of the above is the confrontation at San Francisco State College. The college must show the determination to stay in business or the public educational structure in California and elsewhere will suffer serious consequences.

The Eighth National Convention of the Young Socialist Alliance concluded in Chicago early in December. The YSA is the youth and training section of the militant and revolutionary Socialist Workers Party. The usual themes pervaded the convention with a topically stronger anti-war flavor than in the past. Members of the Chicago Black Panther Party were in attendance and proved a disruptive force. In addition to the usual profane labels for political leaders and disruption of conventional democratic processes the Panthers chided the delegates for waging a revolution with talk and not with guns in the streets.

Membership figures presented to the gathering point up once again the incredible voice by a dissident mini-minority.

MEMBERSHIP STATISTICS AS OF NOVEMBER 27, 1968

YSA Members	572
Candidates for Membership	64
YSA Members who are also SWP	187
Colleges with YSA Members	101
High Schools with YSA Members	32
Jr. High Schools with Members	5
SDS'ers joining YSA in 1968	60
Subscribers to YSA Magazine	3,300

One graphic example of the great power of a few activist is the recently concluded meeting of the SDS at Ann Arbor, Michigan. The National Interim Committee of the SDS just barely succeeded in holding the national leadership of the SDS against a extremely strong challenge by the Youth Socialist Alliance.

The Ann Arbor meeting issued forth a very shaky SDS leadership that has been alerted, clearly to the fact that the organization, and the national leadership of it, is a most enticing target for take over by the well organized, strong ideological, old line communist organizations. One large crumb that the SDS leadership was forced to throw the YSA was, no demonstrations at the inauguration. For some reason demonstrations on January 20 are not in the YSA or the SWP time table. It is believed that through YSA pressure on SDS leadership, urged on by a few black SDS'ers (who believe that demonstrations in Washington will hurt the D.C. black community most) the SDS leaders were forced to issue a statement of "no demonstrations in Washington." Their reason, they feel that if they demonstrate it will show their contempt only for the Nixon administration and it is their desire to show contempt for all organized government leaders. Transparent reasoning perhaps but a reason was needed so the SDS leadership obliged the press and public (and the YSA, the SWP and the Black caucus).

Mrs. Madalyn Murray O'Hair the former Baltimorean who won a United States Supreme court ruling banning prayer from public schools said biblical readings should be barred on all future space flights. Mrs. O'Hair has taken her campaign against religion into space by protesting televised biblical readings by the Apollo 8 astronauts. She will ask the 28,000 associates in her society of SEPARATIONISTS to join her protest to the astronauts readings to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Eldridge Cleaver the fugitive leader of the Black Panther Party had been scheduled to appear in court on 23 December, to have a date set for his trial on charges of attempted murder and assault with a deadly weapon.

Judge Folger Emerson asked if Cleaver was in the courtroom, Charles R. Garry, his attorney, answered, "No your honor." Judge Emerson then ordered Cleaver's $50,000 bail forfeited and issued a bench warrant for the arrest of Cleaver.

After the court proceedings, a news conference was held in the courthouse on behalf of five of the six persons who had guaranteed Cleaver's $50,000 bail.

Paul Jacobs, an author who was spokesman for the group, called the money "ransom demanded by the state" and said that Cleaver was a "fugitive from the Political Persecution" of the state.

Mr. Jacobs called on "all who believe in freedom, including freedom for those with whom they disagree" to share the financial burden by making contributions toward raising the $50,000. Joining in the statement were Godfrey Cambridge, the comedian, Mrs. Cleaver, Dr. Philip Shapiro, and Ed Keating, a lawyer who is the former publisher of Ramparts magazine on which Cleaver was a senior editor.

Although Judge Emerson ordered Cleaver's bail forfeited, the order does not become final until June 20. If Cleaver should reappear within this "recovery period" the money would be returned.

Stokeley Carmichael the well-known black extremist and his wife, Miriam Makeba, departed from John F. Kennedy Airport in New York City, 28 December 1968 enroute to Stockholm, Sweden. Miriam Makeba, an entertainer, begins a singing engagement in Stockholm on 1 January 1969.

Calendar of tentatively scheduled activities

"Asterisked" items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

- January 1969 A dissident faction of the American Independent Party has announced that it has taken steps to form a continuing national organization. A temporary national committee was formed by 150 representatives from fourteen states at a two-day convention in El Segundo, California, recently.
- The Committee's main objectives would be "assistance to all state parties in preserving their ballot qualifications and retentions of the A.I.P. as a legally constituted national party." The committee will meet early in 1969 in Tulsa, Oklahoma, to form a regular national committee.
- January 2-10 At a meeting in Kalamazoo, Michigan on 15-17 November the National Interim Committee of the SDS proclaimed 2-10 January to be SDS Days of Solidarity with the Cuban Revolution. SDS is planning to send a small official delegation to Cuba at that time. Additionally, during Solidarity week, SDS plans other activities including the presentation of films, educational programs and possibly demonstrations.
- January 2-10 *During the days of solidarity it has recently been announced that SDS has been invited to send five observers to Havana for the tenth anniversary celebration of the revolution. The five are to be picked by the National Interim Committee presently meeting at Ann Arbor, Michigan.
- January 3-9 A new left symposium will be held on the Northwestern University campus on the above dates. The symposium is planned to bring together national new left leaders including:
 Tom Hayden, SDS founder and theorist
 Carl Oglesby, of Ramparts magazine
 Mike Herrington, SDS Leader
 Dick Gregory, erstwhile Presidential candidate of the Peace and Freedom Party
 Jesse Jackson, of Operation Breadbasket
- A large number of New Lefters from many areas are expected to be in attendance. The CIA recruiter who was scheduled to be on the Northwestern campus is expected to move his activity to the Chicago Federal building and conduct interviews by appointment.

- January 6 D.C.- Oral arguments will be heard by the 1st U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals on behalf of Anti-draft conspiracy convicted Dr. Benjamin Spock and the three other convicted defendants. Written appeal briefs have been filed.
- January 7 Los Angeles, California - The trial of Sirhan B. Sirhan for the murder of Sen. R.F. Kennedy as been postponed until 7 January. The delay from 9 December was granted to permit a new member of the defense team, Attorney Grant B. Cooper, to study the case. The trial will be held in a steel-plated court room with closed circuit television for reporters. There will not be any public television.
- January 9 Evanston, Illinois - SDS at Northwestern University plans to demonstrate to protest CIA recruiting on the campus. An SDS leader has stated that he feels the demonstration will be "obstructive in nature."
- January 18 Philadelphia, Pennsylvania - The Black Liberation Alliance, formed October 18-20 at Columbus, Ohio, by 50 dissatisfied members of CORE from five states will hold its first convention. Temporary officers were elected at Columbus. It was decided that the organization will strive for basic social, economic, and political change in the U.S.A. rather than reform. It will seek racial separation, black nationalism, and the formation of a separate black nation within the boundaries of the U.S.
- January 20 An informant of unestablished reliability has provided information that it is rumored the Black Panther Party plans to assassinate Mayor John Readings of Oakland and Joseph Aliato of San Francisco on inauguration day. Local and federal officials in the San Francisco Bay area have been advised.
- January 21 New Orleans, Louisiana - Clay L. Shaw is to go on trial in the Orleans Parish Criminal District Court on charges of conspiring to assassinate President John F. KENNEDY. This case has been in an "on and off" status for a long time but does appear to actually be going to trial this time. Controversial District Attorney Jim GARRISON was quoted as saying, "The moment of truth has arrived in this case. Even if I am killed, the Clay Shaw case will go to trial."

Rpt. # 2 44SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Students involved in the Sit-in demonstration at the University of California at Berkeley last October have been punished by a joint Faculty-Student Committee on Student Conduct. Each case was aired before the Committee and the results were, 7 students dismissed, 31 suspended and 133 placed on probation.

Youth International Party (YIPPIE) leader Jerry RUBIN has been fined $50.00 in Chicago Circuit Court for disorderly conduct in connection with his participation in the Chicago riots during the Democratic National Convention. Specifically, RUBIN, age 30, was arrested for releasing a pig in the Civic Center Plaza on August 23rd.

Racial prejudice has reared a comic head at the University of Maryland. A negro coed at a recent meeting of the Black Student Union with two of University of Maryland Regents charged that negro girls had no chance of entering the Cheerleader Corps. The coed advised the Regents that the fraternities and sororities control the selection process and since there are no negro members, no black girls have a chance. According to the coed, the campus greek-letter societies reject all black candidates because black girls have different body movements. They shimmy when they should be going up and down.

It is reliably reported that the Oakland Headquarters of the Black Panther Party is "falling apart" because of involvement of the male members with female members. The Los Angeles Chapter of the BPP may be coming into prominence by committing acts of violence. The Los Angeles Panthers have recently added to their arsenal, including a supply of dynamite.

On 19 December 1968 a Black Panther Party member was murdered in Los Angeles. The victim had a fractured skull which was the probable cause of death but he also had two bullets fired into his chest. The Panthers in Los Angeles have recently been reported on the outs with "US", Ron Karengas' black extremist group. It is further reported that the Panther headquarters in Oakland is checking into complaints against the Panther leadership at San Diego. Allegedly, the San Diego leadership has been instructed to return all firearms previously made available to them. Instructions were issued that the BPP in San Diego should be inactive until activated by headquarters.

On December 29th a group of 12 people met in Washington to form a local chapter of the Black Panthers. Until accepted by the BPP headquarters in Oakland, the Washington group will call itself the Black Defender Party. Applicants for membership must have a rifle, a hand gun and ammunition, and reportedly will receive 6 weeks training by a BPP official.

Calendar of Tentatively Scheduled Activities

*Asterisked items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

January 1969 A dissident faction of the American Independent Party has announced that it has taken steps to form a continuing national organization. A temporary national committee was formed by 150 representatives from fourteen states at a two-day convention in El Segundo, California, recently.

The Committee's main objectives would be "assistance to all state parties in preserving their ballot qualifications and retentions of the A.I.P. as a legally constituted national party." The committee will meet early in 1969 in Tulsa, Oklahoma, to form a regular national committee.

January 1969 *The Oakland Seven Trial, originally set for November 18, has been postponed until January.

January 13 *Howard Cohen, of the San Francisco State College Young Socialist Alliance, announced plans at a recent news conference for a statewide group supporting the striking students at San Francisco State College. The statewide group has urged supporters from other campuses to hold rallies and to visit SFSC during a week of solidarity from January 6 to January 15 with a mass convergence on the troubled campus on the 13th. The group represents 40 high schools, colleges and other organizations in California.

January 15 *New York City
The Philadelphia Chapter of Women's Strike for Peace (WSP) has scheduled a trip to NYC for an anti-Viet Nam demonstration. It will be coordinated with the New York group and alleged purpose is to urge President-elect Nixon to withdraw troops from Viet Nam.

January 18

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania - The Black Liberation Alliance, formed October 18-20 at Columbus, Ohio, by 50 dissatisfied members of CORE from five states will hold its first convention. Temporary officers were elected at Columbus. It was decided that the organization will strive for basic social, economic, and political change in the U.S.A. rather than reform. It will seek racial separation, black nationalism, and the formation of a separate black nation within the boundaries of the U.S.

January 18-20

*Historically, the Inaugural weekend in Washington, D.C. has been a gala time, marked by large crowds of cheerful political participants, tourists and metropolitan area on-lookers taking part in or observing the many Inaugural parties and events, highlighted by the Inaugural swearing-in ceremony on Inauguration Day (Jan. 20) and the lengthy parade that follows.

This year's Inaugural is unique in that it seems faced with dangers and tensions which will continuously threaten untoward incidents or worse. Various dissident groups have already indicated their intention to use this period by taking advantage of the national and international focus of the news media to publicize their organizations and causes. As during the Poor People's Campaign last summer, and at the Democratic National Convention in the fall, their makeup is varied and runs the gamut from radical left to radical right and includes the student, hippie, and black militant groups.

Obviously, responsible officials are making appropriate plans and taking such action as is deemed necessary to reasonably assure the orderly, peaceful, and successful conduct of all Inaugural activities. This may be an extremely difficult as well as delicate task and the degree of success attained will ultimately be largely dependent on how fervently the dissidents desire to intentionally or "inadvertently" generate confrontive and disruptive situations. Contrary to the tactics taken intended to promote order at the DNC, advance notice and details of intended security measures have not been publicized to date. Perhaps in this case, only assurances that adequate safeguards are being established, will be released for publication.

Although the proposed, tentative, and/or possible activities of the various dissident segments for the period 18 January--20 January in Washington, D.C., and elsewhere directly or indirectly relative to the Inauguration of President-elect Richard NIXON and the assumption of office by the elected or appointed members of the new administration are in a fluid state at this time, some generalizations may be valid. It does not appear that the number of visitors to D. C., coming with intent to either protest or demonstrate, is likely to reach nearly the proportions of some previous Washington, D.C. demonstrations such as the Pentagon March in 1967. It may well be that in numbers, they will not reach the size of the relatively small group of activists who participated in the confrontations at the D.N.C. in Chicago. Unfortunately, as is well known, a relatively small minority of activists under some circumstances can involve much greater numbers.

The Inaugural probably will of itself draw large crowds; however, if the threat, real or imaginary (because of exaggerated claims and professions of intentions by the dissidents), of disorder seems great, it could result in a drastic reduction in attendance at some of the events. This would likely be particularly true of the Inaugural Parade, as the prudent or timid would probably opt for a comfortable TV view rather than expose themselves to either discomfort or hazard. Presumably, such a result would in itself be considered a plus by counter-Inaugural leaders.

20 Cont.

Further, it appears that generally speaking the minority races to not wish to become involved in either protest or demonstrations---particularly, the overwhelming majority of the local colored population who allegedly feel that they will suffer most from any serious escalation of disorder. This is not to suggest that the elements for disturbance and disorder will be minimal---they are nearly always present these days and the threat will be amplified during this period.

Despite protestations by organizational leaders that confrontation is neither planned nor desired; both the scheduled actions and the improbability of controlling individuals, will make for a tense period at best. Increased activity by criminal elements can be expected despite the increased security precautions and full use of police personnel. It can be assumed that there will be some areas in which law enforcement forces will necessarily be maintained at a minimum because of heavy preoccupation with more sensitive areas. Also, as will be noted in some of the remarks following, taken from materials and information available to date, should a confrontation be desired or even be forced unintentionally or inadvertently upon security personnel, a most difficult situation will be presented them--How to effectively handle the problem without taking measures which would almost surely involve innocent bystanders. While consideration of the possible adverse propaganda effect must be given some weight by officials in charge, of paramount importance will be the protection of life and property including firstly the President and President-elect.

As, for a number of mass demonstrations in recent years including that at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago, the leading planning and organizing group and would-be official sponsor, is the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Viet Nam. The NMC, essentially a small central staff serving as an umbrella to coordinate the anti-war efforts of some 100 or so loosely affiliated anti-war, anti-draft, and pacifist organizations, is chaired by David DELLINGER, longtime pacifist-activist. Publicizing their intention as a "Counter-Inauguration", they state that it is not really directed against the new administration but it is against U. S. policy in Viet Nam and the "enslavement of black people at home"--the latter calculated, undoubtedly, to draw colored individuals and groups, and civil rights groups into the activities. Planned protests are to be peaceful and non-violent. Basic plans announced by NMC call for meetings and demonstrations before and during the Inauguration. On Saturday, 18 January, workshops and organizational meetings are to be held. Sunday, 19 January, allegedly when the largest number of demonstrators are expected, demonstrations are planned at the Lincoln Memorial, the Washington Monument, the Capitol Building and at various other Government office buildings. An unknown number of groups affiliated with NMC will demonstrate at the South Viet Nam Embassy and at Arlington National Cemetery at 11:00 A. M. The NMC plans call for a one-hour assembly at the Ellipse on the south side of the White House beginning at 1:00 P. M. After the assembly, a march is scheduled along "E" Street, Pennsylvania and Constitution Avenues to the Plaza of the Supreme Court where the marchers will listen to speeches for one hour. The march has been labeled by NMC leaders as an Inaugural Parade "in reverse". The demonstrators are then scheduled to disperse and proceed to Union Station where bus transportation is to be waiting. At 8 P. M., a Counter-Inaugural Ball is planned, allegedly in a huge circus tent to be erected in the Mall. Music and entertainment will be furnished.

On the 20th, planned activities center around the Inaugural Parade. There has been some indication that the dissidents may request official permission that a section of the Parade be set aside for marchers who object to the Inaugural. Granting of permission to participate in the Parade, either directly or in proximity of it either as to time or space, seems highly improbable. Rumors from the dissident underground suggest that they are eying the grandstands as excellent bonfire material which might be burned down the night before the Parade. Any such an attempt would seem doomed to failure. Leaflets as well as publicity in the underground and radical press have begun to appear in quantity, exhorting dissidents to make the trek to Washington D.C. to participate in the action. According to a leaflet distributed by the Fifth Avenue Viet Nam Peace Parade Committee (FAVPPC), the FAVPPC and the NMC have jointly planned the program which includes on January 20, the organized presence of the movement along the Inaugural Parade route seeking a political, not a physical, confrontation. The leaflet added -- free housing will be available in D.C. for participants. An ad placed in the Guardian by the FAVPPC sets out for Monday, January 20th--- a mobilization contingent in a discrete (sic) area along the Inaugural Route, with banners, floats, performers, etc. "Performers" would seem to support other indications that so-called guerilla theatre groups will be active during the weekend.

Rennie DAVIS, NMC Project Coordinator, has described the proposed workshops on January 18 as educational (GI organizing, underground media, highschool work, Viet Nam, the shape of the new administration, and imperialism in Latin America). Editorial Note: Indications are that the radical movement expects and intends that a new "Viet Nam" be developed in Latin America and is already turning their propaganda and subversive machinery in that direction. Invited speakers include: Dick GREGORY, Ralph ABERNATHY, Kathleen Cleaver, and Dagmar WILSON of Women Strike for Peace.

NMC to use college facilities for the workshops, he later withdrew his assent after the student government voted overwhelmingly against the idea. Federal City College has a student body that is about 94% colored, and seemingly quite activist, and this would seem to give support to the reports that the local colored population does not desire to become involved in the "counter-inaugural" actions.

A session for the January 20 marshals will be held at St. Stephens of the Incarnation Church, 16th and Newton, N. W. on January 17. According to DAVIS, Robert KRAMER of New York or perhaps the Los Angeles Monitor School, and Dean PAPPAS of Baltimore will train the marshals. Allegedly the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLS) has agreed to supply all of the communications systems to be used by demonstrators on January 19. This will include bullhorns, handi-talkies, and mobile units.

DAVIS also claims that SDS in WDC is cooperating with NMC in planning for the Inaugural demonstrations, in spite of the recent SDS national council decision not to participate. The following individuals are reported to now (1/6) be in D. C. working with the NMC staff to organize the Inaugural activity: Peggy BROWN, Fran SCHREIBER, and Debbie FRANKEL, all believed to be from New York; Onka SECKER from Oregon; and Mary PETERS from Ohio State University.

The position of SDS in regard to the Counter-Inaugural seems to have evolved into a decision at the national level not to co-sponsor nor to officially support it; however, local groups and individuals will be active. At a meeting of the National Interim Committee of SDS in mid-November, SDS rejected proposals by NMC that SDS co-sponsor the demonstrations. One reason for rejection reportedly was a fear that NMC would again dominate the political posture of the action while SDS members bore the brunt of confrontation with the police.

January 18-

Michael KLONSKY and some other principal officers of SDS wanted to demonstrate during the Inauguration as a national entity. The leadership, however, was persuaded or forced to cancel demonstration plans by the Young Socialist Alliance (youth section of the Socialist Workers Party) and representations of the black militant groups who are also SDSers and were delegates to the Ann Arbor conference. Although there will be no national endorsement, local chapters of SDS are free to demonstrate.

The Black Caucus implied that black militants were in charge of Washington and any plans for the District had to be cleared with them. The SNCC representative at the conference told the SDS flatly to stay away from Washington. He told the delegates that he and his people had guns and there could be a confrontation with troops during the Inauguration. In a Black Caucus statement, SDS was warned (or threatened) that if SDS held demonstrations, reprisals would be considered against those participating after their return home. One negro said that if SDS came to Washington to tell blacks how to run the working class struggle they would get their heads blown off.

Proposed demonstrations against the Justice Department and State Department during the Inauguration were defeated.

One delegate (an anarchist from the Columbia University riots) stated that hit-and-run guerilla tactics will be used in Washington to confront the police and that demonstrators will be protected and armed with clubs. During a group discussion, one individual stated he had heard others discuss making a homemade rocket for an assassination attempt on the President. Other participants were strongly opposed to such action.

D. C. area SDS members seem desirous of being prominent in the activity. At American University, Rev. Chas. ROTHER

January 18-

(Methodist Chaplain) and SDS leaders at the University have requested that the University make conference, sleeping, and eating facilities available to the demonstrators. No response has yet been made by University officials, although it is understood that officials at George Washington University turned down a similar request. Another source stated that Rev. Chas. ROTHER had turned down an NMC request that SDS at American University participate. An American University SDS leader has stated that a conference will be held in D. C. on the 19th of January and that a decision to have a "head-splitting confrontation" with the police would come out of that conference. He also indicated that a separate Inaugural Parade may be held by demonstrators on the 20th.

The SDS chapter at George Washington University had requested the use of University facilities for holding meetings and demonstrations during this period but was allegedly denied its request. It estimated that 3000 to 5000 persons would be present on the campus. Activity on the campus will include a "state of the union" address, a statement of the constructive aims of the New Left Movement, and a "Festival of Life". The GWU SDS has also reportedly inquired concerning the possibility of obtaining a demonstration permit for some area in D. C. Reportedly, the Park Police Dept. has advised that "no" permits will be issued by them for demonstrations on 20 January.

The SDS at Georgetown University has been discussing the possibility of holding demonstrations at Lafayette Park on 20 January and of sponsoring a demonstration at the Lincoln Memorial on the same date.

A current estimate on strength of GW University SDS and its intentions during the Presidential Inauguration has been elicited from a GWU source. GW SDS may have a total strength of about 450 (100 members, the remainder sympathizers). Source believes that GW SDS will link with local black militant groups in an effort to disrupt the Inauguration. Possible result and/or objective is the initiation of Washington riots reminiscent of April 1968. Moderate student leaders have asked GW administrators to hold the fall term final exams prior to 20 January to get the fall term over before the trouble starts.

The University of Maryland SDS is planning a "counter-inauguration" representing the "government of the people in exile". One proposal is to march from different points in Washington and arrive at the Capitol grounds 2 hours after the Nixon Inauguration has ended. SDS spokesman states that the SDS doesn't want another Chicago and if trouble occurs it will not have been initiated by the SDS. SDS expects the counter-inaugural mobilization to unite SDS with various pacifist groups including the War Resistance League and the Women Strike for Peace group.

At Ohio State, SDS sought volunteers to assist in coordinating demonstrations by SDS chapters at the Inauguration. SDS leadership hopes each state will establish a center to coordinate activities of participants from that state. The Ohio State SDS is attempting to organize a round trip by bus to participate. An SDS representative from Ohio reportedly, advised RENNIE DAVIS that his organization favors a confrontation with D.C. police on 20 January. The proposed theme of the Ohio SDS is "You can win but you can't govern".

SDS decided at a regional SDS conference at Kent, Ohio that meetings should be held in D.C. on January 18 to discuss SDS problems. Rennie DAVIS reputedly indicated to SDS that SDS should move ahead of the NMC in planning Inaugural action because NMC favors symbolic rather than militant action. (Ed. note: Additional support to theory that NMC leaders, while professing desire for orderly protest, would really like to see disruption and disorder occur but attributable to others.)

January 18-

Allegedly an SDS leader at Los Angeles Valley Junior College, Van Nuys, California has stated that he discussed (mid-Nov.) the Inaugural demonstrations with SDS national leaders and that an attempt will be made to disrupt the Inauguration on 20 January.

It is understood that the Philadelphia chapter of SANE has chartered 10 buses to travel from Philadelphia to Washington and return on January 19. Although earlier reports indicated that Rev. Ralph ABERNATHY and others from the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) planned to demonstrate in several ways at the Inauguration "to dramatize the plight of the black people to the new President", the latest information suggests that neither ABERNATHY nor SCLC contemplates any activity or disturbance. It is reliably reported that ABERNATHY expects to receive an invitation to the Inaugural Ball. Whether he would attend dressed in his PPC 'coveralls' is not known.

Rather surprisingly, very little in connection with Inaugural protest has been heard from Jerry RUBIN and his Youth International Party (Yippies). This group, which was largely a put-on by a few individuals and is not a sizeable active organization, managed to obtain voluminous publicity and considerable Hippie support for their mad-cap antics at the DNC and as a result was a real threat to law and order. Reportedly, the Yippies plan a protest in Washington during the Inauguration to protest the war, racism and police repression. One event planned is a counter-inaugural ball where a symbolic "in-hog-uration" of a pig will be staged to reflect the Yippie view that American politics is absurd. Perhaps the fact that both Jerry RUBIN and Abbie HOFFMAN, Yippie leaders, have had a number of encounters with the law in recent months, has dampened their desire for confrontation. Admittedly, this is wishful thinking and the Yippies and Hippies--although seemingly movements on the wane--may still generate some disruption January 18-20.

January 18-

The National GI-Civilian Anti-War Action Conference held in Chicago in late December adopted a resolution to support the plans of the NMC during the Inaugural. It has been reported that the NMC is attempting to recruit Army personnel to participate in scheduled demonstrations during the Inauguration. Bus transportation will allegedly be provided. Buses are to leave from: Columbia, S. C. with troops from Ft. Jackson; Atlanta, Ga. with troops from Ft. McPherson; Richmond, Va. with troops from Ft. Lee; Newport News, Va. with troops from Ft. Eustis; and Nashville, Tenn. with troops from Ft. Knox and Ft. Breckenridge.

The plan is for Army personnel to attend seminars on 18 January and demonstrations on 19 January in connection with the Inaugural on the 20th.

Presumably, GI's who have affiliated with the "American Servicemen's Union" (ASU) may be induced to participate if passes are available. Others will, of course, also be sought after.

In mid-December, Frank COLLINS, chemistry Professor at Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute and leader of the University Committee on Problems of War & Peace, announced that his organization will join the demonstration.

Approximately 80 members and/or supporters of the Coalition for an Anti-Imperialist Movement (CO-AIM) met in NYC January 5 to discuss tentative plans regarding Inaugural activities, especially "confrontation sites". The two sites suggested were an empty lot on Pennsylvania Avenue across from the Justice Dept. and the mall tennis courts on Pennsylvania Avenue. CO-AIM is interested in the Pa. Ave. empty lot because large numbers can be accommodated and rocks are available for the direct confrontation the group plans on the 20th. CO-AIM will also have "street guards" directing participants and plans to set up "command posts" in some unspecified areas around Washington.

A request was received by the National Park Service from NMC for a permit to erect a tent housing 10,000 persons on the Ellipse on the south side of the White House. The tent would be used on 20 January from 0800 to 1300 hours.

Several members of the DADE Junior College SDS plan to go to Inaugural demonstrations in D.C. They prefer to travel by chartered bus, but the cost may be prohibitive.

241SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Although the Black Panther Party has thrived on publicity and propaganda, an East Coast leader of the BPP recently was reputed to have said that the group, on a national scale, would be going "underground" in order to keep its activities quiet and secret.

Allegedly, the Black Muslims believe that originally all people were black and that beginning in 1984, black men will again rule the earth. Also that all whites are evil and that Christians and Jews alike are to be hated.

Recently Jim FARLEY of New York and Dana ROHRABACHER of California, two chapter chairmen of the Young Americans for Freedom, returned from Czechoslovakia where they met with students who were both anti-Communist and anti-collectivist. Reputedly, the purpose of the trip was to make contact with anti-Soviet student activists there and establish an outlet in the U. S. A. for information on conditions under the Russian occupation.

ROHRABACHER said his organization will attempt to keep the press and the Nixon administration abreast of Czechoslovakian student activism in order to maintain the current level of American concern for the Czech people.

The principal debate at the recently concluded National Council meeting of the SDS at Ann Arbor was waged between the SDS members who are also Progressive Labor Party members and SDSers who are not. Mike KLONSKY, SDS National Secretary who claims to have been a communist with a small "c" for only several months, advanced the proposal that SDS drop the purely student orientation and unite with the youth-at-large as a revolutionary youth movement. The KLONSKY supporters were able to vote down the PLP proposal uniting SDS with the working class thus continuing SDS as a radical voice of youth and students.

The meeting, which erupted in violence during the KLONSKY proposal debate also addressed itself to the topics of GI organizing, high school organizing, women's liberation, racism and imperialism.

Perhaps the most surprising and probably the most significant factor to emerge from the Ann Arbor meeting was the apparent relative strength of the Progressive Laborites. It appears that the SDS national leadership presently consisting of Moscow-type communists and sympathizers was as surprised as the outside observer over the near take-over by the Maoist PLP. How could such a narrowly escaped take-over be possible? The answer is simple. While upwards of 1,000 individuals were present at Ann Arbor, only 150 were voting delegates. To become a voting delegate one must represent a chapter with at least five national members. National membership costs $5 so many local SDSers don't bother to become national members. The Progressive Labor - Young Socialist Alliance group has been able to take advantage of this by getting all its local members to become national members thereby gaining votes out of proportion to its strength in the National organization.

Allegedly, the Black Liberation Army plans to raid a lower-middle-class residential area at Collins Park, New Castle, Delaware. The signal for the commencement of the raid will be a non-appearance for work of Negro sanitation employees servicing the Collins Park area.

- January 20 An informant of unestablished reliability has provided information that it is rumored the Black Panther Party plans to assassinate Mayor John Reading of Oakland and Joseph Aliato of San Francisco on Inauguration Day. Local and federal officials in the San Francisco Bay area have been advised.
- January 21 *Wilmington, Delaware - People Against Racism, a militant protest group, and The Communications Network, Inc., New York City, a new left communications network, are sponsoring a demonstration at Wilmington, Delaware, to protest the continued presence of the Delaware National Guard at Wilmington.

The National Committee Against Repression in Wilmington has been formed to coordinate this demonstration and expects at least 1,000 individuals to participate. Some 25,000 leaflets have been mailed suggesting that Inaugural demonstrators stop over in Wilmington on their return from Washington.

January 22

*New Orleans, Louisiana - The oft-postponed trial of Clay SHAW on charges of conspiring in September 1963 to assassinate President John F. KENNEDY, is to start. Final defense moves to delay the trial again to quash the indictment and to move it at least 100 miles from New Orleans were turned down by Judge Edward A. HAGGERTY, Jr., on 14 January.

February 1969

*Austin, Texas - Austin SDS is considering the feasibility of demonstrating against Walt ROSTOW, special assistant to President JOHNSON, when he arrives at the University of Texas to take up duties as Professor of Economics. SDS is considering using the words "Pinkie" and "Commie" to describe Mr. ROSTOW.

March 3, 1969

*The trial of James Earl RAY will apparently start on schedule. Judge W. Preston BATTLE of the Memphis Criminal Court has ordered the public defenders office to assign as many persons as necessary to work with defense attorney Percy FOREMAN in order to meet the trial schedule.

March 16

*London, England - Mrs. Coretta KING, widow of Martin Luther KING, Jr., will be the first woman to preach at a regular service in St. Paul's Cathedral, according to authorities in London.

April 1969

The 19th Annual Convention of the CPUSA has been scheduled for this time.

April 6, 1969

(Easter Sunday) - At the sparsely attended "National GI-Civilian Anti-War Action Conference" held in Chicago December 27-29, it was announced that a large series of demonstrations would be held in six or seven U. S. cities on Easter Sunday. Cities mentioned are: Chicago, New York, San Francisco, Seattle, Austin, Atlanta, and possibly Los Angeles. The reason for planning local rather than large national demonstrations was to facilitate more local GI participation in various parts of the U. S. Representative Richard H. ICHORD, who will become Chairman of HCUA, has stated that his first order of business would be to investigate the Students for a Democratic Society.

He also plans to "improve the investigative techniques" of the Committee and said there would be fewer summonses for hostile witnesses intending to refuse to testify under the Fifth Amendment.

An intelligence summary from a West Coast law enforcement agency states that:

The Black Student Unions, formerly independent in the various California area high schools, are now organized in a state-wide union of BSU's with National headquarters located at 3106 Shattuck Avenue, Berkeley, California (BPP headquarters).

A Swedish newspaper on 17 January 1969 quoted Stokely CARMICHAEL as saying that he and his wife, singer Miriam MAKEBA, plan to move permanently to Conakry, Guinea, Africa. There have been a number of rumors previously as to CARMICHAEL's intentions. It seems doubtful that he would voluntarily make a permanent move from the U. S. A. - where the money is.

The Black United Front (Washington, D. C.) has called on President NIXON to elevate one of its members by appointing Rev. Walter FAUNTROY as Chairman of the D. C. City Council. The BUF has also announced its support of the militant BUF member Julius HOBSON for the presidency of the newly elected District school board.

Along with numerous demands for "Black Studies" programs emerging on today's high school and college campuses is included the demand for a course in Swahili. The language will probably be included as an elective in Washington, D.C., high schools next year. Some high schools and colleges around the country in areas of heavy Negro population are already offering the language. In addressing the question: Why Swahili as a symbol of Black Pride?, Dr. Joseph APLEGATE, director of African Studies at Harvard University suggested that it might be because the language is mentioned in books, movies, and on television more frequently than other African languages.

Actually Swahili has little heritage connected significance for the American Negro. Swahili (and its 15 dialects) is spoken primarily in Eastern Africa while most American Negroes come from Western Africa.

During the early 19th century, Swahili was spread from the east coast inland by Arab slaves and ivory caravans. It is primarily a spoken language. Its earliest literature was in Arabic script and only by the end of the 19th century had the Roman alphabet been applied to it. It is extremely difficult to speak and poor in written literature, restricted principally to poetry, drama, and folk stories that have been handed down by word of mouth. Of the world population 12 million speak the fifteen dialects of Swahili compared with 314 million who speak English, 188 Million who speak Russian, 179 million who speak Spanish, 120 million who speak German, and 75 million who speak French.

Advocates of Swahili say it's a useful mental discipline like any other language. Thereby they are unintentionally implying that study time could otherwise be much more profitably spent.

Roy WILKINS, head of the NAACP has come out strongly against the campus black militant who demands separate housing facilities and an autonomous black studies program. WILKINS views the present day clamor toward a black identity by the college Negro as racially counter-productive and tending to destroy the progress made by the NAACP since the early 1930's. The objectives of WILKINS' organization has been and remains the obtaining, through legal and constitutional means, multi-equal opportunity in a non-segregated society. The emergence of CORE, SNCC; Black Panthers, Black Student Union and other youth oriented black racist phenomena are naturally repugnant and undermining to the basic philosophy of NAACP. WILKINS stated at the recently held NAACP annual corporate meeting in New York that the demands of today's black college student, represent: in essence the setting up of racially biased Jim Crow Schools. The use of public tax monies for such a purpose, WILKINS believes and NAACP lawyers believe is unconstitutional.

Although the organization does not oppose the teaching of courses in black studies, and in fact has a program to encourage such courses in high schools and colleges, the NAACP is prepared to go to court suing on the basis of their belief that tax funds cannot be used to create and maintain segregated facilities.

CALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

- February 1969 Austin, Texas - Austin SDS is considering the feasibility of demonstrating against Walt ROSTOW, special assistant to President JOHNSON, when he arrives at the University of Texas to take up duties as Professor of Economics. SDS is considering using the words "Pinkie" and "Commie" to describe Mr. ROSTOW.
- February 3-5 Washington, D. C. - The Clergy and Laymen Concerned About Vietnam (CLCAV), a national interfaith, anti-war organization, has announced plans for its Third National Mobilization of persons from the religious community - the theme: "Vietnam and the future of the American Empire." They plan to hold discussion sessions, stage lobby-type demonstrations, and to visit each Senator and Representative.
- February 5 Washington, D. C. - The Black United Front (BUF), which on 10 January 1969 announced it was cancelling plans to hold hearings seeking solutions to crime problems in Negro neighborhoods because of the "overwhelming enthusiasm to the proposal by the white community," is scheduled to hold its next meeting on 5 February 1969. C. Sumner STONE, a member of the group's steering committee, said, "Then we'll decide where we go from here."
- February 7-9 Atlanta, Georgia - A southwide conference of women is being planned for Agnes Scott College by the Southern Student Organizing Committee. Emphasizing "women's liberation" and concerning women's problems in society and the peace movement, many women actively working for social change on Southern campuses are expected to gather.

February 12

*Chicago, Illinois - Trial is scheduled to begin for eleven members of the Chicago Black Panther Party (BPP) who were arrested 19 December 1969 and charged with "unlawful use of weapons." BPP leaders said that four autos left BPP headquarters with 15-20 BPP members in response to an invitation for consultation by leaders of the "Blackstone Rangers" - Chicago area street gang. Three of the cars were stopped by police, allegedly for traffic violations, and some knives and at least one gun were reportedly found.

Claiming a frame-up, the BPP has hired attorneys and is raising money to fight the case.

February 22

*Chicago, Illinois - A city-wide conference on peace will be held by the Chicago Peace Council, at the 8th Street YMCA. The meeting will reportedly deal with : The Vietnam War; Potential Vietnams; Racism and U. S. Foreign Policy; the Arms Race; and Repression - Trade Union, Civilian and GI.

March 3

The trial of James Earl RAY will apparently start on schedule. Judge W. Preston BATTLE of the Memphis Criminal Court has ordered the public defenders office to assign as many persons as necessary to work with defense attorney Percy FOREMAN in order to meet the trial schedule.

March 16

London, England - Mrs. Coretta KING, widow of Martin Luther KING, Jr., will be the first woman to preach at a regular service in St. Paul's Cathedral according to authorities in London.

April 5-6

*Toronto, Canada - The Communist Party of Canada will hold its 20th Convention Easter weekend.

April 6

(Easter Sunday) - At the sparsely attended "National GI-Civilian Anti-War Action Conference" held in Chicago December 27-29, it was announced that a large series of demonstrations would be held in six or seven U. S. cities on Easter Sunday. Cities mentioned are: Chicago, New York, San Francisco, Seattle, Austin, Atlanta, and possibly Los Angeles. The reason for planning local rather than large national demonstrations was to facilitate more local GI participation in various parts of the U. S. The Conference resolved to seek the support of the NMC for the April 6 demonstrations.

April 30-May 4

*The National Executive Board and the National Committee of the C. P., U. S. A., met earlier this month in New York City to make preparations for the Party's 19th National Convention. The National Committee endorsed a proposal that the National Convention be held from April 30 through May 4, 1969. Since the leadership has already delayed this National Convention for a year to avoid selection of a new leadership, it is possible that these dates were chosen with the view in mind that the convening of the International Conference of Communist Parties in Moscow could present a conflict in dates and an excuse for another postponement.

However, on 17 January call was issued for the Convention by Henry WINSTON, national chairman, and Gus HALL, general secretary. The call hails "the growing radicalization of black Americans, of workers, of students, and the youth."

Rpt. #7 47
14 Feb. 69SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Bobby SEALE, Black Panther Party chairman has recently called Ron KARENGA "a reactionary nigger" and the battle for supremacy (and maybe survival) continues to rage in radical black militant circles in southern California.

Since the murder a few weeks ago of two Black Panthers at UCLA, KARENGA's organization "US" has suffered a sharp drop in prestige in the Los Angeles Negro community. In a recent edition of the Los Angeles Sentinel, the largest Negro newspaper in the West, KARENGA's statement denying responsibility for the killings was relegated to Page 5, Section B. (KARENGA, incidentally, dismissed the killings as "a student incident.").

It appears that progress within Los Angeles's Negro community has come to a virtual standstill following the Panther murders. One major meeting sponsored by the Watts Community Labor Action Committee scheduled for February 7-9 was cancelled. The meeting was planned for ninety public and private Negro organizations including representatives from both "US" and the Panthers.

The chairman of the Los Angeles Black Congress (an alleged umbrella group) has resigned. Since "US" has been a significant force within the Congress, the Panthers have seriously attacked it. The resigning chairman, Walter BREMOND, expressing the view that there is a mood for confrontation between opposing Negro groups recently stated: "We are at the stage of our development where we have to understand that it is now essential and mandatory that all black community organizations and institutions be responsible and accountable to the black community." Other black community spokesmen have warned that internal fratricidal warfare may take place unless communications within the black community are established in a very short time.

Tensions are aggravated by numerous reports of provocations and physical assaults by members of "US" and Panthers on one another. Leadership of militant radicals will not be gained on philosophical argumentation and the adversaries know that a pusillanimous image can't and won't win the sympathy of the undecided persecution complexed Negro.

Negro history courses on Washington area campuses are proving to be very popular. As the spring semester opens all area colleges now offer such a course with the exception of Georgetown. Georgetown, however, has offered the Negro history course during past summer sessions and will include it on a regular basis next September.

Howard University's History Department chairman, Dr. Elsie M. LEWIS states that Howard has been offering courses in African and American Negro history for fifty years. Because of their pioneer image, Howard has in recent years received hundreds of requests from colleges and universities all over the country for advice in setting up Negro history courses.

At the University of Maryland, planning estimated 127 would probably seek credit in "The Negro in American Life." Two hundred and fifty signed up for the course and because of student interest the class has been enlarged (and probably sectionized) to accommodate all interested students.

The CPUSA has once again displayed its inflexibility in its effort to perpetuate the tired line of the early 1930's. At a recently concluded national conference of the W. E. B. DuBois Clubs of America (a CPUSA youth organization) held at Chicago, "a new direction for the clubs" was set, "a working class" direction. The meeting was attended by seventy-five young people from all over the United States and the conference topics included the same dreary list of utopianna - equality for workers, women and minorities, end the war, international solidarity, etc.

It is this very unrealistic and stagnant philosophy of recruitment among the working class that has caused the CPUSA to splinter in the past several decades. While the CPUSA and the DuBois Clubs solicit sympathy and membership among the disenchanted working class the communist realists in the Progressive Labor Party are facile enough to angle for the disenchanted fish in the headwaters of left radicalism - the schools, civil rights activists, and the unemployed. The CPUSA traditionally seems unable to stay abreast of economic trends of U. S. History. Statistically, interpreted and oversimplified, the American worker is better off today than in his history and better off than the working class anywhere in the world. The American worker therefore in the winter 1969, is not vulnerable, by virtue of his place in contemporary society, to the influences of radical change from the left. One hundred years ago Marx instructed the revolutionary to radicalize the worker and though it must seem ludicrous to most of today's rank and file, the Marxists keep trying to seduce the worker - an impenetrable suit of armor.

James FARMER, former national Director of CORE, has been selected for a key position, as an assistant Director, at HEW. FARMER, an important figure in the civil rights program in the early 1960's and a leader of the 1961 freedom rides in the South, resigned from CORE three years ago. Last November FARMER was defeated by Mrs. Shirley CHISHOLM in his campaign in the Bedford-Stuyvesant area of Brooklyn for a seat in the U. S. House of Representatives.

Dr. Charles U. HAMILTON, a political scientist and leading exponent of black power has been granted a professorship in Urban Studies at Columbia University. HAMILTON who will join the faculty in September 1969, occupying a chair endowed by the Ford Foundation, has co-authored a book with Stokeley CARMICHAEL entitled "Black Power, the Politics of Liberation in America." He is presently a professor at Roosevelt University at Chicago.

A Columbia University disciplinary committee consisting of seven students, seven faculty members, and three administrators has ended student punishment (suspension, probation, etc.) which followed last spring's riot at the school. The official reason given was because of "inconsistent punishment and delay in processing cases." Mark RUDD, former SDS leader and acknowledged leader of the riot will be removed from suspension and permitted to register for classes this week. Although the Disciplinary Committee denies it, the SDS hails the decision as "Amnesty" (one of their demands last spring). It must be conceded that amnesty is the effect regardless of what the Committee elects to call it.

Dr. HAYAKAWA the determined head of beleaguered San Francisco State recently faced a congressional committee to answer questions designed to shed more light on the true cause of student revolt on his California campus. Dr. HAYAKAWA answered in part that the nihilistic elements both within and without SFSC were determined to simply bring down the school and close it up. Then, Dr. HAYAKAWA believes that the radical revolutionaries in a state of nihility intend to do the best they can with "participatory democracy."

To illustrate his belief in the third worlders intent, Dr. HAYAKAWA spoke of the fifteen demands that the radical leadership says are non-negotiable. Of the fifteen, some are reasonable and some (most) are not. Of the reasonable demands, the Administration in most case has long since initiated action for improvement in existing structures or has in some cases laid plans for new departures to assure that contemporary education is responsive to contemporary community needs. One example of the colleges efforts at synchronization is Demand No. 1 that all Black Studies courses being taught through other departments be immediately made part of the Black Studies Department.

Robert SMITH, Dr. HAYAKAWA's predecessor as president of SFSC answered Demand No. 1 last November this way: The twenty black courses currently offered were proposed by Dr. NATHAN HARE, acting chairman of the newly established Black Studies Department, and are presently staffed by personnel agreed upon by HARE. This, said SMITH, is an interim arrangement while the curricular proposals made by HARE move through required channels. Even with full approval at all levels (faculty curriculum committee, undergraduate curriculum committee, instructional policies committee, and faculty Senate) the Department of Black Studies cannot legally be implemented until fall 69. It is predicted, however, that the Department will, under the present extraordinary circumstances, start in the spring semester in an effort to return the campus to something near normal as soon as possible.

HARE, by the way, who was recently arrested by San Francisco police for participating in a campus riot and possibly other charges was fired from Washington's Howard University several years ago for his involvement in student protest activities. Obviously, SFSC bought trouble when they hired HARE but probably felt that his reputation as an educator and Sociologist overrode his known advocacy of nigritude and to this end his reputation as a racial "Hair Shirt."

The Black Student Union (one member of the Front sponsoring thenihilism at SFSC) authored Demand No. 7 which is one of the many that Dr. HAYAKAWA regards unreasonable to say the least. The demand that Dr. Helen BEDESEM be fired as Financial Aid Officer and a black person be hired and that the office be administered by "Third World" people was explained by the BSU thusly: "Helen BEDESEM represents the old antebellum plantation mistress, the showpiece of the slavemaster who decides what the field niggers need and don't need. We want her replaced with a Third World person who is absolutely responsible to Third World and poor students, not a house nigger, Uncle Tom, Tio Taco, or a Charlie Chan."

SMITH addressed Demand No. 7 in November of 1968 also. He said then that this demand will not be given serious consideration. Largely through her efforts, Federal money available to SFSC students has increased from $250,000 in 1962 when she assumed her post to $2,500,000 today. She, because of her ability, has been asked to serve on national committees which are in a position to influence federal and state legislation. Her staff of fourteen includes five representatives of black, brown and oriental groups who serve as student assistants and in clerical and professional positions. It is not believed that the college will dismiss BEDESEM but will probably insert a black with the title of "assistant."

Dr. HAYAKAWA who replaced SMITH in December 1968 stands resolute and supported from the top. The nihilists will not close SFSC says HAYAKAWA and he sounds like he means it. The troublemakers, the Third World Liberation Front (an unfathomable misnomer), who comprise a mere 4 percent of the school's enrollment, in the meantime, move their miscreant revolt to the site where many observers think the real showdown will come - across the bay at Berkeley.

"I just don't think you can simply dismiss Hayakawa as an 'Uncle Tom.'"

"We Did It! We Took Over the University!"
 "Too Bad There Ain't No More University . . ."

Reportedly, Rennard DAVIS and David DELLINGER of NMC, Cora WEISS of WSP, and Richard BARNETT, co-founder of the Institute of Policy Studies, departed the U. S. on 31 January for Paris, France, for the purpose of contacting various people in Paris to arrange an international conference of peace organizations.

It has been reported that interest in this type of gathering is only warm and there is some doubt that the conference will be held. DAVIS, DELLINGER, and BARNETT returned to the U. S. on 4 February 1969.

CALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

- February 14 *Seventy-five members of the Chicago branch of the Women's Strike for Peace plan to hold a demonstration in front of the courthouse at Milwaukee in support of the "Milwaukee 14" who were arrested in September 1968 for destroying Selective Service records.
- February 14-16 *A black conference is scheduled to take place at the University of Minnesota during black history week at the University. The main objectives of the conference are: 1. The bringing together of black students throughout the country for the purpose of defining the roles the black students must play in gaining a more thorough education; 2. The institution of a common communication system through an exchange of ideas; and, 3. To expose black students from all over the country to what other black students are doing in the struggle for black liberation. The conference is being sponsored by the Afro-American Action Committee at the University of Minnesota.
- February 15 *A conference entitled "The Draft and American Society" will be held Saturday at the First Parish Church, Harvard Square, Cambridge, Massachusetts. The conference is sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee and will be attended and addressed by a number of known anti-draft intellectuals.
- February 15 *A GI teach-in will be held at the First Unitarian Church of Los Angeles sponsored by GI's and Vietnam Veterans Against the War. The purpose of the teach-in is allegedly to educate GI's and Students about the atrocities of the War in Vietnam.

February 15&16

Reportedly BPP branches throughout the country have received written instructions from the organization's central committee concerning the celebration of Huey P. NEWTON's birthday which occurs on February 17. NEWTON, BPP Minister of Defense, is serving a two to fifteen-year prison sentence. Each branch has been ordered to hold a "Free Huey" fund raising celebration on February 15 or February 16 and to encourage white radicals to assist or to organize their own celebrations. Speakers will be made available by the BPP National Headquarters.

February 16

Seattle, Washington - The GI-Civilian Alliance for Peace (GI-CAP) is sponsoring a peace march led by military veterans, civilians and active duty military from the Army, Navy, and possibly Air Force. It would begin at the Seattle City Hall and go to the Eagles auditorium where a rally and dance would be held. A spokesman estimated that 300 military and 3,000 civilians would be in attendance.

*At a recent planning meeting several aspects of the proposed march were emphasized: GI's participating in the march should be in civilians clothes; GI's taking part should be properly signed out of their bases (for Seattle); monitors will be used to control marchers and spectators; and female participants will be used to encircle and remove any undesirable or troublemaker (sic). Participants of the planning meeting told of eluding authorities on military installations while publicizing the march and gave names and descriptions of local CID personnel. Commanders of local Seattle area bases allegedly have taken action to preclude participation in the march by military personnel.

February 17

*It is reliably reported that members of SDS plan to disrupt registration for the spring semester at San Francisco State College.

February 22

Chicago, Illinois - A city-wide conference on peace will be held by the Chicago Peace Council, at the 8th Street YMCA. The meeting will reportedly deal with: The Vietnam War; Potential Vietnams; Racism and U. S. Foreign Policy; the Arms Race; and Repression - Trade Union, Civilian and GI.

February 22-23

*A massive protest involving civil rights groups in Georgia has been scheduled at Sylvester. Sylvester is the town where the arrest of a fourteen-year-old Negro girl several weeks ago touched off continuing demonstrations and many arrests. Among the organizations taking part in the demonstration planning session were the SCLC, NAACP, ACLU and the Metropolitan Atlanta Summit Leadership Conference.

March 3

The trial of James Earl RAY will apparently start on schedule. Judge W. Preston BATTLE of the Memphis Criminal Court has ordered the public defenders office to assign as many persons as necessary to work with defense attorney Percy FOREMAN in order to meet the trial schedule.

March 4

Washington, D. C. - The New Party plans to inaugurate Dick GREGORY as shadow president of the United States at Washington. GREGORY stated at a recent news conference that planned events on the 4th of March (which he considers the astrologically legitimate date for an inaugural) will be completely peaceful.

The New Party co-chairmen GREGORY and Dr. James P. DIXON, president of Antioch College at Yellow Springs, Ohio, plan a shadow inauguration every four years until a New Party candidate actually wins the Presidency.

GREGORY and DIXON have announced plans to: form a shadow cabinet to comment on the performance of the administration and the "coalition congress"; present an alternative to the military-industrial complex budget prepared by the ruling parties which GREGORY terms "too immoral and too corrupt to govern; and to develop new foreign and domestic policies."

March 4

Cambridge, Massachusetts, etc. - A group of about forty-five professors and graduate students have scheduled a voluntary research halt at M. I. T. to focus attention on how the "misuse of scientific and technical knowledge presents a major threat to the existence of mankind." The M. I. T. organizers are actively encouraging scientists at other universities to schedule similar activities on campus and apparently Cornell and Yale Universities and others will follow their lead. The planning is in no way an official M. I. T. activity and the stopping of research will be done on a voluntary basis and no effort will be made to enforce a compulsory research halt. The idea of stopping research as a "practical and symbolic" expression of the apprehension felt by scientists was in the beginning largely focused on Vietnam but its aims have been expanded. A faculty statement being circulated for signature by the 4 March Steering Committee asserts that "Through its actions in Vietnam our Government has shaken our confidence in its ability to make wise and humane decisions...etc." As well as stopping research, the day of 4 March will be devoted to discussion of problems and possible ways for scientists to initiate political action.

March 16

London, England - Mrs. Coretta KING, widow of Martin Luther KING, Jr., will be the first woman to preach at a regular service in St. Paul's Cathedral, according to authorities in London.

April 4

*Rev. Ralph D. ABERNATHY, leader of SCLC, announced a nation-wide drive to organize poor whites and Negroes into unions through an alliance of unions, civil rights and religious organizations. The campaign is to begin April 4, the anniversary of the assassination of the Rev. Martin Luther KING, Jr.

February 15-16 &
April 6

*This weekend, the Young Socialists Alliance, the youth organization of the Trotskyite SWP will hold a meeting on the Campus of Emory University at Atlanta. The purpose of the meeting is to shape the movement in the South. The participants will discuss a massive anti-Vietnam War protest to be held in various cities on 6 April.

Rpt. #8 48SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

The House Committee on Unamerican Activities (HCUA) has been renamed the House Internal Security Committee (HISC) after Congressional debate which saw a fight by two forces to defeat the move. One group fought to abolish the Committee entirely and the other sought to transfer its work to a Judiciary subcommittee. Final approval of the change in name came on a vote of 305 to 79 after opponents had failed to block consideration by an earlier vote of 262 to 123. This was the best showing by opponents of the Committee in nearly twenty years of attempts to abolish it.

The smallest of all Congressional Committees, it was first created in 1934 as a special committee to investigate the rise of "Hitlerism" in Germany. It became a permanent House Committee in 1945 and shifted its attention to ferreting out Communists or suspected Communists.

Its new chairman, Richard H. ICHORD, (D-Mo.), vowed last fall to improve the committee's image. Last month, in a first step, four moderate-to-liberal Democrats were named to the nine-member committee. Mr. ICHORD assured the House this week that the Committee had adopted new rules that would more fully protect the rights of witnesses.

Under a revised mandate, the Committee is still authorized to investigate the extent, character, objectives, and activities of groups seeking to establish a totalitarian dictatorship within the U. S. or to overthrow or alter or assist in the overthrow or alteration of the Government by force, violence, treachery, espionage, sabotage, insurrection or any unlawful means.

It is also authorized to investigate groups or individuals who incite or employ "Acts of force, violence, terrorism or any unlawful means to obstruct or oppose the lawful authority of the Government of the U. S. in the execution of any law or policy affecting the security of the U. S."

The first comprehensive Congressional examination of tax-exempt organizations in nearly twenty years began Tuesday, 18 February 1969 before the House Ways and Means Committee. A witness list of forty-six for just the four opening days of the hearings indicates the number and complexity of the issues involved.

Combat Newsletter states that the Coalition for an Anti-Imperialist Movement (CO-AIM), a combine of groups under heavy influence of the Communist Workers World Party, plans to move its headquarters from New York City to Washington, D. C.

Julius HOBSON, the outspoken champion of the black crusade in the Washington School System, in years past as a private citizen, and presently an elected member of the D. C. school board (the only member elected without a run-off vote) may end up doing more harm than good to the Negroes to Washington. HOBSON wants the D. C. schools to start teaching Swahili immediately. (NOTE: The topic of Swahili was treated previously in Situation Information Report dated 23 January 1969). If they (the schools) don't, HOBSON says "I'll go to the schools and urge the children to strike."

The only apparent use for Swahili is to "turn on" the otherwise disinterested student. In a city that is perhaps the most language conscious in the nation, the language is practically overlooked as a meaningful study. Washington's Berlitz language school for instance had only four Swahili students last year and this year have none. The only area university even offering Swahili is Howard (Howard has offered a degree in African culture for fifty years) and Howard only has forty-two takers at present.

In a recent editorial in the Scripts-Howard Washington Daily News, one of the most Negro community-conscious papers in Washington due to its large circulation in the inner city, the editors do not believe that useful studies should be sacrificed for useless ones. Time, talent and money, believes the News should be channeled to the teaching of skills fundamental to "making it" in the country in which they live - English for instance. Strongly characterizing HOBSON as a microcosmic maleficent, the News writes: "Mr. HOBSON's barbaric yawp begins to pall. He keeps saying he wants to get on with the serious business of educating children, which is, after all, what schools are for. We congratulate him on grasping this basic principle. If he thinks it can be accomplished by encouraging children to rebel against the school establishment, of which he, himself, is a major part, then we think he is badly mixed up."

A Los Angeles county grand jury has indicted five members of the militant black nationalist organization "US" on two counts of murder and one count of conspiracy to commit murder in the January 17 slaying of two Black Panthers at UCLA. The indictments followed two days of hearings held in secret session and under tight security to eliminate the possibility of any retaliation against witnesses.

The indictment of five came as something of a surprise because press media had reported only two suspects apprehended. The investigation and arrests were apparently conducted with considerable discretion due to the sensitive and tightly charged atmosphere in the Los Angeles Negro community. Members of "US" and the Black Panther Party can be expected to continue their feud regardless of the outcome of the pending prosecution of the five accused. Trial date has not yet been announced. The five who have been charged (including their Swahili names) are: George (Ali Sultani) STINER; Larry (Sakia) STINER; Claude (Chuchessa) HUBERT; Harold (Tuwala) JONES; and Donald (Stodi) HAWKINS.

A coalition of militant black shopworker groups has called for a national boycott of Chrysler Corporation products until the company reinstates twenty-six fired U. A. W. members who were protesting the bad working conditions and racism they charged were practiced by Chrysler.

The coalition will be named the League of Revolutionary Black Workers and is made up of three black caucuses within the U. A. W.: The Dodge Revolutionary Union Movement (DRUM); the Ford Revolutionary Union Movement (FRUM); and the Eldon Revolutionary Union Movement (ELRUM).

The League will distribute leaflets and hold rallies in Detroit as the first step in publicizing the national boycott campaign.

Dr. S. I. HAYAKAWA, acting President of San Francisco State College announced last Sunday that the Department of Black Studies will not be operating during the spring semester. HAYAKAWA charged that the department will have to be postponed until fall because of the "Sabotage" by Dr. Nathan HARE and other black administrators.

HAYAKAWA announced that disciplinary action against HARE, the acting chairman of the Black Studies Department, would be taken because of HARE's involvement in present campus rioting. HARE will not be made chairman of the department but rather another chairman would begin in the fall.

Troubles at Duke University are subsiding and little seems to have been gained by the demonstrators except dialogue. Duke President DOUGLAS M. KNIGHT, Board of Regents head Wade and Assistant Provost William J. GRIFFITH have flatly denied most demands but miraculously appear to have satisfied the protesters and demonstrators. The campus has returned to near normal in the wake of peaceful (and tactful) explanations by the administration that Duke has already made good on most of a twelve-point list of demands presented by Negro students last October. At the height of last week's trouble that may in fact have been mishandled by over-zealous and under-trained policemen, 85 percent of the student body remained uninvolved.

The pinnacle of ludicrousness was approached in the list of twelve demands presented to Duke administrators last fall. One of the twelve was a demand that the University hire a barber qualified to cut hair Afro-style. One of the Negro students in a recent confrontation with Provost GRIFFITH objected to the fashion the university employed in satisfying this demand because the barber was also going to cut the hair of whites.

The University of Wisconsin, scene of student protest for the past ten days, seems to be stabilizing and can probably be expected to carry through a relatively peaceful spring semester. Wisconsin administrators who have been criticized (and with partial justification) for their unsophisticated handling of student demonstrations by requesting 2,000 troops of the Wisconsin National Guard are now requesting their withdrawal as circumstances permit and as events change allowing university Chancellor H. Edwin YOUNG to preserve the dignity of his position. Although hit and run harassment continued last Monday and a small contingent of Guardsmen were re-activated (in much more sensible numbers) the protesters were unable to arouse the large segment of the student body that turned out last week (7,000) incensed by the presence on campus of a veritable army in full battle dress. One university spokesman believes that possibly the only way to avoid a semester-long siege is to negotiate an end with black student leaders. If the Negro students who number less than 2 percent fail to gain continuing support from the white radicals and left-leaning student body, their bargaining position will be extremely weak. At any rate, Dr. YOUNG, Gov. KNOWLES, the Regents and administrators seem determined to employ now both the moderate force required and the negotiating acumen necessary to avert a prolonged disruption at the university.

An ironic side light of the distress being experienced by the 33,000 student campus at Madison is that at the nucleus of the protest are more than 200 Negro students from Wisconsin, the Midwest, East, and rural deep South that were brought to the university under a special program for disadvantaged youngsters. Now they are striking for a Black Studies program because, they say, they are not learning the kind of things they feel are necessary to take back to their cities for the aid of others. "We aren't talking about any soul food or none of that kind of junk," one youth said. "We want a relevant education that we can use to help liberate our brothers and sisters in the black community."

The Reverend Theodore M. HESBURGH, President of Notre Dame University has issued a "get tough" letter to both faculty and student body.

Father HESBURGH's policy of suspension, expulsion, and arrest was apparently triggered by protests at Notre Dame last week after he banned an art exhibit and film during a campus conference on pornography and censorship.

The letter spelled out a series of steps the University would take against anyone or any group that substituted force for rational persuasion be it violent or non-violent. The new policy gives students and faculty members only minutes to halt protest activities which disrupt the normal operations of the University or infringe upon the rights of others.

Reportedly the SDS at American University, Washington, D. C., is considering taking some action as a result of the release of three teachers from the University who have been active in new left activity there.

Washington, D. C. - The SDS at George Washington University plans to demonstrate on a weekly basis against the presence of all recruiters on the George Washington University campus. On 19 February, demonstrations are planned against the Army Material Command Night Vision Laboratory, the Mitre Corp., the Naval Oceanographic Office, and the State Farm Mutual Insurance Company.

Reproduced herewith in its entirety is an article which appeared in the 27 January 1969 edition of the San Francisco Examiner. In our judgment, this is a concise, reasonably accurate, and well-stated exposition on "The New Militancy":

THE NEW MILITANCY

Americans everywhere are concerned about the what and why of militancy and dissent.

In San Francisco one of the men most concerned and most informed is Inspector Tom FITZPATRICK, director of the Police Department's intelligence unit. He and his staff of experts daily process a flow of information from the area and around the world.

FITZPATRICK is San Francisco born, 32 years on the force. He is vice-chairman of the Law Enforcement Intelligence Units, a national police network.

Here FITZPATRICK answers questions concerning the recent course of campus militancy, in the Bay Area and elsewhere.

ARE YOU CONCERNED ABOUT CAMPUS MILITANCY?

It is one of the most serious threats of our times. The damage done to the educational process is incalculable. But most dangerous of all is the fact that successful accomplishment of the aims of campus militancy-when it occurs-also accomplishes one of the major goals of revolutionary plan that we know exists. Give the subverters control of education and their fingers are really around the throats of the next generation. Just as we know there is conspiracy against our way of life we also know that grabbing or destroying schools is one of five basic steps of the current revolution.

WHAT ARE THE FIVE STEPS?

To obtain control of education, transportation, communications, labor and, or government. The revolutionaries believe complete control of any one of these areas of activity equals victory. Envelopment of the educational process is their main aim at the moment.

DOES COMMUNISM-INTERNAL OR EXTERNAL-RELATE TO THIS PLAN?

We strongly feel it is no mere coincidence that most of the leaders in recent demonstrations either are or were members of the Communist Party or some revolutionary organization. Nor is it without significance that the pattern of agitation and action neatly conforms to procedures carried out by Communists or revolutionaries elsewhere and at other times.

DO POLICE AROUND THE WORLD INDICATE SIMILAR CONCERNS?

The patterns everywhere - at San Francisco State, at U. C., at Columbia University, at Brandeis, at the Mexican University, in Paris and in the West German universities - are identical.

The procedures are the same almost to the smallest detail; the tactic of invoking police violence, the list of demands that are merely ploys which they have no real desire to negotiate; the use of sympathetic causes - Vietnam, the draft, oppression of the young, etc; destruction of public property, the vilification of police as brutes and sadists; the attempts to stigmatize every educational or governmental leader who opposes them; the profane and brutal demands for total capitulation and surrender.

The story of each onslaught is almost a carbon copy of the previous or subsequent incident. Is this another multiple coincidence? I don't think so.

DO MILITANTS MOVE FROM CAMPUS TO CAMPUS?

They do.

The police regularly exchange observers at each outbreak, take pictures, record appearances and reappearances. We see the same hard core of manipulators over and over again. These are pros at trouble making highly skilled and artfully directed craftsmen.

WHAT ARE THEIR GOALS?

Just two.

To obtain complete control or to destroy. Either is an equally satisfactory goal to their leadership.

Sub-goals are to immobilize police by discrediting them if possible, and to exploit or denigrate the news media, depending on the attitudes of individual elements in this group. Their ultimate aim is successful revolution.

HOW ARE THEY FINANCED?

That's a good question. We know they take up collections, charge dues or solicit contributions from well-heeled fellow travelers, of whom there are many. But all these sources put together couldn't come up with the money it takes to run their operations.

Some of them, for instance, have been able to commute between, here, Havana, Hanoi and even Moscow like well-to-do globetrotters, not to speak of frequent transcontinental trips. Maybe the Internal Revenue people might take a closer look at the traveling proclivities of some of these impecunious types and come up with answers.

ARE WE LIKELY TO SEE MILITANCY INCREASE? WILL IT SPREAD TO HIGH SCHOOLS?

Like wild-fire. Radical literature, using the familiar revolutionary phrases, is beginning to be seen in the lower schools. Polytechnic and Mission high schools are now going through the same tired old procedures of radical division, impossible demands, character assassination, picketing and violence. The youngsters are next on the list of the destroyers.

HOW IMPORTANT ARE THE RACE FACTORS?

Most important. There ARE injustices. The subversives exploit them.

Yet these revolutionary attempts to use an entire race, to turn black power into red power, are relatively unsuccessful. Negroes are collective individualists and are not easily fooled by pie-in-the-sky doctrines. They don't rest comfortable in the mould of the docile proletariat. I think they will fail with the Negroes.

WHAT SHOULD STUDENTS DO IN THEIR OWN BEST INTEREST?

They should resign from the diffident, uninvolved silent majority.

They should study the situation, become informed, and make their views known.

They should be active in progressive, un-sick programs.

They should write their views and present them. They should protest.

They should abandon apathy and make their majority strength felt by the noisy minorities in these vital contests.

IS THERE A PHYSICAL THREAT TO STUDENTS WHO DO NOT COOPERATE WITH MILITANT DISSENTERS?

Yes, but the present threat is more that of intimidation and psychological manipulation. The demonstrators project menace more than they activate menace.

San Francisco State is an example in microcosm. Imagine 500 loudmouths subduing 16,500 normal, right-thinking, well-protected young Americans - all able-bodied, ambulatory and in full possession of their faculties. The pickets use bull-horns - not bull-whips.

WHAT DEVELOPMENTS CAN WE LOOK FOR NEXT?

More of the same, Much more.

WHAT CAN ORDINARY CITIZENS DO TO HELP THEIR SCHOOLS?

They can interest and involve themselves in school affairs, in proper pay for and the proper selection of good teachers in the elimination of those who threaten these vital institutions.

They can check on the uses to which school money are put.

They can support good, tough, honest administrators.

They can raise hell about violence and destruction when it occurs.

They can indicate their anger about these things to their legislators.

HOW CAN ORDINARY CITIZENS GET THE MOST OUT OF THEIR POLICE DEPARTMENTS?

They should see the police as they really are; not an alien group but a projection of themselves, just as the fingers project from the hand.

They should not be misled into judging the police on the basis of the infrequent defections of the few and they should be instinctively unwilling to believe ill of those who stand between them and violence, exploitation and the many kinds of harm that exist in our community and world today. Especially ill that stems from biased information or the plans of conspirators.

And they should place every implement of defense in our hands, including laws and adjudication of laws that all too often give the edge to subverters of the law; to people who would use the Constitution to destroy the innate intention of the Constitution.

CALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

February 20-21

*Washington, D.C. - The Women Strike for Peace (WSP) has announced that Congressman Geo. E. Brown, Jr. (D-Calif.) will be the featured speaker at a public meeting at Georgetown University. The topic of the meeting is - "Anti-ballistic missiles - Monster in Our Midst." WSP has requested a permit to demonstrate in front of the White House in protest to the war in Vietnam. They also want to hold a "Pageant of Peace" on the ellipse of the White House during Easter Week.

February 21

*Detroit, Mich. - "Malcolm X Day " Allegedly, the extremist Black Panther Party sponsored a community forum on Malcolm X on February 14, 1969, in Detroit, Michigan. The event was to feature tapes of speeches made by Malcolm X and local speakers from the Detroit Black Panther Party who were to encourage all black people to stay home from work and school on "Malcolm X Day," February 21, 1969, in observance of the anniversary of the assassination of Malcolm X. Malcolm X was a black extremist who advocated hatred of the United States and the white race. He was assassinated on February 21, 1969.

February 21-23

*Philadelphia, Pa. - Memorial services commemorating the death of Malcolm X will be held at various schools in the Philadelphia area. The Philadelphia school board decided to make school property and buildings available for such services.

James LESTER, a member of RAM and The United Veterans for Peace, has allegedly rented the Royal Theater for the period 21-23 February 1969. His plans are unknown at this time

February 21

*Kingston, Rhode Island - Students for Democratic Action (SDA), whose goals and methods are similar to those of SDS, plan a protest demonstration on the campus of the University of Rhode Island to coincide with planned interviews of CIA applicants. The likelihood exists that counter-demonstrations will be staged by students who feel the interviews should proceed as scheduled.

SECRET

In view of CIA's past policy of avoiding unnecessary disruption and confrontation tactics, it seems probable the interviews will not be held on the Rhode Island University campus.

February 22

*Austin, Texas - The Austin City Council has given permission for a parade (a walk for development) of 32 miles through the city. Purpose of the march is to solicit money which will be sent to the poverty fund in Washington, D.C.

February 22

*Sylvester, Ga. - In Sylvester, Georgia, unrest continues in the negro community protesting the arrest of two negro juvenile sisters on December 4, 1968, on charges filed by the Board of Education. Recently, Leroy Young, Sr., a representative of the Worth County Improvement League, advised he had talked with various civil rights organizations in Atlanta, Georgia, and they will send representatives to Sylvester on February 22, 1969, to participate in a "Black D Day." He said the civil rights organizations reportedly will have five hundred people in Sylvester on Washington's Birthday to take part in a demonstration. In Sylvester, it was reported, the group will start a "destructive project" in order to attract publicity. It was indicated the group will try such things as blocking intersections and causing fires. Plans are also being made to get the Sylvester Police Department stirred up.

February 22

Chicago, Illinois - A city-wide conference on peace will be held by the Chicago Peace Council, at the 8th Street YMCA. The meeting will reportedly deal with: The Vietnam War; Potential Vietnams; Racism and U.S. Foreign Policy; the Arms Race; and Repression - Trade Union, Civilian and GI.

February 24

*Milwaukee, Wisconsin - State arraignment of the "Milwaukee 14" - 14 war protesters, including five catholic priests and a protestant minister on charges of burglary, arson to property and criminal damage to property after their destruction of thousands of draft records by burning last September is scheduled for 24 February 1969. Federal arraignment has not been scheduled yet although the U.S. Attorney said the government would seek the charges of conspiracy to violate selective service laws and destruction of government property.

March 4

Cambridge, Massachusetts, etc. - A group of about forty-five professors and graduate students have scheduled a a voluntary research halt at M.I.T. to focus attention on how the "misuse of scientific and technical knowledge presents a major threat to the existence of mankind." The M.I.T. organizers are actively encouraging scientists at other universities to schedule similar activities on campus and apparently Cornell and Yale Universities and others will follow their lead. The planning is in no way an official M.I.T. activity and the stopping of research will be done on a voluntary basis and no effort will be made to enforce a compulsory research halt. The idea of stopping research as a "practical and symbolic" expression of the apprehension felt by scientists was in the beginning largely focused on Vietnam but its aims have been expanded. A faculty statement being circulated for signature by the 4 March Steering Committee asserts that "Through its actions in Vietnam our Government has shaken our confidence in its ability to make wise and humane decisions...etc." As well as stopping research, the day of 4 March will be devoted to discussion of problems and possible ways for scientists to initiate political action.

March 4

Washington, D.C. - The New Party plans to inaugurate Dick GREGORY as shadow president of the United States at Washington. GREGORY stated at a recent news conference that planned events on the 4th of March (which he considers the astrologically legitimate date for an inaugural) will be completely peaceful.

The New Party co-chairmen GREGORY and Dr. James P. DIXON, president of Antioch College at Yellow Springs, Ohio, plan a shadow inauguration every four years until a New Party candidate actually wins the Presidency.

GREGORY and DIXON have announced plans to: form a shadow cabinet to comment on the performance of the administration and the "coalition congress"; present an alternative to the military-industrial complex budget prepared by the ruling parties which GREGORY terms "too immoral and too corrupt to govern; and to develop new foreign and domestic policies.

March 16

London, England - Mrs. Coretta KING, widow of Martin Luther KING, Jr., will be the first woman to preach at a regular service in St. Paul's Cathedral, according to authorities in London.

April 4

Rev. Ralph D. ABERNATHY, leader of SCLC, announced a nation-wide drive to organize poor whites and Negroes into unions through an alliance of unions, civil rights and religious organizations. The campaign is to begin April 4, the anniversary of the assassination of the Rev. Martin Luther KING, Jr.

April 5-6

Toronto, Canada - The Communist Party of Canada will hold its 20th Convention Easter weekend.

April 6

(Easter Sunday) - At the sparsely attended "National GI-Civilian Anti-War Action Conference" held in Chicago December 27-29, it was announced that a large series of demonstrations would be held in six or seven U.S. cities on Easter Sunday. Cities mentioned are: Chicago, New York, San Francisco, Seattle, Austin, Atlanta, and possibly Los Angeles. The reason for planning regional centers for the action rather than large national demonstrations was to facilitate more local GI participation in various parts of the U.S. The Conference resolved to seek the support of the NMC for the April 6 demonstrations.

Plans are reputedly well under way and the action has been endorsed by both the Chicago Peace Council and the Los Angeles Peace Action Council, two of the major regional anti-war coalitions in the U.S. In Seattle and Atlanta, anti-war GI's are already actively involved in planning for the demonstrations.

On January 13, the national office of the Student Mobilization Committee issued a call for international actions against the war, April 6. In the message to anti-war groups throughout the world, SMC included the request that, "In those countries where American servicemen are stationed, we call on the anti-war movement to make a special effort for GI participation in the peace demonstrations."

To build April 6 on the campuses, the New York SMC has suggested holding "preinduction orientation sessions - anti-war basic training." These sessions would be meant to prepare students subject to the draft to carry on legal anti-war activity while in the Army.

April 7

*The trial of James Earl RAY, accused killer of Martin Luther King, Jr., has been again postponed by Judge W. Heston Battle on a motion by chief defense counsel Percy Foreman.

FOREMAN charged that a number of policemen and firemen were actually looking at King through peepholes at the time of the assassination but have been prevented from discussing the shooting with him by the director of Memphis Police and Fire Department, Frank C. Holloman.

FOREMAN argues that the alleged witnesses should be compelled to answer his questions.

The trial had been scheduled to start on March 3rd.

April 24-27

Washington, D.C. - A National Conference on the "Human Rights of the Man in Uniform" is apparently being planned for the Sheraton Park Hotel by the American Veterans Committee, 1333 Connecticut Avenue, N.W.

April 30 - May 4

The National Executive Board and the National Committee of the C.P., U.S.A., met earlier this month in New York City to make preparations for the Party's 19th National Convention. The National Committee endorsed a proposal that the National Convention be held from April 30 to May 4, 1969.

On 17 January a call was issued for the Convention by Henry WINSTON, national chairman, and Gus HALL, general secretary. The call hails "the growing radicalization of black Americans, of workers, of students, and the youth."

Summer 1969

According to Leon SHENANDOAH, new Chief of the Iroquois Confederation, Indian tribes from all over North America will meet next summer to discuss such problems as land disputes and the need for more social services.

*Large scale preparations are reportedly under way in the Soviet Union for the World Women's Congress to be held in Helsinki next summer. Over 90 countries and twelve international organizations, according to the chairman of the Soviet Women's Committee, have expressed a desire to attend the Congress which is sponsored by the International Women's Democratic Federation. The theme of the forthcoming forum is to be Womens Role in the Present Day World. The Chairman expressed confidence that the World Women's Congress will demonstrate solidarity with "heroic Vietnam".

243SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Elijah MUHAMMAD, leader of the Black Muslims, aka Nation of Islam, was the principal speaker at their annual convention held in Chicago 23 February. An estimated 6,000 members heard Elijah, as he continues to refer to the white man as the devil and the enemy and to call for separation of the races.

FBI IN 99913

Information has been reported that round-trip airline tickets for travel from San Francisco to Stockholm, Sweden, have been prepared in the names of Black Panther leaders Bobby SEALE and David HILLIARD. The two are scheduled to depart 4 March and to arrive in Stockholm 5 March. The date of return and purpose of the trip are not known at this time.

FBI IN 00774

It was announced at a recent Black Panther Party rally in Chicago, Illinois, that the Black Panther Party in Chicago had formed a coalition with the Vice Lords, a Chicago Negro street gang.

FBI IN 97305

It has been noted that currently the main thrust and emphasis of anti-war, anti-draft, and pacifist organizations and individuals - as well as many leftist radical ones - seems to be to prevent the deployment by the United States of an Anti-Ballistic Missile System. They are joined in their effort, of course, by many well-meaning loyal Americans, whose opposition is not based on ulterior purposes but who earnestly feel use of the ABM System would be unwise.

Washington High School students are increasing demands on the board of education and have apparently found a friend in the person of Julius HOBSON the recently elected firebrand champion of black power in the D. C. school system. Representatives of the Student Coalition for Education Now engaged last week in a gripe session with a five-member Board of Education Committee. HOBSON siding with the Student Coalition labeled the history books now in general use in the city high schools "a tissue of lies." HOBSON encouraged the students to tell the board that they want changes right now. HOBSON, perpetuating his oft-voiced nostrum, urged the students to continue to press their demands.

Some of the changes the students are demanding are: Incorporation of a book list prepared by the Eastern High School Freedom Annex, a racist center of "Soul Studies" in the Eastern High School area. The list includes several works of the late W. E. B. DuBOIS, founder of the NAACP and later life expatriate who died in Ghana several years ago at age 91, finally a confessed communist. DU BOIS posthumously lent his name to the youth group of the CPUSA; Paid student participation in the formation of a black studies curriculum; and change of outdated text books which present American and world history in a manner which slights the black man. The Student Coalition wants black studies courses dealing with Negro history from two minutes ago back to Zinjanthropus erectus.

With a present public school enrollment in the District over 75 percent black and a majority black school board the school system now faces the possibility of a "back lash" curriculum that relegates Christopher Columbus and George Washington to historic roles subordinate to Malcolm X, KING, and CARMICHAEL.

A campus backlash shows signs of emerging across the country and 1969 may not be as dismal and disruptive as many observers fear. The voice of the silent majority is being heard and at a significant number of colleges and universities the moderate student sees the radical as a threat to his educational pursuit and hence his future in society. The campus revolutionary knows when he presents his list of demands to Father HESBURGH at Notre Dame or to Professor HAYAKAWA he can expect rational dialogue, persuasiveness, and compromise. When confronted by his moderate contemporary, however, the radical faces a worthy foe on the same level. Student apathy against vandalism and violence is dropping away.

Several "middle-right" student groups have formed in recent months, and although there is little cohesiveness and coordination from campus to campus, a movement has started to counteract and confront the SDS. Press attention and hopefully genuine student interest is accelerating. The moderate organizations that have recently been noticed (either because they are new or remain no longer dormant) are: The Thomas Jefferson Clubs; United Student Alliance (USA); The Committee for Academic Environment; and the laugh-provoking Society for Prevention of Asinine Student Movements (SPASM). Even among college professors, growing resentment to campus revolt is organizing. New York University Professor Sidney HOOK who in the past has been noted for his liberal though rational outlook has started a group called the Organization of University Centers for Rational Alternatives. HOOK claims a membership of 400 professors at more than 36 colleges and universities.

Campus resistance to SDS, the Black Panthers and other anarchistic and nihilistic movements takes different form at different locations. Petitions backing the administration have been signed on several campuses. The most noteworthy example is Michigan State University where over 10,000 signatures condemning intimidation, violence, and disruption were recently gathered in a few days. Counter demonstrations have been staged elsewhere (San Francisco State and University of Connecticut) and at Rutgers a student has filed a federal complaint charging that the takeover of a classroom building by Negro students violates his civil rights. The complaint reportedly is now in the hands of the Justice Department.

Some observers believe that although the moderate majority will prevail, the radicals of the New Left will begin to resort to more force in coming months. Since destruction is their sole goal and violence their only tactic the SDS in desperation may advance the pace of revolt - not because they see themselves winning but because they see themselves losing.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

The Black Student Union, San Jose City College in California, held a meeting at the College on 21 March. The BSU leader stated that College authorities were giving members of the Union a run-around regarding their demand for a separate black studies department. He proposed that a group be formed within the BSU of individuals having experience in chemistry, electronics, and explosives so that by "June 1 next, there won't be a building left standing." While the forty individuals attending the meeting seemed agreeable to this proposal, no plans were formed to implement it.

YIPPIE leader Jerry RUBIN, disciple of New Left comic relief was recently indicted under a provision of the 1968 Civil Rights Act, barring interstate travel to incite to riot, in connection with his activities during the Democratic National Convention. Always quick with nitwitty wisdom, RUBIN, who isn't taken too seriously either by himself or by conscientious, dedicated radicals and is apparently more interested in the pot than in the plot issued the following statement: "I wish to thank all those who made it possible. I realize the competition was fierce, and I congratulate the thousands who came to Chicago. I hope that I am worthy of this great indictment, the Academy Award of protest.

"With my indictment I join the list of outstanding world figures who have crossed state lines with intent to create civil disturbance: the Beatles, Elvis Presley, the late Marilyn Monroe, the President, and Joe Namath."

(A Review)

CLEAVER's key philosophical chapters, which distinguish his book from any book on the cruel isolation of confinement, coupled with a classic, contemporary, stereotyped Negro persecution complex, fall into the abyss of overcomplicating psychological motivation.

His error reflects an emotional runaway that is often found in the psychic evaluation of human impulse seen through the eyes of a lay-practitioner of the admittedly inexact science of human behavior. CLEAVER's two basic hang-ups, namely variant race-hate manifestations and sex seem throughout to intermingle and superimpose on each other and provide the stimuli present in all significant social, economic, and political institutions of Twentieth Century America. He characterizes the white man as the "omnipotent Administrator," the white woman as the "ultra feminine," the black man as the "Supermasculine menial," and the black woman as the "Amazon." The "omnipotent Administrator," the head, subjugates the "supermasculine menial," the body. The "ultra feminine" is sexually attracted to the "Supermasculine menial" because in the sexual presence of the effeminate head (the omnipotent Administrator) she approaches frigidity. CLEAVER continues in this vein pointing out that it takes a black woman to bring to sexual fulfillment the head and so on.

The trouble comes because in the modern American experience the four roles are played by racial actors instead of in a uni-racial economic caste milieu.

Soul on Ice does indeed give the white reader (for whom I believe the book was written) considerable insight into the persecuted black mentality. As an example, the white prison inmate believes he is paying a debt to society while his black counterpart feels he is being unjustly punished as slavery has punished his ancestors for centuries. The black prisoner thinks that society should pay a debt to him because it was a faulty society that put him in prison in the first place.

CLEAVER, convicted as a rapist, also tries to justify his crimes within the purely racial context. His assault on white women was to get even with the race that subjugates him. CLEAVER won't admit that rape per se is contrary to the laws of society. By omission he denies the possibility that man, be he white, black or striped, would resent the defilement of his woman without regard to the racial origin of the perpetrator. CLEAVER seems unwilling to accept that generic man will seek to protect the chastity of his woman from the ravisher as well as his chattel from the burglar regardless of the possible but irrelevant variables (i. e. age, sex, race, etc.).

Soul on Ice is lyricly well-written with a precise but imaginative vocabulary. It reflects an analytical evaluation of the plight of the American Negro as seen by a most vocal but irrational spokesman. The text is very lightly sprinkled with four-letter Anglo-Saxonisms that fit the theme. A highly readable style indicates that the author could make a significant contribution to the literature of the language if his emotions could stop lying to him.

CALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

March 28-30 *Austin, Texas - The SDS National Council meeting which had been scheduled for Albuquerque, New Mexico, will be held instead in Austin because SDS could not obtain meeting facilities in Albuquerque. Alice's Restaurant, a Hippie hang out, is being reconverted to hold the 600 delegates expected in Austin for the meeting. Permission to use the Doris Miller Auditorium on 28 March has been obtained by the University of Texas SDS Chapter.

SDS is currently engaged in a major internal debate on what policy it should adopt toward the Israeli-Arab conflict in the Middle East. A resolution spelling out the SDS position is expected at this meeting; however, like most SDS national resolutions it will be honored or discarded at the discretion of individual chapters and members.

March 29 *Chicago, Illinois - A GI-Day Rally sponsored by the WSP, Veterans for Peace in Vietnam and the Student Mobilization Committee is to be held near the Great Lakes Training Station.

March 29 *Monterey, California - The GI-Civilian Peace Committee plans a car caravan through the Presidio of Monterey and intends to proceed even if a permit is denied.

March 30 *Omaha, Nebraska - Another anti-war protest march, from Old Market to the Douglas County Courthouse, has been scheduled. No further details are known at this time.

March 30 *Washington, D. C. - A mass march to the National Cathedral to commemorate Martin Luther KING, Jr.'s assassination is being planned by Washington civil rights leaders. SCLC, which is coordinating memorial activities throughout the country Easter weekend, is also planning the mass march on Palm Sunday. A commemorative service, complete with three choirs, will be held in the Cathedral after the marchers arrive at 4 p.m. The memorial service is intended to be ecumenical and it is expected that support from all faiths and all colors will be evidenced.

March 30

Denver, Colorado - There is to be a memorial service for Martin Luther KING, Jr., in downtown Denver, reportedly at the municipal auditorium. Dr. KING's father, Martin Luther KING, Sr., is reportedly scheduled to participate in the service which was organized by the Metropolitan Religious Council on Human Relations, a group of Denver clergymen.

March 31-April 3

*Minneapolis, Minnesota - This period has been designated as "Liberation Week" at the University of Minnesota. A leader of the University of Minnesota student association is attempting to arrange for speakers who will include members of the BPP. It is reported that Eldridge CLEAVER, BPP leader and fugitive from the law, may appear on the campus to speak. (This seems highly improbable and may be a rumor planted to stir up interest in the activities.) On 3 April a mass march will be held to the city-county building to protest the trial of three students arrested during a January sit-in at the University.

April 4-6

Toronto, Canada - The Communist Party of Canada will hold its 20th Convention Easter weekend. Communist and Workers Parties from socialist countries, among others, have been invited to send fraternal delegates to the Convention.

Many metropolitan areas of the USA have been marked for activities other than traditional Easter services and festivities this year. Many organizations and individuals, principally civil rights or anti-war in character but supported by students and assorted dissident groups, have selected the period from Holy Thursday, April 3 through April 8 for an outburst of activity designed to get the utmost in public attention and to further their causes. Most of the civil rights and racial demonstrations and services are keyed to commemoration of Martin Luther KING, Jr., who was assassinated last April 4. The anti-war demonstrations are emphasizing, along with their usual anti-Vietnam War orientation, anti-ABM system deployment and influencing the active-duty GI.

The Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), headed by Rev. Ralph D. ABERNATHY since the assassination of Martin Luther KING, Jr., is the prime mover and coordinator nationally for the civil rights-group activities. SCLC announced some time ago that a nation-wide drive to organize poor whites and Negroes into unions through an alliance of unions, civil rights, and religious organizations would start April 4. This day has been designated by SCLC as National and International Day of Protest against racism and poverty in commemoration of the first anniversary of the assassination of Martin Luther KING, Jr. Commemoration will be continued by staging some nine days of civil rights confrontations in major cities during the Easter period. Besides focusing on racism and poverty, it was decided to add the issue of "war." This serves to merge the civil rights activities with those of the anti-war activists to form a broader base and more impressive participation.

Observances have been planned and announced for many cities and the list continues to grow. Special symbolic programs will be conducted in cities that had particular significance in the career of Rev. Martin Luther KING: Memphis, Montgomery, Selma, and Atlanta. Many of the protests and demonstrations will take place in areas in which the SCLC has operational agencies and will, according to ABERNATHY, take the form of "acceptable, non-violent, direct action." It would seem to be a fair prediction that some sort of service or demonstration will take place in almost every city or area where there is a sizeable Negro population. ABERNATHY indicated that he preferred to center the first day of the confrontations in Alabama, "where George WALLACE is and where so many forces of evil are present." The form of the observances will be varied and will turn on local issues. That may mean school walkouts, welfare protests, boycotts, peace vigils, marches, etc.

At an SCLC meeting on 25 February, the following schedule was agreed upon:

4 April - School boycotts by children (it should be noted that in many cities Good Friday is a school holiday); closing of chain food stores; a commemorative vigil at the United Nations in New York City (through 7 April).

5 April - "National Tag Day" to raise funds for the SCLC; lapel tags bearing Dr. KING's picture and the words "I Gave" will be sold.

6 April - "Black Easter" including a pageant at Chicago, Illinois, during which KING will be symbolically raised from the dead; there and in other cities, a program of wearing old clothes, giving to the poor, refraining from purchase of luxuries, and boycotting department stores.

7-12 April - "Days of Confrontation" in thirty or more cities.

SCLC also plans to continue its efforts to have KING's birth date, January 15, declared a legal holiday.

Rev. ABERNATHY has announced that he and Mrs. Martin Luther KING, Jr., will lead a march in Memphis and in Selma on 4 April and one in Montgomery, Alabama, on 5 April in what he called the beginning of the "second phase" of the poor people's campaign. The drive will eventually focus on Washington. On Sunday, 6 April, ABERNATHY will lead a march in Atlanta.

The demonstrations will launch the second chapter of the Poor People's Campaign. Later this spring, the "Committee of 100" will, according to ABERNATHY, reassemble in Washington to restate its demands and deliver a report entitled "The Poor Peoples Campaign - One Year Later."

In addition to the civil rights, poverty, and commemoration of Martin Luther KING, Jr., activities primarily being sponsored by SCLC, the anti-war groups have stepped up their plans for Easter week activity in conjunction with the aforementioned actions but also separately for the most part.

The initial planning started at the sparsely attended "National GI-Civilian Anti-War Action Conference" held in Chicago last December 27-29. Among those taking part were Fred HALSTEAD of the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party, Leroy WOLINSOF of the Communist Party, and Sidney LENS of the National Mobilization Committee. Primarily an effort of the SWP, YSA, and Student Mobilization Committee, they have been working and propagandizing the idea until now coalitions have evolved or are being developed to share the organization of the actions.

On 13 January, the national office of the Student Mobilization Committee issued a call for international actions against the war, 6 April. In the message to anti-war groups throughout the world, SMC included the request that, "In those countries where American servicemen are stationed, we call on the anti-war movement to make a special effort for GI participation in the peace demonstrations." Sympathetic demonstrations are expected in London and Paris.

To build 6 April on the campuses, the New York SMC has suggested holding "preinduction orientation sessions - anti-war basic training." These sessions would be meant to prepare students subject to the draft to carry on legal anti-war activity while in the Army.

The major arenas for the anti-war demonstrations and protests Easter weekend will take place in six regional centers across the USA: Seattle, Atlanta, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Chicago, and New York. Austin, Texas will be the scene of the southwest regional activity on 13 April. In addition to these major cities, supporting or separate activity will take place in a number of other locations.

According to the March 15 issue of the Guardian, radical newsweekly, plans for an April 5-6 GI-Civilian march to bring the troops home now have escalated this week amid growing controversy from groups involved in GI work. The YSA, the SMC, and in New York, the 5th Avenue Peace Parade Committee, are moving ahead with plans to hold the Easter weekend marches. Strongest opposition came from Vietnam GI, the free-wheeling GI underground paper headquartered in Chicago. Editors of Vietnam GI and other organizers criticize SMC on charges of manipulation and opportunism.

SMC hopes the marches will be peaceful and legal defense for soldiers is being planned by the GI Civil Liberties Defense Committee. The emphasis on legal defense and visible demonstrations is an approach the SMC feels essential. Some GI's feel that emphasis on legal defense is irrelevant and say "it's not the legal ways the Army can get at a GI but the thousands of illegal ways which plague organizing inside the military."

WASHINGTON, D. C.

April 4

Washington, D. C. - A newly formed District of Columbia Statehood Committee announced a drive to make the District the 51st state by 1971, and also declared that April 4, Good Friday, should be a holiday marking the first anniversary of Martin Luther KING, Jr.'s, assassination.

April 4

*Washington, D. C. - Washington civil rights leaders are planning at least four outdoor rallies on April 4 in addition to the March 30 mass march to the National Cathedral. Permit applications for the daytime rallies in Meridian Hill Park, DuPont Circle, Lincoln Park, and a small park at 48th and Deane Avenue, N. E., are still under consideration. Easter vacation for the D. C. public school system begins April 4 and thousands of children will be free to attend should they desire to

The Metropolitan Community Aid Council, Inc., has reportedly mailed letters to about 200 community leaders in the area setting forth the organization's plans to commemorate Martin Luther KING, Jr.'s, death. The Council is requesting business establishments to close on April 4 and all churches to remain open in order that people can worship in memory of KING.

The predominantly Negro Chamber of Commerce voted to accept the "spirit of the close-down request" but leaving the decision to close or not to the individual merchants.

The Metropolitan Building of Trade has not announced its position yet re the request.

April 6

*Washington, D. C. - The National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy (SANE) is sponsoring a "Speak-Out on Vietnam." Six buses have been chartered to carry demonstrators from Philadelphia. SANE has applied for a permit to demonstrate in front of the White House. Some 500 individuals are expected to participate. Additionally SANE has called for a gathering at the Pentagon.

NEW YORK CITY

April 4-6

*The New York 5th Avenue Vietnam Peace Parade Committee is playing a leading part in preparations for the New York area GI-Civilian peace demonstrations.

On 4 April a demonstration sponsored by seven organizations is to take place at the Headquarters of the New York City Selective Service.

The main demonstration is scheduled for 5 April with anti-war groups in Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore, and New Jersey expected for a march. GI's from bases all over the east coast are to be highlighted. The march will assemble at 2 p.m. at Bryant Park and proceed to a rally in Central Park. Strong support is being sought from high school students.

April 5

*New York City - The New York State Communist Party has called on all clubs and leadership bodies to mobilize for the Peace demonstration. A memorandum addressed to party members declared, "The demonstration on April 5 must see a minimum of 100,000 people in the streets of New York calling for end to the Vietnam War, for withdrawal of U.S. troops, an end to the ABM program, cutting the military budget, and using the funds for the people's social needs." The memorandum calls for leafletting, organizing, and preparation of banners, etc.

Leaflets have been distributed in the Boston area advertising charter buses for use in traveling to N. Y. C. for the anti-war demonstration known as "Spring Action."

A Pearl CHERTOVIS of the GI-Civilian Coalition, has made a request for 40 buses, total capacity 2040 persons, to depart Philadelphia on 5 April for New York City to attend a mass rally in Central Park. CHERTOVIS has been active in the past in numerous left-wing organizations including the Socialist Workers Party, SANE, and Fair Play for Cuba.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

Chicago, Illinois - The Chicago Peace Council is hosting the Chicago GI-Civilian Peace March on 5 April. The marchers aim to exploit the poor press Chicago received during the Democratic National Convention. The Cleveland Area Peace Action Council (CAPAC) and the Student Mobilization Committee (SMC) will participate and also decided to co-sponsor a combination send-off rally and memorial for Martin Luther KING, Jr., on the evening of 4 April. Minneapolis anti-war groups have already been active in building support for the midwest regional demonstration in Chicago. In Detroit an ad hoc committee of more than 100 prominent individuals and organizations is organizing participation in the Chicago action.

The Chicago Peace Council plans anticipate participation from the entire midwestern region.

The rally at the Chicago Coliseum tentatively calls for speakers Coretta KING, Stuart MEACHAM of the American Friends Service Committee, a GI and a high school student. There will be an open microphone for GI's to speak their pieces.

Militant

High School Students Against the War (HISSAW), with representatives in over 120 area high schools has been actively building for the demonstration. A high school strike is being pushed in Detroit on 3 April to protest the War in Vietnam and to commemorate Martin Luther KING's assassination. It will also support the 5 April anti-war demonstration in Chicago.

At a "Third World meeting in Chicago last week with representatives from black and Latin-American groups, a Third World Committee for Solidarity with Vietnam was formed and has issued a leaflet to build up April 5.

Anti-war leaders plan at the march and mass rally at Chicago on April 5 to protest the recent indictments of eight movement leaders filed as a result of disturbances during the Democratic National Convention.

Rennie DAVIS, a leader of the MOBE and one of the group indicted announced that he would address the rally at Chicago's International Amphitheater on the 5th. Dr. Maxwell PRIMACK, chairman of the Chicago Peace Council predicts that thousands of persons from midwestern states will take part in this "largest protest demonstration in the history of Chicago."

SEATTLE, WASHINGTON

April 4, 5 & 6

*In support of the national call for anti-war actions over the Easter weekend, the Seattle anti-war movement spearheaded by the GI-Civilian Alliance on Peace, is planning another mass protest and plans have been laid for a GI-Civilian Anti-War Basic Training Weekend. It will be initiated by a "Pain in the Brass" action on 4 April, featuring massive leafletting of nearby Ft. Lewis by civilians from the Northwest that night.

Saturday, April 5, will be devoted to a mock trial of the brass, speeches by GI's and civilians on the causes of the war, methods of opposing it, and the connection of the anti-war movement with the black struggle and student movement.

April 6, Easter Sunday, will be devoted to workshops to discuss future plans for activities and organizing campaigns, as well as other topics of interest to the movement.

Members of the Peace and Freedom Party and other organizations, led by Socialist Workers Party organizers Bill MASSEY will enter Ft. Lewis in an attempt to distribute the leaflets. The demonstrators will use all entrances to the post and will attempt to give the military police a "hard time." Air 9084

Later reports indicate that operation "Pain in the Brass" has been modified and that demonstrators will assemble at the American Friends Service Committee Office in Seattle at 1800 hours and travel to Ft. Lewis where, instead of large scale activities, they will go to General BEVERLEY's residence to demonstrate and urge him to come outside and talk. Air 9085

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA

April 6

*San Francisco - One of the biggest gatherings is expected at the GI march and rally in San Francisco. GI-Civilian groups have been formed at both San Francisco State and the University of California at Berkeley. The march will start at the Civic Center and the rally will be in an open field near the main gate of the Presidio. GI's on the West Coast have been leafletting local bases heavily. Because of the Richmond Oil Refinery strike, the anti-war movement hopes to get active labor support, not just leadership endorsement. Guardian

The twin themes will be "Bring the GI's Home Now" and "Free the Presidio 27." 3-22-69

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA

Although Los Angeles has been cited as the location for regional demonstrations, no details or publicity has been noted to date.

ATLANTA, GEORGIA

Atlanta, Georgia - The Southwide Mobilization (NFI) has planned the following activities in commemoration of Dr. KING during the Easter Weekend. On 4 April a forty-hour vigil will begin on the steps of the state capitol; on 5 April, workshops on racism, poverty, imperialism, non-violence, and GI organizing; and on 6 April, a two-mile march ending with a rally at Hurt Park, and a "Parade of Rags" by approximately 100 welfare recipients. A march permit has been requested but has not been granted. Air 9085

More than 30 protest organizations have announced they will participate in the Easter demonstration in Atlanta. Included in their plans are a forty-hour vigil on the steps of the State Capitol - which Gov. Lester MADDOX says will not be permitted. He said he might allow a limited number on the sidewalk but protestors will not be allowed on the Capitol steps or grounds. A spokesman for the demonstration planners said the vigil will be held "with or without approval."

April 6 was selected for the climax to the anti-war demonstration for the southeast region in Atlanta with a mass march. The GI-Civilian Committee will front the demonstration here. Disaffected servicemen from Ft. Benning are expected to lead the march.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Raymond HEWITT, Los Angeles Black Panther Party leader, apparently is substituting for David HILLIARD, and will accompany Black Panther Party chairman Bobby George SEALE on a trip to Stockholm, Sweden which was scheduled to begin from San Francisco on 6 March. At least one purpose for the trip is alleged to be an attempt to obtain financial backing for the party.

Reportedly, members of the organization of Afro-American Students and SDS have formed the "New AU" at American University, Washington, D.C. This group is developing student demands to present to the University and if they are not met within one month, will attempt a confrontation with university authorities.

SDS allegedly is unhappy that the school authorities have acted in such a way as to satisfy most of the student body and SDS, therefore, has decided to increase its demands.

What affect the ranting and ravings of some of the more extreme black militants have on the masses is difficult to assess but certainly there must be some who are moved by such frenetic mouthings, often openly, and blatantly made.

For example, Bobby Eugene WRIGHT, a thirty five year old negro schoolteacher and leader of a black caucus of the Chicago Teachers Union, reportedly recently delivered a lecture to thirty board of education personnel at a Chicago, Illinois high school. He made violent statements during this lecture which revealed the underlying theme that reform was not wanted by blacks and that their ultimate goal was to destroy. He stated. "Our job of destroying the system must begin with the school system." Also, "We want a black person in the position held by every single Irish-Catholic, and Jew." He stated that it did not matter whether a teacher was qualified, just as long as he was black. He further stated, "Quality education is not our concern. Destruction of the system and black control is." He concluded by stating that in order for blacks to gain control over the major cities, "We must destroy the community, the system, the society." and "What we replace it with is unimportant."

A study recently concluded by the National Association of Secondary School Principals reflects wide spread protest activities on the high school and junior high school campuses throughout the nation. The survey which involved a random sampling of just over 1,000 schools indicated that 60% of secondary schools are experiencing student activism ranging in intensity from vocal complaints to riots. Schools in rural areas, as would be expected, did not report as much protest activities as suburban and city schools but the rural incident too was over 50%. "Young people," said an association spokesman. "are becoming vocal on every topic from the vote for 18 year olds to glue sniffing."

Dress and hair requirements head the list of complaints, followed by smoking rules, cafeteria, and assembly fare, censorship of student papers, and scheduling of sporting events. Forty-five per cent of the schools reporting protest activities find dissatisfaction regarding the way pupils are educated. The complaints included poor teachers, curriculum content, scheduling, grades and exams. Protests over racial relations problems were reported by 10% of the schools. Three per cent of the protests involved Vietnam and 2% the draft.

"How does one handle nonmilitant minorities?"

"Dammit, I'm on your side — I'm a teacher!"

CALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

- 10 March *Kent, Ohio - The Kent State University SDS chapter is rumored to be planning to bomb the Reserve Officers Training Corps installation at the University some time during the week of March 10.
- 14-19 March *Washington, D.C. - A conference on the Atlantic Community has been scheduled and sponsored by a Georgetown University student organization, CONTAC. The conference is expected to include some seventy outstanding college students from this Country, Western Europe, and behind the Iron Curtain. Among the topics at this year's conference, an annual affair, is "Student Revolt in the West." Daniel COHN-BENDIT, leftist student leader from Germany has reputedly been invited. It is doubtful that a visa will be granted for his attendance.
- 16 March London, England - Mrs. Coretta KING, widow of Martin Luther KING, Jr., will be the first woman to preach at a regular service in St. Paul's Cathedral, according to authorities in London.
- 22, 23 and 24 March Washington, D.C. - The Committee to Abolish HUAC (now H.I.S.C.) will hold its annual conference at which time strategy will be worked out for continuing the movement to abolish the committee.
- 27-31 March Denver, Colorado - Over 1,000 young Spanish-speaking persons from throughout the country are expected to attend a Chicano Youth Liberation Conference being hosted by the Crusade for Justice. The theme of this meeting is "The New Chicano Revolution! - Where? How? When?" In the series of workshops, broadly described as those dealing with "social revolution" and with "cultural" developments the conference will address itself to the role of young people from the barrios, student movement, rural

*Rev. Ralph D. ABERNATHY, leader of SCLC, announced a nation-wide drive to organize poor whites and negroes into unions through an alliance of unions, civil rights and religious organizations. The campaign is to begin April 4, which SCLC has designated as National and International day of protest against racism and poverty in commemoration of the 1st anniversary of the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther KING, Jr. Later SCLC announced that it will commemorate the death of Dr. Martin Luther KING, Jr., one of its founders, by staging nine days of civil rights confrontations at Easter time in major cities. The action will start on Good Friday, the first anniversary of Dr. King's murder.

Tentative arrangements include school boycotts, walkouts, sit-ins, rent strikes, and a march from Selma to Montgomery, Alabama. The demonstrations are to take place in areas in which the SCLC has operational agencies and will "take the form of acceptable, non-violent, direct action," according to Ralph D. ABERNATHY, SCLC President. He said that he preferred to center the first day of the confrontation in Alabama, "where George WALLACE is and where so many forces of evil are present."

At a SCLC meeting on 25 February the following schedule was agreed upon:

- 4 April - School boycott by children; closing of chain food stores; commemorative vigil at U.N. in N.Y.C. (thru April 7)"
- 5 April - "National Tag Day" to raise funds for the SCLC;
- 6 April - "Black Easter" including a pageant at Chicago, Ill., during which KING will be symbolically raised from the dead;
- 7-12 April - "Days of confrontation" in thirty or more cities

SCLC also plans to continue its efforts to have KING's birth date, January 15, declared a legal holiday.

5-6 April

Toronto, Canada - The Communist Party of Canada will hold its 20th Convention Easter weekend.

6 April

(Easter Sunday) - At the sparsely attended "National GI-Civilian Anti-War Action Conference" held in Chicago December 27-29, it was announced that a large series of demonstrations would be held in six or seven U.S. Cities on Easter Sunday. Cities mentioned are: Chicago, New York, San Francisco, Seattle, Austin, Atlanta, and possibly Los Angeles. The reason for planning regional centers for the action rather than large national demonstrations was to facilitate more local GI participation in various parts of the U.S. The conference resolved to seek the support of the NMC for the April 6 demonstrations.

Plans are reputedly well under way and the action has been endorsed by both the Chicago Peace Council and the Los Angeles Peace Action Council, two of the major regional anti-war coalitions in the U.S. In Seattle and Atlanta, anti-war GI's are already actively involved in planning for the demonstrations.

On January 13, the national office of the Student Mobilization Committee issued a call for international actions against the war, April 6. In the message to anti-war groups throughout the world, SMC included the request that, "In those countries where American servicemen are stationed, we call on the anti-war movement to make a special effort for GI participation in the peace demonstrations.

To build April 6 on the campuses, the New York SMC has suggested holding "preinduction orientation sessions - anti-war basic training." These sessions would be meant to prepare students subject to the draft to carry on legal anti-war activity while in the Army.

7 April

The trial of James Earl RAY, accused killer of Martin Luther KING, Jr., has been again postponed by Judge W. Heston BATTLE on a motion by chief defense counsel Percy FOREMAN.

FOREMAN charged that a number of policemen and firemen were actually looking at KING through peepholes at the time of the assassination but have been prevented from discussing the shooting with him by the director of Memphis Police and Fire Department, Frank C. HOLLOMAN. FOREMAN argues that the alleged witnesses should be compelled to answer his questions.

The trial had been scheduled to start on March 3rd.

24 -27 April

*Peoria, Illinois - A black cultural week is scheduled to be held at Bradley University.

24-27 April

Washington, D.C. - A National Conference on the "Human Rights for the Man in Uniform" is apparently being planned for the Sheraton Park Hotel by the American Veterans Committee, 1333 Connecticut Avenue, N.W.

30 April -
4 May

The National Executive Board and the National Committee of the C. P., U.S.A., met earlier this month in New York City to make preparations for the Party's 19th National Convention. The National Committee endorsed a proposal that the National Convention be held from April 30 to May 4, 1969.

On 17 January a call was issued for the Convention by Henry WINSTON, national chairman, and Gus HALL, general secretary. The call hails "the growing radicalization of black Americans, of workers, of students, and the youth."

Summer 1969

According to Leon SHENANDOAH, new Chief of the Iroquois Confederation, Indian tribes from all over North America will meet next summer to discuss such problems as land disputes and the need for more social services.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORTWashington, D C. (April 4-6) - Easter Weekend

Any prediction at this time as to the atmosphere which will prevail in the Washington area during Easter weekend 1969 is admittedly speculative and conjectural, particularly as there may be later official and unofficial decisions as to whether or not April 4, the anniversary of Martin Luther KING, Jr. 's assassination, will be declared an official Holiday locally by the federal and/or district government and/or by the local business community. It appears that the overwhelming majority of the populace would prefer that the weekend could be noted in traditional religious services and Easter customs and festivities, with appropriate memorial observation of KING's death by those so inclined. However, an air of tension and hostility has been growing nationally and locally and it must be considered that there will be disorders within the nation and possibly in the Washington Metropolitan area.

As many dissident groups have already indicated that they intend individually or in joint concerted actions to demonstrate during this period, it would be folly not to anticipate disorder. These numerous groupings include: anti-war and pacifist organizations; civil-rights and racial organizations; new-left and student organizations; and old left organizations. Their activities include marches, rallies, guerrilla theatre, memorial services, workshops, boycotts, etc. etc. Tempers have been rising, militance increasing, and inter-racial violence escalating particularly marked by polarization of whites and blacks at the high school level. Recent confrontations with the police, as exemplified in the shootings in Detroit during the recent gathering of members of the New Republic of Africa, militant black separatist organization, reflect the current hostile climate. The indictment of eight leaders in the disorders at the Democratic National Convention has been viewed by the dissident movements as another signal of a hardening posture and has been answered by expostulations to react with renewed vigor and activity to demonstrate to President NIXON and the Government that the Movement is no less viable and dedicated than it was prior to the bombing halt and to NIXON's election. Stepped up activity is to emphasize the Vietnam War issue, the ABM system, and, of course, racism in the U.S.A. Rumors and reports of possible violent or destructive action nationally include the burning of ghetto areas in Chicago (black militants) and damage of military facilities in the Seattle area (SDS).

Locally, there have been intimations of violence if April 4 is not observed in the fashion deemed appropriate by militant blacks. Some direct threats have been made - for example, "Hahn Shoe Stores will be the first to go." Businessmen and other informants have not acknowledged receiving specific threats nor have any groups other than the "51st Statehood Committee" been noted as making belligerent demands or statements. The elements are present, nevertheless, for disorder if crowds gather and an incident occurs intentionally or inadvertently to spark it. Having failed to disrupt the Inauguration ceremonies to the extent they desired, the same dissident groups are eager for another opportunity to embarrass the administration and to further the same varied goals they had at that time. The recent property damage of the local DOW Chemical Company office, primarily by religious pacifists, may serve as an example to be emulated by others. In addition, black militants, although nationally uncoordinated, have shown increasing impatience in attaining their goals. Among the greater threats for disorder are the juveniles and young adults. They are responsible for the majority of the crime and violence in the area. Students will be out of school and potentially "on the streets" all weekend. Spring brings a rash of youthful exuberant mischievous activity, at best. There have been reports that students have vowed to break out all car lights which are not lit on April 4 in honor of KING.

The business community's decision on whether to close Friday, as was noted, is still moot. In addition to the campaign for closing being pushed by the D. C. Statehood Committee group, at least two predominantly white organizations are also agitating for it: Arthur Waskow's Center for Emergency Support and The Jews for Urban Justice.

Latest information reflects that Mayor Washington has officially announced a liberal leave policy for all D. C. employees on Friday, 4 April. This indicates there will be no official closings, but individual decisions must be made. At least two Safeway Stores in the District have received anonymous threats to close or "burn." Sources report widespread but unorganized discontent in the black community of the District. There have been reports of unidentified "out of towners" milling about the 14th Street area.

On the "right," the National Socialist White People's Party (NAZI) has dropped agitative leaflets in the area from a plane and can be counted on to make its disruptive influence felt during the weekend.

SPECIAL SITUATION REPORTStudent Afro-American Society

The Student Afro-American Society (SAS) was founded on the Columbia University campus in late 1962. Caught up in what its founder, Hilton CLARK called the "identity crisis," SAS's mission, though loosely formulated in the beginning, was designed to "relate" the Negro collegian to the black community and to synthesize his awareness of ethnic self.

SAS appears to be only one of many such Negro student organizations found on most campuses of predominantly white colleges and universities (at Harvard - Association of African and Afro-American Students; at Yale - Black Student Alliance; at Princeton - Association of Black Collegians; at Cornell - Afro-American Society; and at most other universities the Black Student Union). Although there is no defined and recorded unity among the various organizations, at least one regional conference of Afro groups has been held - at Columbia in 1966. The 1966 conference was attended by 300 delegates representing 30 schools in the Northeast.

Regardless of the purity of expressed initial motives, in the past several years Afro groups on most major American campuses have proven to be a radical, divisive force and a major contributor to the present state of college troubles. Through tactics ranging from disrespect and insulting arrogance to criminality, the names of the Afro campus groups have made the headlines from Columbia (the SAS) to San Francisco State (BSU). They have acted alone as at Cornell in the April 1969 armed takeover of a campus building and in coalition with other radical entities, often of a minority group nature, as at San Francisco State where they joined forces as part of the Third World Liberation Front.

.. The SAS is presently known only at Columbia but coincidentally named sister associations may exist at other places. The use of the name Black Student Union (used both at Maryland and at San Francisco

A touch of humor was injected recently into the jittery student-faculty-administration relations at the Rutgers University campus by a group called the Greek-American Student Organization.

"The organization's demands included the following:

Organization of a Greek-American studies program offering courses in restaurant management, yacht building and military government.

Active recruitment of students of Greek-American ancestry from such high-density areas as Sparta, N. J., Athens, Ga., and Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn.

Hiring of Aristotle Onassis to teach a course in marriage counseling, and Spiro T. Agnew to head the political science department.

Recognition of such important holidays of Greek heritage as Thermopylae Day and Maria Callas's birthday."

Denver, Colorado - Over 1,000 young Spanish-speaking persons from throughout the country are expected to attend a Chicano Youth Liberation Conference being hosted by the Crusade for Justice. The theme of this meeting is "The New Chicano Revolution! - Where? How? When?" In the series of workshops, broadly described as those dealing with "social revolution" and with "cultural" developments the conference will address itself to the role of young people from the barrios, student movement, rural communities, campesino movement.

April 4

Washington, D. C. - A newly formed District of Columbia Statehood Committee announced a drive to make the District the 51st state by 1971, and also declared that April 4, Good Friday, should be a holiday marking the first anniversary of Martin Luther KING, Jr.'s assassination.

Telegrams asking merchants to close their stores on that day have allegedly been sent to the Presidents of the Board of Trade and the D. C. Chamber of Commerce. "We expect the merchants to comply with this request," the Statehood Committee chairman said.

*There are indications of implied threats of some sort of extreme activity if merchants do not comply with the request.

April 4-6

*Toronto, Canada - The Communist Party of Canada will hold its 20th Convention Easter weekend. Communist and Workers Parties from socialist countries, among others, have been invited to send fraternal delegates to the Convention.

It now appears that some areas of this country may be denied a tranquil Happy Easter this year as a number of organizations, primarily either black or anti-war, have indicated plans to mark Easter weekend by demonstrations and various other activities designed to draw attention and presumably further their causes.

April 4

*Rev. Ralph D. ABERNATHY, leader of SCLC, announced a nation-wide drive to organize poor whites and Negroes into unions through an alliance of unions, civil rights and religious organizations. The campaign is to begin April 4, which SCLC has designated as National and International day of protest against racism and poverty in commemoration of the 1st anniversary of the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther KING, Jr. Later SCLC announced that it will commemorate the death of Dr. Martin Luther KING, Jr., one of its founders, by staging nine days of civil rights confrontations at Easter time in major cities. The action will start on Good Friday, the first anniversary of Dr. KING's murder. To the focus on racism and poverty was added "war."

SCLC officials have listed 19 cities where observances have been planned and said there would be many more. Special symbolic programs will be conducted in cities that had particular significance in Martin Luther KING's career: Memphis, Montgomery, Selma, and Atlanta. Other cities where various commemorations and protests will be conducted are: Raleigh; New Orleans; Cincinnati; San Francisco; Los Angeles; Buffalo; Philadelphia; Houston; Tallahassee; Cleveland; Richmond; Hopewell, Virginia; and Petersburg, Virginia.

The demonstrations are largely to take place in areas in which the SCLC has operational agencies and will take the form of "acceptable, non-violent, direct action," according to Ralph D. ABERNATHY, SCLC President. He said that he preferred to center the first day of the confrontation in Alabama, "where George WALLACE is and where so many forces of evil are present." The form of the observances will vary widely and will turn on around the local issues. That may mean school walkouts, welfare protests, peace vigils, boycotts, etc. However, at a SCLC meeting on 25 February the following schedule was agreed upon:

- 4 April - School boycott by children; closing of chain food stores; commemorative vigil at U. N. in N. Y. C. (thru April 7)
- 5 April - "National Tag Day" to raise funds for the SCLC; lapel tags bearing Dr. KING's picture and the words "I Gave" will be sold.
- 6 April - "Black Easter" including a pageant at Chicago, Illinois, during which KING will be symbolically raised from the dead; there and in other cities, a program of wearing old clothes, giving to the poor, refraining from purchase of luxuries, and boycotting department stores.
- 7-12 April - "Days of confrontation" in thirty or more cities.

SCLC also plans to continue its efforts to have KING's birth date, January 15, declared a legal holiday.

Rev. ABERNATHY has announced that he and Mrs. Martin Luther KING, Jr., will lead a march in Memphis and in Selma on April 4 and one in Montgomery, Alabama, on April 5 in what he called the beginning of the "second phase" of the poor people's campaign. The drive will eventually focus on Washington. On Sunday, April 6, ABERNATHY will lead a march in Atlanta.

The demonstrations will launch the second chapter of the Poor People's Campaign. Later this spring, the "Committee of 100" will, according to ABERNATHY, reassemble in Washington to restate its demands and deliver a report entitled "The Poor Peoples Campaign - One Year Later."

In addition to the civil rights, poverty, and Martin Luther KING, Jr. memorial type of activity primarily being sponsored by SCLC, the anti-war groups are stepping-up their plans for Easter week activity. Essentially their efforts will be anti-war but most will not lose the opportunity to include some civil rights activity and memorial to Martin Luther KING, Jr.

Initial planning started at the sparsely attended "National GI-Civilian Anti-War Action Conference" held in Chicago last December 27-29. Among those taking part were Fred HALSTEAD of the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party, Leroy WOLINSOF of the Communist Party, and Sidney LENS of the National Mobilization Committee. Primarily an effort of the SWP, YSA, and Student Mobilization Committee, they have been working and propagandizing the idea until now, coalitions have evolved or are being developed to share the organization of the actions.

On January 13, the national office of the Student Mobilization Committee issued a call for international actions against the war, April 6. In the message to anti-war groups throughout the world, SMC included the request that, "In those countries where American servicemen are stationed, we call on the anti-war movement to make a special effort for GI participation in the peace demonstrations." Sympathetic demonstrations are expected in London and Paris.

To build April 6 on the campuses, the New York SMC has suggested holding "preinduction orientation sessions - anti-war basic training." These sessions would be meant to prepare students subject to the draft to carry on legal anti-war activity while in the Army.

April 4-6

*Philadelphia, Pennsylvania - Several anti-war groups, including the American Friends Service Committee, are organizing demonstrations for this period in cooperation with the Student Mobilization Committee, which is one of the sponsors of demonstrations in seven major cities. Teach-ins, picketing, and a sunrise service will be held.

According to the March 15 issue of the Guardian, radical newsweekly, plans for an April 5-6 GI-Civilian march to bring the troops home now have escalated this week amid growing controversy from groups involved in GI work. The YSA, the SMC, and in New York, the 5th Avenue Peace Parade Committee, are moving ahead with plans to hold Easter weekend marches in seven cities. Strongest opposition came from Vietnam GI, the free-wheeling GI underground paper headquartered in Chicago. Editors of Vietnam GI and other organizers criticize SMC on charges of manipulation and opportunism.

SMC hopes the marches will be peaceful and legal defense for soldiers is being planned by the GI Civil Liberties Defense Committee. The emphasis on legal defense and visible demonstrations is an approach the SMC feels essential. Some GI's feel that emphasis on legal defense is irrelevant and say "it's not the legal ways the Army can get at a GI but the thousands of illegal ways which plague organizing inside the military."

April 5

*New York City - The New York 5th Avenue Vietnam Peace Parade Committee is planning to organize a GI-Civilian peace demonstration. The Easter weekend action will coincide with others to be held in a number of regional centers across the U. S. A. Seattle, Atlanta, Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Chicago are also having demonstrations either on Saturday or Sunday. In Austin, the GI-Civilian anti-war action will be on 13 April.

Anti-war groups in Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore, and New Jersey are expected for the New York march, as well as GI's from bases all over the east coast. The march will assemble at 2 p. m. at Bryant Park and march to a rally in Central Park. Strong support is being sought from high school students.

*Chicago, Illinois - The Chicago Peace Council is hosting the Chicago GI-Civilian Peace March on 5 April. The marchers aim to exploit the poor press Chicago received during the Democratic National Convention. The Cleveland Area Peace Action Council (CAPAC) and the Student Mobilization Committee (SMC) will participate and also decided to co-sponsor a combination send-off rally and memorial for Martin Luther KING, Jr., on the evening of 4 April. Minneapolis anti-war groups have already been active in building support for the midwest regional demonstration in Chicago. In Detroit an ad hoc committee of more than 100 prominent individuals and organizations is organizing participation in the Chicago action.

Atlanta, Ga. - April 6 (Easter) was selected for the climax to the anti-war demonstration for the southeast region in Atlanta with a mass march. The GI-Civilian Committee will front the demonstration here. Disaffected servicemen from Ft. Benning are expected to lead the march. April 4 will be used to commemorate Martin Luther KING, Jr., and the 5th will be utilized in workshops of assorted topics.

*Seattle, Washington - The demonstration will be headed by a front group known as the GI-Civilian Alliance for Peace. Various other "peace" groups will take part in the agitation and propagandizing. Plans are under way for a GI-Teach-in near Ft. Lewis on April 6 - Seattle - and mass rallies on both the 5th and 6th.

San Francisco, California - Preliminary planning calls for a massive April 6 march on the Presidio followed by a rally at its gates. The twin themes will be "Bring the GI's Home Now" and "Free the Presidio 27."

April 13

*Austin, Texas - An intensive campaign to build the anti-war demonstration is underway. It was decided to hold the action on April 13 instead of Easter weekend when other groups across the country will demonstrate, because many University of Texas students will be home for the holiday. The Texas Committee to End the War in Vietnam will lead the demonstration.

April 13

*A protest of alleged institutional segregation at the University of Virginia may be staged at the Charlottesville campus on Thomas Jefferson's birthday. A founder and spokesman for the University's Student Coalition, Robert ROSEN stated his intentions for an April 13th protest demonstration in a speech from the capitol steps in Richmond after he and other student leaders found Virginia Governor Mills Godwin not in sympathy with the Student Coalition's demands for university reform.

On 17 January a call was issued for the Convention by Henry WINSTON, national chairman, and Gus HALL, general secretary. The call hails "the growing radicalization of black Americans, of workers, of students, and the youth."

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

- April 15 - May 1 *The SDS "Winter-Spring Offensive" which has been moving in slow gear so far in D. C. has plans for a march on the Washington, D. C., Building of Education, demonstrations at area draft centers, and demonstrations at military recruiting stations at area universities.
- April 18 *Princeton, New Jersey - The SDS at Princeton University has planned a rally for 18 April in sympathy with the SDS at Harvard University. Demands to be presented are: the removal of ROTC from the Princeton University Campus, liquidation of PU's holdings in South Africa, termination of activities of the Institute for Defense Analysis at PU and the stopping of military recruiting and military studies and analysis on the PU Campus. There is also the possibility of an SDS demonstration against the ROTC annual spring review on 25 April.
- April 19 *Springfield, Massachusetts - The Springfield, Massachusetts, SDS will sponsor a march and rally to end the war in Vietnam at the Court Square Complex.
- April 19 Omaha, Nebraska - The BPP and the SDS plan an anti-Vietnam demonstration. A rally is to be held at Creighton University followed by a march to an unknown destination.
- April 22 *Hanover, New Hampshire - The SDS Chapter at Dartmouth College is planning a sit-in demonstration to advocate the abolishment of ROTC and to encourage action against racism.
- April 23-28 Los Angeles, California - Reportedly the BPP will hold a National meeting in Los Angeles to discuss the "repression" the party is going through. Jerry RUBIN and Abbie HOFFMAN, Yippie leaders, are scheduled to speak.

April 24-27

Peoria, Illinois - A black cultural week is scheduled to be held at Bradley University.

April 24-27

Washington, D. C. - A national conference on the "Human Rights of the Man in Uniform" is apparently being planned for the Sheraton Park Hotel by the American Veterans Committee, 1333 Connecticut Avenue, N. W.

April 25-26

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania - The 2nd Philadelphia Area Radicals Conference will be held in the fine arts buildings of the University of Pennsylvania.

April 26

*Hartford, Connecticut - The newly formed Capitol Area Action Movement and the American Friends Service Committee will stage an anti-war protest rally in Bushnell Park against the continuance of the Vietnam War and the present Draft System. Some of the speakers will be: Russell JOHNSON, Peace Secretary of the AFSC, who has visited North and South Vietnam on several occasions; and Arthur and Catherine MELVILLE, a former Maryknoll Priest and Nun, who were expelled from Guatemala in 1967 after advocating land reform. 1166

April 27

*Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania - The Pittsburgh Spring Action Committee, a recently formed group at the University of Pittsburgh, plans to stage a faculty walkout at commencement ceremonies during an address by Henry KISSINGER, Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs.

April 29

Washington, D. C. - In his Memphis speech at Martin Luther KING, Jr., Memorial Services, 4 April, Rev. Ralph David ABERNATHY said that he would assemble civil rights leaders in Washington on 29 April to begin an assault on Government indifference.

April 30-May 4

New York City - The CPUSA's 19th National Convention is to be held from April 30 to May 4, 1969. A call issued for the Convention hailed "the growing radicalization of black Americans, workers, of students, and the youth."

May-June

*Boston, Massachusetts, and Philadelphia, Pennsylvania - A source of undetermined reliability stated that SDS members at Harvard University and Boston University recently met with members of the Iron Cross Motorcycle Club at Boston to learn to make Molotov cocktails and bombs. According to the source, several Molotov cocktails and bombs were made and SDS is considering exploding them at historical sites in Boston and Philadelphia during May and June.

May 1

*New York City - Traditionally, the Communists celebrate May Day as an International Working Class Holiday. A May Day planning conference was held in New York City, 16 April, under the auspices of the New York Committee for May Day 1969. An appeal was made in the Daily World to trade unionists, rank and filers, young workers, students, Black Liberation and Peace Activists to attend the conference - "For People's Power Against Corporation Power."

May 1

*Kent, Ohio - SDS at Kent State University plans to call for a student strike in an effort to force ROTC from the Campus.

May 2-3

May 7-12

*Regina, Saskatchewan - The North American Conference of Anti-Imperialist Youth is scheduled for the second week in May. May 8 and 9 are programmed for reports of revolutionary struggles in Quebec, Ireland, Canada, England, and the United States.

May 26

*Memphis, Tennessee - Motion by James Earl RAY for a new trial in the murder of Martin Luther KING, Jr., will be heard by Judge Arthur C. FAQUIN, Jr.

June 1969

On concluding their National Council Meeting in Austin, Texas, on 30 March SDS participants scheduled their next National Council meeting for June. (NFI available to date). Apparently no radical changes in SDS policy came from the Austin meetings.

June 5

Moscow, USSR - The conference of the world Communist parties is scheduled to open June 5 instead of in May. Reputedly, the Chinese-Soviet border dispute caused the new delay. Another preparatory commission meeting has been set for May 23. All Communist parties will be invited to the June Conference including the six parties of the fourteen that rule in their own countries, who boycotted the preliminary talks: China, Albania, Yugoslavia, No. Vietnam, No. Korea, and Cuba. None is expected to attend.

While the Soviet Union contends that the purpose of the Conference is to unify the movement rather than excommunicate any members, the general belief among Communist observers is that Moscow intends to use the Conference to widen the rift between Communist China and the bulk of the Communist movement, including the Soviet Union.

Summer 1969

According to Leon SIENANDOAN, new Chief of the Iroquois Confederation, Indian tribes from all over North America will meet this summer to discuss such problems as land disputes and the need for more social services.

August 1969

University of Texas at El Paso - 22nd Annual National Student Congress (tentative).

September 16

*Southwest, United States - Mexican-American and other Spanish-speaking youths intend to shut down the schools of the Southwest on 16 September in a demonstration of solidarity and protest on the anniversary date of the Mexican revolution. According to Rudolpho Corky GONZALES, leader of the Crusade for Justice, it will be a demonstration "to change the whole educational system to relate to our needs."

September 24

Chicago, Illinois - Trial has been set for 24 September for the eight protest leaders indicted on charges of conspiracy to incite a riot in connection with the disorders at the Democratic National Convention last fall. All eight pleaded "not guilty" in Federal District Court on 9 April. Each defendant also faces charges of crossing state lines to foment disorder or to otherwise violate the Civil Rights Act of 1968. Rennie DAVIS, Bobby SEALE, John R. FROINES, and Lee WEINER had their travel restrictions eased but are required to keep the Court fully informed of their movements.

RPL #1794
25 April 69SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Much attention has been directed in recent weeks to the college campus battle between the New Left, spearheaded by the SDS, and the various Reserve Officer Training programs. It appears that the anti-ROTC protests which constitute a major objective in the winter-spring SDS disrupt and destroy plan has experienced marked success on several major campuses. Total elimination, of course, is the goal, in order to deny the establishment the reservoir of officer material needed to prosecute the "imperialistic" "aggressive" war in Vietnam. The radicals often reject the thesis that their fellow students may wish to prepare for a career in the military service. The concept of "Participatory Democracy" degenerates at the hand of the caveator and becomes participation as long as radical forces approve. Since crippling the military-industrial machine is that which is sought, and ROTC is the antithesis of contemporary anarchy, the rights and privileges of the individual must be suspended to enhance the probability of successfully destroying existing social structures. In traditional anarchistic philosophy, and obviously perceptible on the current college scene, is the proposition that the radical has the right, if not the duty, to force and enforce his non-program, which he knows to be for the greater good and hence correct, on the unenlightened masses.

In recent weeks twenty-nine independent college newspapers ran an identical editorial demanding the abolition of ROTC from all campuses. This move, with reasonable certainty can be attributed to an organized effort from the New Left and by and large succeeded more in discrediting college editors than in abolishing ROTC. At last count, 353 colleges had ROTC units and 335 more have applied to the Defense Department for units. The campaign against ROTC presently being staged by the SDS is intemperate and inconsistent and cannot be defended within the definition of "Participatory Democracy."

Winter-spring efforts seem to be losing New Left identity, (as much associated with life style, and freedom of expression, as with politics) and instead is donning the old left mantle. The infiltration impact of SDS by organized old leftists of various stripe is clearly present and can be expected to continue until the old left strategists with the greatest cunning and radical appeal (best guess - PLP) take over SDS and reform it to fit the specific needs of a confessional political force.

At its convention the second week in April, the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union called for a "massive new popular anti-war protest of which labor must be a part." The ILWU, said the resolution, "must take a leading part in such a drive." The ILWU has been headed for years by the leftist labor boss, Harry BRIDGES.

Student demonstrations, disruptions, and destruction of property continue in many school districts in the New York area. Racial tension is high at a number of integrated facilities.

The current issue of The New York High School Free Press, an underground publication aimed at causing dissension, disruption, and radicalization of youth at high school and junior high school levels, calls for a "spring offensive" by students. It declares: "From April 21 to May 19 is our month. The streets, the schools, the communities are all ours, we're going to take them back."

According to the Guardian, twenty-six poets launched a tour of the nation's campuses April 23 supporting draft resistance work. Among the participants in the readings, coordinated by RESIST, are: Robert BLY, Allen GINSBERG, Robert CREELEY, Lawrence FERLINGHETTI, Kenneth REXROTH, Galway KINNELL, Gary SNYDER, and Ed SANDERS. They will hit Portland, Santa Barbara, Iowa City, Minneapolis, Chicago, Boulder, Detroit, Pittsburgh, and Philadelphia, finishing up in Milwaukee, May 3.

Guardian 4-24-69

James RESTON of the New York Times ran a short column on 18 April, titled: "The Cliches of the Radical Students." The intent is largely to ridicule these pseudo-intellectual young activists but, interestingly enough, although, ridicule it does, the cliches RESTON uses are recited in just about the fashion one could expect in dialogue with the "nouveau left."

Q—The meeting of the RRS (Revolutionaries for a Radical Society) will now come to order, if I may use that word. What is the matter with our universities today?

A—They are irrelevant, arrogant and unresponsive.

Q—Precisely. And what is missing?

A—Meaningful interpersonal relationships.

Q—Very good. Now in dealing with irrelevant, arrogant and unresponsive universities where there is no meaningful interpersonal relationships, what happens?

A—A lack of communications.

Q—Leading to?

A—Separation and alienation of the individual.

Q—What is the remedy for this?

A—A dialogue.

Q—Of course, but what kind of dialogue?

A—A meaningful dialogue between people under thirty.

Q—How can this be achieved?

A—By radicalizing the moderns in the student body through the process of participatory democracy.

Q—Who participates in participatory democracy?

A—Everybody participates in participatory democracy: it is the tribune of the people, the foe of the imperialist machine, the scourge of the military-industrial complex, the enemy of...

Q—Wait a minute! You are confusing our clichés. Try again: Who participates in participatory democracy? Now be careful.

A—We do. The majority must be manipulated for its own good and, we know what that is.

Q—That's better. Now, suppose the moderates just go on dating, studying and attending classes, what do we do?

A—We force them to pay attention. We have a confrontation with the Establishment.

Q—How do we do it?

A—We occupy and liberate a university building. We evacuate the deans, and capture and Xerox the files, and publish carefully selected documents thereof, and wait for the cops.

Q—So?

A—So the cops arrive and crack a few skulls and clear the joint, and then we're in business. The moderates wake up and are appalled and come over to our side, and the press comes running and dramatizes the confrontation.

Q—Good. You are getting the point. Please define and explain the press.

A—It is a capitalist tool, the agent of the ruling class, the voice of the Establishment, but it is useful.

Q—Please explain.

A—It dramatizes the confrontation. We feed its hunger for excitement and conflict. We hate its objectivity but we can use it.

Q—How so?

A—It nationalizes our struggle. It escalates the confrontation. It mobilizes the student power and black power and it divides and confuses the faculty.

Q—How so?

A—The faculty seldom likes the administration of the university, or the students, and it hates to choose between them; but it loves to argue about the decision-making process, and while the faculty members argue, we can shut the place down.

Q—And then?

A—We have a meaningful dialogue, and meaningful interpersonal relationships, and a confrontation with the incompetent and illegitimate power-holders and the Establishment press.

Q—And after that?

A—We put forward our demands.

Q—How do we at RRS describe our demands?

A—They are non-negotiable.

Q—What do we mean by that?

A—We don't want a negative peace, we want a positive peace. We want what we want, and to the wall with the opposition, and amnesty for our warriors. The Establishment is wrecking the university, but we will inherit the wreckage.

Q—And what will we do when we inherit it?

A—We'll think about that later.

CALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

- 23-28 April Los Angeles - Reportedly the BPP will hold a National meeting in Los Angeles to discuss the "program" the party is going through. Jerry RUBIN and Abbie HOFFMAN, Yippie leaders, are scheduled to speak.
- 24-27 April Peoria, Illinois - A black cultural week is scheduled to be held at Bradley University.
- 24-27 April Washington, D.C. - A national conference on the "Human Rights of the Man in Uniform" is apparently being planned for the Sheraton Park Hotel by the American Veterans Committee, 1333 Connecticut Avenue, N.W.
- 25-26 April Philadelphia, Pa. - The Second Philadelphia Area Indians Conference will be held in the Fine arts buildings of the University of Pennsylvania.
- 24-27 April *Talladega, Alabama - The Black Student Association of Talladega College reportedly will sponsor a "Black Alabama Conference" with the theme "Black Students: a Magnetic Force in the Black Revolution." Participants reportedly will include Reverends James BEVEL, Andrew YOUNG, and Jesse JACKSON of SCLC; Kathleen CLEAVER, Hosea WILLIAMS, and Ron KAREMA (UC). Talladega has been the scene recently of black-white incidents including rock throwing and arson.
- 26 April *Norfolk, Va. - The Black Liberation Action Council and The Campus Americans for Democratic Action are reportedly planning to demonstrate when Patricia NIXON, the daughter of the President, is crowned Queen of the Azalea Festival. The ostensible purpose for the demonstration will be to demand an increase in welfare checks, but the real reason will be to disrupt the Festival.
- 26 April *Denver, Colorado - "The largest peace demonstration in Colorado History" reportedly will be held at the Federal Building on 26 April. The demonstration is to be sponsored by the SDS and other anti-war organizations. Robby SEALE, Black Panther Party Member, and Tom HAYDEN, SDS member, are scheduled speakers.

26 April.

*St. Leo, Fla. - A group of SDS advocates from the University of Florida plans to demonstrate at St. Leo College when Secretary of Defense Melvin LAIRD delivers a commencement address. Jim FINE, leader of the University of Florida SDS, was in St. Leo on 21 April, making plans for the demonstration.

26 April

*Boston, Mass. - The Northeastern University Chapter of SDS will sponsor a parade beginning at approximately 1300 hrs. The parade is scheduled to begin at three different locations in the city and end at the Boston Common, where a rally may be held. Approximately 1,000 persons are expected to participate.

26 April

Hartford, Conn. - The newly formed Capitol Area Action Movement and the American Friends Service Committee will stage an anti-war protest rally in Bushnell Park against the continuance of the Vietnam War and the present Draft System. Some of the speakers will be: Russell JOHNSON, Peace Secretary of the AFCC, who has visited North and South Vietnam on several occasions; and Arthur and Catherine HEWLETT, a former Maryknoll Priest and Nun, who were expelled from Guatemala in 1967 after advocating land reform and have been involved in a number of protest incidents.

27 April

Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania - The Pittsburgh Spring Action Committee, a recently formed group at the University of Pittsburgh, plans to stage a faculty walkout at commencement ceremonies during an address by Henry KISSINGER, Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs.

28 April

*Mount Pleasant, Mich. - The SDS is tentatively planning to conduct a demonstration at Central Michigan University against racism and to encourage the abolishment of ROTC on campus. There are indications that the Veterans of Foreign Wars and / or The American Legion may be planning to counter demonstrate against the planned SDS rally.

29 April

Washington, D.C. - In his Memphis speech at Martin Luther KING, Jr., Memorial Services, 4 April, Rev. Ralph David AINSWORTH said that he would assemble civil rights leaders in Washington on 29 April to begin an assault on Government indifference. No further details.

30 April -
4 May

New York City - The C.P., U.S.A.'s 19th National Convention is to be held from April 30 to May 4, 1969.

A call issued for the Convention hailed "the growing radicalization of Black Americans, of workers, of students, and the youth."

May-June

*Roxton, Mass. and Philadelphia, Pa. - It has recently been reported that SDS members at Harvard and Boston Universities had met with members of the Iron Cross Motorcycle Club at Boston to learn to make Molotov cocktails and bombs. Some bombs and cocktails were made and SDS was supposed to be considering exploding them at historical sites in Boston and Philadelphia during May and June. This allegation seemed a bit fantastic but a similar plot had been hatched last year by colored militants and arrests made.

However, explosives were seized in a raid on a West Philadelphia apartment on 9 April and have been linked to the plot to blow up historic Philadelphia monuments. Among the four persons arrested in the apartment was the Chairman of the SDS Labor Committee. Although a police informant had indicated that the explosives to be used in the plot were present in the raided apartment, no direct link to the alleged plot has been revealed.

1 May

*It was recently announced that all IFF's will hold rallies to urge the release on bond from prison of IFF leader Huey NEWTON. Instructions from IFF National Headquarters instructed all chapters and branches to demonstrate at Federal buildings. NEWTON's conviction in connection with the death of an Oakland, California police officer has an appeal pending. Allegedly, Bobby SEALE, IFF National Chairman, has instructed an individual in Stockholm, Sweden to organize demonstrations at American Embassies on the same date.

1 May

New York City - Traditionally, the Communists celebrate May Day as an International Working Class Holiday. A May Day planning conference was held in New York City, 16 April, under the auspices of the New York Committee for May Day 1969. An appeal was made in the Daily World to trade unionists, rank and filers, young workers, students, Black Liberation and Peace Activists to attend the conference - "For People's Power Against Corporation Power."

1 May

Kent, Ohio - SDS at Kent State University plans to call for a campus strike in an effort to force ROTC from the Campus.

2-3 May

Detroit, Michigan - Black lawyers in the Detroit area, sharply criticizing racism in the legal profession, have announced a conference on "Law and Race." Among the joint sponsors of the conference is the Detroit chapter of the National Lawyers Guild.

7-12 May

Edmonton, Saskatchewan - The North American Conference of Anti-Imperialist Youth is scheduled for the second week in May. May 8 and 9 are programmed for reports of revolutionary struggles in Quebec, Ireland, Canada, England, and the United States.

26 May

Memphis, Tennessee - Motion by James Earl RAY for a new trial in the murder of Martin Luther KING, Jr., will be heard by Judge Arthur C. FAYWELL, Jr.

ADDITIONAL

27 April

*Washington, D.C. - The Baltimore Friends Meeting is sponsoring a demonstration at The White House to protest the war in Vietnam.

29 April

*Lawrence, Kansas - SDS has been sponsoring anti-military demonstrations at the University of Kansas this week. It plans a mock military exercise during a ROTC drill on the 29th.

30 April -
4 May

*Bloomington, Indiana - The Young Socialist Alliance and The Indiana University Committee to End the War in Vietnam are attempting to promote an "anti-militarism week."

30 May

*Ft. Sill, Oklahoma - SDS and the Committee to End the War in Vietnam plan to demonstrate at Ft. Sill, Oklahoma on Armed Forces Day to protest the wasted money in holding an Armed Forces Day.

2 May '69SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

A seldom used to date, but so far highly effective tool in the battle between the "establishment" and student radicals and campus "take over artists" is the court order. First used (in recent college protest problems) at Howard University and since at six or eight other universities including Fordham and Columbia (and threatened at George Washington) the restraining order is yet to fail in evicting student occupiers without resorting to force. The only violation of a court order so far occurred at Columbia on April 30 when an SDS-led student group violated a previously issued order and reoccupied a college building. The issuing judge promptly issued arrest warrants which quickly re-emptied the building.

Those who violate a legitimately issued court order stand in contempt of court and are at the mercy of the issuing judge. The judge is free to punish violators without further involvement of college administrators, regents, or faculty members. Imposed penalties can be stiff and do not involve juries or public prosecutors.

In theory, as well as practice, the use of restraining orders transfers the onus of resorting to force from university officials to the issuing agency - the court. The police, if needed to enforce arrest warrants, are not responding to school officials but instead are enforcing the policy of the court.

If court action at Columbia on April 30 proves effective and it's believed it will, more extensive use of restraining orders to oust campus revolutionaries will probably be employed in coming months.

"The streets of our country are in turmoil, the universities are filled with students rioting and rebelling, communists are seeking to destroy our country, Russia is threatening us with her might... We need law and order. Without law and order we cannot survive."

May Day - 1969

The following item is lifted "in toto" from the radical newspaper "Guardian." Captioned "Take back May Day" it said:

"There is one day which unquestionably belongs to the left - May Day, the international workers' holiday.

"Though we have been taught to believe this holiday is foreign, May Day was born in America 83 years ago. On May 1, 1886, 200,000 workers across the U. S. went out on general strike, to fight for the eight-hour day.

"During the demonstrations, which lasted for weeks, more than 80,000 people were on the streets of Chicago. Police shot down a striker on May 3; on May 4, a protest demonstration was held in Haymarket Square. A bomb exploded when police charged the peaceful demonstration; seven cops were killed. Police mowed down the strikers, killing some; scores more were injured.

"Eight labor leaders were rounded up and charged with conspiracy; four were hanged; one committed suicide in his jail cell. Since 1886, liberation movements throughout the world have honored May Day.

"This year in New York, movement groups are uniting to march on Wall Street, demanding freedom for all political prisoners - in particular, the Panther 21 (see article, page 3).

"Called by regional SDS, local SDS chapters, Youth Against War and Fascism, several high school groups and others, demonstrators plan to assemble in small groups across the city and march on Wall Street, arriving between 11:30 a.m. and noon. Organizers see the action as a chance for a unified movement demonstration at a time of renewed and intense struggle in New York City.

"Talk of a high school student strike to begin on May Day continues to mount. New York women's liberation groups are thinking about a demonstration outside the Women's House of Detention for that day, particularly to support Joan Bird, of the Panther 21, who is inside."

APR. 71 19
9 May 69 96SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

The peace and tranquility formula of Cornell's President James A. PERKINS, one of soft permissiveness, has imbued the campus black militants with sufficient courage to utilize brute belligerence: A study of recent Cornell history clearly pointed to the recent armed takeover of a University building and hopefully will assist other college heads in formulating their strategy in dealing with the white as well as the black radical revolution in Academe. The Hessburgh approach or the use of a court order seems far more advisable and utilitarian as academic self-preservation methods than the pusillanimous exemplar of President PERKINS.

That the Ithaca campus could be so deformed by strife is in part attributable, ironically, to the president's well-meaning liberalism in recruiting black students, many of whom were ill-equipped for Cornell's academic demands.

Storm clouds erupted last spring when three Negro students, infuriated by an economics professor's classroom contention about the superiority of a western civilization seized the offices of the economics department and held the department's chairman prisoner. When the Perkins administration did not press charges against the three, it flashed the green light for anarchy.

In December 1968 black militant activities erupted again, this time with increased irrationality, increased violence and with an incredible lack of firm discipline and counter force from PERKINS. The April armed takeover cannot be attributed to the cross burning at the Negro coed dorm (widely believed in Ithaca to have been started by Negroes, incidentally) but rather is a culmination of a series of black militant acts of arrogance. Pushing a campaign for black studies (the administration's non-resistance posture had already been tested the previous spring), the militants took over a building (actually promised them for a later date), dispossessed into the streets the professors and their belongings, stole furniture to furnish the building, vandalized the library, and danced on the tables from the dining hall. At faculty insistence charges were brought against six of the most flagrant offenders. The last week in April even these charges were dropped.

In a December demonstration of utter contempt, black militants staged a sit-in outside PERKINS' office. Still believing he could make friends with a wild-cat, PERKINS sent milk and doughnuts. The militants responded predictably (not to PERKINS) by smashing the refreshments against the wall.

Last February an even more bizarre and outlandish demand was forthcoming from the Cornell Afro-American Society. The group insisted on $2,000 from the administration to buy bongo drums to celebrate Malcolm X day. The administration scraped together $1,700 and dispatched two black students to New York City in the University airplane to purchase the drums.

On February 28, to the accompaniment of the Cornell-purchased drums, PERKINS was physically pulled from the speaker's platform at a conference on South Africa. A few days later job recruiters from the Chase Manhattan Bank were physically assaulted on campus. In mid-March three white students were beaten at night on campus by Negro students, one to the point of death.

PERKINS is now the open target of derision by the black militants who describe him to his face with obscenity widely used in the black ghetto. It would appear that PERKINS must reform or resign if Cornell is to be saved increasing problems from militant black radicals. Although he feels he has the full confidence of the board of trustees, PERKINS' position at Cornell must be regarded as shaky at best.

In an appearance before the Canadian House of Commons, Mr. W. H. KELLY, Deputy Commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police related campus unrest in Canada to visits by militant agitators from the United States. Mr. KELLY said any "real serious demonstrations" have been found to be linked to such visits.

"Red power in Canada is linked with black power in the United States," said Mr. KELLY.

A "New Right" student organization has in recent weeks emerged on the university scene. The National Youth Alliance, headquartered at 208 3rd Street, S. E., Washington, D. C., has counteracted the takeover tactics of the SDS at several campuses in the past week or two.

Although the initial impulse is to cheer them on as they route the SDS from a Columbia University building, a closer examination of the organization and its foundations and pronouncements gives food for considerable, sober thought. NYA is by no means revitalized and a reconstituted Young Americans for Freedom but instead more closely resembles the Hitler Youth of the 1930's:

A recent statement by Louis T. BYERS, organizer of the NYA (and former coordinator of the John Birch Society) exemplifies the basic philosophy of the new force from the radical "New Right." BYERS starts by calling SDS an "anarchistic" group which is neither new nor startling. As he continues, however, the radical color shows through. The Alliance, he continues, aims to neutralize and overcome black power. SDS members who occupy buildings will be forcibly ejected by Alliance members and their supporters. If students are molested by "Black Power animals" the Alliance will set up a protective security force.

One of the guiding lights of NYA if not the "owner" of it, is none other than Willis CARTO whom Drew PEARSON has been throwing darts at in recent weeks. CARTO, head of Liberty Lobby (another PEARSON target) was a major financial supporter of the Wallace Youth Movement. Because he controlled the pursestrings he had the organization's membership list and solicited all previous Wallace Youth leaders to reform the group as NYA. CARTO got their agreement that the NYA would take its ideology from the book "Imperium." PEARSON characterizes the book as the "Mein Kampf" of the American Nazi Movement.

NYA has planned anti-campus-communist rallies across the nation and presently plan a "White Power" rally at UCLA. At Wayne State University, NYA has organized a "shock squad" armed with rifles and trained in Karate.

NYA will be closely monitored in coming months. The organization in its initial machinations appears clearly as destructive and threatening to the free university concept as SDS, the various black militant groups and the old left parties. The emergence of NYA may force moderate college administrators to exercise more authority in campus riots more promptly, before their prerogatives are usurped by the equally, anarchistic NYA. Two wrongs still don't make a right.

CALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

May 1969

Demonstrations will be held against Lt. General Lewis B. HENSLEY, Director of the Selective Service System, during his visit to Florida in May.

*Two hundred students are holding a "Live-in" at Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana, to protest tuition increases. The "Live-in" will last until the end of the semester. 16

May 7-12

Regina, Canada - A North American Conference of Anti-Imperialist Youth is being held - purpose to "unite all anti-imperialist people." It will feature speakers from revolutionary movements in Canada, England, and the United States. CNG announced its support at a recent Regional Conference in Akron, Ohio.

May 10

*Nationwide - The United Farm Workers Organizing Committee has set 10 May as International Grape Boycott Day to demonstrate the plight of American Farm Workers and to develop pressures to bring the California table grape growers to the bargaining table. A parade and rally will be held in Detroit. Reportedly, throughout the U.S., picketlines, rallies, and demonstrations will focus on the giant food chains, Safeway, and A&P, to persuade them to cease selling grapes.

May 10

*Lewisburg, Pennsylvania - A group known as Bucknell Resist, composed primarily of Bucknell University (BU) faculty members, plans to conduct a draft card burning ceremony during the annual ROTC review at BU to show opposition to "militarism in the Government and Universities."

*Greenville, S.C. - The Reverend Ralph ABERNATHY plans to lead a march and rally in support of striking hospital workers in Charleston, S.C., on 10 May in Greenville, S.C.

*Washington, D.C. - The Washington Mobilization Committee is planning to hold a "GI-Conference" to discuss servicemen's rights.

May 10

Minneapolis, Minnesota - Protest and dissent in the "thing to do" with more and more minority groups. The American Indians in Minnesota have formed an organization to fight for the control of their own destinies. The American Indian Movement has set May 4-10 as American Indian Week in Minneapolis. They plan to take over two-three blocks of Franklin Avenue (the main residential area of Minneapolis Indians) to hold a teach-out during that week. One of a number of complaints is alleged vindictive police action against Indian youths.

May 11

Mother's Day - U.S.A. - The Poor People's Campaign, lead by the SCIC and Rev. Ralph ABERNATHY, is opening its "Second Chapter." The overall tactic is to be "massing of coercive power" and its first dramatic events are scheduled for May 11 with marches in a number of cities.

The program envisions not only a broader campaign than that of 1968 with its focus primarily in D.C., but the continuous massing of coercive power "when this becomes timely and necessary," according to ABERNATHY. The program contains no plan for another Reconstruction City but when key votes are to be taken and when critical decisions are being made by the administration relating to issues involving the poor, they "will assemble in Washington."

May 11-16

Washington, D.C. - The Poor People's Campaign is planning action in D.C. during this week. On May 11, Mother's Day, eight or ten hand picked groups consisting of 10 poor people each will arrive in D.C. by bus. These groups will be made up of Puerto Ricans, whites from Appalachia, Indians from Colorado, and poor individuals from Harlem and from the South. The total is not expected to exceed 100. They will remain through the 16th and will accompany Rev. Ralph ABERNATHY and / or other SCIC leaders, as they visit various Government officials with their demands.

*The recently formulated and announced plans for a Mother's Day March in Washington have apparently been cancelled. The SCIC has decided to temporarily transfer the emphasis of its activity to Charleston, S.C., where it is supporting the hospital workers' strike. It now plans a massive march there on Mother's Day. Rev. ABERNATHY has called for a turn out of 25,000 persons. He is seeking, with some apparent measure of success, the assistance of a number of U.S. Congressmen plus other well known individuals.

May 14

Chicago, Illinois - A committee of "Chicagoans Against the AED" is planning a mass rally to protest against XXON's proposed AED system. Chicagoans Against the AED consists of more than thirty-five organizations, including the Church Federation of Chicago, the United Churches of Christ, and the American Federation of Scientists. The rally will feature Senator Albert GORE (Tenn.). Other speakers will include Rev. C.W. VIVIAN (SCLC), U.S. Rep. Sidney YARBS, and 1964 Nobel Prize winner Prof. George WALD of Harvard University.

May 14

*SPS plans to demonstrate in protest to KOPS at the University of Missouri. - 12235

May 17

*Washington, D.C., New York City, and San Francisco - GI's United Against the War, a protest group which tries to influence servicemen, is planning demonstrations at Washington, D.C., New York City, and San Francisco to coincide with armed forces week. The group hopes to present a petition demanding freedom for servicemen presently confined for their anti-war activities.

May 17

Denver, Colorado - During an anti-war rally by about 1,000 persons from a number of organizations on 26 April, plans were announced for another demonstration at Ft. Carson and all present were requested to participate.

May 17

*Ft. Leonard Wood - A demonstration will be held at the Ft. and reportedly prisoners in the stockade are planning a riot on that day. Three weapons are reported to have been smuggled into the stockade. 178

May 18-19

*Washington, D.C. - A group called the Malcolm X Memorial Committee, headed by the militant Jan BAILEY, intends this 2 day period to be a celebration of the birthday of Malcolm X, the slain ex-Black Muslim leader. Julius ROSSON announced that he will ask the D.C. School Board to order special programs in the schools the morning of the 19th, Malcolm X's birthday, and a holiday that afternoon. The celebration will include a 2 PM rally on the 19th in Maridier Park, with other programs at Lincoln Park, Federal City College, Howard University, the New Thing Cultural Center and at several other places.

BAILEY said the group will ask that black merchants offer all goods at half price in the morning and close in the afternoon in honor of Malcolm, May 19. He said no pressure will be exerted on the merchants because "we want them to close out of respect, not fear."

May 21

Shunle, Indiana - The Student Movement will demonstrate to protest the construction of a high school which it feels will mean prohibitive transportation costs to negro students.

May 26

Memphis, Tennessee - Motion by James Earl RAY for a new trial in the murder of Martin Luther King, Jr., will be heard by Judge Arthur C. FARNER, Jr.

May 30

Fl. SELL, Oklahoma - SPS and the Committee to End the War in Vietnam plan to demonstrate at Ft. SELL, Oklahoma on Armed Forces Day to protest the wasted money in holding an Armed Forces Day.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

From the 10 May 1969 Guardian - radical weekly:

"Want to learn how to start your own community (radical/underground) newspaper? It's easier than you think. An excellent rundown of the whole process, with gobs of details, is provided by David RANSOM, an editor of the Peninsula Observer in Palo Alto, California. He discusses such mundane things as money, typesetting, sales, distribution, incorporation, etc."

The Cook County Sheriff's Office, Chicago, Illinois, has received intelligence data from a source whose reliability is unknown that black extremists are planning to have snipers shoot at police officers when they answer fictitious complaints. Law enforcement authorities are making every effort to prove or disprove the report.

Los Angeles, California - Reportedly, leaders of the Black Panther Party intend to fortify their headquarters and have issued instructions that all Black Panthers should commit some act of violence against law enforcement in the event police attempt to enter the headquarters. It was also alleged that Aaron DIXON, Seattle leader of the Black Panther Party, claims he has received instructions from Bobby SEALE, chairman of the Black Panther Party, that shooting of policemen could go into effect now.

The University Center for Rational Alternatives, first reported in the weekly Situation Report of February 28, this year, is again in the news and growing. Last February, CCNY Philosophy Professor, Sidney HOOK, the organization's mentor reported a membership of 400 professors and instructors representing 36 colleges and universities. These numbers have now grown to 1,100 members hailing from 175 campuses throughout the country.

Editorial Council on 9/2/69
New York

Basically, UCRA is a group of educators opposed to campus disorders. The UCRA is presently convening in New York and is addressing the problems of disruption and revolt. Professor HOOK believes that of particular importance is keeping the universities open no matter what. Because of this belief, HOOK has been highly critical of the recent act of closing CCNY by now resigned President Buell G. GALLAGHER. HOOK believes that shutting down the school is a "terrible defeat" for academic freedom. "When you yield to violence anywhere, you weaken the resistance to violence everywhere."

In the first issue of his organization's newsletter "Measure," dated 15 April, Professor HOOK noted in an editorial that UCRA has no specific program or panacea for the problems of any one troubled campus. UCRA is committed only to three fundamental propositions. First, in a free university, all questions are opened to inquiry, discussion, and debate. None can be settled by the exercise of violence or by threats of intimidation.

Second, any attempt to deprive the qualified scholar and teacher of freedom to determine what he should teach and to prescribe by threats of force or class disruption how he should teach is a violation of academic freedom.

Third, the faculty through its representatives, must be continuously involved in the consideration of new problems and challenges to the educational experience; it must keep open all lines of communication among the constituent groups of the university community and work continuously for the establishment of a rational consensus on all matters of common educational concern.

Five SDSers were arrested last weekend at Chicago. The circumstances leading to the arrest are thought-provoking, to say the least. SDS headquarters in Chicago, located in a rundown neighborhood, was given police, in an anonymous phone tip as the site of a shooting. Chicago firemen also arrived in response to what proved to be a false alarm. The trouble came when police and firemen would not accept Mike KLONSKY's statement at the doorway that there was neither a shooting nor a fire.

Of considerable significance was the posting of the bail established by the magistrate. The judge advised those arrested that he was bending over backwards in setting it so low. He stated "If I didn't think you had financial backing from some other sources, perhaps I would have been more lenient." Although the defendants told the judge that they were destitute, $1,250, (one tenth of the total), the sum required for release, was posted within an hour. Where the money came from (and so quickly) is a mystery.

Meanwhile, according to Bernadine DOHRN, national inter-organizational secretary, SDS plans to make things even more unpleasant for many universities and colleges before they close for the summer. SDS intends to disrupt graduation ceremonies. She said "our presence will be known at graduation ceremonies where the big people will come as speakers. It will be more than just a walkout."

As for the summer - SDS's plans to attempt to radicalize the workers have been previously noted. DOHRN said that SDS will also "work with kids in the neighborhood and fight the police invaders when we have to this summer."

Miss DOHRN added, "We will go around the country wherever the rich people go - like Rockefeller, Nixon, and Kennedy."

CALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

May-June

Boston, Massachusetts, and Philadelphia, Pennsylvania - It had been reported that SDS members at Harvard and Boston Universities had met with members of the Iron Cross Motorcycle Club at Boston to learn to make Molotov cocktails and bombs. Some bombs and cocktails were made and SDS was supposed to be considering exploding them at historical sites in Boston and Philadelphia during May and June. This allegation seemed a bit fantastic but a similar plot had been hatched last year by colored militants and arrests made.

Explosives were seized in a raid on a West Philadelphia apartment on 9 April and have been linked to the plot to blow up historic Philadelphia monuments. Among the four persons arrested in the apartment was the Chairman of the SDS Labor Committee. Although a police informant had indicated that the explosives to be used in the plot were present in the raided apartment, no direct link to the alleged plot has been revealed and no bombings have been noted to date.

*Norfolk, Virginia - The Black Student Union, Norfolk State College, is discussing taking over the administration building at the college sometime before June 1. It has also discussed taking over a city building at Norfolk. Members feel that such action would add to their prestige.

May 17

*Washington, D. C. - The Mid-Atlantic Committee on Ft. Detrick plans to picket at the White House on May 17, 1969, to protest chemical and biological warfare research. Articles prepared by the committee have been sent to foreign newspapers and the committee has reportedly sent a list of

May 17

Washington, D. C., New York City, and San Francisco - GI's United Against the War, a protest group which tries to influence servicemen, is planning demonstrations at Washington, D. C., New York City, and San Francisco to coincide with armed forces week. The group hopes to present a petition demanding freedom for servicemen presently confined for their anti-war activities.

May 17

*Charleston, W. Virginia - Students from Marshall University, West Virginia University, Morris Harvey College, and West Virginia State College will stage a demonstration at the Armed Forces Day parade in Charleston by lying down in the street to block the parade. The demonstration is being organized by the following individuals: Harry Frederick SHAW, WVU student reportedly president of SDS and Southern Student Organizing Committee at WVU; William Curtis WEIMAR, a WVSC graduate reported as being active in peace activities; and Bill HOFFMAN, not further identified.

May 17

*Colorado Springs, Colorado - SDS has announced plans for a "GI March" on 17 May to Fort Carson "To bring the anti-war movement to the members of the armed services." No further information is available.

May 17

Denver, Colorado - During an anti-war rally by about 1,050 persons from a number of organizations on 26 April, plans were announced for another demonstration at Ft. Carson and all present were requested to participate.

May 18-19

*Washington, D. C. - These two days mark the end of a week-long Malcolm X birthday celebration. A group called the Malcolm X Memorial Committee, headed by the militant Jan BAILEY, which announced plans several weeks ago for honoring the slain ex-Black Muslim leader, declared Sunday and Monday as "city-wide holidays for our people," since D. C. is over 70 percent black. Monday is intended to be the "big" day of the week, with memorial ceremonies and cultural programs all over the city from noon until sundown.

*Daily News
14 May '69*

The Committee has made appeals to all the black businesses in the city to close for the afternoon on Monday and to reduce prices for all merchandise that morning "for the benefit of the impoverished black community." BAILEY said no pressure will be exerted on the merchants because "we want them to close out of respect, not fear."

The celebration will include a 2 p.m. rally on the 19th in Meridian Hill Park, which the Committee has asked the City Council to officially rename "Malcolm X Park." Other programs are intended at Lincoln Park, Federal City College, Howard University, the New Thing Cultural Center, and several other places. Numerous black organizations and cultural groups will participate in the Sunday and Monday activities.

A D. C. school board committee headed by Julius HOBSON, decided that the District schools should be asked to recognize Monday as Malcolm X's birthday and to hold assemblies honoring him on that day. Since the committee did not meet in time for the full board to consider their recommendation at a regular meeting before Monday, a copy of their proposal was sent to board members for their signature. If any board member refuses to sign, the motion will fail. (See last page.)

May 21

Muncie, Indiana - The Student Liberal Action Movement will demonstrate to protest the construction of a high school which it feels will mean prohibitive transportation costs to Negro families.

May 23-29

*Washington, D. C. - A Quaker Action Group, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, is sponsoring a series of anti-war demonstrations at Washington, D. C., May 23 - 29. Vigils will be held at the White House, the Capitol, State Department, and the Pentagon on 23 May 1969. From 26-29 May, vigils will take place in the offices of Congressmen and Administration officials. During the vigils the names of Vietnam War dead will be read. The group has also announced that in the near future it will undertake a boat trip to Cuba to challenge the trade boycott against Cuba.

June 5

Moscow, USSR - The conference of the world Communist parties is scheduled to open June 5. Another preparatory commission meeting has been set for May 23.

While the Soviet Union contends that the purpose of the Conference is to unify the movement rather than excommunicate any members, the general belief among Communist observers is that Moscow intends to use the Conference to widen the rift between Communist China and the bulk of the Communist movement.

June 6

*Twenty persons who have been charged with criminal contempt of court in connection with the demonstration and building takeover at Howard University earlier this month will be tried in U. S. District Court on June 6.

On the same date commencement exercises will be held on the Howard campus in the evening. Judge GERHARD A. GESELL has issued another injunction restricting demonstrations forcing non-students off the campus and providing security at Howard during commencement exercises. Judge GESELL will order U.S. Marshals to enforce the court order if necessary. Says Judge GESELL, "this order is going to be carried out whether Howard University wants it carried out or not."

June 9-15

*On concluding their National Council Meeting in Austin, Texas, on 30 March SDS participants scheduled their next National Council meeting for June. (NFI available to date.) Apparently no radical changes in SDS policy came from the Austin meetings.

SDS has been rebuffed in several attempts to secure a midwest college as a site for the meeting. It may have to resort to other than college-owned facilities as it did in Texas in March.

ADDENDUM

May 19

*Washington, D.C. - A special meeting of the D.C. Board of Education was held the night of 15 May to consider the motion preferred by Julius Hobson's Committee relative to formal commemoration by the schools of Malcolm X's birthday.

Wash
Post
16 May '69

By a 4 to 3 vote in a sometimes heated session, the Board voted against formal commemoration of Malcolm X's birthday but substituted instead a motion directing that Malcolm X be included in black history courses along with other leaders "of various political stripes and points of view."

This action is certain to result in much criticism of the Board by the extremists in the community.

29 May 1969

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Last week the dissident students and non-students in Berkeley, California, found just exactly the "d----d if they do and d----d if they don't" type of dilemma to present the overworked and constantly harassed authorities at the University of California in Berkeley. By appropriating to their own use a valuable piece of the University's real estate which the University had definitely expressed intentions of utilizing for school recreation needs, the authorities were faced with two basic alternatives: one, to ignore the dissidents and thereby seem to acquiesce in their illegal activity; or two, to force evacuation of the cleverly named "People's Park" and move ahead with their own plans for the property. In an apparent effort to continue the University's present attempt to reflect an image of resistance to blackmail and violence, Dr. Roger W. HEYNS fenced in the park and has taken, with the aid of local law enforcement agencies, all necessary measures to maintain University control of this small piece of terra firma. In the face of a mounting crescendo of dissident voices, authorities have stood firm. There have been several days when reaction by the law enforcement forces may have been somewhat stronger than needed, although this is debatable. In any case, it did give the dissidents a cause and as a result, they have been joined sympathetically and/or physically by many other moderates and radicals from other Bay area campuses and communities. Dissident tactics calculated to promote additional confrontation and, of course, to escalate involvement of others, have ranged from childish and erratic behavior and obscene taunting to the violence of throwing rocks, etc.

The Berkeley campus is where the die of modern college protest history was cast five years ago, and indications are that the school has never returned to a condition approaching normalcy. The Peoples Park incident may undo some of the progress the school has made since 1964.

CIA MEMORANDUM

The use of policemen from all over the Bay area along with a large contingent of the California National Guard has stirred the sympathy of many radicals, moderates, and also some of the conservative teachers and students. The enforcement agencies are being charged with the overuse of force. Tear gas, for instance, was released without warning from a helicopter into the demonstrating student mass enveloping also the University hospital and a children's wading pool.

Syndicated columnist Joseph KRAFT classified the present Berkeley strife as far more grave than generally supposed and grossly under-reported. KRAFT believes that what is happening is an injudicious major intensification of the academic civil war and a crushing loss for the dwindling band of moderates. Charles PALMER, the graduating student body president, who has been playing ball with the University administration for the past four years combatting left-wingers, calls the action of the chancellor incredibly stupid.

The Berkeley division of the University of California Academic Senate voted last Friday 642 to 95 for a resolution supporting continuation of the park and the immediate withdrawal of the massive police and military presence. In a student government conducted referendum on campus, 85 percent of nearly 15,000 students voting, endorsed continuation of the park.

*Moscow, USSR - The conference of the world Communist parties is scheduled to open 5 June. Representatives from nearly sixty Communist countries on 23 May in Moscow began to make final plans for the World Communist summit meeting.

Most diplomats in Moscow believe that top leaders from as many as seventy Communist parties will attend the 5 June meeting - the first world Communist conference since 1960. Then virtually every party attended but, about fifteen are expected to boycott this one. Among these are six of the fourteen Communist parties that rule their countries. They are the parties of China, North Korea, No. Vietnam, Albania, Yugoslavia, and Cuba. Some diplomats believe the Cubans may yet send a delegation.

Gus HALL and Henry WINSTON, as General Secretary and National Chairman respectively of the CPUSA, will lead its delegation to the conference.

Twenty persons who have been charged with criminal contempt of court in connection with the demonstration and building take-over at Howard University earlier this month will be tried in U. S. District Court on 6 June.

On the same date commencement exercises will be held on the Howard campus in the evening. Judge Gerhard A. GESELL has issued another injunction restricting demonstrations forcing non-students off the campus and providing security at Howard during commencement exercises. Judge GESELL will order U. S. Marshals to enforce the court order if necessary. Says Judge GESELL, "This order is going to be carried out whether Howard University wants it carried out or not."

*It has been reported that a staff meeting of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference was held on 23 May in Birmingham, Alabama, with 75 representatives from various southern states present. A march from Birmingham to Montgomery, Alabama, was rescheduled from 27 May to 8 June. This march is to begin on 2 June in various Alabama cities and to arrive in Montgomery on 8 June. It will thereafter, proceed to Washington, D. C., via various cities and is scheduled to arrive on 22 June. The projected itinerary calls for passage through several cities in Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina, and Virginia. It was announced that the SCLC will institute a new policy with regard to arrests which will involve leaving those people in jail who are arrested rather than paying bond so that the taxpayers will feed them. The above campaign of the SCLC involves a demand for assistance to the poor in the form of food, income, and jobs.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

A number of the Nation's universities and colleges undoubtedly have CPUSA members or sympathizers among their faculty members, but the appointment last week of a highly-placed, well-known spokesman for the Party to a position on the faculty of an exclusive women's college must be considered rather startling. Below is the item as presented in the Communist newspaper Daily World on 27 May 1969.

"BRYN MAWR, Pa., May 26 - Bryn Mawr College has appointed Dr. Herbert Aptheker director of its Black Studies Program.

"Dr. Aptheker, noted scholar of Afro-American History and director of the American Institute of Marxist Studies, was appointed after black students here demanded a black studies program with him as its head.

"Bryn Mawr, originally a Quaker institution and now one of the exclusive 'Seven Sisters Colleges,' is a woman's college with a student body of 1,500.

"The appointment ends a 31-year ban on academic employment imposed on Aptheker for his membership in the Communist Party.

"He will assume the post in September 1969 and as visiting professor will teach a course on the history of the Afro-American people.

"Aptheker praised Bryn Mawr's administration for breaking the ban in complying with the student's selection of a well-known Communist. The fact that he is a member of the Communist Party's National Committee has already been published in the college newspaper.

"Although functioning in the double capacity as professor and director, Aptheker expects to continue his other activities and remain based in New York.

"Describing his appointment, Aptheker said, 'It is thrilling, with wide national significance for the Communist Party. It also reflects something of what this student movement is all about, which many people have failed to understand.'

"The appointment of a white historian to head the black studies program, he said, is evidence against the opinion many are too ready to hold, that the black students' demands are nationalist in nature."

The following article by Paul SCOTT which appeared in the New York Daily Column of 14 May 1969 is reprinted without comment.

"WASHINGTON - The Nixon Administration is making advance preparations to thwart attempts by radical students, black militants, and anti-war protesters to take over Government buildings in the nation's capital this summer.

"As reported earlier this month in this column, the strategy of the violent New Left is to try to repeat here in Washington the "Battle of Chicago" which took place during the Democratic National Convention last year.

"With the vanguard of thousands of militant protesters beginning to converge on Washington from around the nation, the Justice Department has issued confidential instructions to all Government agency heads on what to do in case of demonstrations in or near federal buildings.

"On direct orders from the White House, Attorney General John Mitchell has frankly informed other government officials that (1) any violations of law will not be tolerated during the summer protests here, and (2) that normal conduct of business on federal property must be maintained.

"Unlike the capitulation policies followed by many college administrators, no government department or agency will be allowed to be shut down by militant protesters. In other words, students and black militants are going to be treated a lot tougher in Washington than they have on college campuses.

"The Justice Department's four-point plan for handling militant demonstrations calls for having 'enough force on hand to handle all situations.'

"If you are uncertain how much force is necessary, 'the memorandum states, 'encourage those in command to keep some of their forces in reserve in an area where they will not be seen but readily available to supplement forces on the line.'

"Other highlights of the Justice Department's plan to protect Government property are as follows:

"General Service Administration building guards and other building personnel should be on the alert for attempts by demonstrators to enter Government buildings and interfere with Government functions. Every practical step should be taken to forestall such infiltrations.

"When building guards detect an appreciable number of demonstrators in the vicinity of the building, they should permit access only to persons who can show a proper purpose for entry.

"The highest ranking civilian official present in the building should be informed immediately if an appreciable number of demonstrators are in the vicinity of the building or reliably reported en route to the building.

"Sufficient GSA guards or other law enforcement personnel should be promptly brought to the scene. If the demonstrators are disorderly or if they will not agree to a voluntary departure from buildings, the official in charge should take steps to require their withdrawal. Demonstrators should be informed that they must leave the buildings or face arrest.

"If, at any time during the demonstration, the demonstrators injure persons or property, arrests should be made in accordance with regular arrest standards.'

"All Government agency and department heads are directed by the Attorney General to keep in close contact with the Justice Department's Criminal division, which has been designated as the control point in Government to handle all serious disturbances.

Commencement exercises at Harvard next Thursday (June 12) will hover under an ominous shadow cast by events scheduled on June 9. After the April building takeover, University President Nathan PUSEY's call for help, the arrest of nearly 200 demonstrators and their subsequent conviction and fining, the Harvard Committee of 15 was formed by the faculty to recommend disciplinary action against the offenders. The Committee of 15 is scheduled to report its findings just three days prior to graduation ceremonies.

The initial faculty call, after furious debate, asked civil authorities to drop criminal charges against the arrested students. The East Cambridge District court refused. The Committee of 15 (an elected committee composed of 10 faculty members and 5 students) now must address the question of punishment by the University. On the question of punishment - expulsion or dismissal - the University is as deeply divided as it was over the 4 a.m. police action clearing University Hall. Some 2,500 students out of a total of 6,000 in Arts & Science have signed petitions calling for no punishment. Some powerful faculty voices believe that the committee must punish the April offenders. Failure to do so will constitute a final surrender of authority, a precedent which would leave Harvard at the mercy of disrupters.

Syndicated columnist Marquis CHILDS, with the dogmatism of a mantis predicts that there will be trouble next Thursday at Harvard. He believes that the degree of disruption may turn on the Committee's findings. "A mere demonstration aimed at the Vietnam War and Harvard's share in defense contracts is the minimum. An attempt by SDS to break up the ceremony, with 15,000 participants and families jammed into the Harvard Yard is not ruled out." Cambridge police will be on hand in large numbers to keep order.

The Committee of 15 will probably show leniency in view of the forthcoming graduation exercises, and in the immediate interest of maintaining peace, if possible, at Harvard. A lenient decision by the Committee finds a ready-made justification in the fact that campus participants in the April takeover and riot have already faced punishment in the courts.

What lies ahead for Harvard next fall remains an unanswered question. The more timorous among the old faculty hands see another wave of disruption and the "sit-in," in the pessimistic view is out. The new tactic is guerrilla warfare aimed at breaking up individual classes in a hit and run pattern. Bolder and more optimistic faculty members believe the radicalism is a rash that will disappear. The question also remains to be answered: Can the Committee of 15 cope with problems of campus discipline? If so, perhaps such a concept can be successful elsewhere.

The Harvard SDS will be back next year as well, probably, as the Social Relations course 48-9, an experimental seminar in radicalism (treated in a previous WSR) that has found significant popularity among Harvard undergraduates. Additionally, it is presently rumored (reported in an article from the Boston Globe on June 4) that SDS leader Michael ANSARA, who graduated from Harvard last year has approached the University administration for permission to use Harvard facilities for SDS's national meeting two weeks from now. SDS has already been turned down by several schools and has postponed the meeting because of the lack of facilities to house the 2,000 to 3,000 radicals expected to attend. A national SDS headquarters representative at Chicago advised the Globe that Chicago was unaware that Harvard had been approached but all local chapters had been requested by the "National" to try to find a location for the meeting. "If you hear anything about Harvard, call us back," said the SDSer to the Globe reporter.

June 7, 1969

A University of California (Berkeley) Regents committee meeting will convene this Saturday to consider offering a lease on the land comprising "Peoples Park" to the city of Berkeley. If a lease is offered the city council (who proposed the lease to the University in the first place) will turn the land into a city recreation area. Gov. REAGAN, who is in opposition to any move that would give the disputed Peoples Park back to the "street people" will attend the regents meeting.

REAGAN was quoted on June 3 as saying: "I would be totally opposed to anything that would be a subterfuge to go around and give anything to the people who started the issue - give it to them as a kind of face saver." REAGAN also said: "These people are as immature as they are irresponsible."

The SDS will be closely examined in coming weeks by Rep. Richard ICHORD and his Internal Security Committee. Although it would seem doubtful that hearing results will add anything significantly new to the literature, West Virginia's Senator Jennings RANDOLPH stated this week that the congressional hearings presently being conducted will show that SDS receives financial aid from Peking. If such a statement finds basis in fact, SDS will undoubtedly undergo pandemic changes in make up, strategy, and campus impact next fall. One possible result would be splintering between "ideological" and "life style" campus radicals thereby lessening the presently growing influence of SDS on the national level.

Veterans for Peace in Vietnam sponsored a demonstration at New York City on May 31, under the leadership of Ron WOLIN, a leader of the Socialist Workers Party. The Student Mobilization Committee also participated in the demonstration which attracted 800 demonstrators. It was announced during the demonstration that a nationwide-anti-war petition is being circulated and will be presented to the President some time in the future.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Reportedly leaders of the extremist Black Panther Party in Los Angeles, California, are extremely concerned because of the FBI raid on the headquarters of the Black Panthers in Chicago, Illinois. This pertains to the search conducted by special agents of the FBI on 4 June 1969, at the Chicago Black Panther Party headquarters in its efforts to locate George SAMS, Jr., a Panther who is a fugitive. During the search a number of weapons were discovered and eight Panthers who were in the building were arrested for possession of illegal weapons as well as for harboring. Allegedly, the leaders of the Black Panther Party in Los Angeles have expressed fear that arrests and raids will be conducted in other sections of the country and indicated that "plans have been made" for Panthers to immediately engage in acts of violence throughout Southern California in the event Los Angeles headquarters of the Black Panther Party is raided.

According to an article in the 6 June edition of the Los Angeles Free Press, leaders of the Black Panther Party are proposing to drop their name in favor of a new one. This seems highly unlikely as the Black Panthers are very impressed with the Black Panther symbol. However, the item states that the new name will be "American Liberation Front" and the purpose of the change is to draw revolutionaries of all ethnic groups into one tight coalition, including southern white radicals, Chicanos, Indians, blacks, and members of urban street gangs. Achievement of such a coalition seems most improbable.

The announcement was made by Prof. Donald FREED at a recent conference given by the "Friends of the Panthers," an organization which FREED founded. He said that the change will probably be officially announced at a four-day conference which will take place in Oakland July 18-21 at Merritt College. "Although each group will keep its identity," FREED explained, "the Panthers realize that the hour for a national front is on hand." Also in on the planning are Tom HAYDEN, Stu ALBERT, a lot of people from Chicago street gangs, and a few intellectuals from the Old New Left. However, they are not going to be in the vanguard of this conference. This will be the vanguard of the people. "

Although James FORMAN and his "black manifesto" have been getting a lot of publicity - some of it astonishingly favorable - as he browbeats his way around confronting the assorted religious hierarchies demanding "reparations," a recent column titled Forman to Confront Industry and Unions, by Victor Riesel, the labor specialist, seems to paint a more accurate picture of what FORMAN, the leftist black militant, is really up to. Riesel's article, as it appeared in the Northern Virginia Sun, is reprinted below.

"WASHINGTON - Just as he has been pounding at the pulpits of peaceful churches, bearded James Forman soon will be pounding on corporate tables and trade union doors demanding new "reparations" in the billions of dollars.

"The bearded director of international affairs of SNCC ("Snick") hardly intends to stand peaceably in the pews of the nation's great religions. Those who, out of the graciousness of sensitive reaction to past sufferings, believe Mr. Forman to be seeking financial restitution, have not read his Manifesto. Nor have they traced his travels to East Africa in general and Maoist imbedded Tanzania in particular.

"Mr. Forman has developed a concept of "Total Power."

"To win this, the six-foot, well-stocked, always angry Jim Forman advocates total terror and a "perpetual state of guerrilla warfare."

"Always agitational, the peripatetic Mr. Forman has utter contempt for other radical leaders, be they white or black. He means to leave them far behind in his effort to "bring down" the U. S. Government. Those who believe his words are the rhetoric of confrontation don't know James Forman. Where the others are activists, he is an actionist. While the others confront, he conspires. Where others are militant and content with sporadic upheaval, he is dedicated to a movement to seize all means of production.

"Those who believe he challenges only gentle churchmen should know that he is deliberately taking on the entire black establishment."

"Ironically, some of the most militant Black Nationalists, as they call themselves," he said recently, "have been the first to jump on the bandwagon of black capitalism. They are pimps: Black Power pimps and fraudulent leaders. The people must be educated to understand that any black man or Negro who is advocating the perpetuation of capitalism inside the U. S. is in fact seeking not only his ultimate destruction and death, but is contributing to the continuous exploitation of black people all around the world."

"... We live inside the U. S.... and we have a chance to bring this Government down."

"At this moment, James Forman is preparing to switch from the ecclesiastical frontier to the industrial front. We have his own Manifesto as corroboration."

"While we talk of revolution," said he, "which will be an armed confrontation and long years of sustained guerrilla warfare inside this country, we must also talk of the type of world we want to live in. We must commit ourselves to a society where the total means of production are taken from the rich people and placed into the hands of the state... That is what we mean when we say total control."

"Mr. Forman sees his movement seizing control over 'everything that exists.'"

"His specific targets, for the moment, are General Motors, Ford, Chrysler, the DuPonts, the Rockefellers and the Mellons."

"Mr. Forman tells his people that they, his small band, could cripple the economy of the U. S. This would come by seizing, or disrupting, or striking a bargain 'with the chief industries in this country.'"

"To seize 'state power,' Mr. Forman's 'Total Power' movement sees itself using the power of the gun. This unread Manifesto of his is far, indeed, from the still peaceful manner in which he is confronting churchmen. It's obvious that Mr. Forman's band has begun their long march and that there is more in his concept of violence than in concentration on religious reparation.

"A more realistic impression of Mr. Forman can be gathered from a black cultural festival held at Tougaloo College, Tougaloo, Mississippi, April 11 to 13. Extremist SNCC and Black Panther speakers urged the college students to overthrow the Government, first by arming themselves, then by violence, and to support the Third World Movement.

"Mr. Forman makes no secret of his bid for total power, or of his plans to stand face to face with the nation's big unions, or to take over the state.

"He knows where he wants to go. It is unfortunate that so few heed his disdainful warning.

"When he says total power, he means just that. He will not make it. But a long red glow will mark his trail."

Academic year 1968-69, the most disrupted and tumultuous in American experience drew to a close this week on all major U. S. campuses. By and large the radical activists; black and white, were on relatively good behavior. Protests varied in nature from symbolic arm bands and clenched fists to dissident walkouts by graduating seniors on some campuses and at Yale, an anti-Vietnam speech endorsed by a large majority of graduates and delivered by a student body spokesman. One general characteristic of commencement protests was non-violent demonstration. At Harvard tension built on Monday the 9th of June when the specially elected "Committee of 15" passed judgment with overwhelming faculty approval on nearly 140 students involved in the SDS-sponsored April building occupation and ensuing riot. Some national observers felt the punishments meted out were surprisingly mild. Three students were expelled and 13 more were suspended. In all, 6 who would have graduated this week, now will not. - It would appear that in spite of what the "experts" say, punishments were reasonable and honest. The Committee established criteria and judged each case on its merits. Since the Committee could have justified lighter punishment in view of civil penalties already imposed or could have succumbed to the pressure of the moment of keeping the lid on for commencement scheduled for June 12, their judgment and integrity both seem sound.

The girls of Radcliffe graduated June 11 and more than half demonstrated only with the arm band as did 10 percent of Harvard men at a pre-graduation exercise addressed by Harvard President Nathan PUSEY the same day. Graduation day, the 12th, Dr. PUSEY broke with tradition and under pressure from attending students, allowed the Harvard SDS president (who was expelled on last Monday) to address the assemblage for 10 minutes. - When time was up and reportedly the SDSer had elicited more derision than applause he was escorted from the microphone by 7 student marshals. About 100 persons (including 15 graduating seniors) in an audience of 15,000 then staged a clenched fist walkout and commencement exercises continued without further interruption. About 4,000 degrees were conferred.

Several noteworthy observers have addressed the question in recent days of: what lies ahead for next year? Vice-President AGNEW, Syracuse retiring chancellor William TOLLEY and syndicated columnist Joseph KRAFT all take an optimistic view and see the influence of the campus radical on the wane. Undoubtedly much additional comment will follow the SDS national convention now scheduled to begin next Wednesday at Chicago. Mike KLONSKY, SDS president and Bernadine DOHRN, national secretary declined to name the exact site (reportedly, maybe the Chicago coliseum) for fear that the owners of indoor halls might be intimidated by the authorities. Already SDS has been turned down by 37 colleges and universities and at least 25 parks and meeting halls. KLONSKY and DOHRN say that the Chicago convention is to tend to business and not to stage demonstrations. "We don't want any trouble," said SDS spokesmen, "and if there is any it will be caused by Mayor DALEY's Fascist pig force running amok."

Signs of an SDS split continue to appear. A break along "doctrinaire/life style" lines still held most probable by many, has not been reported prominently in recent days, rather, a split between Marxist factions is being predicted. Tom HAYDEN, co-founder and past president of SDS has been reported by a Scripts-Howard staffer to have recently surfaced a new west coast radical group called "Revolutionary Union." The RU is strenuously opposed by the Maoist PLP faction in SDS and the two may well fight it out at Chicago. Reported in the Scripts-Howard article and believed accurate based on press literature over the past six months is that, the ultimate goal of both PLPers and RUers remains the same, namely overthrow. The tactic, however, varies. The PLP activists continue to cling to the Old Left philosophy of "back to the workers." It is they who many veteran New Left watchers believe launched and pushed the summer "work-in" program designed to infiltrate and radicalize the blue collar corps. The HAYDEN group, on the other hand, initially seeming more realistic, is convinced American workers are far too well-off and far too conservative in their thinking to make a fertile culture for revolution. Historically, the PLP approach better survives theoretical scrutiny. Social scientists believe that an idealistic and altruistic student movement is too vague and transient to be long lived and significant. Such a movement must have a "carrier" cause (nationalistic, racial, labor, etc.), basically materialistic in nature or it falters. The RU faction then, though flying with apparent good radical judgment and reason is flying in the face of history as well as social theory. Internal SDS conflict and disunity is bound to result even before the volatile and unpredictable "life style" element is introduced. The Chicago meeting is therefore well worth watching and may well sound the signal for a multisplintered SDS in coming months.

The conservative William BUCKLEY publication Combat has also noted the emergence of RU but does not emphasize the "split" potential of RU within SDS. Combat claims that RU played a major role both in the Stanford Research Center demonstrations and the Berkeley Peoples Park fracas. The publication characterizes RU as a typically doctrinaire Marxist force complete with age-worn cliches (for instance, "the real enemy is the U. S. imperialist ruling class," and "the dictatorship of the proletariat") but with a few modern "New Left" twists (the "pigs" and "industrial proletariat").

Combat and Scripts-Howard reporter are not in agreement in their evaluation of RU and in fairness it should probably be conceded that both RU's philosophy and impact cannot yet be accurately gauged. RU is still too new to evaluate. Where Scripts-Howard, sees the PLP faction within SDS as searching for a "carrier" cause, Combat states: "RU will try to radicalize the black-worker-women's liberation movements."

Apr6pos college commencements which are being held all over the country during June, Russell BAKER, wrote the following satirical column which appeared in the June 12 New York Times.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

"WASHINGTON, June 11 - Thirty years from now, which will be the year 1999, the college revolutionaries who are graduating this June will be making commencement speeches to a new generation of graduates. Unless their style changes, these speeches will sound very much like this:

"'Up against the wall, graduating class of 1999!

"'I'm here to tell it like it is, babies. And when I say 'babies,' I'm telling it like it is because that's all you are - babies. Dig?

"'Now some of you have been talking about a protest here this morning, about walking out on me and holding your own counter-commencement over in the field house. And I'm here to tell you that we're not going to put up with any rotten, immoral, corrupt, racist behavior like that. Not at this commencement.

THE PIGS ARE WITH US

"'Try it and there's going to be a confrontation, because I'm personally going to lead the administration and the faculty and the honorary-degree recipients and your parents over there to the field house and we're going to seize it and hold a commence-in. And don't think you're going to get the pigs to throw us out either because, remember, the pigs are on our side now.

"'Today you go forth into the world, a world full of crisp, crunchy relevance and meaningful experience. If you want to get along out there, you are going to have to make a commitment and you are going to have to relate.

THE GENERATION SLAP

"'The first thing you're going to have to relate to is us, the older generation. Anybody who doesn't want to relate to the older generation doesn't get to talk, and anybody who tries to talk without relating to the older generation gets shouted down. You dig me, mothers? We spent a lifetime humanizing this brutalized society and there's no place in it for people who don't relate to us humans.

"'As you all know, a lot of people of my generation think you are nothing but a bunch of short-haired gin freaks. A lot of you resent it when we say 'Never trust anybody under 50.'

"'Personally, I think this is unfair. It's not fair to put down a whole generation just because a handful of you insists on running around with crew-cut hair and violating the gin laws. It may be as the rebels say, that gin is no more dangerous than marijuana, but there are laws against gin and if you insist on breaking them, you've got to expect to meet the fuzz.

"'Crew-cut hair on young men may not, as you insist, be any more immoral than a shoulder-length mane, but it looks feminine. Girls wear crew cuts; men wear hair to the shoulder. If a cat wants to go around looking like a girl, that's his participatory democratic right, but he shouldn't expect to get a job in the U. S. Department of Meaningful Experience.

"'And I'd just like to remind that small minority of you who are obsessed with eight-letter words that nobody loves a smart-mouthed kid.

"'I know a lot of you are thinking, 'Man, like when I get out there in the world I'm going to show these old eight-letter words who's in charge.' And you think you'll try a little genocide on the older generation.

"'Think again, sweethearts. Since pills helped us get our population problem under control, there are six of us over-50's for every single one of you. It's understandable that you're unhappy with your world at present. We sympathize with that, and we make only one demand of you. All we demand is that you do our thing.

"'If you don't do our thing - well, remember, we're six-to-one against you and we've got right on our side and won't hesitate to enforce it if necessary, because when you're absolutely right, babies, you're beautiful, man, beautiful.

"'So I'm making a nonnegotiable demand of you not to fritter away your energies on corrupt middle-class causes. Abandon your crazy campaigns to force disc jockeys to play fewer rock 'n' roll classics and play more of your ear-splitting violin concertos. Quit going around in public in those freaky pressed flannels and learn to groove in jeans and a filthy turtleneck.

OVER FIFTY IS BEAUTIFUL

"'Make out thing your thing, and one day you, too, will taste the satisfaction of making the over-50 scene and being wrinkled and paunchy and beautiful.

"Remember, paunchy is best! Wrinkled is beautiful!

"And now, before the pigs take you away to test whether any of you are moral enough to be released immediately into the participatory democracy, I want you all to join me in shouting our beautiful slogan of the '69 revolution, as modified in 1995. Ready?

"Morality! Morality!

CALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

June 14

*Philadelphia, Pennsylvania - The Student Mobilization Committee has scheduled a Flag Day GI Teach-In at Strawberry Mansion, Fairmont Park. Allegedly, active duty GI's will attend. No further information is available. - 422-9160-677/69

June 14-15

*Cincinnati, Ohio - It has been reported that the Republic of New Africa has scheduled a regional conference to be held in Cincinnati, Ohio, on June 14-15. One of the purposes of this conference is to plan for the return to the United States of the President-In-Exile of this organization, Robert F. WILLIAMS. WILLIAMS, who reportedly is to return to the United States this summer, is a fugitive from North Carolina where he is wanted on kidnapping charges. He has been living in Cuba, China, and Africa since 1961. The Republic of New Africa is a black extremist separatist organization. Members of this organization participated in a shoot-out with Detroit, Michigan, police in March of 1969, killing one officer and wounding another. - 1-31-78845-6/11/69

June 16

*Boston, Massachusetts - The Science Action Coordinating Committee, a group of student and faculty scientists agitating for MIT to sever its connections with military related research and development is planning a demonstration for Homecoming Day.

June 15

*Jackson, Mississippi - The NAACP will stage a memorial march and rally in honor of assassinated Medgar EVERS. His brother, Charles EVERS, will lead the march and be the main speaker. Approximately 500 persons are expected to participate in the activities.

422-9163-9162
The Mississippi contingent of the SCLC sponsored Poor People's March is tentatively scheduled to arrive in Jackson on the 15th. The marchers, about 75 to 80, usually march a few miles out of each town and then are transported by truck to the next town.

June 16-22

*The midwestern group of the SCLC-sponsored Poor People's march to Washington, D. C., will stage its 2nd chapter of "Hunger Phase" when the campaign arrives in Toledo. The group will proceed to Cleveland, Ohio, on 17 June, and will march to the state capitol at Columbus, Ohio, on 19 June. Later stops are scheduled for Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and Baltimore, Maryland, with arrival in Washington, D. C., set for 22 June. They are apparently unaware that there has been an indefinite postponement - expected to be about a week - of the Washington phase. W.C. - 7/16/69 - 6/10/69

On 12 June the Georgia group of marchers arrived in Macon, Georgia. They were expected to arrive in Atlanta on the 17th.

June 30

*Washington, D. C. - The SCLC distributed a memorandum dated May "Thirty," 1969, concerning "SCLC's second chapter of the Poor People's Campaign Hunger march on Washington, D. C." This memorandum indicated that the demonstration planned in Washington, D. C., for 23 June has been postponed until 30 June and that more than anything else finances are needed for a "nonviolent passive resistance march on the U. S. Legislature." The number of marchers desired or anticipated was not mentioned in the memorandum; but it said the group would be back "by the thousands" if its demands were not met this time. As was noted earlier in this calendar, a number of contingents have started their marches, (Midwest, Georgia, Mississippi, and Alabama) and, in a typically poorly organized SCLC activity, seem unaware of the postponement.

*SI -

June 17-18.

Washington, D. C. - Women Strike for Peace, a pacifist group, and other peace groups are sponsoring a "no-mass movement, but highly visible anti-Vietnam action." On 17 June, a series of teach-ins will be held at the Pentagon and "other Government agencies." On the evening of 17 June, a public meeting will be held to hear a report from a group organized by Clergy and Laymen Concerned About the War in Vietnam and Business Executives Move for Vietnam Peace.

This group is presently in Saigon investigating "repression." On 18 June the demonstrators plan to visit all U. S. Senator's offices and demand a press release from each Senator concerning his views on the war, repression in Saigon, and repression of GI rights by the military. The press release will be immediately called into the home newspapers in the Senator's State.

June 21-23

Berlin, Germany - The World Federation of Trade Unions (Communist) has issued a call to all the trade unions of the world urging support of the World Peace Assembly in Berlin.

The WFTU call says:

"The World Peace Assembly is open to all persons and organizations fighting for universal peace, for a world without the danger of new wars." The call says the Assembly will meet to discuss jointly the main problems agitating mankind today: Vietnam, European security, the Middle East, neo-Colonialism and national independence, disarmament.

"The questions that will be in the center of the discussion at the Berlin World Assembly are among the main concerns of the WFTU and of the international trade union movement.

"This is why the WFTU supports this big undertaking, held on the initiative of the World Council of Peace in cooperation with other international and national organizations."

June 21-23

*East Berlin - U. S. delegates to the World Peace Council, which is to be held at East Berlin, Germany, during the period June 21-23, will include David Dellinger, who has been indicted for his activities during the Democratic National Convention; Dick GREGORY, a Negro comedian and peace activist; and Herbert APTHURER, a member of the National Committee, Communist Party, U. S. A. Representatives from the Women Strike for Peace; Congress of Racial Equality; BSU; and the Young Socialist Alliance, the youth group of the Socialist Workers Party, a Communist splinter group, will be present. Five hundred people are expected to attend from the U. S.

#25SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

The court order procedure, successfully employed by college administrators in recent months (a tactic previously noted and favorably reported in the WSR dated 2 May 1969) is apparently presenting a mucilaginous problem for the student radical movement. The procedure, in fact, enjoyed so much success in emptying a building of student occupiers (and keeping it empty) that it has probably found its place in the contingency plan of academe for next fall. Undoubtedly, campus administrators subscribing both to the stern authoritarianism of San Francisco State's Hayakawa and the latitudinarianism of Cornell's Perkins (and others) have observed with compelling interest the relative success of the court order at Dartmouth, Howard, George Washington, Columbia, and elsewhere.

Evidence that use of the temporary restraining order, the temporary injunction and the permanent injunction is "bugging" the movement was recently found in an article written by two new lefters and published in the June 14 edition of the Guardian (a weekly, that claims to be an independent radical paper). The article concedes that court orders have been effective due largely to the "classic weapons" defusing the student movement. Its use is described as "repressive psychological warfare" and compares current repression to the McCarthy era "when an entire population was terrorized into inactivity." The authors imply that the court order effect will be minimized if all understand the legal characteristics, the manifestations, the power, and the prerogatives of the courts. So then to clarify for one and all (but actually counterproductively clouding the picture) the following advice is served up to the would-be protester as what to do after issuance.

"Now a choice must be made. We can leave the buildings, postpone rallies and leafleting, and test the order in court a week or two later. Although the court will almost always extend the TRO into a preliminary injunction, it may delete some provisions which limit our freedom to organize, and we can use the court proceedings to make political points. (A legal rule called the "clean-hands doctrine" prohibits a court from using its injunctive power to help a party which itself has done wrong and been unfair. Since courts must at least listen to arguments based on this doctrine, we can describe all that we consider wrong with the university as argument against extending the TRO.)

The common alternative to waiting for a court test is immediate mass disobedience. We openly violate the TRO and the university administration asks the court to jail us for contempt. The contempt trial is independent of hearings on the TRO and injunction.

This spring many of us feared that contempt meant arrest at any time, jail without a trial, indefinite sentence and no right to bail or appeal. But contempt procedures are, on balance, no worse than regular criminal trials.

Contempt starts with a subpoena to appear in court on a given date. There is no arrest, and therefore no need for bail, unless the defendant refuses to show up in court.

Each defendant has the right to a trial, to determine whether he knew of and willfully disobeyed the TRO. A jury trial is required before a court can impose a heavy sentence. Immediate jailing for contempt, without a trial, is allowed only for conduct in court.

When a court orders us not to do something, disobedience is criminal contempt of court and the judge must set a fixed jail sentence, usually no more than 30 days. (In civil contempt a court orders someone to do something and keeps him in jail until he does it.) Conviction can be appealed and bail is available until appeal is decided.

A contempt trial sometimes can be won on the issue of notice. The university must prove each defendant in fact read or heard the entire court order. On some campuses, students have drowned out official efforts to read injunctions, later testifying in court that they could not hear the injunction when it was read to them.

Contempt trials have only one serious disadvantage compared to trials for trespass or other crimes. Though no one can be jailed for violating an unconstitutional criminal law, people can be imprisoned for disobeying an invalid TRO or injunction. The U. S. Supreme Court recently upheld 5-4 an Alabama conviction of Martin Luther King and others for violating an obviously unconstitutional injunction against a civil rights march."

As to tactics, the Guardian article offers the following good counsel:

"If it seems the university will enforce injunction clauses against basic organizing, a variety of tactics are possible, including open violation coupled, in some situations, with a free-speech fight organized by liberal supporters and keeping some leaders out of the limelight to reduce the possibility that the entire leadership will be picked off. Bringing in outside organizers not known by campus authorities is another possible tactic. For someone to be charged with contempt he must be identified as having had notice of an injunction."

CALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

June 20

*Fort Meade, Maryland - Members of the Baltimore Defense Committee plan to join peace demonstrators from the Washington area (NFI) at Fort Meade in a protest against the arresting of three Peace Action Workers at Ft. Meade on 13 June.

June 21-22

*Unconfirmed rumors have been received that a radical disturbance is to take place in Hartford, Connecticut, over the weekend of June 21-22, 1969. The violence is to take the form of burning schools in the greater Hartford area and "getting some of the teachers." The Hartford area has been up-tight from racial tensions recently and is a fertile ground for rumors.

* The SCLC sponsored Poor People's Campaign for 1969 continues to be revamped, reshuffled, and rephased as the SCLC leaders seem to be fumbling their way along toward an ultimate display of some sort in Washington, D. C. What was first apparently intended to be a number of area marches all proceeding to an impressive collective effort in D. C. has met with varying degrees of support in the Midwest, Alabama, Georgia, and Mississippi. It appears that the state marches will culminate with rallies in the state capitals. The SCLC intends to give first priority to escalation of protest activities relative to the continuing hospital workers' strike in Charleston, South Carolina, in an effort to secure a settlement there that may be highlighted as a noteworthy SCLC victory.

Demonstrations in Washington, D. C., are still intended although planning does not seem to be very firm at this time.. Out-of-town "hunger-marchers" will come to Washington to be joined by local protestors to conduct demonstrations and marches as Congress prepares to vote on food stamp and farm subsidy bills.

June 17-24

*Mobile, Alabama - The SCLC expects 100 to 150 participants in its Poor Peoples March from Mobile to Montgomery, Alabama, where the marchers are scheduled to arrive on 23 June. The SCLC expects the number of participants to increase to 3,000 as they pass through Chatoom, Jackson, Butler, Linden, Camden and Hayneville, Alabama. On 24 June, the SCLC has planned a march to the Alabama State Capitol.

June 23

*On 17 June, the SCLC-sponsored Mississippi march arrived uneventfully in Pickens, Mississippi. A delegation was sent to Jackson, Mississippi, to make final arrangements for the arrival on 22 June of the main body of the march. On 23 June, the SCLC will stage a march to the Mississippi State Capitol where a three-hour demonstration is planned. Ralph Abernathy, SCLC President, is expected to participate.

June 21-23

East Berlin - U. S. delegates to the World Peace Council, which is to be held at East Berlin, Germany, during the period June 21-23, will include David Dellinger, who has been indicted for his activities during the Democratic National Convention; Dick Gregory, a Negro comedian and peace activist; and Herbert Aptheker, a member of the National Committee, Communist Party, U. S. A. Representatives from the Women Strike for Peace; Congress of Racial Equality; BSU; and the Young Socialist Alliance, the youth group of the Socialist Workers Party, a Communist splinter group, will be present. Five hundred people are expected to attend from the U. S.

June 21-23

Berlin, Germany - The World Federation of Trade Unions (Communist) has issued a call to all the trade unions of the world urging support of the World Peace Assembly in Berlin.

The WFTU call says:

"The World Peace Assembly is open to all persons and organizations fighting for universal peace, for a world without the danger of new wars." The call says the Assembly will meet to discuss jointly the main problems agitating mankind today: Vietnam, European security,

"This is why the WFTU supports this big undertaking, held on the initiative of the World Council of Peace in cooperation with other international and national organizations."

June 30-July 3

*U. S. A. - Dr. George A. Wiley, Directory of the National Welfare Rights Organization, announced that on June 30, 1969, this organization will conduct demonstrations in each state capital; on 1 July it will demonstrate at Welfare Centers across the nation; on 2 July it will demonstrate at grocery stores; and on 3 July will "Sock it to" Sears Roebuck and Company stores throughout the country. The National Welfare Rights Organization is a private nationwide organization with national headquarters in Washington, D. C. It is reported to have chapters in ghetto areas in over one hundred cities in forty-five states and claims a membership of thirty thousand people. It has sponsored and participated in numerous protest rallies and demonstrations demanding changes in Welfare Benefits and Legislation. Some of these activities have resulted in mass arrests brought on by civil disobedience on the part of members of this group.

June 25

*Philadelphia, Pennsylvania - The GI Civil Liberties Defense Committee (GICLDC) has scheduled a public meeting to be held at the Germantown Community Presbyterian Church. The purpose of the meeting is to obtain public support for the GICLDC and its goals.

July 4-6

*Madison, Wisconsin - A conference has been called in an attempt to form an organization of radical scientists. No further information.

July 16

*In this day of "unnegotiable demands," "blackmail," and outrageous pressuring, another example surfaced recently. How seriously the leaflet's distributor expects to be taken is difficult to assess, but it is doubtful that Nevada gambling interests will panic. The leaflet, captioned "Ultimatum to the County Commissioners and Resort Industry," set forth a demand that forty million dollars be spent in West Las Vegas to develop clubs and gambling casinos to be staffed and operated by Negroes. The leaflet concluded by stating that if the demands are not met, 4 July 1969, will be the last big revenue holiday for the years 1969 and 1970. The leaflet bore the closing statement: "The Black Prophet has spoken: The Black Prophet will act after July 10, 1969."

July 18-21

*"The Black Panther," newspaper of the Black Panther Party, contained a one-page announcement in its June 7, 1969, edition which reported that a National Revolutionary Conference for a United Front Against Fascism is being sponsored by the Black Panther Party. It is scheduled to be held at Oakland, California, from 18-21 July 1969. Don Cox, Field Marshal of the Black Panthers has spoken of the need for revolutionary groups in white communities. According to "The Black Panther," some 5000 representatives of all organizations representing the people - students, workers, farmers, and unemployed - will be called together to form the united front. The call to the conference stresses the need for "a front which has a common revolutionary ideology and political program which answers the basic desires and needs of all people in fascist, capitalistic, racist America. Primary objective will be community control of police to end fascism." Reportedly, David Hilliard, National Chief of Staff of the Black Panther Party, was to visit New York City on 16 June and hoped to meet with two members of the CPUSA, to discuss the forthcoming conference. Also, it has been reported that Hilliard has already spoken to the Northern California CP functionaries.

July 30

Tokyo - The Japan Council against Atomic and Hydrogen Bombs (Gensuikyo) recently announced five points on which the 15th World Conference against atomic and hydrogen bombs will concentrate.

The five items listed are:

1. Opposition to the U. S. aggressive war in Vietnam.
- Realization of complete victory of the Vietnamese people.

Strengthening of further aid to the Vietnamese people.
Opposition to war provocation against Korea.

2. Prevention of nuclear warfare. Complete prohibition of nuclear weapons. For the immediate future, conclusion of a treaty to prohibit the use of nuclear weapons.

3. Abolition of the nuclearized Japan-U. S. military alliance - "nuclearized security treaty system."
Abrogation of the Security Treaty. Immediate, unconditional and complete reversion of Okinawa. Withdrawal of military bases. Prohibition of the bringing in of nuclear weapons. Opposition to Japanese nuclear armaments and revival of militarism.

4. Together with bomb victims, strengthen the relief campaign for bomb victims aiming for complete prohibition of nuclear weapons. Enactment of law to assist the victims of the bombs.

5. Strengthening of the struggle for international solidarity and mutual assistance.

August 29-31

*Los Angeles, California - On 13 June, Leroi Jones, the poet and playwright, and other black leaders announced in Newark, New Jersey, that the Fourth National Black Power Conference will be held in Los Angeles. The theme of the Conference will be "1969 Reconstruction."

October 6

*Bel Air, Maryland - The trial of H. Rap Brown, militant black former head of SNCC, charged with inciting to riot and arson in a Cambridge racial disturbance two years ago, has been set for October 6 in Harford County Circuit Court. This is the second time it has been scheduled since the 4th Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond, Virginia, rejected Brown's request that he be tried in Cambridge, Maryland, which was the scene of a riotous disturbance in July 1967 after Brown spoke to a street rally of Negroes.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Black Panther Party peccancy was brought to light this week both in the underground press and in testimony before Senator McClellans subcommittee. First, several press references have been made in recent months to the "Breakfast for Poor Kids" program being carried out by the Black Panthers in the San Francisco Bay area as well as elsewhere in the United States. Although allegations have been made that the food has been obtained from local merchants via the "shakedown" route, the donation of time and energy by the militant Panther rank and file has been applauded, even in the "straight" press. The facts are now coming in and the following article from the June 20-26 Berkeley Barb clearly reflects that, at least, the program as administered in Oakland encompasses coercion, "shakedowns" and probably "pocket lining."

"The Safeway store at 29th and West in Oakland was open but it was as empty as a tasteless loaf of white bread. The Black Panther boycott was a 99% success.

"For the past few weeks Panther members, community people, white friends and the breakfast kids have been surrounding Safeway and persuading customers to shop down the block.

"It all started when the Safeway Manager refused to kick in a hundred bucks a month for the Breakfast for Children Program. A lot of the stores in the area came through with contributions, including the Co-op, but Safeway figured the kids could survive on a glass of water every morning.

"The Black Panthers called for a boycott and are now taxing Safeway an additional $25 each week they want to play Scrooge.

"The Panthers have been relying on revolutionary persuasion to keep the store empty. A car pulls up in front of the door and the people shout, 'Don't give your money to pigs who won't feed our children.'

"Usually the customer drives on but sometimes people hop out of their car for more information. When the Panthers fill them in they almost always take their dollars elsewhere.

"It's fun to walk on the line chanting 'Power to the Children' and 'Free Huey.' The little kids are really turned on to the Panthers. They have no trouble discriminating between businessmen who cheat their parents and revolutionaries who give them double portions of potatoes with their free breakfasts. The kids would rip the store to shreds if the Panthers okayed it but the Party figures that a lot of the grownups aren't ready.

"'This is a program in practical socialism,' Bobby Seale rapped when the Panthers first started serving free breakfast at St. Augustine Church which is across the street from Safeway. 'We will send down our ugliest Panthers to dish out the food and the kids will learn to expect getting what they want for free.' He went on, 'When they get older they will see this is impossible under capitalism and join us.'

"The kids on the picket line did not have to grow up to find out about capitalism. A store that grosses $50,000 a week cannot find a $100 bucks a month in its back pocket for the kids.

"The boycott continues every day starting at 10 o'clock. Call the Panther office for further information. Everyone is invited to join the line.

"If Safeway hangs cheap the boycott will spread to all their stores and bankrupted tight-assed Safeway may follow Lyndon Johnson into a forgotten memory."

If the applause is still sounding, probably the Black Panther coloring book will silence it. A San Francisco police inspector testified before the Senate Subcommittee this week and brought with him samples of the BPP coloring book allegedly distributed to the poor Negro children participating in the free food program. The Panthers serve political rhetoric and hate along with breakfast. (See first cartoon page 6.)

In connection with dissemination of the Coloring Book, a San Francisco clergyman (in whose church one of the breakfast centers is located) has been critical of San Francisco police. In his statement to the press this clergyman accuses the police of reproducing and distributing more copies of the coloring book than the Panthers. "It is obvious," he said, "that the San Francisco police intelligence squad does not understand the black man if they are making such a big thing out of this." What the clergyman overlooks is that although the police may have reproduced and distributed the Coloring Book as a propaganda device to muster public support in its escalating war against a purely criminal element, the diabolical and hateful creation of the Coloring Book is Panther in origin and execution. It is not the quantity that measures the miscreance but the concept.

(In addition to the two examples on the first cartoon page there is a picture in the twenty-three page book captioned "The Only Good Pig is a Dead Pig." The book concluded with a famous quote from Chairman Mao's little red book "Power Comes Through the Barrel of a Gun.")

The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) held a national staff meeting at New York on the 16th and 17th of June. It is reported that the entire two days embraced nothing but personality conflicts and arguments and on June 17 became so chaotic that H. Rap Brown, former SNCC National Chairman, walked out saying he was disassociating himself because SNCC was unable to accomplish anything or relate to anybody. Allegedly, SNCC is $10,000 in debt and reports from various geographical areas indicate that during the past year nothing has been attempted or accomplished. - The national staff meeting will reconvene at Atlanta in July.

One possible cause of SNCC inactivity (as well as CORE) in recent years is the rising popularity of Black Student Union-type organizations on major U. S. campuses. Although a typical BSU is not affiliated nationally with other confederations of black collegians, their advantage over national groups like SNCC is in their flexibility to act and react on local issues. As a consequence, SNCC and CORE are losing their appeal for the Negro college student. Additionally, dynamic leadership of the past is leaving SNCC-type movement either toward bigger and better radical militancy (Stokeley Carmichael to the Panthers) or into the camp of the establishment (James Farmer). It would appear that SNCC has outlived its usefulness and may well pass into history in coming months.

University of Maryland President Wilson H. Elkins has announced to his Board of Regents a new "no negotiations" policy toward protesters. The Board approved a new student discipline code that specifically authorizes officials to suspend disruptive protesters without going through normal student court procedures. The student body president strongly objected but failed to influence the University's Regents.

Elkins said that protesting radicals are part of a "noisy revolution" that could "seriously damage higher education" if its allowed to create "an atmosphere of tension and suspense, requiring administration and faculty to spend a great deal of time on guard. It could result in the impairment of intellectual freedom and in the subordination of the University to outside forces."

Dr. Elkins declared that it was the University of Maryland's policy to deal with disruption, seizure or other illegal action as quickly as possible with whatever legal means necessary. "Experience all over the country indicates the need for this action. It is very important for the maintenance of order that when there is an occupation of a building that you suspend them (the students) and get them out."

As widely predicted (including in a Situation Information Report months ago) SDS has split in Chicago. Two sets of officers and two ideologies now govern two SDS's and in this instance there is much in a name. The PLP finally successful after numerous tries needs the SDS name. It is with the college popularity of the name "SDS" that PLP hopes to build the worker student radical alliance - their basic philosophy of revolt. The PLPers also need the "SDS" press, mailing list and bank account but some question exists that they will get any of the nonstigmatory trappings of a vital heretofore non-doctrinaire movement from the left. The old order (the old new left) of SDS though losing the vote in Chicago has not yet lost the National Office. "If we can keep the Chicago pigs out we can keep the PLP pigs out," said

Mike Klonsky, outgoing national secretary. The N. O. group claims the PLP element is illegal, counter-revolutionary, etc. They do not intend to alter their philosophy that SDS is a student-youth movement solely, and there is no room for the worker but is room for ethnic struggles for identity. The PLPers' view the Panthers and other black power and Mexican-American groups as manifestations of bourgeois nationalism and not in the vanguard of the revolution.

What influence the SDS split will have on the fall campus scene has started the new left watchers speculating. Although there are some optimistic observers, the consensus seems to be that no great and dramatic change for the better will be observed. It would seem, however, logical that factional SDS bickering and the threat of further splintering (SWP, CPUSA, Life Style deviationists are still around), coupled with University posture and public unsympathy are factors mitigating in favor of improved campus harmony next year as far as involvement of the white radicals is concerned.

What the Black Student Unions will do depends largely on the degree of urban unrest this summer and the display of good faith college administrators show in delivering sensible though liberal recruiting standard and meaningful but academically acceptable ethnic studies programs. It is believed that considerable progress can be made next year.

The Panthers have called a meeting on July 18 at Oakland of all significant radical leftist groups (black and white) in order to construct a "United Front Against Fascism." The purpose of the Front is to form a new coalition against "political repression." In originating such a "front" the Panthers will most certainly not give up their popular and now well-known symbol and identity. The SDS-N. O. group headed by the oft-maligned, monosyllabic, monostylous Mark Rudd of Columbia University riot fame will undoubtedly travel to Oakland. It will be interesting to see if PLP faction SDS national secretary John Pennington will. Since such a coalition, for the PLPers would clearly be extraideological, Pennington's presense would be only to confront Rudd, assert leadership and stimulate radical student support for PLP-SDS - not cooperate with Dave Hilliard and Bobby Seale of the Panthers.

CALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

- June 30-July 3 U. S. A. - Dr. George A. Wiley, Directory of the National Welfare Rights Organization, announced that on June 30, 1969, this organization will conduct demonstrations in each state capital; on 1 July it will demonstrate at Welfare Centers across the nation; on 2 July it will demonstrate at grocery stores; and on 3 July will "Sock it to" Sears Roebuck and Company stores throughout the country. The National Welfare Rights Organization is a private nationwide organization with national headquarters in Washington, D. C. It is reported to have chapters in ghetto areas in over one hundred cities in forty-five states and claims a membership of thirty thousand people. It has sponsored and participated in numerous protest rallies and demonstrations demanding changes in Welfare Benefits and Legislation. Some of these activities have resulted in mass arrests brought on by civil disobedience on the part of members of this group.
- July 1969 *Atlanta, Georgia - The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee will reconvene their annual meeting at Atlanta.
- July 4-6 *Madison, Wisconsin - A conference has been called in an attempt to form an organization of radical scientists. No further information.
- July 4-20 *The Stockholm Conference on Vietnam, an international anti-Vietnam war group, sponsored an Emergency Action Conference in Stockholm on May 16-18, 1969. This latter Conference drafted a report which called for the following actions: (1) Collection of signatures of prominent figures, both nationally and internationally, with publication of the names in U. S. newspapers; (2) National and international demonstrations with the special demands of the Vietnam movement in each country. Suggested actions for these demonstrations were vigils outside U. S. embassies during which the names of American servicemen killed in Vietnam would be read. (3) The boycott and harassment of U. S. products and firms providing goods and services for the War in Vietnam; (4) The increased international support of resistance in America and by Americans abroad in refusing the draft, in defecting from the U. S. Armed Forces and for carrying on propaganda within the Armed Services; (5) Increased support for the ten-point program of the National Liberation Front and exposure of the "weaknesses" of President Nixon's eight-point program. These actions would be planned in such a way as to build up to an anniversary celebration of the Geneva Accords to be held July 20.

July 16

In this day of "unnegotiable demands," "blackmail," and outrageous pressuring, another example surfaced recently. How seriously the leaflet's distributor expects to be taken is difficult to assess, but it is doubtful that Nevada gambling interests will panic. The leaflet, captioned "Ultimatum to the County Commissioners and Resort Industry," set forth a demand that forty million dollars be spent in West Las Vegas to develop clubs and gambling casinos to be staffed and operated by Negroes. The leaflet concluded by stating that if the demands are not met, 4 July 1969, will be the last big revenue holiday for the years 1969 and 1970. The leaflet bore the closing statement: "The Black Prophet has spoken; The Black Prophet will act after July 16, 1969."

July 18-21

"The Black Panther," newspaper of the Black Panther Party, contained a one-page announcement in its June 7, 1969, edition which reported that a National Revolutionary Conference for a United Front Against Fascism is being sponsored by the Black Panther Party. It is scheduled to be held at Oakland, California, from 18-21 July 1969. Don Cox, Field Marshal of the Black Panthers has spoken of the need for revolutionary groups in white communities. According to "The Black Panther," some 5,000 representatives of all organizations representing the people - students, workers, farmers, and unemployed - will be called together to form the united front. The call to the conference stresses the need for "a front which has a common revolutionary ideology and political program which answers the basic desires and needs of all people in fascist, capitalistic, racist America. Primary objective will be community control of police to end fascism." Reportedly, David Hilliard, National Chief of Staff of the Black Panther Party, was to visit New York City on 16 June and hoped to meet with two members of the CPUSA, to discuss the forthcoming conference. Also, it has been reported that Hilliard has already spoken to the Northern California CP functionaries.

August 1969

University of Texas at El Paso - 22nd Annual National Student Congress (tentative).

August 29-31

Los Angeles, California - On 13 June, Leroy Jones, the poet and playwright, and other black leaders announced in Newark, New Jersey, that the Fourth National Black Power Conference will be held in Los Angeles. The theme of the Conference will be "1969 Reconstruction."

September 16

Southwest, United States - Mexican-American and other Spanish-speaking youths intend to shut down the schools of the Southwest on 16 September in a demonstration of solidarity and protest on the anniversary date of the Mexican revolution. According to Rudolpho Corky Gonzales, leader of the Crusade for Justice, it will be a demonstration "to change the whole educational system to relate to our needs."

September 2-4

Chicago, Illinois - Trial has been set for 24 September for the eight protest leaders indicted on charges of conspiracy to incite a riot in connection with the disorders at the Democratic National Convention last fall. All eight pleaded "not guilty" in Federal District Court on 9 April. Each defendant also faces charges of crossing state lines to foment disorder or to otherwise violate the Civil Rights Act of 1968. Rennie Davis, Bobby Seale, John R. Froines, and Lee Weiner had their travel restrictions eased but are required to keep the Court fully informed of their movements.

September 26-28

*The SDS (Mark Rudd faction) plans massive demonstrations at Chicago on the above dates. The demonstrations are apparently to coincide with the trial of eight persons who allegedly conspired to bring violence to Chicago during last year's Democratic Convention. More details will be reported as they become known.

October 6

Bel Air, Maryland - The trial of H. Rap Brown, militant black former head of SNCC, charged with inciting a riot and arson in a Cambridge racial disturbance two years ago, has been set for October 6 in Harford County Circuit Court. This is the second time it has been scheduled since the 4th Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond, Virginia, rejected Brown's request that he be tried in Cambridge, Maryland, which was the scene of a riotous disturbance in July 1967 after Brown spoke at a street rally of Negroes.

APR 27
390769 S3SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Recent press coverage indicates that Federal and local police crackdown on Black Panther activities has seriously affected the organization's size, image, and recruitment possibilities. In Chicago for instance, not only is meager Panther membership reportedly between 20 and 30 hard core militants but the Party has been unable to proselytize from either of the two prominent Negro street gangs (Blackstone Rangers and Black Disciples). Money is scarce in many chapters and recruitment restricted because the Panthers, deathly afraid of infiltration by police undercover agents, require candidates for membership to submit to rigorous tests.

Syndicated columnist Victor Riesel reports present Panther strength as between 1500 and 1600 divided among 30 chapters. Panther members, says Riesel who murder without cause, steal without philosophy or go "pig hunting" without regard for the final conflict - namely the overthrow of capitalism, are expelled.

SDS alternatives remaining to the candidate campus radical do not seem particularly attractive and probably will not seduce the casually interested revolutionary in coming semesters as in semesters past. In Chicago last month the Progressive Labor faction won control but was promptly expelled by the NO (National Office) group. In rational terms the mechanics of all this are not easily understood but rationality is not the forte of the irascible young radical. In any case time and backstage maneuvering will determine whether PL or NO represents the popular though poisonous SDS nationally. If NO comes out on top and it's likely to (PL voter strength not believed a reflection of true strength nationally) here are the two principles that must be embraced by the membership. "All people who do not accept these two principles are no longer members of SDS."

1. Support of the black and Latin colonies within the U. S. for national liberation and recognize those nations' rights to self-determination (including the right to political secession if they desire it). and,

2. Support the struggle for national liberation of the people of South Vietnam, led by the National Liberation Front and the Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam. Support also the Democratic Republic of Vietnam led by President Ho Chi Minh, as well as the Peoples Republic of China, the Peoples Democratic Republics of Korea and Albania and the Republic of Cuba, all waging fierce struggles against U. S. imperialism. Support the right of all people to pick up the gun to free themselves from the brutal rule of U. S. imperialism.

If, on the other hand, the prospective radical supports the ideology and philosophy of PL, he is strongly pro-Maoist, pro-activist (farther left than CPUSA) and regards the Soviet party as revisionistic and divergent. Above all, PL believes that the revolutionary struggle is of an "economic class" nature and a successful overthrow of capitalism must come via the "workers of the world" route. The PLers envision the SDS value to the movement as one of building a "worker/student alliance" rather than a purely student (youth) radical organization as held by the NO.

The NO is not one big happy family either. Though not as seriously and self-destructively split as the major group, NO factionalizes and splinters further. The two major factions, "weatherman" ("You don't need a weatherman to know which way the wind blows" -Bob Dylan), and "RYM-2" (Revolutionary Youth Movement) agree on many points but disagree on many others. The newly elected NO officers are "Weatherman" and reportedly, "Weatherman" hold voter majority and control of the NO (outgoing interorganizational secretary Bernadine Dorhn was a "Weatherman" and former National Secretary Mike Klonsky was a "RYM-2").

As for the difference between the two factions, it seems that "RYM-2" leans a bit more toward the PL philosophy. RYM-2 sees the proletariat as being the main force in the revolution. "Blacks, women, and students, RYM-2 holds, play a key role in raising the consciousness of the working class by struggling for their own liberation. RYM-2 considers blacks as a separate nation but because of their dual position - oppressed as black, superexploited as worker, "their fight for the right of self-determination is a pre-condition for any kind of socialism in this country." RYM-2 views this struggle for liberation, along with women's struggle for liberation, from male supremacy, and the struggle of youth as a means of developing proletarian unity and revolution.

"Weatherman" tends to deny the leading role of the working class in the revolutionary struggle. Weatherman professes indifference to white workers and embraces a "shock-brigade" action strategy. Blacks in the U. S. are viewed by "Weatherman" as a separate colonized nation within the oppressor country. National liberation for blacks in the oppressor country cannot be accomplished until capitalism is overthrown. On women's liberation, "Weatherman" holds that women should be organized around anti-imperialist, anti-racist struggles.

An established splinter within SDS-NO which may be soon purged is the Independent Socialist Club. The ISCers support "workers democracy" as the ultimate goal of a revolutionary movement. Reportedly ISC has criticized all existing "socialist" (communist) countries and (imprudently) the undemocratic practices of SDS. ISC has recently deplored a resurgence of Stalinism in SDS practice.

On March 17, 1969, the University of California (the consolidated University including nine campuses throughout the state) issued a pamphlet relating to and spelling out the regulations on student conduct. Included in the pamphlet are 12 "Standards of Conduct" presented below. It would seem pedantic and practically unconceivable that an academic community would require such "black on white" regalia in the maintenance of civil order, but recent history clearly reflects that President Charles J. Hitch and his nine chancellors can no longer rely on the lex non scripta among rational scholars.

"A student enrolling in the University assumes an obligation to conduct himself in a manner compatible with the University's function as an educational institution. Misconduct for which students are subject to discipline falls into the following categories:

"1. Dishonesty, such as cheating, plagiarism, or knowingly furnishing false information to the University;

"2. Forgery, alteration, or misuse of University documents, records, or identification;

"3. Obstruction or disruption of teaching, research, administration, disciplinary procedures, or other University activities, including its public service functions, or of other authorized activities on University premises;

"4. Physical abuse of any person on University-owned or-controlled property or at University-sponsored or -supervised functions, or conduct which threatens or endangers the health or safety of any such person;

"5. Theft of or damage to property of the University or of a member of the University community or campus visitor;

"6. Unauthorized entry to or use of University facilities;

"7. Violation of University policies or of campus regulations, including campus regulations concerning the registration of student organizations, the use of University facilities, or the time, place, and manner of public expression;

"8. Use, possession, or distribution of narcotic or dangerous drugs, such as marijuana and lysergic acid diethylamide (LSD), except as expressly permitted by law;

"9. Violation of rules governing residence in University-owned or -controlled property;

"10. Disorderly conduct or lewd, indecent, or obscene conduct or expression on University-owned or -controlled property or at University-sponsored or -supervised functions;

"11. Failure to comply with directions or University officials acting in the performance of their duties; or,

"12. Conduct which adversely affects the student's suitability as a member of the academic community.

Atlanta, Georgia - The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee will reconvene their annual meeting at Atlanta. Exact date unknown.

uly 4

*Austin, Texas - The "Fatigue Press" and the "GI Organizer," two GI anti-war newspapers at Fort Hood, Texas, are sponsoring a weenie roast at Peace Park from 1200 to 1700 hours. The theme of the event is "Bring the GI's Home Now." No further information is available.

uly 4

*A "Nonviolent Student Vigil" will be held at Washington, D. C., on 4 July. The expected vigil at the Lincoln Memorial followed by a march to Arlington Cemetery. The demonstrators will protest the War in Vietnam, racism, and poverty. Among the sponsors of the demonstration are the student body presidents from State University of New York at Buffalo; Colgate University; Queens College, New York City; Amherst College; the University of Oregon; and the University of Alabama. The group has been given a permit to meet in the vicinity of Lincoln Memorial and, thereafter, to march to Arlington Cemetery.

uly 4-6

Madison, Wisconsin - A conference has been called in an attempt to form an organization of radical scientists. No further information.

54SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

In the June 1969 edition of Ramparts, Kathleen Cleaver writes about her husband, Eldridge and his misfortune. Briefly summarized Eldridge, after serving many years in various California prisons, was paroled in December 1966 and shortly thereafter affiliated himself with much in contemporary society considered evil and destructive (Ramparts Magazine, Black Panther Party, and Peace & Freedom Party, becoming their presidential candidate in August 1968 beating out Dick Gregory and Dr. Spock). Principally because of his Black Panther activities, culminating in the 28th Street shoot-out with Oakland police on 6 April 1968 in which a confederate was killed (Bobby Hutton), Cleaver's parole was revoked and on September 27, 1968, he was ordered by the court to deliver himself, in sixty days to the California Adult Authority to serve the remaining four years of his original sentence. Two days before delivery date Cleaver disappeared and is now allegedly living in Havana.

In the Ramparts article, Kathleen Cleaver, a societally hostile, though well-educated and intelligent woman, who was the SNCC program secretary at Fisk University, Nashville, when she first met Eldridge in March 1967, most eloquently expresses her (and quite likely her husband's) hatred for white America (termed "Babylon" by Eldridge in his book "Soul on Ice" written in California prisons) in the following scorchingly graphic fashion:

"Eldridge Cleaver died in that house on 28th Street with little Bobby, and what's left is force: fuel for the fire that will rage across the face of this racist country and either purge it of its evil or turn it into ashes. I say this for little Bobby, for Eldridge Cleaver who died that night, for every black man, woman, and child who ever died here in Babylon, I say it to racist America, that if every voice is silenced by your guns, by your courts, by your gas chambers, by your money, you will know, that as long as the ghost of Eldridge Cleaver is afoot, you have an enemy in your midst."

A confidential source of information who has furnished reliable information in the past has recently provided the following (highly questionable) information. Roy Wilkins, Executive Director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, recently was in contact with Bobby Seale, Chairman of the Black Panther Party, and indicated a desire to hold private exploratory conferences with militant groups, particularly with the Black Panther Party. Wilkins indicated that the purpose of the meetings would be to explore areas of possible agreement in an effort to reach some common ground and to arrive at some sort of strategy that will be effective even if used in only a few areas. Seale reportedly is only willing to confer with Wilkins at a public meeting.

The National Socialist White Peoples Party (formerly Commander Rockwell's American Nazi Party) has been stink bombing Washington movie houses. These odious (as well as odoriferous) attacks have been precipitated by films that the Nazis find objectionable. One such film, "The Lost Man" presently screening at the Warner Theater features an interracial love scene between Sidney Poitier and the white female lead. Last May the Warner Theater was also the target of a stink bombing when it presented the movie "Slave" also with interracial overtones. "Uncle Tom's Cabin" playing at Keiths Theater has experienced like treatment and the Playhouse presentation of "Che" has been interrupted three times in the past two and a half weeks with smelly incendiaries. Nazi literature has been found and one Party member has been arrested (at Warners on 30 May).

Walter Reuther, perennial United Automobile Workers president, has climbed upon the placatory bandwagon and has just issued the most overused cliché of the decade. From his Detroit office, Reuther told the press this week: "I think the present younger generation is the best that ever came down the pike." By so uttering, Reuther joins the bulk of prominent Americans who have been so quoted in the past year.

There are three main factors of contemporary disaffection says the labor leader and interestingly, these factors as Reuther sees them are identical with the constantly parroted complaints the movement lodges against the establishment. As stated by the young radical, these factors are: 1. generation gap and hypocrisy of the establishment; 2. relevancy; and, 3. de-humanization. Mr. Reuther states them thusly: 1. There is a large gap of hypocrisy in our present mass culture that has left youth alienated from a sense of human community. 2. Society has been unable to translate its rapidly expanding technology into human terms and make it serve human needs, and 3. Things are in the saddle and things are getting bigger. Meanwhile, man is getting smaller and smaller.

Al Capp, vocal creator of the Lil Abner comic strip who has often publicly criticized radical student activism in recent weeks would undoubtedly rebut Reuther by asking: If all the kids are so good, who's tearing down the university?

The two internecine SDS factions met this week at New York University and predictably, the proverbial sparks flew (and rocks and chairs and fists). Two hundred members of the New York City-Long Island SDS-NO faction tried to hold a closed meeting at the New York University student center and one hundred SDS-PLers tried to enter the closed meeting. A melee ensued with fists and chairs flying, several glass doors were smashed and a fire hose finally dampening down the unhealthy interosculation. The police who arrived after the trouble was over made no arrests. The NO security force, which the New York Times credited with the fire hose high jinks held the day by driving off the battered Maoist faction. Two persons required hospital treatment.

National Office spokeswoman Karen Ashley, who identified herself as a regional SDS representative said that the meeting had been called to consider summer projects and future demonstrations and to discuss the organizational split that occurred last month at Chicago.

This SDS happening at New York University is believed noteworthy because it is the first of what will probably be a long and possibly, at times, bloody series of confrontations in store for the American campus during the approaching school year. It is quite likely that the character of forthcoming SDS trouble will be more egocentric than targeted against the external establishment. The excitability and irascibility of the campus radical can be expected to turn divergent SDS philosophy into bitter physical conflict as the PL and NO confraternity fight it out on the campus green.

July 4-50

The Stockholm Conference on Vietnam, an international anti-Vietnam War group, sponsored an Emergency Action Committee in Stockholm on May 16-18, 1969. This latter Conference drafted a report which called for the following actions:

- (1) Collection of signatures of prominent figures, both nationally and internationally, with publication of the names in U. S. newspapers; (2) National and international demonstrations with the special demands of the Vietnam movement in each country. Suggested actions for these demonstrations were vigils outside U. S. embassies during which the names of American service men killed in Vietnam would be read. (3) The boycott and harassment of U. S. products and firms providing goods and services for the war in Vietnam; (4) The increased international support of resistance in America and by Americans abroad in refusing the draft, in defecting from the U. S. Armed Forces and for carrying on propaganda within the Armed Services; (5) Increased support for the ten-point program of the National Liberation Front and exposure of the "weaknesses" of President Nixon's eight-point program. These actions would be planned in such a way as to build up to an anniversary celebration of the Geneva Accords to be held July 20.

July 12

*Baltimore, Maryland - Members of the Baltimore Defense Committee, the White Panther Party and the SDS are planning a counter-demonstration during a National States Rights Party Rally in Patterson Park. There is no estimate of the number of participants, but local police are anticipating a possible confrontation between the two groups.

July 16

In this day of "unnegotiable demands," "blackmail," and outrageous pressuring, another example surfaced recently. How seriously the lealett's distributor expects to be taken is difficult to assess, but it is doubtful that Nevada's gambling interests will panic. The leaflet, captioned "Ultimatum to the County Commissioners and Resort Industry," set forth a demand that forty million dollars be spent in West Las Vegas to develop clubs and gambling casinos to be staffed and operated by Negroes. The leaflet concluded by stating that if the demands are not met, 4 July 1969, will be the last big revenue holiday for the years 1969 and 1970. The leaflet bore the closing statement: "The Black Prophet has spoken; The Black Prophet will act after July 16, 1969."

July 18-21

*The Black Panther Party and the International Liberation School will hold a United Front Against Fascism (UFAF) in Oakland on the above dates. The stated objectives of UFAF include: Community control of police; the removal of the military from college campuses; and freedom for "Political Prisoners." The Panthers are expecting 5,000 people and in calling the conference the Panther leadership has stressed the need for "a front which has a common revolutionary ideology and a political program which answers the basic desires and needs of all people in fascist, capitalist, racist America." Some Communist Party (CPUSA) functionaries are expected to attend.

July 30

Tokyo - The Japan Council against Atomic and Hydrogen Bombs (Genisuikyo) recently announced five points on which the 15th World Conference against atomic and hydrogen bombs will concentrate.

The five items listed are:

1. Opposition to the U. S. aggressive war in Vietnam. Realization of complete victory of the Vietnamese people. Strengthening of further aid to the Vietnamese people. Opposition to war provocation against Korea.
2. Prevention of nuclear warfare. Complete prohibition of nuclear weapons. For the immediate future, conclusion of a treaty to prohibit the use of nuclear weapons.
3. Abolition of the nuclearized Japan-U. S. military alliance - "nuclearized security treaty system." Abrogation of the Security Treaty. Immediate, unconditional and complete reversion of Okinawa. Withdrawal of military bases. Prohibition of the bringing in of nuclear weapons. Opposition to Japanese nuclear armaments and revival of militarism.

4. Together with bomb victims, strengthen the relief campaign for bomb victims aiming for complete prohibition of nuclear weapons. Enactment of law to assist the victims of the bombs.

5. Strengthening of the struggle for international solidarity and mutual assistance.

August 17-19

At a recent meeting of the San Diego, California, branch of the Socialist Workers Party (SWP), it was announced that a peace march will be held during the period August 17-19 at either the summer White House, San Clemente, California, or in the vicinity of the Newport Beach Hotel, Newport Beach, California. During a conference held by the Peace Action Council, Los Angeles, California, on 13 June and 14, it was decided that all groups affiliated with the Peace Action Council will work to build a massive demonstration to be held on August 17 at San Clemente adjacent to the summer residence of the President. Irving Sarnoff, the leader of the Council, called for "A summer vacation the President will never forget."

August 17

*A National anti-war conference was held at Cleveland, Ohio, 4 and 5 July. Eight hundred individuals participated in the conference, including numerous members of the Socialist Workers Party (SWP). Sidney Peck, a former member of the Communist Party (CP) who is cochairman of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (NMC), stated that the objective of the conference was to unite the Peace Movement. Mark Rudd, National Secretary of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), called for opposition to imperialism which he contended included opposition to capitalism. David Dellinger, co-chairman of the NMC, was cheered when he appealed for more militancy in the Peace Movement. Dellinger also stated that civil disobedience could not be ruled out as a method of protest. The conference decided to participate in a demonstration at Chicago, Illinois, on 29 September to protest the trial of individuals indicted for their activities during the Democratic National Convention; to hold a massive anti-war demonstration at the White House on 15 November; and to participate in a demonstration against President Nixon at San Clemente, California, on 17 August.

A confidential source has advised that Bobby Seale, Chairman of the extremist Black Panther Party, is being sought as one of the speakers for the demonstration on 17 August.

August 29-31

Los Angeles, California - On 13 June, Leroy Jones, the poet and playwright, and other black leaders announced in Newark, New Jersey, that the Fourth National Black Power Conference will be held in Los Angeles. The theme of the Conference will be "1969 Reconstruction."

September 16

Southwest, United States - Mexican-American and other Spanish-speaking youths intend to shut down the schools of the Southwest on 16 September in a demonstration of solidarity and protest on the anniversary date of the Mexican revolution. According to Rudolpho Corky Gonzales, leader of the Crusade for Justice, it will be a demonstration "to change the whole educational system to relate to our needs."

September 24

Chicago, Illinois - Trial has been set for 24 September for the eight protest leaders indicted on charges of conspiracy to incite a riot in connection with the disorders at the Democratic National Convention last fall. All eight pleaded "not guilty" in Federal District Court on 9 April. Each defendant also faces charges of crossing state lines to foment disorder or to otherwise violate the Civil Rights Act of 1968. Rennie Davis, Bobby Seale, John R. Froines, and Lee Weiner had their travel restrictions eased but are required to keep the Court fully informed of their movements.

September 26-28

The SDS (Mark Rudd faction) plans massive demonstrations at Chicago on the above dates. The demonstrations are apparently to coincide with the trial of eight persons who allegedly conspired to bring violence to Chicago during last year's Democratic National Convention. Move details will be reported as they become known.

Fall 1969

*The new SDS Vietnam action program calls for major anti-war demonstrations in the fall - time and precise action to be determined. The demonstrations, intended to build a broad anti-imperialist consciousness, mark SDS's reentry into the struggle against the Vietnam War on a national level.

October 8

Bel Air, Maryland - The trial of H. Rap Brown, militant black former head of SNCC, charged with inciting a riot and arson in a Cambridge racial disturbance two years ago, has been set for October 8 in Harford County Circuit Court. This is the second time it has been scheduled since the 4th Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond, Virginia, rejected Brown's request that he be tried in Cambridge, Maryland, which was the scene of a violent disturbance in July 1967 after Brown spoke at a street rally of Negroes.

October 15

The Vietnam Moratorium Committee, headed by former Harvard divinity student Sam Brown, a former New Hampshire canvasser for Senator Eugene McCarthy will attempt to "shut down" all normal University activities for the day of October 15 in protest against continued American participation in the Vietnam War. Mr. Brown also hopes that his organization will in coming months work with other forces organized against military training, anti-ballistic missile systems and racism. Not only is the Vietnam Moratorium Committee plugging for an end to Vietnam indefinitely. Mr. Brown states that his organization which is planning a mammoth campaign will greatly appreciate assistance from anyone including SDS. The office address of the Vietnam Moratorium Committee is 1029 Vermont Avenue, N. W., (a favorite for radical groups in the D. C. area).

On 15 July, the day before the historic blast off of Apollo 11, Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy and Hosea Williams, SCLC leaders, led a peaceful "demonstration on hunger" at Kennedy Space Center and Cocoa, Florida. Six hundred participants in a rally in a church that night were kept waiting an hour while Abernathy, Williams, and local leaders dined at an exclusive restaurant. FBI NY 103761

The following item appeared in the 19 July 1969 edition of Saturday Review:

"A recent flier of the U. S. Government Printing Office describes publications for sale by the agency, among them being No. 67J, Subversive Influences in Riots. Looting and Burning, and No. 56J, Factors in Selecting and Applying Commercial Explosives and Blasting Agents. The latter 'seeks to acquaint the reader with the great variety of explosives available, their advantages and disadvantages, and their general areas of applications. . . The ingredients and more significant properties of each explosive are tabulated and briefly discussed.' As P. Elliott points out, you can buy these two pamphlets and find out how to do your anarchistic thing and with whom." Sat Review 19 July 69

Wayne State University's student newspaper "The South End" has been, at least temporarily, closed down by WSU President William Rea Keast. "The South End," one of the nation's most radical and controversial student papers operates on an annual, largely state-supported, $100,000-budget. The suspension is to continue until a newly formed student newspaper publication board comprised of four students and two faculty members can develop policies and guidelines for a successor publication. Dr. Keast said that he took the action because he was convinced that the paper's publication would seriously damage the school and future student journalism at WSU.

The newspaper, which recently underwent a change in editorship had previously been headed by a Negro student who had dedicated the paper to the "black Marxist revolution and the cause of the Black Panther Party." Under the present editorship (chief editor is a nineteen-year-old white girl), the black panthers that formerly flanked the masthead gave way to white panthers (a symbol of white radicalism).

The change in editors brought only a change in emphasis from black to white radicalism. The anti-establishment and Pro Mao Tse-tung and his little red book philosophy persisted. In the last issue published (July 3) the United States was described as the most repressive, inhumane capitalistic-imperialistic nation the world has ever seen.

The present editor, Cheryll McCall, who states that the paper will continue to be printed and sold for 15 cents a copy (presently distributed free), told a news conference that Dr. Keast moved against her and not her predecessor because Keast was frightened to death of the Negro editor (and the racial trouble that might follow such a move on the downtown Detroit campus of WSU).

Mr. George E. Gullen, Wayne State Vice-President refuted Miss McCall's contention and stated that the paper had been suspended both because of dirty language and content. President Keast had not moved earlier to shut off the paper because he was concerned about censorship.

Mr. Gullen said that the paper which has press runs of 10,000 to 15,000 was not being read by students, "They put them around in big racks and then throw thousands of them away. Kids just don't bother to pick them up."

The Black Panthers revolutionary conference scheduled for this weekend at Merritt College (alma mater of Huey Newton, Bobby Seale, and other prominent bay area Panthers) is destined to be a strange mixture of the modern revolutionary breed (see Situation Information Report calendar item 18 to 21 July). What the stated objectives as well as the real objectives of the conference are have caused considerable speculation among radical watchers. The startling inconsistencies must lead observers to believe that, in fact, the Panthers have no philosophy aside from the internally embraced lex non scripta of 'cause trouble wherever and whenever possible.

Consider these factors. The Black Panthers have been strongly and consistently separatist, and black nationalist, until three or four weeks ago when their call for this weekend's conference to form an "American Liberation Front" openly invited participation by all opposed to "American fascism." Included on the Panther invitation list are members of a white Chicago street gang as well as the establishment's greatest new Nemesis, SDS. One of the sponsors of the conference, as strange as it seems, is aging SDS co-founder Tom Hayden who is lilly white and thereby ineligible for BPP membership. It is probably this policy departure that prompted Stokely Carmichael to quit the party last week. Carmichael's resignation is not expected to upset Panther chairman Bobby Seale (who reportedly is merely a drunken puppet of Chief of Staff David Hilliard anyway) or other members of the Party leadership elite, who must certainly ask: "What has Stokely done for us lately (ever)?"

The second head-scratching Panther philosophy rupture is, how come the Panther enamorata for Mao and his trite and childish red book from their historical beginnings (early bay area Panthers even peddled Mao's red book on Berkeley street corners to raise a few hundred dollars for the Panther treasury), and now for their big conference their attempt to seduce and attract the attendance and participation of the Pro-Moscow CPUSA?

According to BPP literature, stated conference objectives are these:

1. Community control of police on a national scale;
2. Freedom for all political prisoners and political freedom for everyone;
3. Elimination of any military presence on college campuses;
4. Recognition of the people's right to self-defense against "fascist tactics"; and,
5. Cooperation among religious groups, teachers, professors, intellectuals, students, and black and white workers in order to wage a struggle against "fascism."

A reliable confidential source of information has appraised the real objectives of the Panther clambake thusly: "The fortunes of the BPP have not been good in recent days. Many of the BPP leaders are either in jail, under indictment, or in a fugitive status. Legal defense has cut into BPP financial resources. It is possible, therefore, that the BPP leadership believe that their organization has reached its peak and needs a united front with white radicals in order to prolong its existence."

Last month the Harvard Class of 1944 held a class reunion (25th anniversary of their graduation) on the Harvard Campus. A poll was conducted among the group in which questions pursuant to recent strife at the school were asked.

Here are the questions contained in the poll and the results:

1. Students should be able to take ROTC courses at Harvard if they wish.

Answer: 79 percent in favor

2. Academic credit should be given for ROTC courses.

Answer: 64 percent NOT in favor

3. ROTC instructors should have equal status with other Harvard faculty members.

Answer: 62 percent NOT in favor

4. Harvard should stop expanding the low-cost housing area in Cambridge and near the Medical School.

Answer: 49 percent negative
27 percent affirmative

5. Forcible occupation of a university building is a fair and proper means of student protest.

Answer: 90 percent NOT in favor

6. Students who break the law should be liable to civil prosecution.

Answer: 90 percent in favor

7. Students should have a voice in determining what courses will be taught at Harvard.

Answer: 88 percent in favor

8. Students should have a voice in choosing faculty at Harvard.

Answer: 57 percent NOT in favor

9. Amnesty should be granted to all who took part in the University Hall occupation.

Answer: 80 percent NOT in favor

10. The Harvard Corporation should be restructured to include representatives of the entire university community, including undergraduates.

Answer: 55 percent in favor

11. President Pusey was right in calling in the police when he did.

Answer: 58 percent yes

12. Although the faculty did not fully support the administration in the recent troubles, I approve the stand taken by the faculty.

Answer: 30 percent agreed
38 percent disagreed

"The Black Panther," newspaper of the Black Panther Party, contained a one-page announcement in its June 7, 1969, edition which reported that a National Revolutionary Conference for a United Front Against Fascism is being sponsored by the Black Panther Party. It is scheduled to be held at Oakland, California, from 18-21 July 1969. Don Cox, Field Marshal of the Black Panthers, has spoken of the need for revolutionary groups in white communities. According to "The Black Panther," some 5,000 representatives of all organizations representing the people - students, workers, farmers, and unemployed - will be called together to form the United Front. The call to the conference stresses the need for "a front which has a common revolutionary ideology and political program which answers the basic desires and needs of all people in fascist, capitalistic, racist America. Primary objective will be community control of police to end fascism." Reportedly, David Hilliard, National Chief of Staff of the Black Panther Party, was to visit New York City on 16 June and hoped to meet with two members of the CPUSA, to discuss the forthcoming conference. Also, it has been reported that Hilliard has already spoken to the Northern California CP functionaries.

*Rio Piedras, Puerto Rico - On the evening of 24 July, the Movement for the Independence of Puerto Rico, the Federation of University students for Independence, and other independence-seeking organizations plan to conduct a demonstration to repudiate the celebration of the Constitution Day of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico. On 25 July, the Nationalist Party of Puerto Rico and the Puerto Rican Socialist League will protest "the invasion of Puerto Rico by U. S. Troops in 1898." No further information is available.

July 27

*A recently formed organization, "The Washington Area Citizens Against the ABM," which counts among its membership one of Washington's eminent civil rights troublemakers Etta Horn and outspoken Negro militant D. C. School Board member Julius Hobson are planning a demonstration. The WACA-ABM will initiate an around-the-clock vigil on the Capitol steps on the above date. The vigil will continue for the duration of the Senate vote on the ABM in an effort to impress the Senate with citizen opposition to the system.

(Hobson has recently been quoted in the press as stating that the administration's ABM system was just about as worthless as the Apollo shot to put a man on the moon. The money could be better spent to feed the hungry said Hobson.)

1/16/70 103SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

The Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) has announced from its new headquarters in the Holy Apostles Episcopal Church at 9th Avenue and 28th Street, New York City, that it has changed its name to the Student National Coordinating Committee. H. Rap Brown, who has been renamed chairman of the organization, stated in a news conference that, "If the situation demands that you retaliate violently, you would no longer be hindered or hampered by 'non-violent' in the organization's name."

SNCC, which has seen its position among militant blacks drastically ebb in the last couple years, obviously hopes to reclaim some of the support of black activists who have been drawn to the fast growing Black Panther Party. Brown also announced the formation of an all-black political party "for the purpose of revolutionary struggle, changing society as it exists today."

In another apparent steal from the BPP's highly publicized (primarily propaganda gimmicks) "breakfast for ghetto children" and proposed "free health clinics," Brown outlined plans for "a new dimension" for the organization, including a People's Medical Center for free medical care and a People's Serving Center "to build the concept of black people controlling their own productive forces" - to be initiated in Brooklyn.

The Washington Area Resistance, an anti-draft group, has announced that it is opening a "War Room" at 1932 17th Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., for the use of servicemen. The purpose of the "War Room" is to give anti-war servicemen a place to meet with other servicemen who feel the same about the war. F.B.I. 116-7197-14

A statement recently released by the SDS National Action Staff calls for "a National Action in Chicago on October 11 as a way of uniting the youth movement in this country in the fight for liberation."

In a free wheeling tirade which acknowledged that "while Vietnam is the critical and most pressing issue facing us today" - The War in ON - a war against imperialism, racism, and oppression - "that war must continue even after the U. S. ruling class and its occupational troops have been forced out of Vietnam for good."

"...Imperialism, the international system of capitalism, is the greatest enemy of the people of the world, and it is the cause of the War in Vietnam. Serving the people means ending the War in Vietnam as the primary task of the anti-imperialist movement."

After expressing support of the NLF of South Vietnam and the new Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam, the statement goes on to ask all GI's to respond with demonstrations on their own bases as well as joining SDS action. As with the Black Panthers and other dissident groups, it joins in the growing move to label all opposition to "movement activities" as fascist attacks.

Also, "the October 11 action will be just one step in an outgoing attack; off of that action we must build a programmatic attack that reaches everywhere, an attack that makes the slogan 'Get Out of Vietnam' a reality, and builds a mass based revolutionary movement in this country."

On November 8 regional demonstrations will be held throughout the country as a follow-up to October 11 to make it clear that we will not be tricked by phony bombing halts or troop withdrawals or any games played by liberal politicians. We will not be turned around."

Etc., etc., etc.

There are many signs indicating that late summer and fall will be marked by a resurgence of protest activity by anti-war and other dissident persons and groups.

The Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (SMC), which is controlled by members of the Young Socialist Alliance (the youth group of the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party) announced plans early in July for a nationwide student strike on 14 November, to be followed the next day 15 November by a massive anti-war march in Washington, D. C.

The high school and college student strike is just one of at least five major anti-war protests around the country planned by national groups for this summer and fall. A National Anti-War Conference held in Cleveland over the July 4 weekend drew about 1,000 representatives of anti-war and student groups to discuss future tactics and to reassess their positions in the face of Nixon's announced troop withdrawals. Abetted by persons opposing the ABM system deployment, the anti-war forces attempted to renew the vigor and spirit of their actions.

The protests are scheduled to begin in:

New York City - August 9 (the anniversary of the atomic bombing of Nagasaki) with an afternoon march up Sixth Avenue from Bryant Park to a rally in Central Park. This march, (being organized by the 5th Avenue Peace Parade Committee) will protest atomic weapons and extension of the U. S. -Japan security treaty which comes up for renewal next year.

In Chicago - 27 September - a demonstration is planned on the trial date for the eight anti-war protestors arrested during last year's Democratic National Convention (Tom Hayden, Dave Dellinger, Rennie Davis, et al - the self-proclaimed "Conspiracy of Eight").

Nationally - on 15 October - veterans of the McCarthy for President campaign will try to shut down all normal university activities for the day. This protest, called a "moratorium" rather than the more inflammatory word "strike," is aimed at a more moderate, majority position against the war.

Nationally - on 14 November - is the SMC's student strike and in Washington on 15 November a march is being designed to get as near the White House as possible "to bring the protest message home to the President."

In addition to these five major protests planned, it is expected that there will be numerous local protests zeroing in on such issues as racism, ROTC, and military recruitment and research on campuses.

July 27

A recently formed organization, "The Washington Area Citizens Against the ABM," which counts among its membership one of Washington's eminent civil rights troublemakers Elta Horn and outspoken Negro militant D. C. School Board member Julius Hobson are planning a demonstration. The WACA-ABM will initiate an around-the-clock vigil on the Capitol steps on the above date. The vigil will continue for the duration of the Senate vote on the ABM in an effort to impress the Senate with citizen opposition to the system.

(Hobson has recently been quoted in the press as stating that the administration's ABM system was just about as worthless as the Apollo shot to put a man on the moon. The money could be better spent to feed the hungry said Hobson.)

July 27

*Roxbury, Massachusetts - The BPP of Boston will hold a "People's Rally" at Franklin Park, which the BPP renamed the "Malcolm X Memorial Park." Speeches will be made concerning community control of police and liberation schools.

July 30

Tokyo - The Japan Council against Atomic and Hydrogen Bombs (Gensuikyo) recently announced five points on which the 15th World Conference against atomic and hydrogen bombs will concentrate.

The five items listed are:

1. Opposition to the U. S. aggressive war in Vietnam. Realization of complete victory of the Vietnamese people. Strengthening of further aid to the Vietnamese people. Opposition to war provocation against Korea.

2. Prevention of nuclear warfare. Complete prohibition of nuclear weapons. For the immediate future, conclusion of a treaty to prohibit the use of nuclear weapons.

3. Abolition of the nuclearized Japan-U. S. military alliance - "nuclearized security treaty system." Abrogation of the Security Treaty. "Immediate, unconditional and complete reversion of Okinawa. Withdrawal of military bases. Prohibition of the bringing in of nuclear weapons. Opposition to Japanese nuclear armaments and revival of militarism.

4. Together with bomb victims, strengthen the relief campaign for bomb victims aiming for complete prohibition of nuclear weapons. Enactment of law to assist the victims of the bombs.

5. Strengthening of the struggle for international solidarity and mutual assistance.

August 1969

*University of Texas at El Paso - 22nd Annual National Student Congress (tentative).

August 2-9

The Fifth Avenue Vietnam Peace Parade Committee is sponsoring a series of demonstrations at New York City to commemorate the anniversaries of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki. The demonstrations will include church sermons, a demonstration at a city council meeting, a demonstration against the draft, a march from Times Square to the United Nations Building, and a march from Times Square to Central Park. The demonstrations will protest not only the war, but atomic weapons in general and an extension of the U. S. -Japanese security treaty, which comes up for renewal next year.

August 17-19

At a recent meeting of the San Diego, California, branch of the Socialist Workers Party (SWP), it was announced that a peace march will be held during the period August 17-19 at either the summer White House, San Clemente, California, or in the vicinity of the Newport Beach Hotel, Newport Beach, California. During a conference held by the Peace Action Council, Los Angeles, California, on 13 June and 14, it was decided that all groups affiliated with the Peace Action Council will work to build a massive demonstration to be held on August 17 at San Clemente adjacent to the summer residence of the President. Irving Sarnoff, the leader of the Council, called for "A summer vacation the President will never forget."

August 17

*San Clemente, California - Also decided at the National Anti-War Conference held at Cleveland, Ohio, on the weekend of the 4th of July, was to participate in a demonstration against President Nixon at the "summer White House." A confidential source has advised that Bobby Seale, Chairman of the extremist Black Panther Party, is being sought as one of the speakers for the demonstration.

August 29-31

Los Angeles, California - On 13 June, Leroy Jones, the poet and playwright, and other black leaders announced in Newark, New Jersey, that the Fourth National Black Power Conference will be held in Los Angeles. The theme of the Conference will be "1969 Reconstruction."

September 16

Southwest, United States - Mexican-American and other Spanish-speaking youths intend to shut down the schools of the Southwest on 16 September in a demonstration of solidarity and protest on the anniversary date of the Mexican revolution. According to Rudolpho Corky Gonzales, leader of the Crusade for Justice, it will be a demonstration "to change the whole educational system to relate to our needs."

September 24

Chicago, Illinois - Trial has been set for 24 September for the eight protest leaders indicted on charges of conspiracy to incite a riot in connection with the disorders at the Democratic National Convention last fall. All eight pleaded "not guilty" in Federal District Court on 9 April. Each defendant also faces charges of crossing state lines to foment disorder or to otherwise violate the Civil Rights Act of 1968. Rennie Davis, Bobby Seale, John R. Froines, and Lee Weiner had their travel restrictions eased but are required to keep the Court fully informed of their movements.

As indicated in the main body of this Situation Information Report, the SMC, as well as SDS, is planning demonstrations during the trial.

October 6

Bel Air, Maryland - The trial of H. Rap Brown, militant black former head of SNCC, charged with inciting a riot and arson in a Cambridge racial disturbance two years ago, has been set for October 6 in Harford County Circuit Court. This is the second time it has been scheduled since the 4th Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond, Virginia, rejected Brown's request that he be tried in Cambridge, Maryland, which was the scene of a riotous disturbance in July 1967 after Brown spoke at a street rally of Negroes.

October 11

*Chicago, Illinois - As noted earlier in this Situation Information Report, SDS is planning a "National Action" in Chicago.

October 15

In addition to the information noted earlier in this Situation Information Report re SMC sponsored activities for this date, The Vietnam Moratorium Committee, headed by former Harvard divinity student Sam Brown, a former New Hampshire canvasser for Senator Eugene McCarthy will attempt to "shut down" all normal University activities for the day of October 15 in protest against continued American participation in the Vietnam War. Mr. Brown also hopes that his organization will in coming months work with other forces organized against military training, anti-ballistic missile systems and racism. Not only is the Vietnam Moratorium Committee plugging for an end to Vietnam indefinitely. Mr. Brown states that his organization which is planning a mammoth campaign will greatly appreciate assistance from anyone including SDS. The office address of the Vietnam Moratorium Committee is 1029 Vermont Avenue, N. W., (a favorite for radical groups in the D. C. area).

November 8

*Nationally - SDS-sponsored regional demonstrations as noted earlier in this Situation Information Report.

November 14 & 15

Refer to earlier information in this Situation Information Report regarding SMC-sponsored activities this summer and fall.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

The following estimate of possible future activities of Black Nationalist and Subversive organizations has been obtained from intelligence sources in the Los Angeles area:

1. These sources feel that there will be major incidents by Black Nationalist organizations in Los Angeles and New York during the Republican National Convention. Informants believe that major incidents at this time would cause Ronald REAGAN and Nelson ROCKEFELLER to return to their respective states thus leaving the Convention open to Richard NIXON. At a later time the subversives could start a cry that the people did not have a choice in choosing a candidate. Local sources also feel that there will be a major incident in Chicago during the Democratic National Convention with the aim of putting Eugene MCCARTHY on the Democratic Presidential ticket.
2. They advise that they are preparing for large scale campus disorders between September and the national elections. Informants feel that large scale student disorders will occur continuing the dissension in this country.
3. Further they advise that the two major areas of Black Nationalist agitation in Southern California are Long Beach and Pomona. Informants state that they are expecting trouble in these areas. There have been nightly incidents of fire bombings and beatings in these two areas during the past several weeks. The Press is cooperating with local law enforcement in that they are not printing articles concerning these disturbances.

7/10/68
R/S 1-32SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

From an intelligence bulletin of a Government agency comes information on another black organization. Composed of Negro military veterans, should its control and direction be turned toward extreme militance and violence, it could be a significant threat to law and order:

Attesting to the existence of unsolicited anti-war documents arriving in Vietnam is the recent receipt by the Da-Nang Air Base NCO Club of 26 copies of a four-page newspaper entitled The Nam Vet. Written primarily for Negro service personnel, this publication is produced by a new Chicago-based organization called the Concerned Veterans from Vietnam (CVFV).

According to its literature, the CVFV evolved from an organization called the Negro Veterans from Vietnam. The latter group was formed in March 1968 by several Negro Seabees who were "disgusted with the racial atmosphere at Cam Ranh Bay" and who hoped to "effectively combat racism in the military." From that beginning the CVFV now has its central offices in Chicago and claims chapters are currently being formed in Los Angeles, Spokane, Oklahoma City, Norfolk, Detroit, New York City, and San Diego.

The CVFV's goals are outlined in a ten-point program which is nearly equally divided between securing direct benefits for Negro veterans and working for the improvement of Negro neighborhoods. For example, the first three points of the program are aimed at finding "meaningful" employment for veterans, briefing veterans on available benefits, and "challenging" all sectors of the economy to improve the lot of returning servicemen. The fourth point notes the group will utilize all available resources to "investigate and combat any discrimination or bigotry reported by servicemen, wherever they are stationed." The fifth and sixth points relate to forming a lobby in Washington, D. C., to boost the CVFV's causes and cooperation with other more established veterans groups. The organization's four remaining goals deal with improving the neighborhood living conditions of the newly-returned service member. Point seven, for example, states: "We will not tolerate abuse to our Black brothers and sisters whether it be from elements within the Black community or from without." The last three goals call for protection of neighborhoods from "gang rule," alignment with organizations committed to serve the black community, and neutralization of "destructive" elements endangering Negro neighborhood.

The types of situations which the CVFV attempts to exploit and the approach it uses is exemplified by the following: "We are all familiar with the confederate flags which adorn vehicles and everything else in the Nam. What are the area commanders doing about this? We do intend to light a fire under these people until they start squaring this situation away. What's bugging you? Let us know so we can throw some light on the problem."

From the 24 July 1969 Weekly Intelligence Summary,

"Following the conclusion of the SDS national convention in Chicago, numerous individuals have appeared in California who are not native to the State. These individuals are appearing in and around various college and university campuses. This may be an indication that with the beginning of the fall term dissident activity will increase on college and university campuses as a part of the "fall offensive."

The University of California at Berkeley, probably the scene of more student activism and radicalism than any other university in the country, continues to be beset by troublesome issues calculated to generate student and community unrest. Although the "Peoples' Park" issue seems to have quieted down somewhat - for the present it and other matters can be rekindled easily in the fall. Chancellor HEYNS and the administration of the University have stated that they will not recognize Dan SIEGEL, the Associated Student Body President-elect at UCB next year. SIEGEL has been suspended from the student body, and will not be allowed to attend classes for one year, as a result of his student dissident activities at UCB. However, the student body plans to recognize SIEGEL despite the administration's stand. SIEGEL has indicated that he would take no action during the remainder of the summer to gain recognition of his office, but would wait until the fall term begins in September and let the student body make a decision.

Daily World (Communist), 2 AUG 1969

CALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

August 4-10

Los Angeles, California - Last year, the Watts Summer Festival in Los Angeles degenerated into a riot condition in which at least three people were killed and some 20-30 were injured. The Festival is scheduled again this year for 4-10 August with a large parade to climax the activities on the 10th.

Unconfirmed reports indicate that Black Panther Party (BPP) chapters in Chicago, Illinois; Kansas City, Kansas; and Seattle, Washington; will each send five members to Los Angeles to attend the Watts Festival from 4-10 August. The Los Angeles BPP is allegedly recruiting BPP members from San Diego and San Francisco, California, for the festival. No further information is available.

August 9

*Atlanta, Georgia - A demonstration sponsored by the Ad Hoc "The Hiroshima-Nagasaki Days Action Committee." Organizations including the Young Socialist Alliance, a Communist youth group, and the SDS are making plans for the demonstration to commemorate the bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, Japan. Reportedly, SDS desires a confrontation with police and would like to conduct a march without the proper permits.

August 9

*Chicago, Illinois - The Chicago Peace Council, an association of anti-war groups, is planning a demonstration in Chicago, Illinois, to commemorate the use of atomic weapons during World War II and to honor the Japanese killed by the atomic bombs.

August 9

*Boston, Massachusetts - A demonstration sponsored by the Student Mobilization Committee has been planned for "Hiroshima Week."

August 9

New York City - During the period 4-9 August, the Fifth Avenue Peace Parade Committee sponsored anti-war activities to commemorate the anniversaries of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki. The demonstrations were protesting not only the war and atomic weapons but an extension of the U. S. - Japanese security treaty which comes up for renewal next year:

The climax is to be a Nagasaki Day March and Rally on Saturday. The March will assemble on 40th and 41st Streets between Sixth Avenue and Broadway at 1:30 p. m., and proceed up Sixth Avenue and through Central Park to the Bandshell at 72nd Street west of Fifth Avenue, where the Rally will begin at 4 p. m.

Speakers will include Dave Dellinger, chairman, National Mobilization Committee; Mary Kochiyama, Japanese-American leader; Gilberto Gerena-Valentin, Puerto Rican leader; Jeff Jones, Students for a Democratic Society; Sharon Williams, Black Panther Party; James Johnson, one of the Fort Hood Three; Jose Rudder, GI's United; and Maggie Geddes, one of the five women recently arrested and indicted for raiding a Manhattan draft office.

August 11

*Chicago, Illinois - The Chicago Action Community plans to demonstrate at Selective Service headquarters and may attempt to disrupt the operation of the headquarters.

August 13

*Los Angeles, California - More than fifteen hundred persons have been invited to the reception and dinner in the Century Plaza Hotel's 24,000 square foot Los Angeles Ballroom to participate in the testimonial being given by President Nixon for the Apollo 11 astronauts. With a guest list comprised principally of V. I. P.'s both U. S. and foreign, from Government, industry, and the arts, it is assumed that extensive measures will be taken to protect them from harassment.

Reportedly, the Student Mobilization Committee, which is controlled by the Young Socialist Alliance, is sponsoring a demonstration at the Century Plaza Hotel during the dinner. SMC scheduled the demonstration, which is to consist of picketing followed by a rally, to protest the cost of the United States space program. However, in order to obtain a more favorable public image, the demonstration is now intended to protest the war in Vietnam.

August 14

*The Mid-Atlantic Committee on Fort Detrick (MACFD) will again distribute leaflets at the Pentagon; however, this will be done in conjunction with an extended reading of the names of servicemen killed in the Vietnam War and will be co-sponsored by the Quaker Action Group, Catholic Peace Fellowship, Episcopal Peace Fellowship, Philadelphia Resistance, War Resisters' League, and the local chapter of the Women Strike for Peace. Civil disobedience is anticipated at all of the demonstrations. No further information is available.

August 6-17

San Clemente, California - At a recent meeting of the San Diego, California, branch of the Socialist Workers Party (SWP), it was announced that a peace march will be held during the period 17-19 August at either the summer White House, San Clemente, California, or in the vicinity of the Newport Beach Hotel, Newport Beach, California. During a conference held by the Peace Action Council, Los Angeles, California, on 13 and 14 June, it was decided that all groups affiliated with the Peace Action Council, will work to build a massive demonstration to be held on 17 August at San Clemente adjacent to the summer residence of the President. Irving Sarnoff, the leader of the Council, called for "A summer vacation the President will never forget."

Also decided at the National Anti-War Conference held at Cleveland, Ohio, on the weekend of the 4th of July, was to participate in a demonstration against President Nixon at the summer White House. A confidential source has advised that Bobby Seale, Chairman of the extremist Black Panther Party, is being sought as one of the speakers for the demonstration.

*The Los Angeles branch of the Young Socialist Alliance is attempting to get Marines from a nearby base to participate in the demonstration and plans to have a Marine distribute literature at Camp Pendleton urging such participation. Robert BLAND, a spokesman for the Peace Action Council, has announced that up to 3,000 individuals are expected to participate in the march, picketing, and rally. BLAND is a former member of the CPUSA. The Council expects groups from Seattle, Washington, and Berkeley, San Francisco, and San Diego, California, to participate. An Ad Hoc Committee has been formed at San Diego State College to publicize the demonstration and has announced that transportation to the demonstration will be available.

On 6 August, Floyd B. NELSON, Long Beach, California, was to sail his boat to the area in front of the Summer White House. From that date on until 17 August, he was to send balloons, calling for support for the demonstration shoreward. On August 17, other boats will join him and balloons bearing anti-war messages will be released. On 17 August, demonstrators will assemble at San Clemente and march in front of the President's residence. After the march, a rally will be held. The recent World Peace Assembly, which met in East Berlin, Germany, has endorsed this demonstration and has called for a massive letter-writing campaign. The letters are to reach the summer White House by August 17.

August 19-29

University of Texas at El Paso, Texas - The National Student Association Congress reportedly will be attended by Tom Hayden and Mark Rudd of SDS, Robert Powell (head of NSA), and Ed Swartz, former President of NSA. Ronald Vincent, President of the Student Action Committee at the University of Texas, El Paso, reportedly has stated that he has obtained information that the Young Americans for Freedom organization is planning to send a "goon squad" to the Congress for purposes of disruption.

Some of the NSA meetings reportedly will be held in Juarez, Mexico, particularly those involving militant discussions, in order to avoid "harassment" by conservative elements.

The Third World Commission (TWC) will hold a convention in El Paso at the same time and in conjunction with the NSA Congress. The purpose of the TWC Convention reportedly is to take the first step in organizing a National Association of Black Students to serve black students in a manner similar to the NSA, which some blacks feel "relates" only to white students. The TWC reportedly was formed and funded for minority group students by the NSA during the past year.

August 22-24

*Morristown, New Jersey - According to the National Review publication - "If SDS and black militants have succeeded in 'radicalizing' many students and faculty through campus disruptions, they also have managed to conservatize a few. To capitalize on that gain, and to seek a way out of the spreading 'institutional and philosophical chaos' of the universities, a band of mainstream conservatives is sponsoring a seminar on 'The Reconstruction of American Higher Education.' Students, faculty, administrators, and private citizens are welcome."

August 29-31

Los Angeles, California - On 13 June, Leroi Jones, the poet and playwright, and other black leaders announced in Newark, New Jersey, that the Fourth National Black Power Conference will be held in Los Angeles. The theme of the Conference will be "1969 Reconstruction."

LABOR DAY

September 1

*From the Daily World (Communist):

"A call for a 1969 New York Labor Day demonstration to meet the threat of rising reaction and repression has been issued by four labor and left-wing leaders.

"AFL-CIO groups in New York traditionally stage Labor Day parades only in even-numbered years.

" 'But due to the ultra-right threat and the growing social crisis, this Labor Day must be marked by a mass demonstration,' the call said. It was signed by Louis Weinstock, Painters' Rank-and-File; Jim Haughton, Harlem Unemployment Center; Jose Stevens, New York W. E. B. DuBois Clubs; and Irving Potash, New York State Communist Party."

Mid-September

San Francisco - A dramatic move is in the making at Stanford, where student radicals are reportedly developing plans for a week-long series of demonstrations to be held during the International Industrial Conference at San Francisco in September. The conference will bring together 500 heads of major industrial, technological, and financial firms like U. S. Steel, IBM, Royal/Dutch Petroleum, and the Chase Manhattan Bank in a top-level gathering that the students say "is designed to consolidate the dominion of the multi-national corporations in the third world."

September 14-18

*Palo Alto, California and San Francisco - Mark Rudd, newly elected National Secretary of the National Office group of SDS, held a press conference in Chicago on 31 July. In addition to the October 11 demonstration in Chicago, SDS is calling for demonstrations from 14 to 18 September at the Stanford Research Institute during the International Industrialists conference. In addition, he called for demonstrations in San Francisco where the Japanese World Trade Fair will be held during the same period and is reportedly to be addressed by President Nixon.

September 16

Southwest, United States - Mexican-American and other Spanish-speaking youths intend to shut down the schools of the Southwest on 16 September in a demonstration of solidarity and protest on the anniversary date of the Mexican revolution. According to Rudolpho Corky Gonzales, leader of the Crusade for Justice, it will be a demonstration "to change the whole educational system to relate to our needs."

September 24

Chicago, Illinois - Trial has been set for 24 September for the eight protest leaders indicted on charges of conspiracy to incite a riot in connection with the disorders at the Democratic National Convention last fall. All eight pleaded "not guilty" in Federal District Court on 9 April. Each defendant also faces charges of crossing states lines to foment disorder or to otherwise violate the Civil Rights Act of 1968. Rennie Davis, Bobby Seale, John R. Froines, and Lee Weiner had their travel restrictions eased but are required to keep the Court fully informed of their movements.

The Chicago Peace Council, an anti-war group, was to hold a planning conference at Chicago, Illinois, on 30 July. The purpose of this conference was to discuss plans for demonstrations to be held in Chicago during these trials.

SDS is reported to be planning to participate in a demonstration on 27 September in support of the trial defendants, the self-proclaimed "Conspiracy Eight."

October 6

Bel Air, Maryland - The trial of H. Rap Brown, militant black former head of SNCC, charged with inciting a riot and arson in a Cambridge racial disturbance two years ago, has been set for October 6 in Harford County Circuit Court. This is the second time it has been scheduled since the 4th Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond, Virginia, rejected Brown's request that he be tried in Cambridge, Maryland, which was the scene of a riotous disturbance in July 1967 after Brown spoke at a street rally of Negroes.

October 11

Chicago, Illinois - A statement recently released by the SDS National Action Staff calls for "a National Action in Chicago on 11 October as a way of uniting the youth movement in this country in the fight for liberation."

In a free-wheeling tirade which acknowledge that "while Vietnam is the critical and most pressing issue facing us today," the War in ON - a war against imperialism, racism, and oppression - "that war must continue even after the U. S. ruling class and its occupational troops have been forced out of Vietnam for good."

"...Imperialism, the international system of capitalism, is the greatest enemy of the people of the world, and it is the cause of the War in Vietnam. Serving the people means ending the War in Vietnam as the primary task of the anti-imperialist movement."

After expressing support of the NLF of South Vietnam and the new Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam, the statement goes on to ask all GPs to respond with demonstrations on their own bases as well as joining SDS action. As with the Black Panthers and other dissident groups, it joins in the growing move to label all opposition to "movement activities" as fascist attacks.

Also, the "October 11 action will be just one step in an outgoing attack; off of that action we must build a programmatic attack that reaches everywhere, an attack that makes the slogan 'Get Out of Vietnam' a reality, and builds a mass based revolutionary movement in this country."

All across the country, radical groups are working intensively on plans for a massive descent on Chicago in mid-October.

They claim that as many as 30,000 students will gather there to protest the war and demonstrate their support for the Black Panthers and for the "Conspiracy 8," who are charged with conspiring to incite riots at the Chicago Democratic Convention last year.

Mark Rudd, newly elected National Secretary by the SDS "national office segment," at a news conference 31 July held in Chicago's Grant Park, scene of many disturbances during the Democratic Convention, stated that, "We intend to return to Chicago precisely because it has come to symbolize what a government held together by force is all about." Offering a little something for nearly everyone in order to swell their numbers, among the demands of the demonstrators will be: Independence for Puerto Rico, an end to the income surtax, and the freeing of Huey P. Newton and Fred Hampton, BPP leaders who are serving prison terms. Rudd said there will be similar demonstrations in other cities during October.

October 15

Nationally - The Vietnam Moratorium Committee, headed by former Harvard divinity student Sam Brown, a former New Hampshire canvasser for Senator Eugene McCarthy, will attempt to "shut down" all normal University activities for the day of 15 October in protest against continued American participation in the Vietnam War. Mr. Brown also hopes that his organization will in coming months work with other forces organized against military training, anti-ballistic missile systems, and racism. Mr. Brown states that his organization, which is planning a mammoth campaign, will greatly appreciate assistance from anyone including SDS. The office address of the Vietnam Moratorium Committee is 1029 Vermont Avenue, N. W., (a favorite for radical groups in the D. C. area).

SDS has indicated it will take a major part in this project, called a "moratorium" rather than the more inflammatory word "strike."

October 18

San Francisco - At the recent National Conference for a United Front Against Fascism held in Oakland, California, 18-20 July, sponsored by the BPP, registration was conducted for membership in the United Front Against Fascism; and it was announced that the United Front would hold a conference 18 October 1969 in San Francisco.

November 8

Nationally - SDS has said that as a follow-up to the 11 October action in Chicago, regional demonstrations will be held throughout the country to make it clear that SDS will not be tricked by "phony bombing halts or troop withdrawals or any games played by liberal politicians." SDS says, "We will not be turned around."

November 14-15

Nationally and Washington, D. C. - The Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (SMC), which is controlled by members of the Young Socialist Alliance (the youth group of the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party), announced plans in July for a nation-wide student strike on 14 November to be followed the next day, 15 November, by a massive anti-war march in Washington, D. C. The march is being designed to get as near the White House as possible "to bring the Protest message home to the President."

SOURCE: Government and news media.

RELIABILITY: Probably true.

ADDENDUM

Washington, D. C., protest groups who have been engaging in a series of anti-war demonstrations all week will continue activities on the 9th, 13th, and 14th. The demonstrations have included members of SANE, Women Strike for Peace, the War Resisters League, A Quaker Action Group, Young Socialist Alliance, Mid-Atlantic Committee on Fort Detrick, Washington Mobilization Committee, and the Student Mobilization Committee.

On 9 August, the demonstrators will meet at the Peace Monument and then march to the Tidal Basin where they will hold a rally.

On 13 August, they plan to demonstrate at the Capitol Building. Some plan to demonstrate inside the building and it is expected some may participate in deliberate civil disobedience.

On 14 August, a demonstration is planned at the Pentagon when the names of individuals killed in Vietnam will be read. The demonstrators plan to stay at the Pentagon until all of the names have been read. As on several occasions recently it is assumed this will not be permitted and that arrests will ensue.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

According to the 9 July issue of the Daily World (Communist) a group of U. S. radicals will be heading for Cuba next November to help harvest sugar-cane and to learn about the Cuban revolution. The article, as it appeared in the Daily World follows:

"NEW YORK, July 7 (LNS) - The Venceremos Brigade - to consist of 300 machete-wielding Americans - will head for Cuba in late 1969 and early 1970 to help harvest a record crop of sugar cane.

"A group of U. S. movement activists is organizing the brigade. Members will include radicals with varying amounts of political experience.

"A statement issued by the National Executive Committee of the Venceremos Brigade says in part:

'The Venceremos Brigade will be a group of Americans who will actively and materially support the Cuban revolution by working in the 1970 zafra. At the same time, brigade members will have a chance to learn about the Cuban Revolution from their daily experience there.'

"The brigade was first conceived by several Americans who subsequently discussed it in Havana with representative of the Cuban government. Cuban officials have indicated that the brigade members will be welcome.

"Who should apply to join the brigade? Everyone.

"It will include blacks, chicanos, third world people, high school and university students, drop-outs, former GI's, and working class whites.

"Because cane cutting is hard physical labor, people with health problems should not apply. Both men and women are welcome, however. Those who find that they can't keep up with the work pace of cane cutting will do other agricultural tasks.

"Participants will live in dormitory tents in the fields, and will work along with Cubans in the fields. Knowledge of Spanish is preferred.

"The 300 participants in the brigade will leave for Cuba in two groups, half next November and half in January. Each group will cut sugarcane for two months.

"Details concerning transportation arrangements and costs for the groups are still being worked out, but a spokesman for the executive committee said that financial need should stop no one from applying. Local fund raising efforts by groups and individuals, as well as a national fund will be organized.

"Although 'unauthorized' travel to Cuba is officially banned, the government has no way of enforcing current State Department regulations. In the past few years, hundreds of Americans have traveled to Cuba, but the brigade will be the largest group of Americans to travel to a forbidden land.

"The Cuban people expect that the 1970 harvest - for which they have set a goal of 10 million tons - will be a turning point in economic self-sufficiency for Cuba.

"The members of the national executive committee include Arlene Eisen Bergman, of the Movement, Karen Ashley and Juli Nichamin, of SDS; Allen Young, of Liberation News Service; Jerry Long, of Chicago Newsreel; John McAuliff, of the Committee of Returned Volunteers; Al Martinet of La Raza, and Dave Dellinger, of Liberation Magazine, as well as representatives from the National Organization Committee, the New York High School Student Union, the Black Panther Party and the Revolutionary Union Movement.

"SDS and the Panthers have given formal organization endorsement to the project.

"For information and application forms, write to Brigade, P. O. Box 643, Cathedral Station, New York, N. Y., 10025."

The Black Panther Party and its many supporters (of many stripes and colors) have been repeatedly screaming that the Establishment, (particularly the FBI and law enforcement agencies) has a concerted organized program of harassment, entrapment, frame-ups, etc., etc., in full sway with the intention of busting up the BPP and eliminating its leadership. This is their way of explaining their many brushes with the law rather than admitting any guilt for the illegal and violent activities for which many have been charged and/or convicted. Presumably they hope to convince the general public that they are a much maligned group rather than largely a collection of hoodlums, convicts, and misfits.

One of the more recent examples of "harassment" occurred in Los Angeles, California. At 0045 hours, 25 July, eight admitted members of the Black Panther Party (BPP) were arrested and booked for conspiring to murder four Los Angeles Police Department (LAPD) officers. While three LAPD officers were interrogating two other individuals, a fourth LAPD officer spotted the eight BPP members hiding behind a nearby wall, preparing to fire on the interrogating officials. Reinforcements were called in, and the eight, ranging in ages from 16 to 26, were apprehended. The persons apprehended had in their possession seven weapons, three bombs, and 381 rounds of ammunition.

Another example occurred in Chicago on 30 July. The UPI reported the incident thusly:

"CHICAGO, July 31 (UPI) - Five policemen were wounded by gunfire from the headquarters of the Black Panther Party early today.

"Three men shouting 'die pig' were arrested when police stormed the west side building used as Panther headquarters, police said.

'All I know is we stopped our car, and they were shooting at police from the headquarters of the Black Panther office upstairs,' said patrolman Robert Flynn.

"Mr. Flynn said he and another policeman had to blow the lock off the door of the building with shotguns. 'We proceeded upstairs. There was no resistance. In the building we found many guns. We went thru the apartment and out to the back porch.

'There were these three Panthers shouting, 'Die pig.' They kept shouting it. They fought. They were subdued.'

"Mr. Flynn and other officers said they did not know why the Panthers opened fire. The three Panthers were taken to Cook County hospital, police said. The wounded policemen were taken to hospitals.

"When the shooting was reported, police ordered 'heavy equipment' and tear gas sent to the scene. As a crowd of several hundred persons gathered, smoke billowed from a building and firemen answered the call. The fire was put out and the neighborhood was uneasily quiet."

The United Klans of America, Inc., Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, the largest Klan organization in the United States, has instituted assessments for a defense fund. The purpose of the fund, according to Klan sources, would guarantee every Klansman or Klanslady legal defense counsel in the event he or she falls victim to "harassment" type arrests.

Last month a mail ballot was conducted among the members of UCLA's academic Senate. The Senate, which consists of University faculty members, considered several of the most pressing problems facing the American campus today and the results, which included the largest number of votes (895) in the history of the Senate, indicated to some observers that the UCLA faculty is experiencing a political awakening.

One topic of the poll, a purely local one, dealt with academic promotions and appointments and the Senate, as would be expected voted overwhelmingly that such matters should be handled autonomously by each institution involved rather than by the, presently in force, consolidated State Universities system.

Of much more general application, however, the Senate also addressed the topics of ROTC and classified military research. Both topics are closely related to the Vietnam War and have been nauseatingly constant targets of SDS and other left extremists for the past ten months.

In considering the results of the Academic Senate Poll, several variables should be kept in mind. First, the UCLA campus is considered probably the most conservative large enrollment state school in California and with the exception of the University of Southern California is possibly the most conservative big school, public or private, in the state. With this conservatism, however, one inconsistent fact that concerns west coast college administrators is the ease with which large numbers of student demonstrators can be assembled for simple-minded, largely unworthy causes. To date, however, once assembled, demonstrations have terminated peacefully; at the scheduled hour, with little or no rowdyism or destruction reported (the killing of two Black Panther members several months ago took the form of feuding between black militant groups and did not involve student protest activities).

The question regarding University involvement with ROTC was triple tined.

1. Should ROTC be abolished?

yes - 191
no - 624

2. Should credit be given for ROTC?

yes - 509
no - 297

3. Should the Universities ROTC program be investigated?

yes - 552
no - 249

Other propositions voted on concerned war-related research activities. One question dealt with whether or not the University should sever connections with the weapons testing centers administered by UCLA at Los Alamos and Livermore. Though it had been previously defeated (by a voice vote in May) in the mail ballot the voting was in favor of the University continuing 514 to 329. A final interesting result was the Senate reaction to classified military research on campus. To allow such research failed to pass Senate approval by a vote of 380 to 454. It has been reported that no such research activity is presently in progress on the UCLA campus.

CALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

In addition to the protests already planned and noted in the following items, it is expected that the late summer and fall will be marked by numerous local protests, revolving in such issues as racism, ROTC, and military recruitment and classified research on campuses. A determined effort to upset the schools at the high-school level is also anticipated.

August

*Puerto Rico - The Federation of University Students for Independence is planning a series of demonstrations at the University of Puerto Rico, beginning in August, to force ROTC from the campus. It plans meetings, marches, and the disruption of ROTC drills.

August 2-3

*Rochester, New York - The University of Rochester chapter of SDS is sponsoring a regional meeting of SDS chapters. One purpose of the meeting is reputed to be to restate SDS policy and prevent undue influence by the Progressive Labor Party. A secondary purpose is to consolidate membership and prepare plans for action for the coming academic year.

August 4-5-6

*Maryland and Washington, D.C. - On 4 August, an unknown number of members of the Mid-Atlantic Committee on Ft. Detrick plan to demonstrate at the Main Gate of Ft. Detrick, distribute leaflets in Frederick, Maryland, and travel by motorcade from Frederick to Rockville, Maryland, where they may hold a public meeting and show a film entitled, "A Plague on Your Children." On 5 August, they will walk from Rockville to Bethesda, Maryland, distributing leaflets along the way. They plan to show the above-mentioned film in Bethesda. On 6 August, they will walk from Bethesda to the White House, Washington, D.C., distributing leaflets enroute.

August 4-10

*Los Angeles, California - Last year, the Watts Summer Festival in Los Angeles degenerated into a riot condition in which at least three people were killed and some 20-30 were injured. The Festival is scheduled again this year for 4-10 August with a large parade to climax the activities on the 10th.

*Unconfirmed reports indicate that Black Panther Party (BPP) chapters in Chicago, Illinois, Kansas City, Kansas, and Seattle, Washington, will each send five members to Los Angeles to attend the Watts Festival from 4-10 August. The Los Angeles BPP is allegedly recruiting BPP members from San Diego and San Francisco, California, for the festival. No further information is available.

August 4-9

*New York City - During the period 4-9 August, the Fifth Avenue Vietnam Peace Parade Committee will sponsor the following anti-war activities to commemorate the anniversaries of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki. The demonstrations will protest not only the war and atomic weapons but an extension of the U.S. - Japanese security treaty which comes up for renewal next year:

4 August - A demonstration at New York Governor Rockefeller's Office with the theme, "No Vietnams in Latin America."

5 August - A picket and possible sit-in at New York City Council, demanding troop withdrawal from Vietnam and conversion of the war budget to domestic priorities.

*6 August - A ceremony to commemorate the people killed in Vietnam to take place at the United Nations Building.

7 August, 1200 hours - A rally at Garment Center, New York City.

8 August - "Anti-war actions" (HFI) to be held at unspecified local draft boards.

9 August - A march from Times Square to Central Park's Mall, demanding troop withdrawal from Vietnam.

August 6-17

San Clemente, California - At a recent meeting of the San Diego, California, branch of the Socialist Workers Party (SWP), it was announced that a peace march will be held during the period 17-19 August at either the summer White House, San Clemente, California, or in the vicinity of the Newport Beach Hotel, Newport Beach, California. During a conference held by the Peace Action Council, Los Angeles, California, on 13 and 14 June, it was decided that all groups affiliated with the Peace Action Council will work to build a massive demonstration to be held on 17 August at San Clemente adjacent to the summer residence of the President. Irving Sarnoff, the leader of the Council, called for "A summer vacation the President will never forget."

Also decided at the National Anti-War Conference held at Cleveland, Ohio, on the weekend of the 4th of July, was to participate in a demonstration against President Nixon at the summer White House. A confidential source has advised that Bobby Seale, Chairman of the extremist Black Panther Party, is being sought as one of the speakers for the demonstration.

*On 5 August, Floyd B. Nelson, Long Beach, California, will sail his boat to the area in front of the Summer White House. From that date on until 17 August, he will send balloons, calling for support for the demonstration. On August 17, other boats will join him and balloons bearing antiwar messages will be released. On 17 August, demonstrators will assemble at San Clemente and march in front of the President's residence. After the march, a rally will be held. The recent World Peace Assembly, which met in East Berlin, Germany, has endorsed this demonstration and has called for a massive letter-writing campaign. The letters are to reach the Summer White House by August 17. NSA 100 11/1/71

August 19-29

*University of Texas at El Paso, Texas - The National Student Association Congress reportedly will be attended by Tom Hayden and Mark Rudd of SDS, Robert Powell (head of NSA), and Ed Swartz, former President of NSA. Ronald Vincent, President of the Student Action Committee at the University of Texas, El Paso, reportedly has stated that he has obtained information that the Young Americans for Freedom organization is planning to send a "goon squad" to the Congress for purposes of disruption.

Some of the NSA meetings reportedly will be held in Juarez, Mexico, particularly those involving militant discussions, in order to avoid "harassment" by conservative elements.

The Third World Commission (TWC) will hold a convention in El Paso at the same time and in conjunction with the NSA Congress. The purpose of the TWC Convention reportedly is to take the first step in organizing a National Association of Black Students to serve black students in a manner similar to the NSA, which some blacks feel "relates" only to white students. The TWC reportedly was formed and funded for minority group students by the NSA during the past year. NSA 100 11/1/71

August 29-31

Los Angeles, California - On 13 June, Leroi Jones, the poet and playwright, and other black leaders announced in Newark, New Jersey, that the Fourth National Black Power Conference will be held in Los Angeles. The theme of the Conference will be "1969 Reconstruction."

September

*San Francisco - A dramatic move is in the making at Stanford, where student radicals are reportedly developing plans for a week-long series of demonstrations to be held during the International Industrial Conference at San Francisco in September. The conference will bring together 500 heads of major industrial, technological, and financial firms like U.S. Steel, IBM, Royal/Dutch Petroleum, and the Chase Manhattan Bank in a top-level gathering that the students say "is designed to consolidate the domination of the multinational corporations in the third world."

September 16

Southwest, United States - Mexican-American and other Spanish-speaking youths intend to shut down the schools of the Southwest on 16 September in a demonstration of solidarity and protest on the anniversary date of the Mexican revolution. According to Rudolpho Corky Gonzalez, leader of the Crusade for Justice, it will be a demonstration "to change the whole educational system to relate to our needs."

September 24

Chicago, Illinois - Trial has been set for 24 September for the eight protest leaders indicted on charges of conspiracy to incite a riot in connection with the disorders at the Democratic National Convention last fall. All eight pleaded "not guilty" in Federal District Court on 9 April. Each defendant also faces charges of crossing state lines to foment disorder or to otherwise violate the Civil Rights Act of 1968. Rennie Davis, Bobby Seale, John R. Froines, and Lee Weiner had their travel restrictions eased but are required to keep the Court fully informed of their movements.

*The Chicago Peace Council, an anti-war group, was to hold a planning conference at Chicago, Illinois, on 30 July. The purpose of this conference was to discuss plans for demonstrations to be held in Chicago during these trials.

SDS is reported to be planning to participate in a demonstration on 27 September in support of the trial defendants, the self-proclaimed "Conspiracy Eight."

October 6

Bal Air, Maryland - The trial of H. Rap Brown, militant black former head of SNCC, charged with inciting a riot and arson in a Cambridge racial disturbance two years ago, has been set for October 6 in Harford County Circuit Court. This is the second time it has been scheduled since the 4th Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond, Virginia, rejected Brown's request that he be tried in Cambridge, Maryland, which was the scene of a riotous disturbance in July 1967 after Brown spoke at a street rally of Negroes.

October 11

Chicago, Illinois - A statement recently released by the SDS National Action Staff calls for "a National Action in Chicago on 11 October as a way of uniting the youth movement in this country in the fight for liberation."

In a free-wheeling tirade which acknowledged that "while Vietnam is the critical and most pressing issue facing us today," the War is ON - a war against imperialism, racism, and oppression - "that war must continue even after the U.S. ruling class and its occupational troops have been forced out of Vietnam for good."

"...Imperialism, the international system of capitalism, is the greatest enemy of the people of the world, and it is the cause of the War in Vietnam. Serving the people means ending the War in Vietnam as the primary task of the anti-imperialist movement."

After expressing support of the NLF of South Vietnam and the new Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam, the statement goes on to ask all GI's to respond with demonstrations on their own bases as well as joining SDS action. As with the Black Panthers and other dissident groups, it joins in the growing move to label all opposition to "movement activities" as Fascist attacks.

Also, the "October 11 action will be just one step in an outgoing attack; off of that action we must build a programmatic attack that reaches everywhere, an attack that makes the slogan 'Get Out of Vietnam' a reality, and builds a mass based revolutionary movement in this country."

*All across the country, radical groups are working intensively on plans for a massive descent on Chicago in mid-October.

October 18

*San Francisco - At the recent National Conference for a United Front Against Fascism held in Oakland, California, 16-20 July, sponsored by the UFP, registration was conducted for membership in the United Front Against Fascism and it was announced that the United Front would hold a conference 18 October 1969 in San Francisco.

November 8

*Nationally - SDS has said that as a follow-up to the 11 October action in Chicago, regional demonstrations will be held throughout the country to make it clear that SDS will not be tricked by "phony bombing hoaxes or troop withdrawals or any games played by liberal politicians." SDS says, "We will not be turned around."

November 14-15

*Nationally and Washington, D.C. - The Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (SMCWV), which is controlled by members of the Young Socialist Alliance (the youth group of the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party), announced plans in July for a nation-wide student strike on 14 November to be followed the next day, 15 November, by a massive anti-war march in Washington, D.C. The march is being designed to get as near the White House as possible "to bring the protest message home to the President."

SOURCE: Government and news media.

RELIABILITY: Probably true.

They claim that as many as 30,000 students will gather there to protest the war and demonstrate their support for the Black Panthers and for the "Conspiracy 7," who are charged with conspiring to incite riots at the Chicago Democratic convention last year. ~~_____~~

*Mark Rudd, newly elected National Secretary of the SDS "national office segment," at a news conference 31 July held in Chicago's Grant Park, scene of many disturbances during the Democratic Convention, stated that, "We intend to return to Chicago precisely because it has come to symbolize what a government held together by force is all about." Offering a little something for nearly everyone in order to swell their numbers, among the demands of the demonstrators will be: Independence for Puerto Rico, an end to the income surtax, and the freeing of Huey P. Newton and Fred Hampton, HPP leaders who are serving prison terms. Rudd said there will be similar demonstrations in other cities during October.

October 15

Nationally - The Vietnam Moratorium Committee, headed by former Harvard divinity student Sam Brown, a former New Hampshire canvasser for Senator Eugene McCarthy, will attempt to "shut down" all normal University activities for the day of 15 October in protest against continued American participation in the Vietnam War. Mr. Brown also hopes that his organization will in coming months work with other forces organized against military training, anti-ballistic missile systems, and racism. Mr. Brown states that his organization, which is planning a mammoth campaign, will greatly appreciate assistance from anyone including SDS. The office address of the Vietnam Moratorium Committee is 1029 Vermont Avenue, N.W. (a favorite for radical groups in the D.C. area).

*SDS has indicated it will take a major part in this project, called a "moratorium" rather than the more inflammatory word "strike."

Rpt. # 33SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

The extremist Black Panther Party continues to make the headlines across the country through confrontations with the police, criminal and violent activity, and internal bickering. Reportedly, some leaders of the Black Panthers in New York City along with Black Panther leaders from California who are currently in New York, are considering plans to throw hand grenades into eight New York City Police Department precinct stations. Specifically mentioned was the 28th Precinct.

FBI IN 2/17/69

In Chicago, Illinois, on 5 August 1969, Black Panther Party members announced that Eldridge Cleaver, fugitive Black Panther Party Minister of Information, who is now in Algiers, is to attempt to legally enter the United States in six months and if not arranged (meaning that Cleaver would not have to return to jail because of his parole violation), will return to the United States "in six months and two days - the Panther way."

FBI IN 18/6/69

Although the summer to date has not been unusually "hot" in respect to major confrontations and violent activities, there has been a steady stream of relatively minor occurrences. Although some observers have indicated they feel that our colleges and high schools have seen the peaking of youth agitation and that the coming school year will be less disrupted than the past, there is ample evidence that the professional and/or dedicated radicals have no intention of marking time but intend to at least test established authority and also to determine how much support they can obtain from liberals and moderates.

Not only the youth movement, but the anti-war/anti-draft groups are attempting to revitalize their activism, particularly in view of the continuance of the Vietnam War and in spite of its seeming ebbing in intensity.

Likewise, racial tension has not noticeably slackened at this point, but probably polarization between black and white has actually increased somewhat. It would seem to be the consensus that those charged with upholding law, order, and justice will be fully occupied in the coming months.

CATALOG OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES:

Underlined items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

August 16

*Washington, D.C. - A meeting sponsored by the Blackout, Ltd. for the War Committee for 1300 hours at the Washington Methodist Church in Georgetown is scheduled to discuss draft resistance.

August 16 -
September 7

*Bloomington, Indiana - At 1100 hours on Tuesday, the Hoagland Draft Resistance (HDR) will hold an anti-war/draft rally at the town square, Rockville, Indiana. A highlight of the rally will concern the accidental killing of a man by a mine and near an Army proving ground in Utah. The group of peace-loving and traveled by auto caravan from Rockville to Indianapolis, Indiana, where they will distribute copies of the publication of the HDR. The group will then travel to Bloomington, Indiana, where they will picket for approximately 90 minutes at the Hoagland Army Ammunition Plant. That evening, the HDR will conduct a picket function in party in Bloomington. From 17 August to 7 September, the HDR will interrupt church services in Bloomington to gain support for their anti-war/draft movement.

August 17

*Philadelphia, Pennsylvania - Members of the Philadelphia Resistance plan to distribute anti-war/draft leaflets to servicemen at Philadelphia bus terminals and the Philadelphia International Airport.

August 17

*San Clemente, California - Since a conference of the Peace Action Council, Los Angeles, this past June, planning has been under way to build a massive demonstration in the vicinity of the "Summer White House" at San Clemente, California. Irving Sarnoff, the leader of the Council which is a conglomerate of anti-war/anti-draft groups in Los Angeles, called for "a summer vacation the President will never forget." Participants at the National Anti-War Conference held at Cleveland on the weekend of the 4th of July decided that they and the organizations they represent should participate.

The Peace Action Council requested that it be allowed to use any city streets and to use sound trucks during the demonstration.

but its requests were turned down. The Council has indicated that the demonstration will take place Sunday and that demonstrators will parade from San Clemente to the Nixon estate at 2 p.m. and then convene elsewhere in San Clemente for a rally. Reportedly, many speakers will be Bobby Beale, Chairman, Black Panther Party; Andrew Fuller, former GI and leader of Fort Jackson anti-war demonstration; Paul Olvera, Black Students Union delegate to the World Peace Council meeting in Berlin; Terence Hallinan, leftist lawyer for Presidio 70; and Donald Duncan, anti-war, former Green Beret.
